If he comes home at night tired out and forgets to kiss you and tell you how glad he is to see you, don't dissolve into tears and say he does not love you any more; then get angry and demand that he show you as much affection as he did on your honeymoon.

He may have had a particularly hard day, or he may just have forgotten to give you the accustomed caress.

Men do forget sometimes, and the wild longing to shower affection on the woman of his choice will in time wear off with even the most loyal man.

There is not one man living who admires a woman's tears.

Dry your tears, or better still, don't allow them to appear, and smile.

Smile if he forgets to love you, and see how soon he will remember.

Smile if he neglects to show you the little tenderness to which you are accustomed, and see how soon he remembers.

A happy smile and a joyous word or a little jest will do more toward keeping your husband's love than all the tears in the world.

And there are always looking for the demonstration of affection and demanding it, you will be very much more apt to receive it.

SAVE THE PENNIES; THEY MAKE DOLLARS.

If you do not believe that good old saw, "To Companion Like a Penny," wait the some time you are five miles from home in a downpour and the penny is missing.

If you find the pennies good enough companions to cling to you will be insured against a frisky old age.

With this companion you will never be tempted to say "Save me from my friends."

If you think slightly of your companion penny and think of her by her family name—dollars.

You will never be dull with her. What "talks" better than money?

She is one of those comfortable companions whose society never palls.

The more you see of her the better you like her and the less can you do without her.

As a companion the penny has an influence on all of life's turmoils *that makes her society worth culti*vating highly.

Her steady dependableness as a companion her society is hard to beat.

There may be better all-around friends than the penny, but few of us number them on our calling list.

MAKING SLIPPERS.

Bedroom slippers for summer wear are sometimes knitted in mercerized crochet cotton, which may be bought in all colors.

They are, of course, not nearly so warm as slippers of wool yarn and, when done with steel needles, they are firm and durable.

Mercerized cotton is very inexpensive and very pretty. In fact, the finished slippers are so much like silk that it seems impossible they are not made of that expensive material.

The work, too, is easy, for there are no loose threads about cotton to get caught on the sharp needles—as yarn when knitted on steel sometimes does.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

Interesting Exercises at Park Avenue Baptist Church Largely Attended.

WAS AN ALL-DAY PROGRAM.

Music and Addresses Among the Features—Sunday School Superintendent Speaks.

Rally day was observed Sunday by the Park Avenue Baptist church and Sunday-school in an unusually interesting manner, and with a large audience at each service to make the occasion a memorable one. Elaborate floral decorations added to the attractiveness of both church and Sunday-school room. In the morning at 10:30 the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn preached a strong sermon, taking for his subject, "God Investing Himself in a Man." His words were an inspiration to his audience, and the members of the church found in their pastor's discourse much to encourage them in the work of the year before them. As an offertory, the choir rendered the anthem, "O, Lord, My God."

The Sunday-school rally was held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with Superintendent George E. Hall in charge of the program. The exercises were pleasing and included a roll call of both the main school and primary department, arranged by Mr. Hall. Music, vocal and instrumental, was a feature. Two selections were given by an orchestra consisting of the Misses Arline and Marjorie Brown, G. W. V. Moy and Archie G. Mosher, violins; Elmer P. Wheeler, flute; Whitney Frazee, cornet; Garret T. Dunham, trombone; Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, bass viol; Harry C. Runyon, piano.

There was also a cornet solo with violin obligato by Whitney Frazee and Arthur G. Mosher; a soprano solo by Mrs. E. D. Young, and a vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Young. The audience had the privilege of listening to a strong and helpful talk by Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., which was a earnest appeal for a more thorough study of the Bible, and the living of a life that shall be a help to those about us.

The exercises of the primary department were interesting and included the singing of several songs, the reciting of the Twenty-third Psalm, the books of the Bible with, their divisions, the Christmas Story, after which took place the following graduations:

From the cradle roll to beginners' class: Harry C. George, Benjamin J. Hadley, Jr. From beginners' class to primary department: William Finn, Ernest Naylor, Victor Chamberlain, Jean MacNab, Gladys Hadley. From primary to junior department: Clara Hadley, Virginia Gary, Irene Moy, Mary Pearson, Wesley Johnson, Arthur Dayton, Percy Stelle. From Junior department to main school; Madeline Moy, Ethel Naylor, Edna Bohl, Edith Lowry, Ida Odam, Marielle Dunham, Philip Schuyler, William Watts, Randolph Stelle, Frank Gary, Fred Smith.

The primary exercises were in charge of the superintendent, Miss Elmira C. Runyon. She was assisted by George E. Hall, superintendent of the main school, who addressed the graduates in his usual happy manner, after which he presented each one with a diploma; and to the twelve graduates from the Junior department to the main school, Mr. Hall presented a Bible in addition to the diploma. These twelve graduates are now in form for classes in the main school, seven girls with Mrs. Ada Cuming as teacher; and five boys to be taught by Harry C. Runyon. The audience in the afternoon was the largest the school has had during the past five years, and the exercises were especially inspiring throughout.

In the evening at 7:45 a program of particular interest was presented as follows:

"Our Department Work." 1—Our Bible School, "Our Primary Department," Miss Elmira Runyon; "Our Adult Department," G. E. Hall; "Our Home Department," Mrs. D. M. Runyon. Our C. E. Work—"Our Junior Department," Mrs. W. S. Lowry; "Our Senior Department," C. F. Dayton. Our Missionary Department—"Our Ladies' Foreign Mission Circle," Mrs. A. E. Finn; "Our Ladies' Home Mission Circle, Mrs. C. F. Dayton. "Our Ladies' Aid Society," Mrs. Charles Steiner; "Our King's Daughters," Miss Cora Brokaw. As an offertory, the choir sang the anthem "Trust in the Lord," which was followed with an address by H. C. Krebs, superintendent of the North Plainfield public schools. A three-minute talk was given by each of the above named speakers, telling of the aim and object of their respective departments of the church and school work, and a fitting addition to the evening's program and the exercises of the day, was the earnest talk by Mr. Krebs, who spoke on "Co-operation." He pointed out in his forceful manner the necessity of co-operation in Christian work, and cited several instances of the great good resulting from co-operation in the business world, impressing upon his audience the urgent need of united effort in the work of the church and Sunday-school. Pastor Finn was in charge of the evening service.

BOY BADLY HURT BY BREAKING OF TREE LIMB

Louis Rhodier, the seventeen-year-old son of Albert Rhodier, of Spooner avenue, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, late Saturday afternoon, suffering from severe injuries received by a fall from a chestnut tree on West Eighth street, near Hobart avenue. Both legs were broken just above the ankles and the left arm was fractured near the elbow. The boy also suffered greatly from shock and it was at first supposed that he was fatally hurt. It was stated today that he would recover.

Rhodier and several companions were gathering chestnuts and thought to get better results by climbing the trees. He was clubbing the branches high above the ground when the limb he was standing on broke suddenly and dropped him straight down. He landed directly on his feet and then dropped over, falling on the arm after the legs had been broken.

The ambulance was called to take the boy to the hospital but he refused to go at first and was removed to his home. When his father learned the result of his injuries he insisted that Muhlenberg was the place for him and the youth finally consented.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

Skirts of black satin with the high Directoire girdle can be purchased ready made in the shops. Topped with one of the new black net blouses, trimmed with black satin bands and with the new, long light sleeves, a most attractive costume is quickly and easily made with little trouble of shopping or dressmaking.

Dress skirts all show the influence of the sheath furore. The circular gored model will be the popular development. Skirts slashed on the side are numerous, the opening filled with plaits or trimming of some kind.

High-boned collars are seen on dresses and waists. Street suits, coats, even evening wraps, all have high collars. Everything has a collar, some even approaching the old-time "chocker." The proper finish for the dress and waist collars is the wide, full ruche.

Opera hoods are shown in Paris made of ribbon. Clever fingers will soon be fashioning them at home.

Sleeves and sleeve cuffs to suits are unlined, the limp effect being now the thing. Revers often fall quite limply, forming folds. Basques of jackets are weighted so that they will stay down without looking stiff. Many of them are lined with heavy but quite limp linen.

Tucked net is popular for guimpes Some nets are so woven as to simulate hand tucking.

Charming for wear with tailored suits are the waists of dyed nets in colors to match the suit. They are tucked and have the new long, tucked sleeves and just a touch of soft, rich color in the way of Persian bands for trimming.—Philadelphia Press.

CITIZEN HIS OWN COP

Nicholas was Delegated to Chase an Intruder and Put Him Under Arrest.

LANDED HIM IN A CELL.

But, Jehosophat! What an Awful Time He Had After the Prisoner Tried to Pull a Knife.

"How to be your own cop, or lifting a souse to the lockup at 3 a. m. might be used as the title for a story of personal experience by Charles Nicholas, who boards with a family at No. 231 Watchung avenue. He went through the ordeal early Sunday morning and the trouble he had in getting a booze-laden Polak to the Scandinavian jug made one of the funniest stories the cops have given out in a long time.

The family with whom Nicholas resides was awakened at 3 o'clock on the Sabbath by someone prowling around the premises and as he was the only man in the house he was delegated to investigate. He hustled into his street togs and going outside ,located a rummy vainly trying to get his bearings. Nicholas steered him to the street but the fellow deliberately turned around and cam back to the yard again. He was a Russian or Polish Warsaw or some other place in Poland and he insisted in broken English that he was going to make his bed on the front porch Nicholas said he wasn't as long a the folks gave him authority to remove all visitors and he told the stranger so in a few words.

The argument waxed strong after several minutes duration and Nicholas finally decided to get a cop but there was none in sight, so he decided to act as a bluecoat himself. He grabbed the foreigner by the collar and started him down Watchung avenue, getting along nicely until the corner at East Fourth street was reached. There the Polak suddenly shoved his right hand toward his hip pocket. Nicholas, as all of us have a certain element carries a knife or stiletto for emergency use and he was positive his prisoner was reaching for a weapon

The amateur cop declared war then and there and he biffed the Polak at the base of the skull and tripped him over in the same time. As a matter of course, the prisoner resented this treatment and grappled with Nicholas, the two of them rolling over and over in the street. The captor was positive he would be stabbed if he let go while the captive in his befuddled condition couldn't understand why he had been slugged and tripped up. Nicholas finally won out by getting the Polak on his back an sitting on him but he wasn't any better off than before, for trying to the fellow's hands to keep him from getting a knife and decided to play a waiting game until some one happend along.

Luck was with Nicholas as after five minutes of strenuous hand holding Percy Wellington Vail chanced by before the struggle was decided to beat it to police headquarters and complied, returning in a few minutes with Captain Frederickson. Nicholas was relieved of his charge but he was still so fearful of a weapon being drawn that he compelled the Polak to shove his hands up and keep them there. He walked back of him to headquarters and only relaxed his vigil when the captain got him into the cell room and went through his clothes. Instead of a knife or gun being found, a half pint of rum was the only thing brought to light.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Jersey Central commuters are wondering whether the railroad on which they ride each day will put on a 2 a. m. or a 2:30 a. m. train from Jersey City to Dunellen after the McAdoo tunnels are put in operation under the Hudson. When a person is told that all night trains run out on Long Island at half hour intervals the query is natural: "Why is not the same service given to persons living in New Jersey?" The Erie has a 2 a. m. train, and most of the railroads shut down all train service after 12:30. Even Newark is shut off from New York by train after 1 a. m., when the last train leaves the Central terminal in Jersey City. The Central operates a train at 1:30 a. m. but it makes its first stop at Bound Brook. The 1 o'clock train from New York on this railroad is a local, and goes to Dunellen. Theatregoers who dine after a performance have to hurry to catch the 1 o'clock train, and to be compelled to wait until 4 a. m. in the event of missing the boat is a serious matter. Complaints have been heard frequently about this condition, and commuters, especially men who are employed nights in New York, have been talking of petitioning the company for a train to Dunellen at 2 o'clock. At any rate, they hope for improvements to meet the increased facilities which will be afforded to Newark when the new tunnels are opened.—New York Tribune.

DEATH OF EBEN S. YOUNG

WAS A VICTIM OF PARALYSIS.

Following an illness of four weeks brought about by a paralytic stroke Eben S. Young, who was probably the oldest resident in North Plainfield, died Saturday afternoon at the home of Stephen Beerling at Watchung, where he was spending the summer when stricken. He had been sinking gradually for several days and his death had been expected.

Mr. Young was born at what is now Ossining, N. Y., on January 4 1815, and despite the age to which he lived retained all his mental and physical faculties until the paralysis affected him. He came to North Plainfield to live with his son, David K. Young, during the days of the Crystal Palace and which was forced out of business by the horse cars. Directly afterward he secured the first franchise ever granted for a surface line on Broadway but lost it after a fight in the courts brought against him by A. T. Stewart and Lispenard Stewart, who realized as well as he did of what great value it would eventually prove to be.

After losing his rights to the franchise, Mr. Young engaged in the grocery business in New York at Green and Mercer streets under the firm name of Britton and Young. In a few years the concern was one of the best known in the metropolis and supplied all the wealthy families in the downtown district. At one time, Mr. Merrall, the wholesale firm of Ackor, Merrall & Condit, was one of his clerks, and other well known New York business men of the present day secured their start with him. At eighty-eight years of age he was still catering to the trade and retired only at the earnest solicitation of his family.

Mr. Young's memory was perfect and his knowledge of early New York life and residents was frequently relied upon to furnish facts for chronological stories. He was also consulted by wealthy New Yorkers in tracing their ancestry and his word was accepted as final. During his residence in the borough, Mrs. DeLancey Nichol visited him three times for this purpose. He also remembered visiting in the fellow's village with two lanes and he de*lighted to tell the journey he had to* take to visit here. He went by boat to Elizabethport and then proceeded by train over a single track wooden "stringer" railway. The road only went as far as Rahway and then returned by train a day each way.

Mr. Young was extremely temperate in his mode of living and he ascribed his longevity to it. He was affiliated with no organizations and spent most of his spare time in long walks, rising at a certain time each morning and retiring regularly at night. Since living in the borough he frequently attended service at the First Presbyterian church. He is survived by a wife, two sons, David Young, of the borough, and James Young, of California; also a daughter, Miss Mary Young, of New York.

The funeral will be held at David Young's home on Craig place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be private.

An October Wedding.

Invitations have been issued out by Mrs. John Valiant, of Myrtle avenue, for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Valiant to Donald Ashbrook McGee, Saturday afternoon, October 17, at four o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride on Myrtle avenue.

"What's all that clatter?" asked the traveler approaching Manhattan.

"That, suh," replied the porter, "is the people of New York braggin what they have abated useless noises, suh."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"DINNER PAIL" EMPTY

Formerly "Full," but Now, Alas, Its Contents are Flown.

MR. BAKER'S APT QUESTIONS.

Former Congressman Declines to Post "Full Time and Keep Going" Card and Wants to Know About the "Abounding Prosperity" —Concise Presentation of Issues and the Emptiness of Republican Professions Clearly Shown by an Able Writer.

Former Congressman Robert Baker has sent a sharp reply to the suggestion from the New York Leather Belting company that industrial interests support the Taft-Sherman ticket to the end of restoring business activity. Mr. Baker, always an ardent Bryan man, is now the president of the Austin Rotary Engine company, a young corporation that is marketing a new rotary engine recently invented by a South Brooklyn friend, William K. Austin.

The Austin Rotary Engine company a few days ago received a letter from the New York Leather Belting company offering Republican campaign cards to be posted in industrial establishments bearing the promise of "full time" on the strength of Republican victory. The method of campaigning for Republican votes through the corporations is resented by Mr. Baker, who asks why the factories are not on full time now, in a Republican administration.

The correspondence is self explanatory. The letter received by the Austin Rotary Engine company was as follows:

"New York, July 22, 1908.

"Gentlemen—We have tacked this notice upon the walls of our factories in Brooklyn and New York:

"'Believing that the election of Taft and Sherman means a safe and progressive business administration, the day following their election we shall start this plant on "FULL TIME AND KEEP GOING."'

"If you believe with us that by relieving any uncertainty as to what the wage earner can expect in the event of electing men who will secure a business prosperity of this country, we should be glad to have you follow our example.

"As members of the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Hardware Manufacturers' association, the American Supply and Machinery Manufacturers' association, the National Credit Men's association, the Manufacturers' Association of New York, the New York board of trade and transportation and other commercial bodies, if you will kindly fill in and return to us the inclosed card we will supply you with a 'full time and keep going' card, such as we have posted, and notify all these associations of your harmonious attitude.

"Regardless of politics, once the manufacturers of this country join universally in this movement depression will cease.

"Lend us your help and post the card 'full time and keep going.' Yours very truly,

"NEW YORK LEATHER BELTING COMPANY."

"Austin Rotary Engine Co.,
"2d Ave. and 8th St., Brooklyn.
"Brooklyn, N. Y., July 25, 1908.

"New York Leather Belting Co., No. 51 Beekman Street, New York:

"Gentlemen—Yours to have yours of July 22, offering us copies of cards posted in your factories, which you say read as follows:

"'Believing that the election of Taft and Sherman means a safe and progressive business administration, the day following their election we shall start this plant on "FULL TIME AND KEEP GOING."'

"Permit us to say we do not understand. Why have you stopped your factories? Why is the 'full time and keep going' plan not now in operation? Why has there been any shutting down by you and the other members of the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Hardware Manufacturers' association and the numerous other similar associations to which you say you belong? Did you not assure us that McKinley would insure a 'full dinner pail' to all who desired to work? Was not this assurance renewed when your several bodies indorsed Roosevelt and Fairbanks? Then what has emptied the dinner pail of millions of men who are willing to work? What greater reliance can be placed on this assurance than on the others? If you were false prophets before, how do we know you will not be again?

"But why the closed factories, why the idle mills, why the unused freight cars, why the maintenance of high prices in the face of falling demand? Where is the 'abounding,' 'marvelous,' 'wonderful,' 'unparalleled, 'widespread' prosperity? Haven't we got a Republican administration? Haven't we got a Republican senate and house of representatives? Haven't we had them for a number of years? Haven't the Republicans made the laws, state as well as national, and haven't they been charged with the enforcement? Then what is the matter? If the laws are defective, why haven't they been altered? If defective now, were they not equally defective eight and four years ago, when you assured us 'all is well' and 'let well enough alone?'

"Why the depression, we ask? Have we had seven years of Roosevelt, who, according to Republican orators and assistant Republicans as well as Republican newspapers, is the greatest, wisest and best president the country ever had? Haven't we had twelve years of 'stand pattism,' with Hanna, Aldrich and Cannon sitting on the brakes to prevent the enactment of legislation not desired by the gentlemen who are so conspicuous in the support of Taft and Sherman—Morgan, Rockefeller, Carnegie, Harriman, Schiff? Do these men ever make a mistake when they select candidates? Which is most likely, to be mistaken, these men who say Taft is all right, that he is a conservative, or the weekly Farmer, who is told that Taft is radical?

"Where is the 'abounding' prosperity? Wealth has certainly increased enormously, or, at least, prices have been boosted to a point that ought to have satisfied the most avaricious. The fortunes of the few have become gigantic, bounded out of sight. Morgan we are told, has three hundred or a millions, Carnegie as much, while Rockefeller is credited with a billion, a few thousand others having from one to a hundred millions each. These seem to have had their 'full time and keep going' cards in operation, while they are generally credited with having in October-November last gathered in nearly everything in large way of the shape of banks, trust companies, industrial and railroad combinations which had so far escaped them. In fact, the bulk of the people have been let a lively pace to pay the increasing prices for the necessaries of life they and a few others control.

"But what has happened to the masses whom you and other boosters of McKinley and Roosevelt assured were to share in the prosperity? With a total estimated wealth of some one billion and ten billions per capita, families work out all right there should be enough to go round, for that's equal to about $7,000 per family. But who has it? How many of the millions of toilers have a tenth of that sum free and clear? How comes it that the bulk of the people are shy their proportion of this enormous wealth? Have they been lazy, thriftless or improvident during these twelve years? If lazy, then who created the wealth? Has the average farmer, mechanic, salesman, clerk, teacher and laborer squandered their portion in riotous living? Did they spend it for automobiles, steam yachts or even for diamonds? If not, what has become of it? Why haven't they got it? How did they lose it? What has been the unseen subtle but apparently all powerful force that has taken it from them? Why have matters become so appalling in America that the so called effete countries of Europe have felt impelled to take official cognizance of the deplorable conditions existed so many of our toilers are compelled to live, that the government (as a result of the shocking report, that reached it) having sent a commission to investigate? Most revolting conditions were shown to exist. Whole families were found crowded into one and two room apartments, while not only the women, but little children are much more than babies, were found working in filthy, unhygienic quarters, helping to eke out a scanty living for the family. Overcrowding was shown to be the rule, not the exception. In one case seven adults and seven children were 'living' in a dark middle room and a large part of a room.

"The daily press also tells us that since October thousands of entire families have been out of work. As a result they have used up all their savings, not their proportion—$7,000, as above—but a paltry, $50, all they have been able to save during the years of boasted prosperity. The president of the Association For Improving the Condition of the Poor, R. F. Cutting, says: 'I cannot remember such a condition existing before.' Not even in 1893 and 1894 did the depression persist so long, while, according to Commissioner Foraker, on July 22,000 skilled workers are out of employment here in Cincinnati.' Presumably the number of the unskilled was greater yet. These illustrations of 'unparalleled prosperity have been duplicated all over the country. No section has escaped the blight. There has been a tremendous exodus of those who could not find employment, three-quarters of a million more having emigrated to Europe than have immigrated here.

"Why the depression? Why the blight? This 'marvelous prosperity' seems to have been wonderfully efficacious in keeping the toilers poor. These unprecedented prosperity seems to have been monopolized by a few. They have gone on piling up millions, but the larders of the workers, it seems, have accumulated nothing, so that they now face starvation as their reward for the part they took in producing 'widespread' prosperity. The bot-

"Again we ask: why? You say 'regardless of politics, once the manufacturers of this country join universally in this movement depression will cease.' Who are they to sell to? How can the masses buy when their savings are gone? With wages reduced how are they to pay monopoly prices and live? How are you going to bring prosperity to the toiler without destroying monopoly and special privileges? Using the force pump won't alter conditions. The people want something more than wind. Why not prick the monopoly bubble, let out some of the wind and water, bring the necessaries of life within the purchasing power of the people. The crop of millionaires may not grow, but an equitable distribution of the wealth produced according to the part that each has contributed to its production will bring happiness to millions and insure a natural, therefore lasting, instead of the 'force pump' prosperity you propose.

"Let us clip the talons of monopoly, uproot special privilege, and economic conditions will improve so mightily *that all will be able to enjoy the com*forts of life and home will have to toil such long hours that life becomes a burden.

"Finally, firmly believing in the fundamental democracy of American institutions, we have no more right to dictate how our employees should vote than they have to coerce us. Yours truly,

"AUSTIN ROTARY ENGINE COMPANY.
"By ROBERT BAKER, President."

THE DISAPPEARING TAX.

Newark Evening News Discusses Work of the State Assessors.

The completion by the state board of assessors of the task of fixing the revaluations of second class railroad property for the years 1906 and 1907, in accordance with the law of last winter that was passed to cure the defect resulting from the overturning of the Perkins act providing for the taxation of second class property, gives the people of New Jersey the first definite information regarding the actual operations of the law from which so much was expected. The figures of the state board show that while the total valuation of this class of property in New Jersey in 1905, before the so called equal tax act was passed, amounted to $46,522,898, for 1906 it was fixed at $71,849,000 and for 1907 at $74,493,067. These figures would make it appear that the Perkins second class tax law had been of great benefit to the general taxpayers of the estate. But there is another side to the picture that is not so pleasant to contemplate.

The figures given as to the actual taxes that will be paid by the railroads on second class property under this increased valuation are far from reassuring. With the rates levied for 1906 were $446,889.21 greater than on the same property in 1905, for 1907 there was a falling off in the amount of more than $400,000, making the total increase in the taxes received from the railroads for 1907 as compared with 1905 only $46,000 or much less than would have been expected had there been a normal increase in the valuations of the property under the old law.

This is not the kind of an outcome that was promised and expected when the equal tax laws were enacted, for it must be remembered that in bringing about the change in the assessment of taxes new machinery was created that costs in salaries alone more than $120,000 annually. It is thus to be seen that the increase in taxes to be paid on second class railroad property for last year has already been more than wiped out by the outlay on new taxing officials. Furthermore, the taxes to be paid for 1908 have not yet been compiled by the state board of assessors, but all the indications are that there will be a further falling off in the total to be paid by the railroads, with the result that the general taxpayers will be forced to make up the difference.

But the blame for this condition of affairs cannot be placed upon the equal taxation bills themselves. Had that act not been complicated with the Hillery maximum tax rate law, passed in the interests of the railroads, there would have been a notable increase in the taxes paid by the railroads on second class property. But the Hillery law, supplemented by the act creating the county boards of taxation, has worked just as its introducer and those who framed the measure intended. Not only has it saved the railroads thousands of dollars in taxes on second class property, but it will save them millions in main stem taxation.

The News has consistently maintained that the Hillery act and the county board law would prove to be detrimental to the interests of the people and would save the railroads from paying their just share of the taxes, and now the actual figures from the official records are proving the correctness of our contention. Governor Fort also warned the legislature last winter that the county tax board law had no business on the statute books and that those bodies ought to be wiped out. The Republican legislature, in the interests of the railroads, prevented the carrying out of the suggestion made by the governor. The law is still in active operation, eighty-four useless officials are drawing salaries from the public treasury, and the amount of cash that the railroads will pay in taxes will continue to diminish just so long as the acts criticised remain in force.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

CITY G.O.P. GETS BUSY

District Leaders Named and Two Mass Meetings at Theatre Scheduled.

RALLIES ON OCTOBER 15 AND 19

Republican Banner Unfurled—Another Meeting to be Held on Friday Night.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Plainfield Republican City Committee was held at headquarters last night when plans were made for an active campaign. Following the session the big Taft and Sherman banner in Park Avenue near North was formally swung to the breeze.

Arrangements were made last night for two big rallies to be held at the New Plainfield theatre this month. The first will take place on Thursday, October 15, and the other on Thursday, October 29. Speakers of State reputation will make addresses, and all the county and city nominees of the party will be on the platform. State Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Pierce are expected to speak at the first meeting. City Chairman Angleman will announce the list of vice-presidents at an early date.

District leaders to get out the vote were also appointed last night. This is the list: First ward—First district, James F. Buckley; Second district, Amos Andrew. Second ward—First district, H. C. Tracy; Second district, Robert H. McCready. Third ward—First district, G. W. V. Moy; Second district, Gilbert Fletcher. Fourth ward—First district, H. C. Runyon; Second district, Herbert Buxton; Third district, Andrew McCardell.

After the meeting the banner was unfurled as the committeemen and other Republicans gave three cheers. Another meeting will be held on Friday night.

NETHERWOOD DISTRICT GETS ALONG WITHOUT GAS

The inability of a large number of consumers in the Netherwood district to use gas in their homes yesterday afternoon led to the discovery that in some unknown way a considerable quantity of air had been forced into the main which runs along South avenue, starting at the Rushmore dynamo works, through Berkeley avenue, Ravine road, Park Lane, East Seventh street and Woodland avenue.

The first complaint was received soon after 1 o'clock and Superintendent Thomas Mellick, of the local gas department of the P. S. C., at once started an investigation. Judging from the source of the complaints, which by 3 o'clock were coming in rapidly, Mr. Mellick found that the trouble started at the Rushmore plant. He went there first and examined the three connections which furnish gas in the air blower where air is mixed with gas for use in the furnace and blow pipes.

The fact that everything was working all right at 12 o'clock, when the plant shut down for the noon hour, and that at 1 o'clock, when it was started, impossible to get gas, shows that what must have happened transpired in that hour. There was not the slightest evidence to show that the air was pumped in the gas main at the Rushmore plant. The company officials say that such a thing is impossible under ordinary conditions.

Under the direction of Mr. Mellick a force of men was kept busy the entire afternoon pumping the air out of the mains so that the gas could be used. There are several other factories in the East End, which use gas under somewhat similar conditions, but after 1 o'clock or until the air was removed, they were without the usual flow.

The "no gas" complaints were received thick and fast toward night when housekeepers were getting ready to prepare the evening meal, but by 6 o'clock the service was restored as before. Further investigation was made this morning but nothing was found that would lead to the discovery of the cause of the trouble. So far as is known this is the first case of this kind in the experience of the P. S. C. since it took charge of the business of producing gas here.

Will Omit Meeting.

The regular Thursday afternoon meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be omitted tomorrow on account of the absence of so many members who are in attendance at various conventions. The meeting on Thursday, October 15, will be of unusual interest as the delegates to the State W. C. T. U. convention will report.

COUNTY COMMITTEE PLANS FOR MEETINGS

The Union County Republican committee at its meeting in Elizabeth last night devoted its attention to the "pass the hat" proposition, the question of finance for the campaign being discussed in executive session. It was learned today that while there have been some voluntary contributions, the response has not been as general as expected. Plans for mass-meetings as told in The Daily Press yesterday were also discussed.

One of the biggest meetings will be held at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night, October 29, when a speaker of national reputation will make an address. Another meeting will be held at the local theatre under the joint auspices of the city committee and the local club on Thursday night, October 15. At last night's session, it was decided that all requests for meetings about the county should be made direct to County Chairman Smith.

JAMES FLEMING IS THRICE NON-SUITED

In the Somerset County Court at Somerville, yesterday, James Fleming, former proprietor of the Union Meat Market on Somerset street, the borough, was non-suited in three actions brought, one to recover $2,000 from Constable Lemuel B. Pope, another to recover the value of a horse sold to Freeholder Andrew Lutkin and a third to recover the value of a wagon sold to Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough. J. Henry Crane and W. S. Angleman represented Mr. Pope, and Charles M. Dolliver was counsel for Mr. Lutkins and Chief Weiss.

Some time ago J. H. Crane obtained judgment for Droste & Snyder, of Newark, in an action on contract against Robert Fleming, to recover $50. Mr. Crane instructed Constable Pope to sell the goods to satisfy the judgment, which he did. Afterward James Fleming claimed that the goods belonged to him, having purchased them from his nephew, Robert Fleming. He then instituted the three suits. Judge Vail, before whom the actions were brought promptly granted a non-suit in each one. E. J. Johnson, Jr., of Somerville, represented the plaintiff.

WHOSE DOG WAS IT?

Two Canines Attacked Webley and He is Unable to Prove Which One Bit Him.

James Webley, colored, of West Fourth street, appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainant against John Hurley, of Richmond street, who he alleged owned a dog that had bitten him. In the hearing before Judge Runyon, Webley admitted that two dogs had chased after him at the time but he had no witnesses to back up his statement that it was Hurley's animal that had done the damage. A man named Dixon had seen it, he said, but was unable to come to court.

Hurley claimed that his dog is a harmless terrier while one of the other animals that attacked Webley is a Boston Bull belonging to John Caulfield. He informed the court he was willing to pay the complainant's doctor bill if his canine was proven at fault and His Honor thought it the best solution of the problem. Webley and Hurley accordingly agreed to meet tonight with Dixon and settle the matter between themselves.

N. P. H. S. Class Elections.

Four classes in the North Plainfield High School have effected organizations and elected officers as follows: Class '09, President, George Parsons; vice-president, Miss Elvira Hoerster; secretary, M. LeRoy Vanderbeek; treasurer, Miss Marguerite Lee. Class '10—President, Preston Dunning; vice-president, Miss Nettie Steiner; secretary-treasurer, Miss Dorothy Randall. Class '11—President, Percy Bailey; vice-president, Herbert Stein; secretary-treasurer, Miss Clara Reed. Class '12—President, Thorpe Roberts; vice-president, Miss Rose Andrews; secretary, Lawrence French; treasurer, William Taylor.

Mrs. Howard Elliott.

Mrs. Josephine L. Elliott, wife of Howard B. Elliott, of the lower Clinton avenue section, died yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness. She was twenty years old and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Randolph, of South Plainfield. She was of a pleasant disposition and her death is mourned by the community. She is survived by several brothers and sisters. The funeral will be held at Marconnier chapel, Friday afternoon at 230.

THAT SIGN DISAPPEARS

But Mr. Rushmore Will Have Another Announcement in Its Place.

JERSEY LAWS PROVOKE HIM.

Would Remove from State Tomorrow —Will Give His Pamphlet Profits to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Early this morning, a force of men were put at work by Samuel W. Rushmore painting out the huge sign on top of his factory which announced his assessment reform campaign. In substitution of the portrait of a "ward-heeler" and the inscription "Tremendous Taxes for Easy Plainfielders. Easy Taxes for men in the ring. Get the Rushmore tax book for who's who and why," the manufacturer will use the sign to announce the date of appearance for his book and the fact that all profits will be donated to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mr. Rushmore expressed his indignation this morning over taxing methods here in no uncertain terms. He declared that his concern does little if any business in New Jersey and that it is continually being "roasted." He referred to the automobile law and the tax laws as injurious to his industry and declared that he would remove from the State tomorrow if he could find a suitable place for the plant.

Forty per cent. of his business, he says, is done in England.

THE ELIZABETH PRESBYTERY MEETS AT BASKING RIDGE.

The fall meeting of the Presbytery of Elizabeth took place in the First Presbyterian church at Basking Ridge yesterday. About fifty delegates from Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield, Westfield, Springfield, Liberty Corner and Cranford were present.

The session was opened with a sermon by Rev. Wilburforce Whitaker, of the First Presbyterian church of Elizabeth. He preached on the sixth chapter of Isaiah and took as his text "The Vision of the Prophet." He urged the ministers assembled as they took up their fall work to see the vision of God as Isaiah did.

Dr. Whitaker said that he was no pessimist, but that today is the time of darkness as in Isaiah's time, for there is a decrease in attendance at church service, a decrease in reverence for the Sabbath day, a decrease of the number of men entering the ministry and a decrease in the sense of men's need of the sanctuary and its services.

MRS. WEIGHTMAN'S FUNERAL.

Simple Service Conducted in Grace Church by Rev. Floyd Tomkins, of Philadelphia.

A simple funeral service was held yesterday afternoon in Grace church over the body of Mrs. Aubrey Weightman, whose death occurred last Thursday night at her summer home at Watch Hill, R. I. Rev. Floyd Tomkins, rector of Holy Trinity church, Philadelphia, where Mrs. Weightman attended service during her residence in that city, officiated, assisted by Rev. B. Vicars Stivenson. The service was made doubly impressive by the singing of the choir from Grace church, New York. The attendance was large and included man friends of the family from Philadelphia.

Burial was in the Cox family plot in Hillside cemetery. There were no pall bearers.

Will Lecture on Constantinople.

The Men's Club of the First Baptist church will begin its meetings for the year on Monday night with a stereopticon lecture on "Constantinople," by L. V. F. Randolph, who lately spent some time in the Turkish capitol, and brings fresh information as well as fine views that will be shown for the first time on this occasion. The lecture will be held in the main audience room of the church, and women will be welcome. After the lecture the election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Leonard Mellick Surprised.

A birthday surprise was tendered to Leonard Mellick, of Alton, last night, the affair being arranged by his wife. Covers were laid for twelve and the young man received a number of fine gifts, including a handsome oil painting by his wife, entitled "On the Delaware." Mr. Mellick was completely surprised by his friends, not having the slightest intimation of the intended visit.

MRS. MARIAN MARSH GETS $10,000 LEGACY

Mrs. Marian Marsh, wife of Warren H. Marsh, of Union street, is one of several beneficiaries under the will of her uncle, John Q. Packard, of Marysville, California, whose will was offered for probate at that place yesterday. Mrs. Marsh will receive $10,000 as her portion of the estate which is estimated to be valued at $20,000,000. She is one of eight who are bequeathed like amounts. The estate is divided equally between Edward Winslow Packard, of Salt Lake, and Theodore H. Sheer, of New York, after the several bequests, including the one to Mrs. Marsh, is made.

Mr. Packard, who was a miner, at one time resided in New York. Several years later he went to Salt Lake, and about five years ago moved to Marysville, California, where he died recently. Mrs. Marsh's father was brother of Mrs. Packard. The latter, it is said, made his fortune almost entirely while engaged in the mining business.

The other eastern relatives who receive $10,000 each are as follows: Julia C. Wells and Mary W. Ellis, of Rochester, N. Y.; Emma Louise Evanston, Ill.; Harrie Cardoza, Albany, N. Y.; Josephine Dorrance, Sandy Point, Md.; Kate Clover, New York city; John Q. Packard, Williamsport, Pa.

NEW BRUNSWICK JOINS IN TRUNK SEWER PLAN

From semi-official sources it was learned today that New Brunswick has practically decided to join in the proposed trunk line sewer investigation, believing that it affords the only practical solution to the difficult problem. Recently, New Brunswick was served with a notice by the State Board of Health informing the officials that they must stop sewering into the Raritan. This has led to a decision to join with other towns in the trunk line proposition.

The engineers, Hering & Fuller, are busy at work on the survey and it is expected that if sewage beds are to be the means of sewage disposal a site for the beds will be picked in a day or two. The tide-water plan is generally favored and will probably be recommended.

There are numerous good reasons why Plainfield is anxious to have the trunk line sewer built. It will afford an opportunity to get rid of its own sewage beds and the land could be disposed of, it is said, at a price that would be tempting for the city to realize nearly two-thirds on its investment there. Another argument in favor of the plan that it would dispose for all time the question of sewage disposal for those towns connected with the trunk line.

LECTURES ON MARVELS OF AMERICAN SCENERY

The Monday Afternoon Club held its first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon in the Hartridge School auditorium. Owing to the large attendance of members and guests. An illustrated lecture on "Marvels of American Scenery," by Arthur K. Peck, of Boston, opened the subject of the year's study, "Our Country—A Century of Progress."

In spite of delay in adjusting the lantern, the lecture proved to be full of interest, and the pictures were exceptionally fine. The views shown included scenes from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the beauties of the White Mountains, the Appalachian Range and Mt. Washington in the Switzerland of America, being followed by views of the great American desert, the grand canyons of the West, Pike's Peak, the wild grandeur of the Rocky mountains, the garden of the gods, the upper and lower Yosemite and Yellowstone Park. The rich coloring of the photographs lent attraction to the scenes vividly described by Mr. Peck, who on foot and burro followed mountain trails and climbed to vantage points of interest.

"The Boundary" at the Bijou.

DIVORCED WOMAN WEDS

Wealthy Mrs. Dietrich, Well Known Here, Married to Man She Eloped With.

QUIET CEREMONY PERFORMED.

Her New Husband was Formerly a Professional Whip in the Employ of Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

News of the marriage of Mrs. Edna Young Dieterich, divorced wife of Albert Dieterich, the young Standard Oil millionaire, and Harry S. Brenchley, professional whip, with whom she eloped to Europe last December, came from Paris yesterday and was confirmed by Mrs Dieterich's mother, Mrs. Albert Young, of Fifty-fourth street, New York. The information is of considerable interest to Plainfielders from the fact that the divorced society matron is widely known in the city and borough. She visited regularly for years at the homes of prominent local families and attended all the Plainfield horse shows with the exception of last summer's.

The wedding was no shock to New York and Plainfield society—the shock had had several months in which to wear itself away since Mr. Dieterich obtained a divorce in April and a final decree is July, with the custody of his little girl. After the first denials, Mrs. Dieterich frankly declared her intention to marry the professional horseman, in whose companionship she said she found the happiness which did not spring from her circumscribed life as a young society matron.

There have been few bigger sensations in New York's society than the elopement of Mrs. Dieterich, former belle of Richmond, Va., heiress to $1,000,000 or more in her own right, beautiful, accomplished and brimming full of vivaciousness. To her husband, her mother and her friends her romance with Brenchley, a young Englishman who had been training and exhibiting Alfred G. Vanderbilt's strings at various society horses shows, was a complete surprise. No one would believe the reports that she had sailed on the same steamer with the horseman, or that, if she had sailed on the same ship, it was other than coincidence.

Mr. Dieterich put his lawyers to investigating and soon learned that his wife and the horse trainer had been much in each other's company when he least suspected that anything was wrong. He found they were together abroad and that Mrs. Dieterich made no concealment of her love for and her intention to marry the whip.

The young millionaire's suit for divorce was not contested, and the wife asked for no alimony. She did fight for possession of her little girl, but that was denied her, on what ground the public was not permitted to learn. The case was heard in private before a referee, and the papers were kept sealed by the court.

HOME REALTY COMPANY TO ERECT TEN HOUSES.

The West End is shortly to undergo a building boom through the action of the Home Real Estate Company in taking steps to erect ten dwelling houses on West Fourth street, Hunter and Evans avenues. All are to be seven-room structures with part improvements. Estimates are now being secured and the work of construction will begin about November 1.

The Home Real Estate Company is comprised of Andrew McCardell, James T. MacMurray, James Stewart, George Wean, Frank H. Smith and Charles H. Hand. These men are acquainted with conditions in the West End and are building the houses to supply a pressing need in that part of the city.

Will Attend State Convention.

Several of the local Christian Endeavor societies will be represented this week at the State convention which convenes at Atlantic City. Among those who have signified their intention of attending the sessions are the following: Warren chapel, Grace Chapman and Charles Galloway; Faith chapel, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson; Seventh-Day Baptist church, Miss Mildred Greene; Hope chapel, Peter C. Sweeney; Congregational church, Clarence B. LaRue.

Funeral of Mrs. McDonough.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Mc Donough, who died at the home of her son, Jo Montclair, was held in St. Joseph's church this morning. The mass was said by Rev. Father Miller in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following grandsons acting as pall bearers: William and Peter McDonough, of Plainfield; William Jr., Harry, Joseph and James McDonough, of Montclair.

WON'T MAKE GUESSES ON G. O. P. MAJORITY

Neither State Senator Ackerman, County Chairman Smith, nor City Chairman Angleman will commit himself on the probable majority New Jersey will give the Republican party on November 3. The Senator was much interested in Gov. Fort's guess but he declared that he was in no position to make any reliable prediction.

"It's too early altogether to get at the probable majorities and at any rate I consider it foolish to go into the guessing game. I don't see what is gained by it and in fact I never believed in it. No, I make no predictions."

City Chairman W. S. Angleman takes the same view. "It is absurd to come out and predict a 75,000 majority," said Mr. Angleman. "That does the party campaign management more harm than good. I don't take any stock in political predictions and will make none myself."

TWELVE PRISONERS AFTER A POLAK CELEBRATION

As a result of a free-for-all fight at a jamboree in the Polish settlement at South Plainfield, Sunday, twelve prisoners were lined up before Judge Smith in the village court room last night. They were entered on the docket as Stanley and Felix Geravic, Joseph and George Chop, Joe Wachure, Paul Comiskey, Stanley and Frank Solasky, Joseph Glasky, Joseph Boddo, John Borri and John Liszt.

A charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct was preferred against all with the exception of John Borri, who also had to answer for the firing off of a revolver. He owned up to being the culprit and paid a fine of $21 to escape jail. Liszt was fined $11 and Stanley Solasky got a bargain assessment of $11.60 for his share in the fracas. The others were given a Smithesque shakedown on American laws and the observance of the Sabbath and then told to go home and be good. They all swore by the memory of Louis Kossuth that Marshal William Reilley, who made the arrests, would never have occasion to get after them again.

In the latter respect, George Chop spoke prematurely, however, as after the proceedings, John Bulli and his wife Annie preferred charges against him of making threats and using vile and indecent language. Warrants were sworn out and Chop was once more in the meshes of the law. He will have a hearing before Judge Smith tonight.

PAPER ON ISLAM READ AT MISSIONARY MEETING.

A deeply interesting paper on "Islam, Its Character and Conquest" was presented at the meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. The paper prepared by Mrs. James Middleditch, was read by Mrs. Robert Lowry, the death of Mrs. Middleditch's sister, Mrs. Webb, of Texas, having occurred on Sunday.

Mrs. Middleditch told graphically of Mohammedanism, enumerated its aggressive and monotheistic, but full of fanaticism and tending to illiteracy and oppression. Her accounts of the pilgrimages to Mecca and her analysis of the Koran were full of interest and instruction.

The devotional service was led by Miss May Howlett.

$12,000 Fire in Elizabeth.

Fire, starting shortly before 6 p. m., yesterday, in a pile of lime in the coal and lumber yard of B. Jacobson & Son, Third street, Elizabeth, did nearly $12,000 damage before it was extinguished at 8:30 p. m. A big frame shed on which there was a small amount of insurance was totally destroyed, and a boiler and engine which were stored in the shed were badly damaged.

Change in "Li'l Mose" Date.

Because of a change of dates in other cities, the appearance of "Li'l Mose" at the New Plainfield theatre, under the auspices of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., has been set for Friday, October 27, instead of Thursday, October 26, as first announced.

Change in Barber Business.

Ralph D'Armiento, the well known local tonsor, has purchased a half partnership in the barber business conducted on West Front street by Carusa & Tozze. He succeeds Vincent Tozze, who retires from the trade to enter another business in Jersey City.

As Fisk's Opponent.

Walter Le Manning has reconsidered his decision not to run for mayor and will be the Democratic candidate.

IN MEMORY OF LINCOLN

Plans Underway for Union County's Celebration of Honest Abe's Centennial.

COMMITTEE OF 25 NAMED.

Chairman Hale to Call Meeting to Be Held in Elizabeth Soon—

To Be Non-Partisan in Character.

Plans are underway for an appropriate celebration of the Abraham Lincoln centennial to be held in Union county. The event falls on Feb. 12 next and not only the Nation and the States but many counties, cities and towns throughout the Union, which the Martyr President preserved, will hold demonstrations.

Preliminary arrangements have been made by a number of prominent citizens throughout the county for a suitable celebration which will have no political significance. The idea is to make the affair absolutely non-partisan in character and it is believed the meeting will crown that effort. E. W. Hale, of Cranford, has been made temporary chairman, and he has arranged to hold a meeting of representative men of the county when the proposition will be thoroughly discussed.

Chairman Hale has appointed a committee of twenty-five, some of whom are Plainfielders. Among these are Mayor Charles J. Flak and State Senator Ackerman. The mayors of Elizabeth, Westfield, Summit and Rahway have also been named as have other men in those towns.

The first meeting of this committee will be held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, at Elizabeth, at a date to be announced by Chairman Hale.

Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth President of the United States, was born on February 12, 1809, near Hodgenville, Kentucky. He was a son of Thomas Lincoln and was of English descent.

Since the meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, the police board has awakened to the fact that it has $50,000 remaining of its annual appropriation of $350,000 and that it, therefore, will be an easy matter to complete the improvements as planned at the police "bungalow." When the question came up Monday night, Chairman Frank Randolph, of the police committee, was not able to tell off-hand how much money there was left of the department appropriation.

The fact that the improvements contemplated at an expense of $1,247.50 was omitted from the original appropriation for the building, has created considerable criticism among taxpayers, who declare that it shows rather poor business management. One citizen in speaking of the matter today, said that the committee as well as the architects must have had a fine idea of drains, artificial stone for the court-yard, etc., would be needed, but that it must have been an oversight not to include this work in the original appropriation. The Council meets Friday night and make the additional appropriation as requested.

EUGENE V. DEBS AND "RED SPECIAL" EN ROUTE.

Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate for President, accompanied by a number of Socialist candidates for various offices, was in New York on Sunday. According to the schedule of the "Red Special," now making a cross-country tour, it will reach Trenton on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, Saturday night at 6:15, stopping several places en route to this city, where it is expected on Monday noon. Accompanying Mr. Debs and his party will be the "Red Special" band, composed of volunteer musicians, who will render a program of international selections.

Since leaving Chicago, August 31, the "Red Special" has passed through fifteen States and has covered a distance of nearly 11,000 miles. According to Mr. Chase, the special train will cost the Socialist party $30,000. The tour of the "Red Special" will end at its starting point Chicago, November 1.

Baptists Hold Conference.

The Central Baptist Association of New Jersey opened its sessions in New Brunswick yesterday afternoon with a conference for ministers. There was a fair attendance at the session tonight. The convention will continue today and tomorrow, the sessions being held in the Livingston Avenue Baptist church.

BIG LION ON A RAMPAGE

"Nero," Escapes from Washburn Quarters and Spreads Terror Along River Road.

ROAMED FIELDS ALL NIGHT.

Injured a Camel, Treed a Man and Killed a Heifer Before He Was Shot by Edward Radel Thursday.

Making his escape from a temporary cage at the Washburn circus winter quarters on the river road, near Riverside Park Wednesday, "Nero," the magnificent lion belonging to the show menagerie, created havoc all along the River road until he was killed at 7 Thursday morning. He was laid low by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of Edward Radel, the former New Brunswick traction superintendent, just as he was sucking the blood from a heifer on the Henry Isham farm that he had torn to pieces a few moments before. The lion bounded high in the air as the leaden missile struck him directly between the eyes, but he struggled for fifteen minutes before death ensued. The owner refused an offer of $1,000 for the animal a week ago.

The Washburn circus closed its season at Easton, Pa., on Saturday last and the entire outfit was placed in the winter quarters on Mr. Washburn's farm running along the Raritan river between Bound Brook and New Brunswick. Nero was taken from his big cage, in which he had been kept all summer, and placed in a smaller one Wednesday, with the idea of shipping him to New York today for further exhibition purposes. Everything was all right about the stables at 7 Wednesday night when the employes went away for the evening, but soon after that the lion gained its freedom and got out into the yard. Just how it was done, no one knows exactly but it was evidently through the door being left unfastened.

The first anyone knew that the animal was loose was about 8 o'clock when a camel in the show menagerie tore down the river road, bellowing madly and bleeding from ugly wounds in the back and sides. It was learned afterward that the lion had attacked the bactrian in the exercise grounds and that it shook it off by running under the low hanging branches of a tree. About the same time, John Wilson, one of the circus attaches, came up the lane to the quarters from an opposite direction to learn the cause of the commotion and was startled by a roar that told him immediately where the trouble lay. The next instant, "Nero" bounded from a clump of bushes and started after him but failed to notice a barbed-wire fence and ran against it with terrific force. The shock flung the lion back and before it could recover, Wilson gained a refuge. The fierce beast probably all that saved the man's life.

Wilson gave the alarm and all the Washburn men that could be mustered together started after the ram paging animal. The word was passed all along the River road and the hunters were joined by several farmers but though they searched the fields all night, "Nero" could not be found. A patrol was maintained along the highway to protect pedestrians and the farmers kept in all the cattle that could be quickly located.

Shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, a workman on the Isham place discovered the lion tearing about after a herd of cows and calves. Several of the bovines had been ripped by its claws and they were in a frenzy. The workman hurried to Mr. Radel's home, knowing that the latter is an expert shot, and asked him to run the lion down. Mr. Radel has several splendid rifles but no automobile and at a speed of fifty miles an hour went to New Brunswick after some. He returned in a short time and without any thought of the dangerous and unusual kind of quarry he was after, sallied into the field after "Nero." He came upon him just as he had felled a half-grown heifer and was tossing the carcass in the air and then sucking its blood, repeating this alternately. All the while, the lion was emitting angry roars that would stir terror in a nobody but an absolutely fearless man.

Nothing daunted, Mr. Radel kept on until he was within 100 feet of "Nero." The animal watched his coming and crouched low, probably with the intention of getting ready to spring. Mr. Radel dropped to his knees and taking careful aim directly between the lion's eyes, pulled the trigger. The bullet sped true to its mark and "Nero" rolled over and over with the leaden missile in its brain.

When "Nero" gave up his struggles, the carcass was taken to the Riverside Park premises where it was photographed at the feet of the slayer. A taxidermist afterward started removing the skin and it will be mounted probably to be placed in Mr. Radel's den as an evidence of his fearlessness and marksmanship.

The lion was a splendid specimen of his kind and was seen in this city when the circus exhibited on the Darrow avenue lot early last summer. Soon after moving from here "Nero" escaped from his cage at Greenwich, Conn., and stampeded a big crowd of spectators that included many women and children. At that time, Mr. Washburn offered $500 reward for his capture alive and the money was paid to two canvasmen who corralled him with ropes.

When seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning, Mr. Washburn said that he could not understand how the lion got through the cage door. He stated that it seemed absolutely secure when the employes left it. He said that it was remarkable how "Nero" had left the building without doing more damage than he did. He passed by a drove of twenty or more ponies and several horses before he sprang upon the camel.

ENDEAVOR UNION MEETING.

October 29 Set as the Date for the Regular Fall Rally.

A special meeting of the congress of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union was held Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. It was decided that the regular rally would be held on Thursday, October 29. The prayer meeting and executive committees of the union will arrange the details. It is probable that the address will be delivered by one of the convention speakers, and the general of the delegates to the convention will give brief reports. The attendance banner will be awarded to the society bearing the highest percentage of active and associate members present at the meeting.

Most of the societies have appointed representatives to serve on the central and finance committees for the State convention to be held in Plainfield in 1909. The first meeting of these committees will be held on Monday, October 19.

A rally mass meeting of the Union County C. E. Union to be held on Thursday, October 22, in the Cranford Presbyterian church was announced. A number of the members of the local unions are planning to attend.

MISSIONARY AND AID SOCIETY HOLDS SEWING MEETING.

Under the auspices of the Missionary and Aid Society an all-day sewing meeting was held at Warren chapel, Thursday. The women gathered about 10 o'clock in the morning and before they completed their work for the day succeeded in making three bedspreads and the quilts. At 1 o'clock the company was served a hot luncheon, prepared and served by a committee comprising Mrs. J. H. Snyder, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin A. Moore, Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, Mrs. William Bacon, Mrs. William Neer, Miller, Mrs. J. W. Gavett, Mrs. William Hoffman, Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. William Cornwell and Mrs. John Kane. Sixty active and honorary members were at the luncheon.

The table was attractively decorated with fall flowers and fruit, and in addition to the generous lunch provided, all thoroughly enjoyed the social features and the words of encouragement spoken by Rev. J. O. McKelvey. The afternoon was spent in completing the work started in the morning. The three quilts made will be placed in the missionary box to be sent away soon.

OPEN OR CLOSED SUNDAY?

Hudson County to Decide Question on Election Day.

On next Election Day the voters of Hudson county will decide for themselves whether they want the laws of the State enforced or defied. Thomas Connolly, the Republican candidate for Sheriff of Hudson, for whom the head of Governor Fort, has announced as his platform the strict enforcement of all the laws of the State, the Bishop's law included. Among Mr. Connolly's supporters in this campaign are clergymen of all denominations, some of whom took a prominent part in having the Bishop's law passed.

James J. Kelly, a former saloonkeeper and brewery collector, is the Democratic candidate for Sheriff. He has not yet told the voters of Hudson county how he stands on the enforcement of the Bishop's law. Robert Davis, the Democratic boss, who nominated Kelly, has said, however, that he favored open saloons on Sunday.

Hope Chapel's Excellent Library.

The Sunday-school library from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church which was recently donated to Hope chapel, combined with the chapel library, affords the best of reading for attendants at the chapel and others who wish to avail themselves of the privilege. It forms a collection of books of wide and varied interest, fiction, historical, religious and scientific. It is the hope that the members of the chapel will make use of these books. The present plan is to have the library open several nights a week and different persons will take turns acting as librarian. Hudson Burr will be in charge temporarily and will assist any one who may be appointed by Superintendent G. H. Condict. The library is in what was the Carey game rooms, shelves having been built there for the purpose, and a window will be cut through so that books can be passed back and and forth more readily.

BRAIN WORTH $10,000

Amherst Professor Reported to Have Sold Cranium After Death for Big Price.

IS VALUABLE TO SCIENCE.

John Mason Tyler Declines to Make Statement and His Wife Is Much Distressed.

John Mason Tyler, brother of the late Col. Mason W. Tyler, of this city, and son of America's greatest Greek scholar, is said to have made an extraordinary compact with scientists of wealth whereby he has sold his head after death for $10,000 it is because he is reputed to have the best shaped head in America, with an extraordinary brain development, that the question becomes of such great interest to science.

When the report was circulated at Amherst College, and Professor Tyler was asked for its verification he declined to make a direct statement, and added that during his student days at Leipzig he believes he did make some such agreement However, the professor is inclined to treat the matter as a joke. Mrs. Tyler is very much distressed over the suggestion of such a contract and refuses to discuss the matter.

Experts in America are quite familiar with Professor Tyler's head and it has been common knowledge that they regard it of great value to the scientific world.

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL TO GET $5,250 FROM COUNTY

Little business of interest to Plainfielders was transacted at the regular meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders in Elizabeth Thursday. Appropriations aggregating $20,000 were made to the four hospitals in the county, Muhlenberg Hospital's share being $5,250. The Elizabeth General Hospital receives $8,000; Alexian Brothers, Elizabeth, $3,000, and St. Elizabeth's, Elizabeth, $3,750. These amounts were reported to the county collector and will be apportioned January 1, 1909.

The suggestion that an isolation ward be established at the county jail was adopted, and it is was also recommended that two padded cells, one for men and the other for women, be built. Definite action was not taken on this proposition, but the recommendation will probably be adopted.

UNITY LODGE ENTERTAINS KNIGHTS AT EUCHRE PARTY.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., gave a progressive euchre party and quoit match Thursday, following a regular meeting. The lodge entertained Lodge of the Castle, of Somerville; Somerset Lodge, of Bound Brook, and Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, of this city. The team from Lodge of the Castle, numbering thirty-five men in uniform, conferred the third rank on one candidate.

At the conclusion of the initiatory work, the euchre party was held. First prize, a gold pin, was awarded to A. D. Hope, and Edward Bowman received the second prize, a Welsbach lamp. Clarence Rittenhouse received the booby prize. No prizes were given in the quoit match. Wood Titsworth attended the meeting for the first time in twelve years. The committee in charge of the entertainment comprised Samuel Rothberg, chairman; A. E. Causebrook and James D. Anderson.

Rebuking a Queen.

One of the ladies in waiting to the late Queen Victoria had a very bright little daughter about 4 years old, and of whom the Queen was very fond. The Queen invited the child to have lunch with her. Of course, the mother was highly pleased, and charged the little girl to be very careful about her table manners and to be very polite to the Queen.

The child was taken home in high glee, and the mother asked her all about the luncheon. "Were you a very polite little girl?" And did you remember to do all I told you at the table?" acked the proud mamma.

"Oh, yes; I was polite," said the little girl, "but the Queen wasn't."

"The Queen wasn't?" said the mother. "Why, what did she do?"

"She took her chicken bone up in her fingers, and I just shook my finger at her, like you did me, and said 'Figgy, piggy, piggy!'"—Philadelphia North American.

CONGREGATION GREETS THE REV. EDWIN SHAW

Members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and congregation to the number of nearly two hundred attended a reception given Wednesday to the new pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw and Mrs. Shaw. The affair was held in the Sabbath-school room of the church and was by and in charge of the social and entertainment committee of the Women's Society for Christian Work, comprising Mrs Frank J. Hubbard, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph, Miss Ida Spicer and Miss Id. Randolph. They were assisted by other members of the society.

The Sabbath-school room was prettily decorated with dog wood and white flowers, arranged to present the appearance of a parlor. Rev. and Mrs. Shaw received their friends, assisted by Mrs. J. Everett Kimball, president of the Women's Society for Christian Work. During the reception Mrs. Violet Tyrell-Johnston rendered several violin solos, accompanied by Miss Mabel Maxson.

A feature of the evening was the address of welcome to Pastor Shaw and his wife by Joseph A. Hubbard, president of the Board of Trustees. In a few well-chosen words he extended to them a cordial greeting and expressing the sentiment of the entire membership, wished for them success and happiness in their new field of labor. Mr. Shaw, speaking for himself as well as Mrs. Shaw, thanked one and all for the hearty reception given. He said that ever since he and his wife had come to Plainfield they had been given every courtesy and the formal reception only tended to still further emphasize the good will and kindly feeling to ward them.

Following the reception refreshments were served by a committee comprising Mrs. Ira N. West, chairman; Mrs. William R. Mosher, Mrs. A. L. Titsworth, Miss Laura Dunham and Miss Carrie Randolph. Those who poured were Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. William H. Rogers and Mrs. F. A. Dunham.

The rest of the evening was given up to sociability and exchange of good will. Rev. Edwin Shaw, the new pastor, is a brother of Rev. George Shaw, a former pastor of the church. He was for a number of years a professor in Milton College, Milton, Wis., where he was successful. While a member of the college faculty he became an ordained preacher that he might serve a denominational church near Milton. A successful pastorate in Plainfield is predicted for him.

WILL EXTERMINATE FLEAS.

When it comes to talking about fleas the writer knows just where he is at, for when he was a boy the country swarmed with them, and perhaps one of the things he will remember longest will be the sleepless nights and the torments that the fleas gave him when sitting in Quaker meetings where he did not dare to scratch. For some reason the people seemed to put up with them as an evil from which there was no escape, yet there was an efficient remedy growing on every farm in the shape of a modest little plant called pennyroyal, which is familiar to every country-bred boy. The odor of this plant seems very offensive to many kinds of insects, says Forest and Stream. A freshly bruised bunch of the plant in a small bag and rubbed on the bed linen and then left in the bed will evict the last flea in a very few minutes. A few drops of the essential oil of the plant, which can be bought at any drug store, rubbed on one's underclothing will drive them from the person immediately, and if sprinkled about a room infested with fleas will clear them out.

AWARDED MANY PRIZES.

A. C. Bechstein's Poultry Farm A Big Winner.

A. C. Bechstein, of Park avenue, owner of the Oak Tree Poultry Farm, one of the finest in the State, has had great success in the exhibition of his pigeons and poultry at various shows held this fall. At the Westchester County Fair, recently held, he exhibited four pigeons and nine fowls, receiving thirteen prizes. He also exhibited at the Trenton Fair, this week, receiving sixteen prizes from his exhibit of four pigeons and fourteen fowls. Mr. Bechstein has probably some of the finest stock to be found in the country and he never fails to receive valuable awards wherever he exhibits.

HER CROWNING GLORY.

She stood before the mirror
In flowing robe de nuit,
"What could be more alluring,"
She cooed, "than what I see:
A figure soft and rounded

She paused and added sadly,
"If only I had a head
That wears a crown!" She cooed it—
And made a break for bed!

CONFERENCE OF MINISTERS

Elizabeth District Pastors of M. E. Churches to Meet at Bound Brook, Oct. 15.

THE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph Will Preside—Three Sessions Are Arranged for Occasion.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, of this city, district superintendent of the Elizabeth District M. E. church, has completed the program for an all-day conference of the ministers of the Elizabeth district, to be held in the M. E. church, Bound Brook, on Thursday, October 15. There will be three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. The day sessions will be for ministers, while the evening service will be for the general public. As district superintendent, the new title given to presiding elders by the general conference, Dr. Randolph will have charge of the sessions. The program is as follows:

10 a. m., devotions, Rev. S. D. Decker, of Whitehouse, and Rev. George Okeson, of Mt. Horeb; 12:20, "Ethics of Worship," Rev. Thomas I. Coultas, of Elizabeth; 10:40, "The Mid-Week Meeting," Rev. A. W. Hayes, of Westfield; 11, "The All-Around Pastor," Rev. W. S. Newson, of Frenchtown; 11:20, "The Best Book of Recent Issue I Have Read," Rev. William Westcott, of Tottenville, N. Y. 12, luncheon served by women of M. E. church.

2 p. m., devotions, Rev. W. C. Kinsey, of Clinton; Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of North Plainfield; 2:20, "Civic Righteousness," Rev. F. J. Hubach, of Port Richmond; 2:50, "The Applied End of Methodism," Rev. R. K. Boyd, of Elizabeth; 3:20, "The Problem of the Young People and Some Attempts at Solution," Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Roselle; 3:50, "Evangelism," Rev. G. C. Wilding, of Perth Amboy; 4:20, "Foreign Missions," Rev. Marvin A. Rader, district superintendent, Manila District, Philippine Islands; supper served by women of M. E. church.

The evening service for the general public will begin at 7:30 o'clock. There will be two addresses, one on "Foreign Missions Under the Flag," by Rev. Marvin A. Rader, of the Philippine Islands, and the other on "Our Own Country," by Rev. Robert Forbes, corresponding secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal church.

SCARLET FEVER WORST FOE OF CHILDHOOD

Now that smallpox, thanks to compulsory vaccination, has become a rarity in civilized communities, scarlet fever steps forward as the worst of the eruptive diseases of childhood. It is malady of enormous antiquity. Thucydides, writing nearly 500 years before the beginning of our era, called it a heritage from the remote past. It has scourged the white races in all ages and all countries, and the physicians of all schools have levelled their heaviest artillery upon it. Yet it remains a puzzle unsolved and an enemy unconquered even today. We are in doubt as to its cause, and there is no drug or antitoxin that will cure it. But despite all this, the death rate from scarlet fever is rapidly declining, and we may expect it to decline more and more as the years go by. The reason for this, I take it, lies in the fact that the modern doctor is a great deal more sparing with pills and powders than his predecessors, and is almost deaf more lavish with water, air and antiseptics. In the old days it was customary to dose scarlet fever patients with all sorts of violent remedies in staggering quantities, and, as a result, many of them died. Today medicines are but minor auxiliaries in the sickroom and both doctor and nurse devote their main energies to preventing the spread of the infection.—The Delineator.

AMERICAN CORN HAS CIRCLED THE GLOBE.

In a trip around the world just completed Gurdon W. Wattles, of Omaha and Los Angeles, has found 131 products of American corn, ranging from hasty pudding in Japan to glucose confectionery along the banks of the Danube. From Belgium food in Belgium to the starch in the butlers' ruffles in dear old London. At a commercial exposition in London Mrs. Wattles reports seeing 128 products of American corn, most of which were manufactured west of Buffalo. In the Danube valley and country he found scores of demonstrators from America introducing some new product of Indian corn. It is his opinion that more than 80 per cent. of the products used in foreign countries are either manufactured in the United States or made from corn grown here. Austria-Hungary is said to rank next to the United States.

MILK PROBLEM SOLVED AT CLARKHURST FARMS

The question of a pure milk supply, safe-guarded from every possible means of contamination, has been solved by Edward H. Clark, proprietor of the famous "Clarkhurst Farms," situated on the Raritan River Road, about a mile from Bound Brook. That there are no better dairy farms in this country is conceded by experts, who pronounce it to be "model dairying" in every sense of the word. That is the testimony of the State Board of Health.

Two years ago Mr. Clark retired from a rennumerative law practice in New York, and moved to New Jersey with one object in view—to furnish the people with a quality of milk that would not only meet all requirements, but exceed them. He acquired the beautiful farm where his dairy is located and today he owns 125 thoroughbred registered cows, with an output of from 1,000 to 1,200 quarts of the finest milk to be found anywhere. It is commencing today this milk will be distributed in Plainfield and vicinity through the agency of A. T. Jordan, who has established a dairy store on North avenue. The milk to be sold here will be certified in every sense that the word implies. Ralph M. Ball, of this city, will be in charge of the store here, and will solicit trade.

Mr. Clark never buys a cow until his veterinarian, Dr. H. H. Voorhees, of Somerville, has made a thorough test of the animal and frequent tests are made for any signs of tuberculosis. After a cow becomes part of the stock farm, she is either placed in barn No. 1 or barn No. 2, which are perfect models of what a barn should be. They are built in accordance with the suggestions of the United States Department of Agriculture, the structures being composed of steel and concrete. Running along outside of each stall is a groove in the concrete in which is splaced food and running water. After the cows are fed the groove is placed food and running water, clean water. The water is supplied from an artesian well 105 feet deep, and is pumped by a powerful 4 horse gasoline engine into a tank with a capacity of 10,000 gallons.

The greatest care is taken in the selection of food and among other things is ensilage, a green corn product which is kept each year for the year round; oats and peas, cut green while the cotton seed meal, alfalfa grass and the cows are fed on strictly scientific lines.

Twice a day the cows are curry combed and brushed like a horse and at intervals they are given a bath, hot and cold water being used. When a cow shows any sign of sickness she is immediately placed in the hospital and given every attention. Although one apparently cannot point to a single deficiency Mr. Clark still maintains that it is not that perfection has not been attained and he continues to make improvements.

Dirt is tabooed, not a speck being found wherever the milk is handled or the cows are kept. To prevent the pestiferous flies from getting in his work, the cows are regularly sprayed with an antiseptic preparation; while the milkers in addition to being compelled to wear white uniforms, take further steps toward prevention of disease by washing their hands in a solution of disinfection. Sanitary milk pails are used. With the exception of the circle that fits under the udder, the pail is air tight. As soon as a pail is filled with milk it is carried to the milk house, and the milk is strained through a patented apparatus which cools the lacteal fluid to about forty degrees.

After use the milk pails are taken to the wash room where by patented process they are thoroughly sterilized and washed with cleansing water to which has been added a cleansing compound. By this same process the rooms are thoroughly sterilized. The ventilation of the barns is so arranged that the animals have pure fresh air summer and winter. The tops of the windows are of glass and the bottoms of mesh wire and cheese cloth.

Fifty of Mr. Clark's high-class cows are thoroughbred Holstein-Frisians with pedigrees guaranteed by the Holstein-Friesian Association, says that he considers Mr. Clark's black bull with the gold on each of the finest type of a thoroughbred he has ever seen. The name of one bull is "Sir Hengerveld De Kol," and the other his premier, "Beets Ormsby De Kol Butter King."

The very latest and approved method for bottling milk is used, preventing every possible way of contagion. In order that the cows might have green food the year of a capacity of 130 tons of ensilage. This is made by grinding up corn in the husk, just as it comes from the field. This lasts until early summer.

Patrons of this dairy can always depend on getting pure milk and cream, produced under every approved sanitary condition. Special bottles have been made and they will be sealed in a way to prevent germs coming in contact with the milk.

ARGUE OVER P. O. SITE

Board of Trade Members Differ as to Most Desirable Location.

MORE MONEY IS NEEDED.

Mayor Samuel Townsend and Others Take Position that $125,000 Appropriation Is too Small.

If the Government has as much trouble selecting a site for the proposed Federal building in Plainfield as the Board of Trade had Thursday in trying to settle the question, it is safe to say that there are many people here who may not live to see the new postoffice structure. The presentation of the subject by President Marshall caused an endless discussion. There were so many varied opinions that after several motions and amendments were offered the matter became hopelessly tied up. As a result the subject was tabled for the present.

The discussion began when J. V. E. Vanderhoef, a member of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, tried to have the board adopt the resolution approved by the association, favoring the Embury property on East Front street as the best place for the postoffice building.

L. B. Woolston considered it would be best to go slow and perhaps through the efforts of Senator John Kean and Congressman Fowler, a second appropriation of $50,000 would be secured which, with the $100,000 would make it possible to get a more central site. "What's an extra $50,000," said Mr. Woolston. "Our Congressman and Senator should be able to secure the extra appropriation. I do not favor the Embury property because there are better sites at that point. There is no show of our getting a public municipal building here and let us have a postoffice building worthy of the city."

F. A. Duttenhoffer favored the Embury property and urged that the board lend its endorsement to that proposition. He considered the price reasonable. Mayor Townsend suggested the site at West Second street and Madison avenue, which he said could be purchased for $25,000.

Speaking in the interest of the borough, Mayor Samuel Townsend cautioned the board to go slow. He argued that the bulk of the population lies west of Somerset street in the borough, and the same was true in Plainfield. The people of the borough use the postoffice and it is to their interest as well as that of Plainfielders that the new building be located in a central spot. He believed that a larger appropriation could be obtained. He then suggested that the board go on record as favoring a site within the boundaries of Madison and Watchung avenues, Greenbrook and Fourth street, and offered this as an amendment to Mr. Vanderhoef's motion.

The amendment was opposed strongly because the boundaries would eliminate the Embury property. Joseph C. Allen, of Westervelt avenue, championed the movement in behalf of the Embury property, explaining that the price asked was very low, less than $9,000. The discussion brought out the fact that the Government still has a lease of eight years on the Babcock building for its postoffice, but that the lease will be terminated on thirty days' notice.

At the suggestion of E. A. Laing, U. Fred MacDonald, who represents the owners of the Durlach property, and who talked with William Fletcher Reid, the Government agent, when he visited Plainfield, explained that the Embury property is the logical site for the Federal building considering the price. It has a frontage of 111 feet and the sixty five additional feet of land necessary, according to specifications, could be had for a reasonable price. The site is 250 feet east of the Plainfield property for which $60,000 is asked.

President Marshall stated for the benefit of the members that Mr. Reid informed him that if a site should be purchased now it would probably be several years before work on the building would begin. In view of this Mr. Allen stated that hours hence, the Embury property would be the most central location for the building.

During the discussion motion after motion was offered to which were added several amendments. President Marshall was finding it difficult to straighten out the tangle when Eugene A. Laing came to his rescue with a motion to lay the whole matter on the table. It was seconded and put before the majority realized what had happened, the motion was carried.

LIMITED FRANCHISE TALK

L. B. Woolston and Peter Mc Donough Oppose Restricting Privileges to Corporations.

AT TRADE BOARD'S SESSION.

Obstacle to Trolley Between City and South Plainfield, They Say, Should Be Removed.

An unusually large attendance of members marked the first fall meeting of the Board of Trade, held last Thursday, and the spirited discussion and lively interest in several important topics, demonstrated that the organization is far from being a "dead one." Among the questions discussed at some length was the one in reference to securing some means of transportation between Plainfield, South Plainfield and Metuchen, and it was the sense of the members that every effort should be made to establish either a trolley line or auto line between these points.

Speaking in the interest of this movement, P. McDonough, of South Plainfield, said that it would be possible to obtain all the necessary consents for a trolley franchise, but he had learned after a conference with Col. Hine and other officials of the Public Service Corporation, that the company has no desire to undertake the project for a limited term of years as now provided by law. He felt sure that a trolley line would be built if the franchise could be had for an indefinite term of years and this led him to say that he thought the limited franchise act was undesirable and should be repealed. He spoke of the great advantage to Plainfield from a trade point of view in having such means of transportation.

L. B. Woolston told of his interest in the proposition and of his experience in previous years in trying to get a trolley line between the city and South Plainfield. He too opposed the limited franchise act and thought the Legislature should repeal it this winter.

William Hamilton, another resident of South Plainfield, said that the Plainfield merchants are losing a great deal of trade which now goes to New Brunswick and Perth Amboy. He said that if good transportation was established with South Plainfield and Metuchen all of that trade would come here and not only would the stores be benefitted, but the banks as well.

Milton Mandel, of Park avenue, who has been a leading spirit in the proposed improvement, addressed the board, suggesting that either a bus, an auto or trolley line be established at an early date. He said that he had been informed by one of the managers of the Trenton Fair Association that the annual fair would be held near Stelton, after this year, that its present site in Trenton had been sold for building lots and that 600 acres have been purchased near Stelton along the Pennsylvania Railroad, where future exhibitions will be held.

For this reason he urged that the members get busy and get in touch with the people that live in that part of the State. To prove that such a line would pay he referred to the auto bus line operated last summer by Andrew C. Thompson, who conducts an auto garage on Park avenue. He alone believed that the line would pay and it did, the autos being well patronized in their daily runs to Boynton Beach. He felt sure that such a line to South Plainfield and Metuchen would be a paying venture.

Miss Lawrence Surprised.

A birthday surprise party was given to Miss Mamie Lawrence, of Tompkins avenue, Thursday afternoon. The house was handsomely decorated, the color scheme in the dining room being pink and white. Games were played and a luncheon served. Miss Lawrence received a number of beautiful gifts. Those present were the Misses Grace Ludgate, Helen Taylor, Florence Taylor, Grace Taylor, Alice Bresnahan, Elsie Brentnall, Mary Peterson, Amy Norway, Lizzie Mowray, Ethel Brown, Ruth Merris, and Ralph Ludgate, Theodore Martin, Harvey Taylor, Ralph Brown, Walter Brown, Clarence Donnelly, Charles Lawrence, Russell Lawrence, Joseph Lawrence, Miss Mamie Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Donnelly, Mrs. G. C. Coan and Miss Hazel Coan, of Meriden, Conn., and Mrs. William Coan.

Leaves Borough for Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, who for the past sixteen years have been residents of North Plainfield will in a few days move to 806 Third place, this city. They have lived in the borough ever since they removed from Somerville, and during that time Mr. Honeyman has been a prominent figure in municipal affairs in North Plainfield, taking a prominent part in the campaign against the annexation and consolidation of the borough and city. He has also from time to time taken an active interest in North Plainfield school affairs, serving as a member of the Board of Education. His decision to move to Plainfield was only reached after a long deliberation.

Things We Shall Take into the Other World

In the parable of the talents we are told that our Lord rewards faithful service by greater opportunity for service. The men who used their talents and thereby gained other talents were praised for their faithfulness in few things, and were rewarded, not with a crown and rest, but with the opportunity for greater usefulness. They were made rulers over many things. In other words, the man to whom talents of any kind has been committed, does not bury them in the future world any more than he does in this. Our heavenly reward is not the cessation of all activity; it is opportunity for greater effort. Achievement here is the basis of achievement there. Faithfulness in the exercise of our talents and capacity here, makes possible greater faithfulness in the opportunities of the other world.

Isaac Taylor has well said that "it is a frivolous notion that the vast and intricate machinery of the universe, the profound scheme of God's government, is how to reach a resting place, where nothing shall remain to active spirits through an eternity, but recollections of labor, anthems of praise, and inert repose."

It is better to conceive of life as Franklin has suggested. To him life is "rather a state of embryo, a preparation for life." A man is not completely born until he has passed through death."

Of course, we do not know and cannot conceive of all the glory that will be ours in the other life; but our Savior assures us in the parable of the talents, that we shall take our capacity with us to that world. We shall carry over our skill and our versatility for this reason, that the heavenly life will be the continuation of this life.

In the "Gates Ajar," Mrs. Ward suggests that the little girl, who, all her life, longed for a piano, would possess one in Heaven. I have no doubt that what corresponds to the piano in the mind of that little child will be ours in Heaven. Heaven would be no satisfaction to her musical soul. Had John the Divine known of pianos, he would probably have spoken of Heaven as possessing these instead of harps of gold. For Heaven will answer the children's needs as well as our own. Heaven's coach holy expectation and far exceed it.

It is said of Lorenzo de Medici that he did not want to go to Heaven because he would miss the Pitti Palace with all its treasurers of art. He feared that the after side of his nature would soon find its proper satisfaction in that world. It probably had never been pictured to him as a human sort of place. I believe that there will be the opportunity there for the play of all the human faculties. That will be a place for shut but it will be a place for all holy desires.

When Professor Hill was asked what he would do in that world, he responded: "There is enough in the mathematical problems connected with the circle to keep one busy for a thousand years." Perhaps that would not be our happiness, but I would be his. Therefore Heaven must be the place that will satisfy an infinite variety of natures.

What is true for the mathematician, is true for the artist and for the musician. There will also be something for those to do who love to serve others. Socrates wanted in that world not only to converse with Homer, Hesiod and Orpheus, but to continue his search after knowledge. When A. T. Schauffler died, it was that he had only a year to live, he said, "I will study Sanscrit at once." Why? Would he use Sanscrit in the other world I don't know, but he believed that something would be called forth in him by the study of that language that would persist in the heavenly world.

An English divine presents this picture of the relation of this world to the other world. A boy at school is being prepared for the larger life of the world. "The boy-world is the bigger world mental exercise are to fit him for the battle of life. The school boy life and the business life are the same and yet different. The school life would be useless unless it were the after life in germ." Should not my life here be the heaven life in germ?

Victor Hugo says "for half a century I have been writing my thoughts in prose, verse, history, philosophy, drama, romance, satire, ode and song. I have tried all, but I feel that I have not said the one-hundredth part of what is in me. When I go down to the grave, I can say like so many others; I have finished my day's work; but I cannot say I have finished my life. My day's work will begin again the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes in the twilight to open in the dawn." That is the utterance of the deep longing of the human heart. Victor Hugo is not the only man who has felt it. The thought that the future life and its activity grows out of the present, is the teaching of our Lord. It satisfies our reason to think that in the other world "no moral or spiritual achievement will be lost, and that what is worthy to endure will endure." We find in this world "Faculties displayed in vain; but born

To prosper in some better sphere."

The only rational life to live is the life that is planned on eternal lines. Sir Oliver Lodge says truthfully that this life appears as "something whose full significance lies in another scheme of things." The world's riddle, then, is answered only by the thought of another world.

A broken column in a cemetery is not the most beautiful symbol that can be placed over the grave of our departed, for the reason that it suggests that the life here has been a failure, and that our friend's aspirations have been broken off. In God's sight, this is not the record of his life. If we could imagine a column clouded at the top so that its completed form we could not see, we would have a better symbol of the life of our friend. This would symbolize that what is begun here is perfected there.

"Alexamenos is not dead;
He lives beyond the stars."

Our friends are not dead; they live beyond the stars.

They have taken their capacity with them for the reward of their faithfulness in a few things in this world is increased ability for the greater things in the heavenly world.

BOARD OF TRADE HEARS TRUNK SEWER REPORT

The Board of Trade at its first fall meet, Thursday, adopted the new constitution and by-laws with*out any change, received an informal* report from H. B. Fuller, chairman of the publicity committee, and President H. W. Marshall appointed Herman Schwed, Francis K. Anderson, F. A. Duttenhoffer, J. V. F. Vanderhoef and J. Fred MacDonald as an executive committee for the ensuing year.

Regarding the proposed trunk line sanitary sewer in which several adjoining municipalities are interested, Mayor Samuel Townsend, of the borough, explained the progress already made, explaining that the engineers, Hering & Fuller are now engaged in making the preliminary survey and that the municipalities are now awaiting their report. There was on informal discussion on the subject and the members expressed their approval of the proposition.

Charles Matt, Ernest Sharpe and A. H. Osmun were elected members, the rules being suspended for that purpose. It was suggested that a representative of an adding machine company would be present to explain that it is desirous of locating a factory in Plainfield, but Edmund Rushmore, through whom the representative had been invited, informed the board that the matter had been sidetracked," whereupon one of the members suggested that "possibly he had been held up at the Rushmore factory."

YOUNG REPUBLICANS MEET TO FORM CLUB

Borough young men interested in the organization of a First Presidential Voters' Club, held a preliminary meeting in the headquarters of the Republican club, Friday. The attendance was well to expectations but considerable progress resulted.

Donald McGee was made chairman of the meeting and Harold Hegeman, secretary. A committee composed of William Barlow, Edward Brown and Ernest Powlison was appointed to perfect the plans for organization as they were outlined early in the week. The same committee will also take up the subject of forming a glee club from among the members. As soon as the organization is successfully launched the young men will conduct a series of mass meetings independent of the established Republicans.

The membership list in the club is to be open to all young Republicans in the borough who have not yet cast a vote for a presidential candidate.

Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts, of Martinsville, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mayme E. Roberts, and Raymond Haines, of Steiner place, North Plainfield. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, October 14.

Gives $20,000 to Asylum.

The movement started recently in Paterson to raise $100,000 for the Paterson Orphan Asylum has resulted in a contribution of $20,000 by Mrs. William Walker, of Utica. Other contributions from various sources have brought the fund up to nearly $25,000.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS BRING HIM ROYALTIES

Two compositions for piano, composed by George C. M. Smith, of Craig place, have just been published by Carl Fischer, the largest music house in this country. They are entitled "Consolation" and "Along the Nile," and both have received exceptional praise from critics in the world of music. The Musical

Geo. C. M. Smith.

Observer in speaking of the works, says: "These compositions could only be written by a writer of unquestioned musical ability." According to the terms of the agreement Mr. Smith receives a life-long royalty on both compositions. Only works of the highest merit ever receive such an offer.

"Consolation" is a slow melodious movement with a deep meaning. "Along the Nile" is a tone picture, pleasing to the ear and extremely interesting in originality. Both are of moderate difficulty in execution and can be had at all music stores.

Mr. Smith is a native of Plainfield and was graduated from the North Plainfield Public School. He studied music abroad, completing a seven-year course in four and half years. Since his return home he has been a teacher of violin, piano and harmony. Frequently he has been heard as a soloist and his work has never failed to arouse deep interest and genuine approval. His latest achievement is considered a well-deserved honor after several years of faithful and conscientious work.

HOPE'S BASKETBALL FIVE SELECTS MANAGER

The Hope chapel Boy's Club held a meeting Friday night at the chapel *for the election of a basketball man*ager and a temporary captain of the squad. At the same time a new treasurer, Thomas Herron, was chosen. Bertram Smith was elected chairman of the lookout committee and Roy Belen as chairman of the invitation committee.

The club has excellent prospects for the basketball season. There are fifteen members of the squad, averaging from fifteen to seventeen years of age. The average weight will be about 115 pounds.

Practice is held every Monday and Tuesday nights. On Monday night in addition to practice, the coaches and physical directors, Stuart S. Mohs and Brockhoest K. Miller instruct the squad in dumb-bell work and on the apparatus in the gymnasium, followed by a cross-country run of two miles. Then comes a shower bath after which the boys enjoy a shower bath. Arther Hoffman, who was elected manager, would like to schedule games with the Y. M. C. A. Juniors, Holy Cross seconds, Stillman school, P. H. S. freshmen, P. H. S. sophomores and any team averaging 115 pounds.

APPLIED ASTRONOMY.

He took me out to see the stars,
That astronomic bore;
He said there were two moons near Mars,
While Jupiter has four.

I thought, of course, he'll whisper soon
What fourfold bliss 'twould be
To stroll beneath that fourfold moon
On Jupiter with me.

And when he spoke of Saturn's rings,
I was convinced he'd say
That was the very kind of thing
To offer me some day.

But in a tangent off he went
To double stars. Now that
Was most suggestive, so content
And quite absorbed I sat.

But no, he talked a dreary mess
Of which the only fraction
That caught my fancy, I confess,
Was "mutual attraction."

I said I thought it very queer,
And stupid altogether,
For stars to keep so very near,
And yet not come together.

At that he smiled, and turned his head;
I thought he'd caught the notion.
He merely bowed good-night, and said
Their safety lies in motion.

DEATH OF MRS. WEIGHTMAN

Passed Away Last Night at Watch Hill, R. I., Her Summer Home.

HAD BEEN ILL ONE WEEK.

Was Formerly Miss Fanny Cox, of This City, and Had Lived in Philadelphia Since Her Marriage.

Word came by telegraph to Plainfield Friday of the death at Watch Hill, R. I., of Mrs. Aubrey Weightman, of Philadelphia, who was formerly Miss Fanny Cox, daughter of Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street. It occurred Thursday at 9 o'clock after an illness of one week. Mrs. Cox, who has been spending the summer at the same cottage with Mrs. Weightman, was at her bedside when the end came.

Mrs. Cox was one of the most popular young women in Plainfield's social circles at the time of her marriage to Mr. Weightman, five years ago this month, and the ceremony at her mother's home was the event of the season. It was attended by scores of prominent residents of the city and borough and many society people from the larger cities. Mr. Weightman is the nephew of the late John B. Weightman, Philadelphia's multi-millionaire chemist, and the young couple made their home in the Quaker City after the wedding, although Mrs. Weightman spent a great deal of time in Plainfield.

The family passed the summer at Watch Hill and during the heated months Mrs. Weightman was enjoying a general health. It was unknown to Plainfielders generally that she had been ill until the news of her death was received.

Besides her husband and mother, Mrs. Weightman is survived by two little daughters and three brothers, Dr. Rowland Cox, of New York, and Archibald and Roy Cox, of Plainfield.

BOROUGH COUNCIL HAS A BRIEF SESSION

The Borough Council set a new record for speed during a regular meeting, Friday night, in exactly fifteen minutes, all business accumulating in the past month was disposed of and the members were getting coats on to go home. The presence of only four of the councilmen beside Mayor Townsend was partly responsible for the general apathy that pervaded.

Following the disposal of routine matters, Councilman McGee offered a resolution that the borough borrow $1,000 for general purposes. Councilman Smith offered a resolution that a hydrant be placed at Dupont and Dover streets and Councilman Van Arsdale presented a third one for the installation of a light on Fritz place. All were carried.

Recorder Dolliver reported that during the month of September the police hade made ten arrests and the violators had contributed $15 in fines to the borough coffers. Councilman Waldron reported that work will be commenced Monday to put Wilson avenue in passable shape, in pursuance to a resolution adopted some time ago, and Mayor Townsend announced that the engineers engaged to investigate the trunk sewer project were now at work and would be ready with a report within a short time. A petition from Sherman Haberle for permission to build an addition to the residence at 13 Chatham street was laid over until the next meeting as it requires five councilmen to act on a matter of this kind.

In conclusion, Mayor Townsend gave a short talk on the lighting arrangements in the borough, stating that after a personal investigation he had found that no sort of system had been maintained in granting petitions. When people of a certain section asked for a light the chances were it would be granted and there would be three or four on one block and only two on another of the same length. Requests had ben made to him for more illumination on certain streets and when he went to see where it was wanted he found that instead of getting more lights, one should be taken out. He asked that this matter be kept in mind in the future.

MARKING THE CLOTHES.

The most satisfactory method of marking clothes that go to the laundry is with a rubber stamp bearing your name, each separate article may *thus be stamped with the least pos*sible trouble, and the result will be a legible marking. What a help this is for the business girl, who lives away from home, and who has to take particular pains in the care of her clothing? The name need not be put in a conspicuous place; in fact, it might be tucked away in some odd corner, where it will not show, yet is sure proof of ownership. The stamp is inexpensive and one may buy a pad and indelible ink at small cost. It is a very economical idea, for both ink and marker will probably outlast the girl who owns it.

FURBER OUT FOR BRYAN

Former Republican Mayor of Rahway Gives Reasons for Going Into Enemy's Camp.

FAVORS DENVER PLATFORM.

Says Cry that Bryan's Election Would Bring Hard Times Is Silly and Vicious.

James B. Furber, who was elected *Mayor of Rahway on the Republi*can ticket, comes out in a letter to the Democratic candidate for Senator from Union county, Frederick S. Hyer, of Rahway, and says: "I shall not only vote for you for November, but for every capable and honest man who upholds the Denver Democratic platform. I have been counted in the ranks of the Republican party and have been elected to office on a Republican ticket with promises of support by Republicans, but have learned, as have hundreds and thousands of others, that support as promised by Republicans means support only so long as the bosses and the 'interests' are protected. Just so soon as a man shows an independent spirit, as have Colby and Hughes, the party has no further use for him. Just as soon as a man proposes to work for the people and gauge his official action by the measure of protection it affords the common people, just so soon he is marked for the side track.

"The fact that the capable, honest and honorable Mr. Taft is heading the Republican ticket can be no excuse for asking our support so long as the policies of the party are dictated and controlled by Wall Street and trust officials. It was a

"The cry that the election of Bryan will bring about hard times is as silly as it is vicious, for, if the Republican party can save us from such times, have they not been free for years past to show us their ability in that direction? If the Democratic party responsible for what we have been made to suffer during the past twelve months?

"In conclusion we should be justified in voting for Bryan and this platform if for no other reason than the restraining effect it would have on the Republican party, which has now been so long in power that it has become reckless and regardless of the people's rights."

SIMPLICITY DESIRED IN FINE LINGERIE.

Lingerie does not require elaborate trimming to be beautiful. In fact it is not in good taste.

A superfluity of trimming on stout women's lingerie is not desirable on account of its fluffiness, yet she knows tips usually likes dainty underwear quite as much as slender women, and so a description of a charming yet suitable model for the former will be interesting.

This combination corset cover and skirt, cut in a princess style to fit the figure by means of gores, should be stunning. These gores are joined together with a narrow beading, a deep flounce added with a row of beading and beading trimmed the low neck and the sleeves, a narrow lace ruffle forming the finish.

When all the beading is threaded with palest pink ribbon it will be one of the prettiest garments imaginable

DENMAN'S THEATRE DEAL

Owner of Music Hall Declares It Has Not Been Leased to Keith & Proctor.

RUMOR HAD IT RENTED.

Representative of Big Vaudeville Concern Looking Over the Building but Has Made No Overtures.

A rumor current in the city today that representatives of the Keith & Proctor combine had closed a deal with William M. Stillman for a lease of Music Hall and would re-open the place as a vaudeville house, was denied by the owner this afternoon. When seen by a Daily Press reporter, Mr. Stillman said that Harry Sanderson, of Cranford, who is reputed to be the agent of the K. P. people, had been looking over the one-time playhouse but that no negotiations for its sale or rental had been conducted.

"It is just another of those instances that have occurred every six months since the hall was closed," said Mr. Stillman. "Men come in to get the key, look over the building and then come back. Sometimes they talk business and sometimes they don't. They come from Philadelphia and they come from New York, but the result has always been the same in the end. Mr. Sanderson, who I'm told is the representative of a big vaudeville concern, has looked over the building several times but has made no advances that indicate business."

When Mr. Stillman was asked if it was true that Mr. Sanderson had been dickering with the Woolworth five and ten cent store people to move out of what was formerly the entrance to Music Hall, into the new Sebring building, he replied in the affirmative. The negotiations had been underway for some time, he said, and have finally been closed with the understanding that the change will be made in the event of Sanderson agreeing to take the hall.

"But that doesn't signify anything in particular," Mr. Stillman added; "those negotiations do not concern me, personally I do not think the outcome will be the opening of the old theatre."

The Harry Sanderson mentioned in the dispatches is one of the best known theatrical men in the business. He was treasurer for Tony Pastor at Pastor's Fourteenth street theatre for many years, relinquishing his position only at the death of the famous old showman a few weeks ago. His home is at Cranford.

THE COST OF RINGING THE WEDDING BELLS.

To count the cost of a wedding either before or after the ceremony is not the custom of the generous father. But many must regard their check books with amazement when, after the lapse of time, they realize what they have spent upon their daughter's behalf upon that day of days.

To decorate the church in meagre fashion looks worse than not to decorate it at all. But what an immense sum adequate floral adornments represent! The sum of £700 is by no means a fabulous bill for the floral decorations at a smart wedding, and in many cases the charge is large. In such instances an immense amount of subtle thought is expended upon the floral scheme.

It is impossible to calculate the enormous sum of money spent at a recent American wedding, where orchids formed the chief decoration. These costly blossoms were used in such profusion on that occasion that the sum of £1,000 did not pay for the wedding alone.

The bride's father, who apparently plays a small a part in the wedding, wishing scarcely a glance from the assembled congregation, and that glimpse is often as not one of annoyance if he is nervous, or awkward, only obscured a view of his daughter's marriage toilet, is a much to be commiserated person. Not only has he paid highly for the decoration of the church and his home, but he has been busy signing checks for months before for his daughter's trousseau.

His eye may fall upon such items, if he happens to have examined the bills, as £5 for the wedding dress embellished with the most elaborate embroideries and flounced with real lace, £50 for a single hat, of £200 for lingerie, or £50 for gloves, and so on, in like proportion, if he is a man of immense wealth.

Not even millionaires can disburse money so lavishly without realizing that they will ringing the wedding bells. —London Mirror.

Some Big Shows Coming.

Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, has booked a number of Broadway successes for November. Among them are Brewster's Millions, which had a great run at the New Amsterdam; George M. Cohan in "The Royal Family," which had a tremendous run at the Galety and Knickerbocker; Rose Stahl in the unparalleled box office record, "The Chorus Lady," which ran for a year at the Savoy and Weber's, and Richard Carlisle in his greatest hit, "Mary's Lamb."

The Costitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1908.

The New Brunswick Times approves of our suggestion that Samuel W. Rushmore remove from his factory that ugly sign which gives the traveling public a most erroneous idea of "the city beautiful" as a well governed municipality. The Middlesex paper in condemning the protesting taxpayer for his strange methods says:

"The Plainfield manufacturer who has made his local grievance against a local political machine the basis for a wide-spread attack upon the fair name of his city, is pursuing the wrong course. If he has been wronged, let him complain to his fellow citizens, let him make a campaign issue of the matter, but take down that sign which warns the general traveling public that Plainfield is a bad place to settle in. There is too much civic pride in any town, no matter how situated, to stand such a thing as that."

As strange as the action of Mr. Rushmore, is the fact that at last night's meeting of the city fathers the matter was entirely ignored. It appears to us that every man who takes just pride in his home town that the local administration should not delay in doing what it can to have the objectionable billboard removed.

Is not an absurd condition of affairs presented when the Common Council is inclined to make an additional appropriation for the completion of the new police "bungalow" rather than to expend some of the people's money in giving the East End proper fire protection? For months, the city fathers have been pursuing a procrastinating policy regarding the proposed, and much needed, fire house for the Netherwood district. Unfortunately they have not profited by the lesson taught in the Letcher fire and today that valuable and well assessed portion of the municipality is compelled to depend on a fire house a mile away for its safety. This important improvement should wait, it seems, while more money is expended in completing a structure which looks more like a bungalow or rich man's auto barn than a police headquarters. Already $25,500 has been used to build that "bungalow" and now the patient taxpayer is told that at least $1,300 is wanted to do some other work in that connection. How long will Mr. Propertyowner put up with this policy of municipal government?

COUNCIL WANTS P. S. C. TO BE MORE CAREFUL

Questioning the liability of the Public Service Corporation regarding the accident which befell William Henry, of Clinton avenue, a few weeks ago, when he was nearly electrocuted beneath the Clinton avenue railroad bridge as a result of taking hold of an electric light wire, Commissioner Dempsey, chairman of the light committee, called the attention of the members last night to the incident.

He thought that the body should receive a report from the chief-of-police, and his motion that the city clerk be directed to write to the P. S. C. and learn what steps have been taken to prevent similar occurences in the future prevailed.

Knowing some of the details of the accident, Mr. Suydam stated that the accident was largely the fault of the boy. There was a break of six inches in the insulation covering the particular wire which caused the trouble, but the boys have persisted in congregating beneath the bridge and catching hold of these wires. However, he declared that the wires were in bad shape and need attention.

Mr. Suydam said that he had been informed that the New Jersey Central would not permit the P. S. C. to attach its wires to the new bridges and they were obliged to let them hang beneath. He thought the two corporations should get together and reduce the risk to a minimum. He had heard that the insulation on a number of wires was bad and should be attended to at once.

Mr. Montgomery declared that it is the duty of the city to see that the lives of children are protected and he thought there should be some way to prevent another such occurrence. He suggested that the electric light wires be placed in a large cable. "Grown up people are supposed to have some sense and can avoid such dangers," concluded Mr. Montgomery, "but children are hard to manage and they are always sure to run the risk of losing their lives."

Not Like Father.

"Do you think Mr. Skinnum's baby will take after its father?"

AMUSEMENTS.

The excellent programs in vogue at Proctor's Newark Theatre still continue as a partial list of the vaudevillians to appear during the week commencing Monday, October 5, will give ample testimony. Joseph Hart's successful musical novelty with its daintiest little comedienne in the varieties. Another European novelty will be the first appearance here of Oscar Lorraine, a protean violinist of considerable ability. A new series of animated pictures will also be shown.

James K. Hackett is scoring a great hit at the Hackett theatre in the famous Anthony Hope romantic play, "The Prisoner of Zenda." It will be remembered that this play was once the ground for the success of a decade ago. It is a stirring drama without a moments dullness, and the good old-fashioned love story which seems to have gotten into disrepute, is to be found there in all its strength. In addition there is an abundance of the sword play that once marked the great actor of the old days, and even in these days has made James K. Hackett one of the leading romantic actors in America. It is hardly necessary to recall the story of "The Prisoner of Zenda," which enjoyed a vogue that the English novels had, and was the beginning of the romantic movement in this country and England. Combining the dash and vigor of the romance of Alexander Dumas with the lightness of touch and humor that belongs to our own day, Mr. Hackett created a hero in Rassendyll that will undoubtedly live for a long time. Mr. Hackett has gathered about him as many of the original cast as it has been possible, and the production, in fact, is said will be one of unusual excellence. Considering the fact that nearly all the popular plays in New York at this time deal with ethical problems of the under-world, this breath of romance is more than welcome.

Of all questions now agitating the public mind "The Girl Question" comes foremost and the reason is easily explained. In the dozen odd songs, the interesting plot, its half a hundred dashing chorus girls and its all star cast of players, it is no wonder that Wallack's has been nightly crowded by enthusiastic audiences. Like "The Time, The Place and The Girl," the book and lyrics for "The Girl Question" were written by Frank Adams and Will Hough, and the music by Joseph Howard. The "hero" of the play is a rough, uncouth, but big hearted fellow, full of western slang, a part in short ideal with the personality of Junie McCree, the actor who plays it. Georgie Drew Mendum, cousin of Ethel Barrymore and niece of John Drew, has a part along similar lines, while Isabel D'Armond, American burlesque soubrette, sings several songs and is carrying on a charming little romance at the same time that Miss Mendum and Mr. McCree are developing their own love affairs. The cast also includes Helen Royton and Georgo and Jack Henderson. "The Girl Question" lives up to itself, in short it is one of the best entertainments offered on Broauway in years and since its initial performance new numbers, new business, new costumes and new girls have been added. The popular priced matinee is a feature of the engagement at Wallack's, where "The Girl Question" will be for some weeks to come.

The stage setting for the last act of "Fluffy Ruffles," in which Miss Hattie Williams is the star, representing the interior of the famous cafe at Armenonville, was especially made at Paris by Hugo Baruch and Company, under the personal supervision of Charles Frohman.

During the coming New York season Miss Ethel Barrymore will act Hardy Beckley in Somerset Maugham's play "Lady Frederick" at the same time that her uncle, John Drew, at the Empire theatre, is playing "Jack Straw" in a comedy of that name by the same author.

Miss Maude Adams will shortly sail for America from Queenstown. Her vacation abroad was spent almost entirely in a little suburb of Dublin, Ireland, where, with a girl companion, with her books and plays and piano, she has managed characteristically to combine work and rest for three months.

Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Staats, of Bound Brook, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Naomi Staats, and Henry Jerger Tenney, also of Bound Brook. The event will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday afternoon, October 14, at 4 o'clock. Miss Staats was formerly night chief operator at the local exchange of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, and has many friends in this city.

ELEVEN INNINGS AND TIE

New Brunswick and Clinton Avenue Teams in an Exciting Contest.

MIDDLESEX NINE GETS SCRAPPY

Captain Nolan Takes His Men from Field but Later Resumes Game—The Contest In Detail.

Captain Nolan and his scrappy bunch of ball players from New Brunswick came to Plainfield Saturday afternoon determined to defeat the Clinton Avenues by hook or crook. Although the locals failed to get away with the game, they played their opponents to a standstill and the contest had to be called at the end of the eleventh inning with a tie score, 3 to 3.

The contest was marked from beginning to end by kicking on the part of New Brunswick, and in the last half of the fourth inning, the aggregation from along the Raritan river threatened to go home because Umpire Moynihan allowed Schott to take his base for being hit by a pitched ball. They left the diamond and said they would not continue the game. After a half hour's delay Captain Nolan took his men back to the field, not wishing to lose the guarantee.

The visitors resorted to all sorts of tactics to win. In the third inning Nolan deliberately walked into a pitched ball and got his base. This trick combined with a hit, a free pass and a bum throw by Randolph, in trying to catch a runner at third base, gave New Brunswick her only three runs. For ten innings they were blanked and finding it impossible to connect with Randolph and to overcome the fine playing of the locals, they started into to scrap. Every few minutes they threatened to leave the grounds, but finally were persuaded to stay until the end of the eleventh inning when it was so dark that the game had to be called.

Clinton Avenue scored one run in the third, one in the fifth and again in the eighth and in the tenth they almost got a run over the plate, but the necessary hit was missing. A young man called Rowland, who sometimes pitches under the name of Masterson, and who has the reputation of being a Princeton student, occupied the slab for New Brunswick, and despite his deceptive curves, he was touched for twelve hits. But they were of the scattering sort. He used an underhand ball that worked fine and he had his opponents chopping the air in painful fashion.

Randolph was right there with the goods, however, and he pitched a strong game throughout, and should havo had a victory by a score of 3 to 0. He fanned nineteen men and held his opponents to six hits. Rowland and Masterson had fifteen strikeouts to his credit. With the exception of the third inning, a bad one for Clinton Avenue, Manager Dorflinger's colts outplayed their opponents. Umpire Moynihan's work which has been heretofore been satisfactory, was a factor. He was decidedly off on several decisions. A ball that was clearly a foul, he called fair, and on balls and strikes his hitherto keen eye was lacking. Most of the close decisions favored New Brunswick.

Emery, Jack Martin, Boelzley and Randolph led in the hitting, the four players getting a total of nine hits. For New Brunswick Harkins, son of the only John Harkins, of Somerville fame, led his team in batting, touching Randolph for three hits, including a three and two bagger. Van Vechten got two hits, including a two bagger, while Nolan got the other hit. Despite the constant kicking on the part of New Brunswick, the contest was one of the best witnessed on the local diamond.

Another dispute on the part of New Brunswick occurred in the seventh inning when W. O'Rourke, another past master in the art of kicking, took first base on a third bunt strike, and insisted on holding the base until Captain Nilan ordered him off. This caused another delay of fifteen minutes. The score:

LARGEST FIELD YET ON THE P.C.C. COURSE

The largest field of the season was out at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday afternoon, and many took part in the weekly play for the Fall Handicap cups, for Classes A and B. Although many competed for honors, only a limited few posted their second. The course was well crowded throughout the day, the weather being ideal for the game and the links were in fine condition.

In Class A, Arthur Murphy won the first three points with a net score of 75, while E. T. Willson finished second with a 79 and S. D. Lounsbury third with an 80. The Class B players returned good scores, LeRoy Gates finishing first with a net score of 84, A. E. Barclay, second with an 86 and W. F. Merrill third with a 92. The cards returned by the point-winners were as follows:

SATURDAY COMPETITIONS AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

Ideal weather conditions attracted a large field of players to the Park Golf club, Saturday, where the play for the challenge trophies and the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club cups were the attraction. In the play for trophy number two, W. R. Faber, holder, defeated Charles B. Shaw, challenger, 6 up and 5 to play, and for the Hydewood Park cup, W. V. Gano, challenger, defeated W. C. McNaughton, holder, by 4 up and 3 to play.

In the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club trophies, these scores were posted:

Dr. H. Lough, 111, 38-38; W. V. Byard, 100 11-89; Dr. R. K. Carroll, 92, 2-90; Louis K. Hyde, 102, 9-93; W. R. Faber, 98, 5-93; Charles A. Reed, 99, 4-95; Charles B. Morse, 109, 12-97; W. V. Gano, 97, 0-97; H. Sandham, 132, 30-102; Walter C. McNaughton, 111, 6-105.

TROJAN ATHLETIC CLUB DEFEATS DUNELLEN A. C.

The Dunellen A. C. football team, who last season won the championship of Middlesex county, was defeated at Elizabeth, Saturday, by the Trojan Athletic Club. The final score was 2 to 0, the result of a safety in the last three minutes of play. The Trojans were outweighed fifteen pounds to a man and Dunellen was conceded an easy victory before the game began, but the specialty work failed to take into consideration the gameness and pluck of which the Elizabeth players were possessed.

The first half ended with the ball in the Trojans possession on the thirty-five yard. The Trojans earned their victory through straight old-fashioned football tactics, without any forward passes or trick plays of any kind. The elevens lined up as follows:

Bound Brook Eleven Defeated.

At Bound Brook, Saturday, the home club was beaten in a league cricket game by the Union county eleven, 70 to 32. S. Pearson's 11 was the best score made by Bound Brook. For Elizabeth, James Larnette got 18 and R. Goddard 16. In bowling E. F. Goddard took five wickets for 9 runs and A. H. Gibson four for 7. On Saturday a postponed game will be played between these teams at Waverly.

New Market Defeats West Ends.

The New Market Field Club defeated the West Ends at New Market Saturday afternoon, by a score of 8 to 7. The score was 3 to 3 in seventh inning, when the West Ends brought in three runs and the home team tallied five runs. The score by innings:

N. M. F. C.....0 1 0 2 0 0 0 5 x—8

Batteries—Fulton and Nelson; Tremble and Dixon.

CITY FATHERS TRANSACT MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS

As a protection against fire which frequently breaks out in the dump at Dunellen and Compton avenues, W. R. H. Hardingham and other residents in that part of the city petitioned the Common Council, Monday night, for a fire hydrant at that point. The petitioners complained that at present it is necessary to run a line of hose full 1,000 feet to reach the dump, the nearest hydrant being at West Front street and Compton avenue. The request was granted upon motion of Mr. Buxton, of the fire and building committee.

In this connection a petition was received from residents in the neighborhood of the dump, protesting against a stagnant pool allowed to exist there, which was considered as a breeding place for mosquitoes, typhoid fever and other diseases. The petition was signed by Frank W. Weed and many others. Drs. Fred Hughes and C. B. Lufburrow were quoted as authority on the undesirable condition of the surroundings. The petition was referred to the fire and building committee.

Boice, Runyon & Co., was given permission to move a one-story brick building from Park avenue near the railroad through Park avenue and West Second street to the firm's land on the line plank road.

A petition for a fire hydrant at East Second street and Terrill road, was referred back to the fire and building committee for further consideration, it being the purpose of the committee to learn more definitely where hydrants are to be ordered and not located by the water company. It was stated by Councilman C. C. Randolph that hydrants ordered in 1907 had not yet been located and a similar condition exists in the West End. The committee proposes to ascertain where these hydrants have not been established. A motion by Mr. Buxton and carried, instructed the fire and building committee to ascertain from the water company what orders received have not been carried out and to notify the committee the date when the play for challenge trophies and the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club cups were the attraction. In the play for trophy number two, W. R. Faber, holder, defeated Charles B. Shaw, challenger, 6 up and 5 to play, and for the Hydewood Park cup, W. V. Gano, challenger, defeated W. C. McNaughton, holder, by 4 up and 3 to play.

In the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club trophies, these scores were posted:

Dr. H. Lough, 111, 38-38; W. V. Byard, 100 11-89; Dr. R. K. Carroll, 92, 2-90; Louis K. Hyde, 102, 9-93; W. R. Faber, 98, 5-93; Charles A. Reed, 99, 4-95; Charles B. Morse, 109, 12-97; W. V. Gano, 97, 0-97; H. Sandham, 132, 30-102; Walter C. McNaughton, 111, 6-105.

Building Inspector Doane reported that twenty-three permits were granted last month. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for the past month to be $1176.84; expenditures of $153.74, leaving a balance of $22.80.

Through Councilman Buxton, a report was received from Corporation Counsel Marsh regarding a petition from W. D. W. Miller regarding a personal tax. It was stated that the collector had made a mistake in using the 1904 tax bill instead of 1905, and he was instructed to send Mr. Miller a corrected bill for $5.00 personal tax.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, provided that sidewalks be laid in certain streets and a lien be placed on the properties for the payment of the work done.

On motion of Mr. Buxton, the fire and building committee was authorized to purchase one barrel of carbolene at a cost not to exceed ninety cents a gallon. Another motion by the same member authorized the committee to sell the old hook and ladder truck now in No. 3 House, for a sum not to exceed $50. It was explained that the city has no need for the truck and is desirous of making use of the room it now occupies. The money received from the sale of the apparatus, according to law, will go into the fireman's pension fund.

Upon motion of Mr. Montgomery of the light committee, one light was ordered placed on West Sixth street, three hundred feet east of the corner of Clinton avenue, and the petition of L. Kornfield for one light on Spruce street, was granted on his motion, after explanations in favor of the improvement were made by Councilmen Mygatt and Buxton. The request for lights on Denmark road and Dixie Lane was referred for the reason that Mr. Montgomery could not find the exact location of those thoroughfares in the book of orders and he desired to look into the matter further.

An ordinance was offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted on two readings, providing for the extension of Johnston avenue, from North to South avenues, and amending one for the extension of Kensington avenue, from Prospect to Park avenue. The necessary maps were filed and Monday night, November 2, was fixed as the time when a public hearing will be granted prior to adopting the ordinances on third and final reading. On motion of Mr. Gloak the ordinance providing for the repair of sidewalks was adopted on third reading and is now in effect.

A duplicate bill for $208.48 from the Consumers' Coal Company, was ordered cancelled on motion of Mr. Buxton, and a resolution by the same member provided for the borrowing of $5,000 for sewer improvements. This was adopted as was also another resolution borrowing $8,000 on account of the fire fund and $2,000 on account of the pound, for three months.

Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution which was adopted, which provides for an extra appropriation of $2 for the use of the special sewer commission.

WANT MORE MONEY FOR POLICE "BUNGALOW"

The Councilmanic police board is confronted with a problem in connection with the work of the new police station in East Fourth and Sycamore streets, and just now it is impossible to figure out when it can obtain the extra $1,347.50 required. The work to be done includes the laying of sidewalks on Fourth and Sycamore streets, paving the new police station with artificial stone, installing the necessary drains and making the excavations for cesspool, etc.

The matter came before the Common Council Monday night through a resolution offered by Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the police board, directing Alexander Milne, the contractor on the building, had received a bid of $1,347.50 to do this work, and he moved that the bid be accepted. Why this work was not provided for in the original appropriation of $25,500 no one seems to know at present, the fact remains that it is a necessity and especially before winter sets in and puts a stop to the laying of artificial stone.

As soon as Mr. Randolph presented the matter, Mr. Buxton, chairman of the finance committee, declared: "Happy idea! but where are you going to get the money? You cannot get it out of the general fund, by how are you going to get it?"

Mr. Randolph insisted that the work is a necessity, that the ground about the station are now a mass of hole and unless the walks are laid it will be almost impossible for the patrol wagon to drive in and out.

Mr. Hall hastened to the rescue of Mr. Randolph and attempted to explain how to secure the money. "Why your building cost $17,516," said Mr. Hall, "the extras amounted to $1,000, the land cost $7,000, the architect's fees were $1,000 and this makes $26,516, which with an appropriation of $30,000 gives you enough money."

Just then someone informed Mr. Hall that the appropriation was $25,550, and he suddenly awoke and replied: "Where did I get the idea that it was $30,000?" "Why, you were dreaming," interjected Mr. Mygatt.

"Can't we borrow some money in anticipation of taxes?" was Mr. Montgomery's query. "Why, you can take the money we intended spending for arc lights, transfer them to the general fund and then to the police fund." Mr. Buxton ventured the opinion that this could not be done.

It was Mr. Mygatt's idea that the matter was altogether too important to dispose of in so short a time and he advised less haste. He suggested that the finance committee be given an opportunity to lay the matter over until Friday night, when an adjourned meeting will be held. The resolution offered by Mr. Randolph was referred back to the finance committee and in the meantime the members will see what can be done.

NEW PRIMARY SCHOOL BLDG. TO COST $55,000

Announcement was made at last night's meeting of the Board of Education that steps have been taken to erect a new primary school building in the West End to cost $55,000. The site has already been purchased at a figure said to be $7,500 and the Board of School Estimate will be asked to provide the necessary funds in order that the work of construction may be commenced by early spring. It is hoped to have the building ready for occupancy late in the fall of 1909.

The new building will be located on Dunellen avenue, just east of Clinton avenue. The property was secured from Mrs. Annie D. Thompson after negotiations that have been pending for two years. She inherited it from her father, William H. Tyler, who died a short time ago. The plot has a frontage of 310 feet on Dunellen avenue and extends 750 feet back to Green Brook, making it the largest school site owned by the city.

According to the tentative plans the new school will have eight rooms, four on each of its two stories. There will be an auditorium. Brick will be used in the construction and the building will be made strictly fireproof throughout.

With the new building in use, it will give the West End three primary school, the Irving and the new Washington, a total of three of construction, being the other ones.

UNION CO. COURT OPENS

Justice Bergen Charges Grand Jury and Calls List of Cases for Term.

When the October term of the Union County Courts were opened at Elizabeth, Tuesday, with Justice J. J. Bergen on the bench, the court was thronged with interested spectators, including a large representation of members of the Union County Bar. The address of Judge Bergen was short and very much to the point. He charged the Grand Jury particularly regarding the drowning of a boy at Elizabethport last month, an illegal operation performed on a girl at Summit and in general as to alleged excise violations. He said that other laws are being violated and he charged the jury to thoroughly investigate conditions.

Edward Caldwell, Frank O. Reinhart, Jesse A. Dayton, Charles Drake, George Finger, Floyd D. Fuller, W. J. Johnsin, Fred V. L. Jones, Isaac Shrager, Walter Wikoff, Ralph Young, Charles L. Lewis, John M. Lewis, Arthur McVoy, W. B. Marshant, Samuel H. Morton, John Morton, U. G. Pierson, Cornelius van Herwerden and Stuart H. Whitney.

Edward Caldwell against Central Real Estate Agency, on contract; Reed & Coddington for plaintiffs and Paul Oliver for the defendant; Annie Miller against Annie Miller, administratrix, on contract, G. W. V. Moy for plaintiff and Abe J. David for defendant; Anna M. Matthews against Public Service Corporation, in tort, Codington & Swackhamer for plaintiff and A. A. Clark for defendant; Garret T. Dunham against Public Service Corporation, in tort, G. W. V. Moy for plaintiff and A. A. Clark for defendant; Kussel Sachar against Nathan Sachs, on contract, F. J. Blatz for plaintiff and W. L. Hetfield, Sr., for defendant; George Voehl against Cornelius Smith and others, on contract, Francis J. Blatz for plaintiff and R. S. Terhune for defendant; V. W. Nash, Jr., against W. H. Longstead, on contract, William Newcorn for the plaintiff and Nelson & W. V. Runyon for the defendant.

The following cases are all in tort and seek to recover damages for the drowning of Laura Peterson, colored, and W. H. Gray, of this city, at Boynton Beach last summer: W. G. DeMeza administrator of Laura Peterson, deceased, against Albert B. Boynton, Jr., and Frank A. Kiernan for the plaintiff and Theodore B. Booraem for the defendants; same against Gorham L. Boynton and others; same administrator of W. H. Gray, deceased, against Gorham L. Boynton and others; same, administrator of W. H. Gray, deceased, against Albert B. Boynton and partners.

James Calloway against W. H. Bohl, in tort, Codington & Swackhamer for the plaintiff and F. J. Blatz for the defendant; Mary I. Hewitt against W. D. Martin, on contract, H. K. Gaston for the plaintiff and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.; Alexander Kane against John H. Doane, in tort, F. J. Blatz for the plaintiff and G. W. V. Moy for the defendant.

First Chase of the Season.

The Watchung Hunt Club held its first weekly chase of the season Saturday afternoon, when fifteen members of the club met at 3:30 o'clock at Baker's Tavern and enjoyed a ride of about nine miles through nearby country after the hounds. The hunt was a successful one and there was only one spill, that of Harry Finch, who failed to take one of the jumps. The hounds worked out well and although the scent was good a sudden rain storm put an end to the chase. Wednesday morning the members will start from Oak Tree at 6:15 for a hunt in another direction.

Plainfield Soccer Team Defeated.

The Plainfield Soccer Club was defeated by the New Brunswick eleven at the latter place, Saturday afternoon by a score of 4 to 0. At the end of the first half neither side had scored, but in the first ten minutes of play in the second half, New Brunswick kicked a goal and this was sufficient to win the game, which was considered the best witnessed on the home grounds.

POLITICAL 'PANACEAS' LABELLED SOCIALISTIC

REFORMERS TOO MEDDLESOME.

Tinkering Will Not Cure Ills, He Says in Sermon on "What We Need," Says Rev. Geo. A. Warner, "Is a Policy of Non-Interference.

Having in mind the effect of utterances by certain office-holders and office-seekers in producing an unsettled financial condition in this country and their tendency in blinding the people by golden promises of an ideal era should their promised panaceas be used, Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, preached a powerful sermon Sunday morning. He compared the "meddling" methods of modern reformers with those of Christ and implored the people "to consider well the attitude of Christ towards reforms political and social."

Rev. Mr. Warner's text was "Master speak to my brother that he divide with me my inheritance with me; and Christ said to him: Man, who made me a judge or a divider over thee." His sermon of absorbing interest follows:

"Here are words from the Master's own lips which puzzle and perplex us, and demand something more than surface reading. Did not Christ proclaim and constantly reaffirm that He came as a king, a ruler sent from God and that He should be the great judge of all the world? Surely, this is true and not one but countless readings from the new Testament assert Christ's sovereignty and right to judge. What is right to judge in the moral world may be quite distinct from interference with established political government. We find in Christ a deep reverence and respect for the powers that be; for the government of the world as he found it, not for the moral acts of the men in authority or their examples he had stern condemnation for them, but a deep and abiding respect for law, order and government. Men constantly tried to make Christ into a popular king after the stamp of King Saul and King Solomon, but the very outset we find the prince of evil laying before Him the outward glory of kingdoms of the world and appealing to his imagination of how all might be Christ's to govern, to exercise lordship over all after the fashion of earthly kings, if only He would bow down and serve Satan. It was a dazzling prospect which Christ utterly refused. No great lordship of the kind of Alexander or Napoleon at the sacrifice of a single principle.

"Later in the Saviour's life we find after the exhibition of his tremendous powers and gifts, eager to have him and trying by force to make him a king. We find his respect for constituted authority in the midst of his rightly indignation, when he laid bare the hypocrises and deceits of the Pharisees. "Do ye not after their deeds, their moral acts,' he says, 'but whatsoever they bid you do, that observe and do, for they sit in Moses seat.' Respect you see for constituted authority.

"When the lepers came to him for cleansing, he sent them to the officials who could pronounce upon their cleanliness. 'Go show yourselves unto the priests.' He is careful to pay the tribute money, and we find Him saying render unto Caesar the things that be Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's. Before the Roman governor he disclaims any thought of attempting to overthrow the existing form of government. 'My kingdom,' he says 'is not of this world; if it were, then he says would my soldiers fight.'

"With these assertions before our minds we are ready I think to see in our Lord's actions and words a keen appreciation and reverence for the powers of government as he found them as ordained of God. He came to establish a moral kingdom in the hearts of men which should make them regenerate human society and modify existing conditions not so much by change of government in its outward official aspect and rearranging social conditions, but by working changes in men themselves under the then existing forms of government.

It is noteworthy of careful consideration on our part that confronting Christ was the great problem of human misery rising from inequality of social conditions that exist in much the same form today. The very rich in their opulence, the aristocratic Romans of vast domain and predatory wealth existed, and the poor creditor was in jail; the very rich the very poor whom Christ said we always have with us, and likewise there were the sick, the social outcasts, the man down in his luck, the beggar, the criminal. Has it never struck you then as strange that we hear from Christ, the fore*most reformer of the age, not one* word of suggested political reform, nothing of legislation, no suggested stranke he would deal in remedial operation, no hint of paternal control.

"In the midst of modern reforms and the tinkering with legislation and suggested change of goverment, the golden age of equality is promised, but it behooves Christian people to put their Christianity to a practical test and to consider well the attitude of Christ toward reforms political and social.

"To me, at least, it looks as though the modern reformer had begun at the wrong end of the problem. Beginning at the top and working downward, instead of at the bottom upward. We would tinker with government ownership, interference, legislative acts, municipal control, etc., we would daily with socialism, reduce swollen fortunes, put people on an equality, take competition out of the market and lo the golden age is reached! But government under whatever form, while it may punish and prohibit, cannot control human ingenuity, or put man's passions out; it may make him more deceitful and crafty, but it can't control his greed, his covetousness and the things which are strictly personal and belong to his hidden and moral life which are beyond the observation of men or the power of any man made law to exercise sway over.

"I am conscious of having preached this same truth from the pulpit before, but it remains a truth to be iterated and reiterated especially at a time when socialism with its glitterings but specious arguments is making such headway and presidential aspirants are filling the country with promises of changes of government and reforms by way of interference.

"My dear friends what we need most of all in governmental life today is this very policy of non-interference, a time of rest and recuperation, where a man may judge his business life and relations not by the fear of prohibitive law, but by the fear of God. Men are crying out over the land for a division of the inheritance, 'speak to my brother that he divide the inheritance with me;' and the answer which I respectfully commend to those high in authority is: 'Man who made me a judge or a divider over thee.' When the fear of God, when the moral kingdom of righteousness reigns in the hearts of men, then only will the inheritance be divided justly and equitably. Congressional acts and political suffrage will never do it until we have the spirit of the all of humanitarism but lacking I think in Christianity. We are tinkering, doctoring, meddling, only too often with outward agencies which we are sure are a great panacea for human ills, while as a matter of fact the deep festering and social ills are untouched. We are bettering conditions but too often at the expense of a heart and soul untouched. All sorts of agencies are in existence for leading men and women to go to church. I will have nothing to do with any such.

*"In my round of calls on parish*ioners I make it a rule to get better acquainted with people. I do not ask, neither do I urge them to come to church as much as I long for their presence there; grown men and women have consciences, own opinions and their own God has laid upon them a solemn responsibility for their own lives. I will help wherever I am asked, wanted or desired, but I will not force myself upon, nor try to use a can't phrase to rescue someone who does not want to be rescued according to my methods of rescue. The policy of non-interference is one that is recognized by parents in the children's world, as well as by nations. It might be well for some of the most zealous of us to confine our activities to the sphere where they are demanded and not to mix or meddle where our efforts may arouse only antagonism.

"The Roman Catholic clergy visit almost solely the sick and needy when asked to and their visits are most limited. They lose something I think by it, but they gain much. There is no drumming up of people to go to church, but they are taught from childhood their duty in that respect and their omission is attended with as much sin, like any other sin of omission. When you see them go to church you realize that theirs may be the best method after all.

"I know I shall have flung at me by critics 'go not into the by ways and hedges and compel them to come in' and also to 'go seek and save that which it lost.' But I venture that the going out into the highways and hedges and compulsion may mean something quite different from any such application and the lost are certainly not among the people in a community where Christianity is lived in the houses even if the members don't attend church. It is a much longer question than any such narrow application would limit it to be. In conclusion don't meddle, don't interfere, mind your own business as consistently as you can, the seed which is planted let grow; don't pull it up to see if it has proper roots. To your boy or girl leave a large amount of liberty, don't nag, don't force confidences and leave them free to a part of their life where you can't penetrate and parental control is obnoxious and hurtful, rather lay deep as Christ did, the principles and let them work upward and outward to control the life and thus fit itself to the family environment where it finds itself.

"Christ dealt in great truths and principles which should have sway and dominion over the individual man; governmental panaceas I find no where offered as a solution for human ills.

"I again ask all of you to read a most suggestive article by Hugo Munsteberg in a recent publication, the article being a discussion of temperance in which with sanity and reasonableness the author deals with the principle of non-interference. Again I commend to you in this month's Atlantic Monthly an article entitled: "Education and the Socialistic Movement." It deals sucinitly with the claims of socialism as a panacea for human ills and at a length impossible for me to quote adequately or incorporate into a sermon.

"The non-thinking or the unthinking are forcing upon us the question of interference and to what extent we are our brothers keepers, and we need to remember when one spoke to the judge of all the world asking Him to be the arbiter, that he refused to make any arbitrary ruling, but he declared a great principle instead. 'Take heed and beware of covetousness.'"

HOPE CHAPEL HOLDS DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Hope chapel's congregation held special services morning, afternoon and evening, Sunday, in the joint observance of rally day and Rev. I. R. Howard's seventh anniversary as pastor. The attendance on each occasion was very large while at the Sunday-school session there were 440 scholars present. The singing was a feature through an augmented choir rendering appropriate anthems and a profusion of cut flowers formed the decorations. These were arranged by the flower committee of the Y. P. S. C. E.

At the morning service, Rev. L. R. Howard was in charge and gave the fourth talk of his series on the Christianity of St. Paul, his subject being "Paul's conception of the purpose of the death of Jesus Christ." It was prefaced by a short talk directly to a large number of children who were present. At the close of the sermon, Mr. Howard made reference to his seven years pastorate, dwelling upon what had been accomplished in that time. He expressed the hope that the day would be the starting point for the better, greater and nobler aims for the years to come.

The Sunday-school had charge in the afternoon and in place of the usual lesson, rally day exercises were rendered. Superintendent G. Herbert Condict presided and the program comprised songs, recitations and addresses. Rev. Mr. Howard gave a talk on immigration work at Ellis Island and a special offering was taken for this purpose, the school making a generous contribution. Ad*dresses were made by Rev.* Dr. Zelie of the Crescent Avenue church, and Mr. Condict. Dr. Zelie related a number of experiences he had while abroad the past summer and in closing the Christian Scholars with allusion to the effect that Hope chapel's work in the past twenty years had prospered so greatly because it was founded on faith and belief in Christ Jesus. The recitations and drills were given by members of the beginners' class.

The evening service was in charge of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, the president, Miss Bertha Jones, acting as leader. Most of the time was taken up with a discussion of the topic, "How can the Church deal with the saloon?" As the conclusion, the members united in reading the pledge and renewing their vows of consecration to the service of the Lord. The service was much enjoyed by the large congregation present.

Rally Day at Warren Chapel.

Rally day exercises were held at Warren chapel Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Sunday-school. The chapel was elaborately decorated with flowers and potted plants by the flower committee from the Christian Endeavor Society. A special program was prepared for the occasion, consisting of recitations by children from the Junior department and thirty-minute addresses by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, and Rev. Alexander Irvine, of New York. A feature of the program was a tenor solo by G. Elmer Strickler, formerly of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church quartet. There was an unusually large number of children and teachers in attendance and all thoroughly enjoyed the exercises.

Entertained Friends at Whist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Price, of 57 Sandford avenue, entertained a company of friends, some from out of town, at their home, Saturday evening. Whist was the feature, there being seven tables. Mrs. S. Custer won the first prize for the women and Mrs. Ernest Lowe the second prize. Charles I. Nash received the first prize for the men and A. T. Runyon the second prize. After the play refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed.

FAIR ACRES' FINE MEET

Card at Plainfield Driving Park Proves Exceptionally Interesting.

FOUR EXCITING EVENTS SEEN.

Class "B" and "C" Undecided and Will Be Run-off at an Early Date—Prizes are Given.

The matinee race-meet at the driving park, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Club, attracted a good crowd Saturday afternoon, and all enjoyed the fine sport. There were four events on the program, three trotting and one half-mile running race. In Class A, Lady Onward won handily, taking all three heats in good time. The last heat was made in 2:24. Joe McGregor finished second.

It was impossible to finish the Class B and C events, and these will be run off on Saturday. In Class B, Frank Irving's "Fred V.," finished first in the third and fourth heats, and Otto Ohorn's "Hal Boon," went under the wire first in the second heat, while C. C. Brower's "Oracle," won the first heat.

Three different horses finished first in each of the three heats in the Class C event and this will have to be run off. "Polly Watt" won the half-mile running race, readily, taking both heats. Prizes consisting of harness and whips were awarded the winners in the several events. The summaries:

CALL REV. MR. TOWNSEND

The Church of the Heavenly Rest on Clinton avenue, which was established as a mission at a meeting held in the parlor of a private residence in 1877, held its first service last Sunday as a self-supporting parish, with Rev. Elmer Townsend as rector. Although the members of the parish have been working earnestly for thirty-one years to attain this end, it was largely through the administrations of Mr. Townsend, who was the officiating priest up to the first of June of this year, that it was accomplished.

Prior to his work of last fall to engage in other work in another State, which work he recently undertook, Mr. Townsend realized that the parish work was of such importance and as he had made many friends here, he was prevailed to accept a call as rector which the congregation extended and he accepted.

This action places the parish beyond the jurisdiction of the Associate Mission of Trenton, which has heretofore supplied the ministers for the church. The congregation on Sunday was a large one and extended a hearty welcome to the rector.

On Thursday night a reception will be tendered to him in the parish house. Prior to coming to Plainfield Mr. Townsend was attached to The Associate Mission of Trenton.

Special Musical Service.

A large congregation attended the special musical service held at the Congregational church Sunday night. The program included an instrumental prelude, organ, Mrs. B. T. Burnes; soprano solo, "Come Unto Me," Mrs. Thomas MacDonald; offertory, violin and piano, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson and Miss Mabel Maxson; contralto solo, "Abide With Me," Mrs. Ella Bowden; address, "Three Places for Religion," Rev. C. L. Goodrich; baritone solo, "Jerusalem," Charles L. Lewis.

The West Ends, of Somerville, defeated Beund Brook, at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 2 to 1, in a well-played an exciting contest that was witnessed by 1,200 people. Phil. Smith and Jimmie Montross both pitched fine ball, the home team having a little the advantage. Each team has now won a game and the deciding contest will be played Saturday.

PROMOTE JOHN J. LANE AFTER 33 YRS. SERVICE

John J. Lane, an active figure in Union county Democratic politics for many years, who has been in continuous service of the Lackawanna Railroad for thirty-three years, has been promoted from general division superintendent at Summit to the position of freight agent at the Lackawanna terminal in Hoboken. The position to which Mr. Lane has been assigned, says the Railroad Employe, is one of much responsibility, being considered one of the best and most important in the Lackawanna's freight department on the Morris and Essex Division.

John J. Lane was born in Poughkeepsie in 1865, and moved to Summit in 1870, where he began work for the Lackawanna Railroad, as messenger, October 4, 1875. When only 13 years of age he began as a operator, and worked at various stations as relief operator, and also in the dispatchers office in Hoboken until 1887, when he was appointed agent at Summit. He remained there until September 1, this year, when he was transferred to Hoboken.

ANDY PARSONS BARS SALUTE OF "HELLO, KID"

If what Matthew McNair told Judge Runyon in the city court Monday, is true, folks accustomed to using the familiar address of "Hello, Kid," had better not offer it toward Special Officer Andy Parsons, who is the General Bingham of Cottage place. McNair says he did it simply because he has known the emergency cop so long he thought it would be received in the proper spirit but wasn't, and the resulting argument landed him in the jug.

McNair, who syles himself the "Cottage Place Tiger," probably because he wears service stripes on his sleeve, declared in court that he was holding a friendly conversation with Edward Neil when Parsons passed along. The "Tiger" drew himself up and said, "Hello, Kid," the breezy salutation prevalent among close friends. Somehow or other, it didn't sit right on Andy's shoulders and he told the "Tiger" in a very few words that he did not like it and that he wouldn't stand for such familiarity from a mere citizen and that the proper way to address him was "Mr. Parsons." The fact that Mc Nair was arrested shows how he accepted the ultimatum.

"Parsons was unable to be at court Monda ho Judge Runyon was unwilling to accept the prisoner's story about "Hello, Kid." He released him in his own recognizance until Saturday when an attempt will be made to have special cop's version of the affair.

FOWLER TURNED DOWN.

Trenton City Hall Commission Rejects His Bid for Marble.

Ferdinand W. Roebling, General C. Edward Murray and formed Senator Jonathan Blackwell, members of the Trenton City Hall Commission, have finally signed the contract calling for the erection of that structure by Doak & Co., Philadelphia builders. The commissioners first secured all of the sub-contracts for Trenton material they could be pledged from Doak & Co. that Trenton labor and Trenton material would be given preference in whatever work they might do for themselves.

The commission rejected the bid of Congressman Fowler for marble, and even the part of the contract to a Vermont concern. The new city hall will cost upward of a million dollars, and will be completed in about four years.

TELLS OF INFLUENCE OF BOOKS ON CHARACTER

The fall series of men's meetings was inaugurated at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon, when nearly two hundred men listened to an address of compelling power by Alexander Irvine, on "The Influence of Books on Character." The speaker showed how his own life had been influenced by four great books, "John Halifax, Gentleman," "Adam Bede," "Les Miserables," and chiefly the Bible. He characterized the Bible as God's finger-pointer for man that he may not stumble or go astray.

It was announced that the service on Sunday, October 11, will be addressed by Dr. Harvey G. Furbay, General Secretary of the Industrial Christian Alliance, of New York.

Useful Place.

Freddie—Say, wouldn't you like to have three eyes?

George—Yes.

Freddie—Where'd you have the other eye?

George—I'd have it in the back of my head.

Freddie—You would? I wouldn't.

George Where would you have your other eye?

Freddie—Why, I'd have it in the end of my thumb, so I could poke it through a knothole in the fence and see the ball game for nothin."—The Delineator.

NEW RECTOR OFFICIATES

Rev. Morgan Ashley Takes Charge of Sunday Services at St. Stephen's Church.

ADDRESSES HIS PARISHIONERS.

Rev. A. S. Peck's Successor Formerly of Orange—Twenty-seven Years Old and Unmarried.

Rev. Morgan Ashley, the new rector of St. Stephen's church, officiated at the services Sunday for the first time since he became the successor of Rev. A. S. Peck. He conducted the high celebration and preached the regular sermon at 11 o'clock in the morning, and was greeted by a large congregation. Hereafter the regular services will be held early celebration at 7 o'clock; Sunday-school at 9:45, high celebration and sermon at 11 o'clock, evening service at 7:45.

Mr. Ashley, who is about twenty-seven years old, was formerly of Orange, but recently had charge at Butler. He was a member of Grace church parish, Orange. Prior to his sermon yesterday morning he addressed the congregation in an informal manner, asking for the united support of the members of the parish which he felt sure would help him form a successful pastorate. The new rector then delivered a strong sermon, in a most earnest manner. He speaks extempore, possesses a pleasing and distinct voice. His remarks were well received by all who heard him.

Mr. Ashley is unmarried and will take up his residence at once at the parish house. Within a few days he will complete his plans for the fall and winter work.

COLORED MAN RESCUED FROM DANGEROUS POSITION.

A local colored man whose name is said to be Scott Gibson, narrowly escaped serious injury, if not death, while gathering chestnuts on lower Grant avenue, near the Watchung Hunt Club grounds, Saturday. While high up in a tree, he lost his hold and fell down but was caught by the feet in a crutch branch when near the ground. He was held fast despite frantic efforts to free himself and was in an exhausted condition when his cries were heard by Andrew McDowell, an employe at the Hunt club.

With the aid of a rake, McDowell was enabled to get Gibson in an upright position and eventually to release himself. As soon as the hold was loosened, the colored man dropped to the ground in an exhausted condition. But for McDowell's timely arrival, it is probable that he would have fared badly by the rush of blood to the head.

MISS ELLA HEDDEN, BRIDE OF ROBERT E. CROSSON.

Miss Ella Hedden, daughter of Mrs. Albert Hedden, of West Fifth street, and Robert E. Crosson, of West Fourth street, were quietly married at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's mother, by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church. The affair was attended only by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, owing to the recent death of the former's father, Albert Hedden.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Crosson left for a short wedding trip. They will return the latter part of the week and make their home at 122 West Fifth street. Both the bride and groom are well-known here where they have a host of friends. Mr. Crosson is engaged in business in New York as an electrotyper.

Civil Service Examination.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Money is the sugar that sweetens matrimony.

Most lazy men blame it on a lack of opportunities.

After acquiring a business of your own learn to attend to it.

A mirror, unlike some people, never forces its reflections upon us.

It's the unexpected that happens when a man makes a fool of himself.

Few people are capable of appreciating a great work of art or a great man.

If a man doesn't flatter a woman she imagines that it is because he doesn't understand her.

How a man does dislike to meet people who persist in recalling incidents that he is anxious to forget!

Once in a great while a woman can succeed in reforming a man, provided she doesn't let him know she is trying.

At last we have discovered the difference. The clothes of a stylish man are shaped to him; while a stylish woman is shaped to her clothes.—Chicago News.

VALUE OF GOOD WATER.

People not infrequently come home from a summer vacation if not with typhoid at least with bad malaria or stomach disorders.

This is often caused by impure water and it is well, especially in going into the country where wells are used, to know a few simple tests by which the condition of the water can be told.

About the simplest is one that is well known, called the Hirsch test. Buy a pint bottle of clear glass, preferably with a glass stopper. Fill it two-thirds full with water to which is added a half teaspoonful of granulated sugar.

Cork the bottle tightly and stand in the light in a warm room for forty-eight hours. If at the end of that time the water is cloudy or milky looking it is unfit for use.

Yawning and Exercise.

The next time a bore drives you to yawns, instead of biting your lips off or carefully adorning your face with your hand, cease to be apologetic and say boldly: "I am practising the new nerve cure!"

Formerly we thought we yawned because of nerves; now we yawn to cure them. Rudely stretch and yawn for fifteen minutes at a time, it will empty your brain, rest your body and is generally relaxing.

Raising both arms while you open your mouth is the approved method of taking this latest nerve rest.

A Gentle Hint.

"Are you 'Boots?'" blustered the big Londoner in the American hotel.

"Nope," replied the bellboy, "They call be 'Scales.'"

The Londoner seemed mystified.

"Scales, eh? That's a blooming queer name. What do they call you 'Scales' for?"

"Because I get tipped so often. That's the 'reason, boss."—Chicago New.

An Unequal Load.

Little brother Bob solved the problem with, "Naw, he ain't loaded even. He's got more flapjacks down on one side than on the other."—The Delineator.

THEFT THAT HE COULDN'T DENY.

Story of Boyhood Days That Came Out in Court.

The attorney for the defense looked keenly at the witness who was testifying for the prosecution. "Your name, if I understand you correctly," he said, "is Horace Hinsey. Is that right?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you ever live at Nashua?"

"Yes, sir."

"And in Wilmington before that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Mr. Hinsey, have you ever been arrested on a criminal charge?"

"No, sir!" indignantly answered the witness. "Never!"

"Did you ever commit an offense for which you might have been arrested?"

"Never, sir."

"Sir. Hinsey, is it not a fact that you once stole from your own father?"

Here the attorney for the prosecution interrupted, but the witness chose to answer.

"No, sir!" he exclaimed. "Never in my life!"

"Now, Mr. Hinsey," said the lawyer, "suppose I should tell you that I know of a case when you did steal from your father."

Instantly the witness' brow cleared. "Gentlemen," he said, turning to the jury, "he's right. I remember now. When I was about eight years old I stole half a dozen eggs from my father's grocery store, took them down under the bank of the creek, cooked them and helped eat them. This lawyer, who was a boy then, not only helped me steal those eggs, but put me up to stealing them. How are you, Jim?"

The Judge and jury joined in the laugh that followed and the rest of the examination was conducted on more friendly lines.—Youth's Companion.

WAS THE BURGLAR'S UNDOING.

Marauder Stepped on Squeaky Board, and the Rest Was Easy.

At the top of the stairway in the Grigson dwelling there was a board that emitted a loud creak whenever anybody stepped on it. Mr. Grigson was always intending to "have the thing fixed," but never did it, and by common consent the members of the family usually stepped over it, particularly when the head of the family had gone to bed.

One night, very late, just as Mr. Grigson was dropping off to sleep, somebody stepped on that board, and it gave forth its customary loud protest.

"There you go again!" he angrily called out. "That's you this time, John! Pretty time of night for you to be getting to bed!"

John, the eldest son, made no response, but instead there was a rush and a jump down the stairs that brought the whole household into the hall just in time to hear the front door slam. A hurried investigation disclosed a bag of valuables which a frightened burglar had left.

The board still squeaks.—Youth's Companion.

A True Story.

"On my travels in Venezuela," said a New York man, "I stayed in a hotel with a young man in whose family there was the taint of leprosy, though he apparently did not have it. One night sitting at dinner he became angry at a waiter and brought his hand down on the table with full force. He instantly realized that he did not feel the blow, and sat looking at his hand, his face whitening with horror. 'Give me your knife, Bob,' he said to his chum. He grabbed the pocket knife in a frenzy and stabbed the side of his hand with vicious cuts from finger tip to wrist. You may not know that leprosy appears in the side of the hand, numbness being a sign. The man did not feel the cuts. He arose from the table, knocking over his chair, rushed out into the courtyard of the hotel, and we heard the quick tang of a revolver shot, telling us how he had conquered the leper's curse by ending his life."

Got His Sizes Mixed.

"Aye, fellow citizens!" thundered the orator, shaking his hairy fist at the zenith; "peace and prosperity will come again to our beloved land when with a firm purpose we rise in our might and crush the trust microbe—"

"Microbe!" interrupted a spectacled man with an expansive forehead. "I beg pardon, but did you not refer to it a few moments ago as a boa constrictor?"

A husky bouncer fired the rude person bodily out of the hall, and the eloquent orator resumed his speech.

A Watch Tip.

"So you lost your watch in the crush on the Atlantic City boardwalk, eh?" the detective sneered. "Well, I'm ashamed of you. You ought to know, after your long friendship with me, that there's only one safe way for a man to carry a costly watch—in the right-hand vest pocket, with the chain running into the right and left pocket both. The thief always snatches at the left pocket, and, of course, by my system, he gets only a key or a cheap compass."

To All Intents.

"Housekeeping is a science, and I can prove it," said the man who makes his living compiling facts. Read this in the abridged dictionary:

"Menage: Housekeeping; household affairs and administration; domestic economy; training of animals, as of horses; a collection of animals for exhibition; a menagerie."

LIBRARIAN SPOFFORD AND HIS WONDERFUL MEMORY.

I read in the Herald, the other day an account of the wonderful memory of the late Ainsworth R. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress. May I add to this article, writes a correspondent to the Boston Herald, an experience of my own with this remarkable man?

About twenty years ago, after the death of my father, the Rev. Richard Newton, D. D., I had occasion to go to Washington to get a list of the title pages of his twelve volumes for a copyright for a new edition of his works. Going to the Congression Library I discovered Mr. Spofford sitting among some decayed volumes, mending the covers with mucilage and a large glue pot. He looked like Hans Sacks in Wagner's famous opera. Telling him my errand, he remarked, "Which one of Dr. Newton's boys are you, R. Heber or William Wilberforce?" I told him who I was and then inquired where I could find the twelve volumes whose title pages I had come to verify.

"Do you see that spiral staircase over yonder?" inquired Mr. Spofford, I said "Yes, sir." "Well," he replied "go up two flights on that staircase; go to the end bookshelf against the wall on your left; go all the way down the alley; go to the thirteenth shelf from the floor, and of the thirty volume from the shelf's end where the window is you will find all your father's books, beginning with 'Hills from the Fountain of Life.'"

I put those items down on paper, thinking the librarian was having a little fun at my expense. Going to the place indicated in my table of directions, however, I discovered the twelve volumes just at the spot marked on my card. I never came across a human being with such a memory. He was like a mechanical calculating machine.

SOME GEMS FROM THE SCHOOLS OF BOMBAY.

The art of producing examination "howlers" is one of those which the Oriental has learned without difficulty. A paper on "Unconscious Humor," published in a Bombay magazine, gives a few perpetrated by candidates in the Bombay matriculation examination of 1906. Here are one or two:

Chicken is the diminutive of child. Vixen is Old English was the plural of fox, now it is used for an unmarried woman.

The termination—en in oxen shows that a man has passed his certain examination of the University of Oxford.

There is a society called the Theosophic Society which takes the prominent part to protect the public from eating the flesh.

The cow is considered by Hindus as a divine.

When a calf becomes old it becomes a bull.

The horse is a kind of noble animal. Its chight is about four or five or six inches.

The spaniel is used for saving person who have been drowned at sea.

Human intellect is such a powerful agent that it can turn a mountain into a mole.

Napoleon succeeded to get the throne of Scotland by perseverance.

In ancient times the Spaniards were very perseverious.

Perseverance lessens if not diminishes a man's difficulties.

Perseverance is the state of mind which calmly succumbs to difficulty.

WHAT ONE WOMAN DID.

A group of mothers were lamenting about the carelessness of children and men in eating, and the grain these hard times of big laundry bills.

"My family scarcely spot the cloth any more," laughted one of the mothers. "They find it too expensive! I used to have a tablecloth a day in the wash and then could scarcely keep them respectable looking.

"The laundry bills were huge, as my one girl could not possibly do them at home, and the wear and tear on the linen was as bad.

"Finally I hit on the plan of making each member who made a spot cover it with money, pennies for the children from their own allowance and silver for the grownups.

"We voted what to do with the money. I was for the hospital, but the preacher got me devoted to something for the table, so we started a fund to buy new table linen and china. For the first month or so we had a flourishing bank, but now all have grown so careful that our fund grows slowly."

The Bird on Nellie's Hat.

It is to be hoped that for the moment at least, we are getting away from the odious fashion of decorating our persons with dead bodies, eyes and claws complete, the death agony being the only thing left to the imagination, says a humane woman. I remember distinctly a few months ago being completely put out of countenance for a whole hour by the misery and somewhat ironic stare of a large parrot on the hat of a lady sitting immediately before me. There was something so personal in it as to make it an unpleasant recollection.

If you would stand in public grace
Be careful not to toy with fate
And think how slippery is the place
That Standard Oil doth lubricate.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 11, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Commending our society.—II. Tim. i:6. By diligent committee work.—Rom. xii, 1-11.

A distinctive phase of Christian Endeavor since its origin has been committee work. Thousands of societies have commended themselves to God, to their church and to the community by their aggressive Christian work. What have the Christian Endeavor committees not done? Prayer meetings have been held in homes, in hospitals, in jails and in prisons. Sailors have been provided with thousands of "comfort bags," which have been indeed a comfort to them. Churches have been provided with flowers. Tracts have been distributed among the sick or carried to hospitals. The "shut ins" have been visited, read to and prayed for, and, above all, many souls have been led into the kingdom of God. Home and foreign missions have been substantially supported. From the small corner in a flower to the salvation of a soul there is scarcely no Christian work that the Christian Endeavor society has not engaged in and in so doing has commended itself by its good works. It has been known by its fruits, and this was one of the principal elements in its worldwide spread and usefulness.

But the day of committee work is not over. No society can exist long without active committee work. If we knew the inner history of many dying societies, we would probably learn that the beginning of the end was the failure of the committees to do their work. Let the prayer meeting committee begin to neglect its work, and the prayer meeting soon loses its power and the society begins to die. Let the social committee neglect its duty, and the new members are soon missed and the older ones show lack of interest. Let the missionary committee grow cold, and the society follows its example and soon becomes selfish and self interested alone. It is easy to see the importance of committee work and the grave danger attending its neglect. Moreover, this neglect is noticeable in many societies, with the result that such societies are losing instead of gaining ground.

Let us get back to old principles. It will help the best societies and rejuvenate the declining ones. (1) Consecrate yourselves to God in service. Such a consecration will make you find joy in doing your work. (2) Let all inspiration will be so helpful. (2) Let all the members of a committee attend its meetings and engage in its work. The chairman is not the committee, only its leader, and yet the work is often left to him alone? (3) Let the society demand written reports of committee work. It will not be so easy to neglect it if written reports are the order. To write we must do something, and hence such reports are a spur to activity. (4) God's spirit has endowed us with different gifts. Whether great or small, we should do what we can do best and not remain inactive because the work of another is not given to us. Committees, be "at it, all at it and always at it," and you will highly commend your society. Much depends upon you. Will you do it?

BIBLE READINGS.

Best Society For Young People.

Christian Endeavor is the best society for young people, says Stanley P. Edwards of London, England, because:

First—Its weekly meetings, being essentially religious, conduce to the maintaining and raising of the spiritual life of its members.

Third—Its pledge conduces to preparation for and participation in the weekly meeting, which is the part of every member helping Christian confession, expression and impression.

Fourth—The consecration meetings ascertain month by month the spiritual level of each member, and enable and stimulate the society to maintain the standing of each member.

Fifth—Its system of committee work provides the most systematic opportunity of training each of the young people in the church in some definite field of Christian service.

Sixth—Its system of committee work constantly maintains and develops the organized forces of the young people in the church readily at the church's disposal for any special service.

Seventh—No other society so much emphasizes the fact that the young people's society exists for the benefit and the church.

Eighth—Its weekly prayer meeting topics are selected by international experts are published with daily Bible readings in convenient form and are dealt with each week by many religious papers.

Ninth—The association of kindred societies in a local Christian Endeavor union furnishes a platform on which the united members are an inspiration to the members and the schools of methods help to disseminate the best methods for the benefit of the local church.

Tenth—County, state and national conventions are the most inspiring spiritual and practical impetus to all who attend and to the societies from which they come.

Christians Getting Together.

To me one of the chief values of Christian Endeavor, among many others rich and great, has been its spiritual fellowship. Its introduction of Christians of various names to each other and to the deeper and gladder appreciation of our common Saviour and Lord has been an inestimable boon. I am sure this gracious boon will go on brightening and blessing in the coming years.—Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., LL. D.

Up to Konga.

A thousand miles up the Kongo there is a Christian Endeavor society, the members of which were converted six years ago. Recently they sent a message to the British Endeavorers, they said, "Tell them to send more teachers."

HAD TO BE MORE EXPLICIT.

"Dear Grandpa" Conveyed Little to Post Office Officials.

A member of the Yale basketball team which played here a night or two ago received a check—a present in three figures—from his grandfather who lives in a New Jersey town. The check, as a matter of fact, was a fake prepared by William L. Lush, the Yale coach, formerly left fielder on the Cleveland baseball team, who was here with the team. But fake or no fake the recipient of the check got mighty excited.

He raced right across the Hollenden lobby to the telegraph desk, the minute he saw the size of the check, and wrote out a telegram as follows: "Dear Grandpa, ——, New Jersey. Thanks very much for check. This is a receipt. Your grandson." He wrote it that way.

Then he hustled into the writing room to thank grandpa more fully by letter.

While he was preparing the letter a bellboy brought him back his telegram, along with the 30 cents—he had to send it—30 in pennies—and this was written across the message: "Can't find anybody named dear grandpa." Then the Yale boy came to.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WHY BE CRABBED ABOUT AGE?

One Instance, at Least, in Which It Brought No Good.

At the dinner that the Chicago Press club gave in Edward Payson Weston's honor, the veteran pedestrian said of old age:

"Age is no crime, but you would think so from the way some people try to conceal it. We can give the lie to age by being gay, vigorous, bouyant, and it is foolish of us to resent our burden of years in any other manner.

"The aged Ben Davies of St. Joseph resented his years in a foolish, crusty, surly way.

"'Hello, old man Davies!' an elderly St. Joseph lawyer said to him one morning.

"'Old!' Davies snarled. 'Old, hey? Well, how about yourself? I'm no older than you are. What's your earliest recollection?'

"The lawyer grinned at old man Davies and replied:

"'Well, let me see. Yes, I think that's it. My earliest recollection is hearing folks say: 'There goes old man Davies.'"

Messenger Pigeons.

In taking its observations the messenger pigeon rises to the height varying between 200 and 700 feet, according to the climatic or other local conditions that, whether the height be 200 or 700 feet, the pigeon flies in a series of circles, but always returns to a central position immediately above the spot from which it has been released. As soon as it has accurately determined the direction it flies off for home. The speed varies according to atmospheric conditions. With a strong wind behind them, they will fly at a velocity of 1,500 or 1,600 yards a minute.

Every Canadian a Villager.

Perhaps every Canadian does not know that he is a "villager," says the London News. For the country owes its name to a curious misconception on the part of M. Jacques Cartier, who is credited with the discovery of the St. Lawrence. He could make but little out of the conversation of the natives, and, hearing them frequently use the word "Kanata," their name for a village, he fell into the mistake of supposing that it was the name of their country. Thus, in more than one sense, has Canada grown from a little village to a great state.

An Unlucky Coin.

"The quarter-dollar," said a numismatist, "should be a very unlucky coin. It is nothing but one mass of thirteens. There are 13 stars on it. There are 13 letters in the scroll that the eagle holds in its claws, there are 13 feathers in the eagle's tail, and there are 13 feathers in its wing. On the shield there are 13 parallel lines, 13 horizontal stripes and 13 arrowheads. Finally, in the word 'quarter-dollar' there are just 13 letters."

Look Under Foot.

The lesson which life repeats and constantly enforces is to look "under foot." You are always nearer the divine and the true sources of power than you think. The lure of the distant and the difficult is deceptive. The great opportunity is where you are. Do not despise your own place. Do not hope for more to go to the bijou tonight I'll let you keep every cent of that dollar."

"General," said the boy, his eyes bulging out of their sockets, "I'll do it; shuah, general, or give you all dat money back."—N. Y. Times.

Fewer Women Than Men Color Blind.

The physician continued his experiments with the testing machine.

"You," he said, "can't tell green from blue, or the reverse, effective, sir. But you are not absolutely color blind. Absolutely color blind persons are very, very rare. I have met but one. He couldn't tell red from yellow or yellow from blue.

"Why do men's eyes less reliable than women's as regards colors? Some say it is the tobacco smoke that dulls and weakens them. I have noticed that non-smokers have a somewhat sharper vision."

But Yet a Man!

"I suppose I have about the most thoughtful, kind and considerate husband in the world," she was saying, sadly. "When he comes home at about two of the morning, turns all the lights on and wakes me out of a sound sleep, he always says in the most polite way imaginable:

Australian Rolling Stones.

Round gray stones which are real rolling stones are plentiful in Australia. They are of no value save as curiosities. When laid on a table these stones begin to quiver. Then they begin to roll, first with a slow, then with an faster pace toward the table's center. In a few minutes they will all be together in a tight bunch. The magnetic iron ore which they contain accounts for their motions.

On the Wrong Wire.

An uptown doctor who is noted for incisiveness of language was sitting in his office the other day when the telephone bell rang.

"Hello," answered the doctor.

"Hello," came a voice, "Is this the undertaker's?"

"No," replied the doctor, "you've missed it a little," and hung up the phone.

HAPPY DESPITE THEIR POVERTY.

Residents of Sunny Naples Seem Never to Repine.

It is estimated that a quarter of a million people in Naples live from hand to mouth, and there are hundreds of children who subsist out of the garbage boxes, and who sleep in churches and on doorsteps.

The taxes in Italy to provide warships and to keep the nation on a war footing with the other powers are really stupendous. There is a tax on everything, says the Delineator—grain in the field, fruit on the vine, old bottles. Fuel and foodstuffs are very dear—only labor is cheap. For the very poor, meat is a luxury unheard of and even macaroni is too dear to be indulged in often. There are any number of perambulating street kitchens, where various kinds of soup, cakes and fruits are sold in portions costing one cent. Here the people seem very happy. Bands of musicians are always playing in the streets; the guitar and the mandolin are to be heard everywhere—on the boats, in the hotels—and the stranger is lulled to sleep by a soft serenade under his balcony.

The story teller thrives in Naples, as there are so many idlers there. He collects a little crowd around him and proceeds in the most dramatic way, gesticulating wildly and working his face into the most excruciating expressions, to relate stories of adventure or other events, much to the edification of his hearers, who, to show their appreciation, are often bedarred from giving a sou which might have been better spent for bread or polenta.

The public letter writer is another street dignitary of importance, and in great demand, especially with timid and bashful knights of all work, who have themselves neglected to learn the art of writing. Of such the public letter writer holds all the secrets of their loves and is often their adviser as well as amanuensis.

RISING IN BOY'S ESTIMATION.

Drummer's Gifts Caused Rapid Advancement in Titles.

Titles have their value in the south. "Here, boy!" said the drummer as he handed a dollar bill to the bellboy at the hotel in Atlanta, "take a dime out of this for bringing us that ice water."

"Yes, cap'n," answered the boy as he saluted.

"And, by the way, boy," continued the drummer, "if you will go down and get me more letter paper you may keep a quarter out of that dollar."

"Right away, majah; right away! I'll shuah bring you that ah stashn'ery," replied the boy, as he bowed low.

"And, while I think of it, boy," remarked the knight of the grip, "if you can bring out my trousers and have them pressed and back here inside of an hour you can keep a half dollar of that dollar."

"Ah suttinly can do dat ah same, colonel—deed ah kin!" quickly replied the youth as he turned to go toward the door.

"Wait a minute now, boy," Mr. Samples said as he walked over to his trunk, "if you can take out this suit and have it pressed and back here by one hour you can keep the Bijou tonight I'll let you keep every cent of that dollar."

"General," said the boy, his eyes bulging out of their sockets, "I'll do dat shuah, general, or give you all dat money back."—N. Y. Times.

AND IT'S SUCH A LITTLE THING, TOO!

Mr. Loggins made a wild dash for an up-town subway express and missed it by the tenth of an inch. Then he walked back to the center of the platform and stopped.

"I've forgotten something," he muttered. "I know I've forgotten something."

Now, Mr. Loggins' arms and pockets were so filled with bundles that it seemed utterly ridiculous for him to say he had forgotten anything.

"Yes," he continued; "I have forgotten something. But what is thunder it is I can't make out. It's not Susan's ribbons, for that's in my upper vest pocket; it's not Ann's tooth paste, for that's in my lower vest pocket; and it's not Bobbie's collars, for I'm sure I stuffed them in my hat. Now, what in the dickens can it be? It can't be the stove polish, or the picture wire, or the bird seed, or the sample package of Peeled Wheat, or the toothpicks, for they're in this bundle; and it can't be the carpet tacks, or the spool of No. 40 cotton, or the bottle of basting ink, or the colored post cards, for they're all in that bundle. Maybe it's—Yes, by heavens, that's it! I've forgotten to buy the piano!"—J. P. Rome, in Judge.

The Weight of Years.

"A woman," remarked the observer of things and events, "doesn't begin to feel the weight of years until she discovers her first gray hair."

"And a man," rejoined the Strong-minded female, "begins to feel the weight of them on his twenty-first birthday, and it takes about 18 years for it to wear off."—Chicago Daily News.

Why Not?

Tommie was having his hair cut, and the barber got the shears pretty close to the boy's head, so Tommie began to cry.

"Oh, do, Tommie!" said his mother; "you don't cry when I'm cutting you a piece of pie!"

"Well, I do if you cut it too short!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Sign of Trouble.

"I'm afraid I'm going to lose our hired girl."

"What makes you think so?"

"I heard her telephoning to her beau and she said she expected to spend the summer at Newport. I wish to goodness those hotel men would hire their dining-room girls elsewhere."—Detroit Free Press.

SEND IN "CONSCIENCE MONEY."

Londoners Make Amends for Faults in Many Queer Ways.

"Conscience money" advertisements are published from time to time in the London papers, acknowledging receipt by the chancellor of the exchequer of various sums from anonymous people who have evaded taxation and later repented of cheating their country.

A remarkable instance of this was the published acknowledgment of $1,800 in gold from "X X X." The bullion was sent by registered post to the treasury, where it was suspected of being a bomb or infernal machine, but it proved to be a tin box containing 360 sovereigns neatly packed, with a note signed "X X X" stating that the coin was "conscience money," and asking for an acknowledgment in the newspaper.

Five thousand dollars was the largest amount ever received by the treasury as "conscience money." Perhaps the queerest form of sending "conscience money" was that adopted by one conscience-stricken taxpayer, who sent 100 sovereigns, each neatly wrapped in paper and inserted in one of the 100 round holes made in a tablet of wood. The offering was inclosed in a large envelope, which a secretary of the treasury found on his desk one morning.

DISTANCES SEEM TO SHORTEN.

Thing That Struck New Yorker on His Latest Visit to Old Home.

"The thing that struck me this time," said a New Yorker who had just returned to the town in which he was born, "was the shortness of the distances in the old place.

"I remember that when I first used to go back the buildings there that had seemed big to me in my youth grad-ually grew small, but this time the distance had dwindled remarkably, too.

"The railroad station there is on the edge of the town and you take a street car to ride to the business center. That used to seem to me to be quite a ride; but this time we got there before I knew it.

"'What!' I said, 'you don't mean we've got to Blank street?'

"'Yes, here we are,' said the old home friend, and so we were.

"I suppose the distances were shrinking now, as the buildings had already done; and friendly and pleasant as the old town seemed—and it's steadily growing, too, and is a bigger place than ever—still it seemed smaller and smaller to me when I came later and my fixed impressions were of the big buildings and the big distances of the big town of New York."

Nervousness.

Nervousness is often due to some poison formed in the blood by the decomposition of undigested food—in other words, often arises primarily from indigestion.

Nervousness when due to this cause may sometimes continue through many years without causing dangerous conditions. On the other hand nervous disturbances due to this auto-intoxication or self-poisoning may be immediately fatal.

Many people, however, suffer from "nervous indigestion," as they call it, for 20 years or more without fatal termination. In these cases there is of course a gradual weakening of the general system which predisposes to many diseases, and death is always premature, usually being traceable to what is called "heart failure."—Health Culture.

Casting Out the Devils.

It seems to be necessary for the human body to exhale the poisonous constituents of the blood. A big, stout pair of lungs trained to do their duty will stave off a multitude of diseases by blowing them into the air. Diseases vanish in carbonic acid (carbon dioxide, or death), and it is interesting to know how much of this is exhaled in the course of certain exercises. In a healthy sleep you exhale about six-tenths of an ounce an hour; in walking at the rate of two miles an hour, 2 ounces; dancing three miles an hour, 3 ounces; horseback riding, 4 ounces; swimming, 4.4 ounces; working a treadmill, 5½ ounces.

The Best He Knew.

Gladstone, a Jamaica negro, was assistant to a district physician in the canal zone, and being rather poor in his Latin, the bottles had been numbered for his benefit. One day a Spanish laborer came in for medicine, and the doctor told his worthy assistant to give him two pills out of No. 6. After he had gone the doctor asked:

"Gladstone, did you give the man a dose of No. 6?"

"Oh, no, sah, doctor; numbah six war finished, so I just give him one pill out of numbah foah and one out of numbah two."—Lippincott's.

All Wish to Live Happily.

All men, Brother Gallio, wish to live happily, but are dull at perceiving exactly what it is that makes life happy; and so far is it from being easy to attain to happiness that the eagerly a man struggles to reach it the farther he departs from it, if he takes the wrong road; for since this leads in the opposite direction, his very swiftness carries him all the farther away.—Seneca.

The Donator.

"Why don't you do something for literature?" asked Mr. Strius Barker.

"I have helped to put up some of the finest library buildings in the country," answered Mr. Dustin Stax.

"That's architecture; not literature."

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

The truest test of the love of God is found in a genuine affection for our neighbor.—Cardinal Gibbons, Roman Catholic, Baltimore.

The Way to Wisdom.

A man is a fool until he has learned the enthusiasm of routine. Then he's on the way to wisdom.—Rev. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

Fellowship the Keynote.

Fellowship is heaven and lack of fellowship is hell. I bid you dwell not in hell, but in heaven upon earth, which of heaven is no small part.—Rev. Rirby S. Miller, Unitarian, Duluth, Minn.

Power of Faith.

Weakness of character, the gravest defects in religious life and even in morality are overcome as a result of faith in the resurrected Christ.—Rev. Dr. S. S. Roche, Episcopalian, Brooklyn.

Effect of Conscience.

If a bad conscience makes cowards of us all, by the same token a good conscience nerves the heart and strengthens us like a girdle about our loins.—Rev. D. J. Burrell, Unitarian, New York.

Unique Religion.

The Christian religion is absolutely unique in the idea of a God going out after sinners. Other religions have good points, but none has anything to compare with this.—Rev. C. A. Barbour, Baptist, Rochester, N. Y.

Delightful Occupation.

Godhood is hidden in the hardest heart. One of the most delightful occupations is opening up the better nature in a seemingly bad human being and giving it a chance to thrive.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Riches.

There are other riches than money. The mind has its riches of thought which always will command friends. There are riches of the heart which attract followers and lovers, and there are riches of genius which always compel the admiration and applaudits of the world.—Rev. C. B. Mitchell, Methodist, Cleveland.

A Great Need.

Heaven needs a house of prayer through which to transmit its power to humanity. The church needs a house of prayer through which to receive its inspiration and renew its strength. The world needs a house of prayer where it can escape sin and worldliness and find rest and peace and safety.—Rev. F. E. Jenkins, Congregationalist, Atlanta, Ga.

Development of Spiritual Nature.

In order to develop the resources of the spiritual nature, that nature through which man communes with God and through which he realizes the divine presence, he must lean not to his own understanding, but trust in the Lord. A man may be moral, and not religious; but he cannot be religious, in the true sense, without being moral.—Rev. E. B. Randle, Methodist, St. Louis.

True Salvation.

Practical salvation, saving men and women from sinning here and now, is what Jesus Christ preached and illustrated from the fortune of the cross and lived and died to bring to mankind. Come to Jesus, follow Him and in the grand word of Isaiah, "Cease to do and learn to do well!" That is the true salvation for time and eternity.—Rev. Rush R. Shippen, Unitarian, Atlanta, Ga.

Aspirations.

Character is not an attainment, but a growth. There is more hope in self reproach than in self complacency. Jesus despaired of no man. If our aspirations are noble and pure, we come not from our past, but from what we hope to be. There is no night so dark as that of the heart that sees no nobler life for itself. The soul that has no true ideals has suicided. Aspirations are heavenly calls.—Rev. Dr. W. C. Bitting, Baptist, St. Louis.

Humiliating Warfare.

The stamp of unfairness seems to run through into the spiritual world. Perhaps it is even more marked there. Two young men start out to lead a spiritual life with equal zeal and energy. Both are honest, but one is naturally spiritual. All his thoughts, life, actions, passions, are under perfect control. Apparently he never has an evil thought. But the other is hounded day and night by the demon of impurity. It is a hard, humiliating warfare.—Rev. F. W. Burgess, Episcopalian, Garden City, N. J.

Christ's Faith.

Faith merely in the sense of believing doctrines about him must inevitably accompany matters. But in this home missionary manner go into the dark closet with his dress coat, while the real man gets photographed and his principles published. Guests and children do not fail to find him out and read him as he is.—Rev. Rush R. Shippen, Unitarian, Atlanta, Ga.

What Christianity Is.

The essential doctrine of Christianity is that God will help men to be righteous if they will accept him. Christianity is help to the wrongdoer. The doctrine that there are three persons in one God is no essential part of Christianity. What is essential is that we worship no longer at the altar of an unknown God. Paganism had said, "God is righteous, and he hates righteousness of his children, and cast it all." The doctrine of Christ is, "God not only demands righteousness, but will help his children to be righteous." The message of Christianity is the message of spring to the earth. It is the message of the waters pouring down from the mountains to the desert plains. It is life.—Rev. Dr. Egman Abbott, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

Real love is not the feeling that seeks to receive pleasure, but that which seeks to give pleasure.—Rev. Dr. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

Spark of Godhood.

There is a spark of Godhood left in every body. The meanest man on earth has a divine spot in him.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Chief Clerical Function.

The chief function of the preacher should be to set forth the spiritual food, of which the Bible contains such exhaustless abundance.—Rev. R. F. Hustert, Methodist, Burlington, Ia.

No Use For Grossness.

Refinement turns away from grossness, but does not indulge in unmanly or unmannerly triumph over it.—Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters, Baptist, New York.

Surface Religion.

Too much of our religion is on the surface. We do not dig deep enough. We are satisfied with a mud hut when we might have a palace.—Gypsy Smith, English Evangelist.

What Truth Will Do.

Truth will enable us to take off the corruptible and put on the incorruptible, make us free and put a new song in our mouths.—Rev. J. H. Accore, Methodist, Boston.

Beware of Fault Finding.

Healthy criticism is one thing, but ceaseless fault finding and a fiendish delight to find evil everywhere and heeds lawlessness is another thing.—Rev. G. B. Vosburgh, Baptist, Denver.

Love In the Home.

Blessed is the home that is established on the basis of love, and no home can be a home, however attractive for comfortable and abundant its material environment, where love is not the regnant principle, the unifying bond.—Rev. William C. Stimson, Reformed, New York.

Unity of Nations.

We are recognizing today as never before perhaps that we are members one of another and debtors one to another; that neither languages nor customs, widely as they may vary, interfere with the strange oneness of the community of nations.—Rev. K. B. Tupper, Baptist, Philadelphia.

Love.

Love is supposed to be a very simple, garden thing; as a matter of fact it is so hard to attain that few have the courage to try it; so slow of growth that few persevere to learn it, and so rare that few even know what it is when they see it.—Rev. Dr. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

The Ministry of Pain.

Christ teaches the race that pain has a ministry. Men often come through pain as a means of promotion to higher spiritual attainments, even as Joseph passed through a prison on the way to promotion. Pain teaches men the evanescence of this world.—Rev. L. C. Smither, Disciple, Los Angeles, Cal.

Where There Is No Scheming.

Heaven is fixed, stable, immutable. It is safe. If a treasure or fortune is accumulated there, that fortune or treasure is safe always. On earth there is always scheming individual and in the grand word of Isaiah, "Cease to do and learn to do well!" That is the true salvation for time and eternity.—Rev. Rush R. Shippen, Unitarian, Atlanta, Ga.

EUROPE FAVORS BRYAN

Senator Ackerman Says Idle Workmen over the Sea Hope for Free Trade Here.

New Jersey is essentially an industrial state, and the many thousands of artisans who have enjoyed prosperity under Republican rule are beginning to realize what Bryan's election would mean to them. Bryan wants to abolish the tariff and have free trade, and what free trade would mean to the American workingman is perhaps better told by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, head of a large cement manufacturing company, who has just returned from a tour of Europe.

"In almost every country I visited," said the senator, "the number of men out of employment was enormous, and there are all watching this country, hoping for Bryan's election.

"They want to see the protective tariff abolished and free trade take its place, for that would mean the opening up of their factories and workshops and the closing of the American ones. Just as soon as the protective tariff is removed Europe is ready with her wheels and furnaces to glut the American market with the products of cheap labor, and that means that American factories will shut down."

Present indications and computations based on presidential election returns for several campaigns show that Taft and Sherman will carry New Jersey by a plurality of not less than 40,000, and probably 60,000.

A review of the popular vote of 1900 and 1904 is interesting. In 1900 McKinley polled 221,707 votes in New Jersey, while Bryan had only 164,808. Four years later Roosevelt received 245,164 votes, while Parker had a total of 164,506, or about 300 less than Bryan. It is easy to see that while the Democratic vote remained decreased, the Republican vote increased some 24,000 over the preceding presidential year, due mostly to new voters in the state. In 1904 there were 409,670 votes polled in the state, but last year in the election for governor only 380,613 voters went to the polls, of which Governor Fort received 194,313, and Frank S. Katzenbach 186,300.

Last year there were some 29,000 voters who cast their ballots for president who did not vote for governor; but it is safe to assume that this stay-at-home vote will be in evidence on next election day. The contest for governor last year was on local issues, and Fort's majority was 8,000. By giving the Democratic candidate the vote of Katzenbach, which was 22,000 more than Bryan or Parker polled, and adding Fort's plurality to the stay-at-homes, who only come out to vote in presidential years, a plurality of 37,000 for Taft and Sherman is obtained. This, of course, does not take in the normal increase of voters in the state. From 1900 to 1904 this increase was 24,000, so that is is a fairly safe prediction that Taft and Sherman will have a plurality of not less than 60,000, with the chances that it will be nearer 60,000.

That Much Needed Fire House in the East End is Still a Visionary Proposition.

The proposed East End fire house proposition was unexpectedly resurrected at the October meeting of the Common Council Monday, when Councilman Buxton, of the fire committee, presented a set of plans, prepared by Harold Hall, architect, brother of Councilman R. E. Hall, and also offered a resolution providing for the issuing of $15,000 worth of bonds with which to complete the improvement. When he offered the plans he moved that they be adopted and filed.

This was objected to by Councilman Mygatt, who confessed that he had not examined the plans, and before voting for the question he wanted to know more about them. He said he realized that the fire and building committee had spent a great deal of time on the matter, but nevertheless he could see no reason for haste. In explanation Mr. Buxton said that the committee had appointed two years, and it was now up to the Common Council to decide whether it wanted to build or not.

There was some objection as to the suggested method of issuing bonds. The resolution called for thirty coupon bonds of $500 denomination each to run from December 1 for five years, and it was the appointment of a sinking fund commission. Some were displeased with the sinking fund idea, and if there is any way of escape it will be followed.

It was stated by Mr. Hall that Corporation Counsel Marsh had informed him that in issuing bonds for the improvement, the building and equipment must be included, for the reason the committee proposed to install a combination chemical and hose wagon, to be either driven by horses or electric or gasolene power. He had estimated the cost of building at about $9,500 and equipment at $5,200.

President Tolles explained that in issuing bonds it was the general custom to retire one or more each year, but he was informed that this issue must run the full thirty years as provided by the law under an act passed in February, 1907, which also provides for a sinking fund commission.

Mr. Mygatt wanted Mr. Hall to state how it was proposed to equip the fire-house, and the latter said that the committee might put an auto combination chemical and hose wagon there or it might be decided to use horses for the apparatus and later it might be thought wise to place an engine in that part of the city.

"I am opposed to the passage of this resolution," said Mr. Mygatt, "or the adoption of these plans tonight. I know the committee has worked hard, but we are now up against the bond issue question. The committee has not fully decided how it proposes to equip the fire-house and I myself want to investigate the matter further and learn more about the plans."

Again Mr. Hall suggested that later on it might be thought best to locate a steamer in the Nethermood district. This could be done if the city purchases a new one for the business section, as the old one now in use could be transferred there.

"I object to running things off the reel in this fashion," replied Mr. Mygatt, "and I shall not be ready for voting for at present. Let us find out first where we are at and then consider the proposition fairly." Mr. Mygatt then moved that the whole matter be placed on the table for the present and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Suydam declared that he approved the plans and also recognized the necessity for a fire-house in the East End, but he opposed the bond issue, especially that feature providing for a sinking fund commission. Anyway he thought it to be a bad time of the year to start such an improvement. In concluding the discussion Mr. Hall said that he realized it might be a mistake to present a resolution instead of an ordinance, something which could be passed on first and second reading, followed by a public hearing. He said that he proposed to see Mr. Marsh and ascertain whether this could be done.

NEWSPAPER PRINTED BY AUTO.

When Publisher's Engine Broke Down Constant Reader Came to the Rescue.

An automobile played an important part Saturday in the publishing of a newspaper at Bloomfield. The engine used to run the press in the office of The Bloomfield Citizen broke down when only a few copies of the paper had been run off. Mechanics were sent for to make hasty repairs, but an inspection of the engine showed that at least twenty-four hours would be required to put it in order.

Abram Day drove up in his automobile just at this time. Learning of the publisher's dilemma he ran his auto to the rear of the printing office, connected the machine with the press by the belting, and thus furnished power enough to run off the edition.

In a brief editorial the publisher assured his readers that he believed he was supplying them with the first newspaper ever run off by an automobile.

Dancing Classes at Hartridge School.

The Misses Florance, of Elizabeth, who had much success in the presentation of the Kirmess for Muhlenberg Hospital, last winter, have formed two select dancing classes at the Hartridge School. The first meeting of these classes will be held on Thursday, October 15, one at 2:30 o'clock for children under eleven years, and the other at 4 o'clock for those over eleven years. The classes will meet every week throughout the winter.

Electric Lights at Berkeley.

As predicted by William Jeffery, the "bungalow man," the electric light service was inaugurated in New Providence Township, Saturday night. This includes Berkeley Heights, where Mr. Jeffery has built several bungalows. The event was appropriately celebrated by the residents of that village. The Commonwealth Water and Electric Company, of Summit, furnishes the current.

Dunellen Woman Held in $600 Bail on Charges Made by Local Merchants.

Mrs. Charles Wyckoff, of Dunellen, who was arrested Monday in the A. E. Force department store, was arraigned before Judge Runyon Monday afternoon on two charges of shoplifting, one preferred by the proprietor of the place where she was detected and the other by J. V. E. Vanderhoef for the Woodhull-Martin Company. She waived examination on the latter accusation but demanded a hearing for the former. Her request was complied with and after taking the testimony of several witnesses, the magistrate thought the evidence sufficient to hold her for the Grand Jury. Bail was fixed at $300 in each case, the amount being furnished by her brother, Patrick Traynor, of this city.

Mrs. Wyckoff's arrest was brought about by her attempt to take a sweater from the Force store. One of the saleswomen noticed it on her arm as she was leaving the place and summoned the manager, J. J. Varley. Mrs. Wyckoff was stopped and when her explanation as to where she got the article proved unsatisfactory, she was invited into a private office. There she was searched by two of the store women and various articles of dress goods were found concealed beneath her skirts and in her waist, while a small bag she carried contained $30 worth of gloves and other things afterward learned to have been taken from the Woodhull-Martin store earlier in the day. The employes who searched her testified at the city court hearing.

The store people made the complaints in order to put a stop to the shoplifting practice that has been prevalent in the city for the past six months. Several of the merchants have suffered heavily through it and on two occasions before the women have been caught but not punished. The Force concern seems to have been the favorite stamping ground. At the last meeting of the Merchants' Association, the matter was thoroughly discussed and it was then decided that drastic measures should be taken instead of letting the culprits go after returning the stolen goods. The detection Monday is the first that has occurred since then.

Mrs. Wyckoff is about forty-five years old and is the mother of six children. Her husband was recently convicted of illegal liquor selling in New Brunswick and served a term in the Middlesex county jail besides paying a heavy fine. She formerly resided in the West End, where she has several brothers and sisters.

SHADE TREE COMMISSION ASKS FOR MORE MONEY

The Shade Tree Commission having nearly expended its appropriation for the year, there being but $399.87 left out of a total of $2,779.19, including appropriation and all receipts for the remaining four months, to undertake certain work, Monday night for an extra $500 with which to carry on its work during the coming season. The communication cited the fact that the commission had been in operation almost a year, and it was for the Council to determine whether the work is to continue along as it had during the year or take it up along more definite lines.

It was stated that the commission had only been able to trim trees where they shaded electric lights so as to undertake certain Council

POMP MARKS DEDICATION

Hundreds to Participate in Parade Preliminary to Mt. St. Mary College Affair.

BISHOP M'FAUL TO REVIEW.

Father Morris to Make Address When Catholic Societies Assemble at Institution's Grounds.

The committee making arrangements for the parade in connection with the dedication of St. Mary's college held the final meeting last night. From the letters of acceptance received from the different societies in surrounding towns, to which invitations have been sent, a big parade is assured previous to the ceremonies next Sunday afternoon. The organizations already heard from are the Dunellen, Stony Hill, West field, Bound Brook, Raritan and Rahway Holy Name societies, together with those from St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches; Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus; Division No. 4, A. O. H. and the T. A. B's of Plainfield; also the Polish societies of Plainfield, South Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan and Perth Amboy. The Italian Society of Plainfield, with its much appreciated band, will take part in the parade and there will be three other bands and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

The line of march will be from St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, down Watchung avenue to Front street, to Terrill road and thence to the Convent. When the dedication ceremonies are over, the societies will be addressed by Bishop McFaul and Rev. Dr. Norris and when benediction is pronounced, the paraders will disband on the grounds. People who have planned to attend the dedication and who do not care to walk from the trolley cars to the college building, will be conveyed by automobile at a small charge.

The committee which has been working on the parade plans is composed of the sixty members of the Holy Name society under the able direction Thomas Hanley. Eric Blake, as chairman, who has been treasurer of the society for many years.

UNION COUNTY DOCTORS IN SESSION HERE

The Union County Medical Societ; held its quarterly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building, this afternoon, when three papers were presented, followed by an informal discussion. One paper was by Dr. W. Kelley Simpson, of New York, on "Adenoids and Tonsils," another by Dr. F. C. Ard on "Dangers of Operation for the Removal of Adenoids and Tonsils," while Dr. Norton Wilson, of Elizabeth, presented a paper on "Complications Due to Adenoids."

The meeting was largely attended by members of the society from all parts of the county.

Cook's Bail $2,000.

In court at Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, Judge Atwater announced that he would fix bail in the sum of $2,000 in the case of Harold Cook, the Plainfield young man committed to jail on a girl's complaint. The amount had not been furnished up to noon today.

Going to Central America.

David Blackford, of South Plainfield, will soon leave for Central America, where he will engage in the work of developing a gold mine in which he is interested. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Blackford and his cousin, George Blackford.

STATE Y. M. C. A. PENNANT WINNERS TO BE GUESTS

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team has concluded its active season and on Saturday night at the association building, the physical department will tender a banquet to the members who were successful in winning the State Y. M. C. A. League pennant, which includes the Spalding trophy, for finishing in first place. While Physical Director Listman is not entirely satisfied with the results attained by the team, he is pleased that the League honors come to Plainfield.

At the banquet Saturday night in addition to being presented with the Spalding trophy, each member of the team will receive a gold medal for individual achievement on the diamond the past season. Physical Director Listman will be in charge of the affair, and Secretary H. E. Parker will assist. There will be a few informal speeches and a general good time. The dinner will be served by members of the Women's Auxiliary.

Below will be found the official figures, showing the standing of the teams in the association league, the scores of the games, together with the batting and fielding averages:

NEWARK FIRM LOSES IN PLAINFIELDER'S SUIT

A jury in the Union county court at Elizabeth, yesterday, gave George Voehl, of this city, a verdict for $247 in the suit brought by him against C. Smith & Moorehouse, a wholesale milling firm with headquarters at Newark.

In his bill of complaint, Voehl claimed that he entered into a contract with the concern to purchase 1,000 bagrels of flour at $4.35 each, the deliveries to be made in specified lots according to his order. He declared that only 600 barrels were forwarded at the stated price and that after that the firm charged him an advance. He brought suit to recover the difference between $4.35 and the second figure he was called upon to pay for 400 barrels. The defense maintained that the contract for the 1,000 barrels stated that all should be called for within ninety days in order to get the $4.35 rate but that Voehl used but 600. The jury was out but a short time when the verdict in favor of the plaintiff was reached.

Voehl was represented by Francis J. Blatz, of this city, while Robert Terhune, of Newark, looked after the interests of C. Smith & Moorehouse.

GOLD MEDAL MINSTRELS UNDERGO RE-ORGANIZATION

The Gold Medal minstrels, the pioneer black-face entertainers in the local field, underwent complete reorganization at an enthusiastic meeting, last night. Thomas M. Muir, the original promotor, was again elected president and general manager and Erwin Neighbor was made vice-president. William Doud, the veteran of several big shows, was elected secretary and Bertram C. Firstbrook, treasurer. Harry R. Roberts will have full charge of the music and the program arrangements; Richard Bittle will be electrician and master of properties and John Conway, box office magnate.

The troupe has taken steps to file articles of incorporation in order to prevent a flood of imitators from infringing upon the established name. The Gold Medals have been appearing in Plainfield and the suburban towns for the past four years and have built up a reputation second to none in amateur minstrelsy. They will go out this season with a complete new wardrobe and effects and will play most of the larger places in Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties.

Last night's meeting was held at the home of B. C. Firstbrook on Liberty street, and was followed by a chicken supper provided by the old officers. Twenty two members were present.

Morristown Boy Wins.

The competitive examination held by direction of Congressman Charles N. Fowler on Saturday for the purpose of selecting a midshipman at Annapolis from the Fifth Congressional district of New Jersey, resulted as follows: First, Sifrein Fontaine Maury, of Morristown; second, Chauncy Ryder MacPherson, of Elizabeth; third, Frank Walton, of Springfield.

An Approaching Wedding.

Dr. Richard G. Savage, of Westfield, who is well known to Plainfielders, and Miss Alletta Vredenberg Dodd, of Somerville, will be married at the latter's home, 67 North Bridge street, Friday night. SEES UNIVERSAL PEACE

Hamilton Holt Predicts That This Nation Will Bring About "United World."

THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA.

Editor of The Independent, U. S. Peace Delegate, Gives Instructive Talk Before Church Men's Club.

That the era of settling international disputes by force of arms is at an end, that a law era will soon succeed the waning war era, that the United States will lead the nations of the world to form a United World, that statesmen of all the civilized nations have banded together to make war on war and that within the next century there will exist peace on earth and universal good will among men are the claims Hamilton Holt, editor of "The Independent," ably set forth in a lecture before the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Church at the first fall meeting of that organization held in the church parlors last night. The lecture, who was one of the Nation's representatives at the Hague Peace Conference is the cousin of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue and in simple, straightforward language spoke of the federation of the world and how it may be accomplished.

"As the result of the Hague conferences," Mr. Holt said, "great strides have been made in the direction of world-wide peace through a universal tribunal of arbitration, and I believe that this is no longer a theory, but a practical certainty, which has appealed to all thinking men. It is the destiny of the United States to lead in this movement, for the United States, with its individual state divisions, is a world in miniature. We have had a declaration out independence and will soon be able to declare a world-enclusive interindependence."

Introducing his subject, the lecturer summarized the sentimental aspects of war and peace. He spoke of the healthy patriotism aroused by the latent power of a strong fighting force on land and sea; he told of the important part man-to-man conflict has played in the civilization of the world as the only legal and final method of nations to settle their disputes. Then he quoted famous statesmen and generals who have maintained that "war is hell," and conflicts are the greatest scourge of mankind.

He spoke of international law as the only practical solution for the universal peace problem. "Why shouldn't this be?" he continued. "Where are today fifty-nine nations in the world, and each nation is at peace within itself—there is no civil strife. Why shouldn't this civil peace become an international peace? All nations now have a representative form of government. Now is the time to organize the world.

"To do this is merely to apply on a larger scale the methods used in organizing the thirteen colonies into this nation of ours. One hundred years ago, New York and Virginia each had navies. Our government was founded on a principle of national sacrifice, as the United World must be founded. Each sovereign must sacrifice his sovereignty wherever the general welfare demands it.

"Do not think that this theory of a United World will not soon materialize. The union of nations does at this very moment exist in the Hague court and the Hague conference. The Hague conference stands as the first organization of nations. It gave impetus to the theory of arbitration and it established the Hague tribunal. And its influence is already wide-spread. Peace societies, about five hundred in number, have been founded, we have the Carnegie peace prizes, and the Nobel prizes. The nations of the world are intermingling more and more. Students from abroad come to our American colleges, the foreign business world comes to us to learn business methods. And we, too, send our young men abroad. Why, if this thing keeps up, we may expect an exchange of Theodore Roosevelt for Emperor William, or—if it becomes a question of the 'survival of the fattest,' King Edward may be called upon to act as substitute for Mr. Taft next Presidential term."

In a brief outline of the work done by the Hague conference, Mr. Holt spoke of the work of Frederick Holls, of Yonkers, N. Y., as the principal factor in the organization of the Hague court as a permanent tribunal for the settlement of international ruptures. With his name were mentioned those of President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Andrew Carnegie, Congressman Bartholdt as men to whom honor is due. Summarizing the work of the second Hague conference, Mr. Holt said that aside from

REPUBLICAN TAFT COMING TO UNION

Republican Presidential Nominee to Speak in this County on Monday Morning.

LYCEUM THEATRE, ELIZABETH.

Will Arrive at 10:30 With Senator John Kean as Escort— Big Demonstration Is Planned.

William H. Taft, the Republican candidate for the Presidency, will speak in Union county before the close of the campaign. Through the efforts of United States Senator John Kean, National Chairman Frank William H. Taft.

Hitchcock has arranged Mr. Taft's itinerary so that the people of this county may be able to shake hands with the G. O. P. standard bearer and to listen to his views on the National issues.

In his whirlwind tour through New Jersey, Mr. Taft will arrive in Newark at 9:30 on Monday morning next. There he will be the guest of former Governor Franklin Murphy, chairman of the State Committee, and after a speech to the people of Essex, will be escorted to Elizabeth by Senator Kean. At 10:30 he will make an address at the Lyceum theatre and an opportunity will be afforded all voters, irrespective of party, to shake the hand of the former jurist, cabinet officer, governor of the Philippines, diplomat and statesman.

Following is the railroad time table, the time of departure from Plainfield and arrival at Elizabeth being noted: 8:44; 9:12, 9:39, 9:54, 9:58, 10:18, 10:28, 10:36. As Mr. Taft's stay in Elizabeth will be limited to one hour.

After the meeting at Elizabeth, Nominee Taft will be hurried to Trenton by Senator Kean, where Senator Briggs will become his escort. A half hour speech will be made at the Capitol City and later Mr. Taft will make an address at Camden before going to Wilmington Delaware.

As told exclusively in The Daily Press some days ago, State Senator Ackerman wrote Mr. Taft urging him to visit Union county during his whirlwind tour of the East. In reply, the Presidential nominee expressed his desire to comply with the request and suggested to Mr. Ackerman that he get in touch with Chairman Hitchcock which the latter did.

Already plans for a monster demonstration of Union county Republicans is being made for the occasion of Mr. Taft's visit. From all parts of the county, including Plainfield, Summit, Rahway, Roselle, Westfield, New Providence, Roselle Park, Cranford, Fanwood and Berkeley Heights, the faithful will journey in large numbers to the county seat for the opportunity of grasping the hand that will write the Presidential messages during the next four years.

United States Senator Kean will preside at the meeting and among those on the platform will be such distinguished sons of Union's Republicanism as Hamilton F. Kean, Ernest R. Ackerman, Alexander Gilbert, Foster M. Voorhees and Chas. N. Codding.

A striking likeness of Mr. Taft, in colors, may be obtained by Daily Press readers on application at this office. The speech of acceptance, other notable utterances of the campaign and the party platform are also to be had here on application.

Don't Forget to Register.

Tuesday, October 27, is the last day to register. The polls will be open from 7 until 9 p. m. If your name is not on the registry list you cannot vote.

RED TAPE STAVES ACTION

Bungle in Call for Meeting Prevents Adoption of Fire House Proposition.

TO MEET ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Delay, Linger and Wait Policy Continues and East End Is Made the Victim.

Because of the failure to properly draft the call for the special meeting of the Common Council, the members were unable to take any action last night regarding the proposed new fire house to be erected on South avenue in the Netherwood district. It could not be learned who drafted the call, but it omitted the essential wording covering the question and Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh informed the members that no action could be taken at that time. In consequence another special session will be held Friday night for that purpose, a correct call now having been issued.

Although unable to take any official action, the members decided to resolve themselves into a committee of the whole and discuss the proposed improvement. Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who has been in the Adirondacks with his family, returned in time for the meeting and before an adjournment was taken, he expressed his opinions as to the method of procedure and the proposed bond issue.

Speaking at some length, Councilman Montgomery presented a new phase of the question, that of selling No. 1 fire house and the property on West Second street and taking the proceeds to build and equip the new house in the East End. He had been informed that the property could be disposed of for $18,000 and if the new house and equipment is to cost $15,000, there would be sufficient funds to do the without issuing bonds. There had been considerable criticism on the part of taxpayers about another issue of bonds for improvements, and he believed that the Council should not run the city into any greater debt than necessary.

Again, Mr. Montgomery believed that thirty years is too long a period to extend an issue of $15,000 worth of bonds, ten years would be long enough.

"We have two fire houses in the business section," continued Mr. Montgomery, "and it will take considerable money to improve No. 1 house. We might better tear that structure down and build a new one. Headquarters is commodious and the apparatus from No. 1 house could be placed there. I asked Corporation Counsel Marsh if the money from the sale of that property could go into the firemen's pension fund and he said it could not, as the sale of real estate is not included in the act. Besides, another new house means an additional man. I don't know of a place in New York city where the fire-houses are as close together as headquarters and No. 1 house. This should not be a matter of sentiment. If we should abolish No. 1 house I do not believe that the rates of insurance in the centre of the city would be increased.

Replying to Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Buxton said that it would be unwise to abolish No. 1 house as it is in the best location. He said that it is just as necessary to increase fire fighting facilities as it is to increase the facilities for school children, and he would be against the proposition to do away with the West Second street house.

"There would be a great protest against such action," remarked Mr. Buxton, "but at the same time I approve of issuing $15,000 worth of bonds for thirty years. We would be the laughing stock of everybody in the State."

In the opinion of Mr. Hall the erection of a new fire house in the district would be the means of stimulating the building industry in that part of the city and thus increase the tax receipts. He believed that by taking favorable action the confidence of the people would be gained and enough could be accomplished this year to make a good showing on the improvement. He urged immediate action.

In discussing the propsition to consolidate No. 1 house with headquarters, President Tolles said that in the past there had been considerable thought given to this plan, but he did not think it practical. He believed that it would be better to remodel No. 1 house and put it in first class condition. He was in favor of letting the whole matter

LESLIE N. BROKAW DIES AFTER OPERATION

Leslie N. Brokaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Brokaw, of Sycamore avenue, died at the home of his parents at 10 o'clock last night from a tetanus affection that followed an operation for varicocele. It was performed at Muhlenberg Hospital two weeks ago and at the time was thought to be entirely successful. He had so far recovered on Thursday last that he was removed to his home, where the complications developed.

Mr. Brokaw was but nineteen years old and was one of the most popular young men in the Washington Park section of the borough. He was educated in the Leal School and had been engaged in business in New York at the time he went to the hospital. He was greatly interested in athletic sports and during his school-days promoted several successful track meets. He was a member of the First Baptist church, besides his parents, he is survived by a brother DeWitt Brokaw, who was operated on at Muhlenberg at the same time he was and for the same trouble., and a sister, Mrs. Arthur B. Stout, of Watchung.

The funeral will be held at the parents' home, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be private.

PLAINFIELD'S MILK IS OF HIGH QUALITY

The reports presented at the October meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health, Yesterday afternoon, showed the sanitary condition of the city to be in good shape. Not one case of diphtheria nor of scarlet fever was reported during the month.

Thirty-three dairies and milk bottling places were inspected; all found to be in good condition. Thirty-one samples of milk and six samples of cream were collected and analyzed. The average milk analysis was as follows:

Fats, 4.26; solids, 13.36; solids not fat, 9.10; lactometer, 114; bacteria per cubic centimeter, 86,858.

Permits to sell milk were granted to Frank Culler, and Charles Fuller. The plumber's bond of James M. Prance was ordered filed. The application of Cgrl Rappenstein to collect garbage was granted. The following returns were received at the office during the month: Marriages, 16; births, 42; still-births, 2; deaths, 31; total, 91.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN IN ANNUAL MEETING.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church at its annual meeting last night elected officers, received reports and discussed plans for the coming year. Four new members were elected, making a total of about sixty. There was considerable discussion of plans, nothing definite was decided upon. The club will meet as usual once a month and the usual excellent entertainments will be provided, including the "ladies' night" affairs.

These officers were elected for the year: President, Dr. Frank T. Clawson; vice-president, F. A. Weeks; secretary, Dr. H. V. Hubbard; treasurer, Charles E. Steiner; executive committee, Morris C. Van Arsdale and J. A. Powlison. A little later the president will announce his committees.

Mission Societies to Meet.

The thirty-first annual meeting of the Women's Synodical Society of Foreign Missions in the Synod of New Jersey will be held in the Second Presbyterian church, Rahway, tomorrow, beginning at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. The thirty-first annual meeting of the Women's Synodical Society of Home Missions will be held in the afternoon. There will be addresses by several persons prominent in the denominational work. Each auxiliary, Young People's Society and Mission Band has been requested to send two delegates.

Dates for Teachers' Institutes.

State Superintendent of Schools Charles J. Baxter has announced the dates for the teachers' institutes to be held in the State. No institute will be held in Union county, but one will be held in the Somerville High School, Somerville, on November 16 and 17, and there will be an Industrial Institute for Middlesex county at New Brunswick December 4.

Will Present Reports.

The delegates from the local W. C. T. U. who attended the convention of the State Union at Atlantic City, last week, will present reports of the gathering at a meeting of the union to be held in the rooms on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

HOOLEY SUCCEEDS FISK

Another Banker Heads Watchung Hunt Club, Which is One Year Old.

S. A. CRUIKSHANK, VICE-PREST.

The Watchung Hunt Club held its annual meeting last night, marking the completion of the first year at the club's handsome new home. All the reports showed the organization to be in a flourishing financial condition with a large active membership. Exceptional interest has been shown since the acquisition of the club's new quarters and a complete reorganization, now considered the strongest in the State. The membership is about up to the limit and it is only a question of time when it will have to be raised to admit new members.

In choosing officers for the coming year, the club regretted the fact that owing to many other duties Mayor Charles J. Fisk was obliged to retire as president. Edwin S. Hooley was selected as president, in place of Mr. Fisk, and he will maintain the high standard set by the former officer.

After the presentation of reports these officers and heads of committees were chosen for the coming year:

President, Edwin S. Hooley; vice-president, Siemon A. Cruikshank; secretary, L. C. Timpson; treasurer, Harrow Fisk; master of the hounds, Lewis E. Waring; chairman of the house committee, L. C. Timpson; entertainment committee, W. L. Righter; stable and grounds, Lewis E. Waring, W. L. Righter, Arthur L. Offerson and H. E. Butler were elected members of the Board of Governors.

Just now the club is enjoying its annual fall hunts which are being attended with unusual success. This morning a number of riders started from the kennels and enjoyed a chase after the hounds over the surrounding country, a distance of about six miles. Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the members will meet at the Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse.

POLITICAL RALLIES IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Mass meetings, smokers and the like are the order of the day in both political camps just at present.

Tonight, the North Plainfield Republican Club will hold a smoker at Saengerbund hall in honor of the First Presidential Voters' Club.

Tomorrow night, the Plainfield City Republican Committee will hold a mass meeting at the New Plainfield theatre, which promises to be a big affair. Two gifted speakers have been announced and a brass band will add to the celebration.

Tomorrow night, also, the North Plainfield Democratic Club will hold its first rally in Depie's hall, Chatham street. The speakers will be the party's candidates, William V. Steele, Nelson Y. Dungan, George W. Anderson and Clarence Garretson.

Juniors Visit Dunellen.

Watchung G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Dunellen, entertained about fifty members of George H. Adams Council, of Newark, last night, the occasion being a fraternal visit. The Newark Council was accompanied by its initiatory team, which initiated four candidates. This was followed by speechmaking and refreshments. Among those who spoke was State Councilor Frank Sharp, of Newark, who is now a candidate for State Council secretary.

"A Day in the Children's Court."

Ernest K. Coulter, deputy clerk of the Children's Court of New York, will be the speaker at the men's meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will speak on the subject: "A Day in the Children's Court." Mr. Coulter is especially well fitted to discuss this topic and his story cannot fail to interest anyone. He will also refer to the "Big Brothers' Movement," which has met with such success in New York city.

FAVORS LOCAL OPTION

Elizabeth Presbytery Adopts Resolution Presented by Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

HOPE CHAPEL'S DISTINCTION.

West End Congregation Has Largest Sunday-school in Presbytery

—Rev. Dr. Zelie Honored.

A resolution favoring local option was adopted unanimously by the Elizabeth Presbytery in session at Basking Ridge. The resolution was presented by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, on behalf of the temperance committee.

A number of clergymen were invited to sit as corresponding members, including Rev. W. Irving Dice, pastor of the Bishop James Methodist church; Rev. J. E. Hancock, pastor of the Pleasant Plains Methodist church; Rev. Charles B. Condit, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, Newark; Rev. E. C. Ray, of the College Board of the Presbyterian church; Rev. J. W. Scherer, of the Presbytery of Lehigh, and Rev. J. Davis, of New Mexico.

The committee on synodical missions, of which Rev. John T. Kerr, of Elizabeth, is chairman, reported that nine churches of the Presbytery were carrying on religious work among the foreigners at an expense of $10,000 per year. The committee on Sunday-school and young people's societies, Rev. William B. Hamilton, of Bethany chapel, chairman, reported forty-seven Sunday-schools in the Presbytery, with a membership of 9,480 scholars, 202 of whom united with their respective churches last year. The total amount contributed by them during the past year was $6,116. The Sunday-school with the largest membership is that of Hope chapel, Plainfield, with a roll of 659.

Rev. T. Shaw, of Rahway, chairman of the committee on Sabbath observance, recommended that the local churches form federations to bring pressure to bear upon the Legislature to enforce Sabbath observance more strictly.

The principal address of the afternoon was given by Rev. E. C. Ray, secretary of the College Board of the Presbyterian church. He explained very explicitly that all money contributed to the College Board was used specially for that work and not one cent of it used for the running expenses of the board. He stated that of the fifty-four Presbyterian colleges in the United States, thirty were self-supporting, leaving twenty-four of them dependent upon the College Board.

Rev. John T. Kerr, of the Third Presbyterian church of Elizabeth, was re-elected trustee of the Presbytery for a term of five years, and Elias D. Smith was elected for a similar term in the place of N. C. J. English, of Elizabeth.

Rev. John T. Kerr, chairman of the committee on home missions, recommended that the various churches of the Presbytery secure missionaries from the Western frontier to speak to their congregations during the coming winter on the mission work in the West.

An executive committee was appointed to co-operate with the general assembly's committee in prosecuting the work of the church. The members appointed were Dr. William F. Whittaker, of Elizabeth; Rev. Samuel Parry, of Somerville; Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, of Plainfield, and Elder E. P. Tenny, of Roselle.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held at the Bethany Presbyterian chapel, Elizabeth, in January.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

A novel plan is to be carried out in the evening cooking class at the Young Woen's Christian Association this winter. Miss Ferrell, the teacher, comes directly from Philadelphia and meets the members of the class directly after business hours. They are to be served light lunch and then proceed to the lesson in cooking. During the course of the lesson they will prepare a meal and partake of it before going home.

This plan promises to be successful because it means the saving of much time and strength from a trip to their homes and back to the association. It also gives the members of the class a chance to complete the lesson early in the evening.

Miss Ferrell is a graduate of Drexel Institute. She has had much practical experience in domestic science and is now employed as a teacher in Drexel Institute during the special course in the University of Pennsylvania.

Besides the evening class, there will also be a class in the afternoon and one in the morning.

Excise Report on Dec. 15.

The State Excise Commission will make its report on Dec. 15 to Governor Fort. Chairman Fisk will make no advance statement but it is expected that the commission will recommend a $1,000 fee and some amendments to the Bishops' law. The commission will oppose Sunday selling but will urge that home rule prevail in other respects.

MISS FLORENCE ACKOR NOW MRS. VAN DERVEER

Miss Florence A. Ackor, daughter of Daniel Ackor, of Watchung, and Aaron A. Van DerVeer, of Somerville, were married at 5 Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, in the presence of nearly one hundred relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. There were no attendants.

The home was decorated for the event with a profusion of flowers, while the large porch was enclosed transforming it into a reception room. The arrangements of flowers in the parlor and dining-room was especially attractive.

After the bride and groom received the congratulations of the relatives and friends, supper was served. The bride received a large number of gifts, including a handsome oak roll top office desk at the D. D. Leizeaux Lumber Company's office on North avenue, where the groom is employed as head bookkeeper. His associate employes attended the wedding.

The bride is a most estimable young woman and she has a large number of acquaintances. She has been a faithful member of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung and active in all departments of religious work there. Mr. Van DerVeer is a resident of Somerville and when he and his bride return from their honeymoon at Niagara Falls, they will live at that place.

TRINITY JUNIORS ELECT OFFICERS AND PLAN WORK.

Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, held its first meeting of the season in the lecture room of the church, Wednesday afternoon. There were about twenty-five members present and much interest and enthusiasm was shown in reorganizing and planning the work for the winter. Mrs. Cornelius Schenck and Miss Mabel Wilson were in charge. The society expects to elect a superintendent soon, neither Mrs. Schenck or Miss Wilson being able to serve.

These officers were elected for the year: President, Miss Maude McAfee; first vice-president, Miss Adelaide Cole; second vice-president, Alfred Wilson; secretary, Miss Beatrice Tier; treasurer, Elmer French. Miss Edna Dilts was chosen as assistant superintendent. The various committees will be appointed later.

On Their Wedding Tour.

"Alfred, dear, isn't the scenery beautiful?"

"Lovely beyond description!"

"But your are not looking at it."

"I am looking at the only scenery that has any attractions for me Penelope."

"What is the use of talking like that, Alfred? You know I'm not beautiful."

"Don't you dare to contradict your husband! I say you are the most gloriously beautiful creature on the planet."

"Nonsense! Look out through the car window, Alfred. You are missing some wonderful scenery."

"I'm not missing anything worth seeing. I'd rather look into your eyes and love you once than—"

"Oh, Alfred, you're utterly hopeless case!"

"I know it, Penelope. I'm in the incurable ward of the seventh heaven."

"Sh! Not so loud, dear; somebody will hear us!"

Somebody did.—Chicago Tribune.

Wise and Otherwise.

"I want to buy half a dozen umbrellas."

"What do you want so many for?"

"I have five places where I must stop this morning, and I want to have a cage so fixed when I forget an umbrella at each place I shall still have one left."—Harper's Weekly.

RED MEN'S CELEBRATION

Miantonomo Tribe, With 200 Members, Observes Its Twentieth Anniversary.

STATE OFFICERS PRESENT.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, the oldest of that order in the city, celebrated its twentieth anniversary in the tribal chamber Wednesday. Several great chiefs were present including Great Sachem Emil W. Shablon, of Hackensack; Great Junior Sagamore John Jamison, of Asbury Park; Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden; J. A. Karet, member of the great council finance committee; also delegations from somerville, Westfield, Cranford, Watchung, Plainfield and Jona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, to the number of about 250.

The program of the evening consisted of piano selections by Allen Squier, tenor solos by Chris Delaney, remarks by Great Sachem Shablon, Great Junior Sagmore Thomson, Great Chief of Records D. M. Stevens; "The Musical Berhend," in monologue; Coster songs by Charles Delaney, an address by Judge William Newcorn and acrobatic stunts by Hansen and Myers.

Following the entertainment all adjourned to the banquet hall, where a collation was served by DeMolli. It was 1 o'clock this morning when the happy affair terminated.

Miantonomo Tribe which was organized twenty years ago yesterday, now has a membership of 200. Chas. Halliwell is the present sachem. During its existence, the tribe has received $14,000 and $8,000 has been expended in sick and funeral benefits. The tribe has steadily increased its membership and today the financial condition is excellent. The following eight charter members were present last night: Francis Whiteley, Benjamin Allen, Charles Fullmer, Andrew J. Stiglitz, Peter Doeringer, George S. McGinnis and Charles L. Holstein.

Charles L. Holstein was chairman of the committee in charge of last night's celebration. Thomas Parsons and Jeremiah Griffin comprised the reception committee, while Thomas Conner and Joseph Cullen had charge of the refreshments.

SUPERINTENDENT KREBS HOST AT A RECEPTION

The members of the North Plainfield Board of Education, the teachers of the borough schools, together with their friends, to the number of about sixty, enjoyed a delightful Informal reception given at the Somerset school Friday night by Superintendent H. C. Krebs. The affair was arranged by Mr. Krebs and intended to afford the teachers and members of the board to become better acqpainted, especially with the new members of the faculty.

The auditorium, where the reception was held, was tastefully decorated for the occasion with flowers, autumn leaves and American flags. At the outset Mr. Krebs explained the purpose of the affair and extended to all a most cordial greeting, also expressing the wish that the coming year would be a successful one and that the teachers would cooperate in putting forward the high standard set for education in the borough schools.

During the evening the occasion was enlivened with a selections by a stringed orchestra and another feature was soprano solos by Miss May Conroy. After the rendition of an informal program refreshments were served.

Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA TO PLAY CLASSICAL NUMBERS.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra, which will begin its active season on Tuesday night, October 20, will play at that time the full symphony force under the leadership of Martin A. Korff, who has at last realized his cherished ambition in being able to obtain aboe, bassoon, French horn and viola players from the leading amateur symphony orchestras in New York city.

The program at that time will be the most ambitious ever attempted, at which the classical music secured for the orchestra by Dr. Leonard Waldo for the Public Library will be played. The leading numbers will include, an overture, "Idomeneo," by Mozart; the prelude to the third act of Loehengrin, by Wagner, and "The Butterfly Dance," by Jadesohn.

Presented Fine Portrait.

At the last meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education, the family presented a large sepia portrait of the late Dr. J. B. Probasco, who was a member of the board from 1881-1908. The portrait is 20x24 and is a fine likeness of Dr. Probasco. It will be hung in a prominent place at the High School building.

PERIANO ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF STABBING

Frank Periano, an Italian, of this city, was acquitted in the Union county court Wednesday of a charge of atrocious assault on John Motto, a fellow-countryman, who, it was alleged, on the evening of May 31, 1908, was attacked while walking along Elm place and received several stab wounds in the lower part of the back. Periano asserted his innocence from the start. Although Motto swore that Periano assaulted him, he testified yesterday that he did not see him do the stabbing. Others, however, did, she claimed.

When able to get away from his assailants, Motto started homeward, but had not gone far before he fell from weakness caused by loss of blood. He was then taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he remained for a long time. Robert Newton Crane represented Periano.

MISS LAURA MECKER'S WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Laura Camille Mecker, daughte: of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mecker, of Franklin Park, and niece of L. C. and Mrs. Meeker, of this city, and David Kelly Cutten Hamblin, of New York. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, "Woodlawn," on Thursday, October 1, by Rev. Edward Keator, pastor of the Reformed church, Franklin Park.

The bride wore an empire gown of white satin messaline, trimmed with chiffon and lace, and a bridal veil, caugt up with orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Ida May Mecker, her sister, as maid of honor, who wore a princess gown of blue silk mull and carried white carnations.

The best man was Stanley Bartrum, of East Canaan, Conn., and the ushers were Martin Garretson, of New York, and Kelly L. Connell, of Newark. Gertrude Mecker, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Mrs. Charles Garretson, of Franklin Park, played the wedding march.

The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a gold watch pin, to the others a blue and emerald ring to the flower girl. The groom gave his best man and ushers gold scarf pins. The couple was the recipients of many handsome gifts, including cut-glass, silverware, linen, money, furniture and a substantial check from the Chase National Bank, New York, where the groom is assistant paying-teller. The bride's traveling dress was affinity blue chiffon cloth. The couple is spending two weeks in the south, and upon their return will reside in Newark for the winter.

NEW ORPHEUM OPENS TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3

Work is being rushed at Reform Hall where extensive alterations and improvements will be completed in order to have the place open on election night when the first performance will be given. Manager William J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, who is largely interested in the enterprise as manager and stockholder in the New Jersey Amusement Company, incorporated, High class vaudeville, moving pictures and illustrated songs will form the program.

Performances will be given twice daily and all bookings will be made by William Morris, the big vaudeville agent in New York. Prices will be the single price at all matinees while ten and twenty will be the rule at night. A exciting good bill is being arranged for the opening night. Among the headliners which have been booked for early appearance here is Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian.

Mr. Counihan, who will give the house his personal attention, says that scenery and stage effects will be put in probably early next week. The stage has been enlarged and it and the auditorium will be entirely repainted. The New Jersey Amusement Company consists of Mr. Counihan, M. L. Shanger, W. J. Mehary and Samuel W. Cunningham.

Aunt Mahaly's Expedient.

"These stockings are so full of holes that they are worthless, Aunt Mahaly," said a lady to an old colored woman with a large family, who was a pensioner of her family.

"No'm dey ain't," replied Aunt Mahaly, calmly appropriating them. "Rastus en' Verbena got such black laigs dat de holes won't show, nohow, en' dem chilluns what got yaller meat has to wear two pairs at de same time; en' you know Miss Jo, dat de holes in all den stockings ain't gwine hit de same places."—Youth's Companion.

Confined to One.

"Which would you call the more notable, the prima donna's debut or her farewell?"

"Her farewell. Wouldn't you?"

"Don't know that I could. She can't make but one debut."—Courier-Journal.

CLASSES FOR BIBLE STUDY

Dinner to Members Marks Opening of Special Course at the Local Y.M.C.A.

The Bible study department of the Young Men's Christian Association was inaugurated Thursday with a dinner to the members and leaders of the different classes, served by the social work committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary. After the dinner, with George M. Rittenhouse, chairman of the association's religious work committee, presiding, State Secretary L. E. Hawkins, of Newark, delivered a strong and helpful address on "The Value of Personal Bible Study."

Mr. Hawkins prefaced his address with a brief statement showing the importance of Bible study work in the associations of the country and emphasizing the value of the service that the association can render the church by training teachers in its classes for the instruction of Bible teachers. He stated that over 88,000 men were engaged in Bible study in the associations of the country last year.

Mr. Hawkins presented three reasons for personal Bible study. The first, he said, is that the Bible clearly shows a man God's plan for his whole life; the second, that it furnishes non-technical specifications for the conduct of that life; the latter and the third that the Bible offers a solution to the complex social problems of the day. He urged the men present to apply its teachings to their daily lives, quoting the Chinese student who wrote that he was reading the Bible with a "dictionary."

Emphasizing the vital importance of Bible study, William D. Murray spoke briefly. He said that the Plainfield association had developed out of a Bible class taught by Charles T. Kissam twenty years ago and expressed the confident hope that larger and better things can come to the association of the future only as this work is magnified. He hoped that the local association might soon face the condition that some of the associations in the East, notably Madras, India, face now, that of being too few teachers for their classes.

The Bible classes in the association will meet as follows:

Sunday 5 p. m., in the auditorium, "Life Problem," led by Dr. E. N. Hoffman. Sunday, 9 a. m., "Men's Association Parlor, "Personal Worker's Class," led by J. H. Manning. Tuesday, 8 p. m., in the director's room, "The Teaching of Bible Classes," led by W. D. Murray. Friday, 8 p. m., in the parlor, "The Social Significance of the Teachings of Jesus," led by H. W. Herrman. Friday, 8 p. m., in the director's room, "The Life of Christ," led by Secretary H. E. Parker. Enrollment in these classes is open to all men, whether members of the association or not. No fees are charged.

ADULT BIBLE CLASS ENJOYS A REUNION.

The second annual reunion of the adult Bible class of the First Presbyterian church, taught by C. P. Hinman and C. M. Hinman was held last Thursday in the church parlors and was well attended by about fifty-five members and friends of the class. The early part of the evening was spent in social intercourse and later all partook of a repast served by Mrs. S. D. Kelley and Miss Eva Kelley, assisted by other women members of the class.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor; James E. Church, president of the organized Bible class movement in the State; Superintendent LeRoy H. Hyde, Secretary F. O. Dunning, teachers and others made a few brief remarks and offered some helpful suggestions relating to the future of the class. With S. V. D. Burr presiding at the piano all joined in singing "Dance My God to Thee," and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Accountants to Meet.

The American Association of Public Accountants, which is the national organization of accountants, will hold its twenty-first annual convention at Atlantic City, October 20 to 23. The convention will assemble at the Marlborough-Blenheim, where all the sessions will be held.

Among them will be George Wilkinson, Alfred Rose, W. H. P. Yeysey, Arthur W. Kenworthy and Edward L. Suffern, all of whom will probably be in attendance.

MISS ALICE MEHL TENDERED SURPRISE PARTY BY FRIENDS.

Twenty-five friends of Miss Alice Mehl, of Madison avenue tendered her a surprise party at her home Friday. It was arranged by the Misses Marion Blimm and Mary Wierenga and proved a delightful affair. Music and games were enjoyed until 10:30 when supper was served and it was midnight before the guests departed for home.

SUGGESTS JAIL FOR DELINQUENT SOLDIERS

Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, of the Second Regiment, sprung a surprise on the officers of the regiment at the quarterly meeting held at Trenton, when he stated that hereafter enlisted men who fail to pay fines imposed by court martial will be proceeded against under the law of the State and jailed. He explained that the men upon whom these were imposed generally paid no heed to the verdict of the court, and the reason he was simply to give the men a dishonorable discharge. Such a course, he said, was against good discipline, and worked a good deal of harm to the service. As matters now stand, he explained, the officers were often defied and the discipline in the Guard severely injured. While the Colonel admitted that possibly the drastic course proposed would make the National Guard unpopular for a while, it would in the end prove of great benefit and there are at present 357 members. Thirty-five applicants were initiated during the past year and the financial standing of the Council is excellent, the treasury balancing at present something over $5,000.

In the course of the evening, David Bodine, also a charter member, who has held office continuously for twenty-one years and during the past eight years has been recording secretary, was presented with a beautiful gold watch fob with the emblem of the order. Because of ill-health Mr. Bodine has been compelled to resign from office.

The only other members in the order who can compete with Mr. Bodine in the matter of holding office, are Thomas Currin, Jr., who has been treasurer for the past nine years, and Ephraim Compton as financial secretary for the past six years.

Shepherd Garretson, of Montclair, entertained the members after the meeting with songs, musical selections and magical stunts, all of which were highly appreciated. He was especially good as a story teller, some of his monologues receiving merited applause. The evening's entertainment was arranged by the good and welfare committee, comprising Roy DeCamp, chairman; William J. Pfaffhausk, William Meyers and Edward Mosher.

INABILITY TO READ NEW CITY COURT EXCUSE

To the long list of excuses handed out for violations of the slander tree ordinance, a new one was added in the city court, Thursday. Richard Yetman, a colored man living on East Third street, was the ordinator and it got him off on suspended sentence just at a time when it seemed as if he was going to be the first defendant fined for the offense.

Yetman admitted that he had tied his horse to a tree and also that he had told Patrolman Dobson he wouldn't appear in court as told because he could not leave his work. When Judge Runyon asked him why he didn't know it was against the law to use trees as hitching posts and that the newspapers were continually printing the arrests in order to give the ordinance publicity, Yetman replied "no."

"What's that?" the magistrate queried.

"Why, your honor, I'm sorry to say it's because I can't read. I was brought up in Richmond, Va., but never went to school, and although I have lived in Plainfield twenty-five years I've never had a chance to get any education. Now I'm too old to read and living out at the end of Central avenue this tree law passed over my head until I was arrested."

"Well, that's the first time that excuse has been given here and it stands good in my collection of original ones," was the only comment the judge made in letting Yetman go.

Scarfs That are Useful.

The chiffon and similar flimsy scarfs are being replaced by light protections fashioned from a soft silk that has just made its advent. The weave is akin to a very fine crepe de chine, and is printed in a variety of exquisite colorings and designs. It ranges from twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide and costs $1 and $2 a yard.

Of course, such a scarf will be warmer than chiffon, and so will be practical for present wear in mogantain or at seaside as well as for evening later on.

Real Cock-a-Leekie Soup.

To make the famous Scotch cock-a-leekie which Sir Walter Scott extols boil a young fowl in two quarts white stock until tender. Take up the meat and put one side. Wash two bunches fine leeks, trim off the roots and coarse part of the head and cut the remainder into inch lengths. Put into the broth together with a cupful boiled rice and salt and pepper to season. Cook half an hour, add the fowl cut into joints (laying aside the breast if you like for salad or slicing cold) boil up and serve very hot.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL EVENT

Jr. O. U. A. M. Observes the Twenty-first Anniversary of Organization.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., celebrated its twenty-first anniversary in the Council room, Thursday, in an informal manner. There were about 150 Juniors present, among whom were several charter members. Harvey R. Thorn, who was instrumental in organizing the Council, discussed the work and growth of the order since he first became identified with the organization, twenty-one years ago.

The first meeting was held in Sons of Temperance hall, which was then on the top floor of the City National Bank building. There were forty charter members and Edward Vail, who is still a member, was the first councillor. During the past decade the Council has shown a steady growth and there are at present 357 members. Thirty-five applicants were initiated during the past year and the financial standing of the Council is excellent, the treasury balancing at present something over $5,000.

In the course of the evening, David Bodine, also a charter member, who has held office continuously for twenty-one years and during the past eight years has been recording secretary, was presented with a beautiful gold watch fob with the emblem of the order. Because of ill-health Mr. Bodine has been compelled to resign from office.

The only other members in the order who can compete with Mr. Bodine in the matter of holding office, are Thomas Currin, Jr., who has been treasurer for the past nine years, and Ephraim Compton as financial secretary for the past six years.

Shepherd Garretson, of Montclair, entertained the members after the meeting with songs, musical selections and magical stunts, all of which were highly appreciated. He was especially good as a story teller, some of his monologues receiving merited applause. The evening's entertainment was arranged by the good and welfare committee, comprising Roy DeCamp, chairman; William J. Pfaffhausk, William Meyers and Edward Mosher.

PARISHONERS GREET REV. CHAS. TOWNSEND

A cordial greeting was extended to Rev. Charles Townsend, in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Thursday, the occasion marking his return to the church as rector, following the action making is a self-supporting parish. There was a large attendance of members of the parish, as well as representatives from the Church of the Holy Nativity, Scotch Plains, and Mrs. George A. Warner, and from St. Stephen's church. Rev. Percival Wood, from the Associate Mission, Trenton, was a guest.

The parish house was elaborately decorated for the occasion, there being a profusion of autumn foliage, dahlias and cut flowers. Mr. Townsend, assisted by several members of the parish, received the guests, and all expressed their pleasure upon his return to the church and wishing him success in his labors.

During the evening a musical was an informal program of music, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, violin and Miss Mabel Maxson, piano, rendering several selections in a delightful manner. The rest of the time was given up to general sociability, during which refreshments, served by a committee comprising Mrs. James Campbell, Miss Elizabeth Forster, Mrs. Fred Harris and Mrs. Charles Borden, assisted by other women of the parish.

Mr. Townsend has now entered upon his duties and plans for the winter will be decided upon within a short time. The various parish organizations will resume activities which have made the church one of the most successful in the West End.

SEVENTY P. H. S. PUPILS AT VARIOUS COLLEGES.

The Plainfield High School is represented in various colleges this year by seventy of its graduates besides others who have gone directly from the high school to college, without graduating. The colleges in which the pupils have gone are in the order of those containing the largest numbers: Rutgers, Cornell, Wellesley, Vassar, Barnard, Smith, Yale, Mount Holyoke, New York University, Stevens, Oberlin, Brown, Alfred, Harvard, Columbia, Princeton, Syracuse, Colgate, Swarthmore, Worcester, Colorado, Hobart, Holy Cross, St. Elizabeth, College City New York. Eleven graduates are pursuing Normal School courses.

The High School auditorium is made attractive by some large plants that have been loaned to the High School by Mrs. W. H. Stevenson, of Evergreen avenue.

Phosphoric acid contains the least amount of earth salts, and for that reason is probably the nearest approach to the elixir of life known to the scientific world.

LEASE OLD MUSIC HALL

Keith & Proctor Signed Agreement Today and will Open Playhouse in December.

Following a conference in the office of William M. Stillman, Friday morning, F. F. Proctor, senior partner of Keith & Proctor, signed a lease for five years for the building formerly known as Stillman, Music Hall and for many years Plainfield's representative playhouse. A force of men will at once be placed at work making extensive repairs and alterations and it is planned to open the place on or about December 1 as a first class vaudeville and moving picture theatre. -Entrance will be through the old lobby, now occupied as a store by Woolworth & Company, who are to move into the new Sebring building a few doors below before November 1.

Negotiations for teh old hall have been carried on for the past three weeks by Harry M. Sanderson, of Cranford, who acted as agent for Keith & Proctor and who will be manager for them. The men at the conference in Mr. Stillman's office previous to the signing of the lease included Mr. Stillman, Mr. Sanderson, F. F. Proctor, F. F. Proctor, *Jr., members of the Woolworth com*pany and Charles P. Sebring. The Woolworth people held a lease on the lobby store and as soon as satisfactory arrangements were made for them to move, they signed an agreement to take the Sebring store for five years with the privilege of five more. As soon as this was accomplished and, a right of way to Music Hall was assured, Mr. Proctor affixed his signature to the theatre lease.

The alterations to the old playhouse will call for an expenditure of several thousands of dollars but the estimates have already been secured and the contractors await the word to proceed. Everything will be done in a hurry as Mr. Proctor stated to a Daily Press reporter before leaving for New York that he would arrange to present his opening bill the week beginning Monday, Novem*ber 30. Daily* matinees will be given and the program will bee hanged weekly or semi-weekly.

The Woolworth company will also make alterations in the front of the new Sebring building in order to have it conform to the style adopted by the concern for all of its stores. Mr. Sebring will take out the large plate glass now in and place it in the front of the building he is erecting on Watchung avenue near North. The Sebring block is one of the handsomest structures in the city and the main store is particularly adapted to the needs of the tenants who have taken it.

In speaking of the deal, Mr. Stillman said at noon today that another local paper was decidedly premature in its statement several days ago that the lease had been signed.

"It was not done until this morning," he declared, "following the conference in my office."

FINED FOR VIOLATION OF SHADE TREE ORDINANCE

The first fine for a violation of the shade tree ordinance was imposed in the city court, Saturday. Ralph Laura, a peddler of dry goods, was the first victim and it cost him a dollar to be reminded that the place to tie his horse is a hitching post and not one of the maples on Richmond street. He might have gotten off on suspended sentence but he got tangled up in an excuse improvised for the occasion.

Since the police have been enforcing the ordinance against tying horses to trees, there have been a great many arrests but heretofore Judge Runyon has suspended sentence on all offenders. The matter has now been given sufficient publicity to apprise every citizen of the law and flimsy excuses for violations are to be passed up. The fine imposed this morning was the first to drop and, though only a small amount, is counted upon to be a big factor in putting an end to the practice.

Adorning The Gown.

That this is a season of elaborate trimming cannot be doubted. Embroidery and soutache braid are even more in vogue than they were last season. The latter decorates net or filet and embroidery, either applied or carried out in designs, is worked in with it.

At the same time the rule of great simplicity of adornment, as regards suits, and in woollen dress fabrics, in the case of dressy toilets, whether designed for day or evening wear, holds good and women should be careful to see that dresses are trimmed suitably for the purposes for which they are intended.

Demonstrated His Efficiency.

Employer—You have called regarding the situation of footman?

Applicant—Yes, my lud.

"Was there not someone in the ante-room as you came in?"

"There was, mmy lud. It was a man with a writ for your ludship; but I threw 'im hout."

"Your are engaged."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FOIL WOULD-BE-BURGLARS

Finding Them on Return Home, Farmer Summons Aid and One is Captured.

PRISONER DREW A KNIFE.

But Was Laid Low by a Well Directed Blow—Taken to Jail—His Pal Escaped.

Following a fierce hand-to-hand struggle on the bank of the Passaic river near Mt. Bethel, Friday night, Frank Cope and his father-in-law, William Mernagh, captured one of two men who had been lurking in the neighborhood for the purpose of committing a robbery. The fellow drew a wicked-looking knife when he found himself hemmed in but it failed to have any deterrent effect on his captors and they felled him to the ground with well directed fist blows. Before Justice of the Peace Lemuel Tunison the prisoner gave his name as John Keesman but refused any further information. He was committed to the county jail at Somerville.

Cope was returning from this city to his home, late last night, when he noticed the two men lurking in the shadow of a hedge running along his property. He proceeded not to see them but on going to the house apprised Mr. Mernagh of his discovery and the two stole back quietly. The strangers became aware of their approach when within a short distance away and both started on a run for the river. One of them escaped by swimming across the stream but the other turned to give battle and was caught. He admitted that he and his companion had contemplated robbery but he denied knowing anything about the man who escaped.

WARREN CHAPEL MEN HOLD A RECEPTION

Under the auspices of the Men's Association of Warren chapel, an excellent musical and literary entertainment, including an address by S. S. Swackhamer, was enjoyed by the members and thefr friends Friday night. The chapel was decorated for the occasion with autumn foliage and flowers. In the absence of the presidents, A. J. Stiglitz, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, took charge of the program which opened with an organ solo by William Dunn, organist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Andrew J. Stiglitz favored the audience with a soprano solo, "Life's Lullaby," after which Mrs. J. O. McKelvey read a story entitled "Sally Ann's Experience," and gave a dialect story. Then Mrs. Stiglitz sang "Enchantment," and "Sing Me to Sleep," for an encore.

After this program, which was greatly enjoyed, S. S. Swackhamer gave the address of the evening. He had no chosen subject, but devoted his remarks entirely to the importance of men's associations in the church and the value of keeping the body and mind in the best of condition for Christian service. He also referred to the great good that is possible for men to do in church work and his words were a source of encouragement.

The entertainment was in charge of a committee of which Gibson Smith was chairman, while J. W. Gavett was chairman of the refreshment committee, which served ice cream, cake and coffee during the social hour.

PEOPLE'S LOBBY HAS LAWMAKERS' RECORDS

Arrangements were made at an executive committee meeting of the People's Lobby, at Newark Friday, for the distribution of the Legislative Record, a manual containing the position taken and the vote cast by candidates for re-election on each important bill introduced in the recent Legislature. It also tells the views of those who are named for the first time as candidates for the State's lawmaking body.

The Record is divided into three sections. The first gives the careers of those approved by the Lobby; the second of those opposed, and the third those who are neither favored nor opposed. R. Henry Depew, of this city, is president of the People's Lobby; Walter Linbarger, of North Plainfield, is secretary, and James E. Marthie, of this city, is one of the vice-presidents.

A Dream.

Wishing to learn what his nephew would say, Uncle Charles asked little Fred: "What would you do if you stood at the root of a tree with your hand on the head of a live rattlesnake a tiger was crouching on a branch above, ready to spring, and you saw a wild Indian running at you with uplifted tomahawk?"

"I should wake right up," was the unexpected reply.—Circle.

ROUSING MASS MEETING

J. M. Thurston, J. S. Frelinghuysen and Others Address Voters.

The Republicans of North Plainfield fired the first gun in the borough political campaign Thursday when they conducted a mass meeting and rally in Saengerbund hall. An announced list of good speakers and a fife and drum corps sent through the streets early in the evening, brought out a capacity crowd that included many women. Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman called the meeting to order and introduced Dr. H. K. Carroll as chairman. The speakers included former United States Senator John M. Thurston, of Nebraska; Hon. E. T. Lovett, of New York; Congressman Ira W. Wood, of Trenton, and county candidates, Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Assemblyman W. W. Smalley. A colored quartet injected musical harmony into the gathering.

The speechmaking lasted three hours during which Republican principles and doctrines were expounded in varied fashion and but it remained for Senator Frelinghuysen to make the address that created the most enthusiasm in the crowd. He was frequently interrupted by applause of the genuine sort and not the variety induced by patriotic sentiments.

At the outset of his address, the senator took occasion to say that during his three years' term in the State senate, he had been kept very busy with the duties of the office and that while he had acquitted them in the best interests of the people as he thought, he might have made some mistakes.

"It has been my aim during my stewardship," said the senator, "to do the most good for the greatest number of people, not a great deal of good to a few people. My automobile law has been severely criticised but it certainly has done no harm to the safe and sane autoists of this State. On the other hand, it has accomplished just what it was intended for excelling a ball on the speed maniacs who used New Jersey's highways with utter disregard of life and limb and bringing a fair proportion of returns in licenses for the damage done to the roads built by the people at great expense. A total of $85,000 was collected from this source the first year, but the repairs to the highways have been so expensive that we had to raise the auto fees and we now get $200,000 a year in licenses.

"The law has done a great deal of good so far but there is still room for improvement in this direction and the most pressing need is an abatement of the dust nuisance. It is not only annoying to people living along the highways used by the autos but it is injurious to the crops. I promise to use my influence, if returned to the senate, to have half the returns from fees expended in putting down oil preparations on the roads to relieve the trouble.

Continuing further, Mr. Frelinghuysen said he was not in favor of the proposed coast highway from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May, the estimated cost being $10,000,000. He declared his preference for the building of local roads before taxing the people for an enterprise of this kind.

"If the State has a surplus in its road account," he said, "let it be used to take the burden of repairs off the counties. Somerset spends $5,000 a year in keeping up the high school, the appointment of a commission to inquire into the disuse of the Delaware and Raritan canal, the passing of the act giving voters the privilege of voting for or against the use of voting machines, the Civil Service law, the appointment of the Excise Commission, of which Mayor Charles J. Fisk is chairman. He also introduced the auto act and the Live Stock act and its commission and voted against the primary election law, expressing his opinion that it is a rich man's law. Be*fore resuming* his seat, he called the attention of the voters to the fact that a vote for State Senator this year means a vote for United States Senator during the term.

Former Senator Thurston was the first speaker of the evening and delivered an address that was full of *Republican generalities without mak*ing any startling assertions or letting fall anything new in the way of campaign material. He dwelt upon the fact that the American people have been living in a peaceful and prosperous times for the past twelve years and said it would be to their best interests to keep in office the people who have been responsible for it. There have been occasions, of course, he said, when in certain localities the manufacturies have let down for brief periods but in the past ten years there hasn't been one dishonest, deserving laboring man who hasn't had a chance. The United States has also done well in international relations, he continued, and during the McKinley administration so far advanced in military and naval power that it commands the respect and admiration of all countries.

"Whenever a people are doing well," he said, "they should keep on doing it and the people under whom they are doing it should be let alone until they fall somewhere else." He says the Republican party of Lincoln no longer exists, that it has degenerated and has surrendered to the corporations, but that the men of both parties are growing wiser, stronger and more patriotic than ever before. The Republican party has not broken faith or failed in its promises any year it has been in power."

The senator asserted that since the war of the Rebellion, the one great issues between the Republican parties has been the protective tariff and yet Bryan keeps silent about it. He reviewed the history of the Wilson bill which the Peerless one made his first great speech in Congress in favor of, and asserted that the country has never known such financial depression as followed its passage. Prosperity was restored, he said, when the Republicans made their great McKinley victory in 1896 and substituted the Dingley tariff act for the odious measure.

"If the Democrats get in again," said Senator Thurston, "it will be because they control the votes of the populace in great cities like New York and Chicago, where the people who don't know the Constitution from a drug store almanac. The Republican majorities are piled up by the great mass of American working people who have been in this country long enough to know conditions and can be trusted to take care of it. Where people are raising hogs and big crops of corn and wheat it is a guaranteed certainty its a Republican community but where the schools are a curiosity, the churches a mystery and the people are raising cane, cotton and Hell it's Democratic."

In conclusion the speaker told of Bryan's plan to place a tax on the banks of the country to create a fund from which the depositors of insolvent banks would be repaid. He declared there was about as much sense or justice in it as putting a tax on Plainfield grocerymen to pay the debtors of a business man in Nebraska who failed to meet his obligations. With this fund of Bryan's created, the Democrats plan to open up all over the West in order to exist awhile and then fail in order to get some of the tax money from the sound Eastern institutions. The Democratic candidate of the presidency, he continued, makes a great ado about economy but he says he said that the thing to do in this respect is to regulate not to destroy. He explained the so-called trusts as combinations of capital made necessary by the struggle for commercial supremacy in the crops.

Before the meeting closed, Congressman Wood, Assemblyman Smalley and County Clerk A. G. Anderson spoke briefly. The vice-presidents on the platform included Charles A. Reed, E. S. Hooley, W. G. Besler, Dr. Richard Moldenke and Dr. J. H. Cropley. The Plainfield officials were invited to join in the rally but none of them showed up.

TOUCHED WRONG BELL, FIRE ALARM SOUNDED

The children in the Stillman grammar school were given a scare Thursday afternoon, when the fire alarm was accidentally sounded by a visiting boy in the building. Miss Isabelle Ball, who holds the position of truant officer dropped at the school to see Miss Dale the principal. She called at the office and not finding anyone in at the time, walked to the hall and pressed what she supposed was the call bell.

Quicker than the incidents could be described, Miss Ball was stacked to see all of the children marching out of their rooms, through the halls and so out of the building. It was several minutes before Miss Ball fully realized what she did, and then she was profuse in her apologies to Miss Day.

This is not the first time that a similar accident has occurred at one school or another, and in speaking of the matter today, Principal W. Travell expressed the opinion that it would be necessary to have a small sign placed near the fire alarm button, indicating what it is and that he believed would obviate any further trouble. The children left the school yesterday in record time, marching out in excellent order, without the slightest interruption.

When you can afford but one parasol get a white one. A few years back the choice would have been invariably dark navy blue for economy, but now white has taken its place.

Either in linen or in silk it is wonderfully serviceable, and if soiled can be regularly scrubbed with soap and water.

Do not get an elaborate parasol lace trimmed and ruffled. Nothing gives more satisfaction and looks so well on all occasions as a well-shaped parasol of white linen with a large heavily padded monogram in one of the panels.

NEW PASTOR INSTALLED

Rev. Mr. Matthews Takes Formal Charge of Scotch Plains Baptist Church.

It was a genuine town welcome Rev. and Mrs. Franklin Matthews received Thursday at the installation of Mr. Matthews, as pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, and the reception to pastor and wife held in the church parsonage at the close of the installation. The large congregation was a representative one and included members of the other churches in the village and nearby towns.

The pulpit was prettily banked with flowers, palms and autumn leaves. The committee in charge had hoped to have Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, pastor of the church from 1863 to 1878, present to preside over the service, but his health would not permit him to accept the invitation. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church of Plainfield, consented to take his place.

The evening program was an interesting one, the musical program, which was in charge of Frank Conger, being a feature. Rev. Dr. T. B. Thames, of the First Baptist church, of Elizabeth, was the first speaker of the evening, his topic being, "The pastor and his pupil." Mr. Thames spoke of his personal friendship and love for the new pastor, and said that the northern ministry was pained to hear of his accepting a call to Dixie Land several years ago. "Do not forget," said Dr. Thames, "that your pastor's pulpit is yours in a way, yet in another way it is not your pastor's. Also whatever else belong to the church as a whole, the pulpit is the pastor's, and he is responsible for it and is expected to uphold its dignity at all times. If you think he is not capable or worthy of the responsibility you should have left him down in Dixie. The pulpit is no more sacred than the pew, but the dignity belongs to the pulpit and it should be maintained at any cost. The man you have called I know will do this for the good of his fellowman and the glory of God."

Rev. Dr. Chambliss gave the charge: "The pastor and his people." "The relation of pastor and people is times likkng to the marriage bond," he declared. "The church being the bride. It is customary on such an occasion as this to wish the bride all happiness and to congratulate the groom. For this reason I desire to express my best wishes to the church and extend my congratulations to the pastor, for in the relationship you have assumed. I have known some ministers who actually considered they were doing a church a favor by accepting a call to its pastorate. I can say from personal knowledge of the man that our brother is not one of that kind.

"You have given your religious cares into the keeping of this man. You will still study and look forward, but he is to guide you. If he does this I am sure you will fulfill your obligations. My only charge to him is that the church expects him to be a man not a boy; a pastor gentle not harsh, agreeable but not servile, one to preach practical truths from the pulpit. Let the people know you as their friend and God will bless your work."

Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, of the Central Baptist church of Elizabeth, followed, delivering the charge of relation of "People to Pastor."

During the services a delightful violin solo was rendered by M. A. Korff, of Plainfield, accompanied by Miss Lottie May Conger on the piano.

The reception at the parsonage was largely attended, the decorations being white and green. Rev. and Mrs. Matthews were assisted in receiving by the women of the church. During the evening light refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Temple Builders' Active.

The Temple Builders' Society, of the First Baptist church, which supports and maintains the Yerkes chapel at Tettu, India, is planning an active winter's campaign to increase its revenue and membership. The officers are as follows: President, Charles S. Thompson; vice-president, Harold Serrell; secretary, Leslie Powlison; treasurer, Ernest K. Powlison. The chapel was built in 1891 at a cost of $260 raised through the efforts of the Young Women's Missionary Society. The chapel was completed early the following year and was named Yerkes chapel, in honor of the late Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, for nearly fifty years, pastor of the First Baptist church. As the young women found it impossible to continue the work it was turned over to the Temple Builders and that society raises $100 a year to employ a native preacher there. The society has a membership of forty.

Gave an Autmun Tea.

An autumn tea was given in honor of Mrs. E. E. Miller, of Petersburg, Va., at the residence of Mrs. C. J. Mackoy, of West Fourth street, Wednesday afternoon. There were about seventy guests. Mrs. Miller is the wife of the former rector of the colored mission connected with Grace church and has been visiting friends in town.

What We Long to Do Satisfied in the Heavenly World

I love to think of Heaven as the place where we shall be able to do what we long to do. We shall carry then into that world something more than our capacity; we shall take our longings. All we could never be in this world and longed to be, we shall be in the world to come.

It would not be satisfactory to some souls to tell them that they will take their capacity to the other world because they think their capacity is so limited. They have longed for capacity. They have desired to do certain things they have seen others do and they have felt that they could do them, were they not hampered by some bodily infirmity, by poverty or by lack of opportunity. They have had dreams of the the things they love, and they have failed to realize their ambitions because they lacked opportunity. Heaven, *therefore, to be perfectly satisfac*tory, must to to them the place where they are free to realize the deep longings of their hearts. With this hope inspiring them they can say:

"What is our failure here but a triumph's evidence
For the fulness of our days."

We are limited here because there is some impediment in the bodily vehicle of expression. We are not all that we long to be, and shall be, but we believe that

"All we have wished, or hoped, or dreamed of good shall exist.
Not its semblance, but itself.
The high that proved too high, the heroic
For earth too hard."

We have all read of the achievements of surgery in reference to the body of ours. A man for example is weakminded, or possesses immoral traits, but a surgical operation often transforms him. What a wan[illegible] trouble with that man's life? Simply this, that his brain did not perfectly represent him and his possibilities. It is a well recognized fact that sometimes mental and moral disturbances are due solely to physical causes. An all-seeing and loving God knows what is caused by pure sinfulness, and what can only be charged to imperfection in bodily organization. This earthly body carries out the souls demands, but it is imperfectly. It may want to do, and be, and you can't, and how you chafe against your limitations. Don't you suppose that the very things you long for will be realized in the after-life? You are more than you can possibly realize but death will mean a liberation to you—a liberation of your hidden powers—and when liberated, you will be able to make progress along the lines you love.

Heaven will be the place of satisfaction for the unfortunate man whose life has been a series of misfortunes. Something has happened him; some imperfection in his environment or physical being. But in that world, he will be so perfect that the "body will know no weariness nor incompetence; the soul no sorrow nor sin; ignorance will not incapacitate; uncertainty will not disquiet."

To Swedenborg, Heaven is the counterpart of this earthly life. Our occupations here, will be our occupations there; only grander opportunities will be ours in that world for the display of all our powers. There will be opportunities there for the thinking man which are inconceivable now. I would rather put it in this way; the things we love to do, and long to do, we shall do there. That, too, not with the one-sided take with us our capacity, but our latent capacity; the capacity that never had a chance for display in this life, because we have been so pampered by some mental or physical infirmity.

The Buddhist Heaven, "Nirvana," has been interpreted by oriental scholars to mean a place where the soul is annihilated; a place or a condition that is reached after that soul has passed through numberless existences on earth. That seems poor satisfaction to us, but the religion of Buddha is based on the misery of life, and therefore, the only rest is the rest of practical annihilation. Professor Hoffding' of Copenhagen, offers another interpretation. "Nirvana," he says, is a form of existence which is free from the nothingness to us because absolutely unrelated to anything we have experienced on earth. That, we must confess, is a better hope than the hope of annihilation, but the conception is totally at variance with the revelations of our Lord. The heavenly world is in intimate relation with the experiences of this life. It is a continuation of this life. The experiences of this life have their value, for, while there will be no suffering in that world we are assured that the sufferings of this earthly plane are working out the eternal glory.

Every experience, therefore, is of moment which the Lord permits us to pass through, for in some way, these experiences are working out the eternal weight of glory. Heaven is not the opposite of all we know, as a Buddhist pictures it. It is not the contradiction of the life that now is, for that would mean that all our life here is valueless. Christ declares that while the life hereafter far exceeds our life here, it is continuous with this life. Into that world we shall carry over not only our capacity, but the instincts and longings of our nature.

It is for this reason that we say that this life is a perplexity, if there is no other life. Prof. Momerie has said that "it will be a reparation, as well as to redeem the present from contempt." It certainly is true that this life is contemptible if there is no other where the longings of the human soul will be realized. You put meaning into this life if you regard it as only a preparation, as only the beginning of a life that hye and hye is to be unspeakably glorious. There is injustice and imperfection here. It isn't always the good man that flourishes while the bad man suffers.

Think of the good men that have suffered and died for their religious convictions. They have not been rewarded in this life. They have died for their faith. Do not

"The facts of life confirm the hope. This in a world of larger scope,
What here is faithfully begun
Will be completed, not undone."

The experiences of this life only have a meaning as we see them in the light of eternity. Shelley thought of himself as being shipwrecked into life. It was so because the glory of the eternal world did not shine in upon his life.

Kant, the German philosopher, believed that man must be immortal because he has a conscience. "Conscience points a man to perfection; to a perfection that cannot be realized in this life." If there is nothing more than earth for man, man is overweighted on the moral side of his being."

Men possess ideals which they are never able to realize in this life. Beethoven dreamed of harmonies that he could never set to music. The great Raphael confessed that his greatest art work was not perfect. He had visions of perfection which he could never accomplish.

Why is it that we possess ideals that we never seem able to realize? Our visions are ever greater than our accomplishments. Some of us do not even begin to realize our visions. We seem to be so unfitted and incapacitated for what we long for. What is it that we lack? The answer is clear, and the answer is the only solution to the problems of this life. It is this, that the Lord teaches you and me that the life of peace and satisfaction, is the life that is lived on eternal lines. You have been thinking of eternity as a time after the life in this world. The Lord speaks of it as a present possession. You will never die. Death in the Scripture, is called an Exodus, for it is the crossing over from a condition of bondage and limitation, to the condition of heavenly freedom. You will carry over your capacities, and you will carry over your longings, what you would be if something had not handicapped you. Your every dreams will be realized, for there were not so He would have told you.

FIRST LONDON MAIL BY THE PENNY POST

Great Britain sent to the United States by the Lusitania which arrived Friday, the first mail to be carried across the ocean at the recently reduced postage rates. Among the very first letters to be delivered was one to State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, sent from London by the Junior Philatelic Society. The letter was enclosed in an elaborately designed envelope commemorative of the new postal era and reads as follows:

"London, Oct. 1, 1908.

"Sir—Enclosed in a special designed souvenir envelope we greet you by the first penny post mail to leave England under the new postage arrangement. The envelope should bear the postmark, October 1, the date on which the new rate, which we trust will bring out our two great nations into closer bonds of friendship and business relationship comes, into force. We are, sir, yours faithfully,

"The Junior Philatelic Society.
"ARTHUR SELINGER."

The envelope carring the letter bears the English penny stamp which has for its centre design the head of King Edward VII. The color and value is the same as the two-cent stamp of the United States. Senator Ackerman, is one of two Americans belonging to the Royal Philatelic Society, of which King Edward is president.

In the same mail The Daily Press received a letter from London bearing the penny stamp.

Mildew Stains.

Should the clothes be mildewed, the stains may be removed by a mixture containing equal parts of soft soap and starch, half as much common salt and the juice of half a lemon. This may be rubbed on the spots and the article should be laid on the grass all day and all night until the stain entirely disappears.

For the benefit of sportsmen, the game warden desires to give a warning that hunting in a trucking now is strictly prohibited by the game law and all offenders will be severely dealt with.

MR. RANDOLPH'S LECTURE

The "Banker Poet" Pictures Constantinople and Relates Its History.

DESCRIBES PRESENT TROUBLE.

Says the Young Turk Hates the Jew and Despises the Christian—Gives Some Personal Incidents.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, Monday, L. V. F. Randolph gave a highly interesting lecture on "Constantinople," supplemented at the close with about twenty views taken by him while traveling abroad a few months ago. The lecture gave evidence of great care in preparation and treated the subject in an exhaustive manner. He described the present trouble in Turkey as an evolution of many years growth. He said that when he was in Turkey he heard mutterings of the young Turk's ambition which has so recently been exhibited in a public demonstration.

Mr. Randolph said that naturally the great powers are looking out for their own interests in the Turkish provinces. In referring to the young Turk the speaker said that he hates the Jew and despises the Christian, yet in some respects he is better than the old Turk. He is brave, but slow to yield to Christians. He declared that Turkey must rely on Europe for the protection of her rights, but he did not believe that all the trouble to be worth the cost of war. In referring to the peculiarities of the Turk Mr. Randolph said that notwithstanding that there is a magnificent powerful fleet in readiness, the sailors never exercise. The Turks have no 4th of July when they make anything or accomplish a certain object their duty ceases and it is not for them to give the matter any further thought.

Mr. Randolph in closing his lecture related several personal incidents, some of an amusing character, which he had while visiting Constantinople. He referred to the great many yellow dogs to be found there. He said that no one molested these will. It is estimated that there are at least 100,000 homeless, ownerless yellow dogs. Mr. Randolph's description of his trip was of exceptional interest and he held the close attention of the large audience throughout. Afterward when the club held its annual meeting a vote of thanks was extended to him for the enjoyable occasion.

BAPTIST S.S. CONVENTION HERE TUESDAY, OCT. 20

The fifty-seventh annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday School Association will be held with the First Baptist church on Tuesday, October 20. There will be three sessions. The morning session will begin at 10 a. m., the afternoon session at 2 p. m. and the evening session at 7:30 p. m.

A strong program has been arranged. In addition to the routine business there will be a number of addresses relating to different departments of Sunday school work.

Morning Session.

Prayer and Praise Service, led by Rev. G. H. Gardner, of New Market; Words of Welcome, Rev. J. A. Chambliss, D. D., of this city; reply by secretary; appointment of committees; Address, "Some Recognizable Processes to Successful Teaching," Rev. W. E. Foote; address, "The Man and the Book," William H. Bawden; discussion upon the subjects of the addresses.

Afternoon Session.

Praise service, led by Rev. C. J. Greenwood; address, "Remaking the Future," Rev. J. Madison Hare; offering; address, "Sunday-school Difficulties and How to Meet Them," Rev. W. T. Dorward; address, "Weak Links and How to Mend Them," Rev. W. Hawkins; discussion on the Topics Presented; treasurer's report; report of committees; election of officers; miscellaneous business.

Evening Session.

Prayer and praise service, led by F. K. Mathiews; offering; singing; address "The Nicest and the Best," Rev. E. A. Woods, D. D.; singing, benediction; the singing of the sessions conducted by Rev. C. F. Stanley.

The officers of the Sunday School Association are: President, G. H. Batchelor, of this city; vice-president, S. Preston, Jersey City; secretary and treasurer, Rev. F. Fletcher, Dunellen.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss May Irwin will play "Mrs. Peckham's Carouse," which has met with success at the Garrick Theatre, in London in the spring, in one of Charles Frohman's theatres.

The new Evans bust of Miss Maude Adas has just been finished and is placed in the lobby of the Empire Theatre, New York. The work of the comparatively unknown sculptor, Rudolph Evans, this bronze likness of Miss Adams is an unusually happy piece of work.

When Miss Ethel Barrymore comes to the Hudson Theatre, New York, in her new play "Lady Frederick" the whole Drew family will be in town. Miss Louise Drew is achieving the most creditable work of her brief stage career as a member of Miss Billie Burke's company in "Love Watches." Her father, John Drew, has the best play provided him in years in "Jack Straw;" so with Miss Barrymore located at the Hudson, the reunion of the family will be complete.

"Mater," the brilliant new comedy of "love and laughter" by Percy MacKaye now being presented under the direction of Sterling Miller at the Savoy Theatre, New York, is probably the greatest success of the new metropolitan season. Played by a splendid company including Isabel Irving, Charles A. Stevenson, Frederick Lewis, Hazel MacKaye and John Junkin, the giving slightly nightly to as many theatre lovers as can crowd into the Savoy. The New York critics, almost unanimously are enthusiastic about "Mater," and say that it raises Mr. MacKaKye to the front rank of contemporary playwrights and that it is another laurel to the chaplet now being worn by Henry Miller as an upholder and producer of all that is best in modern drama. The New York Sun gave a column of praise for the wit, humor and satire of "Mater."

In the production of the new comic opera, "The Golden Butterfly," at the Broadway Theatre, New York on Monday, music lovers are promised an event of more than ordinary interest, as the work is the latest contribution of Harry B. Smith and Reginald de Koven to the lyric field.

Grace Van Studdiford, for whom Smith and de Koven also wrote "Maid Marian" and "Red Feather," is the star. Miss Van Studdiford will be remembered as the best prima donna the Bostonians Opera Company ever had. Miss Van Studdiford has some beautiful numbers in the new opera, notably "Do not Forget Me" and "The Butterfly and the Clover." She is a beautiful woman with a beautiful voice, and she is equally attractive in her acting. In "The Golden Butterfly" the authors have written a light opera which returns to the style of "Robin Hood" and other productions of some twenty years ago, and which has a real heart interest story with a plot.

"A Gentleman from Mississippi," at the Bijou, is elected to a long term of prosperity by overwhelming popular vote of New York's playgoers. William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer have picked another winner and created two more successful stars. Thomas A. Wise and Douglas Fairbanks are capital foils, the first as a cheery, courtly Southern statesman of the old school, a type of sterling honesty; the other as a breezy audacious and assertive young New York correspondent. They are the heart and brains of a combine that nevertheless is full of comedy and trickery. The new comedy is American to the back bone, and immensely amusing. As "The Times" described its effect "the audience laughed until their sides ached and then sobbed more." The striking catch lines in the various New York criticisms would fill a column. Most significant is the praise of the people who see this vital, stirring play and tell others to see it. Success came swiftly for money was turned away at the second performance. "A Gentleman from Mississippi" will crowd the Bijou for months. Seats twelve weeks ahead are already announced.

Proctor's Theatre, Newark.

During the week of October 12, the chief theatrical happening in Newark will be the grand program. Effie Fay, whose engagement a few weeks ago was suddenly terminated by illness, fully recovered from her indisposition and will sing in her inimitable way the "Belle of Avenue A" and some brand new ditties. That sterling English actor, William Hawtrey, and company will produce a bright one act comedy entitled "Compromised." Without doubt one of the cleverest of female jugglers Zelma Braats will gain praise with her grace and dexterity. Something of a decided novelty, the Hawaiian Trio, will offer a pretty musical act, enhanced by the picturesque setting of that Pacific island. The costuming is also very appropriate. Emma Francis and her Whirlwind Arabs in a lightning like acrobatic turn. Back to his own again comes Newark's favorite ventriloquist, Arthur Lloyd, with a series of conquests on the other side with his ventriloquial novelty, "In the Battle Field." Watson and Morrissey Sisters will be seen in a neatly costumed and up-to-date singing and dancing turn. Two dusky hued performers, Anderson and Cotnes, will sing and dance their way into favor. A new series of animated pictures.

GOOD PROGRAM AT FAIR ACRES MATINEE MEET

The disagreeable weather on Saturday had considerable affect on the attendance at the matinee race meet at the driving park, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Club. This was regretted for the reason that a good program had been arranged and several valuable prizes were offered.

Class B and C, which could not be finished a week ago, were run off, and in addition there were two other trotting events, Classes A and D. In Class, B, Frank Irving's "Fred V." was the winner, taking one heat in addition to the two the week before. In Class C, C. C. Brower's "Sidney Leland," was the winner, finishing first in the second and third heats. Excellent time was made in all four events. The summaries:

Class A.

Aron B. A. C. Blair	1	1	1
Lady Onward, W. Gross	2	2	2
Joe McGregor, G. Forgerson	3	3	3

Time—2:30¼, 2:25¾, 2:28.

Class B.

Time—2:32, 2:32, 2:30¼.

P. H. S. BOYS DEFEAT WESTFIELD H. S. LADS

The Plainfield High School football eleven had a close game at Westfield on Saturday, when it played its first game with the high school team of that place. The Plainfield boys won out, the final score being 5 to 0, but it was only after the hardest kind of work that they scored. Bing Aman made the touch-down in the first half. The teams were about of even weight, but Westfield displayed more strength than was expected, especially in the tight places. However, Plainfield play a fine game throughout and held the opposing team to the end. The halves were fifteen and twenty minutes. For Plainfield Roy Phillips refereed and Sampter was one of the linesmen. On Saturday, P. H. S. will play Rutgers Preps on Hope Common. P. H. S. lineup on Saturday, as was as follows:

PARK GOLF PLAYERS CONTEST FOR CUPS

Although less than a dozen contestants posted their scores for the President's and Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, the playing was close an exciting and but few points separated the leaders in their efforts to score for the trophies. Monday's contest will be held. The following scores:

W. V. Gano, 88, 0-88; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 90, 1-89; W. E. Lough, 100, 11-89; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 95, 4-91; W. V. Byard, 101, 9-92; W. R. Faber, 185, 6-97; W. C. McNaughton, 107, 9-98.

In the play for challenge trophy number one, Walter C. McNaughton, holder, defeated W. R. Faber, challenger, by 4 up and 3 to play; while W. V. Byard, challenger, won from L. R. Thurlow, holder, by default, for trophy number two, and C. B. Morse defaulted to Dr. A. W. Anderson for trophy number three.

MR. AND MRS. H. C. IRONS PRESENT BAPTISMAL FONT.

Infant baptism at Warren chapel Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, was of unusual interest by reason of the fact that he announced that the new baptismal font, used for the first time for infant baptism, was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Irons, of this city. It is considered one of the handsomest in the city. It is beautifully carved and was made by hand.

The following infants were baptized Sunday: Ruth Eleanor Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Wheeler; Howard Aaron Winn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winn; Myrtle Evelyn Sackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Sackett. In the afternoon Mr. McKelvey baptited Fred Breem, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Breem at their home at Richmond and East Third streets.

TO SELL BLUE RIBBONERS

E. S. HOOLEY'S DAUGHTER.

Miss Mabel B. Hooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of North Plainfield, who for several years has been a prominent exhibitor and winner at all the leading horse shows in America, is going to withdraw from the horse shows, temporarily at least, and has commissioned Francis M. Ware to close out her stable of prize winners at a special sale to be held at the American Horse Exchange, New York, Friday night.

Miss Hooley is one of the most skilful amateur horsewomen in the country. She has been prominent as an exhibitor at Eastern horse shows since 1905, when she brought out her now famous chestnut mares, Quaker Maid and Dorothea.

In single, double and tandem harness these superb mates last year beat the pick of the country, winding up the season by winning in Madison Square Garden with such champions as Kitty Gray and Norine, Menella and Bussie and Phoebe Snow and Jack Tempest behind them. For combined quality, conformation and action few pairs have been seen that classed with them; in fact, dealers at the American Horse Exchange considered Quaker Maid to be about the most perfect specimen of the thoroughbred harness horse ever seen there, when George D. King sold the pair to Miss Hooley's father, Edwin S. Hooley about three years ago.

Other notable winners in Miss Hooley's stable are The Czar, a heavy weight saddle horse that carried off the championship at Philadelphia last year; Mansfield, a light weight saddle horse; The Little Corporal, a harness pony, that was second to Harvey S. Ladew's wonderful little roan Tire All There in one of the strongest classes of its kind Plainfield show this year; Delight, a woman's saddle mare, and Delight and Bohemian Lad, a typical pair of cabriolet or phaeton horses that have won several prizes at the summer shows.

It is said that Miss Hooley has become fascinated with the auto and that following the dispersal of her blue ribbon horses she will purchase a Mercedes, a Panhard, a Packard and a Thomas Flyer.

LITERARY

The front cover of this October number is in full colors and alone is worth the price of the magazine, which is now on all news stands. The hunting season, which is now on, occupies more notice in this number than some of the other sports, and the illustrations are particularly satisfying as all of them represent actual scenes. Sportsmen generally will appreciate the table giving the full season for game both in the United States and Canada, and a full study of this may save some of them heavy fines. This number of Recreation is profusely illustrated and altogether will appeal to the lover of outdoor sports.

The live wire of practical interest runs through the October Atlantic, including all its articles and illuminating its varied pictures of life. John Bates Clark continues the Atlantic's study of Socialism by an article on "Education and the Socialistic Movement." With pungent criticism and pertinent suggestion an able New York editor discusses optimistically the question which is the daily despair of the thoughtful—"Is an Honest Newspaper Possible?"

The coming of the fall months of the year is aptly symbolized in the fine picture (in colors) of Hallowe'en fun which decorates the front cover of the October American Boy, and the contents will be found most enjoyable by grown-ups as well as the boys. The serials by Hendrik Tomlinson, and Optic are continued, and Weir's story of Circus life is concluded.

Whether it is watching airships daringly smash a record or keep in elbow touch with all of the great moving figures in public life, Joe Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, always seems to be "Right there." The October National fairly glistens with autumn radiance of lively, entertaining and truly readable literature that is as characteristic of the sprightly Boston magazine. Whether the feats of hazardous airship flights, chats with aeronauts, or giving a glimpse in strenuous campaign days of the home life of the candidates—all is there.

Taking Special Course.

BOROUGH H. S. PLAYS TIE GAME WITH RAHWAY

The football team from the North Plainfield High School played its first game of the season with the Rahway High School eleven, Saturday, at the latter place, and neither side was able to score. The elevens were very evenly matched and the contest was nip and tuck from start to finish. The halves were twenty and fifteen minutes and every minute of time the game was marked by clean, sharp work. The borough boys felt confident of a victory, but had to be satisfied with a tie game. They are entitled to every bit of credit, however, for their opponents have already played two games this season, while it was the first for North Plainfield.

The borough team was weakened to some extent by the absence of Tone Overton, who was unable to play owing to a boil on his heel. He expects to be in the game on Wednesday, when the team will play Battin High School, of Elizabeth, on the borough field. Saturday's lineup was as follows:

Referee—W. Crosby, Rahway; W. Hamilton, Plainfield; umpires, W. Hamilton and W. Crosby; timers, Principal B. J. Phelps, Plainfield, I. Ayers, Rahway; linesmen, L. Crue, Rahway; G. Bailey and Elsworth Bennett, Plainfield.

HOLY CROSS DEFEATS BOUND BROOK HIGH

The Holy Cross Club football eleven in the game with the Bound Brook High School team, Saturday afternoon, on the cricket field, showed conclusively that it is the high school class. The weight of the two elevens was about even, an average of 128 pounds.

The game began promptly at 3:20 with Holy Cross kicking off. From that minute it was a stern struggle, Bound Brook losing a chance to beat of it by working many trick plays. Nevertheless, when the whistle sounded at the end of the first half, Holy Cross had the ball within five yards of Bound Brook's line. Neither side side scored the first half.

The second half started with fast and hard play. Holy Cross evidently having gauged the weak points in the visiting team's line. Straight football and a reserve of trick plays did the work for Holy Cross and the ball was soon over the line, through the efforts of Miller, the halfback. Williams failed on a kick for a goal. Coyle on end and Nash fullback, made substantial gains, while Miller and Williams tore up the opposing line again and again, resulting in a touch down, but failed to kick the goal was kicked by Vail, quarterback.

By clever interference in the remaining time of play, Holy Cross soon worked around the ends and finished up by line plunges for another touch down, a touch back having already been made. The final score was 18 to 0 in favor of Holy Cross.

Quarterback Vail showed excellent judgment in directing the plays and the whole team played straight football. The arrangements for a clear and concise report of the game were perfect. No one except officials were allowed within the roped-off field. Special officers Irby and Pope were on duty. The next game will be played with Somerville High School on the Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. New Brunswick is scheduled for a later date.

Centre, Lindsey; quarter-back, R. Vail; fall-back, Nash; right halfback, Miller or Williams; guards, Blazier and Sharp; tackles, Neff and Brakeley; ends, Little and Coyle.

Sinclair was unable to play owing to an injury sustained by receiving a ball in his foot, not an injury to the footheel. Miller and Robertson were the substitutes.

In Honor of Guest.

A pleasant party was given in honor of Mrs. Pansy E. Luckey, of Kenoza Lake, N. Y., by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Davidis, of East Second street, Saturday night, when a dozen of Miss Luckey's friends called. The evening was spent in playing games the winners of which received pretty china prizes. Popular songs and instrumental music were heartily enjoyed by all and at a late hour refreshments were served. The decorations, in red and green of autumn leaves, were very effective and pretty.

WINNERS' CUP PLAY AT THE COUNTRY CLUB LINKS

In addition to the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups, Classes A and B, at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, there was the initial play for the Winners' cup, presented by W. Lester Greeney, and this brought out a large number of contestants. The conditions imposed for this competition was that any member who had won a cup or points for a cup this season up to and including Labor Day was eligible to compete in the handicap match play.

The competition will continue on Saturdays until election day, when the finals will be played. The result of Saturday's competition is as follows:

Henry D. Hibbard, 7, beat H. S. Fox, 24 by 1 up; W. B. Tyler, 22, beat J. B. Gearson, 20, by 3 up and 2 to play; George S. Clay, 24, beat L. A. Chase, 17, by default; S. C. Lounsbury drew a bye; A. L. Willis, 9, beat J. P. Murray, 18, by default; W. T. Glenney, 6, beat H. M. Church, 24 by default; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 14, beat H. C. Munger, 16, by default; A. E. Barclay, 22, beat E. A. Patterson, 22, by 1 up; Dudley H. Barrows, 4, beat A. G. Henderson, 20, by default; J. A. Lane 17, beat Becker, 8, by 5 up and 4 to play; G. F. Earle, 20, and F. S. Talmadge, 6, both defaulted; L. H. Van Buren, 25, beat F. O. Reinhart, 4, by default; D. H. Rowland, 9, beat Leighton Calkins, 8, by 2 up and 1 to play; C. W. King, 26, beat D. Riggs, 12, by 4 up and 3 to play; J. R. Evans, 25, beat Percy H. Stewart 12, by default.

H. D. Hibbard vs. W. B. Tyler; George S. Clay vs. S. D. Lounsbury; A. L. Willis vs. W. T. Glenney; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges vs. A. E. Barclay; Dudley H. Barrows vs. J. A. Lane; L. H. VanBuren by default; D. H. Rowland vs. C. W. King; Arthur Murphy vs. J. R. Evans.

In the play for the Fall Handicap cups, Class A, three contestants tied for first place and they each received two points. In Class B there were also two players that tied with an 8, dividing one point. The scores:

Class A—C. Whitney Baker, 25, 6-74; Arthur Murphy, 32, 8-74; S. D. Lounsbury, 33, 9-76.

ONCE WEALTHY MAN PENNILESS AT DEATH

William Greenwood, who had been well known about the city and borough for the past fifteen years, died Saturday in Muhlenberg Hospital. He had been ailing for over a year with a stomach affection and Bright's disease.

Greenwood was between sixty-five and seventy years old, and when the first came to Plainfield he was reputed to be quite wealthy. He owned considerable real estate at the Mora and other places and had a controlling interest in the old baseball property in the borough through which Fairview avenue and other streets were cut for improvement purposes. Some few years ago he lost all his money, but from what cause he never stated fully any more than to say at odd times that he had been robbed of it. He was also known to people around town by his ownership of a thoroughbred, coal-black Kentucky horse that he drove everywhere without a bridle and was his constant companion. He retained the animal after all else had been taken from him and he was heartbroken when he eventually had to give it up to satisfy a judgment against him. Just before his illness began, he eked out an existence by working in livery stables.

Greenwood was a native of Cincinnati where his father equipped and gave the city its first horse drawn fire apparatus. He leaves a wife, who lives in Europe, and two sons, one living in Canada and the other at Middletown, this State. The funeral arrangements have not been made, pending word from them. The body is being held at Cole's undertaking rooms.

SWEARS MRS. CURLEY WAS OF SOUND MIND

Ray Packer, of this city, a relative, gave testimony before G. W. Vroom, a special commissioner, on Saturday, in the proceedings instituted in Chicago in the Courts of Record, to break the will of her mother, Mrs. McKinney, who died in Chicago four years ago, leaving her entire estate of about $30,000 to her sisters, Ella and Leola Seaman, the ground being the allegation that she was not mentally sound when she made her will. Mr. Packer's testimony tended to show that Mrs. McKinney was of sound mind.

DEFEATED PERTH AMBOY

Clinton Avenue's Crack Aggregation Won in a Walk Played Contest.

SCORE WAS FIVE TO ONE.

Randolph Fanned Fifteen Batsmen —"Eric" Martin Got a Two-Base Hit.

The Clinton Avenues finished the local baseball season on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, by defeating the Nationals of Perth Amboy, by a score of 5 to 1. The visitors scarcely had a look-in throughout the contest for Randolph fanned fifteen batsmen and allowed but one hit. Oleson was the lucky man and it was more of a scratch single than anything else. The reputation that preceded the Nationals was not fulfilled and they were easy picking for the locals.

While every member of the Clinton Avenue team played a good game Randolph was the pitching star. He was in the pink of condition and held his opponents without difficulty all the way. They tried hard to connect with his deceptive curves and twists, but to no purpose. He was supported well by Seery behind the rubber. This was probably Randolph's last appearance in the locals for next season he will be given a tryout by the Newark Eastern League club and his friends predict that he will make good.

Saturday's game was witnessed by a fair-sized crowd, the weather not being especially favorable to attract the usual number of people. For the visitors, Grimley took Oleson's place in the seventh inning after three hits and two runs had been made. Oleson going to second base and Waters to third. B. Martin, Emery, Boelzley and Schott had the batting each getting two hits, including a two bagger by B. Martin. The score:

IN STAGES OF "D.T.'S" SHE PROMISED TROUBLE

Police headquarters was called up on the 'phone, Saturday, by an excited West End resident who declared over the wire that the presence of a cop was needed at the home of Mrs. Kate Ward, at Third and Halsey streets, or she would have the police set afire and the children burned up. Detective-Sergeant Flynn went down and found Mrs. Ward helplessly intoxicated in the house and a roaring hot stove threatening to start a blaze any minute. The children had chased out of doors and neighbors were looking after them, so the officer took her to headquarters in a hack.

Mrs. Ward told Judge Runyon, Monday morning that she had gotten drunk on one glass of whiskey but that it was really worriment over family troubles that made her succumb so quickly. Her husband had been drunk for three days, she said, and he hadn't brought a cent home for three weeks. She claimed to have been hunting for him Saturday morning when she gave way to despair and took the whiskey for a bracer.

Mrs. Ward was before the court for helpless intoxication of September 20 last and she was told by Judge Runyon then that her reappearance would mean a jail sentence. The police corroborated her story of hard luck, however, and for this reason the magistrate gave her another chance. She promised faithfully that her conduct would be exemplary from now on.

SOCIETY SEES WEDDING

Miss Gladys Urner Becomes Mrs. Oscar R. Graham, Jr., Before Brilliant Gathering.

AT SCOTCH PLAINS CHURCH.

Rev. Harle Wallace Hathaway Officiates at Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Urner's Daughter.

Miss Gladys Urner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Urner, of Martine avenue, Fanwood, and Oscar R. Graham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar R. Graham, of Elizabeth, were married Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Baptist church, Scotch Plains, in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of guests from New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Fanwood, Plainfield and distant points. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harle Wallace Hathaway, of Philadelphia, former pastor of the Madison avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, of which the bride is a member.

The attendants of the bride were the Misses Helen Doe and Anna Poppenga, of Elizabeth; Margaret Gibbs, of Pittsburg; Helen Biglow, Marguerite Cone and Madeline DuBuch, of New York, as bridesmaids; Mrs. Royal S. Cleaves, of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Richard Tull, of Fanwood, as matrons of honor; Miss Margaret C. English, of Elizabeth, as maid of honor and Catherine Morse, of Philadelphia, and Gladys Stahl, of New York, as flower girls.

The best man was Clarence J. Bushby, of Elizabeth, and the ushers were Charles Urner and Arnold Urner, of Fanwood; Royal S. Cleaves, Lincoln Cleaves and Harrison McCann, of Elizabeth, and Frank Morse, of Chicago.

The bride's gown was of white satin and princess lace, and she wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaids were gowned in pink messaline and they carried white chrysanthemums, while the matrons of honor were gowned in light green messaline, trimmed with silver and they carried white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor's gown was of green messaline, trimmed with duchess lace and she carried pink roses. The flower girls were gowned in white organdie, trimmed with lace over pink silk and they carried baskets of flowers.

The mother of the bride was gowned in apricot marquisette over satin, trimmed with gilt braid, rose point lace and red rose buds, while the groom's mother wore a gown of black lace thread over white silk.

The church was elaborately decorated for the occasion with a profusion of hydrangeas, pampas grass and autumn leaves, while the decorations at the house, where the reception was held, consisted of hydrangeas, salvia and pink and white chrysanthemums, artistically arranged throughout the reception hall, parlors and dining room.

The ceremony and general arrangement of the bridal party were attractive. The ushers led the way, followed by the flower girls, maid of honor, matrons of honor, bridesmaids and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her in marriage. At the altar they were met by the groom and his best man and officiating clergyman. The wedding march was played by Miss Jane Whittemore, organist of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the couple received the congratulations of their many relatives and friends assembled. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Graham left for an extended tour. Upon their return they will reside in a new house at El Mora, which the groom has erected and furnished.

The bride received an unusually large collection of handsome and valuable gifts, including silverware, China, cut-glass, furniture, a complete set of mahogany furniture and a silver service, the furniture and service being from the bride's parents. There was also a pleasing exchange of gifts among the members of the bridal party. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold watch fob, while she received from the groom a brooch of pearls and diamonds. The bride gave her attendants gold brooches set with pearls, and silver teaspoons to the flower girls. The groom gave his ushers amyethist scarf pins and the best man link cuff buttons.

The bride is a most estimable young woman and a favorite in a large circle of friends both at Fanwood and in Elizabeth, her former home. Her father is vice-president of the Urner-Barry Company, publishers, of New York. The groom holds an excellent position in the contracting department of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, in the company's New York offices.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Hazel, to Daniel Franklyn Randolph. The wedding will take place this fall.

WOMEN HARD DRINKERS

Rev. Dr. Wood Says They Consume Intoxicants in N. Y. Department Stores.

CLASSES THEM AS SALOONS.

Lauds Gov. Fort and Denounces Atlantic City Hotel Keepers Assassins Spurred on by Liquor.

Handling the liquor traffic without gloves, Rev. Dr. Hervey Wood, secretary of the Temperance Committee of the Baptist General Convention, addressed a large congregation at the First Baptist church, yesterday, and presented a strong arraignment of facts. His morning subject was "The Irrepressible Conflict Between the Church and the Liquor Traffic," and in the evening it was "A Vital Question."

During the course of his remarks in the morning Dr. Wood defined clearly the position the church should occupy in its fight against the liquor traffic if it would follow the divine injunction. He took occasion to speak of the underhanded methods employed by the liquor dealers to combat the good influence of the church, and declared that several department stores in New York were nothing more nor less than open saloons. In this connection he said that in one New York department store there was removed every day for nearly three weeks before Christmas six bushel baskets of empty whiskey flasks from the women's rest room, indicating to what extent women have acquired the taste of liquor.

Dr. Wood deplored the practice of American girls going abroad in search of titled husbands and without mentioning any names called attention to a number of international marriages that have terminated disastrously.

Continuing along the same line of thought, last night, Dr. Wood took for his text, "Quit Ye Like Men, be Strong." He declared that we have a grand form of government but that it is being abused. It is now a question as to whether the Republic is not doomed to be swamped in alcohol. Right here in New Jersey the liquor interests have defied the Governor and the laws and the Governor issued a proclamation that unless the liquor dealers of Atlantic City obeyed the laws he would call out the State militia. Dr. Wood characterized the liquor business to be the most lawless thing known. He said that the question before the people of New Jersey today is shall the laws be obeyed or shall these lazy foreign saloon-keepers run things.

"I never saw anything equal to the impudence of the hotel and saloon-keepers of Atlantic City," continued Dr. Wood. "They said that for fifty-four years they had been allowed to sell liquor on Sunday and they could see no reason why they should be stopped. There is today a strong movement under way to legalize the sale of liquor on Sunday, and it is the duty of the church to prevent this.

"A statement made by several well-known scientists declares that no parent can indulge in drinking alcoholic beverages without injuring the future offspring before it is born. Statistics from the London War Department show that of the volunteers for the South African War seventy-five percent were rejected because of physical defects largely due to drink. I was a pastor in New Jersey at the time of the Spanish-American War and I could tell you facts about the New Jersey soldier boys and drink that would bring a blush of shame to your face. I admire Governor Fort for his stand, insisting that the laws of the State shall be obeyed."

Dr. Wood then referred to the assassination of Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley and stated that in each case the assassin went directly from a saloon to commit his dastardly deed, showing the influence of the saloon in the matter of crime.

"I was a pastor in Paterson for thirteen years and lived there when the blackest crime in the history of the State was committed in a saloon," said Dr. Wood. "I refer to the Jennie Boscheiter murder. Some people are so mawkish that I understand that efforts are now being made to get those redhanded murderers out of State Prison. Let them stay in prison until they have served the full penalty. There are 11,000 saloons in New Jersey, one for every seventy men. Thomas Hayes, president of the Liquor Dealers' Association, recently said, 'We hold the balance of power, and if the Republican party will not give us what we want, we will turn them out and elect Democrats.' I implore you to do all in your power to save New Jersey from the demon rum and its harmful influence."

Strong Love.

"And you told her you loved the ground she walked on?" said Count Hickoff.

"Ah, yes, monsieur," responded Count Subrosa.

"And did she believe it?"

"Most assuredly, Count. You see, she was standing on her father's rich coal mine."—Chicago News.

FARMER'S "BANK" BURNS

Union Village Man's Money in Mattress Destroyed when House is Consumed by Fire.

HIS LOSS IS FOUR THOUSAND.

Had Hid His Earnings Away and In Excitement Forgot It in Hurry to Save His Piano.

Putting money beneath a mattress for safe keeping proved costly for Charles Davis, of Union Village, Friday. Fire broke out in his home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, completely destroying the structure and its contents together with $900 that had been hidden in a bed on the second floor until an opportunity could be had to place it in the bank. The money was the accumulated returns from the season's sale of peaches and other fruits. The total loss is about $4,000.

The origin of the fire is a mystery but as near as can be determined it started in the room where the $900 was stowed away. When the family discovered the flames it was utterly impossible to get anywhere near the money although Mr. Davis made a desperate attempt. The neighborhood was alarmed and a dozen or more volunteers responded but a lack of water prevented them being of any great service. Several men managed to get a piano out and a few articles of frunniture but beyond that nothing was saved. The barn and other farm buildings were not reached by the flames.

FEAST OF SUCCOTH BEGAN FRIDAY NIGHT

Another Hebrew holy day is being observed which began Friday night and coatinues eight days. Unlike the solemnities of Yom Kippur, when fasting is required, the Hebrews are now indulging in feasting.

Booths of tree branches and greenery have been erected in the gardens of some of the orthodox Hebrews. During the seven days those who observe the festival will sleep in the rustic booths. It is also called the Feast of the Tabernacles.

The custom is in commemmoration of the children of Israel, living in temporary houses made of trees while the Lord led them in the wilderness during forty years. Translated, Succoth literally means booths. The feast of Chag Ho'Osif, or gathering of the harvest, is observed simultaneously. According to Judges 16, it was at this time of the year, mainly in the autumn harvest and vintage season, that the men of the tribe of Jacob took to themselves wives by hiding in the vineyards at Shiloh and carrying off the maidens who came out to the dance. Great hospitality, good-will and mirth was witnessed on this occasion.

The ceremonies at the Synagogue Children of Israel during the festival will consist of simple services, but next Friday night the celebration of the close is observed by processions of the congregations bearing branches of palm, willow and myrtle. They will march seven times around the aisles, singing hosannas. This is in compliance with the law of Deuteronomy xvi., 14, which ordered seven days of rejoicing by families and servants, clergy and strangers, orphans and widows and the whole community.

On the next night, or on Saturday, October 17, the Jewish people celebrate the feast of Simohath Torah, or the feast of rejoicing, with the law. It is the custom on this occasion for the people to again march about the synagogues, but instead of the branches, they carry the scrolls of the law and sing.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

Perth Amboy's New Majestic Opened a Year Ago.

A year ago Saturday, October 10, 1907, the city of Perth Amboy was given its first real playhouse, when the New Majestic theatre was thrown open to the public for its initial performance.

Barely completed, the New Majestic was invaded by a throng that night which was sindicative of the desire of the people of this city for a place of amusement such as Counihan & Shannon planned and such as they have succeeded in making the *Majestic. The year of Perth Am*boy's playhouse has been a most successful one.—Perth Amboy News.

Praises for LaVere's Band.

A feature of the annual horse show at Montclair, Saturday, was the delightful instrumental program furnished by Ben LaVere's band from this city. It comprised eighteen men and the Plainfielder was highly complimented for their meritorious work. The band was immediately re-engaged for next season and several other functions at Montclair. Saturday's program included a soloist, Will Fowler, who sang between several of the classes.

The association team was organized last night. Physical Director Listman and Jacot, Miller, Conway and Peacock were the only new members of the club. Ralph Schoonmaker, who was captain and catcher, was the mainstay of the team both in hitting and fielding, and he leads his mates in stolen bases. Considering that this was his first year behind the bat his record is a good one.

John Jacot held the initial sack down in good shape and he improved wonderfully since the beginning of the season, being among the leaders *in fielding and hitting. Harry Gil*more at second, put up a steady game, his hitting being a feature. Howard Craig, who covered short, is rated as one of the best in this section of the State. Owing to an illness he was unable to play the entire season, but when in the game his work was of a high class. Craig captained the team last season.

"Jim" Conway played third base for the team for the first time, though well-known from his work on the high school team and other teams, since he left school, his work has improved. Largely through his efforts the pennant comes to Plainfield.

Charles Loizeaux, who played second base and shortstop, was a member of the high school team last season. He is rapidly developing into a good hitter and sure fielder and another season should be able to hold a regular position. "Dave" Pond, who covered left-field, is without an equal as a fielder in his class, and equals the best in base running. Will Schoonmaker in centre field, proved himself just as reliable as Pond and his hitting has been a feature.

Mr. Miller occasionally played in right-field and many a run was scored as a result of his batting. "Jimmie" Scott, one of the main twirlers, did good work all season, although he was handicapped by a little trouble with his arm. When in condition he is hard to hit. He did good work with the stick and in running bases. "Jack" Peacock, the other twirler, is fast rounding into one of the best pitchers on the team. With more experience in the box he should prove a valuable man for the team. At one time during the season Peacock led the team in batting.

arranging for the pacific settlement of all international dispute by appeal to a permanent tribunal, the conference had established a supreme court of the world, had made arbitration compulsory, instead of merely arbitrary, had taken measures to stop wars in two or three of five continents and land conquests, and had arranged for an automatic, periodical, self-governing conference—the first steps toward a parliament of man.

Mr. Hoar was introduced to the club members by Lindsey Beale, president of the church organization. At the conclusion of the lecture, the speaker distributed lists of books on the movement for universal peace, and during the informal hour which followed the lecture, there was considerable individual discussion of the subject. In accordance with the custom of the club, refreshments, consisting of sandwiches and coffee, were served.

At this time Mr. Hibbard presented a letter from Corporation Counsel Marsh calling the attention of the Council to the fact that no action could be taken at this meeting regarding the fire house and stating that a corrected call has been prepared for the special meeting to be held Friday night, setting forth in detail the proposition to come up at that time for action.

A resolution was offered later by Mr. Hibbard and adopted, that is it the sense of the Common Council that a fire house be erected and equipped as soon as practical by the city on property on South avenue acquired for that purpose and that it is the intention of the Common Council to build and equip the same in the near future.

No one appeared to object to the purpose of the resolution, but Mr. Myrati opposed that part of it which read, "it is the intention of the Common Council to build and equip the same," believing that it was not right to thus bind the members to such action. His amendment to strike out those words was lost, and the resolution went through as offered.

Referring to the desirability of issuing the bonds for thirty years, Mr. Buxton explained that the city would only be obliged to raise $200 a year, while if the issue was for ten years it would be necessary to raise $1,200 a year. He favored the long time issue, adding that the bonds could be sold for a better price. He also stated that City Treasurer W. F. Arnold could act as a sinking fund commissioner.

Mr. Montgomery raised the point as to what might happen if Mr. Arnold should cease to be treasurer. He did not believe that the Council could force his successor to act in that capacity.

Maintaining the position he took at the last meeting, Mr. Myratt again opposed the issue of the bonds for thirty years on the grounds that no one could tell what might happen in the meantime. He again urged as an undesirable feature that there would be no restrictions as to the investment of the sinking fund. He favored waiting until the Legislature meets when it might be possible to have the law amended giving the city right to issue serial bonds. At present he said there is no other law under which the city can act.

Upon the invitation of the members, Mayor Fisk made a few remarks appropos the subject. He favored the thirty year issue of bonds, believing it to be the best and safest. As for a sinking fund commission the only objection he had to offer was that sometimes a city has an unreliable administration and it ofter was with the sinking fund. It is something that has to be looked after strictly and carefully. If it is were possible he, believed the serial bonds to be the best, but he advised the Council to act under the present law.

Speaking of laws, Mr. Fisk said that the State is all tied up with laws—laws that will permit a person to do almost anything. After a little further discussion of minor points, the regular order of business was returned to when the resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard favoring the building and equipment of the fire house was adopted. The meeting then adjourned.

Mrs. Jessie Brunner and Mrs. John A. Van Doren, of Washington, D. C., are the guests of G. V. Van Doren at Finderne.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Schum, of Pottsville, Pa., are the guests of the latter's brother, Joseph M. Lambruskin.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Gaston have returned from Sharon, Mass. where they have been visiting relatives.

Mrs. John McGowan, of Jersey City, has returned to her home after a three months' stay with her father, P. Gorman, in Somerville.

MISS MABEL KIMBALL WEDS HERBERT GALES

The marriage of Miss Mabel Frances Kimball, niece of Mr. and Mrs. William G. De Lamater, of Dudley avenue, Westfield, to Herbert Spencer Gales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gales of Elizabeth, was solemnized Monday afternoon in the Congregational church at Westfield, the acting pastor, the Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Sturgis, officiating.

The bride was given away by her brother, Charles E. Kimball of Westfield. Miss Estelle Hegeman was maid of honor and Miss Helen Virginia Keeler, of Elizabeth, and Miss Gertrude Noe, of Westfield, were bridesmaids. The best man was Alden Whitman, of New York. The ushers were William J. Bogert, Jr., of Westfield; William De Lamater, of New York, Weston Gales, brother of the bridegroom, of Boston, and Shiras Campbell, of Elizabeth.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeLamater.

Mr. and Mrs. Gales left on a late afternoon train for a two weeks' honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Westfield.

Many guests were present from New York, Elizabeth and Boston.

TRINITY CONGREGATION HEARS PLEASING YOUNG PREACHER.

Upon the invitation of the consistery, Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of the Reformed church at Asbury Park, occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church, at both the morning and evening services, Sunday. Mr. Brook is a young and vigorous preacher, magnetic in appearance and possesing a powerful rich voice. He delivered two excellent sermons to a Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck's flock without notes, which were fully enjoyed by large congregations.

The morning theme was "Faith," the text being from Hebrew 11, first part of sixth verse: "But Without Faith it is Impossible to Please Him." The evening theme was "The Cross of Christ," Galatians 6:14.

Among Rev. Mr. Brook's congregation last night was the pastor-emeritus, Rev. Dr. Schenck.

Mr. Brook visited the Sunday-school session in the afternoon, where he made a brief but helpful address.

CHAUFFEUR YOU READ ABOUT.

But His Like You Will Seldom See in Real Life.

Mr. Blank had advertised for a chauffeur, and he passed over a dozen applicants until he came to one whose general appearance seemed to fill the bill, and then said to him:

"Sir, I want a man different from the ordinary chauffeur."

"Yes, sir. I thought from the reading of your advertisement that you did. I am different."

"In what respect?"

"If you have a wife, I shall not flirt with her.

"If you have a daughter, I shall not cajole her into eloping with me.

"If your wife tries to find out through me where you go certain nights I shall be mum.

"If any dudes ask me how much money you are going to give your daughter when she marries I shall tell him to go to.

"I shall not come to your house to court the parlor maid.

"Should I be out in the auto alone, and a son of a gun should want to race me, I shall decline.

"I am a first-class liar regarding speed when arrested by the police.

"I never give things away to the newspapers.

"If divorce proceedings are instituted I go on the stand for you."

He was told to remove his coat and vest and undergo inspection, and when it was found that his angel wings were fully developed he was hired on the spot for $100 per month.—Reboboth Democrat and Chronicle.

AS HE REMEMBERS DICKENS.

Senator's Recollection of Novelist on the Lecture Platform.

How Charles Dickens appeared while on the lecture platfrom in Washington, D. C., in 1865 is described in the "Memoirs" of ex-Senator Cole of California: "The lecture room was crowded, but I was favored with a seat near the front, where I had a fair opportunity to see and to observe some of the peculiarities of that great author. Mr. Dickens was dressed in a highly fashionable evening attire, not all in dark colors, and in appearance rather foppish. His vest was of a hue to exhibit to the best advantage a heavy gold chain which extended from the middle both ways across his chest. His neckwear was of a cut and color to be called flashy. His hair was rather long and wavy, and was arranged to stand out at the sides above the ears. His features are well represented in the numerous pictures seen of him, and it will be observed they have quite a uniform appearance. He read single chapters, without comment or introductory remarks, further than to announce the work, as from 'Copperfield,' 'Nicholas Nickleby,' 'The Pickwick Papers' or 'Little Dorrit.' The book in each case lay open before him, but he paid little or no attention to the text."

Defense of the Surgeon.

In a recent lecture at the Harvard Medical school Dr. Maurice H. Richardson set forth the absolute need of resorting to the knife in certain cases. The idea that the surgeon lacks sensibility and is more or less indifferent to human suffering and may even perform an operation when not absolutely necessary he declared to be all wrong. He said that the contrary was shown by the fact that the surgeon is constantly laboring to make his profession unnecessary by preventing the recurrence of the diseases for which he operates, as well as by endeavoring to cure without resorting to operation. "A popular delusion that the surgeon is simply looking for an opportunity to keep busy all the time," Dr. Richardson added, "results in thousands of deaths of sufferers who are persuaded by friends not to submit to operation, until it is too late to save the patient."

New Fire Detector.

A new fire detector of unusual kind is a fine copper wire encased in fusible metal, which, in turn, is covered with insulating material and inclosed in a copper tube of one-tenth of an inch. The tube is strung like a bell or mounted in short sections on porcelain blocks. When the temperature increases the sensitive temperature—160, 200 or 370 degrees Fahrenheit—the fusible alloy is softened and forced through the porous insulation against the copper tube, ringing the alarm continuously until stopped.

Ta-Ra-Ra's.

Country Cousin (at telephone)—Good-by, Cousin Bob; I've had a lovely time in New York; sorry not to have seen you, though.

Cousin Bob—I am, too, Mabel; but never mind; the next time you come I'll show you a good time. I'll buy you some cocktails.

Country Cousin—Cocktails? What are they? Do they wear them on hats?

Cousin Bob—No; they're head ornaments.

Insomnia.

Insomnia is the not uncommon fate of the brainworker who, after years of continuous mental strain, retires from active life. The reason is that mental activity demands a large supply of blood for the brain, and the blood vessels gradually accommodate themselves to this large supply. But, when the hard work is over, the brain does not always realize that it needs less nourishment, and hence the condition of excessive mental activity which is what insomnia is.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 18, 1908.

By REV. B. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Commending our society.—IV. By systematic, generous giving.—I Cor. xvi. 1, 2; Mal. iii, 7-12.

Life is a continual receiving and giving. We receive from God directly and indirectly great blessings and gifts. We are expected in return to give and even to give to God—not that God needs our gifts, but that we need to make the gift. There is a feeling in every thoughtful soul that we must render something unto God for all His benefits." finds an echo in every heart. Even the idol worshiping heathen in all ages have felt the operation of this same inward feeling and have responded to it. Freely we have received from God; freely we should give to God.

But how shall we give? What is the divine law upon this subject? It is undoubtedly systematic and generous giving. This method is Scriptural, practicable, effective, and has the promise of God's blessing.

1. Systematic and generous giving is Scriptural. In the Old Testament dispensation a tenth was the demand of God. Abraham probably gave a tenth of his substance to God. Jacob vowed to do so, and it may have been before this that he had failed to do what was required and customary. In Lev. xxvii, 30, it is directly and plainly asserted that a tenth shall be given to God. "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's." In the topical reference the prophet Malachi fearfully arraigns God's people for not having given the tithe and declared that in withholding they have robbed God. There can be no question about the way we are required to give in the Old Testament times. In the New Testament Paul asks a stated weekly offering for a special purpose and in another place declares that as God blessed the people they were to give.

2. Systematic and generous giving is just. It is right. It asks of no one what he is not able to give. It requires the least of those who receive the least and the most of those who receive the most. It sets aside so much as belonging to the Lord. It makes it His and not ours and removes the temptation to use it for ourselves.

3. Systematic and generous giving has the promise of the blessing of God. In giving regularly to God and in proportion as He blesses us we are fulfilling a plain duty that is owed to God. Every duty brings its blessing. But God has promised a blessing in the fulfilling of this duty. "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse that there may be meat in Mine house and prove Me now herewith, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it." If we fulfill the conditions of this promise, we may also have the blessings, and at the same time we shall commend our society.

An Enthusiastic Endeavorer.

The New South Wales Christian Endeavor union has a new general secretary in the person of Mr. G. E. Bodley. Mr. Bodley is an enthusiastic Endeavorer who has seen long service. He has used his pen for the cause as a writer for the Roll Call, the official New South Wales organ.

How One Pastor Feels.

In a personal letter to Secretary Shaw the famous author of "In His Steps," Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, writes: "Give my greetings to all the friends and say that I have always believed in the Christian Endeavor movement from the very beginning and believe in it how more than ever. I have a live society, which is a great inspiration to me and a genuine help in my work. I should not know how to do my ministerial work without it."

This is increasingly the testimony of pastors who, like Dr. Sheldon, give to their young people the sympathetic leadership which is absolutely necessary to the largest success.

STILL TALK FIRE HOUSE

Hitch Now Over the Term of Bonds to Be Issued for the Improvement.

THIRTY YEARS TOO LONG.

The City Fathers Will Probably Arrange for $15,000 Ten Years Issue on Tuesday Night.

The "fifty-seventh" attempt to secure favorable action on the proposition to locate a fire-house in the East End of the city and equip the same, was made at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last Friday. Chairman Herbert Buxton, of the finance committee, presented a petition signed by sixty-two residents of the Netherwood urging this improvement, and Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, moved that the previous resolution authorizing the appropriation of $15,000 for building and equipment be taken from the table. This done, he then moved its adoption.

By the way of explanation, Mr. Hall, who has championed the improvement, stated that Corporation Counsel Marsh had informed him that it was not necessary to appoint a sinking fund commission, that the Common Council could act in that capacity, the same as in the matter of school bond issues, and this would soon be establishing any precedent. It would not even be necessary to sell the whole issue of bonds at once. A portion of them could be disposed of now and the rest later.

While there was not a single one of the ten members present who did not consider the fire-house a necessity, there was strong opposition to the issuance of $15,000 worth of bonds for a term of thirty years, and for this reason the resolution appropriating that sum under those conditions, failed to pass, five members voting against it and five for it. Afterwards it was learned that some of those who voted against it were willing to vote for a ten years issue and when this was learned a call was prepared for a special meeting to be held in Tuesday night, October 13, when it is hoped to pass the resolution so that the work may be started.

In support of the resolution, Mr. Hall said that the plans approved by the committee are the best that could be obtained, that there is no unnecessary ornamentation or room, and only such things as will be an absolute necessity have been included in the plans. Buxton spoke in support of the proposed improvement, adding that while the resolution calls for $15,000 it is possible that the building and equipment may cost considerably less.

In response to a question, Mr. Hibbard stated that while it was proposed to start the work immediately, it was realized that it could not be completed before the first of the year. Mr. Tayler wanted to know if it was not customary to make such appropriations through an ordinance, instead of a resolution and to grant a public hearing.

In reply Mr. Buxton said that he thought ample hearing had been given and the petition presented at the meeting answered the purpose. Mr. Sydam objected to the issue of bonds for thirty years, and while he realized the necessity of the fire-house, he also called attention to the fact that the Fletcher fire was the last conflagration of any importance in that part of the city. It was recognized that ten apparatus would not have saved the house as the hydrants were frozen.

Mr. Hall further explained that it was Corporation Counsel Marsh who suggested the thirty-year term, although it could be fixed at ten years. This was suggested because it was believed that a better price could be obtained for the bonds.

Another member who opposed the thirty year term was Charles C. Randolph, while President Yoles expressed the opinion that a better way might be found to obtain the money and thus escape the long term for such a small issue. He opposed the method, not the improvement, and believed that the matter should be held up for the present pending a solution. Any way much could not be done in the way of building this year.

An excellent argument was presented by Mr. Mygatt as to why the bonds should not be issued for thirty years. He said that until the $95,000 worth of school bonds were issued the city never had a sinking fund, and with another similar issue the city would not be able to get away from this undesirable feature. Under the proposed plans there will be money to be invested by the Common Council and no restrictions are imposed as to the investment. Such action might entail future Councils.

Mr. Mygatt thought it extremely probable that the law might be amended that would allow us to give Plainfield the necessary relief, and with this in view he opposed the issue on the proposed basis. He also added that Mr. Montgomery, who was unable to attend the meeting had suggested what might be a good plan, that is sell the West Second street fire-house and take the proceeds for a new house in the Netherwood district. The apparatus from the West Second street house could be placed at headquarters. Again, Mr. Mygatt said that before the issue of bonds terminated it might be found necessary or desirable to abandon the East End house and that would only complicate matters.

Meeting Mr. Mygatt's argument squarely, Mr. Hall said that the idea of abandoning a fire-house that is such a necessity seemed preposterous, and besides he thought that it was a matter of quibbling over methods, while the residents of the Netherwood section are pleading for the improvement. He declared that property owners of the Second ward pay more taxes than any other ward in the city and it would be a big mistake to hold the matter up any longer. If the house is started now it could be under cover by Christmas. He did not believe that the expense would place a burden on future generations and characterized the action of the opponents to the improvement as one of procrastination.

Mr. Mygatt resented this imputation and said that the fire committee is asking the Council to decide a matter in two weeks which the committee has been considering for many months.

When the vote was taken it resulted in a tie, five members voting for the resolution and five against. The meeting then adjourned, but immediately afterward it was arranged to meet on Tuesday night, October 13, when it is hoped that the resolution will be adopted.

THE TOLLSOME PROCESS OF TAKING NOURISHMENT.

Eating is not an ignoble function. The human machine might be kept running just the same if the required motive power in the shape of so many carbohydrates, so much proteid and the proper portion of fats and salts were all condensed by scientific processes into one ugly little capsule and shot down individual aesophaguses when the indicator called for more steam.

What a saving there would be in dishes; in getting things on the table and off again; in toiling over the stove; in running down cellar and into the garden. All we would need would be our individual bottle of "calories" and a self-registering indicator. But in much weariness of the flesh might be saved by this dietetic reform, what a lot of genial companionship, of the refinement of living, yes, even its poetry, we should miss. If we could only learn to simplify our methods and differentiating between essentials and non-essentials, much would be gained.

Scientific men who are trying to enlighten people as to what they should or should not eat are advocating a more general use of cereals to the decreased use of flesh. "Wheats," says Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, "are easily digested and furnish an abundance of energy soon after consumption, but it is not related in amount to the organism long enough to sustain permanent muscular exertion. Cereal foods, on the other hand, are more slowly digested and furnish the energy necessary to digestion and the vital functions in a more uniform manner. Everything necessary to supply the waste of the body and to give heat and energy to the system is supplied in the cereals. The workingmen of this country should consider this point, and should learn more the value of cereal food. When cereals are properly prepared and served they are as nutritious as meat, and their judicious use would gradually diminish the undue craving for meat."

WILL NOW ENLARGE POLICE STATION BARN

The police department obtained the necessary $1,347.50, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Friday night, with which to complete the improvements in and about the police "bungalow." The sum asked for amount was taken from the annual appropriation made to the department, and resolutions accepting the offer of Alexander Milne to do the work and appropriating the money were offered by Chairman Buxton, of the finance committee, and adopted.

According to the resolution the $1,347.50 will be charged to and paid out of the police funds for 1908 and Corporation Counsel C. E. Marsh was requested to prepare the contract between the city and Alexander Milne and the city clerk was authorized to execute the same.

In the meantime, it having been discovered that the stable adjacent to the police "bungalow" is not large enough for the purposes for which it is intended, Mr. Buxton last night offered a resolution appropriating $700 with which to enlarge the building. When this resolution was adopted without a dissentine vote, there was no comment. Neither was there any public explanation as to the details of enlargement of the building. The committee will start the improvement, including the laying of sidewalks, drains, artificial stone for the court yard, excavating for a cesspool, as well as enlarging the stables.

Mrs. Henry Allen, of Watchung, who has been spending a week with relatives in New York, has returned.

MILADY'S SILKS AND SATINS AND VELVETS.

A novelty crepe de chine is called velour de chine, another concession to the Sachone dance craze. It is a light crepe de chine, having a velvety velvet bolders.

The ribbed Ottoman silks will be much pushed the coming few months as all of the Parisian houses are using Ottoman ribbed silks. These in extremely narrow stripes is a new idea in moires, and they are made in all colors.

Messalines, the soft satins and crepes will have great vogue.

A new satin glace has a shot effect that is pretty.

Novelty velvets are to be featured, as well as the chiffon velvets, and the newest velvets are of these class.

Ribbed velvets are shown and some of the newest velvets have printed borders of barre stripes, the bands being of graduated widths.

Generally every material is invaded by the polka dot design, usually in the color of the gowns. Small dots as well as large coin dots are noted. There is no doubt that the season of 1909 will show polka dots in quantities, so no one need hesitate now, if economically inclined, on the desirability of polka dot designs.

These polka dots are often arranged in designs instead of being placed at equal distances apart on the fabric.

For handsome afternoon costumes the lustrous broadcloths are to be used, for they hold their own in spite of novelties. A fine lustrous broadcloth always looks well, wears well, and is very dressy.

DICTATES OF FALL FASHIONS.

An indispensable arjunct to the wardrobe is a silk rubber coat. They are out in much beauty of color and design, and are recommended to the person who wants a coat both for rain and for dust. They are of various weights, but one can get a medium coat of satin finish that will do nicely for cold as well as for other purposes. Many fashionable women use these coats for walking and for motoring. The newest silk rubbers show a great improvement over the old ones and they are so well finished that it is practically impossible to tell a silk rubber from a coat of leather, and it is much lighter.

To those who can and will wear wide waist trimmings, the shaped girdle is very becoming, but it must be made to conform to girdle and not wide belt arrangement. Frequently the two get badly confused and nothing is so conducive of harmony with some dresses as a wide belt. Belts are narrow, girdles wide, not of an exaggerated depth but enough so to class them alone. There are buckles purposely made for girdles and while very plain, they are ornamental.

Empire and Directoire effects are decidedly a feature of the advanced fall suits, while braid and bottons are the favored trimmings. Soutache is used extensively and large handsome buttons are added as decorations.

The skirts are in many cases plaited, differing very little from those worn last year, and the coats are long—averaging three-quarter length the front cut away to display a vest, but straight up and down. There is no rounding off at the corners at lower front edges.

WHY WE SHOLD EAT MORE RAW APPLES.

Many persons fancy that raw apples are indigestible and only endurable in the early morning. Doubtless the old adage that fruit is gold in the morning, silver in the middle of the day and lead at night is to some extent answerable for this (to my way of thinking) erroneous impression.

Dietitians tell us that ripe raw apples contain more phosphates in proportion to their bulk than any other article of food, fish not excepted. A recent writer on this point boldly declares that it lies the secret of healthful longevity. They correct billiousness and act as a sedative upon racked nerves and allay insomnia.

"Eat unpooked apples constantly, although, of course, in moderation, and drink distilled water only, and years will be added to your life, while the evidences of age will be long in coming."

This argument is based on the supposition that, as age advances, the deposits of mineral matter in the system increase, and that aging is little more than a gradual process of ossification.

FIRST AID TO THE SPRAINED ANKLE.

The season of low shoes is responsible for many a sprained ankle these may be very slight or they can cause more trouble than a bad break.

If possible, as soon as the sprain or wrench is felt, put it under water as hot as can be endured, alternating with cold water. The easiest way to manage this is in the tub under the hot and cold water spigot.

This treatment often allays the swelling and stops further trouble. It is well to summon the doctor at once in case of a bad sprain. If he is long in arriving bandage with antiseptic bandages or with adhesive plaster.

For the former, wrap it around the ankle and the middle of the foot alternately in the form of an eight. Cut the adhesive plaster in short strips and interlace them from side to side of the sprain, pulling tightly to hold the injured parts in place.

Making a shoe of medicated clay frequently reduces the inflammation. This should be renewed as fast as it dries up.

Rest the foot in a horizontal position; or, better yet, have it higher than the hips. When the ligaments are torn and the ankle must be rested on a pillow much of the strain will be relieved by keeping the foot beyond edge of the pillow, which is doubled up under the ankle.

When a sprain is bad, necessitating inaction for a long time, the circulation should be kept up by massaging frequently from the knees to the ankle, more particularly the calf of the leg. The massage movements should be upward. If this is kept up many times a day from the time of the accident there will be no clotting, even after weeks of disused muscles.

There is apt to be weakness for months after a hard sprain; to avoid further trouble one should wear a support of some kind. This may be a woven stocking made of rubber or silk, or a leather anklet that laces up the front and slips over the heel.

DAINTY LAVENDER FOR SACHET

"And lavender—to lurk amidst the labors of her loom,
And crown her kerchiefs clean with mickle rare perfume."

These lines tell just where lavender is appropriate, but there is something about their quaint diction which suggests the days of long ago. One says, "In the linen chests of one's grandmother as lavender scented, and on the other hand, a reference to linen fragrant with lavender invariably suggests bygone generations.

But why should this be so? Lavender is just as fragrant and delicate today as it was in the days of one's grandmother, so why shouldn't modern linen chests be just as fragrant as those of old?

Lavender has such a faint and unobtrusive perfume, that it has been singled out as an appropriate perfume for household linen and lingerie.

The dainty housekeeper makes pretty little sachet bags, and fills them with lavender, both for use in her own home, and to send to others as gifts.

Some of them she makes of lavender silk covered with dotted swiss and tied with narrow lavender ribbon, and others of the silk in the fairest of any part of the linen, the prettiest of all, however, is the square bag of scrim upon which is worked in old time cross stitch a basket full of posies. These make charming gifts for brides who are just starting to accumulate a supply of linen.

They say, by the way, that the raising of lavender is a profitable occupation for women. Surely the work of tending a bed of lavender would be a pleasant occupation.

Lavender is not difficult to grow. Plant it in the open—where the sun and air have full access—in light, sandy soil, which requires little fertilizing.

It needs little water. In winter the plant must be protected from the cold.

The cultivation of the little plant is a pleasurable pastime, for its demands are small and it responds so prettily to the slightest attention.

FOR THOSE WHO ARE FOND OF SALADS.

To keep the salad oil cruet clear and sweet add a tablespoonful of salt to a quart of oil. The oil will not taste of the salt, as the latter will not dissolve but will sink to and settle at the bottom of the cruet.

In mixing salads the oil should be added first and thoroughly spread before adding the other ingredients and mixing.

Salads which are very moist and cooling—particularly cucumber—should have an extra pinch of pepper added to counteract the chilling effect on the eater's stomach.

Cold string bean salad should have a double dose of vinegar, as beans possess in great degree the nutritious and healthful food salts which develop to perfection in acid.

Whenever it is possible to pure lemon juice should be substituted for vinegar as being far more wholesome than the latter.

Endives—the pale, cool, succulent, ly curly chicory—salad should be scalded and then chilled to make it more digestible for elderly folks, children or weak digestioned invalids.

THE BOY NEXT DOOR.

I know the baddest boy that lives next door.
You see that place where my shinbone is sore?
Well, that there's where he hit me with a chunk
O' coal. Th' fellers said I got no spunk
Becuz I didn't hit him back again.
For hittin' me; but ma, she's told me, then,
Don't never go an' fight for that is bad."
Still, that mean boy, he made me awful mad.
Some boys I know ur would ur fit him back
An' told bad words for that awful whack
He give my shin; but they ain't got no ma
Like mine is—she's the best I've ever saw.
An' so I bear in silence all th' pain
An' all his dares to fight him is in vain.
I'm good, you bet; I hardly ever swore.
Besides, I'm even with that boy next door—
I hit 'im with a brick th' day before.

THE WOMEN WHO WRITE.

Miss Seraphina Bludgeon Spies,
She pursed her lips and rolled her eyes,
But still the fellow wouldn't look!
She rouged her cheeks and dyed her hah.
But all in vain! Men didn't care.
And so she went and wrote a book.

Miss Arabella Macklin Snow,
She learned to scrub and learned to sew,
And learned to wash and learned to cook,
And tried each scheme and tried each plan,
But still she couldn't get a man—
And so she went and wrote a book.

Miss Gwendolen Van Winkle Dare,
She traveled here and traveled there,
But traveling she then forsook!
Alas, she couldn't find a beau,
Her heart was full of weary woe—
And so she went and wrote a book.

For the Baby's Crib.

Something that will interest all mothers to whom comfort is the chief consideration, is the crib. The crib is built of polished wood, trimmed with aluminum corner pieces and furnished with a white drill body. The canvas body is so designed that it holds the baby securely, yet comfortably, and with freedom. Lying down, sitting or crowding, it is impossible for the child to fall out. The crib can be instantly changed into a chair designed to support the baby in every posture without straining the body. The canvas dap in front is used as a table for the child to rest its arms on. The canvas body is easily hanged and can be washed as often as desired, therefore insuring sanitary conditions.

FORT'S SON DEFENDS AUTOIST.

Manfred Naar, peace justice, explained to Governor Fort Friday afternoon at Trenton why he charged Standish Chard, secretary to Justice Hough, of the New York Supreme Court, with violating the speed laws while going to and from the interstate fair one day last week.

Leslie R. Fort, the Governor's son and secretary, was an occupant of the car on the return trip, and he declared the charges to be absolutely without justification. Mr. Fort said it took two and one half hours to make the run to Lakewood, a distance of forty-three miles.

The Governor, too, had some cases to take up with the "squire," and on inquiring into his methods of dealing with violators was informed that he never penalized "good" people. The "squire" said he had dismissed between six hundred and seven hundred cases of violations reported to him within the last few months. He added that on the fine stretch of road which his constables patrolled practically every motorist violated the law. He denied any attempt at blackmail, which had been charged by numerous automobilists.

SOME COLLARS OF THE COMING SEASON.

I particularly like the net collars, especially the shaped one made of sheerest net that must, of course, be supported on the sides and back. Such collars show a neat effect at the top and bottom when made with a band of insertion either of lace or something that shows a touch of hand embroidery.

Taken collectively, collars are very ornamental, though once in a while something too garish looms into view, just the same as we find ugly types in everything of dress kind. The white lingerie collar to wear with supplice waists are ready made, with very dressy collars, and they, too, foolow the dictates of fashion's latest decree, and extend far up under the chin. These lace pieces can be made of practically any inexpensive lace, and nothing is more very likely like dress nets, because the touch of color will mean so much to a dressy frock.

Care should be taken that the collars fit well, and also that they be not too high, else the effect is painful to the observer as well as to the wearer.

MATERIALS FOR THE NEW WINTER GOWNS.

When replenishing the wardrobe at this time of year it is well to select materials that will not be too thin to wear as autumn days approach. Usually the linens—the cool and airy suit and the jumper dress—are still fit to wear, while the frocks that seem to suffer most in summer time are the sheer lawns and dimities that are used for afternoon festivities and Sunday-go-to-meeting occasions.

Miss's wardrobe usually contains these or four of these gowns, and they are the most charming and dainty things imaginable, but toward the middle of September there grows a need for something fresh, something appropriate for afternoons and evenings that seems to breathe of autumn.

In selecting such a gown choose a material that is soft, yet not so pliable that it is almost impossible for the home dressmaker to manage. A good material for such a gown is panne, even the simplest dress, foulard or voile. Of course, the very neatest dresses are of satin, but, while this may not be expensive—for liberty satin is procurable for 75 cents the yard—the material is so narrow that it requires a great deal to make even the simplest dress.

Voiles, on the other hand, are quite possible, and we have colleane and many materials which are called by various names, each interesting in its own way.

Most are all familiar with colleene. It is a material of silk with a cord effect running across the breadth of the goods. Its prices range from $1 to $2 the yard, and it measures forty-six inches in width. Besides the plain colleene, there are variations of this theme. There are woven shadbreen line. All of the colleenes are soft and pliable and make up beautifully in the present mode. The colleene with fancy designs costs $2 the yard.

Voiles there are three varieties: silk wool and cotton. Cotton voile is appropriate only for summer wear but wool voile is the material that is always wrth buying, for it wears perfectly and always looks well. It comes plain and with a shadowed check, and generally runs from $1 to $1.20 the yard. Plain wool voile may be purchased for as little as 75 cents the yard, and it measures from forty to forty-six inches. Voiles must be made up over silk, and usually taffeta is best for the purpose.—Washington Star.

ABOUT THE CARE OF THE FURNACE.

Proper placing of the registers in the rooms as regards the exterior openings, such as windows and doors, after taking into consideration the direction of the prevailing winds in winter and summer, with consideration of the length of pipe required in the cellar to reach the riser, is a prime consideration. Badly placed and too small registers account for more than 50 per cent. of furnace troubles.

Second, the furnace must be properly placed in the cellar and the pipes leading to the risers must not only be proportioned to the size of rooms to be supplied, but also to the length of run in the cellar and the amount of rise which can be given these.

A third item is that the opening which is to supply fresh air, whether taken from the basement or, what is preferable, from the outside, must be of a size to supply sufficient capacity of all the pipes leading from the furnace, the other 25 per cent. being a rough allowance for the expansion of air brought in cold and raised to 90 or 100 degrees. The cold air duct, preferably a galvanized iron pipe of heavy weight, should be carried above ground, so as to avoid any chance of evaporating any seepage water, but not alongside the furnace, where it may become warm and set up a "back draft."

You will readily appreciate that furnace heating is an art, not a science, and even the most successful occasionally make mistakes.

HOPE MEN'S CLUB GIVES A PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of Hope Chapel, a very enjoyable evening's entertainment was given in the Chapel Friday. The main feature of the affair was a stereopticon lecture by the Rev. L. R. Howard on "The Old Town by the Sea." Mr. Howard was up in the vicinity of "The Old Town" during the past summer and in an interesting and instructive manner related incidents about Portsmouth, which was the old town referred to, and the beautiful homes, parks, and sanitary.

Taken collectively, collars are very ornamental, though once in a while something too garish looms into view, just the same as we find ugly types in everything of dress kind. The white lingerie collar to wear with supplice waists are ready made, with very dressy collars, and they, too, foolow the dictates of fashion's latest decree, and extend far up under the chin. These lace pieces can be made of practically any inexpensive lace, and nothing is more very likely like dress nets, because the touch of color will mean so much to a dressy frock.

Care should be taken that the collars fit well, and also that they be not too high, else the effect is painful to the observer as well as to the wearer.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS IS SAFE. WANTS ESSENTIAL REFORMS.

"Apathetic Plainfield" was treated to a five-minute treatment of Socialism Monday morning when "The Red Special," the party's $30,000 train which is "sweeping from coast to coast with a message of Freedom to wage-"slaves" lay on the Church street siding while State Secretary W. R. Killingbeck, of Orange, harranged a small group of fifty voters and as man aliens attracted by the campaign music of "The Red Special" band.

Mr. Killingbeck said that Plainfielders were apathetic. He was right. He called the voters "wage-slaves"—and at this the Republican majority of Dunellen, who stood smoking near the outskirts of the crowd, almost drew out his red bandanna and joined the cause of Eugene V. Debs, the "world-saves-one-a-living" candidate. On the way, Mr. Debbs couldn't speak at Plainfield. He was in bed in his private car on the special, undergoing treatment for an attack of chills which he developed at Philadelphia last night. (That is a fact.)

The State Secretary urged his hearers to break up the dynasty of "Theodore I." "You wage-slaves," he said, "must remember that there are two parties in the United States today. The Republican and Democratic parties, both owned by the trusts, form one; the Socialist party, owned by you, is the other. Vote for your party."

"The Socialist party," he went on, "is not merely going to lop off a few rotten branches on the Capitalistic tree. It is going to cut down that whole tree of Capital, which has made the United States a nation of wage-slaves." The speaker was introduced by William James, a former Plainfielder, who now lives in Newark. The special left town at 11:35 o'clock, five minutes before it was advertised to arrive here. "The Red Special" band, "comprising musicians from fifteen States," dispensed campaign music through the "principal streets of the city" before the meeting, where several young women Socialists distributed campaign literature.

The special left Philadelphia at 8 o'clock this morning. On account of the candidate's illness, it passed by Jenkintown and Hopewell, and at Bound Brook it was backed off on a siding. There were no speeches there, however, and the band, after a long look out of the windows of their car, played "Dreaming," sitting down. Then the train pulled out again. The schedule was crowded to allow the "Red" to reach Elizabeth at noon. Here the State Secretary *addressed about 6,000 shop*men from the Singer Sewing Machine plant. There were less apathetic. Mr. Debs spoke at Military Park, Newark, at 3 o'clock and this evening will address meetings at Kurz's Colosseum, Newark, and Commonwealth Hall, East Orange. A riot among 2,000 persons, in which a girl and fourteen men were arrested, marked the "Red Special's" visit to Philadelphia last night.

As a counter move to E. V. D. and his vote-gatherers, William Jeffery, the Berkeley Heights Bungalow Man, distributed Taft buttons in this city in the afternoon. He says Berkeley Heights is safe. A telephone from John Cooper says Warren township is safe. So this section will continue on "the ever tenor of its way."

LION KILLER'S AUTO HIT BARN.

Edward H. Radel, the Middlesex county resident who gained fame by killing Nero, the lion which escaped from Washburn's Circus, on the Bound Brook River road recently, after it had terrorized the neighborhood, had a narrow escape from a serious injury, while running his automobile near Swartswood Lake Saturday. The machine ran into a barn and passed half through it before it was stopped.

Mr. Radel and his wife are stopping with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Radel, at the Waldmere, Newton. Saturday he made up a fishing party composed of Charles Brickner, a son of his host; and Charles Hotalen. The machine had not been working very well, and while trying to make the turn from the road to the lake, the brakes refused to work.

The machine was going rather fast and Mr. Radel was unable to keep it in the road. It headed for an old barn, near John Emmons' farmhouse. Before the occupants could jump, the car hit the barn and crashed through the side. Save a jar and being struck by flying pieces of wood, no one was injured and the damage to the machine was comparatively slight.

Charles N. Fowler Puts Himself on Record as Opposed to Guarantee of Bank Deposits.

In response to urging by numerous commercial organizations, Representative Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth Congressional district, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, Sunday expressed his opinion of the scheme for guaranteeing bank deposits, which William J. Bryan has made one of the chief issues of his campaign.

Mr. Fowler's statement in part follows:

"I doubt whether there is any one who is more utterly and absolutely opposed to Mr. Bryan's preposterous and ridiculous scheme for guaranteeing bank deposits than I am. It is just as absurd as it would be to pass a law requiring that all life insurance companies to insure all lives without any explanation of those insured; or a law requiring all risks without examination of the property.

"Rejection and condemnation must necessarily follow an understanding of his scheme, which was put forward as a vote catcher and not because he understood the economic principles and practices of banking. Indeed, I do not recall his *application of any economic princi*ple during his long public career that has been sound.

"But Mr. Bryan's proposition is no more untenable and superficial than are the twelve reasons given by the American Bankers' Association, at Denver. Every one of the grounds advanced by that association, apparently against the principles of equal protection to all bank creditors, note holders and depositors, will dissolve as quickly as Mr. Bryan's fallacy upon a clear understanding of the principles involved, and a full appreciation of the financial and currency conditions existing in this country at the present time.

"Until the bankers of the United States are authorized and compelled to supervise themselves and made responsible for themselves, we shall not secure the reforms that are essential to the protection of all bank credits, to the more steady and permanent employment of labor, the protection of the manufacturer, the merchant and commerce generally against periodical spasms and periodic cataclysms.

DR. BUCHANAN HEADS BAPTIST MEN'S CLUB

Officers were elected, reports received and the members discussed informally plans for the winter at the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, Monday night. The club is in good condition and prepared for a season of activity and the monthly meetings will be made more attractive than ever.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who was re-elected president, clearly defined the purpose of the club and made many suggestions as to how each of the members can make the club the best in the city. He said that every member must feel an individual responsibility and not lay back and let a few do the work. He said that if the men would show half the spirit of fraternalism displayed in secret societies, the organization would be a great success, and he believed that it was up to every man to see that this is accomplished.

The report of the retiring treasurer, E. C. Martin, showed that the recipts and expenditure for the year were about even, and all but one bill paid. Raymond Carver, retiring secretary, also presented a brief report. B. F. Phelps, principal of the Plainfield Public Night Schools, was chosen secretary, and John G. MacLaughlin was elected treasurer in place of Mr. Martin. In accordance with the constitution, the board of governors will consist of ten members, instead of twenty-six as heretofore. These officers were chosen:

President, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan; first vice-president, H. C. Krebs; second vice-president George H. Smith; secretary, B. J. Phelps; treasurer, John G. MacLaughlin; board of governors, Harold Serrell, George A. Chapman, U. B. Crane, Alexander Gilbert, Alpheus Stine, James E. Church, Frank W. Jones, Fred K. Armstrong, S. St. John McCutchen and L. W. Randolph.

The above list of officers was presented by the nominating committee, of which Harold Serrell was the chairman, and with the exception of secretary and treasurer, which were afterward changed, was accepted by the club. President Buchanan will announce his committees within the next thirty days.

REV. DR. C. E. HERRING TO BECOME A BENEDICT

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Miller, of Indian Orchard, Mass., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Catherine Miller, to the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Miller has been a resident of this city for several years and has been active and prominent in the work of the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. Herring, one of Plainfield's leading pastors, was graduated from the College of the City of New York, Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary. He pursued post-graduate work at Oxford University, Oxford, Eng., making a special study of comparative religion, theism and philosophy. He was called to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, nineteen years ago and has continued to serve that church faithfully ever since. About a year ago the New York University gave him the honorary degree of Ph. D. No date has been announced for the wedding.

EARLY MORNING MOVER ARRESTED FOR SURLINESS

Changing his boarding house at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, led to the arrest of Thomas Henderson, colored, and his subsequent arraignment in the city court today. Patrolman Tobias Nolan saw him ambling along West Third street, near Plainfield avenue, at the early hour, with a couple of big bundles of clothing and other effects on his back, and when he asked him to explain Henderson became very surly. It was learned after he was taken in custody that he caused a disturbance in Thornton's pool room Saturday night.

"I told him I wasn't doing anything out of the way, just so," said Henderson, in explaining the arrest to Judge Runyon; "I told him I had nothing in the bundles except my old clothes, just so. When he asked me to let him see, I threw the outfit down so he could look for himself, just so; and then I told him I lived here a long time and was no thief, just so."

"Fine story," said His Honor; "Five dollars or twenty days, just so."

Although Nolan didn't know it, Henderson has been around Plain*field for a long time and is acquaint*ed with nearly all the other cops. He is one of the negroes who participated in the cutting and stabbing of the borough police on Christmas eve, 1905, for which two of the assailants are now serving ten and fifteen year sentences. Henderson turned state's evidence and escaped with six months in the county jail.

Home from South America.

William Pittis, brother of Dr. Pitt*is, has returned to the city after* two years absence in South America where he was engaged in railroad work as the representative of an American structural steel company. Most of the time was spent in Bolivia, but he went around Cape Horn and came home by way of Liverpool. He brought with him a trained monkey, called "Kelley," who is so intelligent he will "write" a letter when given paper and pencil.

Wins a Blue and a Silver Cup.

Mrs. M. Reeve Stockton was among the prize-winners at the Montclair Horse Show on Saturday, her entry, "Ruby," receiving a blue ribbon; also a handsome silver cup in the runabout class. Mrs. Stockton handled the ribbons in a faultless manner, winning the applause of the spectators.

Endeavorers Elect Officers.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church has elected these officers: President, Charles F. Dayton; vice-president, George B. Cratsley; recording secretary, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; corresponding secretary, Miss Cora R. Brokaw; treasurer, Miss Elmira C. Runyon.

The Republican Club has organized with Clarence E. Case, of West Cliff street, as president.

TERMINAL READY JAN. 1

Jersey Central's Liberty St. Ferry House Premises to Be a Model.

MORE THAN FOUR YEARS' WORK

Improvement Has Been Pursued Without Interrupting Traffic —J. O. Osgood's Achievement.

It was announced today that the new Liberty street terminal of the Central Railroad of New Jersey would be thrown open to the traveling public about January 1 next. For several days one of the new slips has been used in connection with the temporary waiting room, but by the end of the year, what is left of the old station will be completed to dismantling crews. While the new terminal and the proposed bridge across West street will not be entirely finished until some months later, the ground floor waiting rooms, ticket offices and both ferry slips will be in shape to put into permanent commission.

As the bulkhead line has been moved some 180 feet riverward, West street at this point will be 200 feet wide from the east line to the face of the new building, an increase in width of 130 feet.

The general design of the new building follows the Doric type, the front elevation being rendered in copper. So far as possible the entire structure has been made fireproof, wood being used only for the trim of windows for which quartered oak has been chosen to harmonize with the massive high-backed settees. The walls of the main waiting rooms on both the ground floor and the second floor giving access to the upper decks of ferryboats, will be done in artistically moulded plaster with a deep wainscoting of Istrain marble.

One of the great advantages that passengers will gain in the new terminal will be the bridge across West street, connecting the upper floor with exits and entrance on Liberty street, concrete piers for the span having already been laid.

The task of erecting the new terminal without interrupting the great daily tide of incoming and outgoing traffic, has been a long and arduous one and beset with not a few difficulties for Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood of the Central and G. F. Morse, engineer in charge of the work. The first slip was the demolition of old pier No. 14 adjoining the old passenger station on the south and the building of a new pier 300 feet long and renumbered 11 was started September 23, 1904. The preliminary work was done by the Municipal Department of Docks and Ferries. At the end of this pier which will later be extended 50 feet and used for freight—a temporary ferry slip was installed. This was done in the following November and as soon as the second tie up to the bridge, slip No. 3 adjoining on the north, was placed out of commission and the erection of a platform for a new and permanent slip in its place was undertaken. By the middle of the following May, the present makeshift ferry house was ready for use and the old structure was abandoned. Simultaneously, dredging for the foundation of the bulkhead wall, a necessary support of the new station and slips, was started and by July the filling in with broken stone—the initial stratum of the bulkhead foundation—was well under way.

Some idea of the substantness of this formation may be gathered from the fact that more than 21,000 cubic yards of crushed stone was dumped into piles 35 to 75 ft. in length, and driven to solid rock. On this substantial basework was built the bulkhead wall containing 44 blocks of reinforced concrete, weighing 50 tons each and resting on piles cut off 16 feet below mean low water mark. To set these blocks and level up the foundation on this massive abutment, it was necessary to employ relays of divers and the task was slow and tedious. By November, 1906, the bulkhead wall was finished and the permanent foundation of the new ferry house was started. Something like 2,000 piles were used in the foundation which was completed June 3 last, and on July 18 the fire-proofing of the walls and steel work of the superstructure was in order. As the staunch metal frame gradually rose higher and more cross girders were set in place the heat-resisting hollow bricks kept pace with the growing steel work until the entire ground floor has been enclosed, the second floor is well advanced, and half of the roof has been put on. In the meantime the side "racks" of both of the permanent slips have been extended some 50 feet farther into the river the reconstruction of these and the new "clusters" at the ends consuming in the neighborhood of a thousand piles exclusive of those driven for the foundation and another thousand used only temporarily.

TO PLAY GOLF ON SUNDAY

Plainfield Country Club to Vote on "Liberal" Sabbath Day at Next Meeting.

FOR CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE.

George P. Mellick, E. T. Barrows and Other Prominent Members Request Decision on the Agitation.

Agitation for Sunday golf has been revived among the members of the Plainfield Country Club and the proposition, which has been turned down several times in recent years, will be the subject for a meeting to be held at the club house on Tuesday night, October 20. The purpose of the request made to the governors for this meeting is a "liberal" Sab*bath, including the throwing open* of the club house, the golf course and the tennis courts after 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoons. Many prominent members advocate a change in the constitution which would permit of this innovation, while there are a number strongly opposed to what they term a desecration of the Lord's day.

The formal notice for the meeting in question follows:

"A request has been made to the governors of the Plainfield Country Club signed by the following active members:

"George P. Mellick, William B. Wadsworth, S. D. Lounsbery, J. E. Erickson, Henry E. Butler, Dr. William H. Murray, A. A. Tilney, E. A. Stevenson, E. T. Barrows, W. B. Tyler, for a meeting of the club to be held on Tuesday, October 20, to amend the constitution so as to permit the clubhouse and grounds to be open after 1 o'clock on Sunday.

"It will be remembered that this proposed change has been attempted a number of times during the last few years. At one of the meetings, a large majority vote was obtained in favor of a half Sunday opening; it is believed that the sentiment regarding this question has changed very much of late, and many members who heretofore opposed the club being open on Sunday afternoon see the reasonableness of the request, and hope to see the question finally disposed of that way. It is expected that there will be comparatively little excitement over the voting on this question at the approaching meeting, and *it is confidently ex*pected that there will at this time not be much opposition to the proposed change, and that the quiet of Sunday afternoon at the club, if the proposition is carried, will surprise many who have been afraid of the contrary."

C. E. CONVENTION ENDS

630 SOCIETIES IN THE STATE.

Big Gains in Membership Shown—Sabbath Is More Closely Observed in New Jersey.

The "morning watch" meeting that marked Friday's meeting of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union's annual convention at Atlantic City was led by President John T. Sproull. The convention's sessions endedle last night and the Plainfield delegates returned today.

The annual report of the State Bible study work was read by Rev. Walter B. Greenway, of Jersey city, formerly president of the Essex Union.

Rev. Dr. Floyd Tomkins conducted a "quiet hour" service.

Rev. Abram Duryee, of Hackensack, submitted the report of the State evangelistic department.

An open parliament on "Junior and Intermediate Work" was a feature of this afternoon's session.

The report of the secretary, Miss Ida B. Stephens, of Hackettstown, gave a most interesting summary of Christian Endeavor statistics throughout the State. The year's work done by the Young People's, the Intermediate and the Junior organizations:

Number of Young People's societies, 630; Intermediate societies, 35; Junior societies, 412; total, 1,077. Membership of Young People's societies, active, 18,815; Young People's societies, associate, 3,430; Interedjate societies, 442; Junior societies, 6,568 total, 32,255. Number of societies added: Young People's, 35; Intermediate, 7; Junior, 40; total, 82. Number of societies disbanded: Young People's, 45; Intermediate, Junior, 12; total, 64. Number of societies increasing ten per cent or ore, Young People's, 181; Junior, 96; total, 277. Number of members added to societies: Young People's 1,9484; Intermediate 102; Junior, 3,522; total, 3,573.

The societies showing the largest percentage of gain during the year were the Young People's of the River Edge Congregational church, 230 per cent, and the Junior society of the Morristown First Baptist church, 250 per cent.

Other statistics were: Number uniting with the church from societies, Young People's 669; intermediate, 20; Junior, 271; total, 960.

Contributions to missions, Young People's, $6,882; Intermediate, $124; Junior, 1,167; total, $8,167. Contributions made object, Young People's, $6,392; Intermediate, $118; Junior, $1,388; total, $7,897. Grand total of gifts, $16,064.

The banner missionary societies were: Young People's, Westfield Presbyterian, giving $518; Intermediate, Ridgefield Park, giving $55, and Junior, Weehawken, giving $50. The banner societies in membership were: Young People's, Glassboro, Methodist Protestant, 165, Intermediate, 40, and Junior, Elizabeth, Greystone Presbyterian, 134.

During the year 15 Young People's societies gained in membership 100 per cent or more, the River Edge Congregational 230 per cent.; the Closter First Congregational, 157 per cent.; the People's Mission, Jersey City, 117 per cent., the Camden Third Presbyterian, 120 per cent., and the Trenton Wilbur Chapel, 100 per cent. Twenty-three societies gained 50 per cent. or ore. Among the Junior societies seventeen gained in membership 100 per cent. or more.

New Jersey has jumped into the lead of all the States in which the Sabbath is most closely observ*ed, according to Rev. F. W. John*son, one of the speakers at the meeting, late yesterday afternoon. He declared that closing of saloons Sundays all over the State is one of the greatest victories ever won by the law-abiding people, and proclaimed a moral wave toward Christian citizenship, striven for by the Christian Endeavor workers and other organizations.

These officers were elected:

President, J. T. Sproull; first vice-president, Rev. Dr. W. D. Smith; second vice-president, Rev. W. W. Anderson; third vice-president, A. Harry Moore; secretary, Miss Ida B. Stevens; treasurer, William Baxter; associate secretary, Miss Jessie Edwards.

NEW JERSEY CORPORATIONS.

Certificates of incorporation have been granted at Trenton to the following companies:

J. T. Reiley Publishing Company, Inc., Camden; capital, $25,000; incorporators, F. P. Hansell, William F. Edell and John A. MacPeak; to engage as printers, publishers, etc.

Crescent Steel and Wire Company, Camden; capital, $125,000; incorporators, Charles Hyde, I. E. Higgins and Louis Caplan; to manufacture iron, steel, copper, coke, etc.

Jackson Motor Company, Newark; capital, $100,000; incorporators, Charles E. Oathout, Newton A. Merritt and Walter F. White; to manufacture airships, flying machinery, dirigible balloons, etc.

CLOSE CLEANER FACTORY

New York Vacuum Concern's Local Shop Closed Here Following Receivership.

FILLED ALL OF ITS ORDERS.

Several Plainfielders Formerly Interested in Company Which Manufactured a Patent Device.

Notice was posted in the Vacuum Cleaner Company's plant on upper North avenue, Saturday, that with the close of Saturday's working hours the factory would shut down for an indefinite period. The force of employes has been gradually reduced for several months so that only twenty-five or thirty men remain. Of this number, ten will be retained for the purpose of making a complete inventory of stock and machinery and it will give them work for a week or more.

The plant went into the hands of receivers on May 15, last, who took charge of the company's affairs at that time. There were then on hand a number of unfinished contracts and as these have now been disposed of word came from the New York offices to suspend operations. It is possible that the company's affairs may be straightened out so that the plant can be operated against within the near future.

The concern has been manufacturing the large vehicle cleaners and has been in no wise affected by the numerous small vacuum machines placed on the market, despite rumors to the contrary.

David T. Kenney, William B. Besler and other Plainfielders were interested in the company before it went into the hands of the receivers but at the present time have no connection with it. Messrs. Kenney and Besler are at present the controlling factors in the recently incorporated New Jersey Vacuum Cleaning com*pany, with principal offices in New*ark, which is in a prosperous condition.

The local factory gave employment to a large number of skilled machinists when it was first opened and was counted one of the city's most important industries. The plant is located near the Netherwood station on the north side of the tracks and is equipped with all modern machinery and accessories.

NON-SUITED IN EFFORT TO GET COMMISSION

Charles E. Tinsman, a real estate broker, of Dunellen, was non-suited in the district court, New Brunswick, Monday, in his action against George S. Larkin, of New Market, to recover $125 as commission on a $5,000 realty deal which did not go through. Codington & Swackhamer represented the plaintiff and W. S. Angleman was counsel for Mr. Larkin.

According to the story of the transaction, in September, 1907, Mr. Larkin signed a paper in which he agreed to sell his farm for $5,000 and Mr. Tinsman was to receive five per cent. commission if the deal went through. In August of this year, Mr. Tinsman brought John H. Currie of New York, to see Mr. Larkin, and Mr. Currie offered $4,500 for the farm, $1,000 cash and a New York mortgage for $3,500. Mr. Larkin refused the offer.

Later Mr. Currie returned with Mr. Tinsman when the former offered $5,000 for the farm, $1000 cash, $2,00 in two years and $2,000 in four years. This Mr. Larkin also refused and stated that he had concluded not to sell the farm and rescinded the contract. Shortly after this Mr. Currie offered Mr. Larkin $5,000 cash for his farm, but he declined to sell. Then Mr. Tinsman *brought suit to recover his commis*sion on the deal.

It was held by counsel for the defendant, that no time was specified in the contract to sell, that Mr. Larkin had a perfect right to rescind the contract and that inasmuch as the deal was to be a cash one and it was not, Mr. Tinsman was not entitled to a commission. Judge M. Hicks Lovell sided with the defendant and promptly granted a non-suit.

EDUCATIONAL WORK AT YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASS'N.

The teaching force in the language department at the Young Women's Christian Association has been somewhat changed because of the illness of Franklin Fheida Nichaels, of the German class, who has been obliged to return to Germany. The services of Mrs. Hanch, who has lately come from Strassburg, Germany, have been secured. Miss Bateman, who has spent several years in France, will conduct the French classes.

Both these classes will meet in the evening; German on Thursday, and French Tuesday. The educational department will begin work next week. The teaching force and equipment has been secured to give the best possible results to those who come into the classes. An interesting and instructive winter is before all who join.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XL PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1908. NO. 43

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

COUNTRY CLUB WILL GOLF ON SUNDAYS

By a Bare Two Thirds Majority, an Amendment to Its Constitution is Passed.

MR. MARSH'S STRONG PLEA.

Corporation Counsel Argues in Vain Against Innovation—Lively Interest in Agitation.

After two unsuccessful attempts covering a period of two years, the Plainfield Country Club, at a special meeting held at the Hartridge auditorium last night, decided by a two-thirds vote to amend the constitution and thereby open the clubhouse and grounds Sunday afternoon after 1 o'clock. The amendment was carried by a margin of four votes, a total of 168 out of 246 being cast in favor, two-thirds of which number would be 164. When the result was announced there was prolonged applause and the members who favor Sunday opening expressed great pleasure over their success.

The fact that the proposed amendment and intended action had been given a great amount of publicity on the part of the pulpit and press had a tendency to bring out a large number of members, including many women, who displayed great interest in the proposition.

The amendment of the constitution simply carries with it the right to open the clubhouse and grounds on Sunday after 1 o'clock, and it is still within the power of the trustees to decide upon what privileges shall be enjoyed at the club in the way of serving meals, etc. It is not the general opinion that a wide and indiscriminate enjoyment of club privileges will be permitted, the tendency being to conduct the place in a quiet and orderly manner which will meet with the approbation of the most particular members.

Contrary to the general expectation there were only two speeches, one opposing the amendment by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, and the other in favor by former Senator Charles A. Reed, who is an enthusiastic golfer. As president of the club, Leighton Calkins presided, and immediately after the meeting was called to order, W. B. Tyler made a motion which was adopted, that when the final vote was taken it be in answer to the roll call. The proposed amendment was then read, after which Corporation Counsel Marsh spoke vigorously against the plan to open the clubhouse on Sunday.

"I do not say that it is morally wrong to play golf, ride or walk on Sunday," continued Mr. Marsh, "but there are many men and more women who differ from this view, and they say that Holy Writ makes it immoral to do these things and they are entitled to respect. When the country club was organized there were many men and women who joined with the understanding that there would be no Sunday playing. They have continued to support the club and pay their dues under the original agreement.

"Is it fair to these members to say, 'we will pass this amendment,' at the sacrifice of those who oppose it and compell them to compromise with their conscience? The proposition is to play on private grounds of those who object. This is against the State law to play golf on Sunday, a misdemeanor and the guilty ones are liable to indictment. I challenge anyone to dispute this and will stake my reputation upon the statement. It is a violation of the penal code, although some have claimed that it is obsolete.

"The Supreme Court does not say that the law is obsolete. Those who favor Sunday opening say that the opponents are not backed by public sentiment, that it would be impossible to obtain a conviction for such violation of the law. I recall the recent incidents at Atlantic City, where it was said that a majority of the residents favored the open Sunday. What did Governor Fort say? He declared that the law must be obeyed. You can take his opinion or that of Justice Beasley.

"This statement that you cannot get a judge or jury to convict is a species of lynch law, a defiance of the statutes. Then from the point of civic pride it would be unwise to adopt such an amendment. The city of Plainfield has had the reputation

S. S. WORKERS' MEETING

Union County Association's Annual Convention at Westfield, Tomorrow.

TO HOLD THREE SESSIONS.

The Rev. Ora J. Shoop a Vice-President—The Program in Detail as Announced.

Teacher training is to have a prominent place in the program of the Union County Sunday School Association's annual meeting to be held tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church, Westfield, and an address on the subject will be given by the Rev. W. E. Foote, of Freehold, State Superintendent of Teacher Training.

The Rev. Forrest E. Dager, D. D., of Philadelphia, well known all over the country, will be an important speaker at the convention. He is a man who understands boys and who has been remarkably successful in religious work among them. He will speak at 3:35 in the afternoon on "How to Win and Hold the Boys."

The evening speaker will be the Rev. A. H. McKinney, Ph. D., assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Newark. Dr. McKinney is always heard with acceptance.

LOCAL OPTION RECRUITS

East New Jersey Baptist Sunday School Association Adopts Resolutions.

FAVOR OLD TIME HYMNS.

S. C. Preston Chosen President; C. R. Vincent Vice-President; Rev. Frank Fletcher, Sec'y-Treasurer.

Resolutions favoring local option were adopted at the fifty-seventh annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention, held in the First Baptist church yesterday. This action was taken following the presentation of the resolutions offered by that committee, of which Rev. G. H. Gardner, of New Market, was the chairman, and there was not a dissenting vote. After expressing the thanks of the convention for the hospitality extended by the entertaining church, the resolutions are as follows:

"Resolved, That we urge the importance of each school cultivating the use of grand old hymns of the church rather than the meaningless 'jingles' so often used.

"Resolved, That wherever possible teacher training classes be organized.

"Resolved, That emphasis be placed upon the importance of the study of the Bible and urge that the Bible itself shall be used more extensively than lesson helps during the session of the schools.

"Resolved, That in view of the deadly results of the saloon we emphasize the absolute necessity of temperance lessons, especially among the younger members and would recommend that all voting members of our Sunday-schools support only such candidates for the General Assembly of the State who will support local option."

During the afternoon session, Rev. J. Madison Hare, of Jersey City, made an earnest address on "Remaking the Future." He said that the Bible school is dealing with the future, not the present. If the future is to be different than the present, it society is to be different in the future than now, if the political atmosphere is to be clarified, if the commercial problems are to be solved rightly, the only solution is in the Bible school. The speaker emphasized the importance of the Bible school in relation to the home and argued that it is a great factor in the church of the Living God.

Mr. Hare declared that in his opinion the church is to remake the future out of the boys and girls of today and not out of the adults. He said that he could see no hope whatever for the church of the future in the sense that he believed that the solution was to be found in childhood. *The men and women of to*morrow he believed would be the boys and girls from the tenements, street corners and other places. He urged that more time and attention be given to the teaching and training of the children in all departments of the Sunday-school.

The address which was to have been delivered by Rev. W. T. Dorward, was read by Rev. A. E. Finn, because of the inability of the former to be present. The topic was "Sunday-school Difficulties and How to Meet Them." The paper treated with numerous difficulties that come up in the life of a teacher and the children as well and presented many excellent suggestions which would be found of great help in Sunday-school work.

Another interesting address of the afternoon was on "Weak Links and How to Mend Them," by Rev. W. F. Rowley, of the North Baptist church, Newark. At the outset he said that one would think that his topic and that of Mr. Dorward were twins, but he added that he did not propose to present or mend too many weak chains in the brief time allotted him.

In discussing his topic, Mr. Rowley presented four weak links, which he said have a great bearing on the success to be attained by teachers. The first he mentioned the weak Sunday-school teachers; the second, lack of affinity; the third, lack of sufficient denominational literature, and fourth, the lack of opportunity. Under each heading Mr. Rowley offered suggestions as to how these conditions could be improved, or the weak chain made strong, concluding with the thought that what is needed is that all the church should be in the *Sunday-school and all the Sunday-*school in the church.

These addresses were followed by a general discussion on the part of the delegates, including Rev. W. A. Thyrrell, Rev. A. E. Finn, Rev. Dr. Clark and Rev. G. H. Gardner. After a brief talk by James E. Church who presented the features of the Adult Sunday-school Class movement of which he is the head in this State, the reports of the committees were received and officers elected.

MISS AGNES E. BAILEY BRIDE OF HARRY G. DE MEZA

At a quiet ceremony took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Agnes Ellen Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bailey, of Jackson avenue, was made the wife of Harry G. De Meza, of West Second street. Rev. Father William H. Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, was the officiating clergyman, and only immediate relatives of the two families were present.

Miss Bailey was attended by Miss Ethelwyn Waddell, of Elizabeth, and wore an Empire gown of white point d'esprit over white silk. The bridesmaids gown was an Empire of blue silk. The best man was Harold Rogers Thompson, of Elizabeth, an intimate friend of the groom. Miss Bailey was given away by her father.

Following the ceremony a wed*ding supper was served and Mr. and* Mrs. DeMeza will leave this evening for Atlantic City to remain two weeks. They will reside in the borough on returning. The groom is the son of Mr. Charlotte DeMeza, of West Second street, and is one of the city's best known young men. His bride is a member of the choir of Grace M. E. church. The young couple was remembered by relatives and friends with numerous handsome gifts.

B'GOSH, IT'S GREAT "THAT GREAT WHITE WAY"

Hand in hand and with "rubber neck" inclinations of their heads, James Golding, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Nestor W. Happlove, of the borough, strolled up Broadway today. The two old cronies had not seen "the great white way" in many a day. In fact Golding had not been there in twenty-eight years and no records show that he ever did see it except that when he did horse cars were in general use.

Happlove, it is alleged, first thought that he was at "Luny Park," and insisted in walking in the middle of the street for fear those forty-two story buildings blast 'em might tumble into his ribs. Golding on the other hand could not be induced to get into that hole in the ground which "shute the shutes" with human forms through the city.

Over at Telephone, General Bingham denied that he had heard that Golding and Happlove "were in our midst," but he promised to show 'em a good time if they would pay a visit to Mulberry street.

WOULD-BE SUICIDE MAY NOT RECOVER

Joseph Soukup, the Austrian of Dunellen, who tried to commit suicide at his home several days ago is not improving at the hospital as well as his friends might expect. As a result of his act, the man has not been able to see out of either eye since the day he shot himself in the head, the wound having effected the optic nerves. The fact that his condition remains about the same as when he was admitted to the hospital, is taken as an indication that his chances for recovery are not so good.

Soukup attempted to take his life following a long illness and discouragement over the fact that he was unable to obtain employment. He purchased a revolver at Farmer's hardware store, Dunellen, and going to his home placed a bullet in his head, which has not yet been extracted.

DUNHAM'S COUNSEL WANTS A NEW TRIAL

G. W. V. Moy, of counsel for Garret T. Dunham, of West Front street, who was convicted in the Circuit Court, yesterday by Judge Vail in his action against the Public Service Corporation for $10,000 damages, has been granted a rule to show cause before the Supreme Court at the next term why the verdict in the cause should not be set aside and a new trial granted.

In the first instance, when in the Supreme Court the Public Service Corporation demurred to the declation of complainant's counsel, the decision was against the corporation. Yesterday Judge Vail granted the company a non-suit on the grounds that the complainant had not shown negligence on the part of the company.

REV. MR. PARSONS QUITS

Pastor of Christian Church Tenders Resignation Because of Meagre Salary.

MEMBERSHIP IS VERY SMALL.

Popular Young Pastor Forced to Leave Because Congregation Has No Means to Support Him.

Rev. Phil. A. Parsons has resigned the pastorate of the Christian church on Grove street, and the little flock is now without a minister to lead it. Mr. Parsons went to his home in the West the latter part of the summer and when he returned recently informed the members of the church that he would no longer be able to minister to their spiritual wants. One reason given for this was that the church was unable to pay a sufficient salary to support him and he is now engaged for the present with work in New York and acting as a supply for various churches.

The Christian church on more than one occasion has lost its pastor through inability to pay a sufficient salary. The church extension board of the denomination allows the congregation $300 a year toward its expenses, expecting it to raise the balance. The best it can do in this respect is about $200, which is little enough for a pastor. The membership is limited and does not seem to grow to an extent. The denominational board holds a mortgage on the church property whereby the members are prevented from losing it as long as they pay the interest on the mortgage.

At present the members are holding prayer-meetings, the leaders being chosen from among their numbers.

FIRST M. E. WOMEN ENJOY FALL SOCIAL

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First M. E. church, a fall social and reunion was held in Vincent chapel last night. The affair was largely attended by members of the church and congregation and the informal program proved a pleasure to all. The feature was the vocal selections by the Plainfield Trio, Messrs. Doane, Gideon Fountain, Titsworth and Prior. They were generous in their response to encore and the gathering never seemed to tire of the fine music.

During the social part of the evening's program, the women of the society, whose names begin with the letters "A to H," served refreshments. Mrs. L. M. French, as president of the society, was in charge and planned the entertainment.

He's Going Back to Ireland.

William Gill, who recently came to this city from the County Sligo, Ireland, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with helpless intoxication at Front and Liberty streets, last night. He acknowledged his guilt but told Judge Runyon if he was released he would continue on with preparations he had been making to return to the Emerald Isle for good. The magistrate took him at his word and suspended sentence. Gill works for a Plainfield-er who has a farm on lower Greenbrook road.

Horse Killed at Cranford.

Joseph Block, of New street, suffered a heavy loss Monday night while visiting at Cranford. He had driven there with his horse and was on and while calling on a friend, the horse wandered off and while on the Lincoln street crossing of the New Jersey Central, a Royal Blue Line "flyer," going west, came along killed the horse and complete wrecked the wagon.

Birthday Surprise Party.

Russell Doeringer, of Vine street, was given a surprise party last night *in honor of the eighteenth anniver*sary of his birthday. A large number of friends from Plainfield, Dunellen and Elizabeth were present and the evening was spent playing games, dancing, and singing popular songs, after which refreshments were served.

Rev. William R. Harris.

Word has reached his former home of the death at White Plains, of the Rev. William R. Harris, at one time rector of St. John's church, Somerville. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Edwin V. Bartlue, of Martine avenue. Mr. Harris was in his seventieth year.

LETTER CARRIER'S TRIAL

Daniel J. McNamara, of Local Post Office, Faces Jury in Federal Court.

ACCUSED OF TAKING LETTER.

Postmaster and Assistant Postmaster as Witnesses—Judge Lanning Presides.

Charged with stealing from and delaying the mails in violation of sections 2469, 3891 and 5469 of the United States statutes, Letter-carrier Daniel J. McNamara, of the local post office, is on trial under indictment, today before Judge Lanning and a jury in the United States District Court, at Trenton. The government is represented by Assistant United States Attorney Bacon, while John P. Owens, of this city, is counsel for the defendant.

In the complaint, Mr. McNamara is charged that on September 10, 1908, he was detected by a postal inspector destroying a letter in the basement of the postoffice. The letter in question it is alleged was written on that date by Miss Erna Arnold, of Liberty street. It contained several snapshot photos and visiting cards upon the back of which was written "With my compliments." The letter, which was addressed to Herbert A. Stine, of North Plainfield, was handed to Letter-carrier John McCormick, it is alleged, and that it was placed on the stamping table at the postoffice.

It was next seen, it is said, in a waste-paper bin in the cellar of the office and was recognized as the one brought in by Carrier McCormick. According to the complaint of the inspector he saw Carrier McNamara destroy the letter.

Among the witnesses called this morning were Miss Erna Arnold, who *sent the letter, and Carrier John Mc*Cormick to whom she handed the letter on September 10. Other persons in court are Postmaster E. H. Bird and Assistant Postmaster James Marvin. The hearing will probably consume the entire day and it may be *late tonight when a verdict is return*ed.

Carrier McNamara was arrested soon after being detected of destroying the letter in question, and he was later indicted by the Federal jury, to whom it was referred. He has denied his guilt.

HOPE CHAPEL SOCIETIES CONDUCT A UNION SOCIAL

Under the auspices of the various societies of Hope chapel, a "Union" social was given in the Sunday school rooms, last night. It was attended by 200 members and friends and proved one of the most delightful affairs of the present season.

The program was in charge of G. H. Condit, superintendent of the Sunday-school, who made an opening address, and comprised the following numbers: Piano duet, the Misses May and Louise Ardern; vocal duet, "The Anchor," the Misses Edna and Eunice Eckert; "Bear Stories," by Ira W. Travell; piano duet, the Misses May and Louise Ardern; duet, "O, Wert Thou in the Cawld," the Misses Edna and Eunice Eckert; vocal selection, Mrs. L. R. Howard. The bear stories told by Mr. Travell were of personal experiences while spending a vacation in the mountains the past summer and were very amusing. Light refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program and the attendants enjoyed a social hour.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised the following: Mrs. F. F. Weber, Miss Elsie Sicrah, Frank M. Rimmer, James Feeney, Hugh Bartley Sweeny and Howard Firstbrook.

Supplementary Hearing Adjourned.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company, through its counsel, Isaac P. Runyon, recently obtained an order from Chief Justice William S. Gummere, to examine J. C. Cooper before John H. VanWinkle, Supreme Court Commissioner, at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was adjourned by request of Alvah A. Clark, of Clark & Case, who represent the defendant. The examination is to be in supplementary proceedings, and will be conducted Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

This is Absolutely True.

A seventeen year old youth today asked at The Daily Press office how a certain member of the County Club voted on the Sunday golf proposition. When told that he cast a ballot in favor of the innovation, the youth remarked: "He's my Sunday-school teacher; guess I'll go on gathering chestnuts on Sunday."

TUNNEL CONNECTION FOR JERSEY CENTRAL

McAdoo's Company to Extend Its Line from Penns. Station in Jersey City to Communipaw.

WILL BENEFIT PLAINFIELD.

Our Army of Commuters Will Soon Be Able to Get to New York in Better Time.

The [illegible]son and Manhattan Railroad C[illegible]y will build a tunnel extension from the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Jersey City to connect with the New Jersey Central Railroad at its Communipaw station in Jersey City.

"We have already filed maps for this extension by tunnel," said W. G. McAdoo, president of the Hudson company, yesterday, "but we will not begin this work until the main line from Hoboken to the Hudson Terminal Buildings is finished.

"It will not be necessary to build more tunnels under the Hudson to take in the Jersey Central connection. When a short extension from the main line in Jersey City is built tunnel trains can be run direct from Communipaw to the station at Newark and Railroad avenue, Jersey City, and thence to the Hudson Terminal Buildings in New York. Now, although the Jersey Central station is within half a mile of the heart of Jersey City, the Central's passengers can reach Jersey City only by crossing the Hudson River twice. To make this trip takes at least thirty minutes. When the tunnel extension is built not more than three minutes will be required.

"But the extension will have a wider, more glorious effect on New York," added Mr. McAdoo with enthusiasm. "When it is complete all the steam railroads terminating in Jersey City will have tunnel connections. The Jersey Central, the Pennsylvania, the Erie and the Lackawanna each has its terminal station there. But the Lehigh Valley, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Reading, the Southern Railroad, Seaboard Air Line, Atlantic Coast Line and West Shore all use these stations and terminate along the Jersey water front. So, you see, the tunnel facilities will connect New York with a very large part of the railroad mileage of the country.

"Work on the Cortlandt street tunnel is proceeding at the rate of ten feet per day," Mr. McAdoo concluded. "Fulton street the progress is less rapid, because the bottom of the tunnel is in rock. There is a gap of less than 1,000 feet to close up to have two new tunnels entirely completed under the Hudson River from the Pennsylvania Railroad station to the Hudson terminal buildings. This part of the work should be finished by Feb. 15, 1909. It will be possible to walk through these tunnels then. Trains will be running within ninety days thereafter. The line to Hoboken will be completed at the same time. That part of the line is also finished with the exception of a gap of about 1,000 feet, and this is being rapidly built."

Hard Luck Earns Release.

Robert McIntyre, of Jersey City, and George Wieman, of Elizabeth, were arrested at Park avenue and Second street by Patrolman Kelley, last night, for drunkenness. Both are from workers who have been out of employment for many weeks and their hard luck stories induced Judge Runyon to suspend sentence. Wieman declared after he was released that his arrest had been a lesson to him and that he would never drink a drop of liquor again so long as he lived.

DUNGAN RAPS OPPONENT

Democratic Candidate Attacks Frelinghuysen and Pays Respects to Case.

Combating the attack made on him the night before by Clarence Case, of Somerville, at a Republican mass meeting in North Plainfield, Nelson Y. Dungan, the Democratic candidate for Senator, addressed a large gathering of Democrats in Debevoise's Hall, Thursday, and explained to the evident satisfaction of his audience his position on the important local issues.

It was after 10 o'clock when Mr. Dungan began to speak, having been delayed on his way from Liberty Corner, but he held the close attention of his audience for over an hour, while he attacked the record of his opponent, Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, and declared what he would do if elected to represent the people of Somerset county. He asserted that Senator Frelinghuysen did not represent his constituents when he ignored their appeal for the removal of the voting machine, thereby putting them to the expense of a special election, and when he refused to hear the petition from the citizens that he vote against seating United States Senator John Burton but on the contrary was the backbone of the late Senator's fight for his high position.

The Democratic candidate declared that Mr. Frelinghuysen is at the head of an insurance trust formed in New York and that the people of Somerset county are forced to pay tribute to him. That this combination of insurance companies fix the rates to suit themselves and that they have been raised between 40 and twenty per cent and all the profits go to one man. He said that Mr. Frelinghuysen had opposed measures in the Legislature to give the people of the State relief from the undesirable features of the present law and in discussing the local option question quoted extracts from various newspapers to show that they do not agree with his opponent.

In explaining that today he stands in favor of local option, he met nearly every attack made against him by Mr. Case, and told the audience of his connection with the liquor interests of Somerset county.

"I understand," continued Mr. Dungan, "that from a platform in North Plainfield, last night, I was accused of being selfish and that I never mentioned the other candidates on the Democratic ticket. I confess that I have not treated national issues, because they are so well covered by other speakers. I believe that the people of this county want to hear about local issues and you will pardon me if I confine myself to this extent. While I will speak of my opponent I will not attack his personality.

"I want to speak of the way he has represented your interest. Take the voting machine. The people were against it and a petition signed by 360 citizens asked for the removal of the machine in this borough. It was sent to Senator Frelinghuysen, but he said that the machine was the best thing in the State and must stay. The borough was put to the expense of a special election and by a vote of 483 to 69 rejected the voting machine.

"The Unionist Gazette has said that a vote for a Republican Senator will be a vote for a United States Senator who will support the protective tariff. I don't know how your industries are in this community, but every mill in Somerville, Raritan and Bound Brook is closed with no prospects of opening and every operator is out.

"Two years ago there was an election of United States Senator, and a petition was sent to Senator Frelinghuysen to vote against John Dryden, the Republican candidate. Instead of heeding the wishes of his people, he supported the candidacy of Mr. Dryden, but he is to the credit of the Republican party there were enough votes to defeat Mr. Dryden. Do you stand for United States Senator John Kean? If you do you will vote for Mr. Frelinghuysen.

"Do you know that there is an insurance trust formed in New Jersey, the head of which is Senator Frelinghuysen, who has large offices in New York. This is a combination of companies and they fix the rates to suit themselves, while you pay tribute to one man. Both Senator Gebhardt and Senator Silzer introduced bills to give the people relief from unreasonable features of the insurance law, but they were held up in committee through the efforts of Mr. Frelinghuysen.

"I was asked where I stood on the local option question and I said that since the days of Washington and Jefferson it had been the fundamental principle, and I would stand by that principle.

"Your licenses in North Plainfield are granted by a judge who lives in Neshanic. He does the best he can by the liquor dealer and he opposent, but does he know conditions here as you do? Local option is prohibition if the majority want it. Judge Schenck can cut off every license in the borough or he can grant one hundred licenses if he desires. Why shouldn't you have this power. But our friend says that you haven't the power or intelligence to decide.

"W. H. Taft, the Republican candidate for President does not agree with Mr. Frelinghuysen, for he says let the various localities decide the question. The Plainfield Daily Press disagrees with the Senator and I here quote from an editorial in that newspaper to prove it." After reading the editorial to the audience, the Major continued: "The liquor interests don't agree with him and Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular as well as the New York Press disagrees with Mr. Frelinghuysen. I have declared that I would not stand for Sunday selling. In the thirty-one States having local option not one has raised the question of Sunday opening. I have yet to find one liquor dealer who favors Sunday opening. The Newark News has stated editorially that the people of the State cannot have Sunday opening under any form of local option.

"Clarence Case, who hopes to be appointed to a judicial position if Senator Frelinghuysen is elected, attacked me personally in this borough last night, stating that during the past three years I had represented more licenses pleas or applications in this county on application than any other lawyer in Somerset county. I want to say that I did represent clients in that respect, but when my law partner was appointed prosecutor of the county I declared that I would not defend a case in indictment in the courts while he was prosecutor and I did not.

"Did you hear Mr. Case say anything about my remonstrances against license applications? I tried to represent my clients fairly as I would anyone else in any court of justice. I do not believe in hypocrite. I won't deny what I did. Mr. Case says I represented the Somerset County Liquor Dealers' Association, which is true. I was asked to prosecute violations of the liquor laws, which I did. He then speaks sometime in that I performed at a meeting of the Consistory of the Reformed church, of which I am a member. Have you ever heard a man telling from a public platform what took place at such a meeting. Such a man is not worthy of respect. He says that I supported Mr. Burke and his methods, but it was my vote that brought him to Somerville. When you drag the church into politics in this way it is belittling it. If I was wrong on local option then I am right now.

"As to the incident at Mount's hotel at Rocky Hill, I did speak well of Mr. Mount and afterward at the hotel I did have a drink, but what do you suppose I drank? A glass of milk. If I had wanted anyning else I would have taken it.

"It is for you to decide where I stand and whether you want to vote for me. I have always lived in Somerset county and all my work has been there, not in New York. If you believe that I will represent you fairly I want your votes."

When the crowd was waiting for the arrival of Mr. Dungan, it was entertained by several speakers, including Horace Coddington, Clarence Garretson, candidate for the Assembly; George W. Anderson, candidate for county clerk; former Mayor J. B. Furber, of Rahway, who has joined the Democratic forces, making his connection with the Republicans and John M. Burns, of Alabama. S. S. Swackhamer was the chairman of the meeting, introducing the different speakers.

The various candidates made an appeal for votes on account of the policies of Bryan and Kern, but it remained for Mr. Furber, of Rahway, to explain why he deserted the Republicans and joined the Democratic party. He said that he had been a resident of Rahway eighteen months when he was named Mayor supposedly as an independent in local affairs. When the party learned that he really did intend to be independent, the members were horrified. He reviewed the history in connection with charges preferred against Councilman in his town and his fight for what he believed to be right. He also stated that he refused to attend a meeting of the county committee and vote as Frank H. Smith, the county boss, wanted him to do. These and many other things the "real" Republicans took exception to and he was marked as not being a "real" Republican. Then at great length Mr. Furber discussed the financial question with a view to showing the weakness of the present system of banking.

Miss Bauer at Hartridge School.

Miss Hartridge announces to day a change in the music department. It will be for this season under the direction of Miss Winifred Bauer who will give lessons on both the piano and the violin. Miss Bauer is a sister of Harold Bauer and is one of Damrosch's corps of instructors at the Institute of New York. She teaches Kneisel's youngest daughter and he recommends her as a very fine violin and piano teacher and also as an excellent musician in every way. Miss Bauer accompanied Kneisel at a concert last winter and she has given in English a number of recitals. Besides her lessons at the Hartridge School, Miss Bauer has an ensemble class in Plainfield.

"Jolly Eight" to Dance.

SOCIETY ATTENDS CEREMONY.

College President and Pastor in Gowns, Officiate at Ceremony at the First M. E. Church Today.

Miss Mary Ellen Valiant daughter of Mrs. John Valiant, and Donald Ashbrook McGee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, both of North Plainfield, were married at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Saturday, in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends. The affair was a brilliant one, uniting two families that have long been prominent in the social life of the city and borough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, and an uncle of the groom. He was assisted by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the church. For the first time in this church the clergymen wore gowns.

The bride was attended by Mrs. David Boise, of Scranton, Pa., and Mrs. C. F. Corning, of Baltimore, the latter a sister of the bride, as matrons-of-honor; Miss Virginia Hegeman, of North Plainfield, as bridesmaid, and Miss Ethel Most, a cousin of the bride, as maid-of-honor. The best man was Raymond McGee, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Spencer Turner, of New York; Rex Flinn, William Moorehead, John Magee, of Pittsburg; Edith Wilson, of Chicago, and Vaughn McGee, of this city.

The bride's gown was of white satin, Empire style, and she wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried bride roses and lillies-of-the-valley. Her traveling gown was of dark blue cloth, with hat to match. The matrons-of-honor and bridesmaids wore corn color Directoire satin gowns, Empire style, with brown hats and brown plumes and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The maid of-honor's gown was a lavender satin Directoire, with lavender hat and plumes to match. They carried chrysanthemums of the same color.

Howard Case, organist of the First Baptist church, was at the organ and as the bridal party entered the church he played the Lochengrin Wedding March, assisted by a violinist. The ushers led the way, followed by matrons-of-honors, bridesmaid and maid-of-honor and then the bride, accompanied by her brother, John Valiant, who gave her in marriage.

At the altar the party met the groom, the best man and the officiating clergymen, who entered from the front of the edifice. The ceremony was performed with a ring. Immediately afterward the bridal party left the church, preceded by the bride and groom, and a reception followed at the home of the bride's mother on Arlington and Sycamore avenues, where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to offer their best wishes to the young couple.

During the evening music was rendered by the Neapolitan Orchestra, of New York, in costume. An elaborate supper was served following congratulations to the bride and groom, and later Mr. and Mrs. McGee left for a two weeks trip, after which they will reside on Willow avenue for the winter.

The church decorations were particularly attractive, consisting of palms, potted plants and a profusion of chrysanthemums. The same scheme was carried out at the house, with the addition of special decorations in the parlors and reception rooms.

The bride received a wealth of valuable gifts, including selverware, goldware, furniture, cut-glass, linen and several substantial checks. In the exchange of gifts among the members of the bridal party, the groom gave the bride a pearl and diamond crescent and the ushers received pearl scarf pins. The bridesmaid and maid-of-honor received amesthist and pearl pins and the matrons-of-honor were presented with topaz and pearl pins.

Both the bride and groom have been prominent in the younger society set of the borough and city and in the social functions at the Park Club. The groom is a graduate of Yale and now holds an excellent position with Colgate & Co., in the firms New York office.

After the ceremony at the church and in connection with the reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Valiant, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, uncle and aunt to the groom, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, at their home on Rockview avenue. A majority of the guests at the wedding reception attended the anniversary event.

GEORGE JUNIOR REPUBLIC HIGHEST AWARDS FOR PLAINFIELD SCHOOLS AT ALL RECENT NATIONAL EXPOSITIONS

Mr. Davis Relates History and Objects of Children's Self-Government Idea.

AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

He Sketches Growth of Scheme and Points Out How Successfully It Has Worked.

T. G. Davis, of this city, field secretary of the George Junior Republic, related the history and objects of that movement before the pupils of the Plainfield High School Friday morning. He spoke with a rich full tone of voice that added greatly to the interest of an unusually excellent address. His pleasing personality and manner of delivery made the talk all the more enjoyable.

In 1890, according to Mr. Davis, Henry R. George, of New York, brought to his native village in Freeville, N. Y., fifty "tough city" boys and girls, and during the next five years this number increased to more than 250. Soon he drilled into them the idea that they should earn what they got and made them learn to work for their clothing and the like. Gradually he taught them self government and made them a part in judgment whenever any of their number committed an offense. This was the beginning of criminal jurisprudence among the boys. Then he taught them to save their earnings and finally he had firmly established a system of self-government. Such was the birth of the George Junior Republic, composed of boys and girls.

The Republic now has its jails, library, public school, chapel and bank. It also has its courts and its officers, including a President and complete cabinet. It has a legislature, district attorney, and has the town meeting plan for choice in governmental officers and policies. The Republic is as absolutely self-governing as any State in the Union even having its own boards of education and other kindred bodies governed by a constitution and statutes. The boys have their own police forces. The results have been excellent. Two new republics are now being organized and the George theory has proven to be a practical success.

Gold Medal Awarded at St. Louis Exposition.

The Board of Education has just received another beautiful testimonial of the high standard of the city schools in the form of a medal awarded for the school work exhibited at the Jamestown Exposition. The board was notified at the close of the exposition that an award had been given to the Plainfield exhibit, but the medal has only just been received. The award is a silver medal and is the highest award given any public school, the gold medals being given to the exhibits of an entire State.

The medal is a beautiful piece of work, made by Tiffany. It will be framed with the diploma and hung in the corridor of the High School building, where the boys from previous expositions. The school is forming a notable collection of rewards and as they are displayed, they make a splendid testimonial of the high rank of our schools and the excellent work they are doing.

The Plainfield work has received an award of the highest rank at each exposition where it has been exhibited, the first one dating as far back as New Orleans in 1885. At Chicago the school work was awarded a medal for systematic teaching in all grades, fitting students in Greek and Latin to enter college and also preparing them to enter business at the earliest possible age.

At St. Louis, the Plainfield exhibit received [illegible] medal, and for the eighth [illegible] other [illegible] ing only the schools in New Jersey, [illegible] Plainfield High School [illegible] a gold medal.

Principal Travell said today: "In preparing material for these expositions the object has been followed of making the work show as clearly and faithfully as possible the actual work of the schools. Specially selected papers, prepared by a few gifted pupils, criticised by teachers and then rewritten by the pupils, are misleading rather than illuminating in revealing the character and the result of class room instruction. Such methods of exhibition are employed by many schools, but generally in the Plainfield schools [illegible] in every case in the High School [illegible] the work of a class was selected, papers from every member of the class were included, and these papers were written without [illegible] or correction by the teachers.

"The award of these various medals therefore expresses the most favorable judgment of educational experts upon the real and permanent work of our Plainfield schools."

MISS HOLMES BRIDE OF HAROLD NEWMAN HALL

The wedding of Miss Natalie Holmes, daughter of Robert Holmes, of Madison, to Harold Newman Hall, of New York, took place Thursday afternoon at Grace Episcopal church, Madison. The rector, Rev. Dr. J. M. Blanchard, officiated.

Robert E. Hall was the best man. The bride was attended by Miss Helen D. Smyth, of New York, as maid-of-honor. The ushers were Henry R. Burt and John B. Wolff, of New York, and Alfred Dutton and Frederick W. Goddard, of this city. The couple will reside at "Holmesdale," the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends of the couple from this city and New York. Mr. and Mrs. Hall are now enjoying an extended wedding trip. Mr. Hall is engaged in business in New York as an architect. He is a brother of George, Henry L., and Robert E. Hall, of this city.

TAKING CARE OF THE PIANO.

The dusting and polishing of the piano, whether it be a new and valuable baby grand or the humble and more cosey upright, should never be left to the maid, but should be done by the daughter of the house herself. It should be done with a fine cheese cloth or linen cloth, or, better still, with an old silk handkerchief. There should be neither seam nor hem in the dust cloth, as any inequality or hardness is apt to scratch the piano polish.

Cloudy spots are best removed by placing a few drops of benzine on the dust cloth, and then rubbing very lightly and in the same direction till they disappear. The carved legs should be dusted with a soft brush, as should also the rack and other ornamental trimmings. Do not stroke the white keys of the keys wash lightly and most carefully, so no moisture gets into the instrument or between the keys, with a teaspoonful of hydro super oxide dissolved in a pint of water.

The piano should never stand close to the wall; it practicable every the upright should stand fully out in the room. The direct rays of the sun upon it, dampness and draughts all should be entirely opened once a month and examined for moths, which are apt to establish themselves inside the felting and so ruin the instrument.

Edward R. Finch, of New York, whose parents reside on Park avenue, has been appointed on the committee of 200 lawyers whose business it will be to handle Surrogate Charles H. Beckett's canvas on behalf of the bar of New York county.

REPUBLICANS HOLD A BIG MASS MEETING

The Republicans in and about New Providence of Union county and neighboring parts of Morris, Essex and Somerset counties held the most important local rally of the campaign Friday night under the direction of the Republican clubs of New Providence Borough and New Providence Township. The affair included a big, old-fashioned, torchlight parade of the township club, headed by a band from the clubhouse, in Plainfield avenue, Berkeley Heights, down Plainfield and Springfield avenues, to the place of meeting, which was in the open air at the corner of the borough. All the houses on the line of march were illuminated.

Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson presided at the meeting, and the list of speakers included Congressman Charles N. Fowler, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman the three Assembly candidates from Union county, A. W. Schwartz, Carlton B. Pierce and A. F. Kirstein; the candidates for Sheriff, Freeholder and Mayor, R. J. Kirkland, Henry S. Pierson and P. Schwartzwalder, and Judge Horace Roberson, of Bayonne. Much enthusiasm was expressed, and, despite the alliance of a few disgruntled bolters with the Democrats, a largely increased majority for the whole Republican ticket, general and local, is confidently expected.

WON'T STOP GLAZER OPERATING FACTORY

Vice-Chancellor Walker, before whom was tried the case of Miles Reusch and other residents of Alton against Theodore Glazer, Jr., in which the complainants sought to make permanent a temporary injunction obtained from the court has given his final decision. It permits Mr. Glazer to continue his business under the modified terms of the temporary injunction, and is a triumphant for the defendant. The action against James Guttridge, who was co-defendant, has been dismissed.

The case has attracted wiespread attention and has been in litigation for several years. When the temporary injunction was obtained, Mr. Glazer was allowed to conduct his business after he had made certain changes which convinced the court that it was not a nuisance. The temporary injunction remained in force pending the trial before Vice-Chancellor Walker. Judges William Newcorn represented Mr. Glazer and Mr. Guttridge, while Codrington & Swackhamer were counsel for the complainants.

LESLIE BROKAW'S FUNERAL.

Service at His Parents' Home Attended by Large Gathering of Relatives and Friends.

The funeral of Leslie N. Brokaw, whose death occurred Tuesday following an operation, was held Friday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw, of Sycamore avenue. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamberlain, the young man's pastor, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. There were numerous handsome floral tributes, mutely expressing the sincere esteem held for him by hosts of acquaintancet.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, six cousins acting as pall bearers. They were Thomas Buck, of New York; Ray Bigelow, Earle Bigelow and Lucius H. Biglow, Jr., of Brooklyn; Alexander Milne and Laurance Milne, of the borough.

MISS EDNA HACKETT WEDS AT WESTFIELD.

One of the most notable weddings of the season took place at the First Presbyterian church at Westfield Wednesday evening, when Miss Edna Wallace Hackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hackett, was wedded to Mr. Sidney Hull Carpenter, of New York. The Rev. Dr. W. I. Steans, pastor of the church, officiated.

Miss Marion Hackett, sister of the bride, the Misses Beatrice and Bessie Carpenter, of New York, sisters of the bridgeroom, Miss Eeva Powles, of Brooklyn, and Miss Emily Smith, of Jersey City, attended the bride. Mr. William Harold Carpenter, of New York, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Beatrice Hadley, of Roselle, was flower girl.

The bride was given away by her father, Messrs. Arthur McDowell Carpenter, of New York, Edwin Morris Wickett, of Rossville, Peter F. Cogley, of Westfield, and George Davis, of Brooklyn, were ushers.

ON INDIA AND ITS PEOPLE

Rev. Dr. A. E. Kittredge Gives Illustrated Lecture at the Trinity Reformed Church.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CITY.

Describes Conditions and Tells of Odd Customs—His Lecture Was Most Interesting.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Kittredge, pastor of the Madison Avenue Reformed church, New York, who recently made a tour of the world, spending several months in India, visiting all the missionary stations, and who has a brother who has been engaged in business in Bombay for over thirty years, gave a delightful illustrated lecture in Trinity Reformed church, Thursday, on India. The speaker's long stay in India gave him an exceptional opportunity to study conditions there, as well as the people and their manner of living.

The views shown were very clear and the lecture by Dr. Kittredge was highly interesting. He has a clear well modulated voice and a happy way of telling the story of his tour. There was a large audience and a liberal silver offering. So well pleased were the people that Dr. Kittredge will be asked to return to Plainfield and give his second lecture on beautiful Japan.

At the outset of his remarks, Dr. Kittredge stated that India with its population of 294,000,000, of which 240,000,000 are Hindoos, is the most wonderful country in the world, its history dating before Christ and its religion being the oldest known. The speaker started with Bombay the gateway of India, with a population of 800,000. He described it as being the most beautiful city in the world and possesses one of the finest harbors. He said that there are eight hundred different languages spoken in Bombay and no two persons dress alike. The streets are narrow, so narrow that it seems impossible for a carriage to pass. The buildings are very beautiful, some of them being marvels of architecture, the materials used being highly carved white marble and granite.

In referring to the Hindoos, Dr. Kittredge said that they have a peculiar mode of dress. When Dr. Kittredge's brother built a railroad in India the Hindoos told him that he would have to place partitions in the coaches for the various castes, but Mr. Kittredge replied: "There are the cars. You can either ride or walk," and at least in this respect the castes intermingle.

The speaker gave an interesting description of the form of burial in India. The ground is sacred and the bodies are taken to the towers of silence and placed across a grating to be devoured by vultures. In referring to the women of India, Dr. Kittredge explained that they are of the low class, lower than even a servant in most American homes. The wife and mother never eat with husband and son, it being held quite an honor to eat after them and partake of what they leave. A woman cannot speak unless permitted to do so by her husband and the minute he dies she puts on a peculiar dress to signify that she is a widow. According to the belief of the natives a woman has no soul. She walks behind her husband and obeys his every whim. He is her god and she is not permitted to go to the temple.

The speaker then related some interesting facts about Calcutta, with its population of 850,000. Here it is the belief of the natives that the River Ganges comes straight from the throne of God, and they lay great stress on bathing in this river. In speaking of the Mosque at Dehli, Dr. Kittredge said that it will accomodate 10,000 people, each one having space enough to kneel and pray and yet not touch the person next to him.

THE KITCHEN SCRAPBOOK.

Water kept in bottles on the ice, instead of breaking the ice into the water, reduces ice bills.

Growing parsley, sage and other herbs in a kitchen window garden gives better seasoning at less money.

Raise some ocre in your garden. Dried it keeps indefinitely and is the best flavor soup and bouillons can have.

Cheap cuts of meat can be served palatably in stews and croquettes.

Cheese in an excellent substitute for meat, and there is infinite variety in the ways of preparing it.

Serving but one vegetables at dinner is as fashionable as economical.

Buying olive oil by the gallon is one case of economy.

For a formal meal where a touch of bright color is liked a salad that is as good as it is artistic looking can be made of red peppers and cabbage.

Cut the pepper lengthwise, remove every seed and fill with finely chopped cabbage which has been allowed to stand for half an hour in a highly seasoned French dressing.

More of the dressing can then be poured over the pepper which is stood on a lettuce leaf, or a spoonful of mayonnaise can be put on top of each half.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 25, 1903.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions. Fidelia Fiske and missions in Persia.—Mic. iv, 1-7.

The history of Persia from a religious standpoint is a most interesting one. It was so situated that in the early centuries of Christianity its territory was the ground of many religious controversies and conflicts, both Christian and Mohammedan. It is also interesting because of the Zoroastrian religion that existed in Old Testament times between Persia and the people of God. The Jewish prophets predicted the destruction of all the surrounding nations, and their prophecies have come true. But Persia was never denounced, and it stands today as one of the nations of the world. It was through Cyrus, king of Persia, that the chosen people were allowed to return to Jerusalem. The early religion was that of Zoroastrianism—the worship of fire—and it, like Judaism, taught the existence of our God. This was another tie that bound the two nations together. This unique relationship between Judah and Persia existed with no other nation and adds new interest to religion in Persia.

It cannot be said that Christianity has ever had a strong hold upon Persian life. Christianity was early pressed upon the Persians, but the old faith of Zoroaster as the state religion predominated. Persian kings often favored Christianity, but the people held fast to the old faith. It was a hard field, and progress was slow. And then in the fifth century there were bitter controversies within the Christian church, which finally led to a separation between the eastern Christians and those of the west. This final separation was the Nestorian controversy concerning the nature of Christ. The Persian emperor championed the cause of Nestorius, probably because it placed him to see that the subjects break the bonds that existed ecclesiastically between them and Rome. The Nestorians made great progress throughout Persia. The next religious movement was the complete subjugation of the Persians by the Mohammedans, who from that day to this have ruled in Persia. Despite the conquest of the Moslems, Christian missions have still been carried on and are today.

Miss Fidelia Fiske takes high rank among those who have engaged in mission work. She was born in Shelburne, Mass., May 1, 1816. She died in the same place at the home of her brother July 26, 1864. In 1831 Miss Fiske was a pupil and then teacher at Mount Holyoke seminary with Miss Mary Lyon, partaking largely of her spirit. In 1843 she went to Persia to a Nestorian mission. Here she labored for fourteen years and then was compelled by ill health to return to the United States, where she still kept up her activities and was the first missionary school at Oroomiah, Persia, where she had labored. Her work was farreaching. The school had up to this time been but a day school, but she desired it to become a boarding school and accomplished her purpose, and it became a fine seminary. There was a great revival in Persia in 1846, and it started from the Oroomiah school. Women thronged the seminary seeking religious instruction and were not turned away. She had the Christ spirit, and, no matter how tired from her ordinary work, she found time for inquirers. Day and night she labored and then had to leave because of illness. She had loved Persia, the work, not only for herself, but for her Saviour. As she was about to leave Oroomiah the women and girls who went to say farewell asked, "Can we not have one more prayer meeting before you go?" and "May it not be in that Bethel?"—her room, in which she and one petition in a prayer showed how they loved her. It was as follows: "May our teacher's dust never mingle with that of father or mother, but may she come back to us to mingle her dust with her pupils' dust, hear the trumpet with them and with them go up to meet the Lord and be forever with Him." What a tribute to her devotion and what an expression of gratitude it! After a period of fourteen years of service of Fidelia Fiske inspire us to do more for the advancement of Christ's kingdom, for which she was willing to sacrifice so much!

BIBLE READINGS.

In Lands Afar.

In Devon county, England, from which hundreds of young men emigrate annually to Canada and the United States, there are 2,560 male Endeavorers out of a total membership of 6,903.

Rev. Oscar Michelsen reports a new Christian Endeavor society started on the island of Tongoa of the New Hebrides group, the islands made famous by the labors of Dr. John G. Paton. The society has sixty members.

The Christian Endeavor union of Kattpadi, India, has a missionary band whose object is to spend at least a week every year preaching the gospel to the heathen. This past year nine Endeavorers who constitute this band visited twenty-six villages preaching the gospel, with God's blessing upon them.

On the top of the great pyramid in Egypt the monogram C. E. is engraved. The fact is suggestive.

New Blood.

Every Christian Endeavor society will find its best by constantly introducing new blood, developing its present members and turning them out as finished product.—Rev. George B. Stewart, D. D., President of Auburn Theological Seminary.

ANY WOMAN CAN RAISE FINE CHICKENS.

It is a pleasure to me to give you any instructions I may about raising fowl, but truly I am a poor one to instruct another, for my success is as much due to thoughtfulness and love for fowl and chicks rather than any professional knowledge. One must be willing to give constant care and watchfulness as my pets do, for if she would make them anything more than merely what they were named. Anything with feathers on that lays eggs is a hen, but why have a lot of parti-colored ones with sizes running from three to five pounds when one can, with ready little extra expense, have a pen all of one color, carefully chosen as to color, size and shape, and can say with pride: "Those are my fowl." I am not surprised that more people do not know of the orpington breed, for it is not at all common as yet, though I understand it was found a few years ago by a Mr. Cooke. In my previous letter I mentioned there were three colors of this breed, the black, white and buff. There is also the jubilee, or spotted orpington. They are exhibited at the winter poultry show in Mechanics' Hall each year, although to me they do not show their beauty there as when grouped together in a large family. The rose comb has one advantage over the single comb. It can stand a greater amount of cold weather without freezing.

We have the single comb and the roosters sometimes freeze them in a very severe cold spell.

Now as to color, sometimes the clear buff will show a black or a few white feathers from some black breed. That chick should be kept separate from those intended to be for hatching. Also a rooster has quite a reddish blanket from crown down over the back, while the pullet is a clear dark buff.

The best sitter is the short-legged fowl and they will stay on their eggs until they die if not removed to eat and drink. We will suppose you have carefully chosen your eggs or have bought a sitting from some reliable dealer (we bought five pullets and a rooster and hatched our own). It is best to have them attended to by the same person always and that person to feed. Every day while the sun is high and warm (between noon and 3 o'clock p. m.) they should be carefully lifted from the eggs, the nest covered to hide it, and the sitter be fed all the corn she will eat and given a dish of fresh water. Let her have from 15 to 20 minutes to eat and exercise and be sure she drops her stool before going back upon the eggs, otherwise she will mess her nest and eggs.

Be sure to powder her well before putting her to sit, once more in a box or sack and a thorough dusting the day before the eggs are due to pip. That keeps her free from lice while she is so heated, and the chicks will be stronger if free from them. My chicks have one hard boiled egg every morning for one week, then sure against diarrhea, also one handful of fine chick scratch or feed every hour for three weeks. Have a shallow dish for water and change it several times a day, washing it each time in clean cold water. Every night take in all drinking dishes and thoroughly wash and clean them with a small brush and pinch of soda in water. We never neglect to do this to all drinking dishes the year around, and in three years have had but one sick hen, and she took a cold which brought on roup. Keep hens dusted well, houses and roosts cleaned often, well supplied with fresh water in summer and with the chill off in winter. Raise oats for their winter litter and feed them scratch feed early each day in that so they will be sure to begin and then cold feet all day. They must have breezy shade in hot weather and sunny windows in cold. Keep a hopper or other receptacle of broken clam shells and charcoal always before them, also one of bran and beef scraps.

During the cold season we feed green cut bone twice each week. Mix it with a lukewarm bean and vegetable mash, and as they seem to tire of one kind of food, change it, and they will lay in spite of themselves, providing they have exercise. Never startle them, for they must learn to trust you. Teach them from the day they leave the shells to eat from your hand. If the mother scolds while setting on her eggs, always speak kindly to her and gently smooth her feathers until she is more calm, then lift her and place her upon her feet.

Treat the brooderies kindly too. Too often they are abused. Have a small yard to put them in, no nest of any kind; place it where they can have some shade rather than sun, give them plenty to eat and drink, and in five days try them in their regular quarters. If they go to the nest and settle down, put them back again, and in a few days more they are ready to lay. Our hens are very little care, but we give the young chicks a great deal, for it pays in the end. By never allowing them to go hungry for their first three months it forces their growth and develops them into magnificent fowls. We have young roosters now 5½ months old weighing five pounds all dressed for broiling. Our pullets, hatched in April and May, will begin to lay in October at latest and lay very steadily until warm weather.

Now, P. P., I do not know if I have told you what you really wished to know, but if not, please write me

The Unfortunate Weather.

"We shouldn't blame de weather fer changin' so," said the old darky. "Hit's a compliment ter de worl' dat de weather tries its best ter please all de people in it, an' de only way it kin succeed in pleasin' 'em is ter keep changin'. But de day will never come w'en de whole worl' 'll give it a recommendation."—Atlanta Constitution.

What Becomes of Them?

An old friend informs me that worn-out billiard balls are cut up into dice. Worn-out footballs are hung on walls as relics. Worn-out baseballs fall into the hands of the street urchins, who ultimately tear them apart and play with the rubber inside. Worn-out moth balls are used to keep the tarnish off silver. Worn-out golf balls are lost.—New York Press.

Present Appreciation.

We ought daily or weekly to dedicate a little time to the reckoning up of the virtues of our belongings—wife, children, friends—contemplating them, then, in a beautiful collection. And we should do so now, that we may not pardon and love in vain and too late, after the beloved one has been taken away from us to a better world.—Jean Paul Richter.

Don't Nag.

I admonish all these in my family who have authority to be angry, in the first place to manage their anger, and not to lavish it upon every occasion, for that lessens the effect; rash and constant scolding runs into custom, and renders itself despised.—Montaigne.

Rushers Do Poor Work.

It is the misfortune of many that they are always in a rush, hence their work is never satisfactory. Our young men are rushed through school, through college, and pitched into the professions without any reserve supply of education or training.

Reclaiming the Sahara.

Water is doing wonders for the Sahara. In the Wad Rir region 50 years ago there were only about 300,000 date palms, where now there are more than a million are cultivated; and the population, now 30,000 has quadrupled in a generation.

"HEAVEN A CITY."

In the last book of the Bible, the book of Revelation, Heaven is pictured to us as a paradise and also as a city. It is said of those that win the victory over sin in this world that they shall "eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of the paradise of God." Paradise! What is the meaning of that? Paradise was the word that was first used in the history of this earthly paradise; for this figure is used by the author of the Book of Revelation to describe it. If Heaven is a garden, it must be a place where nature is more beautiful than it is now; if it is a paradise, I am at liberty to feed upon the noble glories of a paradise; and to think of the heavenly world as realizing these imaginations of mine. Heaven is nature perfected. There are some things in nature that are perfectly unsatisfactory to us today. There is the cruelty and ugliness of death in nature, but Heaven is the garden of God, where all is love and life. There is a man who loves nature; Heaven in his imagination is nature in all its perfection. To his vision there comes the thought of a heavenly garden. Then through colleges and pitched into the professions without any reserve supply of education or training. the coloring of field and sky. Perhaps everything in his imagination is not perfectly correct, but this we are sure of, that God will not disappoint that imagination, for the reality will far exceed any of the dreams the man may have. Thus in the possible glories of a paradise. Heaven is a paradise. What a wealth of suggestion in that word! Do you imagine that God would give us such a figure, if he meant finally to disappoint us?

But Heaven is not only a paradise; it is a city. Heaven, a city! Now this is not absolutely disfiguring, which is often the case, it gives the impression of hardness which few *women would care about. The soft*est face looks less soft under such an arrangement. The same effect *can very often be had simply by put*ting the hair in a handsome manner rises it, while keeping the drooping outline in which very often lies the smartness of the hat. But even then the hair should be dressed very high and very softly.

Trianon hats are very fashionable just now, those wide, wandering creations, with enormous brims and one or two large flowers for their only trimming, with perhaps a touch of black velvet. They are charming to beauty, but rather unkind to mediocrity.

DAINTY BITS.

For the woman who delights in dainty neckwear there is a veritable revel in store. There is no end to suit everyone, from the strictly tailored little affairs to those fluffy, furbelowy creations which look good enough to eat. Maline bows are coming back again. Not the big, flaring affairs, but long trim bow knots tied around the middle with velvet or gold cord—or whatever happens to be becoming to the one who wears the bow. Then there are bead bows. Have you seen them? They are made of beads, pink, blue or variegated, strung on slender wire and made into bows. They may be looped as many times as is desired. They are pinned at the throat with any odd pin a person may chance to have.

There are windows and windows filled with the most fascinating lingerie. It is a noticeable feature of these dainty waists that but little or comparatively little lace is used. Embroidery is the rage. On some of the articles the hand work is most exquisite. Night dresses and chemises, many of them, are embroidered in colors, pale blue or pale pink or the most delicate shade of lavender being preferred. Some of the prettiest are embroidered in cream.

WESTFIELD RESIDENT WEDS SOMERVILLE GIRL

Miss Alletta Fredenbergh Dodd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dodd, of Somerville, and Dr. Richard Griffin Savoye, of Westfield, were married Friday night at the home of the bride's parents, 67 North Bridge street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cranmer, pastor of the Somerville Dutch Reformed church, and was witnessed by a gathering of friends that included several Plainfielders. Miss Bessie Dodd, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Byron W. Pugh, of Westfield, the best man.

HALL GETS FIRE HOUSE

Second Ward Councilman Wins Long Fight for His Constituents.

BETTER PROTECTION AT LAST.

Structure to Cost $15,000 and Contract to Be Awarded on Nov. 6—End of Long Struggle.

At last the proposed new fire-house is to be erected on South avenue, in the Netherwood district of the city. Favorable action was taken at the special meeting of the Common Council, Friday night, when resolutions providing for the issuing of $15,000 worth of bonds for a period of ten years to date from December 1, 1903, and approving plans and specifications and calling for bids to be received on Monday night, November 2, for the purchase of the bonds and doing the work, were all adopted, but not until considerable opposition was offered by Councilman F. L. Montgomery, of the Second ward.

The meeting was held particularly for the purpose of settling this question, the call having been issued by President Tolles, which set forth in detail the objects.

First, Chapman Hibbard, of the fire and building committee, presented the report of that body, recommending the approval of plans and specifications, and that a building be erected to provide for two vehicles, one combination hose and chemical engine and a steamer. The report stated that the architect's figures for the construction of the house is $9,500 and equipment is estimated at $4,000 for a combination wagon with hose and $5,000 for an auto combination apparatus. This report was filed.

Then Mr. Hibbard offered a resolution calling for the issue of $15,000 worth of bonds to erect and equip the fire-house on South avenue, previously purchased by the city. The issue of these bonds provide for a sinking fund and eight per cent of the principal must be raised for this fund. There are to be thirty coupon bonds of $500 denomination each, bearing 4½ per cent. Interest, and they are to be sold at a public sale to be held at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, November 2. This resolution was adopted, all the members voting in favor except Mr. Montgomery.

The Second ward member taking up the thread of his argument against the proposition, where he dropped it at the last meeting, declared that the intention was to make a good issue. He said that the bonds would mature after the equipment for the new fire-house was worn out, and he believed that it would be better to stand an increase rate than to establish the precedent of issuing such bonds. He said that there is nothing to stop the Common Council from issuing such bonds in any amount, and he did not believe it to be right.

"I understand," said Mr. Montgomery, "that our present bond issue is $534,000, of which $134,500 has been issued this year. I don't like to vote against this latest issue, but I would much prefer to have the matter laid over."

Mayor Frost opposed to the sinking fund feature of the issue, Mr. Suydam held that if the improvement cannot be obtained in any other way he would vote for it provided the bonds are to run for ten years instead of thirty. He also referred to Mr. Montgomery's statement that the equipment would be worn out before it was paid for, and cited the fact that three-quarters of the present fire apparatus is now ten years of age and is paid for. He said that the East End residents were anxious to get the improvement and the Common Council should grant the request. Mr. Gloak also spoke in favor of the improvement.

An amendment offered by Mr. Montgomery striking out the words "equipment," was withdrawn by that member after he was informed that this could not be done. It being obligatory to include equipment in the cost of the building. Mr. Montgomery then moved to refer the whole matter back to the fire committee for further consideration. This motion was lost, Mr. Montgomery alone voting in the negative. Then the original resolution was adopted, Councilmen Gloak, Hall, Hibbard, C. C. Randolph, Suydam and Taylor voting in favor, President Tolles and Montgomery against.

This action was followed by the presentation of another resolution by Mr. Hibbard offering the plans, specifications, form of contract for approval. This was adopted and Monday night, November 2, was fixed as the time for receiving proposals and bids. Again Mr. Montgomery voted no, and he also decided in the negative on the form of proposals, but this was adopted.

Mr. Montgomery wanted to know where the plans for the new house were, and it was learned that Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh had them, having used them in drafting the various resolutions and forms of proposals. Mr. Montgomery thought the plans should be at the meeting, despite the fact that he was assured that there was no chance of a substitution of other plans.

By this time the discussion was growing tiresome, and Councilman Charles C. Randolph arose and declared that the members were quibbling over very small and unimportant details. "We are monkeying like a lot of boys," added Mr. Randolph, "and I suggest that we get down to business."

Just when everybody thought that the whole matter was concluded, a question arose as to the time necessary to advertise for the sale of bonds and for the reception of bids for the work. The ordinance provides that the advertisement shall appear full fourteen days, and to do this it was necessary to have it start today. After impressing upon the acting city clerk, George B. Wean the importance of this, the Councilment felt as though the matter had been properly and carefully put through.

President Tolles in voting against the improvement, explained that he favored the proposition to lay the matter over until next year. He thought little could be accomplished this winter and the delay would not make much difference.

COLORED MAN GETS AN ANIMATED PRESENT.

A stylishly-dressed young colored woman alighted from the 8:50 train at the North Avenue station Friday night, and engaged Cabman Harry Seader to drive her to an address on Crescent avenue. When the junction at East Seventh street was reached, she called for the cabby to stop and asked if he would do her a favor. She held an infant in her arms, probably about a month old, and she said it was to be taken to George Carter, who worked at the house she was going to, but that she had just remembered she had a brief call to make on a friend living near the Crescent Avenue church. Would Seader be so kind as to carry baby to Mr. Carter and return for her at the corner in five minutes? Seader would and he did.

Carter put up a holler when the animated Christmas package was handed over to him and insisted that he knew nothing of the young woman or the child. The cabman asked him to go back to the corner with him if he had any objections to offer and he did, but there was nobody in sight when they got there. A search of the vicinity failed to reveal the young woman who had the call to make, so Seader drove back to the station, leaving Carter to do what he pleased with his gift.

Carter hurried over to police headquarters with the infant and told Chief Kiely that he knew of no reason why he should be singled out as its guardian and asked that the young woman be located. From her description, the head sleuth derived a clue and within an hour Roundsman Higgins had fixed upon Mary Harris, a colored resident, as the donor. Her father, Gilbert Harris, lives on Plainfield avenue and when he was asked as to his daughter's whereabouts he said he had not heard from her in a long time. The last address she gave to the family, he said, was Fort Hamilton avenue, near Thirty-seventh street, Brooklyn.

The cops were making preparation to locate Mary through this address when Carter returned to headquarters and said that he had had a talk with his wife and they had decided to adopt the infant. He assured Chief Kiely that it was purely motives of pity that induced him to take this action and by so doing he did not wish the impression to be derived that he admitted any relationship. The chief said, "Very, I guess so" and the affair was dropped as far as the police were concerned.

THE CELLAR AS A SUMMER RESORT.

The girl who was considered clever to have fixed up the cellar of the house in which to take her rest on Sundays, read the papers and loaf in a hammock, is imitating a Russian method.

In that country of ice, where the people suffer intensely from the heat of summer as a contrast to their winters, they make a practice of sitting in the cellar during the days that are unendurable.

The great portrait painter, Miss Le Brun, tells in her reminiscences of being taught this by the noble ladies who were sitting for her for their portraits.

Fortunately, most of the city houses have cellars that are well kept and ventilated. These are more habitable than the upper rooms of the house on the hot days.

The roof is the place for the night air, but not bearable during the day. So why not fix up the cellar? On hot Sundays, when one wants to go in the sun or the air, the family will find it very agreeable sitting below the ground in the coolness given by stone.

They could arrange hammocks, reading tables and put comfortable rocking chairs down there.

The very poor have already found out that they are not to be pitied for living below the pavement in the big roomy cellars of office buildings and huge old houses all through the lower part of the town.

GARAGE EMPLOYES HOLD A "NICK-NAME" DINNER

As a means of promoting good fellowship among themselves, the employes of the F. L. Martin Automobile Company have arranged a series of social dinners for the winter season, the first of which took place "The Pines," just south of Plainfield Monday night at Peter Fellows' Metuchen, the head of the concern together with William Mazzocco and J. F. Carey, were made guests of honor and there were twenty of the men in attendance beside. The trip to "The Pines" was made in four large cars.

The dinner was an elaborate affair, as it was followed by a "smoker" and session of speech making, J. F. Carey acquitting himself creditably as toastmaster. Each of the guests was furnished a corn cob pipe to which was attached an auto shipping tag, bearing the recipient's nickname on the other. Frequently used at the Martin shop. Some were improvised for the occasion and the humor was sometimes better appreciated by the crowd than by the unfortunate who had to stand for what was given. The affair was arranged by a committee consisting of Arthur Hulick and R. Douglas Martin.

S.S. ATHLETIC LEAGUE HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

The first fall business meeting of the Sunday-school Athletic League was held at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, with Joseph W. Gavett, president of the association in the chair. Delegates representing Trinity Reformed, Congregational, First Baptist, Seventh-Day Baptist churches and Warren chapel, and reports of the various committees were read and approved.

These officers were elected for the coming year: President, Charles W. W. McCutchen; vice-president, Joseph W. Gavett; secretary, G. L. Listman; treasurer, Fred E. Smith; board of governors, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Jas. R. Joy, A. M. Beers, F. O. Dunning and George C. M. Smith.

A committee comprising John H. Doane, George M. Clark and F. E. Smith was appointed to obtain a meeting place for the various schools. The following standing committees were appointed for the year:

Gymnastics—F. G. Davis, F. S. Thompson and F. O. Dunning. Basketball—Charles B. Marsh, Frank Rimmer, Gideon Fountain, E. M. Clark and G. L. Listman. Baseball—Herbert E. Parker, William P. Banks and John H. Doane. Track and field—G. L. Listman, F. S. Thompson and A. C. Newman. Finance—C. W. McCutchen, F. E. Smith. Records—F. S. Thompson, G. L. Listman. Coasting—F. S. Thompson, E. P. Hoagland, W. Lester Glenney. Aquatics—Dr. N. H. Probasco, Charles Steiner and C. B. Batchelor. Registration—F. E. Smith, J. W. Gavett, G. L. Listman. Tennis—F. O. Dunning, A. D. Beers and H. Lee L. Eidtman. Gymnasium—Charles B. Batchelor, Charles Line and C. S. Hoagland.

St. Mary's Defeats Monroe Avenue.

St. Mary's baseball team closed the season Saturday by defeating the Monroe A. C., by a score of 10 to 6. St. Mary's have won nineteen out of twenty-three games played this season.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Conference.

Eight members of the boys' intermediate department of the Y. M. C. A. will attend the New Jersey conference to be held at Lakewood on October 25. The boys will be under the leadership of F. C. B. Batchelor, boys' secretary. Arthur Manley Bergen Naylor, Charles Vail, Ray Bolce, James Manning, Lee Manning, Howard Bay.

AMUSEMENTS.

During the week of October 19, the patrons of Proctor's popular playhouse on Park Place, Newark, will have stronger evidence of Proctor's being the best and greatest show in town. Select your own headliner from the galaxy of stars presented. Fred Karnos Pantomime Company will present their screaming funny sketch, "An Night in an English Music Hall;" a laugh from start to finish. La Petite Revue, vaudevilles latest novelty surprise offering with good singing and much comedy. John C. Hayes, the winner of the Marathon race, recently contested, will appear in an interesting monologue and story descriptive of the great event, illustrated by pictures in detail, showing the victor crossing the line. Miss Laura Burt and Henry Stanford will present their successful comedy sketch, "The Order of the Bath." George B. Reed and Company will be seen in their side splitting skit "An Odd Lot." Berry and Berry have a laughable musical melange entitled "Do You Like Music." Aubrey Pollitzer will present a pretty dancers. Other artists, and a new reel of motion pictures will contribute to this excellent bill.

Louise Gunning, the new prima donna star appearing under the management of the Messrs. Shubert in "Marcelle," the new operetta by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders at the Casino, has established a record as the only recent star to rise to a position of such eminence without a single voice trial or right. She has not only proved her own ability as singer and actress to be the bright central figure in one of the most elaborate productions ever offered on Broadway, but she brought added honor to the Shubert management by no slight qualifying all the steps taken in her behalf. Her singing of "The Red, Red Rose," the latest of he Pixley-Luders' romanic ballads, would in itself be more than sufficient to bring her into the natural realm of stardom. Among the others in the company are Elsa Ryan, Florence Wheat, Frank Rushworth, George Boniface, Jr., Herbert Cawthorne, Henry Norman, Robert O'Connor, Edith Girvan, Leona Anderson, Nettie Black and Marion Ford.

Plays may come and plays mo go, but just now it looks as though the great American play "Paid in Full" would go on all winter at Wagenhals and Kemper's Theatre, New York. Every enthusiastic audience during which "Paid in Full" had its premiere, nearly a year ago, was glad to take advantage of the close of the theatrical season to bring their engagements to an end. Wagenhals and Kemper not only continued the Eugene Walter play during the hot summer but it stands foremost among the offerings of the ne wseason and is attracting larger crowds to the cozy playhouse on lower Broadway than when its great success was much younger. "Its good to be decent." This is the moral pointed out by the play. It is pointed out in the language as familiar as the names of the principal characters—Smith, Brooks, Williams and Harris. It is not told in King's English, but in forceful United States. Its greatest charm is its naturalness.

Klaw & Erlanger's "Little Nemo," which comes to the New Amsterdam Theatre Tuesday evening, October 20, is considered an exciting, triumphant success. The theatre will be closed Monday evening in order to properly house and stage the big production. "Little Nemo" represents the best and most triumphant achievement in all details of its construction. The elaborate management that the stage has ever known. The music by Victor Herbert is the best in melody and the richest in orchestration that he has ever given to musical comedy; and in book and lyrics, Harry B. Smith has undoubtedly shown the cleverest work in his story and stanzas, based on the famous cartoons of Winsor McCay. Comedy abounds in "Little Nemo" and it is refreshing, clean and wholesome fun throughout and with such a trio of comedians as Joseph Cawthorn, Billy B. Van and Harry Kelly, there is a riot of laughter at the succession of comic incidents. Master Gabriel, a consummate little artist, is quite ideal in the title role.

A good deal of nonsense has been written as to whether "The Devil" should be played in a comedy vein or not. George Arliss, whose "Devil" is admittedly the subtlest character study New York has seen in many a year, and one that will live when all other "Devils" are forgotten, says on the subject: "I am quite sure that the devil, to be really the monopolist of his line of business, would be the best story teller in his club, the best dancer in his set; he would play the piano like a virtuoso, win in tennis and golf championships, handle the ribbons like a thoroughbred; in short he would have all the graces and all the charms that men commend and women adore. I want the audiences at the Belasco to laugh with my devil."

When Henri Bernstein's play "Samson" is produced in London with Arthur Bourchier in the leading part, it will be the version made by William Gillette.

Miss Marie Doro will appear in "The Richest Girl" in Chicago and the Philadelphia, then the play will be produced with her in New York. Its London production takes place in January.

Miss Pauline Chase and Mr. Frohman's Duke of York Theatre Company, in "Pantaloon," having met with success at the Theatre Des Arts in Paris, Mr. Frohman proposes they shall appear in Berlin before returning to London, for the reproduction in December of "Peter Pan."

Charles Frohman is now entering in an arrangement so that when "The Girls of Gottenberg" is compelled, in December, to leave the Knickerbocker Theatre, owing to the early engagement of Miss Fritzie Scheff, to have that musical piece continue its run at another theatre in New York.

CLINTON AVENUE WINS THE FINAL CONTEST

The Clinton Avenues closed the baseball season at Bound Brook, Saturday afternoon, when they met the team at that place, and as expected defeated Manager Newhouse's aggregation by the decisive score of 9 to 5. The Bound Brook fans went wild with joy when its team had the Plainfield boys up to bat in the end of the third inning and they had visions of giving their opponents a good drubbing. They failed, however, to count on the stick work of the Plainfielders, and how they did connect with Phil. Smith's assortment of curves and twists, touching him up for thirteen hits, including two two-base hits and a three-bagger.

The feature of the game was the batting of Emery at third. He just simply couldn't help it. He got a two-bagger, a three-bagger and a single, and they were long hard drives. O'Loughlin also got three hits, Seery two and the rest of the players with the exception of Boezley got a single a piece. The infield work of Jack Martin was remarkable and in his five assists he gave an exhibition as to how that position should be played.

The Clinton Avenues showed up weak in only one respect—poor base running. Ten of their number were left on bases. This was excusable in view of the way they were hitting the ball. Randolph held his opponents safe. They only tallied one run after the third inning, and he fanned twelve batsmen in his usual good style. There was no doubt but that Bound Brook found herself in another class, and unable to cope with the fast team from Plainfield. The score:

EQUAL SUFFRAGISTS ANNOUNCE THEIR PROGRAM.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, will hold the first meeting of the season next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Riley, 11 Myrtle avenue. As in previous years there will be meetings on the last Monday of the month throughout the winter, and the following program has been prepared:

For the October meeting, "Suffrage in the United States; at subsequent meetings, "Suffrage in the British Dependencies;" "Suffrage in Scandinavian Countries;" "Suffrage in Finland and Conditions in Russia;" "Efforts for full Suffrage in England;" "Efforts for Suffrage in Other Lands."

Auto Class Growing.

Under the efficient instruction of J. W. Tygaard mechanical engineer, the automobile class which meets on South avenue, is rapidly acquiring proficiency. The class now numbers fifteen.

DINE Y.M.C.A. CHAMPIONS

Pennant, Trophy, and Gold Medals for Winning Team of State League.

CONGRATULATORY SPEECHES.

President Gavett Compliments the Nine—George L. Listman Acts as Toastmaster.

An appropriate and delightful termination to a successful season on the diamond, when the State Association League pennant was won; also the handsome Spalding trophy was the dinner given to the Y. M. C. A. baseball team by the association at the gymnasium Saturday night. The affair arranged by the physical department was replete with pleasant rites, including a number of short speeches and the presentation of gold medals to each member of the team.

One fact was especially emphasized and that was that the association appreciates the achievements of its baseball team and in the wisdom of all that the organization may begin intact another season. Physical director George L. Listman, who was toastmaster for the evening caused no little interest among the players, when he announced that it is still the fond hope that the association may in time add athletic fields enclosed, with a fine cinder running track, baseball diamond, clubhouse and dressing rooms with shower baths, etc., where the boys may have every opportunity to develop their athletic tendencies.

All the members of the team were present excepting Steve Bond and Jimmie Scott, both of whom were detained. After a fine course dinner prepared and served by members of the Women's Auxiliary, was thoroughly enjoyed, the rest of the evening was devoted to speech-making. Those who served the dinner were Mrs. H. D. Parker, Mrs. Charles Van Winkle and Mrs. William C. Hubbard, and the appreciation of the guests was expressed in the speeches which followed.

As president of the association, Joseph W. Gavett was first called upon and in a few words expressed his pleasure and appreciation for the fine record made by the team this year. He said that it was a noteworthy fact that the boys had played good clean ball and their sacrifice in giving up time for practice and the games was to be overlooked. He hoped that the same team would receive the association next year.

George M. C. Smith, as chairman of the entertainment committee, read several letters from officers of the association extending their best wishes, and entertained the company with good stories. Ralph Schoonmaker, captain of the team this year made a few remarks by the way of criticizing the weak points as he saw them. He referred to the poor baserunning, one great fault and he said which Randolph held his opponents safe. He complimented that the team made an average of eight runs to a game and 9½ hits, as against five runs and eight hits for the opposing teams, it can plainly be seen that there was a lack of good batting. There was an average of seven stolen bases per game and the batting average for the team of twelve men was .285. Mr. Schoonmaker spoke of the excellent treatment accorded the team by the association and outside teams not forgetting to thank Mrs. Listman and Miss Parker for their help.

Mr. Listman said that there were two things he wanted to accomplish this year—win the pennant and defeat Clinton Avenue with "Jimmie" Scott in the box. The last named thing he had failed to do. He then presented to the baseball committee of the State Y. M. C. A., of which he was chairman, presented to the team the Spalding trophy, a handsome silver loving cup, suitably inscribed. It occupied a prominent place in the centre of the table and was filled with various colored chrysanthemums. Secretary H. E. Parker accepted the trophy in the name of the team taking occasion to make a short address in which he thanked the players for their fine work. He believed that the trophy represented more than victory, it was a symbol of faithfulness. He commended the fact that the team was an amateur one and that no professional spirit had been in evidence. He too expressed the hope that another year would find the same team playing for the association.

Brief remarks were then made by the members of the team, the representatives of The Daily Press and Courier-News, Umpire Gus. Feiring, after which Dr. Norman H. Probasco presented each player with a gold medal. The medals bear the Y. M. C. A. emblem on the face and the name of the player with a suitable inscription on the back. They are much appreciated by the recipients. A pleasing souvenir of the affair was given each guest in the shape of a miniature baseball bat.

Those present at the banquet were the following: President J. W. Gavett, Secretary H. E. Parker, Physical Director G. L. Listman, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Charles B. Morse, Ralph Schoonmaker, George M. C. Smith, John Peacock, N. Miller, John Yeost, Harry Gilmore, Charles Lotzeaux, Archibald Hacquer and Walter C. Dobbins.

SATURDAY GOLF EVENTS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The continuation of play for the Winners' cup presented by W. Lester Glenney, together with the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups, aroused considerable interest at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday afternoon and brought out a large field. The play for the Winners' cup was for those who survived last week's competition and many excellent mtches were witnessed. The play will continue two more Saturdays and be concluded on election day. The results on Saturday follow:

W. B. Tyler, 22, beat H. D. Hibbard, 7, 6 up and 3 to play; G. S. Clay, 24, beat S. D. Lounsbury, 9, 1 up; W. T. Glenney, 6, beat A. L. Wilds, 9, 4 up and 3 to play; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 14, beat A. E. Barclay, 22, 1 up; D. H. Barrows, 8, beat J. A. Lane, 17, 1 up, 9 holes; L. H. VanHorn, 25, won from default; C. W. King, 26, beat D. H. Rowland, 18, 2 up and 1 to play; Arthur Murphy, 9, beat J. R. Evans 25, 5 up and 4 to play.

The pairings for Saturday follow:

W. B. Tyler vs. G. S. Clay; W. T. Glenney vs. Rhea B. Vanderbilt; Hedges, D. H. Barrows vs. L. H. VanBuren; C. W. King vs. Arthur Murphy.

In the weekly play for the Fall Handicap cups, Classes A and B, these scores were returned:

Class A—Arthur Murphy, 82, 8-74; W. T. Rhea, 83, 12-76; Willard Wadsworth, 83, 6-77; R. G. Morse, 95, 14-81.

FIRST PRESBYTERIANS' TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The twentieth anniversary of the First Presbyterian church will be appropriately observed on Sunday with special services under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Chas. E. Herring. The corner-stone of the church was laid on Wednesday, September 12, 1888, and among the ministers at that time who took part in the services was the late Rev. Dr. J. Yerkes and Rev. J. L. Hurlbut, now of Bloomfield; Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass.; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congressional church; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, at that time pastor, was in charge of the exercises and Dr. Herring has received word from him that he will be present Sunday morning and make an address, as will also Rev. Louis Bond, of this city, who was the first pastor. There will also be a special musical program under the direction of Clifford A. Brader, organist. Dr. Herring will deliver an historical address.

PRINCETON STUDENTS "RAISE CAIN" AT A CIRCUS.

It isn't often that a circus ventures to perform in Princeton. In fact, until last October, no circus had visited the college town for seven years. A circus dropped into the town Saturday night. When evening came, almost every student in Princeton tramped out of the borough limits to the city of tents. The place was so crowded that only the reserve seat space was left.

Heedless of such discrimination in the seating, the students flocked into the reserve seats and thereafter practically ran the circus to suit themselves. The management took it good-naturedly for it was a veritable double attraction.

The acts themselves were well received but under no circumstances were the clowns allowed to be heard. Every time a motley individual attempted to say something, there was an uproar that could be heard a mile away. Then the band was ordered to play in peace and the students sang in accompaniment, regardless of the real melody. The acrobats received better treatment. One of them essayed to climb the tent pole and as he drew himself upward hand over hand, a chorus from the big crowd accompanied each movement until the grunt almost raised the tent roof.

All went well until a barker announced: "After the big show we'll have the big concert," whereup the students demanded that the "big show" be brought forth. They would not listen to the cries of "tickets, ten cents," and the circus management very wisely omitted the concert, and the students paraded away.

Freedom Castle to Entertain.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. G. E., is planning for an open meeting on Tuesday night, October 27, to which the friends of the order will be invited. A first class entertainment will be provided and several good speakers will tell of the advantages of the order.

FIRST PASTOR CHOSEN FOR LOCAL SYNAGOGUE

At the regular monthly meeting of the congregation of the Children of Israel, held in the Hebrew temple Sunday afternoon, Rev. Morris Rotman was called to act as the presiding and permanent minister of the congregation. This is the first time in the history of the Jewish faith since the formation of the first congregation in 1848 in the city of Plainfield, that a permanent minister has been selected, the services heretofore having been conducted by ministers engaged for the special services of the various festivals and holidays, with the aid and assistance of some local itinerant minister.

Rev. M. Rotman is a minister of marked ability and his brother-in-law, Rev. P. E. Turman, is the minister of the largest Hebrew congregation in Trenton, N. J.

A special meeting of the communicants of the congregation has been called for 8 o'clock this evening, for the installation of the new minister in due and proper form.

MAY HAVE TO ENLARGE SCHOOL BUILDING SOON

The Board of Education held a special meeting Saturday night for the purpose of considering the question of more seating room for the pupils. The enrollment this year is the largest in the history of the school. Every room is taxed to its capacity according to the State law, and several of the rooms are in excess of the number of pupils allowed by the law, which compels Boards of Education to furnish a certain number of cubic feet of air for each pupil. The State Superintendent called the local board's attention to the infraction of the law and the board will be obliged to take immediate action. At this time the board is not in position to build an addition to the present building so are talking of the advisability of renting some suitable place in town for the present to overcome the trouble for the time being. Several places are being considered but none of them are really suitable for school quarters even temporarily.

The problem has placed the board where it will be obliged to ask the taxpayers for additional room to the present building. This will mean new teachers, but the taxpayers should not object to this it is argued, for the reason that the best advertisement for a town is good schools.

"THE CITY BEAUTIFUL" PLEASES PENNSYLVANIANS

The delegation of officials and citizens who came to this city from Jenkintown, Pa., Saturday, for the purpose of inspecting the local sewage disposal plant, returned home greatly pleased with their visit. They were made the guests of Mayor Fisk, City Engineer Gavett and Councilmen Pullen and Hoagland during the afternoon and were given every attention in deriving the information they sought.

The trip to the disposal beds was made in a special trolley car donated for the occasion by the Public Service Corporation. Jenkintown is about to build a sewer system and the journey to Plainfield was made for the purpose of getting points for disposal. Engineer Gavett explained the workings of the local plant and gave the officials facts and figures on operation that greatly assisted them in their quest. After looking over the Rock avenue beds and septic tanks, the delegation was taken to the Randolph road pumping station and from there on a sightseeing trip over the Netherwood trolley line. The men were greatly enthused over the "City Beautiful" and were unstinted in their praises. They returned home at 4:30.

The Season's Broadcloths.

The broadcloths are more beautiful than ever before and will be much used for one-piece dresses. Among the new broadcloths brought out in soft weave for winter wear is one of black and dull gray stripe. It is an odd combination for broadcloth, and will probably be very popular.

State Typographical League Passes Resolutions Approving Gompers' Action.

SEVENTY DELEGATES MEET.

Cornelius Ford Introduces Resolution, Which Is Passed Unanimously—18 Unions Represented.

Assembled in quarterly convention at Company K armory, Sunday afternoon, seventy-five delegates, representing eighteen local unions of the New Jersey State Printers' League went on record as endorsing the action of the American Federation of Labor in upholding the national Democratic candidates because of the party's attitude toward organized labor. A resolution to this effect introduced by Cornelius Ford, of Hoboken, was adopted with great enthusiasm and voices the sentiment of the unions in all parts of the State. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, The American Federation of Labor, to which the International Typographical Union is affiliated, has through its executive council inaugurated a campaign against a political party and its various nominees, and has denounced President and members of Congress; and

"Whereas, This campaign has been inaugurated to achieve success in the matter of stopping the abuse of the indiscriminate issuance of injunctions in labor disputes and the restraining of labor organizations, by legislation, from the recent decisions of the United State Supreme Court declaring labor organizations trusts, illegal combinations in restraint of trade and trusts; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the New Jersey State Printers' League of the International Typographical Union in regular session assembled at Plainfield, N. J., on Sunday, October 18, 1908, endorse the action of President Samuel Gompers and the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor in their politics of electing our friends and defeating our enemies."

The convention was called to order by Vice-President Niles and the reports from delegates showed that harmonious relations exist between employers and employees throughout the district. Cornelius Ford, representing Hoboken Typographical Union, No. 323, was elected president of the League to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Frank L. Kresage, of Trenton. A special committee, consisting of one member from each union, was appointed to take charge of the banquet. At the close of the business session, the delegates were entertained at supper by the Plainfield printers. It was served by Timbo.

Among the visitors at the convention were James Tolon and Secretary Maxwell, of Local 67 while a delegation from New York headed by John Tolan and organizers John E. McLaughlin and Henry Klein; President Garabrandt, of Newark Allied Printing Trades Council; George T. Bartels, president of the Orange Trades Council; President Smallwood, of Newark Typographical Union, No. 103, and several others.

CHIEF EXCISE PROBER COLD WATER FIGHTER

With tiny streams of water pouring into every room from the cold air valves of the steam heaters, the Smalley building on North avenue, in which the city offices are located, had a narrow escape from being washed away Monday. Fortunately, for the owner of the structure and all the tenants, Mayor Charles Fisk, Chief Excise Prober, and Health Officer Leon Thurlow chanced to be at their desks later than usual and discovered the flood in time to prevent heavy damage.

The trouble was caused by some one about the place turning the water into the steam boilers and neglecting to shut it off. The flow continued on unabated and after the boiler became filled up, the aqua pura was forced into the pipes and began spurting out of the air valves. The basement was like a small brook and streams were chasing all over the floors when Mayor Fisk and Mr. Thurlow "got wise" to what was going on. They sent "still alarms" to David Kenney, the owner of the building, and as many tenants as they could scare out of bed, bringing half a dozen or more on the run. The trouble was quickly discovered after the arrival of the heroes of the occasion were amply rewarded—with praise. Thus the building was saved from being washed down into Green brook.

"Li'l Mose" Date Changed.

The date for the appearance of "Li'l Mose" at the New Plainfield theatre has been set for the original date of Monday, October 26, after being first announced it was changed to Tuesday, the twenty-seventh, but has now been put back. The performance will be under the auspices of Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P.

BISHOP AND PRIESTS OFFICIATE AT DEDICATION OF $300,000 CATHOLIC INSTITUTION OF LEARNING

Rt. Rev. Dr. J. A. McFaul and Clergy of Trenton Diocese Conduct Elaborate Ceremony in Presence of a Great Crowd.

PRELATE PLEADS FOR STATE AID FOR CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

College of Mt. St. Mary.

The new convent and college of Mount Saint Mary, erected by the diocese of Trenton on the crest of the Watchung mountains two miles from Plainfield at a cost of $300,000, was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon. A simple ceremony conducted by the Right Reverend James A. McFaul, D. D. LL. D., Bishop of Trenton, marked the event but exercises taking place concurrently attracted a gathering of 10,000 people to the campus before the building. Fully 2,000 men paraded from North Plainfield to the college preceding the commencement of the program and their reception formed the only part of the proceedings witnessed by the general public.

The dedication proper was arranged for 3:30 but it was after 4 o'clock before Bishop McFaul and his party of assisting clergy filed into the convent chapel for the ceremony. He was accompanied by Rev. Father William H. Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, who had general charge of the exercises, and the following dignitaries in the diocese: Monsignors Fox, of Trenton; Brady, of South Amboy; Connelly, of Philipsburg; O'Connell, of Perth Amboy, and O'Grady, of New Brunswick, and the Very Reverened Dean Mulligan, of Camden. The pastors of all the parishes within a radius of thirty miles, the Sisters of Mercy of the diocese, the students at the school and invited guests, including Plainfield and North Plainfield officials, were in attendance.

The bishop first conducted prayers before the altar and then proceeded through the various rooms of the building, consecrating each one. Returning to the chapel, he delivered a discourse on the significance of the occasion and concluded by conferring the Blessed Sacrament on the College of Mount Saint Mary. This was the extent of the dedication but while it was taking place, the gathering on the campus was being addressed by Dr. Norris, of Spring Lake, chancellor of the diocese.

In his remarks at the chapel, Bishop McFaul expressed himself as being highly pleased with the erection of the college and declared it to be a great step forward in the diocese, not only in education but in religion as well. The day marked the fourteenth anniversary of his appointment as bishop, he said, and in view of this fact it seemed that a brief history of Catholicism in America and the growth of the Diocese of Trenton would not be amiss.

The speaker stated that the first representative of the Catholic church to be appointed to this country was Bishop John Carroll, who was sent over in 1789. He was an intimate friend of George Washington and cousin to Charles Carroll, the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence. Previous to this time, the Vicar Apostolic delegate was Bishop Chainer. With the exception of a Spanish parish in Florida, all the Catholics in the country were included in the diocese of Baltimore, numbering seventeen priests and 20,000 people. In 1808, the number had so greatly increased that the territory was divided and the dioceses of Philadelphia, New York, Boston and, Bardstown, now Louisville, were formed. The west half of New Jersey was included in Philadelphia and the east in New York but in 1853 they were put together in the diocese of Newark. Rev. James Roosevelt Bailey, of New York, a relative of President Roosevelt, was the first bishop. He was afterward elevated to the archbishopric of Baltimore but returned to Newark to die. In 1881, there were so many members of the faith in the State that it was divided into two dioceses, those of Newark and Trenton.

The Trenton diocese, the bishop said, embraced 6,000 square miles of territory in what are known as the fourteen southern counties. Rev. Father O'Farrell was the first bishop and when he assumed charge there were sixty priests and 60,000 people. Since then there has been an increase at the rate of 125 per cent. and there are now 175 priests and 135,000 people. From a numerical standpoint, the growth in proportion has been twenty per cent. greater than in either the diocese of New York or Newark. Bishop O'Farrell was succeeded by the present incumbent.

"The schools of this diocese," the bishop continued, "are now educating 11,000 children at a cost of $360,000, this amount being saved the State. In view of this fact, it seems to me that we ought to have a pro rata share of the taxes; that is, some portion of the large sum that we contribute toward the education of other children. Payment for religious education is a curse, as the records of France, Italy and the Philippines will show, but I advocate the examination of our pupils in the ordinary high school branches and where it is shown that they meet all requirements it seems no more than proper that we should receive a share of the State funds for carrying on the work.

"The cry has always gone forth that we combine the church and school and I maintain that they should not be divorced. You can't make a Christian without teaching him Christianity and we claim that a man must always live in a Christian atmosphere. That atmosphere is created in the home, the church and the school. Where the State has control of the church it is a disgrace but with the parish taking care of both the church and the scool the proper result is attained."

In conclusion, the bishop thanked all the members of St. Joseph's parish who had contributed to the building of the college, mentioning especially David T. Keaney, who donated the site, and expressed the hope that it will prove to be one of the most highly gifted institutions of learning for young women in the State.

Following the exercises in the chapel, Bishop McFaul and the assisting clergymen adjourned to the college campus, where the pastors and other laymen were being addressed by Dr. Norris. A temporary altar had been erected beneath the trees and it was used later for the benediction of the sacrament. In this ceremony, Mgr. Brady acted as deacon; Dean Mulligan, sub-deacon; Dr. Griffin, master of ceremonies, and Rev. Father Powers, assistant master of ceremonies.

In addressing the gathering, Dr. Norris took occasion to congratulate the various societies of the nearby parishes for the great interest displayed in the dedication and expressed his belief that it boded success for the college and its work. He then launched into a discourse on the value of education, in which he pointed out that a young woman fully equipped with religious and secular learning was certain to make her way in the world. He challenged the statement frequently made that the Catholic institutions are inferior to non-sectarian schools or lacking in curriculum and declared them to be equal to any in the country. Education, he said, is the greatest industry in the world and the Catholic church is doing all in its power to further the tuition of the young in practical knowledge but at the same time is not neglecting their moral welfare.

The exercises closed with an informal reception to Bishop McFaul in the convent chapel. Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, who has contributed liberally to the building fund, was an interested spectator throughout, as also was Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield and Francis L. Montgomery and Frank DeWitt Randolph, of the Plainfield Common Council.

The parade preceding the exercises formed on Watchung avenue, extending from Front street to St. Joseph's church, on Manning avenue. When Bishop McFaul arrived from Trenton, he at once entered Richard McCullough's automobile and viewed the marchers, the men forming in two lines on either side of the street. They afterward assembled four abreast and with Father Miller, Father Dunphy, of Dunellen, and Father Dietrich, of Bound Brook, at their head, they proceeded to the convent. The Plainfield Italian Society, accompanied by a brass band from Newark, had first position in line, and the following organizations marched in the order named:: Holy Name societies, of Dunellen, Stony Hill, Bound Brook and Raritan; Division No. 4, A. O. H., of Plainfield, accompanied by Independent Fife and Drum Corps; the St. Mary's T. A. B. society, Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus; St. Mary's Holy Name society and St. Joseph's Holy Name society.

MISS WILDEY TO WED M. J. DUMONT OCT. 27

Announcement is made of the approaching wedding of Miss Janet Wildey, daughter of Charles Frederick Wildey, of Central avenue, and Morris J. Dumont, son of John B. Dumont, of Stelle avenue. The event will be celebrated Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's father and will be attended by a large number of guests.

Both Miss Wildey and Mr. Dumont are prominent in the younger society set of the city and have been leaders in many social functions. Both are very fond of athletics. Miss Wildey being a tennis player of exceptional ability and having taken part in all the important tournaments in the East. Mr. Dumont is a member of the Plainfield Country Club, where he is an active golfer, and of the Watchung Hunt Club. The wedding will unite two prominent families of the city.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB PLANS TWO FUNCTIONS

As a fitting finish to the meet of the Watchung Hunt on Saturday night, October 24, a hunt supper will be served at the clubhouse at seven o'clock. From present indications the affair will be attended by a large number of members and their families. Tea will be served during the afternoon and the supper menu prepared by the house committee, is one that will appeal strongly to the hungry huntsmen and the members.

The hunt supper is the first of a large number of functions which have been arranged by the new entertainment committee for the fall and winter season, and will be followed by a "bridge luncheon" for the women and their guests on Wednesday, October 28. Luncheon will be at 1 o'clock, and the committee will provide the necessary bridge equipment for as many tables as may be required. Parties of various numbers may arrange to be seated together by notifying the steward early. The men's grill room will be thrown open to the women for this occasion, and their comfort and convenience will be further considered by furnishing on notice to the steward, the club carriages to meet those coming by the Fourth street trolley to West Eighth street and Monroe avenue.

Because in his opinion the complainant had failed to show negligence on the part of the defendant company, Judge Vail in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth Tuesday morning, nonsuited Garret T. Dunham, of West Front street, this city, who brought an action against the Public Service Corporation for $5,000 damages alleged to have been received about a year ago, while riding on one of the main line cars. The case was begun late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dunham was represented by G. W. V. Moy, of this city, while Alvah A. Clark was counsel for the company.

Mr. Dunham, in company with several friends, was returning home on Sunday night about a year ago and in some way he fell off a main line eastbound trolley car near the corner of West Front street and Clinton avenue, receiving injuries which confined him to the house for several months. In the suit which followed it was contended that the company was negligent, but the court today held that he had failed to show negligence on the part of P. S. C. It was the claim of the company that Mr. Dunham alighted from the car while it was in motion.

Kneisel Quartet Coming.

Announcement is made by Joseph McIntyre of his first chamber music concert to be given at the Hartridge Auditorium on Thursday night, November 12, and another announcement of unusual interest is that the famous Kneisel Quartet will appear at the same place on Wednesday night, December 16. This will undoubtedly be the musical event of the season and lovers of music are assured of a program of rare excellence.

REV. ALEX. M'KELVEY DIES AT SON'S HOME

Rev. Alexander McKelvey, father of Rev. Joseph C. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, died suddenly Monday at his home in Boonton, where he lived with his son, Alexander B. McKelvey. The Plainfielder was summoned Sunday afternoon and was at his father's bedside when the end came. Pneumonia was the cause of death.

Rev. Alexander McKelvey was born in the north of Ireland in 1828 and came to this country when a young man. He was graduated from Rutgers College and the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and his first charge was at Irvington. During the Civil War he was at Paterson. For some years afterward he was pastor of the Kent Street church in Greenpoint, where he built the present church edifice. He then came to Westfield and soon became a Presbyterian and pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in Jersey City.

For the last fourteen years Mr. McKelvey had been pastor of the Boonton Reformed church and last July celebrated his fiftieth anniversary as administer of the gospel. He frequently came to Plainfield and participated in the exercises at the corner-stone laying of the new Warren chapel and its dedication. His wife died five years ago. He leaves three sons, J. William McKelvey, of Jersey City; Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, of the borough, and Alexander B. McKelvey.

Week-End Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Austin, of West Sixth street, chaperoned a party of young people to Jacob Voehl's summer home on the mountain, Saturday, and spent Sunday. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. Those in the party were the Misses Tina and Della Voehl, Edna Sebring, Ada Van Horne, Mrs. Arthur V. Austin and Mr. Benjamin Schuck, Francis Merritt, Elliot Taylor, Arthur V. Austin and Raymond E. Miller.

Their Wedding Day Set.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Wyckoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wyckoff, of Grove street, and Anthony Ammon, of Somerset street, has been announced to take place on December 18 at the home of the bride's parents.

DUNELLEN OFFICIALS RAID CRAP SHOOTERS

Constable Blaine, of Dunellen, accompanied by Mayor S. S. Swackhamer and Marshals Bumback and Schliney made a raid on the crap shooters on the outskirts of Dunellen, Sunday afternoon, and gathered in George Lee, colored. He was later discharged. Of late the people living on the outskirts of Dunellen have been greatly annoyed by gangs of colored men in the woods shooting crap.

It was decided to make a raid on the players and on Sunday afternoon the officers swept down upon them. The game was on when the officers arrived and the players ran away without gathering up the money. The officers got $2.30, the dice and the table which the players had. Lee told the officers the names of the other men who were engaged in the game. It is likely that warrants will be issued for their arrest.

C. B. TYLER TO WED MISS WHITTLESEY

Announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Susan Tilden Whittlesey, daughter of the late United States Senator William T. Whittlesey, and C. Boardman Tyler, of this city, at a dinner given at the home of Miss Whittlesey's mother on Wendel street, Pittsfield, Mass., Saturday night.

Miss Whittlesey is the granddaughter of President-elect Samuel J. Tilden. No date has been fixed for the wedding. Mr. Tyler is well-known here in social circles. He is a son of the late Colonel and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, and a brother of former Councilman William S. Tyler.

REV. DR. A. H. LEWIS REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, former editor of The Sabbath Recorder, has been seriously ill at his Watch Hill home, and until the present some anxiety has been felt concerning his condition. He was planning to return to Plainfield with his invalid wife last September, but had to take to his bed immediately upon his return from the Seventh-Day Baptist general conference at Boulder, Col., necessitating a stay at Watch Hill.

A troublesome tooth is chiefly responsible for the illness of Dr. Lewis. At Denver he was obliged to secure the aid of a dentist to remove an ulcerated molar, and it appears that the poison caused septicemia from which he has suffered severely for more than a month. His physicians hope that the worst is over, but it will be a long time before Dr. Lewis will be able to return to Plainfield. Plans are being made now to have Mrs. Lewis removed to her home in this city.

Dr. Lewis had experienced some trouble with the ulcerated tooth before going to Denver and it was the opinion that he was not in a condition to attend the conference. However, feeling that his presence there was a necessity he went against his best judgment and made the trip.

Rushing Work on Organ.

The materials for the new organ for the Church of the Holy Cross have arrived from Chicago and a full force of men has been put to work for the purpose of rushing the job through as quickly as possible. It is hoped that the organ will be ready for use within three weeks. It is the make of the W. W. Kimball Organ Company, of Chicago, and is considered one of the best.

ADMINISTRATOR LOSES IN BOAT ACCIDENT SUIT

A jury in the Union county court, Friday, returned a verdict of no cause for action in the suit brought by Counselor William G. DeMeza as administrator of Laura Peterson and William H. Gray, colored, against the Boynton heirs, of Boynton Beach. The Peterson girl and Gray, both of whom lived in this city, were drowned in a boating accident on the pleasure resort and J. A. Kiernan, who tried the suit for Mrs. De Meza, alleged negligence on the part of the beach proprietors in not providing a proper craft.

It was stated by Mr. Kiernan that on August 2, 1908, on which day there was a special attraction for colored people, two young women and two young men hired a row boat to go rowing on the sound. Seeing that there was some water in the boat they asked if it was safe and were assured that it was. The young people went out on the sound and were about half way across when the boat suddenly began to fill and in a few minutes went down. Three of the young people were drowned. One of the young women, a Miss Stevenson, was saved by a launch which was near the scene of the accident, but it was impossible to save any of the others.

Miss Stevenson was the only witness produced by the plaintiff while the defense put fifteen people on the stand who swore that the accident was due to the young men rocking the boat.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Henry Apgar, of this city, formerly of Far Hills, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Caroline B. Apgar, to Dr. William A. Howard, of Vincent, Ohio. The wedding will take place next Thursday at Parkersburg, Va., at the home of a relative of the bride. The newly married pair will reside at Vincent, Ohio.

No Typhoid Epidemic.

The fact that there are about nineteen cases of typhoid fever in the city, nine of which are being treated at Muhlenberg Hospital, has given rise to some anxiety on the part of the people. The Board of Health has the matter well in hand.

DIED.

BENNETT—On Tuesday, October 13, 1908 Rachel Wagner, wife of Henry E. Bennett, and daughter of Amy H. and the late Henry F. Johnson.

KING—On Thursday, October 15, 1908, Thomas B. King, aged 61 years.

KITCHEN—On Thursday, October 15, 1908, Sarah C., wife of Joseph Kitchen, aged twenty-three years.

SKIFF—At Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 11, 1908, Charlotte, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmund Skiff, aged 6 years 9 months.

Blonde Women's Advantage.

"Blonde women have their photographs taken just about twice as often in the long run as brunettes," remarked a photographer. "The reason is easy; blondes take better pictures than brunettes. The lighting effects are better when the subject is a blonde. A blonde girl may get a photograph that will flatter her, where one of a brunette, taken under the same conditions, will not even do her justice."

Squelched Eccentric Poet.

One day Charles Baudelaire, the eccentric French poet, came to Maitre du Camp's room with his hair dyed green. Du Camp affected not to notice it. Baudelaire did all he could to direct attention to it and finally, as his friend persisted in not noticing it, he burst out: "Don't you see anything strange about me to-day?" Du Camp answered: "Not at all; lots of people have green hair." Baudelaire left at once, disgusted.

Vocation.

Every man has his own vocation. There is one direction in which all space is open to him. He has faculties silently inviting him thither to endless exertion. He is like a ship in a river; he runs against obstructions on every side but one; on that side all obstruction is taken away, and he sweeps serenely over a deepening channel into an infinite sea.—R. W. Emerson.

Would Welcome Such Gems.

The legal tangle that has resulted from the pretensions of a man that he could make diamonds is interesting to women who hope that the man can prove his ability to manufacture the crystalline form of carbon, as the real gems are growing scarcer every year, and the price threatens to become prohibitive.

A Handicap Now.

"What sort of telescope do you use for seeing things on Mars?" The eminent astronomer, habituated to scanning the heavens at magazine space rates, stayed his pen but an instant. "I have learned," he replied, "not to rely on any telescope. The best of them badly hampers the play of the imagination."

French Wives in Business.

Wives of French business men, as is well known, quite commonly assist in their husbands' commercial affairs, and for such wives it is claimed that they "afford much help by being, even 'after hours,' always willing to talk 'shop.'"

Has Trained Bull at Work.

Thomas Hill, a Lawrenceville (N. J.) farmer, has trained a bull to run a treadmill, which pumps water, churns butter and does all of that kind of work. The bull, Hill says, beats a windmill or gasoline engine.

In Pawn, We Suppose.

Enlightened by three dreams a man finds the wedding ring lost by his wife five years before. Let him speak right out to an anxious world and say whether it was mince pie or Welsh rarebit.—New York Herald.

Church to Be Built of Paper.

Paris is to have a new church made entirely of paper, rendered impermeable by means of a coating of quicklime mixed with curdled milk and white of egg. It will accommodate 1,000 people.

Irish Hospitality.

An Irishman needs no requital for his hospitality; its generous impulse is the instinct of his nature, and the very consciousness of the act carries its recompense along with it.—Charles Phillips.

Real Cause for Divorce.

In seeking absolute divorce man testifies that his wife gave him hash for breakfast and provided the corespondent with cocktails and soft shell crabs. That's adding insult to alleged infidelity.

The Limit.

Howell—"I don't mind getting a lemon now and then, but—" Powell—"But what?" Howell—"I think it is overdoing the thing when the lemon has been squeezed."

Disastrous Reaction.

"I was awfully worried about Johnny when he had that last sick spell," said Mrs. Lapsling, "and when the doctor told me he was going to get well I went fairly deleterious with joy."

The Difference.

The man who saves when he has little is called stingy. He that saves when he has much is said to be judicious.

Congested New York.

The world's population could be contained in Delaware if it was as congested as 11 New York city blocks, at the rate of 1,200 people to the acre.

When You Feel "Blue."

Determine not to be "blue" and make it a rule to go to see a friend and to cheer him up every day. Incidentally you will cheer yourself up.

Her Superiority.

Woman's superiority is exhibited in her ability to sew without putting a knot at the end of her thread.

Doctrine of Selfishness.

Aristophanes: That is every man's country where he lives best.

CASE ASSAILS DUNGAN

Young Lawyer Bitterly Flays Somerset Democratic Senatorial Nominee.

SAYS HE IS INCONSISTENT.

The Major's Record on the Excise Proposition Cause Arraignment at G. O. P. Meeting.

Mercilessly flaying Nelson Y. Dungan, the Democratic candidate for State Senator in Somerset, especially for his alleged attitude on the question of local option, Clarence Case, a prominent young lawyer of Somerville, addressed a large gathering of Republicans in Saengerbund Hall, Wednesday. The fact that it was known that Mr. Case was to speak particularly on the excise question and show Mr. Dungan's relations with the liquor interests of Somerset county, created unusual interest in the meeting.

Mr. Case declared that Mr. Dungan, during the past three years had represented more liquor places under indictment and on application than any other lawyer in Somerset county; that he was the counsel for the Somerset County Liquor Dealer's Association. Speaking more definitely he cited the alleged fact that only recently he was instrumental in securing licenses for two undesirable applicants, later in the purposely late court to allow protests, and that after his success he went to the office of a newspaper at Somerville and requested that his name be withheld from the proceedings, because of the fact that he was a candidate for office, and that it was withheld. These and other statements were made by Mr. Case to show the alleged inconsistency of Mr. Dungan in his appeal to the voters of his county.

The members and supporters of the Anti-Saloon League were shown up by the speaker, who declared that they were "working" the members of churches to vote for Mr. Dungan because he had proclaimed himself to be a friend of local option and home rule. He exposed the alleged trick of the opponents of Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who is trying to show that the latter is in favor of an open Sunday, and showed it to be a political dodge as proved by the Senator's record and recent declaration as to his position on local option. Mr. Case went considerable into detail as related to his personal experiences to prove the alleged questionable methods employed by Mr. Dungan in his fight for office.

At the outset Mr. Case said that there is one phase of the political situation in Somerset county which appears to overshadow everything else. Never was there a more persistent attempt to sidetrack the main issue. Right in the midst of a great Presidential election, when it is important that the right man be elected, when it is time to elect a representative in Congress for two years, a State Senator, who will vote for the next United States Senator, together with all the great national issues before the people, there is the spectacle of candidates dribbling about side issues.

"The candidate for State Senator on the Democratic ticket, Nelson Y. Dungan, is a man of honesty and ability," continued Mr. Case, "and I am not here to accuse him of any wrong doing. But in the anxiety to be elected he has plunged into inconsistencies. In Bound Brook we find one condition, in the country dis*tricts another and in North Plainfield* still another.' Every district has a different condition and there is a dose for every complaint. At Bound Brook they are accusing Senator Frelinghuysen of being responsible for the increase in tax rate, when it is due entirely to local conditions including a new $65,000 school house. In the country districts Mr. Dungan is telling the farmers that Mr. Frelinghuysen is not representing them because he supported a bill compelling 12 per cent. solids in milk, when in his opinion ten or eleven would be sufficient. As a matter of fact that bill was a law for years before Mr. Frelinghuysen went to Trenton.

"The excise question is one that must be considered carefully and with calm reasoning. Until the last month or two we heard of no local option in Somerset county. We heard about good roads and other matters of county interest, but not a word about local option. In a public statement in the press we learn that Mr. Dungan pledges himself to vote for local option. In a word local option means that the voters in any community are privileged to decide whether or not they want license. It does not change the licensing power."

Just at this point Mr. Case read Senator Frelinghuysen's published statement showing his position on the local option question, in which he says that he cannot wholly support local option because it would afford communities the right to sell liquor every day in the year and might result in an open Sunday and that he is unalterably opposed to an open Sunday.

"Col. Dungan has and is using local option as a dodge," continued Mr. Case. "I have here a letter written by Rev. Dr. James LaFevre, of Somerville, to Rev. Dr. Morgan, of Newark, who tonight is addressing a big local option meeting at Somerville, *in which he says that Mr. Dun*gan is making local option a personal issue and that if the latter should be elected he would not be the weight of a straw in Trenton. Yet, the Anti-Saloon League is rallying to its support the church organizations and is asking churchmen to elect Mr. Dungan.

"When an organization like the Anti-Saloon League comes into Somerset county and berates the man I love and admire, I say I resent such influence. It is *unfair and a misrep*resentation of facts. No such condition exists here. I hold here in my hand a copy of 'The Issue,' of October 2, in which Senator Frelinghuysen is pictured by the Anti-Saloon League as opposed to local option and by innendo[illegible] he is represented in the midst of a lot of beer barrels and represented as a boss. The picture is labelled 'Candidate against local option.' I see that J. Frank Burke is the editor of this paper.

"This Anti-Saloon League has gone into Somerset county and declares that it is imperative that the church shall make a good county. They publish the statement that Mr. Frelinghuysen is opposed to local op*tion, that the league stands for* Mr. Dungan. Such statements bring a flush of shame to my face. Is it right? Last Friday J. Frank Burke wrote a lot of incoherent questions to Senator Frelinghuysen and before they could be answered they were published in pamphlet form and distributed in the county. I recall from the days of the Legislature that J. Frank Burke was severely censured by the Legislature last March and further privileges of the floor were denied him.

"About a year ago when Mr. Dungan was a member of the Consistory of the First Reformed church at Somerville, a Mr. Burke was advertised to address the congregation one Sunday morning. I happened to be there taking the place of an absent member. Mr. Dungan approached me and said: 'Who is this man Burke? Is he the man that was lobbying at Trenton last winter? If he is what will be the effect on this congregation with my consent.' Mr. Dungan even went so far as to write a note of protest which he sent to the pastor of the church. Fortunately, it was J. Frank Burke's brother who spoke and any trouble was averted.

"The question is whether Mr. Dungan's present attitude entitles him to the support of the temperance people. During the last three years Mr. Dungan has represented more liquor places under indictment and on application than any other lawyer in Somerset county and he has been the counsel for the Somerset County Liquor Dealers' Association. These facts do not hang well together and should not give Mr. Dungan any of the local option support. It was through his efforts that two undesirable applicants received their licenses and at his request the Somerset Democrat withheld his name from the proceedings.

"At Rocky Hill, Mr. Dungan makes an address and among other things states that if every candidate conducted as Mount's Hotel there would be no cause for trouble. After the meeting Mr. Dungan went to Mr. Mount, explained that he had paid him a compliment and wanted to know what he was going to pay for it, whereupon Mount replied, 'Let us have a drink,' and Mr. Dungan had a drink.

"Mr. Dungan once said, 'I would rather lose my election than hurt my friend, Col. Earley, of Somerville.' The candidate is carrying water on both shoulders, playing both ends against the middle. I don't say that it is wrong. I might do it myself if I was a candidate, but it is all wrong to line the church up to vote for Col. Dungan. A man in Somerville recently urged a friend to vote for Mr. Dungan and that he is the man to get your license.

"We have a candidate in Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen who is fair and frank and who leaves no doubt as to where he stands on all the important questions of vital interest to the voters. As to local option the condition for it does not exist here. With conditions like those in Plainfield everyone would be satisfied. You cannot legislate thirst out a man's throat and if your community should 'go dry' those who want liquor would get it. It is better to have the business under proper control as provided for in the Bishops' bill with proper amendments. Our candidate is a man who has brought Somerset county to the front and he should be continued in office."

Prior to the speech-making and afterward a professional entertainer from New York kept the audience in good humor with funny stories and songs.

Dr. Justus H. Cooley presided at the meeting. After the speeches refreshments and cigars were passed.

Miss Helen Stahlberger, teacher of German and French in the borough High School, is ill at her home in Auburn, N. Y. Her sister is substituting for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pomeroy, former residents of the borough, but more recently of Rochester, N. Y., have returned here and are now living at 110 Park place.

MISS FLORENCE CUMING MR. VAN DOREN'S BRIDE

Miss Florence J. Cuming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cuming, of Putnam avenue, and Clarence A. VanDoren, also of this city, were married Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion with ferns, palms, autumn foliage and dahlias.

The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of smoked gray broad cloth, with hat to match and she carried a boquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian M. Cuming, as maid-of-honor, who wore a gown of mais zeta velling, and she carried pink roses. Harry F. Cuming, a brother of the bride, was the best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held, during which the couple received the congratulations of the guests and supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. VanDoren left early in the evening for a wedding journey in the South. They will be absent two weeks and upon their return they will reside in Brooklyn. Both the bride and groom are well known here and are popular in a large circle of acquaintances. Mr. Van Doren holds a position in an insurance office in New York.

MISS MAYMIE ROBERTS BECOMES MRS. HAINES

Miss Mayme E. Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Roberts, of Martinsville, and Raymond J. Haines, Steiner place, North Plainfield, were married at the home of the bride's parents at 6 Wednesday night, the affair being one of the most brilliant in that section of the State in several years. Rev. George Okeoson, pastor of the Mt. Horeb M. E. church.

The bride was attended by Miss Lelia Haines, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Miss Ruth Colthar and Miss Tessie Haines, as flower girls. The best man was Albert C. Roberts, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Joseph T. VanNest and William Roberts.

The bride was gowned in messaline silk, trimmed with duchess lace and wore a veil of French illusion and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of pale blue lawn and she carried carnations.

As the bridal party entered the parlor, where the ceremony was performed the wedding march was played by Miss Alma Haines, at the piano, assisted by Fred and John Bartle, on the cornet and violin. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served.

The house was elaborately decorated with autumn foliage, the arrangement in the parlor and dining room being especially pleasing. There were about 225 hundred guests present from Martinsville, Mine Brook, Somerville, Hackensack, and Plainfield. The bride received a large collection of gifts, including silver, cut-glass, bric-a-brac, rugs furniture, etc. Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding tour and upon their return they will reside in North Plainfield.

MISS FRANCES DUMONT IS NOW MRS. RADFORD

Miss Frances Mallaby Dumont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dumont, of Madison, and LeRoy S. Radford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Radford, of Park avenue, this city, were married Wednesday at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Stephen Simpson, of New York, a relative of the bride, in the presence of a large number of relatives and intimate friends.

The bride's gown was of white satin and princess lace and she wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms and carried white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister, Miss Natalie Dumont, whose gown was of pink chiffon over messaline of the same shade and she carried pink chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by Harold A. Chandor, of this city, as best man. The ushers were William H. Dumont, brother of the bride, and Robert Lester Radford brother of the groom.

The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, palms, ferns, autumn flowers and leaves. The bride received many handsome and costly gifts, including silverware, cut-glass, China, jewelry, mahogany furniture and several checks, one of which was presented by the firm of bankers, in whose office the groom has been employed for a number of years. His friends in the office also presented him with a handsome Tiffany clock.

After an extended trip through the south the couple will reside in Rosseville, where they will be at home after November 5.

VOTERS PACK THEATRE

MAC LAUGHLIN MAKES HIT.

Witty Speech of Editor of The Schoolmaster Captivates Crowd —Colonel Farless Talks On Issues.

The scene at the Plainfield Theatre Thursday on the occasion of the opening meeting for the campaign on the part of the Republican party in the city recalled the old-time enthu*siastic meetings of years ago.* The interior of the theatre was artistically decorated with flags and bunting, palms and potted plants of various kinds. Preceding the meeting a short parade was made about town by the band, and by eight o'clock the theatre was filled and standing room only left. There were many women in the audience, and the boxes were occupied by parties headed by F. H. Andrews, of the County Tax Board, Hon. Williams Newcomb, judge of the county court, Attorney Vincent W. Nash, jr., Samuel Bowman and others. On the stage were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, Counselor J. Henry Crane, Mayor Charles J. Hak, Assemblyman Kirstein, of Rahway, County Physician Westcott, of Kenwood, and many others.

The meeting was called to order by W. S. Angleman, chairman of the city committee, who spoke briefly, calling attention to the need of the vote of every Republican in the city to help out in the county, congressional and presidential contests, and announcing the coming of the Presidential candidate, the Hon. William H. Taft, to Elizabeth, on Monday morning and urging a large representation of Plainfield voters at the meeting to be there then. Mr. Angleman introduced former Judge William Codington as the chairman of the meeting.

Judge Codington introduced as the first speaker of the evening Col. William H. Fairless, of Virginia, who held the close attention of the large audience for an hour and a half, while he discussed eloquently and instructively the National issues.

Col. Farless laid bare the shortcomings, inconsistencies and failures of the Democratic party in the past. He declared that Bryan, its present candidate is a "trimmer" and has long since proven himself to be a false prophet. His policies unsound and his election would put business at a standwill. Roosevelt came in for a good share of his praise and when he mentioned the President's name there was a hearty outburst of applause. Mr. Taft, he reminded his hearers, is "no man's man" but an independent who gifted statesman of the very highest type and a most worthy candidate to fill Mr. Roosevelt's shoes. The recent panic, he added, is nothing to the terrible calamity that would follow were Mr. Bryan elected. He lauded the colonel praised both Governors Fort and Hughes for their fearlessness and honesty, there was great cheering. The speech was frequently interrupted by hearty and prolonged applause.

The second speaker, Cresswell MacLaughlin, although the hour was late, made a genuine hit. His re*marks were interspersed with witti*cisms that caught the crowd's fancy. He predicted that New Jersey would give Mr. Taft a rousing majority.

Mr. MacLaughlin said that he needed no introduction himself by giving a short synopsis of his life. He said that he was a Jerseyman, as he was born in Jersey City, which would be a pure town if no one lived there, that he was educated in Boston, where though was a mirror; and that he had done business in Philadelphia, where the spider spins his web from the trees to the trolley line while the cars are running. Having taken the audience into his confidence, the speaker and the audience continued on good terms to the finish.

Mr. MacLaughlin was entirely different in his method of speaking to Col. Fairless, and seemed to enjoy the situation as much as the audience whom he kept convulsed by his clever talk. When he had finished, the large audience, although they had been listening to the speeches for over two hours, refused to leave the hall and demanded more. City Chairman Angleman, therefore, brought Mr. MacLoughlin again to the front of the stage, where he continued speaking for another ten minutes.

The marked success of the meeting assures those in charge of the campaign here that the people are not as apathetic as many croakers are saying they are, and that Plainfield will not only roll up the usual large Republican majority but will lead greatly to it.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular conclave tonight.

Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. U. A. M., will hold a chestnut roast tonight after the meeting.

At the last meeting of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., the third degree was conferred on four candidates.

DR. H. C. KREBS' ADDRESS

North Plainfielder's Talk Before Fellow County Superintendents.

HELD AT TRENTON YESTERDAY.

Semi-Annual Conference Is Attended By Twenty-one of the Twenty-two County Superintendents.

Twenty of the twenty-one county superintendents of the State met in the State house Friday at Trenton at the semi-annual conference of the County Superintendents' Association. *President John Enright, of Mon*mouth, presided and addresses on various topics of educational interests were made by members and followed by a general discussion of the subjects.

H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield, addressed the association on the transition from grammar schools to high schools. He said that beneficent legislation during the past few years has caused an enormous increase in the number of pupils who pass from the graded schools to high schools. Five years ago this class of pupils was numbered by twos and threes, but now scores are making their way by train, trolley, wagon and bicycle to the higher department of the common school system.

Mr. Krebs said that this movement had brought with it several problems which needs solution. One of these is the test of fitness before pupils can be admitted to high school. He feared that in the past few years the standards had been too low, as many pupils had entered high schools unable to do the work. This, he believed, was partly due to the desire of outside teachers to graduate many pupils. "To prove *this condition, there should be bet*ter teachers in the country school, the pupil in rural districts being justly entitled to as good a teacher as the town or city child. Mr. Krebs said the standard of certification for teachers is much too low. The State does not even require high school graduation as a pre-requisite to entering the examination for a county teacher's certificate. All that is required is a good moral character, a minimum age of 18 years, and the ability to answer seven out of ten questions in eleven elementary subjects. Graded schools do not usually prepare pupils for the examination qualifications; hence they are turned loose on the country children to inflict incalculable damage upon their future prospects. Continuing, Mr. Krebs said:

"With the increased and increasing salaries now paid teachers, with two years of normal training for their capacity, with normal graduates from other States glad of the opportunity to enter New Jersey, we have reached the time when it should be announced that no person will be permitted to teach in this State after January 1, 1905, who does not graduate of at least a two-year course in a State or city normal school. No greater boon to the suffering children in rural districts could be invoked than this, which would protect them from the sad consequences of apprenticeship and experimentation."

The system of conducting the county examinations was also discussed by Mr. Krebs, who thought it was open to serious criticism and required amendments in various particulars. He also spoke on the problems of transportation to schools, the subject of tuition fees and their timely topics.

Principal James M. Green, of the State Normal school in Trenton spoke on the high school course for teachers in the normal school, and *J. Brognard Smith, of the State edu*cational department, explained at the afternoon session the latest amendment to the school law, adopted at last winter's session of the legislature.

Election of officers resulted in the choice of John Enright, of Freehold, to succeed himself as president and the re-election of Charles Albertson, of Magnolia, and Mr. Betts, as vice-president and secretary, respectfully.

Funeral of Mrs. Bennett.

The funeral of Mrs. Rachael Bennett, wife of Henry E. Bennett, was held this morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Johnson, of Watchung avenue. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. During the service Mr. Howard sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Abide With Me," were sung by E. E. Runyon. There were numerous floral tributes. Burial was made in the new cemetery at Somerville, the following acting as pall bearers: George C. Graves, Percy Graves, Thomas M. Muir and Stephen Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lund, of this city, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Long, of Bound Brook.

Mrs. Levi Kline, of Somerset street, has been spending several days with her sister at Stanton.

MISS NELLIE MULLEN BRIDE OF PHILIP JAHN

Miss Nellie May Mullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mullen, of Basking Ridge, and Francis Philip Jahn, of Scotch Plains, were married Thursday at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. J. T. Reeve, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Basking Ridge and was witnessed by 125 relatives and friends. The gathering included many Plainfielders.

Miss Mullen was attended by Miss Marion Jahn, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. She was gowned in Persian lawn with lace trimmings and wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms. Her boquet was of bride roses. Miss Jahn's gown was of pink silk and she carried carnations. Miss Julia Allen, cousin of the bride, and Miss Marguerite Jahn, sister of the groom, gowned in white swiss, acted as flower girls. Berlis Mullen, brother of the bride, was best man. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Edna Bowers, of Basking Ridge.

The ceremony took place in the parlor beneath a bower of autumnal foliage. The same material was used throughout in the decorations, producing an unusually striking effect. They were arranged by Mrs. Samuel Childs, of Basking Ridge, a life-long friend of the bride.

With the words pronounced that made the young couple man and wife a brief reception was held during which Mr. and Mrs. Jahn were showered with congratulations. A wedding supper was served in conclusion. The bride and groom left on their departure at 9 o'clock for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points of interest. They made their escape from the confetti and rice throwers by jumping into William Childs' automobile and proceeded to Morristown instead of the Bernardsville station as originally planned. On returning they will reside on Park avenue, Scotch Plains, where a completely furnished home awaits their coming.

Mr. Jahn is one of Plainfield's best known young business men and is widely acquainted throughout Union county. He is a member of the local lodge of Elks, Perseverance Lodge, Knight of Pythias; Plainfield Lodge, No. 44 I. O. O. F., and several other organizations. His bride has always been a resident of Basking Ridge but visited frequently in Plainfield. They were remembered with a handsome array of presents that included silverware, cut glass, furniture, pictures, bric-a-brac and checks.

GUARDSMEN DISOBEYING WILL BE SENT TO JAIL

According to an order that has been issued by Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, of the Second regiment, to the officers of the National Guard, enlisted men who fail to pay fines imposed by the court martial, or to attend the regular drills, will be proceeded against under the laws of the State and sent to jail.

The edict came as a bombshell to the men, who, Colonel Dungan claims, have been disobeying the discipline of the organization at will. He explains that the men upon whom fines were imposed generally paid no heed to the verdict of the court.

Such a course, he says, is against good discipline, and works a good deal of harm to the service. As matters now stand, the officers were often defied and discipline in the guard severely injured. While the colonel admits that possibly the fines recently imposed will make the National Guard unpopular for a while, it will in the end prove of great benefit by giving officers power to hold their commands up to a better state of discipline.

The officers are heartily in favor of the plan proposed by Colonel Dungan, and the idea will be tested immediately by *proceeding against de*linquents. It is claimed by the officers that a good man will always be well treated, and when anything like a reasonable excuse is offered by derelict members they will be assured of fair treatment, but when a man defies his company commander and pays no attention to the summons of a court-martial he does not deserve kind treatment, and under the plan of Colonel Dungan he will be compelled to take his medicine.

A BOSTON GIRL SAYS:

A love affair is like a well, so easy to fall into, and so difficult to get out of.

A man often thinks he will marry a girl, until he discovers that she thinks so, too.

Platonic friendship is like perpetual motion, a beautiful theory that nobody has ever been able to make work.

Of course women should marry; no home is complete without a husband any more than it is without a cuckoo clock to a cat.

Many a true word is spoken by accident.

NO POLITICS IN CHURCH

Father Bogan Says American History Disproves the Calumny.

CATHOLICS OF ALL PARTIES.

St. Mary's Rector Astonished at Suggestion for One Party for All Catholic Laity.

Denying that it has ever taken any hand in politics in this county and denouncing a suggestion that it should, Father Bernard M. Bogan, made an eloquent address before the members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, in which he declared that the charge that the Roman Catholic church dictates to the faithful in political affairs is a base calumny.

When a member had put a question whether it would not be advisable for all Catholic men in this country to unite in one political party, the scholarly priest of St. Mary's, arose and made a most vigorious speech. After expressing his astonishment that such a suggestion should be made by an intelligent man among intelligent men, he explained the position of the church, one of absolute non-interference.

"This very question," said Father Bogan, "contains the spirit of an insult against all Catholics which I had hoped had long since left the United States of America. Among all the calumnies that have ever been invented to bring odium upon American Catholic citizens, none has done half so much to arouse against us the suspicion, the hatred and the bitter persecutions of our non-Catholic fellow citizens as has the oft-repeated charge that we owe political allegiance to the Pope of Rome. Many assert, and some honestly believe, that the Pope, through the bishops and priests, of the church, control the political as well as the religious belief of American Catholics. Hitherto, the most conclusive refutation of this monstrous calumny has been found in the fact that while Catholics are united in *religious faith, they are as much di*vided in politics as the members of any other religious denomination.

"It is a noted fact, and a complete vindication of Roman Catholics against the charge of looking to the Pope for their political opinions is found in the terrible conflict in which Roman Catholics while remaining a unit in religious faith, were as much divided in opinion as to the issues of that war, as any other class of American citizens. In fact many of the most distinguished generals, both Federals and Confederates, as well as many of the bravest soldiers in the ranks of either side, were Roman Catholics, professing the same religious faith, and kneeling at the same altar. This fact stands a conclusive proof to all but prejudicial minds that these brave men serving in opposing armies, while worshipping at the same shrine, did not derive both their religion and political faith from the same source. But what we have taken, as the saying is, 'from Rome,' is the moral sense of responsibility that is ours, that the nation we love so ardently must depend upon the right conscience of the individual for the perpetuation of its traditions."

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN FOR FRANK M. RIMMER.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rimmer, of Essex street, tendered a reception Thursday to their son, Frank M. Rimmer, in honor of his birthday anniversary. It was largely attended by friends of the young man, who showered him with congratulations and best wishes. Mr. Rimmer was the recipient of a handsome gold watch and chain from his parents and a number of suitable gifts from friends.

The evening was pleasantly spent playing parlor games, vocal and instrumental selections, after which supper was served. The dining-room was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Michael Rimmer and Miss Alice Rimmer.

The first prize in a donkey party was won by James Keaney, and the consolation prize went to Miss Elsie M. Rimmer. Mr. Rimmer having just attained his majority is much pleased that he will be able to cast his first vote for Taft and Sherman.

Among those present were the Misses Elsie and Alice Rimmer, Edna and Eunice Eckert, Mary N. Mortimer, M. Clara Hunter, Elizabeth Slorah, Mary Slorah and Messrs. Frank M. Rimmer, Harry Keaney, James Keaney, Allen S. Snyder, Peter C. Sweeney, John Slorah and Harold Brownell.

The football games scheduled for last Saturday between the first and second teams of the N. P. H. S. and the New Brunswick H. S. was cancelled by the New Brunswick before the local elevens started for the town on the Raritan.

A dramatic entertainment will be given at Grace M. E. church tonight.

S. T. Perrin conducted the service at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, last night.

WOLVERTON SENTENCE PUT OVER ONCE AGAIN

Tuesday was the date set for the pronouncing of sentence on Arthur Wolverton, superintendent of the Industrial Home, who was found guilty of assaulting Samuel S. Vermeule, an aged inmate, but when the case was called in the city court, the defendant was not present. Judge Runyon announced that he wanted the superintendent in attendance before he made any disposition and postponed action for one week in order to have the police learn the cause of his absence. It was said after the proceedings that Wolverton had been duly informed that he should have been in court today and that he was seen about the city offices at 9 o'clock.

The Common Council took up the Wolverton case after Judge Runyon had conducted an open trial and found him guilty, and received evidence behind closed doors. At its conclusion, he was declared blameless and the police magistrate was asked to suspend sentence. The judge, however, has given no intimation as to what his intentions are but appearances indicate that he does not look upon the matter in the light that the councilmen do.

LOCAL ARTIST'S WORK OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Jonas Lie, the well-known artist, has returned to his studio in the Babcock building, where on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., the public is invited to see his work. The room is tastily decorated and the walls hung with large and small sketches and paintings. As one looks around a person is convinced of the versatility of this artist. There are to be found green summer days rivers winding between banks of snow, rich autumn scenes, dying leaves, peasant interiors and snow-capped peaks, autumnal fogs and morning mists, storms and the last rays of the setting sun creeping along fields and gilding the tree trunks, depicted with equal ease and facility.

"Tar Lake Steam," just back from a number of out of town exhibitions occupies the centre of the west wall, alongside which hangs the large new canvas, "The Storm Passes On," from the Watchung hills this summer. This together with "The Witches Pool," exhibited at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburg, last winter, now occupying the centre of the east wall, will shortly be sent to the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington.

Two pictures, "After the Snowfall," and "Gray Winter Day," have been sent to the Chicago Art Institute, and the "Herd of the Woods," which has been on exhibition since it was painted, in New York, Buffalo and now in St. Louis, has been invited to the Indianapolis Art Institute and will from there go to the Pennsylvania Academy exhibition this winter. The rooms are well worth a visit and it is hoped that those who may be interested will take advantage of the opportunity to see so many fine paintings.

P.H.S. DEFEATED AGAIN, RUTGERS PREP. WINNING

Although outweighed twenty pounds to a man the Plainfield High School football eleven played a fast snappy game against Rutgers Prep. on Home Common Saturday afternoon. The final score was 5 to 0 in favor of Rutgers. The lone tally was made in the second half, when Lowe was sent over the line for a touchdown. This was the second game lost by P. H. S. this season.

P. H. S.—Left end, Doane; right tackle, Carpenter; left guard, Parsons, centre; Flemming; right guard, Widowson; left tackle, VanZandt; right end, Phillips; quarterback, Clark, Riffert; left halfback, Snyder; fullback, Bingaman; right halfback, Smalley, Bristol.

A three knife-plaited ruffle of valenciennes falls under the tabs, and at the right are double ruffles of knife-plaited batiste edged with valenciennes and an insertion of valenciennes. Valenciennes bow.

Mrs. Carlton P. Hoagland and son are guests of her mother, Mrs. Stewart, in East Orange.

Mrs. John Lance, of Division street, has been visiting her daughter, in Elizabeth.

Mrs. Robert Moore, of Chester, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William H. Condit.

BRYAN HERE ON FRIDAY NOTED ENGINEER DEAD

Democratic Presidential Nominee Following on Taft's Heels to Tour Jersey.

FIFTEEN SPEECHES IN STATE.

Former U. S. Senator James Smith to Entertain Nebraskan—A Whirlwind Trip.

Close on the heels of his Republican opponent for the Presidency, William Jennings Bryan is going to make a tour of New Jersey. Unlike Mr. Taft, who made five speeches, he will speak fifteen, possible twenty times. The Bryan special train, bearing the Democratic State Committee and state nominees, will leave Philadelphia at 8 o'clock Friday morning, crossing the Delaware and entering this State a half hour later. The whirlwind tour that has been planned will terminate at Newark, according to present plans, late in the evening.

State Committee Chairman James R. Nugent late yesterday worked out the Bryan schedule and announced it last night. He said: "If possible we will have Mr. Bryan for Jersey City and Paterson Saturday afternoon. Should that be out of the question, he will go to Newark Friday evening after a mass meeting in Krueger Auditorium, and will speak in Jersey City at 9 or 9:30 o'clock.

"It is planned to reach Trenton over the Pennsylvania at about 8:30. A speech will be made from the observation platform there. We will go north over the Belvidere division of the Pennsylvania from Trenton and make our first stop at Lambertville in Hunterdon county at 9 o'clock. Frenchtown will be reached at 9:30; Milford, 10, and Phillipsburg in Warren county at 10:45. An hour will be spent in Phillipsburg.

"The start will be made from Phillipsburg at 11:45 over the tracks of the Central Railroad. Hampton Junction will be reached at 12:15 and the first afternoon speech will be made there. Flemington at Whitehouse at 12:30 will be followed by a few minutes' stay at Somerville, the big town of Somerset county. We will reach Somerville at 1, Bound Brook at 1:30 and Plainfield, the first Union county stop at 2 o'clock.

"After a speech at Elizabethport at 2:30 the train will switch to the Long Branch Railroad and the trip made to Perth Amboy. Mr. Bryan will talk at Perth Amboy at 2:45, and then he will go back over the Pennsylvania Road to Rahway, where the nominee will speak at 3:15.

"From Rahway we will go to New Brunswick, where an hour will be spent. Newark will be reached at 6 in the evening."

Mr. Bryan will be entertained at the home of former United States Senator James Smith, jr., according to present plans. He will speak at 8 o'clock in Krueger Auditorium. Former Judge Gottfried Krueger will preside.

NOTED FUN MAKER HAS PASSED AWAY

Raymond, a well known vaudeville player.

Gus Rogers was one of the best known low comedians on the American stage. For ten years the team has starred in musical comedies produced by Klaw & Erlanger. The brothers made a lot of money and carefully invested their earnings in real estate, principally in Manhattan theatre property.

The Rogers Brothers are well known to the New Plainfield theatre patrons. They first appeared here in the "Rogers Brothers in Ireland." Last season they appeared in "The Rogers Brothers in Panama."

F. A. C. Perrine, Formerly Professor at Standford University, Passes Away.

A GRADUATE OF PRINCETON.

Distinguished in His Profession—Aged Forty-six—Wife and Children Survive.

Dr. Frederic A. C. Perrine, one of the best known consulting engineers in this country and an authority on electrical matters, died Tuesday morning at his home on West Seventeenth street. He had been ailing for several months with Bright's disease but the end was not expected.

Dr. Perrine was born in Monmouth county, New Jersey, in 1862 and had lived in or about New Jersey all his life. He graduated from Princeton as a Bachelor of Science and afterward had the degree of Doctor of Science conferred upon him. Soon after leaving college, he became attached to the Roebling company's engineering staff and was identified with many mechanical problems solved by the big concern in structural work. He left the company to become a professor of electrical engineering in Leland Stanford University, California, and the students he taught are now in every part of the United States. Retiring from the college, he assumed the presidency of the Stanley Electrical Manufacturing Company at Pittsfield, Mass., and for four years he has been a consulting engineer in New York, chiefly in Wall street.

Dr. Perrine had a recognized position in the electrical world, both as a scientist and an engineer. He was ans active member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and published a number of papers before it that attracted widespread attention. He was also the author of a book on electrical conductors that is considered an authority. In his business life and with his associates, he was a man of firm convictions but always congenial and of a disposition that attracted people to him. He will be greatly mourned by everyone who knew him and though he had lived in Plainfield but four years, his friends here were very numerous.

Surviving Dr. Perrine are his wife, two daughters, the Misses Margaret and Anne Perrine, and one son, John Perrine. The funeral will be held at his late residence Thursday.

AIDS TO BEAUTY OF THE HAIR.

In visible nets solve the problem of mussed hair for many. Naturally they must match perfectly. And then they must not be too tightly adjusted. It is this tightness that has influenced many against them, and convinced others that a net and a graceful coiffure cannot exist on the same head.

While these nets will not perform wonders, they will preserve waves much longer than these evidences of the iron would otherwise last. These waves, by the way, may be made to last longer by applying preparations that hold the hair in curl: quince seed or gum arabic are the two preferred stickly ingredients. Of either of these only a small quantity should be used at a time, because as the liquids dry they take on a powdery appearance that is very noticeable.

A harmless and effectual bandoline os made from three ounces of gum arabic dissolved in half a pint of warm rosewater. This will take several hours. Afterward it is strained and a drop of a solution of aniline red is added to give a tint.

To use it, put on the hair before waving with irons or on curlers.

Persons who prefer a quince preparation should use this formula, consisting of a tablespoonful of the seeds put into a pint of soft water and gently simmered until it is reduced to three gills. After straining and cooling, two tablespoonfuls of cologne and two of alcohol should be added.

Many women would find that if they gave their hair sufficient moisture it would wave or show a tendency to curl. This is not the case, however, with tresses that are naturally oily, whose heaviness can only be taken from straightness by the application of heat or other drying means. But for hair of light, fluffy texture teh water treatment has great possibilities. Sometimes merely dampening it with water will be sufficient. This is done while dressing the hair. The hair near the head is then lightly gone over with a wet brush, and effort should be made to lay it in waves.

Better than water and very efficacious for holding loose ends in place, are glycerine and water in the proportion of a teaspoonful of the former to half a pint of the latter. This makes a dressing that is not greasy, but "holds" better than clear water.—Philadelphia Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Wetherell, of Westfield, Mass., are the guests of the Misses Laughton, on High street.

Mrs. William G. Tunison Jr., of Plainfield, is a guest of Mrs. Philip W. Tunison, on Grove street.

C. S. WORKERS' MEETING

will take part in the evening service. One of their number will sing a solo.

Delegates from Springfield and Summit may make connection with the Rahway Valley Railroad, and return by special at 11:30 p. m.

Luncheon will be served to delegates by the women of Westfield churches. The First Presbyterian church is easily accessible, and a large attendance is expected.

The Rev. William B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth, is the efficient recording secretary of the county association, while the Rev. Dr. H. H. Sleeper, another Elizabeth clergyman, holds the office of first vice-president. The roster of officers follows:

President, Rev. Wm. B. Hamilton, Roselle; first vice-president, the Rev. H. H. Sleeper, Ph. D., Elizabeth; second vice-president, the Rev. Ora J. Sheop, Plainfield; third vice-president, the Rev. Almer W. Karnell, Union; secretary and treasurer, Richard Cranmore, Westfield; recording secretary, the Rev. W. B. Hamilton, Elizabeth; home department superintendent, Mrs. Almer W. Karnell.

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS TO RALLY AT CRANFORD.

On Friday evening, October 30, a rally of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, of which Wallace E. Kendall, of this city, is president, will be held in the First Presbyterian church, Cranford. It had been intended to hold the meeting on Thursday evening next, but Union County Sunday School Association having changed its annual meeting from the fifteenth to the twenty-second, the Endeavorers decided to postpone their meeting until Friday evening of the subsequent week. The rally will be in the form of an echo of the recent convention of the State C. E. Union at Atlantic City. Arthur N. Pierson, the retiring treasurer of the State union, will make its principal address, and others who attended the convention will speak briefly concerning their impressions of the gathering. Among these will be Charles F. Windhart, secretary of the Plainfield C. E. Union.

The Cranford Presbyterian church is easily accessible from nearly all parts of the county, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. Miss Anna Berglund, secretary of the county union, is sending out invitations to the societies. It is suggested that where possible the young people go by special trolley. It has been some time since the eighty organizations has held a public meeting, and it is urged that each society send as large a delegation as possible.

RARITAN.

Preparations are being made by the young people of Raritan to go in the parade in Somerville on Hallowe'en night, and hopes run high when prizes are discussed. It is expected that several will be brought back to Raritan.

A Democratic meeting was held last evening in St. Bernard's Hall by a club which has been organized in Raritan which holds its meetings in the Ehni building.

Mrs. Frank Gheen, of New York, sister of William F. Greene, is in the Somerset Hospital. Mr. Gheen and son are staying in Raritan.

Sunday was observed as "autumn day" in the Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. S. D. Harris, occupied the pulpit at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wachter, of Elizabeth, spent last week with the latter's mother, Mrs. William Sheehan, on Doughty street.

Concert a Great Success.

The twenty-ninth concert of the Y. M. C. A., and the first one of this season, attracted a capacity audience to the association building last night, and the exceptional program rendered by the orchestra under the direction of Martin A. Koff, was greatly enjoyed. Three numbers rendered in part one were loaned for the occasion by the Plainfield Public Library, and were the selection of Dr. Leonard Waldo. The various classical numbers were given in an excellent manner, and the solo parts received hearty applause, especially Miss Josephine Martin. The success attending the first concert speaks well for those to follow during the winter.

Miss Emma Hardgrove has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Staats, at South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, of North avenue, Plainfield, were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Scott's grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Warwick, in Main street, South Bound Brook.

After a stay of several weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Verpoy, in Clinton street, South Bound Brook, Miss Theresa Noburger has returned to her home in Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey Mathews entertained their nieces, the Misses Bertha and Ethel Delle, of Newark, at their home, in Cedar street, South Bound Brook, over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, of Cherry street, South Bound Brook, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Baurer, in Elizabeth.

WILL GOLF ON SUNDAYS

of being one of the best governed cities in the State. Our public schools took first prize at the Jamestown Exposition and ten years before the Bishops' law was passed, Plainfield had adopted the very best features of it." Plainfield has been considered high toned, and high principled. When this amendment was defeated before the action of the members was commended.

"In the first place I say that it is not fair to force the opponents to the amendment into a dilemma, and in the second place the Sunday opening and playing would be a violation of the law, while in the third place the best law demands that the people sink their self-interests in support of good government."

Mr. Marsh's remarks were roundly applauded by a goodly number of those present, but it was plainly evident that a majority did not agree with him.

The appearance of Charles A. Reed was the occasion for an outburst of applause and much enthusiasm. He said that he could not agree with Mr. Marsh when he said that it would be unfair to amend the constitution of the club, on the grounds that originally Sunday opening Sunday opening or playing was prohibited.

"I understand," said Mr. Reed, "that this prohibitive measure was not incorporated in the constitution until a year or two after the club was formed, but granted that it was there originally, I maintain that two-thirds of the members have a right to change the constitution. Why be unfair to the two-thirds and fair to one-third? I suppose that if the Ten Commandments had been incorporated in the constitution and we wanted to change them now we would be guilty of arson, murder or something else.

"It is not the legal effect. That argument is unsound. Nearly every golf course in the State is open on Sunday and members of the court and their children often play the game on Sunday. We are told in one place in the Bible that Judas went out and hanged himself, and in another place we read, 'Go thou and do likewise,' but no one would think of doing so. As to the question of civic pride, I have failed to see where the town has been built up because Sunday golf was not played. This is a question for the club members themselves and not one of an indictment because they want the privilege of playing golf on Sunday."

Directly after Mr. Reed concluded his remarks, which were greeted with great applause, the question was called, and President Collins announced that as the roll of members was called "yes" would mean a vote in favor of the amendment and "no" a vote against it. As the names of the members were called by Secretary J. E. Murray, Julius E. Erickson and W. D. Murray, who were appointed tellers, counted the vote. During the roll call there was occasional merriment. When D. H. Rowland's name was called he first said "yes," but quickly changed it to "no" the incident being accompanied by general laughter. When Mrs. George A. Strong's name was called she made no response, but afterward she made her presence known and expressed a desire to vote "no." Henry L. Hall arose and objected to the vote being counted, declaring that rightfully it should not be counted. This opposition was greeted with a storm of protest.

There was a report in circulation that the members of the Watchung Hunt Club would attend the meeting and support the amendment to a man, but there was a noticeable absence of any such influence.

President, S. C. Preston, of Jersey City; vice-president, C. R. Vincent, of Scotch Plains; secretary-treasurer, Rev. Fraik Fletcher, of this city. The report of the treasurer showed the association to be in good condition, and the membership steadily growing. It was decided by a vote to continue the committee having under consideration the consolidation of this association with the East New Jersey Baptist association and a report will be presented at the next meeting. Addjournment was then taken for supper.

The principal feature of the evening session was the address by Rev. E. E. Woods, of Somerville, who spoke on "The Closet and the Battlefield." The chief thought in his admirable talk was the fact that every Christian is commissioned to go forth and preach and teach the Gospel of Christ in both the home and foreign mission fields, and that strength for service can be obtained through prayer in the "secret closet." Dr. Woods remarks were exceedingly helpful and inspiring and was an urgent call to duty on the part of every Christian worker, including the Sunday-school teacher.

At the evening session it was decided to accept the invitation to meet next year with the Lyons Farms Baptist church.

FORT LAUDED BY SYNOD

Presbyterians Plan for a State-Wide Crusade for Local Option.

SOME ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

Committees Are Appointed—Big Increase in Foreign Mission Fund—Much Work Done.

New Jersey has never before so well observed the Sabbath day as since the induction of Governor Fort and his crusade against Sunday saloons and other forms of Sabbath breaking, according to the report formulated yesterday by the Sabbath observance committee of the Presbyterian synod of New Jersey for presentation to the body today.

The report declares that the work of the Governor has virtually ended Sunday rum selling throughout the State, and his moral support may be asked for a movement now being considered toward placing the ban upon automobiling and golf on the Lord's Day. Success of the crusade against Sunday golfing at Collingswood was quoted as an example of the means to be taken for law observance.

Partisans of the local option movement are planning to secure the support of the eight Presbyteries of the State for the intended state-wide crusade for home government in counties, and the matter will probably cause a lively debate when the special report is presented.

Communications were received yesterday, from the Anti-Saloon League asking for support of the churchmen and women in the attempt to wipe out the saloon altogether, and this phase of the liquor question will also come up later in the session.

May Object to Politics.

Members of the synod are expected to object to the semi-political methods being used by both the local option and anti-saloon leaders.

Permission was given at the morning session, which followed a devotional the synod, for withdrawal of Newark churches from the home mission work of the State for the purpose of allowing the big churches of that city to use the money raised in their district for home purposes. The Rev. Dr. Inglis and other speakers from Newark drew attention to the fact that Newark Presbyterian churches are more wealthy than they are assessed for the great work of teaching their foreign populace, and contend that other cities that are not so deeply interested secure a large share of those contributions which should be used directly within the Newark district.

Dr. Inglis declared that Jersey City, Camden, Passaic and Paterson are receiving much more money than is raised in their own churches, and advocated some plan by which cities where goodly collections are secured be allowed to the benefit of the liberality shown by their church folk toward missionary work.

Members of the synod refused to support a measure asking for an appeal to the State Board of Education for a part of a day of each week to be devoted to religious instruction for the children. The measure contemplated releasing of the pupils on one afternoon of each week to allow them to attend special services in their own churches, but members opposed, urging that there is likelihood that the holiday would not be put to the use intended by many of the pupils.

Mission Funds Mounting.

Funds raised for foreign mission work have increased nearly $20,000 per year during the past five years, according to financial reports, but home mission funds show very little increase, owing to lack of interest in local church work.

The presbytery districts may be changed before next year by a special committee that has been ordered to take up the matter following adjournment of the presbytery. The meeting will close today.

President Roosevelt is an active supporter of the spreading of the gospel by means of distribution of Bibles, according to a statement by the Rev. John Fox, of New York, who preached to the President at Oyster Bay during the summer. Dr. Fox, secretary of the National Bible Society, reported that England has circulated 200,000,000 Bibles during the past 100 years, and that America has sent out 125,000,000 Bibles in the same time.

Fights Open Sunday.

Asserting his knowledge that 200,000 German-Americans have formed an alliance in his State to make an attempt at killing laws for Sunday ban on liquor, the Rev. T. T. Mutchler, secretary of the Pennsylvania Sabbath Observance Association, pleaded with the members of the Presbyterian synod last night for assistance in fighting any attempt for an open Sunday. He added that the alliance is being promoted throughout the country, and that already 1,500,000 advocates of open Sunday have been enrolled.

He declared that the open defiance of the Sunday laws along the New Jersey coast cities is spreading disaffection throughout the country through visitors who carry home the ideas that they should be able to secure Sunday booze, and spoke of Atlantic City and other resorts as the real battle ground for Sunday reform.

The synod went on record as willing to assist Governor Fort in continuance of his efforts to force closed Sundays, and condemned any attempt to get through laws which might allow even the continental partly open Sunday. "Christian people cannot part in any movement that will countenance Sabbath breaking in any form," said the resolution in part.

The moderator announced the following committees yesterday:

Bills and Overtures—Dr. William Holloway, Dr. Robert S. Inglis, Dr. Eben B. Cobb, Rev. Walter B. Greenway, Elders John Reed, William L. Strong, Henry B. Moore.

Judicial Business—Rev. Percy B. Shelly, Rev. Samuel H. Thompson, Dr. James W. Rogan, Dr. James McLeod, Elders Stephen H. Berry, Jere B. Cobb, R. Bruce Vail.

Minutes of General Assembly—Rev. William S. Stuchell, Rev. Chas. H. Whitaker, Elder Edward L. Cook.

Synodical Home Missions Account—Rev. Nelson B. Chester, Elder Leander W. Lovell.

New Jersey Synod Leads.

The Synod of New Jersey, through its churches, gave last year more per capita for the work of foreign missions than any other State, the amount now November being 79.5 cents, New York was second, with 77 cents and Pennsylvania, third, with 51.6 cents.

New Jersey for all causes of benevolence ranks third in gifts, the Presbytery of New York standing first, with $2.21 per member.

In connection with synodical home missions, the treasurer of that committee, W. P. Stevenson, of Roselle, made a financial report. The total receipts for the year amounted to $25,928.22. Of this the distribution to presbyteries was: Presbytery of Elizabeth, $2,200; Presbytery of Jersey City, $3,032; Presbytery of Jersey City, Italian work, $1,343.63; Presbytery of Monmouth, $3,165.33; Presbytery of Morris and Orange, $1,655; Presbytery of Newark, $3,065.22; Prebytery of New Brunswick, $1,881.88; Presbytery of Newton, $1,248.72; Presbytery of West Jersey, $4,390.37; for administration expenses, $600.13. Total, $22,337.39. The gifts of Newark churches to synodical missions were as follows: Bloomfield, First, $300; Bloomfield, Westminster, $125; Caldwell, First, $50; Montclair, First, $100; Montclair, Grace, $8; Montclair, Trinity, $10; Montclair, Upper, $25; Montclair, Italian, $5; Newark, First church, $400; Newark, Second, $230; Newark, Third, $300; Newark, Sixth, $35; Newark, Elizabeth Avenue, $25.

DUNELLEN REPUBLICANS HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY

The Dunellen Republican Club held a rousing rally in the headquarters in the Ratti building, last night, during which the G. O. P. doctrines were enthusiastically applauded. The meeting room was filled to its capacity.

Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, the well known Somerset county lawyer, was the principal speaker and gave an interesting talk on the national issues. He compared the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties and pointed out for the benefit of his auditors in a concise way just why it would be to their advantage to have "Bill" Taft succeed Roosevelt. His remarks were frequently interrupted by applause and he occupied the platform the greater part of the evening.

At a business meeting following the speaking, the club made arrangements to swing a Taft and Sherman banner within the next few days. It will be put up near the corner of North and Washington avenues and the occasion will give the party followers a chance to display some old-fashioned enthusiasm.

Last night's meeting was in charge of Wilson S. Frederick, president of the Dunellen club.

A Heavy Production.

Owing to the heaviness of the production of "The Right to Live," booked for the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, there will be no matinee performance. The play is one of the strongest dramas of the present season and is spoken of in the highest terms. The author is Jules Eckert Goodman, a graduate of Harvard and a dramatist of recognized ability. Miss Grayce Scott will interpret the leading role and she will be supported by a specially selected company.

Dr. Louis T. Reed, of this city, is spending the month at the home of his mother, Mrs. Annie E. Reed, in Somerville.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XL — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMER 5, 1908. — NO. 45

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

TAFT'S VICTORY IS MOST DECISIVE

REPUBLICANS SWEEP THE COUNTY BY 7,000

The Republicans made a clean sweep in Union county electing every candidate on the ticket. While the returns are not in a completed state as yet a careful estimate shows that Taft's majority over Bryan is 7,000; Ackerman's over Hyer about 6,000; Fowler over Barbour 6,000 and Kirkland's over Martine in the neighborhood of 2,200. In every district there was more cutting than at any time in many years previous and it was midnight before the returns began coming in, even from the boroughs and townships where the figures are usually in hand before 10 o'clock.

Of the Assembly candidates Pierce, Kirstein and Schwartz won easily over Brower, Kiernan and Reicke, the Democratic candidates, but Kirstein fell way below the ticket. In most cases Brower posters were used over his name.

Martine made the usual good showing among the Democrats and he was given a friendly vote in all parts of the county. Sheriff-elect Robert Kirkland was at Republican headquarters in Elizabeth nearly all evening and the first returns that came in showed that the "farmer orator" was giving him a run for his money.

The majority polled for Taft was a big surprise to all the county leaders as it had been expected all along that his figures would fall far below those of Roosevelt's in 1904. Instead, however, there was a decided gain everywhere.

Senator Ken, Congressman Fowler, State Senator Ackerman, former Governor Foster Voorhees and County Chirman Frank H. Smith were all at Republican headquarters until daylight this morning and they expressed great satisfaction at the showing Union county made.

"It is far better than I expected," was the way Senator Kean put it, "and I am certainly highly pleased with the figures. It makes very plain the fact that 'the people do rule' and that they can be relied upon to be on the right side."

The bitter mayoralty fight in Elizabeth held back the returns so that it was impossible to get correct figures and the full count will not be turned in until late today. Both Republicans and Democrats claimed victory until midnight but after that it was admitted Dr. Mraving, the Republican candidate, had defeated his Democratic opponent, Colonel Dennis P. Collins, by at least 500 majority. It was the most hotly contested campaign that has been waged in the city in many years. The total vote in the city was approximately 14,000, of which 7,500 were for Taft.

No returns had been received from Rahway or Roselle Park borough at 5:30 this morning and it was impossible to tell how the candidates fared in these districts. The averages were used in the county estimates.

GREAT G.O.P. VICTORY IN CITY OF PLAINFIELD

The remarkable feature of the election in Plainfield was the unexpected large vote cast by the Republicans, it exceeding that given in the last Presidential election for the head of the ticket. The vote given to Taft was overwhelming, and flattering to the Republican candidate. He polled a total of 2,859 votes, against 830 for Bryan, giving him the handsome majority of 2,029.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was the next high man on the Republican ticket, polling a total of 2,816 against 850 for Mr. Hyer, his opponent. This gives Mr. Ackerman a majority of 1,996.

The support given Congressman Fowler here was a surprise, his vote in Plainfield being 2,792 against 893 for Barbour, giving him a majority of 1,899.

All of the Republican candidates for the Assembly polled practically the full strength of the party. The majorities for Pierce, Kirstein and Schwartz, being 1,826, 1,821 and 1,969 respectively, showing that the

TAFT CARRIES STATE BY 55,946 MAJORITY

Surpassing even the most optimistic forecasts of State Chairman Franklin Murphy, Governor J. Franklin Fort and other Republican leaders New Jersey voters piled up a plurality of 55,946 for Taft and Sherman yesterday. Four years ago Roosevelt and Fairbanks made a record receiving a plurality of 80,598.

Hudson county, the Democratic stronghold, where "Bob" Davis reigns supreme, showed an awful slump. It was nearly as great as a year ago when Katzenbach, Democratic candidate for governor received but some 6,000 majority over Fort. Four years ago Parker carried the county by 1,238. Hunterdon, another Democratic district, which gave Parker 505, polled 650 majority for Bryan. Sussex also made a slight gain, the majority there being about 600. In Warren, where Parker received 433, Bryan's majority was 1,000.

The Republican plurality in Atlantic county was cut in half, but it was almost doubled in Bergen, and again it was cut in half in Cumberland. There was a big decrease in the G. O. P. vote in Gloucester, Middlesex, Passaic, Somerset and Burlington, as shown in the table published in another column. Essex county which rolled up 25,056 for Roosevelt, returned only 12,896 for Taft so far as majorities go. Mercer shows a decided cut for the G. O. P. Presidential nominee as does Ocean, Morris, Mcmouth and Salem.

CHARLES N. FOWLER WINS GREAT VICTORY

The latest returns indicate that Charles N. Fowler, Republican nominee for re-election in the Fifth Congressional district, made a clean sweep, surpassing his previous records easily. Morris county gave him approximately 4,000 majority and Union added about 5,800, while Warren went for Barber by approximately 1,000. At this hour his total majority in the district is placed at 8,200. In Plainfield, Fowler received 1,800 majority.

Two years ago, Fowler's majority in the district was but 552. With Martine as his opponent at that time, he received 10,561 votes as against 10,371 given Martine in Union. Morris gave him 6,253, 4,790 going to Martine. Martine carried Warren, his vote there being 4,047, while that of Fowler was 3,246. Fowler's total vote in the district in that year aggregated 19,760 and Martine's 19,208.

It's a Republican landslide again, the G. O. P. having swept through the Nation with a popular plurality of 1,000,000, carrying all the doubtful states, with two exceptions, before it. Four years ago a popular plurality of 2,541,291 was recorded when Roosevelt was the candidate.

William Howard Taft is the hero of a Republican landslide following that which made Theodore Roosevelt famous four years ago. His majority in the Electrical college will be 129 as against 196 for Roosevelt in 1904. In 1900 William McKinley's majority in the electoral college was 137.

I. W. WOOD RE-ELECTED IN FOURTH DISTRICT

In the Fourth Congressional district, Ira W. Wood, Republican, has won a great victory. Somerset and Mercer rolled up big majorities for him, while Hunterdon gave his Democratic opponent, William V. Stout, a very slim majority. Somerset's share in the victory amounts to 600.

In 1906, Wood polled 3,632 votes in Somerset; 2,963 in Hunterdon, and 10,902 in Mercer, making a total of 17,497. Southwick, Democrat, received 2,415 in Somerset; 3,840 in Hunterdon, and 7,734 in Mercer, totalling 13,989. Wood's plurality was 3,508.

Roosevelt to Hughes.

Governor Charles E. Hughes, Albany.
Accept my heartiest congratulation for you and for the State.
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hughes Congratulates Taft.

Hon. William H. Taft, Cincinnati, O.
My heartiest congratulations upon your splendid victory.
CHARLES E. HUGHES.

At the hour of going to press, Mr. Taft's total electoral vote was placed at 306 while that of Mr. Bryan was but 177. That of Mr. Roosevelt in 1904 was 336 when running against Mr. Parker who received a total of 140. In 1900, Mr. McKinley got a total of 292 as against 155 cast for Mr. Bryan.

New York, which had all along been claimed by the Democrats, proved a clean sweep for the Republicans, giving Mr. Taft 39 electoral votes. Among the other doubtful States, claimed by Democratic Chairman Mack, which shared in the G. O. P. landslide, were Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Montana. All the Pacific coast States remain solidly Republican. New Jersey went overwhelmingly Republican.

The Democrats carried Colorado by about 50,000. Oklahoma, which cast its first vote for a President, went for Bryan by 20,000. West Virginia gave Taft about 15,000, while Missouri gave Bryan 25,000; Montana contributed 1,000 to Bryan, Nebraska, 3,000 and Nevada $1,500. The solid south rolled up big majorities for him as well.

The Republicans got 180,000 in New York. New Jersey came to the front with nearly 80,000 more; Ohio with 100,000, Wisconsin, 100,000, Illinois, 170,000, Indiana, 18,000, Iowa, 50,000 and even Maryland with 3,500.

POSSIBILITY OF THE FUTURE.

When Navigation of the Air Shall Have Become Common.

The man from Mars checked his aerolite. He saw below him what resembled a huge rat trap. An immense steel frame composed of light rods entirely covered the buildings beneath it. The steel frame was of sufficient height to just clear the loftiest skyscrapers.

As the man from Mars stared at this contrivance a section of it opened inward and he and his trained aerolite dropped through. As he alighted in the city hall square a man in uniform hurried up to him.

"Sorry to have kept you waiting outside," he said in choice Volapuk, "but at first I couldn't quite make you out. I'm the guardian of the sky trap."

"Glad to know you," said the man from Mars. "And now tell me what in the name of all that's wonderful this wire cheese box means."

"Why, that's our balloon guard," laughed the officer. "You see the airships and balloons got to be such a nuisance that we had to put up this frame. Why, they used to drop all sorts of things on us. Sometimes they'd drop themselves. Two of our best citizens were killed over there in front of the cafe by a fat aeronaut. They'd have airship picnics, too, and throw the scraps all over us. There was no use legislating against 'em—before we could enforce the law they'd be three counties away. And they'd hang shawls and overcoats over their numbers so we couldn't take 'em. Finally, when things got too bad, and the mayor himself was felled by a cheese sandwich just as he was bowing to the governor's daughter, we put up this balloon guard."

The man from Mars took out his notebook.

"How very curious," he said.

A Novel Bottle.

In furnishing information concerning Calcutta's supply of the various "soft" drinks, Consul General William H. Michael refers as follows to an improved bottle in use:

This bottle is so blown as to contain in the neck a round glass stopper, which is forced upward by the gas in the bottle and holds the gas perfectly. An expert can remove half the contents of one of these bottles, and by a slight force the ball up into the neck, and thus preserve the remaining half for future use. It is an ingenious device, and every way superior to the old-style corks. In opening a bottle a wooden, cup-shaped device, which fits in the hollow of the hand and contains a short nipple, is placed over and against the glass ball stopper and pressed downward. This causes the ball to drop down into the neck of the bottle, prevents too rapid escape of gas and foam, and, if only part of the contents is required, the ball may be forced back into the position as stopper.

Imaginary Necessities.

"Were it not for the thousands of people who are slaves to imaginary necessities we might have avoided the panic of last October," says a writer in Appleton's. "It was these people indirectly who brought it on. It was these people who suffered most when it came. The laws of nature are iron in their retribution. The man who is earning $30 a week and spending $15 does not fear panics. Neither does the man who is earning $50,000 a year and spending $25,000. Sailors who do not know how to reef their sails would be at the mercy of squalls. People who do not know how to cut down their expenses are at the mercy of panics. A certain rich New Yorker, who retired from the stock exchange recently, started business 40 years ago with three friends. When times were prosperous he could not afford to live as well as they did. When times were hard they had to borrow money of him in order to live at all."

Woman Tougher Than Man.

Although men, as they run, are perhaps muscularly stronger than women, their ability to withstand the elements and their reliance upon clothes places them considerably below the so-called weaker sex in the matter of unclothed toughness. Women wear clothes for comfort; men use them as a protective covering. A group of men marooned, clotheless on an island in the temperate zone might be expected to die off in a month from draughts and colds and rheumatism. The health of women similarly placed would suffer little from the enforced exposure. The fact appears to be, therefore, that in everything but muscle—in vitality, ruggedness, character, disposition, brain power, etc., woman is the tougher, not the weaker, sex.

Disappointed.

The old countryman with the faded satchel stood in front of the side-show tent with a look of disgust on his face.

"What's the trouble, sir?" asked the oily-tongued individual who was telling the crowd about the wonderful wild man inside. "You look disappointed."

"I am," grunted the old man. "I heard that there was a crowd of barkers down at the side show and I ain't heard one of 'em bark."

Putting It Up to the Correct.

The next letter the information editor opened contained this question:

"What is the correct pronunciation of 'irrefragable'?"

"Consult your unabridged," he wrote, and savagely impaled both the query and answer on the copy hook.

For somebody had carried away the office dictionary.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 2, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Commending our society.—V. By missionary and evangelistic zeal.—Matt. xxii, 1-10.

In one of his books a celebrated English writer has a chapter on converts, and, to the great surprise of those who are informed upon the subject, he argues that the Christian church is making little headway today, that converts are few and that conversions are almost a thing of the past. Strange that a man, usually so well informed, should have so little knowledge of the church's work in this respect. The source of his information must have been limited, or what he says may be true of England, but it is surely not true concerning the church at large. The fact is that the church has probably never striven harder for *converts and was never more success*ful in the same period of time than between the great Wales revival and those in America under the great interdenominational campaigns under Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman and Mr. Alexander, the great chorus leader. Missionary interest has greatly increased in recent years, the greatest step forward being the interest of men in the conversion of the world. Great business men are giving time, money and thought to conversions as scarcely ever before. They are shrewd men and would not take hold of a work that has been proved a failure. Pastors are seeking souls as never before, and with very few exceptions a purer evangelical gospel was never preached more earnestly than today.

The Christian Endeavor movement has also for over a quarter of a century been a tremendous force in making converts both at home and abroad. It has given through its regular denominational channels hundreds of thousands of dollars to missions, and money for missions was never better spent than in the last ten years, according to results. There have been great revivals in Japan. Korea is practically a Christian nation. China is awakened, especially along educational lines, and the mission schools are doing a great work among the boys and girls and the youth of China. In India there has been a great movement among the "outcasts" toward Christianity, and conversions are being made in great numbers.

Such conditions make increased evangelistic and missionary zeal imperative. We must "strike while the iron is hot." Men, especially in our own country, are giving religion more serious thought than ever before. Start a religious conversation among a body of men almost anywhere today, and you will find them eager to discuss the subject and many of them with definite evangelical views. Others are skeptical, and others are ready to be led into the light. But all are thinking. That is the encouraging feature. Indifference is a far worse sign, for those who think of God will not be satisfied until they find Him. "They that seek shall find." Let us be evangelists upon every occasion and by God's grace and power lead these seeking ones to Christ.

A Long Time Leader.

Twenty-two years ago, when the New York State Christian Endeavor union was formed, a Poughkeepsie pastor, Rev. Howard B. Grose, D. D., was chosen to the presidency. The following year the same gentleman was re-elected, his pastorate having changed to Yonkers in the meantime

REV. HOWARD B. GROSE, D. D.

Ever since that long ago day Dr. Grose has been a warm friend not only of Christian Endeavor in general, but of New York State Christian Endeavor in particular. As editor of the leading missionary publication of the Baptist denomination Dr. Grose has come to be known far and wide. He has held with unfailing faith in providence and trust in the world-wide Endeavor field

Bravery in Russia.

Two young men in Russia, leaders in Christian Endeavor work, have been threatened with death by the revolutionists if they do not cease their meetings. Yet, undaunted, they are continuing the work.

In Scotland Now.

The Glasgow Christian Endeavor union, Scotland, embraces now more than 170 societies with nearly 7,000 members. The union held its fifteenth rally recently.

NOT MUCH HELP.

Mr. Jackson, who had but recently moved into the suburb, knew his neighbors on either hand by sight only, and consequently, on a cold winter's night, when his home caught fire, he was surprised and pleased by the alacrity with which they came to render their assistance.

"I say," Jackson cried excitedly to his right-hand neighbor, "will you run down to the corner and ring the alarm?"

"I'm awfully sorry, sir," the man answered, "but I have a game leg and can't run."

"While I'm getting some of the things out, will you yell 'Fire?'" said Jackson, turning to the other man.

"Got laryngitis and can't yell," said the other, in a stage whisper.

Jackson gasped; but, pulling himself together, he exclaimed:

"Well, both of you go into the house and bring out easy-chairs, then sit down and enjoy the fire!"

BIG SIGN ADVERTISES 'RUSHMORE TAX BOOK'

Samuel W. Rushmore, proprietor of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, who recently started a campaign of education regarding tax assessment methods in Plainfield, has renewed interest in his efforts by changing the lettering on the big sign at his factory on South avenue. Commuters on their way to and from New York today read the following: "Plainfield Taxes Who Pays Them? Tax Book Ready November 10."

The work of changing the sign was started Friday afternoon and it caused considerable interest on the part of those residing in the East End of the city.

A few weeks ago following the erection of the big sign, Mr. Rushmore had it lettered in this way: "Tremendous Taxes for Easy Plainfielders. Easy Taxes for Those in the Ring. See Rushmore tax book for who's who and why." In connection with this lettering there also appeared a picture of a boodle alderman, wearing a silk hat, flashy clothes and diamond and smoking a cigar. The announcement caused great interest among taxpayers and city officials, although the latter said that if Mr. Rushmore had any complaint to make he had redress through the local, county and State boards of taxation, but so far as known he had not taken up his grievances with either one of these boards.

When questioned as to the new wording on his sign today, Mr. Rushmore said that there was nothing new in the situation, except that he desired to announce the fact that the tax books would be ready on November 10. Beyond that he had nothing more to say. The tax book compiled by Mr. Rushmore is expected to contain the assessment of every taxpayer in Plainfield and it is his purpose to distributing the same to show who are the favored few."

Mr. Rushmore, through a corps of clerks, obtained the complete list of assessments from the tax collector's office and this is to appear in his book. It is also expected that there will be general comments by the way of explaining the reason for Mr. Rushmore's attack on the assessors and taxing body of the city.

GONGS SCARED PONY; GIRL DRIVER THROWN

Taking fright at the clanging of the bells on the fire apparatus, which was responding to an alarm for fire in Trinity Reformed church, a little brown pony, driven by Miss Claire Kenworthy, twelve-year-old daughter of A. W. Kenworthy, of Willow avenue, became fractious at Park avenue and Second street Saturday morning, collided with another rig, upset the pony cart to which it was attached and threw its young driver at the corner. The pony dragged the overturned cart about fifty feet and was finally stopped by Patrolman John Kelley. Miss Kenworthy was uninjured by her tumble and there was no damage.

Miss Kenworthy, who was alone in the pony cart was driving toward Front street on Park avenue, when the alarm was sounded from box 12. As the chemical engine dashed across Park avenue, the pony took fright and turned sharply into West Second street, making the rig into a wagon standing near the corner. The wheels dished and the light basket cart was overturned. Bystanders rushed to the plucky driver's assistance as she fell, and the pony dashed across the street, dragging the cart. At the curb it was stopped by Patrolman Kelley.

The "fire" in Trinity church proved to be no fire at all. H. W. Van Arsdale, janitor of the church, started a fire in the auxiliary furnace unaware that the smoke pipe had not yet been connected with the chimney for the winter and the dense smoke filled the edifice. When the firemen arrived, Van Arsdale sought to keep them out of the church, declaring that there was no fire. The trouble was remedied without damage.

Evidence to be Sifted.

"Deudction is my strong point," declared a youthful law student. "For example, there is a heap of holes in our yard. That is evidence that we have recently had fires." "And, by the way, John," interposed his father, "you might go out and sift that evidence."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Beating His Rival.

"What are you crowing about? Grigsby's airship showed itself superior to yours in every respect."

"Yes; but as mine was tested on a fine day the photographs turned out perfect, and Grigsby made his ascent when it was too dark even for a time exposure."—Puck.

A New Experience.

"I wonder what Millyuns, who had so much money while his wife had so little, is contesting her bequests for?"

"I heard him say he didn't care a playuse for the money, but he wanted for once in his life to feel what it was like to dispute her will." Baltimore American.

CHARLES A. URNER BECOMES A BENEDICT

Charles Anderson Urner, the second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Urner, of Fanwood, and Miss Margaret Castner English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. English, of Walnut street, Elizabeth, were married Thursday at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, Rev. Samuel Sawyer, the pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. H. M. Hathaway, a former pastor.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Oscar R. Graham, of Elmira, N. Y., and her cousins, the Misses Maddock and Maude Maddock, of Trenton, and Miss Irwin and Miss Daisy Irwin, of Elizabeth. The flower girls, also cousins of the bride, were the Misses Isabelle and Dean English, of Newark.

The ushers were Dr. John P. English and Frank A. English, brothers of the bride; Edward K. Taylor and Carroll Badeau, all of Elizabeth, and Oscar R. Graham, Jr., of Elmira, N. Y. A large reception followed at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Urner will reside in Elizabeth.

MISSIONARY TEA HELD AT MRS. W. A. WOODRUFF'S

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, a missionary tea was held Thursday afternoon at the beautiful home of Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, on East Second street. Considering the weather there was a gratifying attendance and the affair proved to be a delightful one.

During the afternoon there was a vocal solo by Miss Etta Raybert, which was well received. Mrs. S. C. Baker poured cocoa and Mrs. W. VanDeventer poured tea. They were assited in serving the guests by Mrs. T. R. VanZandt, Mrs. J. Beckman, Mrs. L. B. VanCamp, and Mrs. F. P. Storr, all attired in Japanese costume. Mrs. Virginia Chickering, Mrs. F. S. Tompkin and Mrs. A. L. Force comprised the reception committee.

A feature of the afternoon was an interesting address by Rev. Harman V. S. Peeke, missionary at Saga, Japan. He is an easy, fluent speaker. The chief thought of his remarks was the urging of larger gifts for both foreign and home missions and the creating of more interest in this work. Mr. Peeke gave some in-

Entertained Primary Class.

The teachers of the primary classes of Grace M. E. Sunday-school, Miss Belle Lunger and Miss Alice Carroll, assisted by others, entertained the children and their mothers Friday afternoon from 4 to 5 in the parlors of the church. It was an enjoyable sight to see eighty-five happy little ones at their games. Miss Carroll was in charge of their entertainment. At 4 o'clock ice cream and cake was served. Friday evening's entertainment for the regular Sunday-school will hold a social with the parents and home department.

Sixty-five Paid Pupils.

The success of Mount Saint Mary's College, which was recently opened on the mountain in North Plainfield, seems already to be assured. There are now sixty-five paid pupils at the institution and the work is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of the Sisters of Mercy.

A Simple Remedy.

"Alas!" moaned the Boston visitor, "there is all confusion in this domicile. The house is really in an acephalous condition."

"Dear me!" exclaimed the startled housekeeper, "do you think we had better notify the health department and have it fumigated?"—Baltimore American.

Cleaning White Silk.

If one desires snowy whiteness, silk should never be allowed to become badly soiled—that is, so that the silk is yellowed. Dust the garment and wash in rather warm (not scalding hot) water with white soap. Rinse well, the last water being quite blue. Hang up and allow to get just dry enough to press nicely with a warm iron. If this is followed out, white silk will stay white. Care must be taken with the blue water not to have it too blue, and enough ammonia to help cut the tint the "new" shade. Should the silk merely need sponging, no iron should touch the surface. If rolled while damp on a broomstick, it will dry in a day or so. When there are grease spots, apply the time-honored remedy, powdered magnesia, to the wrong side under a cold pressure; then, after some hours, rub off; and, if not wholly cleansed, apply again.

Right on the Job.

We are late again this week after having made every effort to get our news sheet out on time. Our gasoline engine took a moody spell and "nagged" all day on press day. Don't cuss about it, for we have attended to that part of the busines for you all.—Spring Hill (Kan.) Era.

Rather Effeminate.

The Saucepan—I wonder what makes the kettle so happy? It hasn't stopped singing all day.

The Coffeepot—Why, didn't you notice its new lid?—Puck.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE PLANNED FOR PLAINFIELD

The North Jersey Missionary Institute, which has planned to hold six one day sessions throughout this part of the State, is organized for the purpose of encouraging people in the study of missions, especially in the Young People's Associations and Sunday-schools. Last year a similar conference was held for one week in Newark, but this year it was thought best to have at least six one day sessions at various points in the Northern part of the State.

One of these sessions will be held in Vincent chapel on Friday, November 13. A committee has been formed in Plainfield, representing seventeen churches. Miss Edna Brown is the secretary, and L. R. Hopton is the chairman of the finance committee. The first meeting of the committee was held at the Y. M. C. A. a few nights ago, when Stanley F. Ayris, of Elizabeth, made an address and there was a discussion of plans for the coming conference at Vincent chapel, which will be of great interest to the churches of Plainfield.

Miss Harriette R. Halloway is the originator of this work in Plainfield, and has conducted a class in the "Why and How of Foreign Missions," under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, each Friday night, beginning November 6, and continuing until Christmas. Other mission study classes will also be conducted in the city, outside of "Immigration," and "China," at the same church. The young people of the Crescent Avenue church are the most active in this kind of work of any church in the city. Last year there were five mission study classes. W. Lardner Glenney is the president of the association and he, too, is much interested in this work. That association will be largely represented at the forthcoming institute.

There will be an afternoon and evening session of the institute in this city, beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with an opening address by Rev. L. H. Hough. Between 3 and 4 o'clock there will be conference, on "The Missionary Committee in a Young People's Society; it's Organization and Work," conducted by Rev. Brewer Eddy. D. Soper will *conduct a conference on "The Sun*day-school and Missions," between 4 and 5:15 and between 5:15 and 6:30 Miss Harriette R. Halloway will tell of mission study classes, her topic being "The Why and How of Foreign Missions."

The afternoon program will be concluded with the following lectures: "The Moslem World," Harry S. Meyers; "The Frontier," E. O. Soper; "Uganda's White Man of Work," Stanley F. Davis. Dinner will be served from 6:30 to 7:15 o'clock.

From 7:15 to 8 there will be a consideration of mission study classes the same as above, and George F. Sutherland will speak on "The Sunday-school and Missions," from 8:15 to 9 o'clock. A feature of the evening session will be the illsutrated lecture on "Missionary Tour of the World," given with moving pictures by Harry S. Meyers, to which the general public is invited and will be welcome.

STRAIGHT FROM PARIS.

The new dress models are fascinating, and as I sat in Drecoll's salons the other day, watching at least a dozen manikins parade up and down, the picture was more like a brilliant reproduction of some old world fete than the mere showing of new fashion models.

Tailor-made suits, short skirts, straight three-quarter coats, tight sleeves, with no fulness at the shoulder, and the favorite material for everyday wear is heavy serge. The skirts, short and not at all full, are high-waisted, and, as the tight-sleeved coat demands, the chemisette above them must be finely tucked and of soft material, which takes up little room. Neck and wrist ruffles are a sine qua non, and the fashion gives a light and dainty note to the plainest of gowns.

The new skirt is made in two parts, those pantaloons covered by the two divisions of the skirts itself. At the back the pantaloons are only attached to the lining, leaving the material to sweep away unconstrained; but in front the whole fabric is sewn to them, thus establishing an intimate connection between the movement of the body and the corresponding fall of the draperies. Save in name, the new skirt, is perhaps, not more daring than the sheath skirt which Paris has adopted with such rapture; and it certainly does not allow the clearer display of the figure as does the sheath. But it is unlikely to catch on here.

La Mode, ever in search of novelties, has certainly achieved a remarkable success in the combination of the Elizabethan ruche and the medici collar. he ruche in front is notched over the throat, while at the back it is in the form of the medici collar that was so beloved of our grandmothers.—Philadelphia Record.

END SEASON BY BANQUET

Captain and Mrs. "Brit" Martin Act as Hosts of the Clinton Avenue Nine.

BATTING AWARDS PRESENTED.

Captain "Brit," James Emery and

"Jack" Martin Receive Prizes.

For Stick Work—Dancing Concludes Evening.

Celebrating the conclusion of a highly successful season, members of the Clinton Avenue baseball team gathered at the home of Captain "Brit" Martin on W. Third St. Friday night. The knights of the wagon tongue turned out in force, reinforced in numbers by a delegation of their most ardent feminine rooters and the evening was passed with informal jollification. Mrs. Martin, wife of the captain and president of the club, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ernest Dorflinger, Mrs. Richard Scott, Mrs. Minnie Stoeckle, Mrs. Norman Barnes, Miss Clara Gulberg and Miss Agnes Hendry. The house was tastefully decorated with carnations and chrysanthemums, the predominating colors being pink and green. A banquet was served at 11 o'clock and covers were laid for thirty-five.

At the business meeting which preceded the social festivities, the year's officers of the club were re-elected. A feature of the affair was the presentation of the batting trophies. This brought Captain "Brit" into spot-light prominence and in a graceful speech" he responded to vice-president Norman Barnes who presented him with a silver water set, the club's award for the highest batting average through the season. "Brit's" average was .340. With a record of .304 with the stick, James Emery was awarded the second batting prize, a handsome silver loving cup, and a similar trophy was presented to "Jack" Martin, whose season's work showed an average of .302. These presentations were made by Captain Martin. The team's record for the season shows 16 victories, 5 defeats and 1 game.

Following the presentations came speeches by President Martin and Manager Dorflinger and after that there were piano selections by Mrs. Stoekle, Allan Snyder, Hanford Moffeet and Charles Gilman in addition to this dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

SLEEVES ARE BIG; SLEEVES ARE SMALL.

It is hard telling just where the fashions in sleeves will alight next. New bulletins are issued every hour and all differ. One thing seems to be determined—that they shall be long.

Of course this is the most novel feature of the whole dress or blouse and may be plain, smooth, wrinkled, slashed, filled in with net bands, puffs, bows, button trimmed or perfectly adorned. The evening coat with its medium-size sleeve and broad cuff is made in the three-quarter length, with wide lace ruffles falling beneath. Many decollete garments show a single wide band, possibly not more than six inches wide, for the sleeve arrangement, with no fullnes at the top, but what has the appearance of a continuation of the shoulder line.

Soft materials are tucked in with waist portions, but today they are much narrower than formerly and the latest models show comparatively few wide arm pieces. One sees gowns the sleeve frequently consists of a close-fitted piece of lace for a short upper sleeve, often threaded with puffed satin or ribbon to carry out the color scheme. The fancy sleeves for satin and silk waists are indescribable, for they present points more than anything else. Some of these may be finely tucked and of soft material, which takes up little room. Neck and wrist ruffles are a sine qua non, and the fashion gives a light and dainty note to the plainest of gowns.

The new skirt is made in two parts, those pantaloons covered by the two divisions of the skirts itself. At the back the pantaloons are only attached to the lining, leaving the material to sweep away unconstrained; but in front the whole fabric is sewn to them, thus establishing an intimate connection between the movement of the body and the corresponding fall of the draperies. Save in name, the new skirt, is perhaps, not more daring than the sheath skirt which Paris has adopted with such rapture; and it certainly does not allow the clearer display of the figure as does the sheath. But it is unlikely to catch on here.

La Mode, ever in search of novelties, has certainly achieved a remarkable success in the combination of the Elizabethan ruche and the medici collar. he ruche in front is notched over the throat, while at the back it is in the form of the medici collar that was so beloved of our grandmothers.—Philadelphia Record.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Cinder in the Eye—Roll soft paper up into a thin lamplighter, wet the tip, and if you see the speck that causes the annoyance, the paper will lift it out, and is not so disagreeable to the sufferer as when the end of a handkerchief is used for the purpose. Often a speck can be drawn out with a medicine dropper. In factories where steel fillings fly into the eye, the pieces are drawn out with a powerful magnet.

Fire from Kerosene—Do not throw water on it. It will spread the flame. Dirt, sand or flour make good extinguishers.

Not That Way.

"Ah, I see you are married," exclaimed the merchant.

"No, sir," replied the applicant for a position. "I got this scar in a railroad accident."—The Bohemian.

She Didn't Know.

It was night.

They—he and she—were sitting on the porch looking at the stars.

"You know I suppose," he whispered, "what a young man's privilege is when he sees a shooting star?"

"No," she answered, "I haven't the slightest idea. There goes one!"—Chicago Tribune.

GARRETT KIELY A BENEDICT.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Garrett P. Kiely, of Steiner place, the borough, and Miss Catherine Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, Conn. The ceremony was performed Tuesday morning in St. Francis church, Danielson, Conn., the rector officiating. Miss Margaret Fitzgerald sister of the bride, and John J. Cahy, of this city, were the attendants. Only relatives were present. Following a trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Kiely will make their home in Jersey City.

The groom has been a local resident all his life and is widely acquainted in the city and borough. He is secretary for Mead, Johnson & Co., drug manufacturers, of Jersey City.

Church Aids Needy Minister.

One of the best boxes of clothing, housekeeping articles and things generally needed in the home of a needy western minister's family, was packed Tuesday by a committee of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, of Trinity Reformed church, and sent to Rev. Henry Straks, at Corsica, South Dakota, in the name of Trinity Reformed church. A fine new suit of clothes for the minister, besides clothing for the daughters, was among the useful things in the box, which was valued at $139.59. At the same time a barrel was packed and sent to the Schofield School at Aiken, South Carolina, valued at $10.55.

WINGS AND FEATHERS.

The "bird on Nellie's hat" has grown from a modest little talkative affair to the proportions of an eagle —and a screaming eagle, too.

Wings are larger than they have ever been, and seem to be increasing rather than decreasing in dimensions.

Sometimes they enfold almost the whole of the hat, the milliner having acquired the art of draping and pleating them after the fashion of a length of cloth or silk. In some cases as many as six distinct wings will be used on one model, three on each side, and placed after the fashion of Mercury wings, one slightly overlapping its neighbor, but as each creator of modes has her own ideas with regard to their adjustment, it is more than difficult to arbitrate on the subject, and some startling and entirely original schemes in this connection will make their appearance during the autumn.

In the majority of instances wonderful color effects will be seen, the breast feathers being dyed and shaded so as to produce a soft appearances.

SPEEDY TYPIST GIVES REMARKABLE EXHIBITION

At the Drake Business College, last Friday, Emil A. Tretzger, of New York, the speedy typist and short hand writer, demonstrated his skill in some remarkable tests, and it was announced that some world's records were broken. About 250 pupils and friends of the school were present to witness the performance.

Mr. Tretzger wrote from copy 197 words in 84 seconds and in another similar test, 141 words in 60 seconds. He wrote a letter from memory at the rate of 207 words in one minute. His speed from dictation was 125 words in 55 seconds and while blindfolded, from dictation, 118 words in 54 seconds.

In the world's championship contest held at Madison Square Garden, New York, Mr. Tretzger was last one week behind the winner, his speed being 86 words per minute against 87 for his opponent.

In the short hand tests he wrote on a blackboard from dictation, 109 words in 30 seconds and again 111 words in 30 seconds. By being blindfolded he took dictation at the rate of 109 words in 29 seconds. Some of the pupils were able to translate the work on the board and he himself read it off readily.

In all of the tests the stop watch was held by a disinterested party and the manuscripts were passed around for inspection.

An intersting talk was made by Mr. Morgan K. Deale, of the Remington Typewriter Co., of New York, on the value of a business education and what to do after securing a position. He advised the applicant for a position to use the same confidence in his test for employment as he displays at school and after securing the position to stick to it in the face of discouragements. "Cultivate the acquaintance of those in the office who are workers and climbers and not the laggards," he said, "and cater to those who can help you."

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS HOLD FIRST FALL MEETING

The first fall meeting of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union was held Friday in the First Presbyterian church, Cranford. There was a large attendance. H. C. Woodruff, of Westfield, first vice-president of the Union, presided over the meeting in the absence of the *president. W. E. Kendall, of Eliza*beth. Owing to conflict in dates Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield was unable to speak and his place was filled by Percy Nuessle, of Newark, former president of the Essex County C. E. Union, and superintendent of the introduction department of the State C. E. Union. He spoke of the first two days of the convention at Atlantic City and urged the Endeavorers of Union county to work harder and to be more faithful in their C. E. service during the coming year.

Brief echoes of the State convention at Atlantic City were given by W. M. Lumm, of Union Village, and Charles F. Windham and Clarence B. LaRue, of Plainfield. Mrs. Robert Lowery, of this city superintendent of the Union county Junior Endevor Union, made an earnest appeal for the extension of Junior work throughout the county at the request of the district secretary, Miss Nellie K. Toole and the State secretary, Miss Ida M. Stephens. The Plainfield Endeavorers rendered in the song that was sung at Atlantic City, inviting *the State union to hold its conven*tion in Plainfield in 1909. The verses were sung as a solo by B. L. Lamm, of Elizabeth, and the others joined in the chorus.

TRINITY BIBLE CLASS GIVES AN ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class, of Trinity Reformed church, a successful entertainment was given in the lecture room of the church, Friday night by Prof. Malcolm Shackleford, assisted by Miss Harriet Randall and Miss Lucie Coriell, who rendered a piano duet. For over an hour Prof. Shackleford delighted with a large audience with some of his best recitations, songs and monologues, opening with "Tain't No Disgrace to Run When You Are Scared," followed by a vocal selection, "Nursery Rhymes."

Among the hits was a monologue, introducing a Irishman, a duck and the hall room boys, negro stories, songs, "A Man is a Hero," "That's Me," "Baffin's Bay," and "Yours." Before Mr. Shackleford appeared, Miss Randall and Miss Coriell gave as many as six distinct wings will be a piano duet. Following entertainment the members of the Bible Class and their friends enjoyed a social hour. The silver offering netted a satisfactory sum for the class.

Cross-Questioned.

Policeman (to tenant of flat)—And you say the rug was stolen from your hall. Can you give me any particulars about it?

Tenant (nervously)—Oh, yes. It was a fancy reversible rug—red on one side and green on the other.

Policeman (impressively)—And which was the green side?—Punch.

PARK CLUB RESUMES SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

The opening reception of the Park Club, marking the resumption of social activities at the club for the winter, was held Friday, and was largely attended by society people from the borough and city. The entertainment committee, of which Harry L. McGee is the chairman, planned an enjoyable affair, and the attractive clubhouse was elaborately decorated for the occasion with potted plants, ferns and flowers. The arrangement about the stage was particularly attractive.

The early part of the evening was devoted to general sociability, and a little later guests were entertained in a delightful manner by Miss Louise Saunders, who gave three original monologues, in a charming manner. She was greeted with genuine applause and her work was truly appreciated.

The rest of the evening was spent in dancing, music for which was furnished by vonDerHeid's Orchestra. This was continued until a late hour. The patronesses for the affair were the wives of the governors of the club, and they also acted as a reception committee, receiving the guests throughout the evening.

SCHOOL DAYS.

The Reader was up in the attic,
The Speller was under the bed,
The Grammar, with vagrance erratic,
Had hiked itself out to the shed;
The 'Rithmetic lay in the cellar,
The Jography hid like a tree * * *
Oh, we do enjoy to hunt things for that boy.
And get Johnny ready for school.

The lunch box, all covered with lichen,
We found in the orchard at last,
The book strap was down in the kitchen—
A dozen times we had searched past,
We dug out his shoes and new trousers,
We purchased his compass and rule * * *
Oh, heaven forbid how we worked for that kid,
To get Johnny ready for school!

We found all his trappings so bonny,
We attacked them in bundles around—
Yes—they were all there * * * all but Johnny——
And he was nowhere to be found.
The schoolbell was tolling: "Come—children——"
"Where's Johnny?" we moaned.
"Drag the pool!"
Oh, heavens, it's sad how we toiled for that lad
To get Johnny ready for school!

GIRL AT HOME MAY MAKE.

A new hat, or the old one freshened a bit.

The new high, full neck ruches.

A narrow band of velvet with tiny bow or with tasseled or jeweled ends for the base of the stock.

The new high directoire girdle, usually with sash ends.

Long, close-fitting sleeves, if they can be possibly added to the frocks in one's possession.

Fresh, new gloves and hosiery are worth more than their cost in giving a smart, well-groomed air to one's costume.

LARGE GATHERING AT FUNERAL OF MRS. McVOY.

The funeral of Mrs. Isaiah L. McVoy, who died Tuesday night, was held at her late residence on East Front street Friday afternoon. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea officiated, assisted by Rev. George Angleman, of Sussex, a nephew of the deceased.

The attendance was very large. Set pieces of flowers were presented by Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, the Sunday-school and the Missionary Society of the First M. E. church. During the service Mrs. Thomas MacDonald sang two selections. The members of the W. R. C. and G. A. R. each dropped a carnation in the casket as they took their last view of the body.

NEEDED REPAIRING.

"The coach awaits without, miss."

"Without what, James, tell me now?"

"Without both ears, without both eyes——"

Without all of his brow;
Without his hair, without his teeth,"
And, ere she could reproach,
The butler said, "'Tis but the truth
He is a football coach."
—Chicago News.

"Doc, what's the differences between a sanatorium and a sanitarium?"

"Will you keep it quiet if I tell you?"

"There isn't any."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CITY CLERK MACMURRAY PREDICTED FOWLER'S SWEEP

There was no happier man in town today than City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the chief lieutenant of Congressman Charles N. Fowler in Union county. Mr. MacMurray early in the day predicted that the Congressman would break all records in his run for re-election and his forecast proved only too true. Mr. Fowler's majority is about 8,200, the normal majority in the district heretofore having been about 5,000. "I am not in politics," said Mr. MacMurray, "but of course I am proud of the flattering tribute the district has paid to Mr. Fowler. It was great, wasn't it?"

Education Board's Meeting.

The Plainfield Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting at the High School building Monday night. Only the regular routine business was transacted.

Roosevelt's Exit on March 13.

From an excellent authority The New York Times learned yesterday that President Roosevelt plans to leave New York on March 13, nine days after the inauguration, by the North German Lloyd liner Koenig Albert for Naples, via Gibraltar, where the liner is due on March 25. His expressed desire is to get away as soon as possible so as not to embarrass Mr. Taft in his new office.

NEW ORPHEUM THEATRE OPENS WITH CAPACITY

William J. Counihan, "the theatre man," launched a new amusement enterprise last night, when the New Orpheum theatre, formerly Reform Hall, on East Second street, was opened as a variety theatre. As is customary with Counihan's enterprises, "the peo-pul" gave the new play-house a rousing welcome to "The City Beautiful."

The amusement lovers came early, and sifted into the hall in a veritable stream from the time the doors were opened. Result: At 8 o'clock the box office shut down for the first performance. At that time the house was filled to its utmost capacity and the foyer and piazza were filled by those seeking admission. These thronged the house at 9 o'clock, when the second performance began. Performances were given until 2 o'clock this morning and election returns were read from the stage.

The new play-house, while not yet completed was speck and span for the opening night. There is seating capacity for 675, the widening of the aisles having decreased the seating room.

The walls are tinted red and the woodwork is white enamel. William Townley, Jr., is to be permanently in the box office, although David Rogers was reeling off the tickets last night. David H. Bush is "official doorman," and William Dornan electrician in charge. "Jack" Harris is the regular pianist and Miss Emily Sylvan will "render" the illustrated songs.

ALUMNI WIN P. H. S. GAME IN LAST HALF

In a game marked by frequent punting on both sides, and especially loose playing on the part of the undergraduate team, which fumbled repeatedly, the Plainfield High School alumni eleven defeated the undergraduate team of the school on Hope Common yesterday morning by a score of 6-0. The touchdown came two minutes before time was called in the second half. The alumni had been forced to punt, but got down the field quickly and when the catch was fumbled by a schoolboy, Chauncey Murphey, captain of the 1908 eleven, seized the ball and ran the intervening eleven yards for the touchdown. Phillips kicked an easy goal.

The alumni team, organized on the field, had no chance for practice, and didn't get playing real football until the second period. But they broke through repeatedly on punts and at one time in the first half had the ball within striking distance of their opponents' goal by the poor work of the school eleven, when successive punts were fumbled. Just before the end of the half, Percy Phillips heeled a punt by the undergraduate eleven, but Murphey failed at the goal from placement, inside the 25-yard line.

Early in the second half, the schoolboys played fast football for a time, working the ball down the field to the one-yard line, where they were held for downs. The intercepted punt which resulted in the touchdown came soon after a frazzled forward pass by the schoolboys, who lost so much ground throwing the ball around the field that they were forced to boot. Those who took part:

P. H. S.—Doane, left end; Carpenter, left tackle; Morris, left guard; Fleming, centre; Woodison, right guard; Van Zandt, right tackle; K. Phillips, right end; Riffert, Clark, quarterback; Snyder, left halfback; Bingamin, fullback; Smalley, Bristol.

Health Board Meeting.

The meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health which was scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was postponed on account of election to this afternoon.

Fred Gray, of West Front street, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, was reported yesterday as being very much improved.

W. W. Smalley,
Somerset Assemblyman.

BRYAN WINS IN "STRAW VOTE" BY P. H. S. FRESHMEN

Bryan at least won his election at the Plainfield High School Monday night, when he polled three votes to Taft's one at a special "straw ballot" held in connection with the freshman class reception. But the voters cast their ballots blind-folded, and the ballots were paper lemons pinned on the candidates' pictures. The contest was a sort of seasonable donkey party, but Taft, strange to say, was the loser.

The reception, an annual affair held at the school for the purpose of getting the members of the entering class acquainted—among themselves and with the various members of the faculty—was held in the school auditorium and a representative number of the class were present. Passing the early part of the evening with various games, the pupils concluded the festivities with an informal dance.

These committees were in charge of the affair: Finance, Miss Dorothy Merrill and McLain Parker; refreshments, Miss Louise Williams and Sidney Carr; reception, the Misses Anna Johnson, Florence Manning, Elizabeth Hardwick and Florence Moshor and Eugene Lidgate, Gardner Bristol, William Little and James Lindzey.

FANWOOD BOROUGH.

Results in Fanwood borough reported as follows: Presidential—Taft 71, Bryan 23; Congress, Fowler 70, Barber 26; Senator, Ackerman 77, Hyer 21; Sheriff, Kirkland 65, Martine —; General Assembly, Kirstein 69, Brower 78, Pierce 23, Schwartz 73; Coroner, Degenering 72, Wagner 25. A majority of 61 votes was given to John Robison, Republican candidate for Freeholder in Fanwood borough.

SOMERSET RETURNS JOS. F. FRELINGHUYSEN

Somerset County remains in the Republican column, the G. O. P. forces after a fierce conflict with the Democratic campaigners having achieved a signal victory. State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is re-elected. His majority is estimated at about 500 over his Democratic opponent, Col. Nelson Y. Dungan.

The Presidential electors on the Republican ticket in Somerset got about 1,600 majority. Ira W. Wood, Republican, for Congress, was given 600 majority over William V. Stelle, Democrat.

Pluralities for President and State Senator in Somerset county:

Branchburg, First district—Taft, 6; Frelinghuysen, 63; Second district, Taft, 14; Frelinghuysen, 11.

Bridgewater, First district, Taft, 139; Frelinghuysen, 36; Second district, Taft, 89; Frelinghuysen, 50; Third district, Taft, 70; Frelinghuysen, 45; Fourth district, Taft, 103; Frelinghuysen, 119; Fifth district, Taft, 77; Frelinghuysen, 75; Sixth district, Taft, 16; Frelinghuysen, 22.

Montgomery, Taft, 90; Dungan, 34.

Millstone, Borough, Taft, 11; Frelinghuysen, 2.

Rocky Hill Borough, Taft, 13; Dungan, 25.

Warren, Bryan, 21; Frelinghuysen, 18.

FANWOOD TOWNSHIP.

Fanwood Township, usually Republican by 45 majority, rounded up 125 majority for the ticket, the rest of the ticket going through in proportion. Fowler's majority over Barber being 119; Ackerman for Senator over Hyer 149; Kirkland for Sheriff 165 over Martine; Assembly, Kirstein over Brower, 144; Pierce over Kiernan 127; Schwartz over Rieke 126; Coroner Degenering over Wagner 122.

These are the returns in Fanwood Township: Republican straight ticket 222, Democratic ticket 37; for Congress, Fowler, 119; for Senator, Ackerman, 139; for Sheriff, Kirkland, 165; for member of General Assembly, Kirstein 144, Pierce 127, Schwartz 126.

Plainfield Tax Collector.

NO ACTION ON ALLEGED REGISTRATION FRAUDS.

The effort of the Democratic county committee to secure summary action in the cases of four hundred persons alleged to have been illegally registered in Plainfield has proven futile. Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen at a special session of the Union County Court held at Elizabeth yesterday decided that the court had no power on election day to interfere with the registration lists in any municipality. If any election board refused to receive the vote of any person who claimed to be legally registered and whose vote was challenged, the voter, the court held, afterward had his redress in a court of law against the election board. If such board allowed names to be voted that could afterward be shown to have been illegally registered, the members of said board are liable to indictment by the grand jury and criminal prosecutor. The court, however, could take no action on election day, when many of the disputed votes had been cast. Judge Atwater concurred in Justice Bergen's opinion. This ended the proceedings. The courtroom was crowded with interested politicians.

It was stated by some of the Plainfield men that practically all of the names in dispute had been voted before the special session of the court convened at Elizabeth yesterday. The only argument made for the Democrats was by Samuel Schleimer. The other Democratic lawyers present were City Attorney Connolly, Alderman Nugent, Judge Mahon, Jeremiah Kiernan and Robert H. McAdams.

Mrs. S. D. Scott and Mrs. Charlotte Feuentus, of New York, were guests over Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Olmsted, of East Front street.

N.Y. CITY AND STATE ARE CARRIED BY TAFT

Taft has carried New York State by a plurality of 178,322 and New York city by 9,378.

In the boroughs of New York the vote was as follows: Manhattan and Bronx, for President, Taft, 140,192; Bryan, 150,027; Hisgen, 13,233; for governor, Hughes, 107,878; Chandler 154,675; Theim, 15,197. (Some districts missing).

Queens, for president, Taft, 16,743; Bryan, 18,199; Hisgen, 2,224; for governor, Hughes, 15,443; Chandler, 20,078; Shern, 2,402. (11 districts missing).

THE VOTE IN ELIZABETH.

The election progressed quietly in Elizabeth yesterday though a heavy vote was polled. In most of the districts more than one-third of the registered vote was cast at 10 o'clock.

Every available conveyance was pressed into service to bring the sick or disabled voters to the polls, the bitter fight over the Mayoralty having overshadowed even the Presidential contest and caused the leaders and ward hustlers of the Republicans and Democrats to work like beavers. It seemed to be the general impression that General Collins, Democratic candidate for Mayor, will win by a small majority. His forces are well organized and he has done a tremendous amount of night and day campaigning.

The Republican leaders claimed they carried Union county by at least 2,000 plurality for Taft, and Sherman, and 1,500 for the county ticket.

Several intoxicated men arrested Monday night were released yesterday morning, representatives of each party being on hand in police court ready to pay their fines.

Judge Atwater also sat in the Common Pleas Court yesterday ready to hear and settle election disputes.

Miss Amy L. Moore, of West Fourth street, has gone to New York to spend a week with friends.

W. Morris Hunter, who is taking an electrical engineering course at a college of technology, New York, spent the week-end at his home in this city.

Ira G. Wood.
Fourth District Congressman.

BOROUGHITES POLL HEAVY VOTE FOR G.O.P.

Plentiful "scratching" in the vote for Senator made the Frelinghuysen-Dungan contest the centre of balloting excitement in the borough, where an unusually large vote was polled in each of the three districts. Considerable supported to return a majority of more than 300 in the borough, Senator Frelinghuysen's name was so cut that his majority was but 146. Borough voters rolled up a total majority of 511 for Taft, exceeding the vote polled for Roosevelt in the last campaign by 88. There were only about 200 "stay-at-homes" across the brook, and the majority of the vote was polled before noon.

The Republican ticket triumphed in all districts, Congressman Wood returning 479; Assemblyman Smalley, 462 and County Clerk Anderson 500. Julius J. Stahl ran ahead of W. L. Smalley, Jr., on the councilmanic ticket, returning 922 to his running mate's 907.

Mr. Frelinghuysen's majority was 336 when he was a candidate before.

"THE PEOPLE'S VICTORY," SAYS FRELINGHUYSEN.

When State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen learned of his victory at the polls in Somerset, he exclaimed: "I had arraigned against me the automobile speed maniacs, the local optionists and the enemies of equal taxation. My victory is a victory of the people and is in the past I shall be their firm and true representative at Trenton."

Mr. Frelinghuysen's plurality over Col. Dungan is approximately 650.

HOPE CHAPEL'S CHOIR GIVES PLEASING CANTATA

Under the auspices of the choir of Hope chapel, and under the direction of Mrs. L. R. Howard, who acted as leader, organist and soloist, a cantata entitled "The Seasons," was given at the chapel, Friday night, before a large audience. The choir was assisted by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, violinist, and Joseph C. Martin, basso. The affair was an unqualified success and $50 was realized as profit for the organ fund, for which it was given.

The work of the chorus and the soloists deserves special mention. Those who took solo parts included Mrs. L. R. Howard, Mrs. M. W. Clark, Miss Eunice Eckert, Joseph C. Martin, John Slorah and Thomas Hendry Miss Bertha Jones was the pianist and Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston violinist, and the success attained was due in a measure to the musical interpretation of "The Seasons."

The cantata was so well rendered that many expressions of commendation were heard at its conclusion Those taking part adjourned to the dining room, where refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. At this time Mrs. Howard was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers by Mrs. M. W. Clark on behalf of the choir. Those who took part in the cantata were as follows:

Sopranos—Mrs. M. W. Clark, the Misses *Mary Mortimer, Elsie M. Ritz*mer, Edna Eckert; altos—the Misses Elizabeth Slorah and Eunice Eckert; tenors—John B. Slorah, Harold Brownell, Thomas Hendry; baritone —Charles Vincent, Fred Wharton, Edward Jones; bass—Joseph C. Martin.

James Penny was in charge of the box-office and the ushers were Allen Snyder, Clinton Firstbrook, Peter C Sweeny and Frank M. Rimmer.

Pretty Near It.

"Now," said the teacher, who had been giving an elementary talk upon architecture, "can any little boy tell me what a 'buttress' is?"

"I know," shouted Tommy Smart, "A nanny goat."—Herald and Presbyter.

JUROR REPRIMANDED IN THE DISTRICT COURT

For an infraction of the law governing the action of juries in that he left the jury room in search of further information after the evidence in the case was all in, Charles Woolston was summoned to appear before Judge William Conforn in the district court, Thursday, to show cause why he should not be punished. Mr. Woolston admitted the charge against him and Judge Newcorn severely reprimanded him. His re*marks were not only intended for* the one juror, but for all who were in the court. He clearly defined the law in such cases and gave everyone to understand that any future infractions would be severely dealt with.

The case in question was that of Christopher H. Meyers against the Public Service Corporation. After the evidence was all in and the jury retired to find a verdict, Mr. Woolston left the room to obtain further information. The law is very specific on this point and strictly prohibits a juryman from leaving the room or conversing with any outside persons relative to the case until af*ter the jury is discharged by the* court.

Two other members of the jury were guilty of similar offences, but there was some doubt as to who they were and after it was mentioned declared their innocence, the court accepted their statements.

OFFICIALS HOLD FURTHER TRUNK SEWER CONFERENCE

Official representatives from New Brunswick, Fanwood and Scotch Plains met with the special sanitary sewer commission from this city, in the Common Council rooms, Thursday, and expressed their willingness and desire to join with the other municipalities in this vicinity in the proposition to establish a trunk line sewerage system. The realize that now is the time to lend their influence and make arrangements to get in the proposed sewer, as there is little prospect of any other solution to the problem in their towns. The representative present last night gave assurance that the municipalities from which they came would be willing to stand their proportionate share of the expense for investigation.

The municipalities now interested in the proposition include Plainfield, North Plainfield, Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Dunellen, Bound Brook, South Bound Brook, and New Brunswick, while it is expected that Rari*tan and Somerville will also join in* the scheme.

Hering & Fuller, of New York, the engineers engaged to make the preliminary survey are progressing well with the work and it is expected that a report will be ready for the special sewer commission in the near future. Until that is ready the commission is not in a position to say whether cinder beds or sewage beds will be the best means of sewage disposal. It is expected that the report will give sufficient data which will help the commission to decide this matter.

JOHN J. WHALEN WEDS MISS CATHERINE FINN

The marriage of Miss Catherine Finn, of South Plainfield, and John J. Whalen, of West Fifth street, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Rev. Father William H. Miller officiating.

Miss Margaret Finn, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and Jas. Tobin, of this city, was best man. A large gathering of friends witnessed the ceremony and later went to the future home of the couple on West Third street, where a wedding reception was held. Among the out of town guests was a brother of the bride, Thomas Finn, of Boston.

The presents received by the couple were numerous and substantial The bridesmaid was presented with a gold watch by the bride and the best man received a gold stickpin, a gift of the groom.

Supper at the reception was served by Caterer Warnock. The music was furnished by Professor Naylor and his orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Whalen will spend their honeymoon visiting friends in New York and Boston.

Big Store's Distributing Station.

The Seigel-Cooper Company, of New York, will establish a distributing station for suburban delivery in this section of the State in Cranford and has leased the J. Z. Smith stable at 15 Union avenue, and will move there about November 15. The big store will send all its goods for Cranford, Westfield, Railway, Summit, Plainfield and the surrounding towns to Cranford during the night in large vans, which will be unloaded at the stable where the packages will be assigned to the several smaller wagons which will deliver the goods to customers. From three to five wagons will be located at Cranford with more than a dozen horses.

DEATH OF SAMUEL BURR

STRICKEN AT HOME SUNDAY.

Author of Several Books on Mechanical Topics—Deceased Among Early Graduates of City High School.

Stricken with appendicitis Sunday, death came to Samuel DeCore Burr at his home on Central avenue and West Third street at 9:30 Wednesday night. Although the promptest medical assistance was rendered, Mr. Burr was too weak to undergo an operation.

Born in New York city January 23, 1856, Mr. Burr came to this city while a boy and was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1870. Of a mechanical temperament, he continued his education at Rutgers College, securing the degree of civil engineer from that institution in 1875. He subsequently secured the degrees of A. B., and A. M.

Mr. Burr assisted his father in compiling a two-volume work on the Centennial Exposition and later did editorial work with the Engineering News, where he was employed for three years, the Scientific American for six years, the Iron Age for sixteen years and Metal Industry. He was with the last publication at the time of his death, where he was the mechanical editor.

As an author, Mr. Burr is known for three works, "Bicycle Repairing," "Tunneling Under the Hudson," and "Rapid Transit in New York and Other Large Cities." The last-named book was prepared at the request of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Shortly after completing his college education, Mr. Burr married Miss Evelyn Hart, of Cranford in this city. His widow, a daughter, Mrs. C.W. Buckelew, and a son, Hudson Burr, survive him. The late Mrs. Lowrie, wife of Dr. Lowrie, of this city, was a sister of Mr. Burr.

VERDICT OF GUILTY IN ULMER NON-SUPPORT CASE

After having been elected for nearly an hour, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the case of Walter Ulmer, of West Second street, tried before City Judge William N. Runyon for non-support at the council chambers Wednesday afternoon. The judge ruled that Ulmer pay $3.50 a week for a year for the support of Mrs. Ulmer and her children, two-year-old Nettie Ulmer and John Ulmer, an infant son.

Postponed several times since action was begun in August, the case attracted a good-sized gallery to the court-room. Corporation Counsel Craig J. Marsh represented the city and Robert Newton Crane was Ulmer's lawyer. Henry Lieske was foreman of the jury, which comprised Thomas Carty, Thomas Hughes, William H. Grannatt, Frank Mulmerney, James Kane, John Casey, Edward Connors, William J. Counahan, Antonio Garthwaite, William Willis and Fred Bird.

Neni Ahbors gave convincing testimony supporting Mrs. Ulmer's story of desertion and the witnesses included Mrs. William L. Gloak, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman and Mrs. Smalley, who testified that the family had been left with no means of support about August 1, when Ulmer left his wife. After that the neighbors, including Mrs. Gloak, helped the destitute woman, providing food for the family. Mrs. Ulmer was subsequently forced to sell the household furniture and went to Elizabeth where she found her husband and lived with him for about a week. At the end of this period he again left her. This fact that the man and wife had again reunited for a time in Elizabeth made a second case of desertion and clinched the case for the plaintiff. Nine witnesses were called for the defense and Ulmer testified that he had left town in search of work.

In giving his ruling, Judge Runyon made a strong plea for the preservation of the family and home life for the sake of the children. The object of the decision, he said, was not to punish the defaulting father but husband so as to aid in the family. The judge summoned man and wife to him and urged them to fix up their differences. Both left the court room together.

Straightened.

"You Boston streets are fearfully crooked," said the visiting New Yorker.

"Better our streets than our citizens," said the Bostonian quietly.—Boston Transcript.

Wonders of Scientific Research.

"Professor, what is it that gives to the sting of a mosquito its virulent character?"

"As far as I have been able to ascertain, madame, it is the mosquito." —Chicago Record-Herald.

$10 FINE PREFERABLE TO A NIGHT IN LOCAL JAIL

According to Isaac Heller, a New York young man who was arrested Thursday for peddling gas mantles without proper credentials, it is preferable to hand up $10 than to spend a night in one of the cells at the Sycamore street police headquarters. He pas in a position to know, Friday morning, because he had undergone the ordeal and declared he would far rather pay the money than to go through it again.

"It's awful, judge," was the way he addressed the court; "I served four years in the Philippines but I never put in so hard a time as I did here last night. I've been in since 11 o'clock yesterday morning and its worse than camping out in a Jolo marsh. I hope I never have to go through it again and if I'd a given $10 to have kept away. Br-r-r, the cold was something fierce."

Heller's experience is only one of many as when it comes to first class human freeze-outs the jail cages have got the North Pole beat to a frazzle. Sometimes it is another room nearly fifty feet away and when the thermometer takes any kind of a drop the prisoners are up against a cold proposition. Judge Runyon thought Heller had gotten all that was coming to him but at that, it was found that he had a peddler's license, entitling him to consideration. Sentence was suspended.

COPS' UNIFORMS HELD BY TAILOR'S ATTACHMENT

Several of the beaux Brummel of the city's police and fire department were thrown into a state of great consternation Friday afternoon by the action of Justice of the Peace Hezekiah Hand in serving the papers of an execution sale of the "goods and chattels" of Charles Rogoff's tailoring establishment on West Second street. And the "why" of it all is this: The said cops and firefighters have their uniforms at the store, being cleaned and pressed to make more gala the appearance of these men on the Rialto of "The City Beautiful." The papers executed by "Hezekiah Hand, Sergeant at Arms of District Court of City of Plainfield" made it impossible for even a cop to go to the tailor's and get his brass buttoned blouse and his jeans This realization brought murmurs of consternation from the be side of the new police bungalow and several of the "Finest" figured it out that "Black shoes, neatly shined" would be the only uniform regulations with which they could comply.

But there's always a way out of trouble, and when the cops learned that some firemen were in the same fix as themselves, they "got together" and a delegation of earnest-faced flame and disturbace quellers "waited upon" "Kiah Hand After a long session, at which law books were freely consulted so as be sure everybody was in the right, eighteen yards of red tape were disentangled from the proceedings at the little tailor shop and each man involved was given typewritten permisaion to get his clothes.

At 2 Saturday afternoon the "clothes line" formed in front of Rogoff's place and under the watchful "Judge" Hand, each cop and fireman walked quietly in, picked up his own particular coat and pants and went proudly away. And the "Finest" are still the finest

The attachment proceeding are the result of action brought against Rogoff by Kasper and Kussell Sacher. The "goods and chattels" to be disposed of include fifteen coats, twelve pairs of trousers and "a lot of other clothing" Since the cops and firemen called, however, there is less of a lot.

Foresters Entertain.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Inde*pendent Order Foresters,* received two applicants for membership at its meeting Friday night. Important amendments to the by-laws were confirmed and the Court decided to hold its annual entertainment and dance early in January, next, when a high-class vaudeville entertainment will be offered, something that will eclipse any previous affairs. In the good and welfare of the order an informal program of vocal and instrumental music was given by the members. There were several visitors from out of town Courts. After the entertainment cigars were passed. James P. Smith and Thomas Fitzgerald were in charge.

Making Concessions.

"I'm a terror," announced the new arrival in Prison Dog.

"Be ye?"

"When I git started it takes three men to hold me."

"Ye don't say?"

"But if you're shorthanded, two men kin hold me at a pinch."—Washington Herald.

How They Managed It.

"Do you sell postage stamps here, young man?" quaried the old lady.

"No, ma'am," answered the junior drug clerk. "We just give 'em away at cost."—Chicago News.

HAMMERSTEIN ANNOUNCES MANHATTAN REPERTOIRE

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein yesterday announced the repertoire of the opening week of the Manhattan Opera House. The third season begins on Monday evening, November 8. Tosca will be the introductory opera, arrangements having been made whereby Mr. Hammerstein shall hereafter have the right to produce this and all other operas by Puccini.

The first night of the season will be *the occasion of the American de*but of the Contessa Maria Labia, the beautiful young Italian dramatic soprano whom Mr. Hammerstein "discovered" at the Berlin Opera Comique where she achieved an extraordinary popularity last season. The great French baritone Maurice Renaud will be the Baron Scarpia of the cast, a role in which he appeared for the first time last Spring at Monte Christo when he made a sensational impression. Signor Zenatello, Mr. Hammerstein's principal Italian tenor, who carried everything before him at the Covent Garden season, will be heard as Cavaradossi.

Miss Mary Garden will make her re-entry on Wednesday evening as Thais, a role in which she always appears to the greatest advantage. Mr. Renaud will repeat his wonderful presentation of the Monk in Thanael. The new French tenor, M. Valles—another Hammerstein "discovery"—will make his debut as Nelus the Alexandrine "swell" and patron of Thais.

Friday evening will be the production of Saint Saens' Samson and Delilah, an opera practically unknown to our lyric stage. Mr. Hammerstein intends presenting it with all the scenic pomp and circumstance that the work calls for. He will combine the ballets and choruses of his Manhattan and Philadelphia Opera Houses for the performance. Mlle. Gerville-Reache, she of the lustrous eyes and the mellow contralto, will be the Philistine fascinator; while in the role of Samson, Mr. Dalmores, tenor among athletes and athlete among tenors, will be heard for the first time this season. The great French bass, Felix Vieulle, who comes from the Paris Opera Comique, will make his debut. The cast will also include Mr. Dufranne.

Tosca will be repeated at the Saturday matinee with Contessa Labia and M. M. Renaud and Valles.

Mme. Tetrazzini's reappearance has been reserved to inaugurate the regular subscription performances henceforth to be given on Saturday nights. The opera will be the Barber of Seville, and she will sing the part of Rosina, which she has not done here before. She made a great "hit" as Rosina at Covent Garden last spring. The role is said to fit her admirably as it gives her fine opportunities for exploiting her talent for comedy. Of course she will introduce some appropriately florid cadenza of her own into the scene. That sterling artist M. Sammaroo will be the Figaro and M. Glibert the Bartolo. Another Hammerstein "discovery" Signor Colombini, an Italian tenor, will make his bow as Almaviva.

Maestro Cleofonte Campagnini, who is never afraid of work, will direct at each of the five performances of the season's first week.

"DODGERS" MANAGER SEEKS "CLIF" RANDOLPH'S SERVICES.

"Cliff" Randolph, box artist for the Clinton Avenue baseball team, who has signed a contract with the Newark baseball team for next season, is being anxiously sought after by President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn Nationals. Ebbetts has been corresponding with the local twirler and is anxious to give him a tryout with the "Trolley Dodgers." Manager Stallings, of Newark, however, is well pleased with the deal he has negotiated with "Cliff" and it looks as though the Brooklynite would have to take it out in wishing.

Randolph has an enviable record made by his season's work on the slab for the local nine and is the only member of the team who will not play with the Clinton Avenues next season. He was used in twenty-three of the season's twenty-five games and has a record of 225 strike-outs. But 102 hits were made off his delivery and he gave only 76 bases on balls. The club scorer has 5 wild pitches marked up against him and records show that 24 players got in the way of his hands.

Madame Eames to Sing.

Madame Emma Eames will sing at a benefit concert to be given by and in aid of the new York Anti-Vivisection Society, at the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday afternoon, November 11, at 3 o'clock. She will be assisted by other eminent artists. Tickets can be secured by applying to *Mrs. Lauterbach, 761 Fifth ave*nue, New York, Miss Ingersoll, 117 East Twenty-first street, New York, or Miss M. P. Robinson, 342 Ash Brook.

"So you are studying French and Italian?"

"Yes."

"Have you acquired much of a vocabulary?"

"I haven't progressed that far. I am still practicing calisthenics so as to get the gestures."—Washington Star.

OFFICIALS CALL A HALT

Hold Up P. S. C. in Running In Another High Tension Wire.

CONFERENCE HELD TODAY.

Work Suspended for the Time Being but Matter Will Be Further Argued at a Meeting Tonight.

It having been learned by Mayor Charles J. Fisk and other city officials, that it is the intention of the Public Service Corporation to string from the Cranford power plant to this city, several conferences have been held with a view to avoiding this if possible. The matter was brought to the attention of the city officials through the erection of new and larger poles East of Richmond street. Inquiry was made and the Public Service Corporation stated that it is the desire to obtain current for lighting the Netherwood section from the Cranford plant and this would require a high tension wire.

Saturday there was a conference in the Mayor's office, which was attended by Mr. Fisk, Councilman F. E. Mygatt, chairman of the public affairs committee; R. Henry Depew, president of the Plainfield Protective Association; G. W. Moy, counsel for the P. S. A., and Corporation Counsel Craig J. Marsh. The officers of the Public Service Corporation at Newark, were communicated with by telephone and they have agreed to suspend operations for the present, pending another conference to be held at the Mayor's office tonight. The city officials do not want any overhead high tension wires in the city, preferring that they should be placed underground. It is to that end they are working now.

According to the proposed plan o the company, current from the Metuchen plant will be used chiefly to illuminate the West End of the city, while the current from Cranford will be distributed in the Netherwood district, and both will be expected to *divide the work of lighting the cen*tre of the city, while the electric plant on Madison avenue will be used almost exclusively to furnish power for the trolley service over this division of the company's lines.

A few years ago a high tension wire was run into the city from the Metuchen plant and at that time the matter was considerable opposition to it. There seems to be a question whether the city has any jurisdiction in the matter, unless it can be proved *that such an overhead wire is absol*utely dangerous to life, limb and property. However, it is the intention to prevent the stringing of such wires overhead if such a thing is possible.

A Girl of Feeling.

She stirred and stirred as his talk ran Of nature all in tune,
He asked her if she did not feel
Out there beneath the moon
That he and she were all there was
Beneath the sky's expanse.
She said, "You may feel that, but I feel, by gosh, is ants!"

The Monarch of Bobo

By WILL LISENBEE

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

Solomon Brown, able seaman, was addicted to theories. These did not always harmonize with existing things, but to him it was all the worse for existing things. Had he turned his attention to those simple duties that fall to the man before the mast, all might have been well. But he allowed himself to be carried away by the abstractions of theories. One of these proclaimed that certain men were appointed by Destiny to rule their fellowmen; another, that he, Solomon Brown, was one of those favored by Destiny. These theories coincided with the convictions held by Capt. Nelson of the Petrel, and when Solomon Brown stirred up a mutiny, there was an encounter between lawful authority and a theory, in which one of the mates was wounded, and the captain lost a piece of his ear. The theory lost.

The affair provoked Capt. Nelson to the employment of a vigorous antidote for the mutinous spirit. Instead of placing the leader in irons to be carried to port for trial, he set him ashore on the island of Bobo—an uncharted piece of land lying in the South Pacific—leaving him a supply of provisions by which he might sustain life and thereby have the opportunity to nurse the remorse which was the price of the promulgation of untenable theories.

"Some time before the end of the year I will teach here and inquire after your health," the captain said, as the boat was pulled away from the shore, "and then, if you have been cured of your theories, I may give you a chance."

Then the boat was rowed back to the Petrel, the sails spread, and when the sun went down only a speck remained against the horizon to tell where the Isle of Bobo rested.

Some months later, when the Petrel touched at Melbourne, after a voyage to Hong-Kong, Capt. Nelson paid his respects to Mrs. Brown, wife of the marooned mutineer. When he had explained to her that her husband had not returned in the Petrel, but had been set ashore on a far-away island to meditate on the evils of mutiny, he fully expected to have a flood of reproach poured on his head, but nothing of the sort occurred. She listened to the story with calm impassivity, and, when it was finished, remarked that she hoped that her husband's enforced sojourn on the island would cure him of his appetite for grog, and ended by inviting the captain to remain for dinner.

Capt. Nelson was so well pleased with Mrs. Brown's behavior over the unfortunate affair that he invited her to take passage in the Petrel on the next voyage, as he expected to touch at Bobo and pick up her husband, an invitation which she gladly accepted.

So it happened that when the Petrel dropped anchor in the little bay at Bobo, just eight months after depos*iting Brown on its shore, the wife of* the mutineer stood on the deck with Capt. Nelson, and watched the lowering of the boat which was to bring her husband back to the ship.

She stood leaning on the rail as the captain and a dozen or so of the crew entered the boat and sped shoreward, and it was only after the men had reached shore and vanished from sight that she called the mate, and asked to be taken ashore, that she might meet her husband and surprise him before he reached the ship.

Meantime, having gone ashore, the captain and his men began to search for the marooned mutineer. Failing to discover any traces of him in the vicinity of where he had been left, they proceeded inland, making their way through clumps of dense tropical foliage.

Emerging from a thick clump of palms, the little party came into an open valley. A cluster of palm huts broke on their vision, and of a sudden the whole valley was swarming with life—fierce, black, warlike life—a horde of hideous savages. As if they had been lying in ambush for the adventurers, they sprang like magic from hollow, rock and thicket. With a swift maneuver they cut off the retreat of the captain's men, and advanced in solid lines.

In a twinkling they were made prisoners, and ushered into a large stockade. In the center of the enclosure was an immense palm structure, and into this the prisoners were led. As they entered they glanced about them, and then stood stock still with amazement.

At one end of the building, on a sort of raised platform, ornate with barbaric decorations, a dignified personage sat on a throne of gaudy aspect. The homage paid to him by the concourse of blacks proclaimed him a king, but it required no second glance for the captain and his men to recognize in the monarch of Bobo the familiar features of Solomon Brown, the ex-mutineer.

He surveyed the astonished group of his countrymen with a scrutiny befitting the dignity of a king, but he gave no sign of recognition.

The captain essayed to speak, but the ex-mutineer stopped him with a wave of the hand.

"The king is about to speak," he said, "and when the monarch of Bobo opens his mouth, even the winds are silent."

He took no heed of the look of astonishment on the captain's face, but calmly proceeded:

"In the king of Bobo you see a justification of the theories promulgated by your former shipmate, the unfortunate Solomon Brown. His contention that he was appointed by Destiny to rule was spurned by his associates. To him this proved nothing. His only waited for his opportunity. It came. It seems like the irony of fate that the very blow that was meant to destroy his last hope should elevate him to the throne."

He paused, and regarded his auditors with lofty contempt. There was a sinister look on his face, a look that revealed an inflexible and merciless purpose.

Capt. Nelson made no reply. In the throw of Destiny the dice had turned against him. He could frame no words of apology for what he had done, even if he had been disposed to use for clemency.

"I see you recognize me," went on the monarch of Bobo with a hideous leer, "but the hand of oppression has cut the bonds of friendship between us. When you set me on this island to be eaten up by solitude or the natives, that was your day. To-day is mine. I rejoice that it is so. Soon after you left me here I fell in with a band of natives, and they made me a prisoner. They took me to their village, and when they had sized me up, they came to the conclusion that the most profitable thing to be done was to barbecue me. That was not a pleasant situation—for me. It set my mind to work. Something must be done, and the incentive to do it was prodigious. Here was a chance to show Caucasian superiority over the dark-skinned progeny of Ham. The mere appetite for food, when not reinforced by actual starvation, is not the strongest of human desires. Man will often neglect the calls of his stomach to provide entertainment for the mind. A brilliant thought came to me. By furnishing entertainment for my captors I might induce them to postpone their intended feast. By some skilful sleight-of-hand tricks I gained their attention. As I proceeded, they grew more and more enthralled. I put forth all my skill, and went on and on. They pressed about me. Their interest grew into amazement, amazement into wonder, and wonder into superstitious awe. From that moment all thoughts of the barbecue were forgotten. It is a long step from a fricassee to a throne, but before the sun had set they made me their king. It was the victory of the mind over the mind. They placed before me all the wealth of the tribe. They feasted me, they prostrated themselves before me, and endowed me with nine wives. As the monarch of Bobo my word is law.

"The captain's face was a study in humiliation and anger, but he knew he could say nothing to help the cause of himself and shipmates. And the monarch of Bobo, reclining on his tawdry throne, smoked a pipe of prodigious size in silence.

He did not see the face that was glued to an opening in the structure, nor the pair of scintillant eyes that was fixed upon him. But even as he ceased speaking, a form pushed through the opening, and entered the enclosure. As the curious gaze of the monarch rested on the figure his small eyes blinked with sudden energy. He arose and peered before him, his face working with emotion. Then, as he recognized the stern, implacable features of his wife, his form became rigid as if transfixed with terror. His face paled, and he tried to speak, but only a gurgling sound issued from his throat.

And straight toward the throne the woman marched, the wonder-stricken blacks falling back to let her pass. She never ceased till she stood before the trembling monarch. Then, stopping, she fixed on him a look of withering scorn.

"A fine spectacle you are making of yourself with these niggers!" she said, with suppressed wrath. "A fine husband you are, to let your lawful wife shift for herself while you play king to a lot of apes!"

"Manda—" he faltered, but she checked him with a gesture of contempt.

"Don't you dare speak till I am done," she warned. "I have heard every word you said. So, while I have been at home working like a slave, pinching and saving, you have been taking your ease, playing king with a lot of niggers and boasting of nine wives!—Oh—"

Her voice rose to a shriek, and she made a grab for the monarch's ear.

"It was a joke, 'Manda," he cried, dodging about the throne. "I tell you, it was all a joke; you never could take a joke—"

"A joke, was it?" she fairly screamed. "You dare tell me that? I'll make it a dear joke for you before I'm done with you, Solomon Brown! Don't you dare to say a word back," she warned, as he essayed to speak. "Order those niggers to release these men at once, and come with me back to the ship. Do you hear?"

"Yes—yes, 'Manda," he said. "I am ready to do anything you say." He made a signal to the natives, and they released the prisoners, and fell back. Then Mrs. Brown took the monarch's arm, and followed by Capt. Nelson and his men, marched from the place. And thus fell the dynasty of Solomon Brown.

He never sailed in the Petrel again. There is a well-patronized sailor's inn in Melbourne, where both Capt. Nelson and his crew often repair when in port. It is presided over by Mrs. Brown, and the whilom mutineer and monarch of Bobo, who figures only as porter, finds little time to promulgate theories or indulge in those abstractions which hatch mutiny and unfulfilled dreams of power.

G. O. P. VICTORY IN CITY

looked-for opposition on the part o the local optionists did not show any considerable strength.

As confidently expected by those who made a close study of the campaign, Captain Robert Kirkland received the handsome majority of 1,272 over James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate, dispelling the idea that the "Farmer Orator" would carry his own city. Freeholders S. P. T. Wilbur and J. Hervey Doane won out by overwhelming majorities, Mr. Wilbur receiving 1,947 and Mr. Doane 1,904. Another high man on the Republican ticket was Tax Collector W. R. Townsend, who has a majority of 1,992 over P. J. Reville, the Democratic candidate.

Although it was expected that Mayor Charles J. Fisk, the Republican candidate for re-election, would be cut to a considerable extent, the most sanguine opponent of His Honor did not look for the greatly reduced majority given him. His total vote was 2,396, while the Democratic candidate, Walter L. Manning polled a total of 1,269, giving Mr. Fisk a majority of only 1,127. Many reasons are assigned for this, especially in the West End of the city, where most of the cutting was done.

There was opposition to Mr. Fisk in that part of the city because he vetoed an ordinance calling for extensive street improvements there. Again, the fact that he favored the opening of the Plainfield Country Club on Sunday figured to some extent. Mr. Fisk was not surprised over the cutting, in fact he expected to lose some districts in the Third and Fourth wards.

The heaviest cutting was in the second district of the Third ward, where out of 214 Republican votes there were 102 straight and 112 scratched ballots. In this same district there were fifty-six straight Democratic tickets and twelve scratched ballots. In the third district the Fourth ward, Mr. Fisk received ninety-one cuts.

The fact that the name of the Democratic candidate for Mayor appeared on the ballot as Walter F. Manning, and his pasters read Walter L. Manning, gave rise to a rumor that this was sufficiently incorrect to lose him many votes. This had no effect, however, as the name was spelled incorrectly on the ballot.

There was evidently a well-directed movement on the part of certain voters to show their disapproval of certain acts of the Mayor, but the party leaders and many friends regret that he should have been the object of attack.

The Republican candidates for the Common Council were all elected by large majorities as follows: R. J. Tolles, 398; F. L. Holt, 505; Duncan W. Taylor, 456 and Frank De-Witt C. Randolph, 593. All are re-elections with the exception of Mr. Holt, of the Second ward, who will succeed Councilman H. D. Hibbard. The Democratic nominees for the Common Council made about the worst showing of any on that ticket, all effort being centred on the Mayoralty candidate.

It was reported that efforts would be made to cut James F. Buckle, the Republican candidate for member of the Board of Education, but the vote shows that he ran equally well with his fellow candidate, William S. Tyler, who was given the full support of his party.

Before returning to his home at an early hour this morning, Mayor Fisk expressed great satisfaction at the result of the Republican ticket and its success in the city, county, State and Nation.

The total vote in Plainfield by districts in 1904 follows: First ward, first district, 562; First ward, second district, 240; Second ward, first district, 550; Second ward, second district, 258; Third ward, first district, 507; Third ward, second district, 253; Fourth ward, first district, 440; Fourth ward, second district, 447; Fourth ward, third district, 423; total, 3,720.

There were the results, total votes and majorities, in Plainfield in 1904, at the last Presidential election: First ward, first district, Republican, 414; Democrat, 148; majority, 266. First ward, second district, Republican, 180; Democrat, 60; majority, 120. Second ward, first district, Republican, 409; Democrat, 142; majority, 266; Second ward, second district, Republican, 185; Democrat, 73; majority, 112. Third ward, first district, Republican, 331; Democrat, 126; majority, 205. Third ward, second district, Republican, 200; Democrat, 59; majority, 153. Fourth ward, first district, Republican, 285; Democrat, 155; majority, 130. Fourth ward, second district, Republican, 332; Democrat, 145; majority, 187. Fourth ward, third district, Republican, 311; Democrat, 122; majority, 189. Totals, Republican, 2,699; Democrat, 1,021; majority, 1,678.

MR. BRYAN VOTES IN A GROCERY STORE.

W. J. Bryan was astir early yesterday at Lincoln, Nebraska, looking over a mas of telegrams from different parts of the country, giving assurance of a Democratic victory.

At 9 o'clock, yesterday morning, accompanied by J. D. Lyons, his farm manager and his secretary, he drove in a dogcart to Henlin's grocery store in the little village of Normal, where he cast his vote.

As Mr. Bryan deposited his ballot in the box a score of voters in the store removed their hats and offere him their best wishes.

Telegrams poured in on Mr. Bryan yesterday bringing predictions of a Democratic victory and these he read with a feeling of gratification.

Observing from press dispatches that the weather in nearly all parts of the country was fine, and that a heavy vote was being polled, Mr. Bryan said:

"Inasmuch as I expect a majority of the voters are with me, good weather is good for me."

SENATOR ACKERMAN'S TRIBUTE TO W. H. TAFT.

State Senator E. R. Ackerman, reelected by a large majority as Union county's representative in the upper house, said tonight:

"In the election of Mr. Taft, the American people have demonstrated their capacity for self-government. The assurance of a calm and judicial, constructive and progressive administration means confidence and prosperity. The country is to be congratulated on its wisdom."

DROPS ON FLOOR OF BALLROOM AND EXPIRES.

Charles Hoefferman, a prominent member of the German Liederkranz Singing Society at Elizabeth, died suddenly Monday night while attending the annual ball of the society, which was held in Turn Hall.

Mr. Hoefferman, accompanied by his wife and eighteen-year-old daughter, had only entered the hall a few minutes before. He stopped in the lobby to check his hat and coat, and then started across the ballroom floor to rejoin his family, when he suddenly reeled and dropped to the floor. He was picked up and carried into an ante-room, where he expired in a few minutes.

Dr. Funk, who was in the hall, was summoned to attend him, but he was dead when the physician reached his side. The doctor said an attack of acute heart disease was the cause of death. The body was removed to a morgue nearby.

The sad affair created much excitement in the hall. The dead man's wife and daughter collapsed over the shock and were taken home in a coach. Mr. Hoefferman was about forty years old and of powerful physique. He resided at 568 Fulton street, Elizabethport, and was employed as a machinist in the Singer Works.

'PLAINS AND PANWOOD.

Panwood township usually Republican by 50 majority, rolled up a majority against Bryan yesterday of 125 out of a total vote of 237. The rest of the ticket ran well with the lead giving the several candidates majorities ranging from 92 to 185. The local fight for freeholder between John Robison Republican candidate and Charles H. French, Democratic candidate was a walkover for Robison who won with a majority of 92. The total ticket cast was divided as follows: Republican, 222; Democratic, 97; Socialist, 3; Independent, 3; Socialist-Labor, 1; Prohibition, 3; rejected, 3.

The election yesterday was one of the hottest waged in years, the Republican ticket was expected to win, but the handsome majority of 125 rolled up for the ticket was even a surprise to the party workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer entertained relatives from New York yesterday.

DISCUSSED HOME NEEDS

Clergymen Confer With Alms Committee as to New Rules at Institution.

MAYOR FISK ALSO PRESENT.

Dr. Chambliss and Dr. McCrea Respond to Invitation to Talk Over Care of Aged Inmates.

For the purpose of getting suggestions that will help them in revising the rules which govern the Industrial Home, and perhaps making some new, the members of the Councilmanic Alms Committee invited the ministers of the city to meet with them in the office of Mayor C. J. Fisk last night, and discuss the matter. Although the invitation to the clergy was general, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First Baptist church, were the only two that responded. The Alms Committee comprises Charles C. Randolph, chairman; H. B. Buydam and Duncan W. Taylor, all of whom were present as was also Overseer-of-the-Poor Alexander Ayers and Mayor C. J. Fisk, who remained only a short time after expressing his pleasure over the presence of the divines.

Although Dr. Chambliss and Dr. McCrea had some previous knowledge concerning the Industrial Home, they were further acquainted with the conduct of the Home and were given an invitation to visit the place at any time and examine into the conditions there. By way of suggestion, Dr. McCrea proposed that all of the Young People's Societies of the city undertake to visit the Home from time to time and conduct song services. He believed that this would give the young people a definite work and at the same time interest them in this branch of the city endeavor, that of caring for the unfortunate. Both Dr. Chambliss and Dr. McCrea offered their services to the Home in case of sickness, or to speak there, when requested or to conduct funerals or in fact perform any kind of service that might properly come in their line of work.

Dr. McCrea informed the committee that he had frequently visited the Home and had met the inmates. In his opinion they are given proper food in abundance, the Home is well heated and ventilated, thoroughly sanitary and that the old folks are made as comfortable as possible. He had kind words for Superintendent and Mrs. Arthur Wolverton, who he believed are doing all in their power to conduct the Home as it should be, and spoke of the apparently well-kept rooms and grounds:

The Alms Committe appreciated the interest shown by the clergy and no doubt their suggestions will be incorporated in the revised set of *rules. It is the intention of the com*mittee to ask the Common Council to approve them early in the new year. These rules will be intended to cover conditions that have arisen this year and once adopted they will be strictly enforced. No harsh treatment of any kind will be tolerated at the Home, but at the same time the committee will insist that the rules be observed.

WAR OVER JAIL WARDEN.

Sheriff Quackenboss Contests Appointment of Rogers.

William H. Quackenboss was sworn in as Sheriff of Middlesex yesterday noon. He gave a bond for $20,000, *with the following bonds*men: W. Parker Runyon, of Perth Amboy; Daniel W. Clayton, deputy surrogate; Patrick M. Welsh, city treasurer; Otto O. Stillman, T. Harry Riddle, Charles A. McCormick and former Sheriff George J. Litterer. Mr. Quackenboss dined his bondsmen and a number of county officials and Democratic leaders yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Quackenboss filed a petition with Judge Booraem asking him to fix compensation for a warden to be appointed by him. The Freeholders named Charles Rogers as warden Monday, but the Sheriff holds that their action is illegal; that he has the power to name his own assistants if he is to be responsible for the safe keeping of the prisoners. The court set the petition down for a hearing on November 24.

Holy Cross vs. Rahway.

The Holy Cross Club football eleven will play the Rahway High School aggregation on the Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon. The church boys are weakened in their lineup by the illness of two members of the eleven and the absence of two others who will be out of town on that day. It is up to the sub-members of the team to make good and they say they will.

NEW PASTOR AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. William P. Squires, of New London, Conn., is now the new pastor in charge of the Christian church on Grove street, having been sent here by the general board of the denomination in Cincinnati. For the past sixteen months he has been supplying the pulpits of another denomination at Salem and Colchester Conn. He has been in the ministry for twenty-five years and has been successful.

Mr. Squires is accompanied by his wife, a co-worker of much ability. She is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and for five years was the teacher of vocal music in Washburn College, Topeka, Kansas. She has a voice of rare quality and is counted a valuable acquisition to the preaching of her husband. At present Mr. and Mrs. Squires are stopping at Mrs. George Whitlocks on West Front street, but they have leased rooms at 516 Arlington avenue, where they will move in, a few days. Mr. Squires has taken up the work at the church and is now engaged in re-organizing the various societies preparatory to the winter work.

REPORT OF EXCISE PROBERS NOT YET READY

Governor Fort, in reply to a reporter's questions, stated yesterday that he knew nothing of the report of the State Excise Commission. He is engaged in the preparation of his second annual message to the Legislature, and it is pretty certain that he won't finish that voluminous communication until he gets the results of the probe into excise conditions as the commissioners he appointed weigh them.

"I haven't seen the report and I don't know what it contains," said the Governor. "I guess you know more about it than I do. I don't want to know. I want the commissioners to feel absolutely free and would not have them consult me about any part of the report. When they have the complete report ready, why, then I'll go over it and approve —approve what I approve and disapprove what I disapprove in it."

There was a good deal of talk about the forthcoming report in the State House yesterday. It's certain that the commissioners will not agree upon the unanimous report. The report will be filed next month with the objections attached.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH FAIR HAS PROMISING START.

The bazaar at St. Peter's Lutheran church was inaugurated yesterday afternoon and will continue through today and tomorrow, both afternoon and night. The booths contain many pretty things and those attending yesterday found much to enjoy in the booths effectually prevented by members of the Ladies' Aid and Young People's Societies who have the fair in charge.

The rooms are nicely decorated for the occasion and the booths have an inviting appearance. Among the women in charge are Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. John Koch, Mrs. John Duerschner and Mrs. Speigel.

"TRAIN LATE, SIR."

Schooner Blocked Newark Bay Draw and Excuse Was Good.

A schooner jammed in a drawbridge was the cause of several hundred New Jersey commuters, many of them from Plainfield, having to report "train late" when they arrived at their offices in New York this morning.

In passing through the draw of the Newark Bay bridge, the vessel was swung around by the tide so that it effectually prevented the closing of the bridge, and for an hour the trains piled up behind each other while their passengers fumed.

Enjoy a Social Session.

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church held a social session last night at the Hartridge School auditorium, where they men spent the evening bowling and playing pool and billards. Later refreshments were served. Lindsey Best as president of the club, was in charge of the program for the affair.

Funeral of Tomoso Barbariso.

The funeral of Tomoso Barbariso was held in St. Mary's church this morning, Rev. Father Schillo officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. He was forty-five years old and died at his home on West Third street Sunday.

ANNUAL RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. FINN

The congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church tendered the annual reception to Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn, last night. Fully 200 members and visiting friends were in attendance.

The affair was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. The parlors were beautifully decorated in red and green. Flowers and ferns were in abundance and an orchestra of ten pieces played excellent music throughout the evening.

These annual social gatherings afford the best opportunity for the members of the church to become acquainted with each other and help to stimulate the feeling of good fellowship, as well as bring them in closer social touch with the pastor. Last night's reception was one of the most successful both in attendance and interest.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served by the young men of the church as waiters, who received the girls of their customary duty.

Those acting in this capacity were Charles Van Winkle, James Sutton, Martin Stutsman, Augustus Nash, Harry C. Runyon, Nelson Van Winkle, Fred Goodwin, Jasper Simms, Herbert Henry, Harry Johnston, Joseph Hawkins, Charles Hellyer and Henry Meeker.

Mrs. James Pray was in charge of the refreshments and was ably assisted by Mrs. Wheaton Lowrey and Mrs. John Clarke.

The decorations were arranged under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Winkle. George W. V. Moy was in charge of the musical program.

FORTY DAY STRAIGHT FOR FLOURISHING RAZOR.

Edward Peterson and Edward Scott, two colored boys, appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainants against Charles Williams, also colored, who they charged with chasing them with a razor, last night. They solemnly vowed that if they hadn't run Luke greased lightning they would have been carved to ribbons as their pursuer meant business. Their yells attracted the attention of Patrolman McNamara who grabbed Williams at Third and Liberty streets.

The prisoner admitted that he had chased the boys from Third street and Central avenue but said he was drunk at the time and didn't mean any harm when he pulled the razor. Judge Runyon gave him forty days straight as combination punishment for frightening Peterson and Scott and for carrying the weapon.

TROLLEY CAR KILLS HORSE IN COLLISION.

William Bragg, of Dunellen, lost a horse last night about 7 o'clock in a collision with a trolley car at that place. The dense fog hid the approaching car from his view, though he looked in the direction from whence it came just before turning across the track at the alleyway leading to his barn off of North avenue. He was driving a team hitched to a wagon at the time.

Bragg himself escaped injury except for a few bruises, although the wagon was partially wrecked, he having been thrown from his seat and alighting in a spot out of danger. Both horses were bowled over but only the one sustained serious injury. The slip was broken and it died in half an hour.

Fanwood Favors Sewer Plan.

Fanwood Township has signified its willingness and desire to join in the proposed trunk line sewer. Councilman P. E. Mygatt, who is chairman of the joint sewer commission, has received a letter from Edward Hand, clerk of the township, notifying him to that effect, and the township will probably be represented at the next meeting. A peculiar condition confronts the governing body of New Brunswick relative to the sewer project. At the recent election there was an almost complete change in the Board of Aldermen and those now in office do not want to take any action now that will be binding on the incoming officials.

Tea and Sale November 18.

The tea and sale under the auspices of the Entertainment Chapter of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross, will be held at the parish house, Wednesday afternoon, November 18, from 2 to 6 o'clock, and not this afternoon, as announced.

"Uncle Joe" in the South.

State Senator Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen is spending a couple of weeks in the South, recuperating from the strenuous duties of a hard campaign.

SCHWARTZ WAS HIGH MAN

Elizabeth Journalist Led Republican Ticket in Union County's Vote.

CANVASS GIVES HIM 15,711.

Augustus W. Schwartz, an Elizabeth newspaper man, as a candidate for Assembly on the Republican ticket, was high man according to the election results in Union county announced officially yesterday afternoon by the board of elections. Schwartz received 15,711 votes and his nearest competitor for such honors was his colleague for the assembly, Carlton S. Pierce, of Cranford, who got 15,351 votes.

Here are the officials returns: State Senator—Ackerman, R., 15,367; Hyer, D., 9,472; Cosgrove, S., 845; Sayre, P., 116; Morton, I. P., 247. Assemly—Kirstein, R., 15,357; Pierce, R., 15,571; Schwartz, R., 15,711; Bowers, D., 9,056; Kinsella, D., 9,027; Rieke, D., 9,095; Zeilfelack, S., 857; Walker, S., 864; Evans, S., 844; King, P., 119; Given, P., 119; Massett, P., 113; Roosa, I., 259; Anderson, I., 254; Larrison, I., 252. Sheriff—Kirkland, R., 14,725; Martine, D., 10,186; Theimer, S., 813; Brookfield, P., 119; Finkel, I., 225. Coroner—Degenring, R., 15,495; Wagner, D., 9,243; Kaufman, S., 878; Myles, P., 129.

The board's official figures show that Congressman Fowler received a total of 15,406 in the county, while Barbour, the Democratic opponent, was given 9,311 votes. Stokes, the Socialist candidate received 886 votes and VanCise, the Prohibition candidate 135. The total vote polled for Congress was 26,671 and there were 284 rejected ballots.

The total number of votes cast in the county were 26,671 and there were 284 rejected ballots. The county board will not complete the entire canvass before Saturday. Today they are working on the presidential electors returns and the figures show there are at least 10,000 checks to be made in this feature of the canvass alone.

"ELECTION RESULTS" REV. WESTFALL'S THEME.

"Election and Its Results" was the subject of the discourse by Rev. A. Judson Westfall, at the opening service in the special series at Falls chapel last night. His chief thought expressed was that it is the duty of everyone to see that his election to the Kingdom of God is made sure, basing his remarks chiefly on Scriptural texts. He drew attention so the Scripture words, "Many are called, but few are chosen," and urged that everyone make sure that they are among those chosen for the better life to come.

Mr. Westfall is a magnetic speaker and impresses all with his deep conviction and ability to present the Bible truths in a way that one cannot forget. He will preach at the chapel every night this week, except Saturday.

MAGICIAN ENTERTAINS AT MEN'S CLUB AFFAIR.

Frank Ducrot, a magician from New York, entertained the members of the Men's Club of the Congregational church, last night, with a clever exhibition of his work. This is the second or third time he has appeared before the club and he never fails to entertain. After the program refreshments were served by a committee under the direction of Dr. Frank T. Clawson and Dr. G. V. Hubbard.

During a short business meeting of the club it was practically decided that the organization take charge of one of the Sunday night services in December and omit the club meeting for that month. If this is done, a speaker of prominence will be engaged for the service.

Fun at the Bijou.

Pictures with plenty of action and fun are to be shown on the screen this afternoon and tonight at the Bijou. "Two Mischevious Boys" is the title of the feature film. A new song, "The Little Old Red School House," is also on the bill.

J. F. Buckle One of the Speakers.

Former Mayor James F. Buckle, of this city, was one of the speakers at a jollification of the Downtown Republican Club, of Elizabeth, last night. About 5000 Republicans were present to enjoy the feast of good things provided.

—The White Label canned goods are used everywhere and always give satisfaction. Neuman Brothers sell them in Plainfield. Try White Label sifted sugar peas, Maine corn or small lima beans.

FOWLER AND CAREY AT MEN'S CLUB BANQUET

The committee on arrangements for the banquet to be given by the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow night, consider that they have made a "ten strike" in the selection of speakers for the occasion. Through the influence of City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the committee has been able to get Congressman Charles Newell Fowler and Judge Robert Carey, of the Circuit Court, Jersey City, to make the addresses.

Congressman Fowler is probably one of the most conspicuous men in public life in this part of the country, and his presence here at this time, closely following election, will be of unusual interest. Judge Carey is also well known here. He is one of the strong champions of the New Idea party, and a man of considerable oratorical ability. These two speakers will be able to entertain the men with live topics of the day.

In view of the presence of two such *noted speakers, the club has extend*ed a general invitation to all Men's Clubs in the city to attend after the banquet, it being impossible to provide for them before. The dinner is called promptly for 7 o'clock, and the speech-making will begin immediately at its conclusion.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICE OVER FRANK ALLEN POPE.

The funeral of Frank Allen Pope, son of the late Elias R. Pope, whose death occurred suddenly in the Hotel Empire, New York, Saturday, was held at his late home on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. The service was extremely simple and was in charge of Rev. Edwin Shaw, pas*tor of the Seventh-Day Baptist* church.

In the course of his remarks the clergyman took occasion to dwell upon *the uncertainties of existence, em*phasizing the fact that "in the midst of life we are in death." During the service two selections were sung by Judge William N. Runyon, "Crossing the Bar" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." There were numerous floral tributes.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Charles H. Lyman, J. A. Smith, Adam Hunt, E. H. Mayo, H. W. Marshall and Dr. W. W. Williams, the last named of Asbury Park.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH FAIR TO CONCLUDE TONIGHT.

The St. Mary's church fair which has been in progress in the Parochial School, Sixth and Liberty streets, since last Thursday, will close tonight with the Women's Auxiliary of the A. O. H. in charge. There has been much rivalry between the various orders of the church, each having a night set apart especially for them.

Besides the A. O. H. booth there are those of the T. A. B. and the K. of C. A number of contests will be decided tonight and many valuable articles yet remain to be disposed of.

Housewife Has Close Call.

The crack of a rifle startled Mrs. Walter Brooks, of Brook avenue, North Plainfield, while at her household work yesterday. The bullet crashed through a window, hissed in her ear and buried itself in the wall beyond. But a second shot did more than frighten. It filled her with consternation, and she rushed from the house calling for help. The police responded hurriedly but were unable to locate the handler of the gun. Presumably it was a small boy with a rifle, as the bullets embedded in the walls were of 22 calibre.

Borough's New Street Signs.

The borough will soon have all of its streets marked by bright new signs. Two hundred of them have been received by the authorities and will be placed on the lamp posts in position to commence at once. Some of the old signs which marked certain streets before their names were changed are still up and have been annoying as well as mystifying to persons unfamiliar with the thoroughfares.

The Daily Press Only Medium.

*A golf cape lost out of an automo*bile yesterday was found by Mrs. B. S. Chandler, of Manning avenue who returned it to The Daily Press this morning, where the owner, Mrs. Otto Arens, of Randolph road, recovered it through an advertisement placed in The Daily Press.

James Saverd's Funeral.

The funeral of James T. Saverd will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock at the residence of his father in South Plainfield and at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's church, this city. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

CHARLES H. HAND BUYS FORMER POWERS' PROPERTY

Activity in local real estate circles still continues and another important deal was announced today. It states the sale of the property on South avenue above Berckman street, generally known as the Powers place and on which is located the coal yards of John E. Keely. The place was bought from Harry Coward by Charles H. Hand, the well known realty operator. The consideration has not been named.

The premises have a frontage of 248 feet on South avenue and extends back to the New Jersey Central tracks. Beside the coal sheds a large barn and small frame office, it is encumbered by a large house. It is the intention of Mr. Hand to remodel this structure and also to erect several houses on the vacant ground, one of which will be commenced next Spring. All will be of modern construction with all improvements. Mr. Keely will continue to operate the coal business as heretofore.

The deal will mean a boom for realty activity in the Netherwood district and it is probable that several others will follow closely.

TEACHERS AND PARENTS IN HELPFUL DISCUSSION

A largely attended and helpful meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Franklin School, was held in the assembly room of that school, last night, Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees, the president, being in the chair. The meeting was devoted to a general discussion of three important topics—one session for the Franklin School, better toilet facilities and the establishment of public playgrounds with an attendant in charge.

In the discussion of these topics Mrs. G. Stuart Simms made several excellent suggestions, which are to be embodied in a general report to be presented to the school authorities for further consideration.

The suggestions met with the general approval of those present and the president appointed a committee to take up the several questions and the one-session idea, and to suggest the best way of their accomplishment. In this way the association hopes to co-operate with the school authorities to bring about certain minor changes that will prove of great benefit to the children.

At the conclusion of the meeting there was a social hour, during which refreshments were served. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

DEMOCRATS THE GUESTS OF GENERAL COLLINS.

General Dennis F. Collins, Democratic candidate for Mayor, of Elizabeth, tendered a complimentary dinner to the members of the Democratic City Executive Committee, of Elizabeth, and the candidates associated with him in the last election at Democratic headquarters, the New Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, last night. There were about one hundred guests and General Collins provided a sumptuous layout for his friends.

Among thos who spoke were James E. Martine, of this city, the defeated candidate for sheriff; Comptroller Peter Bonnett, Mayor P. J. Ryan, Superintendent of Schools Clements and General Collins, of Elizabeth. There was no great effort made to explain the defeat of the Democratic ticket, although many regrets were expressed that the party had been unsuccessful.

Trolley Disturber in Court.

Thomas Kelley, a young man living in Dunellen, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, on a charge of fighting on a West Front street trolley car, Saturday night. He was arrested at Albert street by Patrolman Saunders after he had been put off the car. It was said that in the struggle he had struck a woman passenger and hurt her badly. In the absence of witnesses the case was adjourned for one week.

Their Marriage Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Gano, of Grove street, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mabel Frances, to Arthur B. Caleen, of Orchard place. The ceremony was performed on Saturday evening, November 7, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Cards are out announcing the event to the friends of the young couple.

Off on Hunting Trip.

A hunting party composed of John Schneider, Peter Emmons and Frank Stiers went to Pattenburg today for a few days of sport.

FATAL TROLLEY ACCIDENT

Motorman Killed and Passengers Injured in Collision Between Cars at Finderne.

LOCAL PEOPLE AMONG HURT.

Victim of Crash Belonged in New Brunswick and Had Been Employed but a Short Time.

One man was killed and a half-dozen passengers, three of them women, were more or less seriously injured, in a head-on collision between two trolley cars near Finderne at 7:30 o'clock, this morning. The dead man is Motorman Zierer, who with Conductor Stryker, was running the car to Bound Brook. As a result of the terrific impact both of Zierer's legs were broken and he received internal injuries which resulted in his death an hour later in the Somerville Hospital.

Among the injured passengers are the following: Helen Ulrich, Nellie Mantz, Elizabeth Odam and John R. McDonald, of Plainfield; and L. S. Everett, of Newark, and J. T. Miller, of Bound Brook. While all Plainfielders are not considered to be in a serious condition, they were detained at the Somerville Hospital for treatment. It is expected that they will be able to return to their homes later in the day.

Motorman Charles Frech, of Bound Brook, who was operating the westbound car, was also injured, but not seriously and he, together with the injured passengers, was also taken to the Somerville Hospital. The injuries to the passengers were largely in the nature of cuts from broken glass and flying pieces of wood. They were all thrown with great force about the cars and were bruised to a considerable extent. Both Conductor Stryker and Conductor Andrew Hoagland, the latter on the westbound car, escaped injuries. The front ends of both cars were completely wrecked and traffic was tied up on the single track road for most part of the morning. Superintendent George Luhr, of this city, was notified of the accident within a short time after it occurred and he immediately started for the scene of the accident, where he took full charge, looking out for the comfort of the injured ones.

While definite particulars as to the cause of the accident are not obtainable at present, it is difficult to explain why the two cars should have met on the single track provided the signal lights were working properly. The accident occurred a little more than half way between Somerville and Finderne, and the eastbound car, it is said, was making good time in an effort to reach the turnout at Finderne where the other car should have been passed.

Immediately following the crash all of the passengers in both cars were thrown into a state of panic and one of the women fainted. The uninjured members of the crew got busy right away taking care of the injured, it was discovered that Motorman Zierer was held as in a vise between the wrecked cars and that he was seriously injured. The crews and uninjured passengers first used every effort to rescue him. He was finally extricated from the mass of wreckage.

It was seen at a glance that his condition was critical and he was hurried with all speed to the Somerville Hospital. Owing to his weakened condition the physicians found it impossible to operate, but he was made as comfortable as possible. He died an hour later. Zierer lived at New Brunswick and had been employed as a motorman but a few months.

Superintendent Luhr is conducting an investigation with a view to learning the real cause of the accident. This afternoon he will get the story of the members of the crew and the passengers in fixing the blame.

Mrs. Joseph Eckstine.

Following a long illness, Mrs. Joseph Eckstine, of East Sixth street, died at her home last night. She was a native of Brooklyn and moved to this city nearly three years ago for the benefit of her health. She was a member of Faith chapel. Beside her husband and two young sons, Austin and Clinton, she is survived by her parents and three sisters, living in Brooklyn; a brother in Harlem and another in Albany. The funeral will be held at her late home tomorrow night and burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery Friday.

Fire in a Shed.

A blaze of mysterious origin was discovered in a shed of Alex Kane, the house wrecker, at the corner of Third and Fillmore streets, last night about 8 o'clock and was extinguished by the fire department. The shed contained a quantity of old lumber. Chief Doane estimates the damage at $50, while Mr. Kane states that it will exceed $500.

DR. LEWIS PASSES AWAY

Beloved Plainfield Divine Dies at Westerly, R. I., After Extended Illness.

PNEUMONIA PRIMARY CAUSE.

Members of His Family With Exception of Invalid Wife at Bedside When the End Came.

Rev. Dr. Abram Herbert Lewis, dean of the Plainfield clergy and one of the most prominent ministers in the Seventh Day Baptist denomination, died Wednesday night at the home of William Crandall in Westerly, R. I. Pneumonia was the primary cause of death but it had been brought about through septicemia and complications that followed the extraction of an ulcerated tooth. In his weakened condition, he was unable to survive the attack and the end came after two weeks of critical illness. It was manifest for two or three days previous that he could not conquer in his fight for life but his courage was so great that his family and friends hoped for a time that he might overcome the disease. He said to friends many times of late years that he hoped he might be permitted to outlive his invalid wife and no doubt this spurred him to greater effort in his determination to recover.

Dr. Lewis' illness dated from last August when his health became noticeably poor, yet, in view of what he considered his bounden duty, he journeyed to Boulder, Col., to attend the general conference of the Seventh Day Baptists church. While in the western city, he was greatly bothered by the tooth that became ulcerated and when it was extracted the complications followed. He went to his summer home at Watch Hill, R. I., in the hope of recuperating quicker but the pneumonia developed and he steadily grew worse. He was removed to Mr. Crandall's home at Westerly to facilitate the care that was needed, the accommodations at Watch Hill not being so good. All his children were with him when the end came, the only absent member of his immediate family being his wife who was in this city.

Dr. Lewis was born at Scott, N. Y., November 17, 1836, his parents being Datus Ensign and Lacey Maxson Lewis. He entered Alfred University when a young man and was graduated from it in 1863. Three years later the university conferred upon him the degree of A. M., in 1881, D. D., and in 1901, LL. D. Some time after his graduation he entered Union Theological seminary for a post graduate course in church history and from then on his life had been devoted to a furtherance of the affairs of the Seventh Day Baptist denomination. He was pastor of four churches in all, his first call being to Westerly, R. I., where he went in 1865. After remaining there a few years he went to Shiloh, N. J., and thence to Alfred, N. Y., from where he came to Plainfield in 1880. He was in charge of the local Seventh Day Baptist congregation until September 25, 1896, when he retired from his pastoral duties to become corresponding secretary of the American Sabbath Tract Society. He was editor of the Sabbath Recorder from 1882 until 1896, corresponding editor of the Philanthropist and also a member of the American Society of Church History and the American Historical Association. As an author of religious works he enjoyed a wide reputation and among the volumes he published were the following:

Sabbath and Sunday Argument History, 1870; Biblical Teachings regarding the Sabbath and the Sunday, 1884; A Critical History of the Sabbath in the Christian Church, 1886; second edition, 1902; A Critical History of Sabbath Legislation from A. D. 321 to 1888; Paganism Surviving in Christianity, 1890. The last two are among the best known and have been widely quoted. Dr. Lewis also contributed numerous articles to religious publications in which he dwelt upon the Seventh Day Baptist belief as to the observance of the Sabbath.

While acting as pastor of the Plainfield church, Dr. Lewis had a vigorous ministry and the present handsome edifice was erected under his directions. He frequently preached before other local congregations and he was greatly admired and respected by all with whom he came in contact.

Dr. Lewis married in 1855, Miss Augusta M. Johnson at Berlin, Wis., who survives. She has been an invalid for many years. There are also one son and five daughters, as follows: Professor E. H. Lewis, of Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. William L. Russell, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Mrs. J. H. Parsons, of Austin, Ill.; Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, of Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. J. E. Titsworth, of Plainfield, and Mrs. B. W. Spencer, of Cananea, Sonora, Mexico. His residence for many years had been at West Seventh street and Irving place.

COLBY TALKS TO CLERGY

Defeated State Senator Addresses State Congregational Association.

BELIEVES IN SUNDAY BALL

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich Elected President—Many Delegates Attend Nutley Meeting.

The annual convention of the New Jersey State Congregational Association was held Thursday at St. Paul's Congregational church, Nutley. The morning session opened at 10 o'clock with devotional services, led by the Rev. R. S. Smith, followed by a business session, at which addresses were made by the Rev. C. E. Hesselgrave, of Chatham; the Rev. William McLane, of New Haven, Conn.; the Rev. Professor A. C. McGiffert, of Union Seminary, Zurich, and the Rev. J. T. Nichols.

The Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of Plainfield, was elected president. The other officers are: Vice-President, the Rev. Ferdinand Q. Blanchard, East Orange; secretary, the Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, Newark; executive committee, the Rev. George P. Eastman, Orange; the Rev. W. H. Marcell, of Newark, and Clayton L. Fish, Perth Amboy.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock. The Rev. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's Episcopal church, New York city, assailed the United States government, saying that we were leading toward anarchy and socialism, and that the spirit of disrespect for the law was a grave danger of the times.

Everett Colby spoke on "What Can the Church Do in Politics?" Mr. Colby said he thought it was not public sentiment that defeated him. If he thought that the voters had deliberately gone to the polls and voted against decency and good government—that for which his movement stood for—he said he would be disappointed. He made it a point, however, that he was not discouraged.

In regard to the subject "What Can the Church do in Politics?" he said that as a general thing he thought the church should keep out of politics, unless there was some moral issue at stake, such as in the campaign just ended. When there was a moral issue, he thought the clergy and the church could do great good, and, in fact, it was their duty to take up the fight.

Continuing, Mr. Colby said these issues should be brought by the church to the attention of the women. The women are the preservers of the home. He said that in some of the Newark churches there had been meetings the night before election, at which there had been from 200 of 1,000 young men, and in the district in which these meetings had been held the young men had appeared at the polls in the early morning and in most cases had given an overwhelming majority for good government. He said that the only thing to do during the next three years was for all good citizens to take it upon themselves to call to the attention of the authorities all violations of the law, and that at the next election they would still be in the fight, and with the help of the church, hoped to win out. He also said that among some of the poorer people there was a feeling against the movement and against Sheriff Sommer. He thought that in the crowded cities they should be allowed to play baseball on Sunday, but in the country, where they had the forests to roam in, there was no need of it. He thought the time not far distant when the ministers would approve of healthful outdoor sports on Sunday. He then remarked that before election it was said that if Mr. Harding was elected the old abuses would be revived which had been fought during the last three years. He said, however, that they were not discouraged, and that he did not believe that the people were naturally corrupt, and that in the end the right would be won for good government.

Among the association churches represented were: Plainfield, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich; Asbury Park, John T. Nichols; Bound Brook, the Rev. A. E. Shattuck; Cedar Grove, the Rev. Peter D. MacIntosh; Chatham, the Rev. Charles W. Hessel; Crosswicks, John W. Morgan; Closter, Ralph D. Ferris; Dover, John A. Dahlgren; East Orange, the Rev. Ferdinand Q. Blanchard (First) D. Brewer Eddy; (Trinity), August J. Carlson (Swedish); Elizabeth, J. W. Taft; Glen Ridge, the Rev. Elliot W. Rowland; Jersey City, the Rev. John L. Scudder (First), the Rev. Howard A. M. Briggs (Waverly); Montclair, the Rev. Amory H. Bradford (First), the Rev. H. E. Jackson (Upper Montclair), Horace Porter (Watchung avenue), the Rev. Thomas Griffith (Welsh); Newark, the Rev. Petrom (Swedish); Manasquan, J. V. Thomson; Newark, the Rev. Thomas Moffatt (First), the Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd (Belleville Avenue), J. W. Hollaway (Bethlehem); Nutel, the Rev. G. A. Hurlburt; Orange, the Rev. G. P. Eastman; Passaic, R. J. Goddard; Paterson, the Rev. Roger A. Dunlap; Perth Amboy, Theodore England; Ridgefield Park, A. Lean.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. PAUL J. LOIZEAUX

Following an illness of about two years due to paralysis, Mrs. Celia Sanderson, wife of Paul J. Loizeaux, died very suddenly at her home on Brook avenue, about 7:30 Wednesday night. Although by reason of her affliction she was partially helpless, her general condition was not thought to give the family any immediate alarm. About a year ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and since then she had experienced several slight ones.

Mrs. Loizeaux was born at Athens, N. Y., sixty-six years ago, and was the daughter of William Sanderson, who was the founder of the Sanderson Milling Company, of Milwaukee, Wis., where the family moved from Athens. She was a woman of unusual beauty and while a resident of Milwaukee was considered one of the most attractive women in that city. Following her marriage forty-one years ago, she lived in New York for twelve years, and for twenty-seven years resided in the house in which she died on Brook avenue.

She was a woman of rare Christian character and thoroughly devoted to her family. Her innumerable charities as a friend to the poor and needy will never be known, so quietly did she render such assistance. Her loss in the home and in a large circle of friends and acquaintance will be severe.

She is survived by a husband and eight children, Dr. John J. Loizeaux, a dentist of Boston; P. H. Loizeaux, of Omaha, Neb., N. Y.; Dr. E. S. Loizeaux, a physician, of Patton, California; W. S. Loizeaux, of New York; Mrs. George A. Bomann, Mrs. W. E. Lough, Miss F. S. Loizeaux and Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux, of Plainfield.

The funeral service will be held from the late home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Made a Hit at Brunswick.

The Starlight Concert Company, organized and managed by James Boles and Oscar Nelson, gave a concert in Hibernia Hall, New Brunswick, Thursday night. It was attended by a big audience and the entertainers returned home with large quantities of Middlesex money. Manager Nelson presided at the piano and made a big hit with his original musical monologue. "Hitting the Horse Teeth." Miss Mattie Connett was enthusiastically encored for her rendition of "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming." There were fourteen artists in the company.

"Darling, I mean to prove my love for you, not by words, but by deeds." "Oh, George, did you bring the deeds with you?"—Baltimore American.

MISS BERTHA MITCHELL J. C. H. STEVICK'S BRIDE

Miss Bertha Mitchell, of Grant avenue, and John C. H. Stevick, of New York, were married at 6:30 Thursday night at the home of the bride in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Edgar Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, officiated.

Miss Lillie Hardcastle, of this city, was maid of honor, and O. Clifton Braden, of Philadelphia, was best man. The ushers were Dr. J. W. Dismont, of Philadelphia, and Carlton Reynell, of New York.

The bride was gowned in satin crepe de chine, over white taffeta and trimmed with Princess lace, and carried a boquet of bridal roses. She was given in marriage by her brother, Robert P. Mitchell. The maid-of-honor was gowned in hand-embroidered Swiss over yellow taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

On their wedding trip, the bride and groom will visit places of interest in Pennsylvania, after which they will make their home in Astoria, L. I., where the groom is employed as engineer for the Consolidated Gas Company. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

C. E. CONGRESS PLANS FOR STATE CONVENTION

The Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union held a Congress meeting at Warren chapel, Thursday, in connection with which there was a meeting of the general and finance committees, who are in charge of the preliminary plans for the State Endeavor convention to be held here in 1909. The committees organized as follows: Chairman, Clarence B. LaRue; vice-chairman, F. C. Lounsbury, Jr.; secretary, Charles F. Wingham; treasurer, William Lastourette. The following heads of sub-committees were appointed:

Chairman finance committee, Frank Stewart; music committee, Rev. H. N. Jordan; press committee, Alexander Gaway; entertainment committee, F. C. Lounsbury, Jr. Later there will be appointed reception, registration," entertainment, devotional, usher, decorating committees from the general committee.

'PHONE CO. DEFENDANT IN A SUIT FOR $2,000

Reed & Coddington, of counsel for Boice, Runyon & Co., appeared before Vice-Chancellor Stevens in the Chancery Court, Newark, Thursday, in a motion brought by counsel for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to recover $2,000 for materials furnished the late firm of Seaman & Co., for the construction of the telephone company's new building on East Fourth street.

The firm of Boice, Runyon & Co. through its counsel, was the first to have a stop notice served on the telephone company, and it now looks as though it will receive the full amount of its claim. When Seaman & Co. failed there was about $13,000 outstanding in debts, including the $2,000 due Boice, Runyon & Co., and there was between $5,000 and $6,000 to meet the indebtedness. Following the failure of Seaman & Co. the telephone company undertook the completion of the contract.

Day & Day, of Newark, are attorneys for the telephone company, and they brought the action of the various claimants in obtaining stop notices, preventing the payment of the money on hand. According to the present outlook, there will be a number of creditors who will fail to get what is due them. The creditors will be satisfied in the order of priority in obtaining stop notices.

MCAFEE AUXILIARY PASSES RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

At the meeting of the McAfee Auxiliary at the public library Wednesday resolutions of respect and sympathy were adopted on the death of two members, who have ranked high in the association, Mrs. William B. Wadsworth and Mrs. Hannah Gradon, both having passed away recently within a short time of each other. Letters of condolence were sent to the bereaved families and relatives.

The members in attendance were much interested in a report read by Mrs. Herbert E. Baright, describing the celebration at Philadelphia of the two-fifth anniversary of the founding of the association. Mrs. Field read a letter from M. Merle D'Aubigne, of the mission at Limoges, France, reporting optimistically on the progress of the work being carried on there.

The Plainfield Auxiliary has contributed $1,050 this year to this mission.

KING'S DAUGHTERS CIRCLE HOLDS SUCCESSFUL TEA

Under the auspices of the Charity Circle, of The King's Daughters, a largely attended and highly successful sale and tea was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. W. A. Conner, on Hillside avenue, the purpose being to raise funds with which to meet the Circle's pledge in support of the city nurse. As a result about $175 was realized as profit.

The home was beautifully decorated with flowers, the chief color scheme being yellow. Mrs. Conners was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. J. N. Van Vliet, president of the Circle, Mrs. Otis E. Hovey, Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson and Miss Emily Tracy, formerly of this city, but now of New York.

Those in charge of the candy table were Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, chairman; assisted by Mrs. Frederick W. Tatum, Miss Jessie Ginna, Miss Ruth J. R. Blake and Mrs. Charles B. Andrews. Mrs. William M. Stillman was in charge of the sale of fancy and useful articles, assisted by Mrs G. Harry Squires, Mrs. W. C. Kinney, Mrs. William C. Hubbard and Mrs. William Sidney Gale.

Mrs. Orton G. Dale presided in the tea room and she was assisted by Mrs. Harry Johnson, Miss Margaret C. Holly, Miss Tompkins, Mrs. E. L. Pinch and Miss Bertha Whitney. The Circle numbers forty active members, seven honorary, two life honorary, and a majority of them were present to help in one way or another in making the affair a great success.

HEALTH BOARD'S WORK DURING THE LAST MONTH

The number of cases of communicable disease, with the exception of typhoid fever, was unusually low during the past month, according to the reports presented at the November meeting of the Board of Health Wednesday evening. The outbreak of typhoid fever in the early part of October has practically ceased, but three scattering cases being reported since October 19 and no more cases are expected.

Fats, 4.2; solids, 13.22; solids not fat, 9.12; lactometer, 111; bacteria per cubic centimeter, 84,067. Sixty-three dairies and bottling places were visited, all of which were in good condition. These milk permits were granted: Harry Holland, Louis Pollock, Neuman Brothers, I. L. Tingley, J. B. Guttridge, Woodbrook Farms, John M. Hull and S. A. George. The plumber's bond of Louis Goldstein was ordered filed.

The following returns were made to the office during October: Marriages, 7; births, 42; still-births, 2; deaths, 29. The number of deaths was unusually low during the month and general health conditions are reported to be the best.

Willed $5,000 by Her Father.

The will of Jabez G. Smith, late of Delaware, has just been probated by Surrogate Allen in Warren county. The estate is valued at $30,000, and is divided as follows, between heirs: $5,000 to his widow, Rebecca P. Smith, and $5,000 to each of his children, Adella Smith, Oxford Township; Mrs. Margaret Van Horn, Plainfield, wife of Dr. A. F. Van Horn; Mrs. Lena McMurtrie, Englewood; Mrs. Laura M. Quig, Delaware, and $5,000 to his grandson, Merl Smith, of Omaha, Neb. The homestead at Delaware goes to the widow. His daughter Adella is executrix.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER IN FIRE STRICKEN VILLAGE.

The village of Savannah, N. Y., near Syracuse, which was almost totally destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, is the home of Rev. Henry A. Pearce, formerly of this city. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearce of Essex street, received word from him by letter this morning that both his church and residence had been spared although he had his household goods packed ready to leave. Mr. Pearce is the pastor of the Congregational church at Savannah and many of the leading members of his flock suffered heavily through the conflagration.

Twenty-two business houses in the village were destroyed by the flame and the total loss is placed at $350,000. The arrival of engines from Syracuse and Clyde was all that saved the place from being wiped off the map.

Turkey Comes High.

The recent decrease in temperature marked the appearance in local markets of rabbits, turkey, woodcock and partridges, all of which were scarce during the prevalence of the warmer weather. Turkeys are to be scarce this year, however, and now sell for 30 cents a pound. Chickens and other fowl are more plentiful.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Park Golf Club will be held at the Park Club on Friday night, November 13, when the yearly reports will be presented and plans for the coming year discussed.

HIS HIGH WALL ASSESSED

Albert H. Atterbury Appeals, Objecting to $1,600 Assessment as Made.

OTHERS ARE PAYING NOTHING

Corporation Counsel May Give Opinion—County Board to Hear His Plea Next Week.

Among the several appeals from the alleged excessive levies on local property is one from Albert H. Atterbury, of West Seventh street, upon whom an assessment of $1,600 has been made for the brick wall which partially encloses his handsome property. Mr. Atterbury made his appeal to the Union County Board of Taxation this week, and it is expected that the Board will meet in this city soon to consider that assessment, or any at all will raise a fine point to be decided this year. Mr. Atterbury says that there are five or six walls of a similar character in the city and they are not taxed. If the owners of these walls escape he says he can see no reason why an assessment should be levied on him.

Again, Mr. Atterbury says that some of the other walls are constructed of stone, which is more expensive, while his wall is of brick. He will make a vigorous protest against paying this tax, but if he is compelled to do so, it will undoubtedly result in an equal assessment being levied on the other owners of walls in the city.

It was reported today that Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh would probably be asked for an opinion on the subject, as it raises a new point in tax matters that has not heretofore come before the Board of Assessors.

LOCAL MINISTERS ADOPT RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET

At a meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, held on Friday previous to the funeral of Rev. *Dr. A. H. Lewis, the following reso*lutions of regret and sympathy at the death of the popular divine, were adopted:

"The ministers of Plainfield and North Plainfield in association assembled, seek to express in some sort their sense of loss in the death of their beloved and honored brother, the Rev. Abram Herbert Lewis; D. D.

"Throughout the many years of his life in this community, Dr. Lewis was one of those who stand four-square to every wind that blows—a tower of strength for righteousness, winning the warm regard of his fellow Christians of every name, and commanding the respect of all men. With rare intellectual endowments and liberal culture, with profound convictions and great love for God and man, with persuasive oratory and majestic presence, he was one of acknowledged eminence among the preachers, platform speakers and writers of the church. As a citizen his usefulness was limited only by his opportunities. Plainfield had had no better friend, and has seen no man on her streets to whom was accorded more generously every token of esteem.

"To us, his brethren in the ministry of the Gospel, he never failed in confidence and love. We grieve that we shall see his face no more, yet rejoice in the assurance that his departure from us is only to be among the heroes of faith, forever with the Lord.

"Resolved, That a copy of this paper be sent to our bereaved sister Mrs. Lewis, and that we beg her and her children to accept the sympathy which we most sincerely offer, while in our prayers we commend them to the unfolding arms of the God of all comfort."

"Bob" Whittaker in Florida.

Robert Whittaker, Plainfield's well known equestrian and ring master, will return home next week from Jacksonville, Fla., where he has been for the past three weeks. Mr. Whittaker had charge of the big Hippodrome during Jacksonville's annual fall fair and gave great satisfaction to the officials. He acted in the same capacity two years ago and is greatly like in the Florida metropolis.

Somerset Returns.

Revised returns give these pluralities in Somerset county: Taft, 1,753; Wood (Rep.- for Congress), 538; Smalley (Rep.) for Assemblyman, 1,352; Frelinghuysen (Rep.) for Senator, 800.

DR. LEWIS LAID AT REST

Funeral Service in Seventh Day Baptist Church Attended by Large Throng.

FOUR CLERGYMEN OFFICIATE.

Gathering in Attendance Includes Plainfield Ministers' Association and Many Prominent Out-of-Town Divines.

In the handsome edifice of the Seventh-Day Baptist congregation, over which he had presided as pastor for sixteen years, the funeral was held Friday afternoon of Rev. Dr. Abram Herbert Lewis, whose death at Westerly, R. I., Tuesday night, came as a great shock to hosts of acquaintances. The service was attended by a throng of relatives and friends from all parts of the East, while many clergymen and prominent religious workers came from far-off cities to pay their last respects to the noted divine. The Plainfield Ministers' Association, in which he had been prominent from the time of its organization, attended in a body and occupied seats reserved for them in the auditorium.

The service was in charge of Rev. Edward Shaw, pastor of the church, and he was assisted by the following clergymen: Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Gardner, editor of the Sabbath Recorder; Boothe Davis, president of Alfred University, and Rev. A. E. Main, dean of Alfred Theological Seminary and former pastor of the local Seventh-Day Baptist church. All of the ministers had been associated in various ways with Dr. Lewis during his long years of work in the denomination and their remarks relating to his untiring zeal and devotion were based on personal knowledge. The tenor of the remarks brought further realization of the loss the church, the family and friends have suffered.

During the service a double quartet in charge of David E. Titsworth rendered three selections: "Hark, Hark, My Soul," "Crossing the Bar" and "For All the Saints from Whom Their Labors Rest." The soloists were Mrs. John B. Cottrell, Mrs. *Frank Champlin, Miss Nan Ran*dolph, Miss Nellie Williams, Dr. O. B. Whitford, E. D. Young, David E. Titsworth and Charles Potter Titsworth. Miss Jessie Potter presided at the organ. There were numerous handsome floral tributes, among them many set pieces from organizations and individuals.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, where a brief committment service was held at the grave completed the obsequies. The honorary pall bearers were Stephen Babcock, of Yonkers; Rev. L. E. Livermore, of Lebanon, Conn.; Joseph A. Hubbard, Dr. F. S. Wells, Joseph D. Spicer, Dr. T. H. Manchester and Nathan Randolph, of Plainfield.

MR. AND MRS. CLAWSON WEDDED FIFTY-FIVE YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. James Clawson, of Park avenue, were tendered a dinner party at the home of their son, Dr. Walter Clawson, Thursday, in honor of the fifty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. The gathering was practically a family affair and was attended only by brothers and sisters of the celebrants, their children and grandchildren. Covers were laid for twenty.

The only guests in attendance from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Clawson, of Bethlehem, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wetmore, of Oneida, N. Y. The aged couple enjoyed the affair to the utmost and were warmly congratulated throughout the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clawson were married at New Market on November 4, 1853, the ceremony taking place at the home of the latter's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Titsworth. Rev. H. H. Baker, who was then pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in the village, was the officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Clawson moved to Plainfield in after years and have resided here ever since. The former is engaged in the grocery business at Madison avenue and Second street.

Union Service at First M. E.

The Thanksgiving Day Union service of the city and borough churches will be held Thursday morning, November 26 at the First M. E. church at 10:30 o'clock and the sermon will be preached by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. The pastors of the other churches will assist in the service. For several years past it has been the custom to hold this service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, but this year it was decided to make a change.

Harvest Home Festival.

The annual harvest home festival will be held at Muhlenberg Hospital Thursday afternoon, November 19, from 3 to 6 o'clock. Contributions of foodstuff, money, and in fact anything that can be of use at the hospital will be appreciated. There will be the usual recreation during the afternoon.

FOWLER'S MAJORITY NOW FIGURED AT 7,716

Charles N. Fowler has carried the Fifth Congressional district over Isaac N. Barber by a plurality of about 7,716. The result by county pluralities is as follows:

	Fowler.	Barber.
Union	6,616
Morris	3,500
Warren		1,800
	9,516	1,800
Fowler's plurality	7,716

Unlike two years ago, when James E. Martine was the opponent of Mr. Fowler, the Fifth district Republican nominee ran as well as the rest of the ticket, in some cases better. Fowler carried Elizabeth by a large plurality.

For the ten seats in the National House of Representatives to which New Jersey is entitled, the Republicans, who have been in control of six of them, Tuesday succeeded in electing seven of their candidates, the rest of the Congressional berths going to Democratic nominees.

First district—*Henry C. Loudenslager, R., 10,000. Loudenslager's plurality in 1906 was 11,366.

Second district—*John J. Gardner, R., 5,600. Gardner's plurality in 1906 was 10,716.

*Third district—*Benjamin F. Howell, R., 4,200. Howell's plurality in 1906 was 2,834.

Seventh district—*R. Wayne Parker, R., 9,000. Parker's plurality in 1906 was 510. In 1904 it was 11,231.

Eighth district—William H. Wiley, R., 8,000. Wiley succeeds Le Gage Pratt, D., whose plurality in 1906 over Henry J. Gotlieb (then a Republican, now a Democrat), was 5,874. Wiley served the two years in Congress ending 1906.

Ninth district—Eugene F. Kinkhead, D., 2,000. Kinkead succeeds Eugene W. Leake, D., an anti-Bryanite, whose plurality in 1906 was 5,739.

Tenth district—*James A. Hamill, D., 12,000. Hamill's plurality in 1906 was 13,577.

UNSATISFACTORY WIRE AND EXPRESS SERVICES

The poor telegraph service in Plainfield on Sunday and the monopoly enjoyed here by the United States Express Company, were questions for debate at the Board of Trade meeting Thursday. It was complained that on Sunday the telegraph offices of both the Western Union Company and the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company are closed the greater part of the day and communication with the outside world by such means is shut off, except from 9 to 10 o'clock in the morning and 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening. It was stated that the attention of the companies had been called to the matter, but no satisfaction could be obtained.

In connection with the complaint against the U. S. Express Company, a communication was received from the Elizabeth Board of Trade, asking the local board to co-operate with it in obtaining more equitable rates. The Elizabeth Board of Trade held a conference with the State Board of Railroad Commission on October 23 and another one will be held on Saturday, November 14, to which the local board is requested to send representatives. Upon the recommendation of the members, President Marshall will appoint committees to confer with the telegraph companies and the Elizabeth Board of Trade regarding the matters complained about.

Secretary A. S. Herr reported that $108 had been collected during the past month from members and that he is trying to arrange the payment of dues so that they will be payable October 1 of each year. There is still a balance of $300 due the publicity fund, and it was the sense of the board that all members who become over one year delinquent in their dues should be dropped. G. P. Hinman was elected to membership upon recommendation.

Harry B. McDonald, proprietor of the Central Livery on East Second street, has leased the stable quarters in George Cole's building on West Second street and will conduct most of his business there. The old location will be used principally as his trucking stables.

RUSHMORE TALKS TAXES

Manufacturer Explains His Case Before the Local Board of Trade.

ASSESSMENTS NOT UNIFORM.

President Marshall and Others Coincide With His Views—That Hospital Donation.

For the purpose of explaining his reasons for attacking the local method of assessment and taxation, Samuel W. Rushmore, proprietor of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, appeared before the Board of Trade, Thursday night. He was present by invitation and President H. W. Marshall in presenting him to the members, said that it gave him great pleasure to do so. In view of the recent action taken by Mr. Rushmore in stirring up the local tax situation there was unusual interest in his presence at the meeting.

While he said that he had been criticized quite generally for his actions by members of the Board of Trade, that he was injuring the fair name of "The City Beautiful," and was offsetting the good accomplished by the publicity fund, Mr. Rushmore said he believed it to be the first duty of the city to see that the people residing here are satisfied.

"I am not a property owner nor and manufacturer that are not treated fairly," continued Mr. Rushmore. "The man who owns a property valued at $2,000 or $3,000 is taxed to the limit, and as you ascend the scale the assessments are one-half or one-third less in my judgment. As for the personal grievance, only as the question affects my employes. I find it difficult to get labor. After advertising for help I was obliged to go to Philadelphia and New York to get men. As soon as they were established here they were assessed to the limit and naturally they have resented it, complaining that the cost of living here is more than they are able to bear.

"I am satisfied with my assessment, in fact I feel almost guilty that a little more was not been charged up to me. But if Plainfield is to be an industrial centre, there should be a change in the method now employed for assessing property. All that I buy in Plainfield is labor and the money paid for that is expended right here in the city. This is not the case with our city officials, who only sleep here and who buy nearly everything in New York. The present method of taxing in this city is a hardship on the working people.

"Two weeks before I started my new factory on South avenue, with the material on the ground, I was assessed $6,000 for a prospective building and $4,000 for the land. The material on the ground was valued at $3,800. I appealed to the county board of taxation, explaining that the material was on the ground, but I was ignored and could get no satisfaction. According to the law I have no standing before that board.

"Recently, the Plainfield newspapers published my rating with Bradstreet, and I will admit that I am worth more than I am taxed for. My assessment was on $84,000, but there is another plant in the city many times greater in size and value that is only assessed on $125,000. What I want is a lower tax rate which will benefit the workingman. At present I have no quarrel with the equalization of taxes of an individual. I don't charge graft or favor, but merely present facts from which you can draw your own conclusions.

Perhaps, unfortunately for me I informed the assessor in my award that every dollar I am taxed for my

S. .S ASSOCIATION'S FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY

The fiftieth anniversary of the New Jersey Sunday School Association will be celebrated at its annual convention, which will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 17 to 19, at the Second Reformed church of New Brunswick. The steady increase of interest in progressive forms of Sunday school work, and the historic interest of this occasion warrants the promise of an unusually inspiring time. The general secretary, Rev. E. M. Ferguson, of Newark, reports that large delegations are forming in nearly every county.

The program is of a high character throughout. Besides some of the best of the New Jersey workers, eminent leaders will be present, such as the international secretary, Marion Lawrence, of Chicago; Dr. Joseph Clark, of Ohio; Dr. W. A. Duncan and Marshall A. Hudson, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Dr. George W. Bailey, of Philadelphia, and Rev. M. S. Littlefield and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn. The usual interesting reports will be heard, covering all phases of the State and county work.

Among the special features will be a series of visits to New Brunswick's noted educational institutions; an exhibit of Sunday school methods, text books and appliances; an opening devotional rally, led by Rev. W. H. Morgan, of Newark; institutes on home department, teacher training and elementary work; a rally of all organized adult classes on Tuesday afternoon and evening, with a banquet of the class delegates; a rally of pastors on Thursday morning, with a conference of Decision day methods; a rally of superintendents Thursday afternoon and a banquet on Thursday evening, with a question box led by Mr. Lawrance, the most noted Sunday school superintendent in America.

The feature of the convention, however, will be the historical session on Wednesday afternoon in the First Reformed church, near the grave of Theodore Frelinghuysen, first president of the association. At this session various former leaders will participate; a memorial address will be delivered by Dr. Clark, of Ohio, son of the former State secretary, and Rev. Frank A. Smith, of Haddonfield, N. J., will forecast the work of the future. The present and past officers of the State association will gather together at the close of the session.

RAHWAY REFORMATORY VIEWED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Fort, accompanied by Commissioners Decatur M. Cawyer, of Montclair, and Edward D. Duffield, of South Orange, made a tour of inspection of the Rahway Reformatory Monday. The Governor and the commissioners arrived about 9 o'clock, in Mr. Sawyer's auto, and started in at once, visiting first the office and greeting the sympathies for Superintendent Joseph M. Martin, who was detained at home by a recent fall. The message was telephoned to Superintendent Martin by his son, Secretary Manton J. Martin. An expression of gratification was returned by the recipient.

The visitors inspected the still uncompleted wing, which will not be ready before January. The cells throughout the dormitories were also visited. Every one of these cells is occupied. The Governor noted over three hundred cots standing in the corridors and under the big dome.

Every department of the immense building was scrutinized and a memorandum was made of their conditions and needs. The Governor seemed deeply interested in watching the hundreds of hungry, hustling, healthy boys rushing in with military precision from their work shops to the dining rooms, where a substantial dinner was served to them.

The Governor and the commissioners became guests of the officers of the institution for luncheon, at the conclusion of which Mr. Fort asked several questions and stated that he would endeavor to expedite as far as possible many needs of the building. It was nearly 2 o'clock when the luncheon was over and the visit ended.

The Decline of Oratory.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Frances Starr, who is soon to appear in a new play from the pen of David Belasco, has received instructions from her manager to visit a certain modiste in New York to be measured for gowns to be worn in the new production. As to their style, color or texture Miss Starr is as much in the dark as she is regarding the nature or locale of the new drama.

Capacity audiences crowd the Belasco Stuyvesant Theatre, New York, at every performance of Blanche Bates in "The Fighting Hope." The Thursday matinees, introduced to relieve the heavy pressure at the regular performances, offer excellent opportunities to out-of-town patrons to see the Belasco star in her much-discussed play. It is a woman's play—the strongest appeal lying in the revelation of the innermost secrets of a feminine heart struggling in the throes of conflicting loves and sympathies.

With the recent engagement of Nance O'Neil, and the yet more recent renewal of the contract with Julia Marlowe, the Messrs. Shubert, youngest and most progressive of the great theatrical managers, have completed a list of no less than twenty-five first class stars for the present season. This is the greatest number of stars appearing under any one management in America, and includes many of the most prominent dramatic and musical comedy players now before the public. A list of the Shubert stars includes E. H. Sothern, Julia Marlowe, Mary Mannering, Ethel Barrymore, Henry Miller, Blanche Bates, Nance O'Neil, John Mason, De-Wolf Hopper, Lew Fields, Sam Bernard, Lulu Glaser, Louise Gunning, Eddie Foy, Jefferson DeAngelis, Camille D'Arville, Emma Carus, James T. Powers, James Young and Marguerite Clark. William Faversham, who is appearing exclusively in Shubert theatres, may also be classed as a supplementary Shubert attraction. In addition to all the offerings with these stars, the Shuberts control a large number of companies without stellar players, presenting such successes as Clyde Fitch's "Girls" and Eugene Walter's "The Wolf."

The strongest bill of the season yet offered by Percy G. Williams at the Colonial is headed by Alice Lloyd, the well known English comedienne, who makes her last vaudeville appearance prior to becoming a star under the management of Klaw & Erlanger. An equally important feature is the return of the famous Danish exponents of thought transference, the Zancigs, who will be seen for the first time since their European exhibitions which gained for them decorations from King Edward, and the Emperor of Germany and other crowned heads. The Avon Comedy Four in their favorite comedy conversations and burlesque boxing bout, will add to the merriment provided by the program, as will also Frank Moulan & Maude Lillian Berri, late stars of "The Sultan of Sulu" and other musical comedies, who are here with a most amusing one-act skit which has to do with secrets of modern feminine hair dressing, and affords laugh making opportunities to these two well known players. Hyams and McIntyre will also be seen in a one-act sketch which provides excellent opportunities for them to display their singing and dancing talent, and permits Miss McIntyre to introduce her charming "kid" imitations. Quite a novelty is a playlet entitled "In Dreamland," in which Emmet Devoy & Company appear, and which is called a "farcial fantasie."

De Witt C. Jennings, now appearing with Miss May Irwin in "Mrs. Peckham's Carouse," at the Garrick Theatre, has signed a contract to appear under the management of Charles Frohman for the next two years.

Charles Frohman has decided to produce before the end of the present season a comedy in three acts, "The Marriage of the Star," by Alexander Bisson, the author of "The Masked Ball," "La Femme," "Ma Gouvermante," and "On and Off."

Miss Ethel Barrymore is the next Charles Frohman star who will appear in New York in a new play. Mr. Frohman will bring Miss Barrymore to New York in November for a season in "Lady Frederick," by W. Somerset Maugham, who is also the author of "Jack Straw."

At Proctor's Theatre, Newark, for the week beginning November 9, the headliner will The Fadetted, an orchestra of twenty-two young women under the leadership of Miss Caroline B. Nichols. Melbourne McDowell and Virginia Drew Trescott in a high class dramatic sketch entitled "The Man on the People." Third on the bill will be the famous Empire City Four, singing comedians. The Rossow Niegots and their comedy and scientific exhibition of the art of self defense. Foster and Foster will present a musical comedy entitled "The Volunteer Pianist." Hayward, Platel and Company in a comedy sketch called "The King of Blackwellis," the Serrell Brothers will do a comedy bicycle act. Cook and Stevens, a team of colored entertainers, and new motion pictures.

Marie Cahill opened her new musical play, "The Boys and Betty," at Wallack's Theatre, New York, last Monday night, and scored the greatest success of her continuously successful starring career. There is no doubt that the play marks a distinct advance in the development of the American idea of the musical play, and, as a medium for unfolding the comprehensive abilities of the charming star, it is the best she has ever had. To George V. Hobart goes the laurel for, at last turning out a sane and interesting story with music, and to Silvio Hein as well for a multitude of haunting melodies which dovetail with the book and aid materially in the handling of the play. The production is a triumph. There is a multitude of new scenic effects never before attempted in musical plays.

Fortunate indeed is the theatrical manager who can honestly state that he is scheduling production with exciting interest has not had any effect upon the attractions under his direction. Wagenhals and Kemper not only make this boast in the case of Eugene Walter's human American play, "Paid in Full," which at Cohen's Theatre in New York as well as in other important cities is playing to such large receipts as to cause envy in the camps of the chiefs of the campaign fund. Successes like that of "Paid in Full" are rarely achieved. There has not been a dozen of them in the history of the dramas of the day is notable not only for its dramatic technique but for that much more important quality which we are pleased to term "human interest."

"Little Nemo," Klaw & Erlanger's big musical comedy, made a deep impression at its first production at the New Amsterdam Theatre. The enormous audience was perfectly delighted and the critics unanimous in their praise. Paraphrasing a witticism of Joseph Cawthorn, Klaw & Erlanger do not have to prove that they have a big show—they admit it. T. W. White, of The Herald, in his review of "Little Nemo," wrote: "The 'biggest' in the production, the quantity as well as quality of what was provided, astonished the audience. There was in the first act alone enough of scenic and costume display, of music that was enjoyed and applauded, to equip any ordinary three act show. In fact, when the first curtain had gone down to a salvo of applause the remark heard was: 'They can't keep the pace they have set. They must have crowded everything into the first act. I'm afraid the finish will be tame—it can't help being after such a first act send-off.'"

LANG LOSES IN HIS LATEST APPEAL FOR LIFE

Unless counsel shall make another appeal in the long fight to save his life, Frederick Lang, the Middlesex county murderer, will have to hang, the last man in New Jersey to pay the death penalty on the gallows, almost a year after the new electrocution law went into effect. An opinion handed down by Justice Parker in the Supreme Court at Trenton Monday, confirms the order under which Lang was adjudged sane. This order was the result of a hearing before Judge Booraem in which Lang's counsel tried to save his life by declaring him a lunatic.

The bulk of the testimony taken at the hearing was to the effect that Lang was sane, although in some respects he might be termed an eccentric. Lang was convicted more than two years ago of the murder of his niece, the latter having spurned him. He was sentenced to be hanged, but counsel secured numerous stays.

Justice Parker discusses Lang's case at considerable length and concludes that he must hang because the common law rule provides that to prevent execution of such sentences the insanity must be of such character as to render the prisoner incapable of understanding the nature of the proceedings against him.

P.H.S. DEFEATED W.H.S

Borough Lads Roll Up Eleven Points While Opponents Fail to Score.

WESTFIELD ON DEFENSIVE.

P. H. S. Aggression Plays Hard Ball and Forced W. H. S. to Resort to Kicking.

The North Plainfield High School eleven defeated the Westfield High School team at the latter place, Saturday afternoon by a score of 11 to 0. The borough boys received the ball on the first kick and advanced it never losing it until the first touchdown. Westfield received the ball on second kick and it changed hands through fumbles and downs until the end of the half.

The second half began with Westfield kicking off. The ball changed hands until North Plainfield received it and advanced steadily and scored again, C. Smith making the second touchdown. He kicked the goal, leaving the final score 11 to 0 in favor of North Plainfield. The borough team played hard and held Westfield so that the latter was forced to kick frequently in each half. The lineup:

W. H. S.—Left end, Foster; right end, Buckley; left tackle, Doerer; right tackle, Sission; left guard, Reese; right guard, Bush; centre, Keyes; quarterback, Brown; left halfback, Winkler; right halfback, Cherry; fullback, Bull.

Timers—Phelps and Pearsall; linesmen, Terry and Perrin; referee and umpire, Hamilton and Bush. Time of halves, 20 and 20.

ASBURY PARK ORIOLES WALLOP DUNELLEN A.C.

The football game Saturday afternoon between the Dunellen A. C. team and the Orioles of Asbury Park was the hardest fought contest of the season on the Dunellen gridiron. It was abounding with brilliant plays, savage onslaughts met with equally determined opposition, and many injuries to players, some of whom were obliged to retire from the game.

The visitors won by a score of 6 to 0. Among the home boys who especially distinguished themselves were Jack Dineen and Rhinehart, whose tackling and Smith's wonderful ground gaining brought forth cheers of admiration from the large crowd on the side lines. O'Rourke also played an excellent game at halfback.

The lineup of the Athletics: centre, Hurr; quarterback, Lake; halfbacks, O'Rourke, Taylor and Smith; guards, Snyder and Daine; ends, S. Manning and J. Manning; tackles, Rhinehart, Dineen and Laughlin. Umpire, Chugbill, of Dunellen; referee, Morse, of Asbury Park.

James K. Hackett Coming.

James K. Hackett, the romantic actor, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre on Tuesday night, November 24, and everyone who has seen this distinguished leader of the romantic drama will welcome his reappearance. The injury to Mr. Hackett's foot in the duel in "The Prisoner of Zenda" made it look for a short while as though he would be unable to continue his season, but a two or three weeks' rest in the Adirondacks and absolute quiet, have given him all of his old dash and vim and those who have seen him in "The Prisoner of Zenda" will realize how much that is. Mr. Hackett was last in Plainfield about ten years ago when he presented "Rupert of Hentzau," at old Music Hall.

May Re-Open Cummings Case.

The Jersey City Police Board, now Democratic, may reopen the case of Albert Cummings, who was dismissed as a captain of police by the Fagan board for neglect of duty, a dismissal that was sustained by the Supreme Court. Cummings was a member of the Police Department for twenty-five years and had an excellent record. He was one of those brought to trial after the raid personally conducted by Mayor Fagan on policy shops and writers and bond and book makers. Police Captain John F. Kelly, who was also dismissed, may make application for a rehearing if Cummings is successful.

FREEHOLDER TO BE ON HOSPITAL BOARD

Steps having been taken in other parts of Union county to give the Board of Freeholders a representation on the governing bodies of hospitals to which the board makes annual appropriations, the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at its November meeting, Monday, took similar action by a proposed amendment to the constitution. According to the constitution changes must be proposed at one meeting and acted upon at the next. The change proposed last night provides that the Board of Freeholders shall name one of its number to serve as a member of the hospital body.

Last year the Board of Freeholders appropriated about $8,000 toward the hospital, and since that time the question of representation on the part of the freeholders has arisen. Two or three years ago the Board of Governors made the Mayor a member of that body so as to give the city representation, it being considered only fair that this should be done in view of the fact that the municipality contributes a fixed amount to the hospital annually. It is quite likely that either Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur or Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, of this city, will be chosen to represent the freeholders on the local board. The medical board reported the number of patients for October as follows:

Remaining at date of last report 40; admitted, 72; total number treated, 112; discharged cured, 47; improved, 7; not improved, 3; died, 1; remaining, 46; operations, 61; hospital days, 1,282. In the dispensary, number of patients, 189; operations, 6; cases in the isolation ward, 1.

MORE ACTIVITY IN THE REALTY FIELD

Closely following the sale of the Jackson building to Fred Endress, which was announced Monday, Charles H. Lyman, who was the broker in the deal, has just closed two more important realty deals aggregating many thousands of dollars. Monday he sold the Bernard Brady residential property on Central avenue, to Arthur M. Harris, of the New York banking firm of N. W. Harris & Co., who has plans to remodel the structure and make it one of the finest in the city.

The property has a frontage of 150 feet on Central avenue, and extends to Madison avenue. In addition Mr. Harris has purchased an additional 100 feet adjoining his property on Madison avenue, from Charles W. McCutchen. A. C. Marsh, the architect, has been engaged to make extensive alterations, and when completed Mr. Harris will take possession.

In the other deal just closed, Mrs. Sarah Porter DuBois becomes the owner of A. D. Thompson's handsome residence on Belvidere avenue, which has been occupied by Mr. Thompson and his family since it was built. It has a frontage of 333 feet on Belvidere avenue and extends through to Ravine road. Mrs. DuBois is the mother of Mr. F. DuBois, of Washington avenue. She will take possession December 1.

INCREASE IN ATTENDANCE OF THE BOROUGH SCHOOLS.

Principal H. C. Krebs, of the North Plainfield schools, has prepared the statistics of attendance for the month of October and announces that a comparison with the same month last year shows a large increase.

In October, 1907, there was an enrollment of 1,067; in both schools with an average daily attendance of 909. This year with an enrollment of 1,123 the average daily attendance was 1,010, which makes an increase in percentage of attendance of 2.57 per cent. The Somerset school had a decrease in tardiness cases this year during October of 1 to 137. Watchung school on the other hand, had an increase in tardiness, being 54 this year to 29 for October, 1907.

James Hurley Injured.

James Hurley, an aged resident of the borough, who lives on Belmont avenue, is detained at home with a broken leg, the result of a tree falling on him a few days ago. Mr. Hurley was engaged in cutting down two or three trees on his property, when one of them fell quicker than was anticipated and knocked Mr Hurley down. Dr. F. J. Hughes is in attendance, but owing to the weakened condition of Mr. Hurley some trouble has been experienced setting the broken bones.

Only General Golf Play.

The active season having closed at both the Plainfield Country Club and the Park Golf Club, there are no scheduled events at either place on Saturday. However, there was a good field out at both clubs, the members taking part in general play over the course. The weather was perfect for the game and the links were in the best of condition. It is the purpose to keep the links open as long as the weather remains favorable.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS SCORE AS MINSTRELS

Members of the Plainfield High School again scored a hit as "burnt cork" artists, Saturday night, when they presented their second annual minstrel entertainment in the auditorium. It was witnessed by a capacity audience that was enthusiastic in its applause and appreciation of the troupe's efforts.

In the customary first part, Charles Pryor made a capital interlocutor and appeared to be really and truly charging when the end men made him the victim for "gags." These fun-makers were F. Clyde Doane, Jack Riffert, Frank Clark and Osgood Sewall. Their make-up was ludicrous in the extreme and they acted their parts like veterans. Riffert also introduced a "Turkey in the Straw" specialty.

The complete program for the first part was as follows:

Opening chorus, "I Want You," company; solo, "Broke," Frank Clark; ballad, "Are You Sincere," Gulon Fountain; solo, "I'd Rather Be a Little Sooner Than a Little bit too Late," Osgood Sewall; solo, "Down in Jungle Town," Clyde Titsworth; solo, "Everybody Turned and Looked at Me," Clyde Doane; bass solo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," Charles Pryor; closing chorus, "Pride of the Prairie," company.

The rendition of each song was very creditable and the soloists were compelled to give encores. The chorus work revealed careful drilling.

In the olio, Osgood Sewall, assisted on the piano as the "inimitable kalsomine artist" gave a laughable monologue; the "Four Singing Chocolate Drops," Messrs. Prior, Titsworth, Doane and Fountain, presented a clever singing and dancing sketch; Eddie Sampter spilled some chatter under the "Foolish" in monologue form that kept everybody laughing and Clyde Doane and Jack Riffert appeared in an original sketch "Hawkshaw, the Dyspeptic." Doane played the part of a tragedian of the old school and Riffert had a comedy role. The sketch was very funny.

The proceeds from the entertainment will be added to the treasury of the P. H. S. Athletic Association. Those appearing in the chorus were the following: Russell Morris, Harry Van anZdt, Thomas Ricketts, Roy Woodruff, David Hawley, Stanley Robins, Gardner Bristol, Warder Carpenter, Carl Wilson, Edward Abbott, Holmes Sutton, Louis Van Zandt, George Durie and Edmund Sampter. Miss Elsie Rockwell acted the accompanist. The musical effects were produced by G. H. Fisher, Jr., and William Little.

At the close of the first part, S. B. Howe, Jr., of the school faculty, who acted as coach for the boys, was called before the curtain and presented with a gold watch fob in appreciation of his efforts.

F. Clyde Doane had general charge of the arrangements and he was ably assisted by G. Stanley Robins.

SOMERVILLE HIGH WAS EASY FOR HOLY CROSS

The Holy Cross Club football eleven played the Somerville High School to a standstill, at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, neither side being able to score. The contest was played on a good field with weather conditions almost ideal. When these teams met in the borough a few weeks ago, the church team won out by a score of 37 to 0. Somerville strengthened up for the game as the score would indicate.

Holy Cross played without the usual backs, Nash, Williams and Mosher who were unable to accompany the team. Somerville also had several changes in its lineup. The halves were fifteen minutes each. It was a closely contested game throughout. Miller and Brakeley made substantial gains for Holy Cross; Neff did good work in the unfamiliar position of back instead of tackle. Lindsey proved his right to the nickname "Ginger," by splendid line bucking and getting his man. Sline and the other members of the church team held the line in good shape.

Other details of the game are not forthcoming and the Holy Cross club players refuse to comment further on the game. Next Saturday the church team will play Rahway H. S. on the Cooke Field at the usual hour.

Owing to the fire which destroyed the Colonnade building at Chatauqua, N. Y., on October 19, the November number of the Chautauqua Magazine will be ten days or possibly two weeks late. No books and no magazines except the November number were damaged at all. The November number was a total loss; but a reprint is being made in Buffalo and the issue will not be greater than we have indicated. There will be interest here in the announcement by reason of the fact that Miss Kate Kimball, formerly of Plainfield, is connected with the work, and Miss Grant, also of this city, whose kindergarten was destroyed in the burned building, was one of the heavy losers by the fire.

P.H.S. PLAYS FAST GAME

Wilson Military Academy Defeated on Hope Common in a Snappy Contest.

THE SCORE WAS SIX TO FIVE.

Teams Evenly Matched—Plainfield Scores After Two Minutes of Play.

The Plainfield High School football team won a closely contested game from the Wilson Military Academy, of Finderne, Saturday afternoon on Hope Common, by a score of 6 to 5. The battle was stubbornly fought throughout and there was but little fumbling.

Plainfield got busy from the start and scored a touchdown within two minutes after kicking off. A long punt from the middle of the field took the ball to Wilson's fifteen-yard line from where Phillips carried it for the score. Phillips kicked goal and when the playing was resumed High School kicked off and the Academy secured the ball on their own 25-yard line, where after some hard line bucking, they were held for downs. Riffert of P. H. S. made a 70-yard run around the right end, landing the ball encouragingly near Wilson's goal line, but after a few short advances time was called for the first half, with Plainfield in possession of the ball on Findern's 3-yard line.

In the second half the future soldiers jumped into the game with more energy and put forth their best strength, which kept the pupils on the defensive. Wilson located their opponents' breaking line, the right wing, and by a series of plays, carried the ball into Plainfield territory, but was finally stopped and the Highs, on securing the ball, gained 35 yards on a forward pass, only to lose it soon after on a fumble. After some vigorous line plunges but without gaining ground, Wilson gain lost the ball on downs and a forward pass moved the Highs up 25 yards, followed by a gain of 20 yards by an on-side kick. They lost the ball, however, on Wilson's 25-yard line by an unsuccessful forward pass. A Finderner got through and printed 25 yards before he could be stopped. The visitors continued to gain ground through High School's right wing and a 20-yard run by Higgins landed the ball on Plainfield's 3-yard line, from where, by furious line plunges, it was pushed over for a touchdown. Higgins failed to kick a difficult goal, leaving the score 6 and 5.

During the remainder of the scrimmage the ball was mostly in the air by both sides in a series of punts. Wilson lost the ball on High's 40-yard line and then Plainfield settled down to hitting the line for short gains. Arriving at Finderne's 15-yard line they were held and compelled to hand over the ball on downs. After more exchanges of punts in which both sides gained and lost, time was called with the ball in Plainfield's possession on the defeated team's 25-yard line. A feature of the game was the clever punting by Bingaman. It was a hard fight from start to finish, fairly played and no serious injuries. Every man was keenly alert and did his best.

The visiting team had previously played the tie game with Rutgers' Prep., a team which had won from the P. H. S. by one touchdown, so for this reason the winners Saturday are more than ordinarily pleased with the result.

The line-up:

W. M. A.		P. H. S.
Buchman		Doane
Pisciachio	left end.	Carpenter
Fallon	left guard.	Fleming
Wall	centre.	Woodison

CARRIAGE IN A MIX-UP

Overturned in Collision as Driver Seeks to Avoid Fire Apparatus.

WOMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Harris, Wife of Rig's Owner, Thrown in Path of Truck—Husband Placed Under Arrest.

As the result of an exciting occurrence in which he figured Saturday afternoon, Lester B. Harris, of West Front street, was arrigned in the city court, Monday, charged by Patrolman Meyers with reckless driving. After hearing the testimony of several witnesses the magistrate found the defendant technically guilty but suspended sentence.

Harris was proceeding along West Second street near Central avenue, Saturday, driving a spirited team of horses to a carriage in which Mrs. Harris occupied the rear seat. The animals had not been exercised in several days and were somewhat hard to manage when they were made worse by the approach of fire apparatus answering an alarm. A hose truck and steamer passed by the team as the team dashed about in such a way that they narrowly escaped a collision with each one. Patrolman Meyers stood at the Central avenue corner and shouted to Harris to turn into the side street but he ignored the call and kept on.

At the next block Second street the rig was zig-zagging across the road when the hook-and-ladder truck from headquarters approached and the driver, Joseph Clark, had to apply his brake to avoid striking it. Harris turned his team to the right at the same time and collided with a coal wagon standing near the curb. The Harris rig was overturned and but for quick work on the part of Tillerman Mehl the rear wheels of the fire truck would have passed over Mrs. Harris. She was thrown to the middle of the street and was stunned for the time being. She was carried to a nearby house and revived. The horses attempted to run away after the upset but were caught by bystanders.

Harris was arrested by Patrolman Meyers and taken to headquarters, where he was later released for appearance today. He informed Judge Runyon that it was impossible for him to keep the team under control because of the clanging of bells and that he was doing his best to quiet them when the collision occurred. The magistrate decided not to fine on his explanation but held him at fault for not turning into Central avenue out of the way of the apparatus when the policeman called to him. He advised him to let the affair be a warning to him in the future.

"It will be a lesson to me, your honor," said Harris with a smile, "but from now on the team is for sale."

LARGE GATHERING AT MRS. LOIZEAUX'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Paul J. Loizeaux was held at her late home on Brook avenue at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. There were two impressive addresses, one by James F. Parker, of this city, and the other by George McKenzie, of Orange, both of whom knew Mrs. Loizeaux and could speak of her beautiful life and character. They referred to her exemplary and devoted Christian life, especially in the home.

During the service two hymns were sung by those present, "We Are By Christ Reclaimed," and "Forever With the Lord," and deep, earnest prayers were offered by F. C. Jennings and J. D. Loizeaux. The character of the whole service seemed to reflect the beautiful life of the departed, which had left such a deep impression upon those closely associated with her. There were beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers were Timothy Loizeaux, J. D. Loizeaux; James F. Parker and Dr. Edward Rushmore, of this city; C. Jouard and A. Eberhard, of New York.

CHANGE LIKELY IN BOROUGH FIRE CHIEFSHIP.

Incident to the change in the Borough Council which will take place January 1, when W. L. Smalley, Jr., and Julius J. Stahl, members-elect, will take their seats, is a rumor that there will be some changes in the appointive offices of the borough. Among the changes that are reported likely is that of the chief of the fire department, which position is now held by Howard Woolston.

It is understood that his place will be taken by William Campbell, who was formerly lieutenant of the department. In counting up those who would be favorable to a change, it is said that there will be sufficient votes in the Council to appoint Mr. Campbell. One reason given for the change is the desire on the part of the governing body to have a man in the position who lives near headquarters and the friends of Mr. Campbell declare that he is in every way fitted for the job.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FRANK ALLEN POPE

Following an illness of nine days from a complication of troubles, Frank Allen Pope, of Park avenue, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at 5:30 in his apartment at the Hotel Empire, Broadway and Sixty-third street, New York. A blood clot on the brain was directly responsible for his demise.

Mr. Pope recently closed his Plainfield home for the winter and was living at the Empire while preparing to go to Daytona, Fla. When his illness first began it was not thought to be anything serious but he continued to grow worse and Dr. Lambert, President Roosevelt's physician, was called to attend him. He was resting easily Saturday afternoon when the blood clot formed and he died almost immediately. His wife and the physician were present at the time.

Mr. Pope was in his forty-seventh year, and was the son of the late Elias R. and Hannah A. Pope, being the last surviving member of the family. He took an active part in civic affairs. He is survived by his wife and one son, Frank Pope.

WILLIAM V. MUNDY STRICKEN BY DEATH

William V. Mundy, one of the best known local citizens, died at his home on Duer street, at 11 o'clock Monday morning, following an illness that had detained him at home for several weeks, and which became more critical with the rupture of a blood vessel near the heart. During the past few days he had been rapidly growing worse and it was known that his death was only a matter of a short time.

About a year ago Mr. Mundy was obliged to undergo the amputation of a leg, gangrene having developed as the result of an injury in getting off a trolley car a long time previous to that. The operation was a success and, in the course of time Mr. Mundy was able to get about town with the aid of crutches. He purchased a wooden leg and was quite hopeful that he would eventually become well and strong again. A few weeks ago complications developed and Mr. Mundy was obliged to take to his bed again. From that time he grew weaker and failed to respond to the treatment given.

Mr. Mundy was sixty-seven years old, a native of Plainfield and lived here all his life. For a great many years he was the janitor of the Washington Public School at West Fifth and Liberty streets, and later he resigned that position to devote all his time to the life and accident insurance business in which he was successful. He represented several leading companies. During his illness his grandson, William Mundy, was placed in charge. Mr. Mundy was of a happy genial disposition and by a facility for making friends. He is survived by a wife, a daughter, Mrs. Emma Darling, and a son, Frank Mundy, besides several grandchildren.

JOB E. HEDGES NAMED AS U.S. ASST. TREASURER

Job E. Hedges, well known in this city, who has just been appointed Assistant Treasurer of the United States in New York, vice Hamilton Fish, who resigned to run for Congress, is 46 years old. He was born in Elizabeth, and was graduated from Princeton with the class of '84, and then studied law at Columbia University. He was secretary to Mayor Strong of New York, in 1895-97, and was appointed a City Magistrate in May of the latter year. He resigned that office six months later and served as Deputy Attorney General in 1900. Mr. Hedges did much campaigning with Gov. Hughes and Judge Taft this year.

He is a member of the Republican University, Princeton, and Union League Clubs, and of the State and City Bar Associations.

$50 A MONTH FOR LIFE.

How would you like $50 a month for life to come to you twenty years from today and to come in regular monthly checks?

That is exactly what you can have through the New Monthly Income Policy issued by the Prudential when issued on the Endowment plan. Every man likes to feel certain in his later years, when he may have to stop work, there is something left for him something coming in, and that he will not have to worry about it coming regularly.

Write to day—now, while you think of it—to the Home Office of The Prudential, Newark, N. J., and ask for one of the most interesting books on life insurance ever written.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY

Forty-First Year of its Organization Observed by the Local Churches.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS IN PULPITS.

Dr. Josiah Strong Gives an Interesting Talk at the Men's Meeting in the Association Hall.

In commemoration of the forty-first anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association, which is being celebrated throughout the country, appropriate talks were given in the various local Protestant churches Sunday.

At the Y. M. C. A. hall, Dr. Josiah Strong, of New York, addressed the men's meeting in the afternoon. In congratulating the association on its career, he decided that no one could estimate the value of the forty-one years of service of the association; that the great changes of civilization had most occurred during those years and it was with special fitness that the "problem of the city" be discussed at this time. He had chosen for his subject, "The Challenge of the City."

Believing this to be the supreme transitional period of the world, wherein the city, with its magic growth is soon to be the dominating power of the nation, the great question of the world, therefore, he believed, is the "problem of the city."

Men are loath to recognize that the growth of the city is to endure, said he, because they do not recognize the causes, which more due partly to the enormous demand for labor in the factories which are flocking to the cities, and to the building of railways which makes easy the transportation of produce to the city where the demand is greatest. Cities had not grown so large in the past because there was not sufficient facilities for providing food to the residents.

Dr. Strong said it was useless to try to stop the growth of cities. Those who would have "back to the farm," might just as well say, "back to the eighteenth century." If they took a million from the city, there would be another million enter the city from the country to take their places, so it would not be one step towards solving the problem.

The wealth of the nation is in the city, he said, and wealth is omnipotent. The press is a great moulder of public opinion and a big influence, and the press is located in the cities. Therefore the city with the wealth and the press holds the sceptre.

He did not consider the city, with its crime and corruption in politics, as at present, fit to dominate civilization, but the citizens should properly govern themselves, then the city would be properly governed, and the influence spread to the nation.

Dr. Leonard Waldro rendered Schubert's "Hymn to the Virgin," and Handel's "Largo," on the cello, accompanied by Dr. J. H. Buchanan, on the piano.

Dr. Walter L. Hervey, of New York, speaking at the First M. E. church in the morning, gave a comprehensive presentation of the work of the association. "Its strength," he said, "lays in the fact that it presents a concrete appeal to young men such as night schools, with their

He declared that the best way to help the young man to rid himself of bad habits is to help him to form good habits, and commended the association to business men, saying that the business men's order for competent help was constantly being filled with men who are both trained and trustworthy.

At Trinity Reformed church last night, Rev. E. P. Johnson, D. D., delivered a vigorous and forceful address on "Coming to the Young Man," taking for his text, "Run, Speak to This Young Man."—Zach 2:4.

"We are to be God's messengers," he said, "and as His messengers we should caution the young man whom we see going to ruin. We are told of the joy of Jesus, God's beloved son, in being His father's messenger, and emphasized the fact that we as Christ's messengers should be willing to do His bidding. The noble work of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. were commended by the speaker.

Charles B. Batcheior, Boys' Work director of the association, filled the pulpit at Grace M. E. church at the night service and gave an interesting talk on the origin of the Y. M. C. A. and its purpose as declared in the first statement.

He showed that the classes of men reached comprise clerks, artisans and all sorts of young men in the city and boys from the country. All of the great colleges of the country have branches of the association and fifty per cent of the college men are engaged in Bible study, he said. There are also branches for sailors in ports, soldiers in barracks, shopworkers, miners, besides the great railroad organization and an elaborate system on the canal zone.

In concluding his address the speaker announced that the association in Plainfield seeks to do something for every boy in the city and to enlist every boy possible with the great object in view of raising the standard among boys.

MISS EDITH GALPIN BECOMES MRS. PIERSON

Several persons from this city took prominent parts in the wedding Friday night in the Second Reformed church, Somerville, of Miss Edith Galpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fox Galpin, and Dr. H. Morton Pierson, of Roselle. The ushers were H. W. Shaneon, of this city; Richard D. Floyd and Charles F. Patterson, of Boston; Louis H. Compson and Albert Richardson, of Roselle, and S. Judson Galpin, brother of the bride. The bride's attendants were Miss Elizabeth Dodd, Miss Elizabeth Vanderveer, Miss Mabel Case and Miss Helen Nevins, of Somerville; Miss Elizabeth Galpin, sister of the bride, and Miss Marguerite Pierson, sister of the bridegroom.

The best man was George W. Rowlins, of Roselle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Edward Griffen Read, of this city, assisted by Rev. Dr. Blaubelt, of Roselle.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding supper was served. A number of people from this city were among the guests.

M'NAMARA SENTENCED TO SERVE NINE MONTHS

Letter-carrier Daniel McNamara, of the local postoffice, who was found guilty of removing letters from the Plainfield postoffice and delaying the mails was Monday morning sentenced by Judge Lanning, in Trenton, to serve nine months in the Essex county penetentiary at Caldwell. Notice of appeal was filed at once by John P. Owens, of counsel for Mr. McNamara, and the appeal will be made in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. Pending a decision, the prisoner was released in $2,000 bail, furnished by his counsel's father.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Lanning took occasion to severely reprimand Mr. McNamara for what he did, reciting briefly in detail the charge and the fact that he had been found guilty of it. He said that all sentences of one year or over provide that the prisoner serve his time in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., but after a review of the evidence, he had decided to impose a sentence of nine months, the same to be served in the Essex county penetentiary.

When sentence was given, Mr. McNamara was accompanied by his counsel, while the Government was represented by its attorney, who had prosecuted the letter-carrier. It seemed to be the impression in court that the Court of Appeals would not reverse the sentence. To a representative of The Daily Press Mr. McNamara expressed some surprise over the sentence, considering it very light. He thought it would be between two and three years.

RISE AND FALL OF C. W. MOORE FROM PEANUT VENDOR TO WIZARD OF FINANCE AND JAIL.

Began his business life as a "candy butcher" and peanut vendor.

At height of his career his fortune was estimated at $20,000,000.

When the crash came this fortune was swept away and he was in debt $3,400,000.

Corporations he once controlled had capital and resources of $3,5.,000,000.

Practically owned a chain of 12 banks and trust companies and three insurance companies.

Had dominant interest in 17 other corporations including ice trusts and New England steamship combination.

Was a director in 26 corporations.

Could have been sentenced to 339 years' imprisonment on conviction of 53 violations of the national banking law.

Now he has been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment.

MISS HELEN WEINBERGER BRIDE OF NEW YORK MAN.

The marriage of Miss Helen Sadie Weinberger, of Plainfield, to Max Perlstine, of New York, took place Sunday afternoon at 5:30 at Temple Beth Israel, New York city. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Max Weinberger, of Prospect place. The bridesmaids were: Misses Nettie Newcorn, of Plainfield; Lillian Grauwald, of Boston; Jennie Cohan, Lillian Cohn, Minnie Hahn and Virginia Perlstine, of New York. Miss Charlotte Perlstine, of New York, was maid of honor.

Morris Milan, of New York, acted as best man. The bride was given away by her uncle, L. Weiss, of New York. A wedding reception was held in the Assembly room of the Plaza Hotel immediately following the ceremony.

A Subtle Hint.

"Jimmy, your face is dirty again this morning," exclaimed the teacher. "What would you say if I came to school every day with a dirty face?"

"Huh," grunted Jimmy, "I'd be too perlite to say anything."—The Circle.

INSTALLATION DATE FOR REV. JOHN Y. BROEK

Arrangements were made at a special meeting of the Classis of Newark, at Newark, on Saturday for the installation of Trinity Reformed church's pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek.

The service will take place Monday evening, November 23. The President of the Classis, Rev. A. Peter Tulp, will preside at the installation. Rev. Albertus Broek, brother of Rev. John Y. Broek, will preach the sermon at the installation. Rev. Dr. Vance will deliver the charge to the new pastor and Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, who has been acting pastor, will charge the congregation.

Rev. Henry Merle Mellen was elected by the Classis as secundis to Rev. Albertus Broek; Rev. Stuart Nye Hutchinson as secundis to Rev. Dr. Vance and Rev. William W. Giles as secundis to Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson. Elder Robert Clark, Jr., was appointed by the president of the Classis to read the consistorial notices before the installation.

Rev. Mr. Broek's resignation from the Classis of Monmouth was read and filed, and after his acceptance of a call to Trinity was announced by him he was elected a member of the Newark Classis. Rev. Dr. Vance in the name of the Classis extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Broek. Trinity was represented at the Classis by Rev. Mr. Broek, elders Robert Clark, Jr., H. J. Martin and A. L. Force.

FRED ENDRESS BUYS THE JACKSON BUILDING

Probably one of the most important realty deals in business property that has been transacted here in a long time was just been closed whereby Fred Endress becomes the owner of the Jackson building at West Front street and Madison avenue and also the old First M. E church parsonage in the rear on Madison avenue. The contract has been signed and it is expected that the deed will be passed within a couple of weeks.

Leifke & Laing, real estate brokers, have been the agents for this property, which was owned by James W. Jackson, of Crescent avenue, and that firm, together with Charles L. Lyman, another real estate broker, who has consummated many big deals, negotiated this one. While the purchase price is not known, it is said that Mr. Endress gave close to $70,000 for the two properties.

There will probably be no change in the Jackson building, but the residence property in the rear will undoubtedly be changed considerably with the idea of making it a modern building. During the past few months there have been many rumors concerning the sale of the Jackson building, two or three different parties being reported as having bought it.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB HOLDS ITS WEEKLY CHASE.

The Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed its weekly chase after the hounds Saturday afternoon, starting at 3:15 o'clock from Dog Tavern and continuing to Lambert Mills, to Westfield, back to the Field End, covering a distance of nearly nine miles. The going was good, except in a few places, where it was a little soft and some difficult ditches were encountered. There were but few spills, but none of them were serious. All were able to continue the ride.

Those who joined the party were Lewis E. Waring, Charles W. Fisk, C. F. Wildey, R. C. Finch, C. E. S. Bellows, H. C. Eckeson, Miss Gertrude Noe, Fred Bull, Graydon Maynard and Chris. Camins. Wednesday morning at 6:30, the members will meet at the kennels for another hunt.

Enjoy Sight-Seeing Trip.

Sixteen members of the Y. W. C. A. enjoyed a sight-seeing trip to New York and had a fine time Saturday. Through the courtesy of School Commissioner E. M. Cave, of East Front street, and D. K. Young, also of this city, the party was able to visit both the New York and Consolidated Stock Exchanges, which is unfortunate in being at the New York Stock Exchange during the opening hours on a busy day. Other points of interest were the North-German-Lloyd steamship liner Kaiser Wilhelm II and the New York World building.

Will Celebrate Anniversary.

The prayer-meeting committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is making elaborate preparations for the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the society on Friday night, November 27. One of the principal features of the program will be an address by Rev. Dr. W. T. Lumbar, a prominent Baptist clergyman of Newark. There will also be a musical program.

'Tis true that fish are found in schools,
Though far from being booky;
And that is why the little fools
Are caught when they play hooky.

ROMANCE IN AUSTRIA CULMINATES IN WEDDING

The marriage of Morris Rosenbaum, of this city, and Miss Sadie Rosenbaum, of New York, took place Sunday at 6:30 at the Synagogue of the Children of Israel, in this city, Rabbi Rottman officiating. The bride was given away by her uncle, K. Rottberg. Misses Rose Rottberg and Esther Wolf were the bridesmaids and Miss Rose Selger maid of honor. Samuel Rottberg acted as best man, and the ushers were Samuel Rosenbaum and Henry Rosenbaum.

The bridal gown was a lace robe over white silk, and a white tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. After the ceremony a reception, attended by a large number of friends and relatives, was held in the Dancing Academy hall. Among the presents was a mahogany piano, presented by the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

The wedding is the outcome of a romance which had its beginning in Austria several years ago, when the bride of today was a pupil in a class taught by Mr. Rosenbaum, the groom.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Concert.

A concert to be given in Y. M. C. A. hall on the night of December 8, is being arranged by the association's orchestra. Miss Florence Austin, of New York, violin virtuoso, will be the soloist.

WITH RAPID FLIGHT

FATHER TIME KEEPS STEADILY ON HIS WAY.

Too Slowly in Youth and Too Swiftly as Age Approaches, the Years Pass Onward Until the Appointed End.

"The eagle and the condor can certainly fly some, but," said the man with frost in his hair, "they don't begin to be in it with steady going time.

"You see, the eagle and the condor have to rest once in a while, while time keeps a-plugging right along—there's something uncanny about the flight of time.

"And not only does it keep going so, but as we grow older it seems all the time to be speeding up; going faster and faster. You know how when we were young the days seemed long and the seasons interminable and the years without end? While now the mornings come and go and the weeks fly by and the years we count with little halt between, they go so fast; and what with my increasing years and the seeming quicker flight of time as we grow older I find myself now, for the first time in my life, in sight of the end; and this is a new and serious awakening and an impressive sensation.

"You see, when we are young, still on the upward slope of life, not yet to the top of the hill, the whole world seems to rise to meet us and we advance to greet it joyfully; and then when at middle life we get to the top of the hill it spreads out all around us, and of the end we never think; but as we go down the other slope there comes, as I find there has come gently to me now, a time when we realize that our prospect is gradually but surely narrowing.

"To be sure we give ourselves every year we can; we are going to be long lived; not cut off at 70 or 80 or 90. We are going to live to be a hundred anyway, as we do not doubt; but even so we have passed the summit, we have lived the greater number of our years, and we are drawing now on the steadily diminishing remainder; and when that idea once strikes you squarely so that you take it in it gives you something to think about.

"But not to worry over, not the least little bit. You still have your work to do, haven't you? Why, sure, and you find in it and in every breath you draw a greater joy than ever. Life is mellower and riper and fuller of happiness. You don't waste time worrying over trifling things. You come to have wings of your own now too, on which you mount to take a wider survey, to see with a clearer vision, and you come back to your own corner with a contentment you never had before, a kinder charity.

"Life is pleasant on this slope, very pleasant; but I do wish I could invent some sort of brake to check the flight of time. Talk about eagles and condors! They are not in it for flying with time!"

Couldn't Scare Them.

A Denver man who rents his motor car by the trip or hour was seated in the machine with a friend, waiting for business, on a downtown corner the other afternoon, when a young couple from the country came up. It was plain to be seen they were bride and groom. The young man from the country said they had just arrived from central Kansas and wanted to see Denver. He arranged for the motor car man to take them for an hour's trip and paid the charges in advance. The country couple took the back seat. The driver's friend sat in the front seat with him.

"I'm going to have some fun," said the driver in a low tone to his friend. "I'm going to run fast and scare those hayseeds."

He ran to the east edge of town and then let the machine out to the limit. It zoomed and jumped till the driver's friend became alarmed.

"Say," he said, "you'd better ease up on it or you'll kill us all."

"Look around and see if the bride and groom are scared," was the reply.

Before the other man could turn and look the Kansas farmer touched the driver on the shoulder.

"Hey, feller," he said, "here's another dollar. Make her run fast, will you?"—Denver Post.

Keeping Account.

Congressman Champ Clark has a story of a Kansas City lawyer, lately deceased, which illustrates the difficulties of achieving a saving sense of economy.

It had occurred to the lawyer shortly before his death to buy a memorandum book wherein he would jot down the items of his daily expenditure, thus enabling him to compare notes from day to day, and so learn to regulate his disbursements.

The book was bought, and after the lawyer's death, his executors, going over his effects, came across it. One of them, interested to ascertain how far his friend had been successful in regulating his expenses, opened the book, only to find themselves the sole items:

"To one memorandum book, 25 cents."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Kindness and Cheerfulness.

Kindness is contagious. The spirit of harmony trickles down by a thousand secret channels into the inmost recesses of the household life. It is hard to be angry in the presence of imperturbable good nature. It is well-nigh impossible to be morose in the face of a cheerful and generous helpfulness.—Henry Van Dyke.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

Freedom is like blue roses; there is no such thing.

The talk of a good many people sounds as if they had begun in the middle.

Just because a man sometimes wants to do as he pleases there are those who think he wants to do something terrible.

You are always hearing of the beauty of women. Women are not so beautiful, after all; it is the gentleness, patience and kindness of women that is most attractive.

Every time things go wrong with us we think of the luck of the wolf. Although every man's hand is against him, a wolf gets along pretty well. Think of the luck a wolf must have to merely live!—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

STICK TO THE THING YOU KNOW

Don't forget the toil, the thought, the planning you have invested in the business you have mastered.

Don't lose sight of the safety—the certainty—that the work in hand affords you.

Don't let rosy visions of opportunities afar blind your eyes to surer opportunities close at hand.

Don't forsake the duties of to-day for difficulties that may swamp you.

Stick to the thing you know!—System.

MUSINGS OF THE PHILOSOPHER.

It costs a lot to be popular.

The good die young, especially good resolutions.

Only the rich have more friends than they need.

Philanthropy generally draws the line at its poor relations.

The uppercrust of society depends on the dough underneath.

The fellow with money to burn never has any insurance on it.

It frequently happens that the janitor isn't the one who cleans out the bank.

When a woman says "there's no use talking," it merely means that she wants to do it all herself.

There are few times in a man's life when he feels of less importance than at his own wedding.

When a young man has the reputation of being weak-kneed the girls shouldn't try to sit on him.

Some men who believe in making the most of their opportunities unfortunately regard every other man as an opportunity.

WITH THE SAGES.

Great minds have wills; feeble ones have wishes.—Calvin.

If thou prohibit a thing for others look to thyself first.—Confucius.

Glorious it is to wear the crown of deserved and pure success.—Huxley.

Great works are performed, not by great strength, but by perseverance.—Cliner.

If a man is to go higher he will show it by being faithful where he is.—Boecher.

It costs us more to be miserable than it would to be perfectly happy.—Bunshon.

Learning without thought is a snare; thought without learning is a danger.—Confucius.

Without thought there can be nothing done that can be truly called work.—Edison.

He is never without dignity who avoids wounding the dignity of others.—Lord Lytton.

The song of sympathy never comes until the singer has been to the school of sorrow.—Ritchie.

QUIPS.

An excellent way to get rid of duns is to pay up.

He makes a great mistake who believes he never makes them.

Why does everybody call the bad part of the world "they" and the good part "we?"

No husband is really well trained so long as he dares to say in public that he hates to push a baby coach.

Why is it that the only time the newspapers spell a man's name right is when he is arrested for street fighting?

Some actors are so charitable that even when running down their rivals they don't believe what they say themselves.

The superstitious claim that when you see a pretty girl petting a rich widower's children it is a sign there is going to be a wedding in the neighborhood.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 15, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Temperance meeting. A study of temperance organizations.—Jer. xxxv. 1-19.

The temperance question is one of the most absorbing ones of the present day. The fight is on, and the temperance cause up to date has won glorious success, over one-half of the United States now being under prohibition or local option. With such signal success the movement must be pushed all the harder by every one interested in ridding our country of its greatest curse—intemperance. The trouble with reforms usually is that the reformers gradually become tired of their work, and the old order of things soon prevails. It has already been predicted that the temperance agitation has about reached its height and will soon subside. But such prophecies should be doomed to failure. With success at hand, no individual worker, no organization, should abate by jot or tittle the most strenuous efforts to completely overthrow this gigantic evil. It has been said that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." It is just as true in this case as concerning liberty. Only eternal vigilance can put down the saloon and keep it down, and thus practically win a complete victory for temperance and sobriety in our land.

The curse of the saloon and its debauching influences have long been recognized, and there have been temperance societies and organizations for centuries past. A study of these organizations should inspire us to increase our efforts to put down the rum traffic. The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Manual has the following excellent description of "the temperance organizations:"

The Independent Order of Rechabites was established in 1835 in Salford, England, in imitation of the ancient children of Jonadab. It not only requires total abstinence, but it provides a fund for sickness and death.

The National Temperance society had its origin in a convention held in 1865 at Saratoga. It publishes temperance periodicals for young people and adults and a very large number of temperance books and tracts.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union has been called "the sober second thought" of the wonderful woman's crusade of December, 1873, and the first half of 1874. The organization was effected in a convention held at Cleveland in November of 1874. It now has branches for the young women and the children and has extended everywhere, exerting an enormous influence for good. It has departments for the spread of temperance education, social purity and many other noble causes.

The Independent Order of Good Templars, originating in 1851, found a national organization in May, 1855. In it, unrestricted by color, it admits women on an equality with men. Its pledge requires lifelong total abstinence.

The Prohibition party, after many state campaigns, participated first in a national campaign in connection in 1872. Its candidates have been Black, Smith, Dow, St. John, Fisk, Bidwell, Leverling, Woolley and Swallow. It holds that intemperance is a national issue, not to be settled by local efforts.

The Anti-Saloon League arose in 1842 from the famous Washingtonian movement. It is a total abstinence association with charitable and benefit features.

The Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America was founded on Washington's birthday, 1872, in Baltimore, and it is doing a fine and aggressive work.

The first Band of Hope was formed in Leeds, England, in 1847, and it soon became a popular name for temperance organization, especially among the young.

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. x, 9, 10; Isa. v, 11; Joel i, 5; Num. vi, 1-14; Deut. xxii, 18-21; Nah. i, 10; I Cor. vi, 10; Gal. v, 19-26; Eph. v, 18; I Pet. iv, 1-5.

Our Pledge.

"Relying on the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation"—how grateful these words must be to our Master, Christ, as they are said week by week by hundreds of thousands of young lips! It seems as though there is murmur of such words always rising from the world like sweet incense which must do something to counterbalance the coarse sounds of blasphemy and rejection. At times, of course, the murmur becomes a great shout when a convention of Christian Endeavorers gathers in tens of thousands. But probably there is not a single minute in any part of the twenty-four hours in which some voice or voices are not professing reliance on the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation. Personally I greatly rejoice in the distinction which is made between reliance on Christ for salvation and the trust for daily strength to live a godly and righteous life. Salvation deals with our deliverance from the power of sin which would hinder our fellowship with God, while trust for daily strength looks toward the positive side of Christian living, in virtue of which we are able to do great exploits for God in the world.—Rev. F. B. Meyer, B. A., in Irish Endeavorer.

Keystone State Endeavor.

Pennsylvania now has 3,141 Christian Endeavor societies, a net increase of twenty-six societies during the past year.

Triumph Is Sure.

Though the difficulties throng
And the struggle may be long
And the power of evil strong,
Hope on.
For to patient, brave Endeavor
Cometh utter failure never,
And the crown at last forever
Shall be won.

—Alabama Citizen.

KING'S DAUGHTERS SALE FOR NURSERY.

The Loyal Daughters' Circle, of The King's Daughters, held a successful luncheon and sale at the Plainfield Country Club, Friday afternoon, the affair being attended by nearly one hundred members and friends. Covers for the luncheon were laid for ninety guests. Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, as president of the Circle, and Mrs. E. E. Iremonger and Mrs. H. C. Deknatel, as chairmen of arrangements, were in charge of the affair.

The hostesses in charge of the various tables during the luncheon were as follows: Mrs. H. C. Deknatel, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, Mrs. R. A. Perrine, Mrs. W. H. Freeman, Mrs. A. B. Davies, Mrs. J. D. Phillips, Mrs. Christy Hamilton, Mrs. H. F. Avery, Mrs. Wilfred Ransome, Mrs. W. H. Cooke, Mrs. Theodore D. Wilson, Mrs. W. M. Alling, Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, Mrs. Alexander Grossett and Mrs. H. K. Tetsuka.

Those in charge of the sale of candy were Mrs. W. L. Lockwood, Mrs. W. W. Coriell, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, while those at the apron table were Mrs. S. H. Patterson, Mrs. H. F. Avery, Mrs. Wilfred Ransome, Mrs. Theodore D. Wilson and Mrs. W. M. Alling.

The sale was patronized liberally by those present and it is believed that the Circle will net nearly $100 from the affair, which amount goes toward supporting the city nurse and the Day Nursery.

Following the luncheon and sale, many of those remained for the rest of the afternoon to enjoy a game of bridge whist.

FOR A BRIDE-TO-BE.

No garment this season shows a more becoming pattern for a wedding gown than one made in the directoire style. Such a frock was recently seen made of white satin, with the slashed seam showing pleated white tulle. The round lace yoke and high collar was outlined with a round lace bertha, slightly fulled to drape around the shoulders. A rosette of soft white satin, with pendant satin ornaments, decorated the bodice at the middle front of the bertha. The same ornamentation headed the slashed seam. The sleeves, while long, were slightly wrinkled from the shoulder to the wrist, with no trimming. This plain gown was worn with a plain wedding veil, hemmed on three sides. The matron of honor wore pale corn-colored meteor, low neck, long sleeves, lace bertha. The hair was dressed low and decorated with pink satin ribbons.

An Honest Test.

A young man in quest of a situation entered the apartment of a high bank officer and made know his errand.

"Well," kindly said the captain of finance, "there's an opening in the bank for the right young man, and there have been several applicants for it already. Are you energetic and willing to learn?"

"Try me, sir."

"That's good for a starter. Do you gamble?"

"No, sir. I have a mother to support and can't risk my earnings that way."

"Ahem. Now"—here the great man squared himself before his applicant in indication that the most important question was to come—"Do you ever go fishing?"

"Yes, sir," replied the young man without hesitation. "Wash fishing yesterday."

"Ah! and what kind of a catch did you make?"

"Only one little perch," smiled he.

"Good! You're the young man I've been seeking. All the others answered up all right until I put that last question; then the yllied!"—Exchange.

Cookies for Place Cards.

At a party given for a little girl of eight years the place cards were made with cookies covered with white icing and the names were written on each with red sugar. The sugar was melted and a fine brush was used to write the names. These name cakes proved a happy surprise to the little folks.

Old Man Interested.

Jack—Does Miss Peachly's father look with favor on your suit?

Tom—I think so. Only last night he asked me for the address of my tailor.—Chicago News.

WORKING IN HARMONY WITH NEW JERSEY'S DEVELOPMENT

Every business centre or locality may refer with pardonable pride to particular institutions, that have been conspicuous factors in lines of development and advancement, especially when they connected with the material development of a community. The organization of great financial institutions and their proper management calls for the highest form of administrative ability and those institutions, which possess this, are entitled to the greatest consideration.

Just such an organization as this is the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, N. J., an institution combining in itself the most desirable features an establishment of that nature can possess. The Fidelity Trust Company might be termed, "A financial department store," for it includes a banking department, for commercial purposes and domestic uses as well, a savings department, administered in a little department, for the searching and guaranteeing of titles to real estate all through the State of New Jersey, and a safe deposit department, for the general purposes to which such a branch of the business would naturally be put.

It has always been the especial business of the Fidelity Trust Company to work within a local zone, that is to say, the object has always been to conduct its affairs for the service of corporations, firms or individuals in and around Newark and in northern and central New Jersey. No other part of the country is increasing more rapidly in a solid way than this section of New Jersey.

There can be no doubt that there is a commercial and residential future for northern and central New Jersey, which no one could possibly have dreamed of twenty years ago. The railroads have been alert to this evolution and its advantages by making increased transportation facilities between these sections and New York city a marked factor in their modern improvements. It is not surprising therefore that an institution, which has associated itself with this wonderful advancement in the manner that has been characteristic with the Fidelity Trust Company, should show the signal development that has distinguished this organization.

FEATHERS FOR TRIMMING.

Fancy feathers are a popular trimming, and the styles are legion, from the broad bandreau of great height, covering the entire crown of the hat, to the smallest quill effect. Some of the bandeaux stand upright, while others have the feathers of which they are made lying flat down upon the brim of the hat. Pocahontas effects are now being produced many are made of various sorts of plumage, and in many combinations. Some of these are bound with satin or silk, and edged with soutache, and are ornamented with buttons and cabochons made of textile materials, or with metallic ornaments.

Broad wings of all kinds and descriptions are not only popular for side trimmings, but also for forming bandeaux.

Pompoms are much larger than last year; they are made of various kinds of feather plumage, and are used in solid colors or in combinations, and take the place of the ribbon bow of last season.

Some of the Pocahontas effects are being produced of ostrich feathers, of quills and of gourah, and if the consumer "has the price" they can be aigrette or paradise.

WHITMORE NOT GUILTY.

Theodore S. Whitmore, the Brooklyn motorman, was acquitted last evening in the Hudson County Court of Oyer and Terminer, at Jersey City of the murder of Lena, his wife.

The jury retired a few minutes before 5 o'clock, and came to an agreement in an hour. When Foreman Henry Mandeville announced that it was "Not guilty" Whitmore briskly stepped forward, embraced his counsel, Alexander Simpson, kissed him on the cheek and showed great emotion.

After the formalities of dismissal Whitmore, suffering from the reaction, and exclaimed: "They have taken everything from me, and I go out a pauper." His father and brother quieted him.

Lena Whitmore was lured to the Lamp Black Swamp, at Harrison, on the night of last Christmas, rendered helpless by a blow on the head and buried down an embankment into a tidewater pool, and was drowned. Whitmore was tried once before for the crime, the jury disagreeing.

Something for Lunch.

If a woman lives at home and finds that her digestion is not doing its best there are delicious dishes made of nourishing ingredients that are said to serve for a whole meal.

Mrs. Rorer strongly advocates the following dish: Boiled rice mixed with an equal quantity of chopped nuts, a hard-boiled egg chopped fine and a very little seasoning, salt and onion juice.

This is mixed thoroughly, put into a baking dish, covered with a half pint of milk and baked until tender. Serve with a meat sauce.

COUNTY AGRICULTURISTS HOLD FIRST FALL MEETING.

The Union County Board of Agriculture held its first meeting for the fall and winter Thursday in the court-house, and as an opening meeting the attendance was large. The meeting was held for the purpose of outlining and formulating plans for the coming campaign, which promises to be a year of activity and results.

Considerable time was spent in discussing the question of holding sectional and agricultural branches throughout the county schools, which will be submitted to the various Boards of Education for their approval. If the plan meets with success a series of prizes will be offered for the best individual work and for the best work conducted exclusively by a school. The board also decided to attend the meeting of the general institutes held yearly at Summit and Plainfield. A delegation will also be appointed to attend the farmers' institute, which the latter was held under consideration by that body, awaiting later action. After a further discussion of matters in general, pertaining to the farming interests of the county, the meeting adjourned.

DEMOCRATS GAIN TWELVE IN NATION'S CONGRESS.

Final returns received at the headquarters of the Republican Congressional committee in New York show that the Republican party will control the House of Representatives in the Sixty-first Congress by a majority of forty-five, as compared with fifty-seven in the present House, a falling off of twelve Republican members. The House in the Sixty-first Congress will be comprised of 218 Republicans and 173 Democrats.

The States that have returned solid Republican delegations to the House are California, Connecticut, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington West Virginia and Wyoming.

Solid Democratic delegations were elected in the following States: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi Nevada, South Carolina and Texas.

One of the surprises of the Congress campaign was furnished by the State of North Carolina, which will have three Republican members in the lower branch of the Sixty-first Congress. Two Republican candidates were successful in Virginia. The delegation from that State is at present solidly Democratic. The latest figures indicate that eleven Democrats and two Republicans were elected in Indiana, and two Republicans and three Democrats in Nebraska. New York's representation in the next House will stand at present, twenty-two Republicans and eleven Democrats. Contrary to early reports, eight Republican members were elected in California.

Funeral of Samuel D. V. Burr.

The funeral of Samuel De Vere Burr, who died Wednesday night, was held at his late residence, on Central avenue, Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring officiating. Interment took place at Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were Lemuel, Ebenezer and Levi Hart, brothers of Mrs. Burr, Dr. Henry H. Cowrie, Andrew Gaiett and Edward Pond.

Conaway Coats.

Side by side with the cutaway coat, which promises to be slightly longer than was the case in early summer, is the directoire model, which will probably continue to remain in the good graces of woman on account of its becomingness where a tall and slender figure is concerned.

The coats are usually fastened with the regulation pair of buttons in front, while a great feature is made of the collar, more than one of the newest schemes being supplemented with a high turnover collar of the Napoleonic description, with which is worn a neat cravat of frilled muslin and lace, which comes well up under the ears and is edged at the top and bottom with a full-kilted frill.

Models in which the seams are split up to the waist and drawn together with cords and tassels are more in evidence than ever, while long coats of the redingote model, as well as the fronts are frequently pointed, and a thick satin coat lining will be a sine qua non of all the autumn tailor-mades.

Buttons.

All buttons are now made of the same material as the dress, or to match the revers, collar or their facings. They are large for the coats, but not of such great dimensions when considering the skirts. Large flatt buttons are to be seen on the latest hats. They are made to appear as though fastening the wings or other trimming in place. The effect is very smart and novel.

Gorvd.

Mabel (testing the wisdom of the grown-ups)—Well, how did Martin Luther die?

Uncle Jim—Die? Oh, in the ordinary way, I suppose.

Mabel—Oh, Uncle! you really do not know anything. He was excommunicated by a bull!—The Bull.

NEW USE FOR SATIN.

Satin has come into its own again. Satin is to be the favorite material of the winter. It is to be used for whole frocke, evening wraps and for trimmings.

Wide and narrow pipings will be used on coats both for street and for evening. Even fur coats of black Persian lamb and caracul are shown with these bands of pipings. A heavy satin outlining the fronts, the sleeves and the wide pocket flap.

If one has a black cloth suit that needs freshening it is a very good idea to attain pipings of satin. They give a rich look and show that one knows what is being worn.

Evening gowns made of chiffon or mousseline or the new filet tulle will have pipings from two to six inches wide to outline any of the drapery.

The idea is quite effective when colored satin pipings are used on white or ecru transparent frocks.

One gown for a debutante has white filet tulle which is quite coarse and not perishable, has a tunic and shoulder draperies piped with four inches of light green satin.

The mistake is not made of lining this frock with green. It is dropped over white liberty satin, the edge of which is bound with green.

This latter trick, by the way, is a good touch to remember. Any lining that is light can carry a border of colored satin to correspond with the color scheme of the frock.

It is also a good touch to bind the plaiting on a taffeta undersip with two inches of floss to match the skirt. This keeps the seam wearing out when rubbing over the shoe leather.—Chicago Daily News.

BABY'S PRAYER.

Oh, God—is near the cottage when the evening shadows creep,
And baby lips are murmuring: "I lay me down to s'eep!"
No matter what the distance is where baby says her prayer,
The omnipresent God of Love is always watching there!

Ah, He who quotes then pfkOt .h
Ah, He who notes the sparrow's fall and buoys the robin's flight,
Shall He forget the hour of dusk when baby says good night?
Shall He, a single baby's prayer and baby's laughter purled,
Deny himself the sweetest chord that charms a raptured world?

Ah, God is near when baby pray—
beside her downy bed,
And God will send his angels down to watch above her head—
To guard her through the Sleepy Way, the "bogey" wood of night,
And give her back to mother's arms when Phoebus takes her flight

Ah, now the baby lisps: "Amen!" and mother tucks her snug,
And kisses her, and pats her hair and calls her "mother's bug!"
And then she tiptoes from the room, as evening shadows limn,
And leaves the baby fast in sleep, to angel guards—and Him!

—Byron Williams.

LOVE SONG.

Like a vine around the lattice
You have been through varied fates,
Clinging softly 'round my shoulders
Since the day we two came mates,
When the world was cold and heartless,
Gray and bleak the skies above.
O the warmth of your embraces!
Need I tell you, faithful love?
(Reader, don't get so disgusted,
We're no slighing lovelorn "pote"—
No, indeed, we're just addressing Random lines to last year's coat.)

Announce Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Marguerite Ostrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom, of Albert street, and Ray Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Craig Smith, of this city. Both Miss Ostrom and Mr. Smith have a host of friends here and they are popular in the younger society set. No date has been fixed for the wedding.

Plate Dated 1737.

While making some repairs to an old-fashioned fireplace at Deegan's Hotel, Scotch Plains, a few days ago, an iron bed plate bearing the date 1737 was found. The date in numerals was of old English design and had evidently been there since the hotel was constructed. The plate was in an excellent state of preservation.

Not All Lost.

A young man had been out sailing with his fiancee and got afraid of her. He did not know particularly well the fine points of the art, and on trying to make the landing against a head wind he exclaimed after several vain attempts:

"Well, it is better to have lofted and lost than never to have lofted at all!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Children in Heaven

What about the children in the other world? Will they grow and develop in that world so as to be beyond all our recognition? Longfellow has written these verses regarding the children in the other life:

Not as a child shall we again be hold her,
For when, with raptures wild,
In our embraces, we again enfold
her,
She will not be a child.

But a fair maiden, in her Father's mansion,
Clothed with celestial grace,
And beautiful with all the soul's expansion,
Shall we behold her face.

You say you are not quite sure that you will be perfectly happy in heaven if this beautiful thought with regard to the particular joys of the other world:

"Though the spirts of the just will all be made perfect in heaven, yet we must allow for a relative perfection; a perfection of each in his own order; a perfection not excluding such peculiarities as enter into personal identity; a perfection in a word that admits of degrees. While, therefore, we may think of the state of the prophets, apostles, martyrs, and prominent saints as highest in eminence, we may think of infants as highest in loveliness."

There will then be something about them that will reveal the fact to us, that they are our children, even though they have developed. They will develop along the lines that will make us love them as we loved them on earth. They will make progress, of course, but not at all on the same lines with those who have passed out of the world after years of experience with the world's sin.

They will still be our children, and we shall be perfectly satisfied when we meet them. Heaven gives us this beautiful parable which he entitles "Early Death." Early in the morning a damsel went into the garden to gather for herself a wreath of beautiful roses. She saw before her only buds, closed and half-open, suffused with dew, fresh and fragrant.

"Not yet will I pluck you," said the damsel. "I will wait till the genial sun opens your bosoms, then ye will smile in lovlier tints, and breathe a sweeter odor."

She came again at noon, and beheld! the form had leveled in the open roses; the sun had robbed them, and they looked languid, lifeless, and pale. The maiden wept. The next morning she gathered her flowers early.

"Those children whom God loves best, he gathers early out of this life, before sin amites them,—before its blight touches their hearts. The paradise of children is a high stage of heavenly blessedness. The most righteous adult cannot attain to it, because his spirit has received deep, or stains of sin.

There is something very suggestive in these beautiful words of Herder. Each has his own order and place in that heavenly world. There is a stage of blessedness for children will occupy. The death of little child is like the snow flakes that dissolves in the air before it is touched with a stain of earth. The charm of childhood will never pass away from the children who have entered the heavenly world in infancy. We can think of them developing under angelic instructors, yet with all that development, there will remain the beautiful characteristics of childhood that made them so lovable. Your meeting with them will more than satisfy the longings of your heart, for we shall take to that world, not only our character and our capacity, but our longing. There will come over us no radical change. Our deep seated longings here will be our longings there, and we have the assurance that heaven will not disappoint those longings.

How She Got It.

A little girl was sent by her mother to the grocery store with a jug for a quart of vinegar.

"But, mamma," said the little one, "I can't say that word!"

"But you must try," said the mother, "for I must have vinegar, and there's no one else to send."

So the little girl went with the jug, and, as she reached the counter of the store, she pulled the cork out of the jug with a pop, swung the jug on the counter with a thud, and said to the astonished clerk:

"There! Smell of that, and give me a quart!"—Mother's Magazine.

Bronson—I understand he fainted cobwebs on the ceiling so perfectly that the maid wore herself out trying to sweep them down.

Johnson—There may have been such an artist, but there never was such a housemaid.

ROUTINE SESSION OF THE BOROUGH COUNCIL

Practically all of the business transacted at Friday's meeting of the Borough Council was of a routine nature. Beside Mayor Townsend, Messrs. Nicholson, VanArsdale and Waldron were the only members in attendance and the session was short.

Reporting for the Laws, ordinance and Taxation Committee, Mr. Nicholson said that his attention having been called to the nuisance of burning leaves during the fall, he had written to several cities in New York and New Jersey, for models of ordinances which would cover the matter. He had received several replies, he said, but was not yet in a position to mawe any concrete suggestion. Mayor Townsend advised him by all means to continue in his investigation.

The Mayor announced that he had discovered that the borough officials had no credentials of election and that legally they could not be identified in claiming their seat. He stated that in one sense it is a small matter but it should be attended to and he recommended that the Secretary of State be written to for instructions. His suggestion was voted upon in favor of a resolution.

A communication was received from Hughes & Fawcett stating that the sidewalk in front of their avenue and Orchard place is too low and requested that it be given attention. The matter was referred to the street committee. Recorder Dolliver reported that during the month of October the police had made twenty-eight arrests and that $52.50 in fines had been collected.

The Mayor touched upon the old subject of poor street numbering in the borough and recommended that the street committee take it up in earnest. It will probably be reported upon at the next meeting.

The applications of the estate of William Pangborn to build a frame house on Chatham street, and of John Steinel to extend a porch at the residence at 197 Somerset street were granted. Chairman Waldron reported that all the streets in the borough are being put in shape for the winter months and he was authorized to have a crosswalk laid at Magnolia and Willow avenues.

FOWLER'S APPEAL FOR SPEAKERSHIP SUPPORT

Representative Fowler of the Fifth Congressional district, which embraces Union, Warren and Morris counties, has issued a letter to each Republican member-elect of the Sixty-first Congress:

"Believing, as I do, that there must be some change in the method of bringing forward legislation in the House of Representatives to reflect better the opinion of the whole country, I consent to enter the welfare of all the people, and also to insure the election of a Republican House in 1910 in order that President Taft may be supported throughout his entire term by a Congress working in harmony with him, I am writing you to ask your support of the candidacy for the Speakership of the Sixty-first Congress upon the following platform:

"The House of Representatives shall elect a Board of Managers, consisting of seven members, which shall be charged with the direction of legislation which is now assumed by the Speaker of the House.

"Sincerely hoping that you will agree with me that it is essential that this reform shall be effected now, I remain, very respectfully yours,

"CHARLES N. POWLER."

Mr. Fowler is Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

TAXES ON UTILITIES AGGREGATE $738,714

The State Board of Assessors filed with the State Controller Friday a schedule showing that taxes aggregating $738,714 have been levied for the year 1908 to be paid by the utilities corporations in the state. This is an increase of $119,501 over the corresponding tax of last year.

The heaviest taxes are paid by the traction companies, which are taxed at the rate of 3 per cent on their gross receipts, while the public utilities corporations pay 2 per cent. The traction companies will pay $340,440; gas and electric light companies, $269,963; water supply companies, $51,648; telegraph and telephone companies, $72,848. The remainder of the tax is divided among sewer and oil and pipe line corporations.

Of the total tax Essex County will receive $209,279 and Hudson $167,122.

JAMES SAVORD A SUICIDE

HAD PREMEDITATED THE ACT.

Brooding Over Father's Sickness and Fear of Contracting a Pulmonary Complaint Assigned as the Cause.

Made despondent by the critical illness of his father and believing that he himself had contracted the first stages of a lingering complaint, James Savord, one of the city's best known young men, committed suicide last Monday at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Thomas Strappe, of Richmond street. He ended his life by hanging himself with a tie rope that he had taken from Hedden's stable where he was employed as foreman. One end was wedged behind the hinge of a door and he had suspended himself by an improvised noose, slowly strangling to death while his relatives were on the first floor below, totally unconscious of what was happening. The body was discovered shortly after 6 o'clock by Thomas Strappe, who went to the room to get a lamp. It was quickly taken down and physicians were hastily called but life had been extinct before they were summoned.

Savord was off duty at the Hedden stables Sunday night and went to South Plainfield to see his father who is very low with pneumonia. He was in such a depressed state of mind Monday as the result of the visit that he worked but little throughout the morning and he left the premises at 5 o'clock in the afternoon to go home. His employer, Frank Hedden, noticed him enter the harness room just before he went out and select one of the ordinary tie ropes usually placed in a hired rig but thought nothing of it at the time. He used this rope to make away with himself and it shows that his act was not the result of a sudden determination while at the house.

Although of a naturally jovial disposition, Savord had been more or less melancholy at times for several weeks because of a heavy cold he had contracted and which he thought would lead to something else. He had been to a doctor two or three times and he would be greatly depressed after returning. Two relatives died of a pulmonary complaint and it was always his fear that he would be afflicted the same way. This fact, coupled with his father's illness brought him to the state of mind that caused him to commit suicide.

The young man was the son of Thomas Savord, of South Plainfield, and was born in the village thirty-four years ago. He had always lived in this vicinity and from the time that he became of age had hosts of friends in the city and borough. He entered the employ of the late Albert Hedden nine years ago and had risen to the position of head driver and foreman in the well known livery. His associates had the highest regard for him and he was very popular with the patrons of the stable. He was a member of the Timbo Social Club and several other organizations in Plainfield and South Plainfield.

Beside his father, he is survived by his step-mother and one brother, Thomas Savord, Jr., a half-brother and two half-sisters.

HUSBAND OF GIRL WHO SAVED RAHWAY, DIES.

Leon Lewis Potter, thirty-six years old, of Rahway, and an expert ball-player, died Sunday night in the General Hospital at Elizabeth, after an illness of three weeks, leaving a widow, father, mother and one brother, Raymond Potter.

He was formerly with the underground department of the Edison Electric Works in New York, having been with that concern eighteen years. The first anniversary of his marriage was last Friday. His wife was Miss Margaret Crahan, known as "The Belle that Rang the Bell" to save Rahway from a conflagration a few years ago. To do this she climbed the fire loft of a building. Mr. Potter was well known in Plainfield.

"Spot" Is Dead.

"Spot," the valuable coach dog owned by Floyd T. Woodhull, of West Front street, died a few days ago, following a short but severe attack of heart trouble. The dog, which was a great pet with the family, and the neighbors, was ill but fifteen minutes. Dr. Herbert was called, but by the time he arrived the animal was dead. "Spot" was known all over the city as a constant and faithful companion. He was never known to display a mean trick and he had such a gentle disposition that the smallest child could play with him.

Borough Realty Change.

Wayland E. Benjamin, a prominent lawyer of New York, has purchased the Sandford residential property at Washington avenue and Park place, the borough, and has taken possession. Besides the residence there is nearly an acre of land. The deal was made by Albert Lederer, the real estate broker.

LITIGANTS LET COIN DECIDE THEIR CASE

The toss of a coin decided a case in Judge Wittemore's court at Elizabeth just before it was called for trial Monday. Impatient over the delay in getting the suit heard, a representative of the plaintiff corporation made an offer to the defendant company's agent that the matter be settled without any further "red tape."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said O. Braunwarth of the Broadway Public Tire Company of New York, which had brought action against the Plainfield Auto Tire Company, "I'll toss a coin. If you call it, you owe me nothing, but if you lose you pay me $20.

Previously the defendant company, which had been sued for the price of a vulcanizer costing $20, had made an offer of $17.50 in full settlement.

"It's a go," exclaimed the agent of the defendant company when Braunwarth had proposed the terms of an amicable settlement. The coin was tossed and Braunwarth won.

"Here, take that as counsel fee," said Braunwarth to Francis J. Blat as he hurried away.

When the case was called, the court was informed that the litigation had been settled out of court.

BABY'S OWNERSHIP A PUZZLE TO MAGISTRATE

George Martial, 14 years old, of Somerset street, and Louis Morrell, of 1102 North avenue, were taken in tow by the city truancy officer, Monday, for playing "hookey" from school and they were haled be*fore Judge Runyon.*

"What was the trouble with you, George, that you remained away from lessons?" the magistrate asked the Martial boy.

"Please, sir, I couldn't come because I didn't have a lace for my shoes," sniffed George.

*"Well, that's too bad. In the fu*ture we'll see that you get all the laces you can carry; and what was your complaint, Louis?"

"I had to stay home because my baby was sick," came the response.

"Wha's that?" ejaculated the judge as he took a careful glance a*t the identification card to see if the* boy's age was down right, "your baby was sick?"

"Yes," said Louis, "my baby was awful sick and I had to stay home to look after him."

"You don't mean to tell me that you have a baby of your own?"

"Huh, no," Louis replied as a light began to dawn upon him; "it don't belong to me; it's my sister's."

The young man was advised that his sister had better get another nurse during school hours after which both culprits were let go with a warning to attend their lessons regularly or the reformatory would get them.

CAPTAIN HOPKINS PLANS SERIES OF SPECIAL MEETINGS.

Captain A. Hopkins, who has had charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army for the past sixteen months, has arranged a very inter*esting series of special services in* the Salvation Army auditorium on East Second street, during November.

Thursday evening next at 8 o'clock Captain Lewis Larkin and Envoy Thomas Anderson, of the Army's prison department, will relate their experiences in visiting the prisons of New York and New Jersey. Next Saturday, Rev. Franklin Mathiews and the Young People's Society of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will *have charge of the service. Thurs*day, November 19, Colonel Chandler, principal of the Army's National Training College, New York city, will conduct the meetings. Saturday, November 21, concert by the National Staff Band, of New York. Sunday, November 22, Brigadier A. S. Kimball. Major and Mrs. George H. Casler, Staff Captain Frank Lyon and the renowned National Staff Band will conduct in the Army hall at 11 o'clock. At 4 o'clock a sacred concert will be given in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium and at 7:45 a united evangelistic service will be held in First M. E. church.

On Thursday, November 26, the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will give a concert in the Army auditorium. A cordial invitation to all is given to these special services.

NEW SHERIFF SWORN IN WANTS TAX LIST

Capt. Robert Kirkland Given the Oath of Office Tuesday Morning.

HELD INFORMAL RECEPTION.

Appointment of William H. Wright, of Rahway, as His Assistant His First Official Act.

Captain Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth, the successful Republican nominee, took the oath before Judge Atwater Tuesday and after filing the required bond assumed his duties as successor to Sheriff William B. Lawrence in Union county. The incoming sheriff held an informal reception during the rest of the day.

The first task undertaken by the Union County Board of Elections on assembling at the court house in Elizabeth Monday was to decide officially the shrievalty election. Early in the afternoon Chairman Robert J. McAdams announced that the board had decreed that Mr. Kirkland had received a plurality of 4,-599 over his Democratic opponent, James E. Martine, of this city. Martine was handicapped by the Bryan electoral ticket and made a poor showing.

Sheriff Kirkland's first official act was to appoint William H. Wright of Rahway, as his assistant. Wright had been Kirkland's rival early in the campaign for the nomination but withdrew before the primary election was held. He has resigned as assistant postmaster at Rahway and will be succeeded in that position by C. A. Moore, secretary of the Republican County Club. Wright is the president of that organization. Wright first entered the post service in 1888. Before going to Rahway he was assistant postmaster at Woodbridge.

JOSEPH O'MARA MAKES INITIAL BOW IN AMERICA.

Joseph O'Mara, the famous Irish tenor, made his initial bow to an American audience at the Walnut Street theatre, Philadelphia Monday night in Patrick Bidwell's comedy, "Peggy Machree." The theatre was filled with the representative Irish people of Philadelphia, Mayor Reyburn, Senator T. Murphy, Senator McNichol, James B. Sheehan, T. M. Daly, James O'Sullivan and many others, prominent in the business and social life of the city, occupying boxes. The audience was not only the largest ever assembled in a Philadelphia theatre, but it was likewise one of the most fashionable. The Philadelphia critics are golden in their praise of Mr. O'Hara's work, and the press is united in stamping the performance as a distinct artistic success.

"Peggy Machree" is a pure Irish comedy with music, and the several songs rendered by Mr. O'Hara brought out a storm of applause. Messrs. Brooks and Dingwall, who are managing Mr. O'Hara's tour, have provided him with a supporting cast of fifty players, besides a magnificent scenic production. It will be seen in Plainfield in a short time.

PRINTED CITY COUNCIL MATTERS

Mayor Fisk Suggests to the Council That Publication Be Made Annually.

FIRE HOUSE CONTRACT LET.

Alexander Milne's Bid of $10,750 for Building the Netherwood Structure is Accepted.

Following the action of Samuel W. Stushmore, proprietor of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, who announced that his tax book would appear today, Mayor Charles J. Fisk communicated with the Common Council, Monday, suggesting similar action. He submitted an extract of the law on the subject, which gives the city authority to publish in pamphlet form a copy of the tax duplicate and charge such price per copy as the governing body may determine. The mayor said he favored the publication of such a list annually, adding that he believed that it would do more than anything else to equalize the assessments in Plainfield. The matter was referred to the finance committee and no further report was made concerning it. The Common Council will hold another meeting on Friday, November 27, and there may be some action at that time.

Several resolutions were offered by Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, relative to the proposed East Side fire-house, and they were adopted. One provided for the acceptance of Alexander Milne's bid of $10,750 for the construction of the house, and it was stated by way of explanation that this would leave $4,250 with which to equip the house which the committee said would be sufficient, allowing $2,200 for a combination chemical and hose wagon, $700 for a pair of horses and the balance for hose, grading, etc., and still leave a balance of $150. Mr. Hall further explained that Mr. Milne's bid could be further reduced to $10,000 by making certain changes, which the committee had the authority to do, and which the contract permitted.

A resolution provided for the sale of the $15,000 worth of fire department bonds, and Friday night, November 27, was fixed as the time when sealed bids for the bonds will be received by the Council. The bonds will be of $500 denomination each, bearing 4½ per cent. interest, and will date from December 1, 1908. They are to run for a period of ten years. In this connection provisions were also made for the sale of $21,000 worth of street improvement bonds, to pay for the brick pavement. These bonds are to be of $1,000 denomination each and are to be retired from year to year. Bids for these bonds will also be received Friday night, November 27 at 8 o'clock. A resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard and adopted, provided for an appropriation of $57 to pay for the engraving of the fire and street improvement bonds.

As it is customary at this time of the year to make provision for the auditing of all the city books and accounts by an expert, a resolution was offered by Mr. Hibbard appropriating $450 for the work. In the discussion which followed, it was learned that *It would not be satis*factory to have the work done now as it would not be complete, so the resolution was referred back and Mr. Taylor's suggestion that the work be done the first of the year will probably be adopted.

FRELINGHUYSEN WON BY MAJORITY OF 677

The official returns from Somerset county show that State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen received a total majority of 677 over his opponent, Col. Nelson Y. Dungan. Mr. Frelinghuysen's vote in the county was 4,516, while Mr. Dungan received 3,839. While North Plainfield did not give Mr. Frelinghuysen the vote that other candidates on the Republican ticket received, the majority there was an important factor as the county were a great surprise, especially to Democrats, for in years past certain districts have always given a Democratic majority, while this year the Republican ticket received a good sizen majority.

Member Makes Inquiry as to Whereabouts of the Water Commission.

REPORT IS LONG OVERDUE.

Leave Burning Nuisance Discussed With the Usual Result and Several Petitions Acted Upon.

The question as to what had become of the water commissioners' report was raised by Robert E. Hall at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday night. Considerable time has elapsed since Mayor Fisk appointed the body and it was understood that the report was to have been made before this. In the absence of the desired information, the city clerk was instructed to request the mayor to have some *sort of a report for the next meet*ing.

It was said later by Mr. Fisk that probably Former Councilman W. S. Tyler could inform the members when the report would be ready. It was understood that the engineering committee had completed its work, but President Tolles said that he had been informed that some of the details had yet to be revised.

Another matter brought up by Mr. Hall was that of the annual nuisance of burning leaves. He said that he believed that an ordinance should be passed putting a stop to this prac*tice after 2 o'clock in the afternoons.* H. W. Suydam said that he understood there was an ordinance in effect now prohibiting bon-fires after sundown, but H. D. Hibbard expressed the opinion that there is a difference between bon-fires and the burning of leaves, the former being intended to celebrate some important event, while the latter was just the simple act of destroying rubbish.

Francis Montgomery suggested that the matter be referred to the Shade Tree Commission. President Tolles explained that the question always comes up at this time of the year, but before any definite action can be taken the leaves disappear, and follow the statement, Mr. Mygatt moved that it take the same course, which was adopted.

Proctor & Sanderson, who are soon to open the old Stillman Music Hall on West Front street, requested permission to erect an awning and glass marquise and a perpendicular sign twenty inches wide over the entrance to the hall, and in view of the fact that efforts are being made to open as soon as possible urged speedy action. The petition was referred with power.

Sydney L. Perrine again called the attention of the Common Council to a petition sent to that body last May in which he requested the deduction of a $25 sewer assessment on property owned by him on West Seventh and John streets, on the grounds that the sewer is of no benefit. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Propery owners in the vicinity of Lenox, Cameron avenue, Randolph and Loraine roads, petitioned for electric lights. They claimed that twelve new houses have been erected in that part of the city during the past two years and several more are now in course of construction, entitling them to sufficient light. The petition was referred to the light committee.

Upon the complaint of residents on West Fourth street, Mr. Montgomery called the attention of the members to the unnecessary noise made by trolley cars while passing over the old switches near the abandoned carbarns, and at the suggestion of Mr. Suydam the matter was referred to the committee on public affairs to be taken up with the company in connection with other matters now pending.

LOCAL MEN'S COMPANY HAS EXTENSIVE CHARTER.

The Lebanon Milling and Producing Company, the incorporators of which are all Plainfielders, has purchased a large farm near Flemington, and is planning to do some extensive farming and peach and pear cultivation. The company has also secured options on other valuable Hunterdon county farming property and water rights, as well as property in Montchir.

The company, which was incorporated in this State, has a charter enabling it to engage in real estate and mercantile enterprises and at present has options on several properties as well as business enterprises, including a factory for the manufacture of coffins in the vicinity of Flemington.

The officers and incorporators of the company are as follows: President, I. L. LaRue; vice-president, Charles L. Moffett; treasurer George Gildersleeve; secretary, Alvah Tenßyck.

NUMISMATIST TALKS TO MEN'S CLUB ON 'MONEY'

Tracing the evolution of currency from the early ages to the present day, F. W. Potter, president of the Security Trust company, of Camden, addressing the Men's Club Monday at the First Baptist church, furnished an instructive lesson in the art of numismatics. He said that the desire for money had been manifested *in all ages and believed it would en*dure through all ages. Primitive man was given to the accumulation of precious metals, said he, and the first metallic medium of exchange was brass, bars and ingots being the form used for money.

Mr. Potter stated that the early process of striking or stamping of coins is the counterpart of those in use today, that no great progress had been made in that art, and that the same methods in vogue at present were in use six or seven hundred years before Christ.

Mr. Potter has long been a student of coins and has a valuable collection of them, some of which he had with him and exhibited to his hearers after the lecture. One of these coins was of the time of Alexander the Great, 330 years before Christ, and is said to be the first of silver coinage.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Smalley for Speaker.

For the first time in a great many years, the precedent of giving a Somerset Assemblyman but two terms has been broken, and William W. Smalley has been re-elected to the Lower House, his majority for the short term being larger than has been accorded to a member from this county in a long time. These facts indicate that he has a remarkable hold on the people, and that he has achieved great popularity. He is held in the same high regard by those with whom he has been associated in Trenton, who look upon him as a thoroughly reliable man.

Already Mr. Smalley is being spoken of as a person having all the qualifications for Speaker, being a good presiding officer and capable of keeping his head under trying circumstances. By reason of what Somerset did for the whole Republican *ticket we are surely entitled to recog*nition, as the honor of Speaker has not been accorded to this county in many years. If the leaders are looking for a ballot made for that position they should cast their glances in the direction of Somerset.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Martine's Last Defeat.

James E. Martine, the former Orator of Cedar Brook, the fervid oration of the Fifth Congressional District, the fast friend of William Jennings Bryan and the faithful but ineffectual exponent of Democracy, has once more gone down to defeat. He seems to have contracted this habit and each succeeding year the two years ago he came within 552 votes of going to Congress in the place of Hon. Charles Newell Fowler, but this year he is beaten for sheriff by a very nice man who is not known outside of Union County.

It is to be hoped that this is probably Martine's last defeat, as it is Bryan's He declared, last summer, that he wouldn't be sheriff for $100,000 a year, as he detested the work of such an office. But he finally accepted the nomination to help Bryan. His intentions were good; they always are; but just how much he helped Bryan will remain for future historians to figure out. Standing alone, and on his own merits, Mr. Martine carried Union county two years ago by a plurality of 106. With Mr. Bryan attached to him this year he sank down under about 3,000 adverse majority.

It may not be time to write the Farmer Orator's political obituary, but, as was said last summer, his acceptance of the nomination for sheriff grieved his real friends. Prior to this he had had many a forlorn hope for his party, but had always stood for a principal and had gradually grown in political importance till Congress or the Governorship seemed possible. *Now to be defeat*ed for office at the sheriff wipes out former prestige and eliminates this glory of an uninterrupted succession of larger and larger and still larger and more important defeats. The complete elimination of Mr. Bryan we can stand, but the political passing of James E. Martine is hard to bear.—Newark News.

The Shrewsbury and Plainfield half year meeting of Friends will be held at their meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Thursday and Friday. The first session will open at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning and at 3 o'clock that afternoon a paper will be presented by Henry M. Haviland, of Brooklyn, on "The Divine Touch." In the evening at 8 o'clock there will be a social gathering under the direction of the Young Friends' Association. The meeting Friday morning at 11 o'clock will be for worship.

COP MAKES BIG CAPTURE

CARRIED DANGEROUS OUTFIT.

His Kit Included Ammonia Syringe and Blackjack—Was Evidently Planning a Job.

One of the most important captures in local police circles in the past year was made by Roundsman Morris Higgins, last night, when he picked up on suspicion a negro he detected loitering at Ninth street and Central avenue. He proved to be Thomas Allen, released last March after serving a seven years sentence in the Trenton prison for burglary and against whom there are three indictments in Union county for similar crimes. He at first gave his name as Thomas Cole but admitted his identity when Chief Kiely recognized him at headquarters.

Allen was searched as soon as he was brought to the station and the officers took from his clothing a burglar outfit that shows him to be a most desperate character—the kind of criminal that would stop at nothing if detected while robbing a house. It included a large-sized rubber syringe filled with ammonia of great strength, a weapon used to blind anyone approaching with hostile intent. The liquid is of a grade that would ruin a man's sight for life if only a small part reached his eyes. He had a bottle of the stuff in addition and also a steel jimmy, carried by burglars to pry open windows and doors, a wicked-looking blackjack filled with sand, a bunch of skeleton keys and a long-bladed razor recently honed.

The prisoner would make no statement when locked up and today was arraigned before Judge Runyon to be formally committed to the county jail. He gave his age as thirty-seven years and said that he had been living in New York city since his release from prison. This is probably correct as the ammonia bottle bore the label of the Riker Drug Company, Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street.

Roundsman Higgins has been doing plain clothes duty for several weeks and he was near the corner at Ninth street and Central avenue about 9 o'clock last night when he noticed a negro a short distance from him scrutinizing the houses. He drew back in the shadow of a tree and watched the fellow until he started down Ninth street toward Park avenue. Higgins followed unobserved until Watchung avenue was reached when he suddenly swung alongside of him and asked him where he was going. The negro instantly swung both hands into his side coat pockets and as he did the officer whipped out his revolver. "Keep your hands just where they are," he commanded, "and if you don't I'll put a bullet in you."

The finding of the ammonia bottle shows that Higgins acted not a moment too soon. Allen was compelled to keep his hands in the pockets and in this way was marched ahead of the officer to police headquarters. Chief Kiely was in the office when he opened the front door and the department head recognized him on the instant.

"Why, hello, Tom Allen," he exclaimed, "where on earth did you come from?"

Up until then, Allen had been protesting that his name was Thomas Cole and that he had come over from New York to visit a friend who is coachman for a Stelle avenue family. When he saw the chief knew him he gave in.

Allen worked in Plainfield eight years ago as general man for John Stewart, at Seventh and John streets, just at the time when a series of burglaries were committed here. The police hit upon Allen as the guilty man. A few months later he was caught in the act of burglarizing at Princeton and was sent to State prison.

Chief Kiely secured enough information to warrant his accusing Allen of having robbed the homes of Craig A. Marsh and David E. Titsworth and also the Netherwood and Grant avenue railroad stations. The prisoner practically admitted his guilt and indictments were returned against him. The Mercer authorities took the Plainfield cases into consideration and his sentence on the Princeton charge was made heavy because of them. He got ten years and was told that the Union county indictments would not be pressed if he remained away from Plainfield when he was released.

Senator Ackerman at High School.

State Senator E. R. Ackerman will address the Plainfield High School pupils Friday morning in the school auditorium on the subject, "The Making of Laws."

DECIDE TO MACADAMIZE THE GREENBROOK ROAD

The complete macadamizing of Greenbrook road is practically a certainty now, the Somerset county Board of Freeholders in session at Somerville yesterday having voted unanimously for the proposition. It only remains for the State Road Commissioners to add their approval and authorize the surveying and advertising for bids.

The work to be done is on the section beginning at Gavin's lane, midway between Maple and Columbia avenues and extending to the borough line at Rock avenue about one and one-quarter miles. It will cost about $8,800. The State pays 33 1-3 per cent and the borough ten per cent of the expense.

Mayor Townsend, who has been promoting the projected improvement and to whom credit for its successful passage is due, more than to anyone else, has been working since early last spring, and is much elated over the result.

This is the first road work the borough has been able to get from the county since Mountain avenue was improved fifteen years ago.

On the completion of the improvement the borough will have a macadamized thoroughfare extending entirely through the north end of the town from the limits at Second avenue to the line at Rock avenue. There will then be only one quarter of a mile of dirt road between North Plainfield and Bound Brook on that county road.

LOCAL W. C. T. U. FAIR IS WELL PATRONIZED

The annual fair of the W. C. T. U. which opened in the rooms on Madison avenue yesterday afternoon and was continued last night, was well patronized and a success. The fair will be held this afternoon and close tonight. In connection with the sale of various articles supper is served, an excellent menu being provided by the women in charge. A feature of the supper is the fine clam chowder. This will be served tonight.

The rooms are attractively decorated for the fair, and the several tables present a fine appearance. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, as president of the Union, is in charge. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse presides at the apron and bag table, Mrs. David E. Titsworth and Mrs. Amanda Maxson at the fancy table, Mrs. M. Udell and Miss Susie Jackson at the cake table, Mrs. P. H. Bennett at the toy table, Mrs. J. W. Yates, Miss Margaret Yates and Miss May E. Howlett at the knitting goods table and the Misses Cahoone are at the candy table. Mrs. M. Winter and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins are in charge of the refreshments. There are a number of assistants from among the members of the Union, and altogether the fair is one of the best ever held by the organization.

The proceeds will be for the purpose of carrying on the temperance work more especially in Plainfield and vicinity. The women are much encouraged over yesterday's receipts and are hoping that today they will be even much larger. Those who are preparing to give Christmas presents will find many articles at the fair that will be suitable for such gifts.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED BY MEN'S CLUB PRESIDENT.

At a business meeting of the Men's Club of Hope chapel, last night, President Thomas Hendry appointed the chairman and members of the various committees to serve for the ensuing six months, as follows: Entertainment, Charles Vincent, chairman; Frank M. Rimmer and George E. Firstbrook; good and welfare, Harvey Keen, chairman; H. Vogel and Robert Hanglighter; lookout, John Siorah, chairman; James Penney and Marcus W. Clark.

Chairman Keen, of the good and welfare committee, was authorized to make arrangements for a bowling tournament at the chapel, to be started as soon as the details can be completed. Under the head of good and welfare, an interesting discussion on "Women's Work," was conducted by James Penney, all the members present taking part.

S. A. National Staff Band.

The National staff band of the Salvation Army will conduct musical services in the S. A. Hall here Saturday night at 8 and Sunday morning at 11. On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock the band will take part in the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday night at 7:45 musical services will be conducted at the First M. E. church. Col. William Peart, of New York, chief secretary of the United States forces, will be present and assist at each meeting.

ENCAMPMENT INDEPENDENT

Separates Finally from I.O.O. F.'s Grand Lodge, Relations Remaining Friendly.

STEPHEN H. SCHLEIF HONORED.

Plainfielder Elected Grand Senior Warden—Next Session to be Held at Newark.

In annual session at Trenton yesterday, the Grand Encampment of New Jersey, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, unanimously decided to break from the Grand Lodge of the order and become an individual and independent body as far as the laws of Odd Fellowship permit.

The Plainfield members attending the meeting were Joseph Elngston, Simon Mantz, S. H. Schleif, Frank Martin and Joseph Perry.

Since the information of the Grand Encampment it has been connected with the Grand Lodge of the State in many ways and the constitutions of the two bodies were in a way similar. Ae revision of the constitution of the Grand Encampment has been under consideration for some time, but final action was not taken until yesterday afternoon.

The desire for "individualism and independence" was the only reason officers of the encampment would give last night for the separation of the two organizations. To a question as to whether or not there had been any factional fight between the bodies which led to the change of the constitution, the officers replied in the negative. A report to the effect that the encampment did not want to be tied to the Grand Lodge because of a split among the officers was also said to be without foundation. The only important tie that binds the two organizations in any specific way is that members of both must be Odd Fellows.

For years the Grand Encampment met in Encampment day preceding the session of the Grand Lodge, but by the changes made in the constitution the annual session will be held in May instead of November, and the sessions will hereafter be held in Newark, Paterson, Jersey City, Camden and other cities, as well as Trenton exclusively. The next session will be held in Newark the first Tuesday in May. The change of the annual meeting date would give the newly elected officers short terms, he following were named to fill the places vacated by eighteen months:

Grand patriarch, Gustavus L. Erb, Newark; grand high priest, John W. Stowell, Jersey City; grand senior warden, Stephen H. Schleif, Plainfield; grand junior warden, Morris Lunger, Newark; grand scribe, Frank R. Bunnell, Trenton; grand treasurer, Alfred J. Doan, Jersey City; grand representative, Walter H. Blake, Vineland; grand marshal, C. L. Williams, Long Branch; grand inside sentinel, William Boehmer, Sum*mit; grand outside sentinel, Ben*jamin C. Barber. Representatives from grand encampments of a number of States made addresses. A costly grand past patriarch jewel was presented to the Rev. Henry D. Speakman, of Absecon, the retiring grand patriarch.

HOME MISSIONARY MEETING OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Miss Melby's mission work among the incoming millions at Ellis Island and the work done by the Home Mis*sionary Society among the immi*grants who settle in the West, were the topics chosen by Mrs. George H. Robbins for the current events given yesterday at the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church. Mrs. Robbins' treatment of the subject was full of interest and instruction.

Preceding the paper, Mrs. James L. Manning led the devotional service. The barrel for the Old Folks' Home at Newark was packed yesterday representing gifts of household supplies, clothing and bedding contributed by members of the church and congregation.

Will Give Harvest Supper.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Clinton avenue, a harvest supper will be given in the parish house tomorrow night from 6 to 9 o'clock. An added attraction will be a program of music by an orchestra. The members of the guild will preside at the various tables. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the piano fund.

Topics for Special Services.

The themes for Rev. L. Judson Westfall's sermons at Faith chapel for the rest of the week will be as follows: Tonight, "Robbery in Plainfield;" tomorrow night, "An Angry Beggar;" Friday night, "On Which Side?"

SUNDAY SCHOOLS' WORK

George E. Hall Presiding at State Association Session in New Brunswick.

GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED.

"Millionaire" Hudson Tells of His 500,000 Bible Class—Dr. W. H. Morgan Talks.

With 250 delegates in their places, seated beneath their county banners, and with a church full of local people, the golden jubilee of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association was opened last night in the Second Reformed church in New Brunswick. George E. Hall, of this city, presided. A choir of 250 voices occupied seats on the platform and rendered a song service under the leadership of the Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, of Brooklyn.

The Rev. Dr. Manicus H. Hutton welcomed the association on behalf of the church, Mayor W. E. Florence on behalf of the city, and President W. H. S. Demarest on behalf of the college. Marion Lawrance, of Chicago, told of the world-wide Sunday-school work, and Marshall A. Hudson, of Syracuse, N. Y., another called "Millionaire" Hudson, told of his ambition to enroll one million men in Bible classes throughout the world.

Mr. Hudson was in the crockery business in Syracuse in 1890, when he started a Bible class in a church there. Now there are 300,000 men enrolled in the Bible class movement under his direction, and he expects 500,000 by July, the idea having spread to other countries. Mr. Hudson declared that he would be satisfied when he has one million men enrolled.

Several institutes, taking up various branches of Sunday-school work, were held yesterday afternoon. Dr. W. A. Duncan, of Syracuse, N. Y., the father of the home department idea, made an address. The Rev. William H. Morgan, of Newark, presided at the "Equipment for Service" session. The sessions will be continued all day today and tomorrow.

MRS. TAINTOR TELLS OF HER MISSION WORK

Under the auspices of the women of the Congregational church and through the courtesy of Mrs. William McIntosh, of Willow avenue, the borough, the annual thank-offering tea and musical was held at her home yesterday afternoon. The affair was largely attended by women of the church and congregation. Mrs. C. L. Goodrich presided and used a prepared leader for the Thanksgiving theme, "The Divine Love." The numerous responses were sung by Mrs. James Rawson, Jr. soprano, and Miss Bertha Van Nuis Willis, contralto, after which Miss Willis ran several delightful solos.

The speaker and guest of the afternoon was Mrs. Charles H. Taintor, superintendent of the church building society of the denomination. For many years she was associated with her late husband in this work in the middle west. She gave a thrilling account of her experiences relating many incidents which aroused the women to great interest. An informal discussion followed. Then the social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served.

Mrs. F. A. Weeks poured tea at one end of the table in the dining room and Mrs. J. V. Beekman served sherbert at the other end, the members of the Girls' Club of the church, assisting in serving. The thank-offering which amounted to about $50 will be used for home mission work.

Tried to Drink Alcohol.

The two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. M. Alexander, of Liberty street, accidentally swallowed a few drops of denatured alcohol yesterday afternoon, but prompt action on the part of the mother prevented any serious consequences. A physician was called, but when he arrived the child was all right. Mrs. Alexander was cleaning some ribbons with the alcohol and while her back was turned the child in a spirit of mischief tried to swallow the liquid.

Concert at Fanwood.

A concert will be given at the Fanwood fire-house Tuesday night, December 1, at 8:30 o'clock for the benefit of Saints' Episcopal church of that place. A fine program has been arranged for the occasion.

—Neuman Brothers offering for tomorrow will include a choice display of fancy apples suitable for table and other uses.

COURT OF APPEALS BUSY

Some Plainfield Cases Among the 154 on the Calendar for the Term.

"COUNT" VAN NEST CASE UP.

Manganese Company Litigation Also to Get Another Airing—Two Appear in This Case.

The Court of Errors and Appeals for the November term opened at Trenton yesterday. Chancellor Pitney presided. There are 154 cases on the list. Suits in which Plainfielders are interested are Schorb Brothers and others against the Man*ganese Safe Company, which is up* on two appeals from the decisions of Vice-Chancellor Howell dismissing a rule to show cause and sustaining the demurrer of the safe company. George Ball and W. S. Angleman represent Rodman and Pitney, Hardin & Skinner, of Newark, represent the Safe Co.

The case involves the legality of a proposed issue of $1,000,000 of stock, increasing the present capitalization from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

Action was begun against "Count" Van Ness on December 19, 1903, by George W. Marsh to foreclose a mortgage he holds on the Van Ness property on East Front street. At that time Van Ness claimed that he had paid the mortgage by reason of his having made certain payment to Marsh and that he had added a large sum of money for interest, more interest than the law allowed. He set up a defense of usury, besides his payments. Chancellor Emery, after he had had the matter under advisement a long time, handed down a decision in which he allowed Van Ness a credit for several of the payments claimed, but he did not permit the claim made by Van Ness for usury. He decided there was due from Van Ness $4,046.77 and costs—a total of $4,200—and decreed issued into the hands of the sheriff and the property be sold to satisfy this claim.

"Count" Van Ness now seeks to have the whole case reviewed by the Court of Errors and Appeals. At the time Mr. Marsh was before Vice-Chancellor Emery the court found it necessary to adjourn the hearing several times in account of the weakness of the "Count," who was unable to go on with his evidence without interruptions on account his attacks of illness.

Judge Gilhooley, of Elizabeth, represents Marsh and W. S. Angleman represents "Count" Van Ness.

Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., by motion forced William R. Wilson to put on the list for argument the writ of error to the conviction and sentence before conviction of Mangano, who was sentence convicted of murder in the first degree and sentence to be electrocuted in October. The case was set down for argument on Nov. 30.

MUSICAL FOR BENEFIT OF A BUILDING FUND.

A musical entertainment for the benefit of the church enlargement fund will be given at the Congregational church, tomorrow night, under the direction of Mrs. Charles E. Bentley. This program will be rendered: Instrumental, "Polonaise," Chopin, Miss Myra Emmons; recitation, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," James Whitcomb Riley, Mrs. G. Stuart Simons; soprano solo, "The Lark Now Leaves His Watry Nest," Horatio W. Parker, Mrs. Theodore Mantz; instrumental, "Kamennoi-ostrow," Rubenstein, Miss Muriel Collins; vocal solo, "Carmena-Waltz Song," H. Will Open Law Offices.

Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver, who has been associated with the law firm of Reed & Coddington for some time, has decided to open law offices for himself in the Silbert building on East Front street. He will make the change about December 1.

Early Morning Hunt.

Several members of the Watchung Hunt Club met at the Kennels this morning for a chase of a few miles after the hounds. The going was a little stiff, but a ride in the bracing air was greatly enjoyed.

TROLLEY CAR DISTURBER FINED $15 IN CITY COURT

The practice of drunken men taking possession of trolley cars on Saturday nights and making life miserable for other passengers met with emphatic disapproval in the city court, this morning, when Judge William N. Runyon imposed a fine of $15 on Thomas Kelley, of Dunellen, for an offense of this nature. At the same time the magistrate declared that the traveling public is entitled to protection and that he would deal severely in every case of the kind where there is a conviction.

Kelley's arrest was made by Patrolman Saunders on Saturday night, November 7, after he had been ejected from a Dunellen bound car at Albert street. He refused to pay his fare to Conductor Thomas Cyphers and when the latter secured the assistance of the motorman to put him off, he struck right and left at the men near him, all the while shouting his defiance in the rush to get out of his way, a Mrs. Emmons, who formerly lived on West Second street, opposite Trinity church, was struck on the arm by Kelley and badly hurt. He was then thrown from the platform and taken in custody by Patrolman Saunders, an industrious worker attracted by the shouting. The trial was put over until this morning because of the absence of witnesses.

In passing sentence on the defendant, Judge Runyon remarked that, but for the fact that he bore a good reputation, an industrious workman, he would have imposed a much heavier fine.

JUDGEMENT AFFIRMED IN SCHORB-HAURAND CASE

Monday was opinion day in the Court of Errors and Appeals and several were announced by the Court but none was filed until this morning. One that is of interest locally is one that involves the suit of Mrs. Carrie L. Schorb against Henry Haurand. Action was brought by Mrs. Schorb against Henry Haurand to eject him from the property he occupied as a saloon on East Front street, and the case was tried in the Union County Circuit Court, before a judge and without a jury. The defense set up by Haurand was that Mrs. Schorb was not the proper party to bring the suit.

It seems from the opinion handed down, that Mrs. Elizabeth Schorb at her death left a will in which she gave the property to her husband during his lifetime, and that he rented the property to Haurand, and the elder Mr. Schorb died on December 31, 1906, and that after his death Haurand continued to pay the rent to the executors of Mr. Schorb's estate. But the Court of Errors says that it cannot find any justification for Mr. Haurand paying rent to the executors for the reason that on Mr. Schorb's death his interest in the property ceased and it became the property of the children named as legatees in the will, and that they were the only ones who could rent the property or receive the money for the same.

The opinion of the Court of Errors was written by Justice Voorhees and affirms the judgment of the Union County Circuit Court. Meloch and Morten, of Newark, represented Mrs. Schorb and Francis J. Blatz appeared for Henry Haurand.

FIGHTING THE TREES NOT FAIR IN BOROUGH.

Chief George Weiss of the borough police saw someone down Westervelt avenue yesterday afternoon waiving his arms in a frantic manner. Undoubtedly something extraordinary was taking place down that way and this man was signaling for help. Possibly somebody had stepped into a hotel to get a glass of beer. Yet, on closer approach the fellow seemed to be fighting. Right arm jabs, uppercuts, left thrusts were being executed with lightning like rapidity. But where was the foe? There seemed to be no one to receive, dodge or return the powerful blows, though the man was sidestepping and jumping around to beat anything. The chief watched the movements until a tree got in the cyclone's path and lost some of its bark. Then an end was put to the fistic combat. Our forests must be protected.

On being taken to the police station it was found that the whirlwind was really Robert Hart, 65 years old, a moulder. He paid a three dollar fine this morning after telling Recorder Dolliver the name of the brand.

FATALLY SHOOTS SPOUSE

Victim Dying in Hospital and Thomas Johnson, Colored, is Locked Up.

PRISONER MAKES STATEMENT.

"I Meant to Kill Her," Says Husband—Their Married Life Recently an Unhappy One.

Becoming exasperated because she upheld their children in continually "sassing him," as he expressed it, Thomas Johnson, one of the best known colored men in the city, attempted to kill his wife, Emma, at their home on Muhlenberg place late at the close of the week. With cool deliberation he aimed a pistol at her and sent a bullet into her head, the missile entering at the corner of the left eye, passing over to and back of the right one, almost forcing it from its socket, and then lodging somewhere in the base of the brain. She was taken to Muhlenberg hospital at 1 o'clock this morning but the physicians say she has no chance to live.

Johnson pulled the trigger of the weapon a second time but it missed fire. He then walked out of the house straight to police headquarters on Sycamore street, where he calmly told Captain Frederickson what he had done. He was giving the details of the shooting when his son, Eugene Johnson, came rushing in to acquaint the officers of what had happened. The father expressed displeasure when he learned that his wife was still living and exclaimed:

"I meant to kill her and I'm sorry if I didn't. I knew what would happen to me if I did and I'm ready to abide by the consequences. Lock me up."

On his way to the police station, Eugene Johnson had stopped at Dr. Anderson's home and the physician was at the house attending the injured woman when Sergeant Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins reached the scene. They called the ambulance and had the remains of the hospital as soon as the wound had been temporarily dressed. She was able to a certain extent to tell something about the occurrence as she retained consciousness, although suffering intense agony. Her sight has been ruined in both eyes and the right optic protruded in a sickening manner until replaced by Dr. Anderson.

In his statement to Chief Kiely this morning, Johnson declared that his wife and he have had frequent quarrels and that they were generally brought about by the children. They nagged him, he said, because they didn't want him around. She upheld them and he made up his mind that he would take revenge on her. The pistol was kept in the house for protection and while she was out early last evening he took it from its accustomed place with the idea of using it at the first opportunity. The wife came in about 10 o'clock and from then on until nearly twelve they argued in the front room of the house on the first floor. The quarrel was ended by the bullet being sent into Mrs. Johnson's head. This was practically all the prisoner would say.

Eugene Johnson, the son, who is employed at the Monarch Printing establishment, informed the authorities that his father had worked for Boice, Runyon & Co., for twenty two years and that he quit the firm of his own accord last May and practically deserted the family. He proceeded to his old home in Kent county, Maryland, where he remained until the sixth of last month. He then returned to Plainfield and came back to the house which the mother and children were maintaining by their own efforts. They told him as he quitted them in the spring he could continue to remain away but he refused to go. He remained at the house and not a day passed by but what some sort of an argument ensued.

Early last evening the parents had a very stormy session after the father became abusive and Mrs. Johnson proceeded to the home of a West Eighth street family, where she has been employed, to obtain advice as to what to do. The head of the house conferred with Judge Runyon over the telephone and it was agreed that she should appear in the city court today to make a complaint against him. It was while she was away that Johnson procured the pistol and made ready to kill her.

According to the son, the children were in bed when the mother returned and they did not hear the argument. Eugene said he was awakened by a pistol shot and rushing downstairs found his mother lying across a couch with blood streaming from her eyes. She cried out that "Tom" had shot her but at the time he was not in sight. From his own story it seems that he hurried out of the house to go to police head-

NEW THEATRE'S OPENING

Manager Sanderson Fixes Thanksgiving Afternoon for Initial Performance.

ALTERATION WORK UNDER WAY

The "Proctor" Policy of Entertainment Will Be Followed Out in Catering to the Local Public.

An absolute innovation in the local theatrical world will be inaugurated in this city on Thanksgiving Day afternoon, Thursday, November 26, when F. F. Proctor, whose name is a household word wherever refined and wholesome entertainment is known, will open the doors of the former Stillman Music Hall to the public. For several years this theatre has been closed to the public—in fact shut up tight with bricks and mortar. It required no little endeavor to secure the consent of Mr. Stillman to the reopening of the theatre, but the name Proctor, as Mr. Stillman puts it, "was a different proposition, and commanded recognition," and so it is that this theatre will be open to the public once more after a darkened period of seven years.

The entire building is now being thoroughly reconstructed and renovated, inside and out, and when finished will be the safest and most comfortable playhouse in the State. The interior decorations will consist of a peculiar shade of nile green, accentuated with old ivory and ivory cream—color peculiar only to the Proctor circuit of international theatres. The former F. W. Woolworth store has been leased and a handsome lobby is now in process of construction which will be one of the show sights of the city. On the right of the lobby a large airy boudoir is being built where every requisite and want of modern woman will be supplied. Maids will be in attendance and "my lady's" every wish gratified. Draperies to class with the decorations are being hung and altogether a genuine surprise is in store for the people of Plainfield.

The policy of entertainment will be a reproduction of Mr. Proctor's efforts in many other cities of the east, that is, a high-class refined entertainment, suitable to ladies and children, replete with the most up-to-the-minute novelties that can be secured on this and the other side of the world, and at a price reachable by all classes of the general public. Henry S. Sanderson, of Cranford, whose alliance with the late Tony Pastor, for many years, has made him a prominent figure in up-to-date amusements, is associated with Mr. Proctor in this latest venture. It is the aim to introduce a modern high standard of entertainment new to this part of New Jersey and will be up to the moral requisite that the name Proctor implies. Patrons may expect a first class theatre with ever a firstclass comedy entertainment conducted on lines of refinement and cleanliness that has made the name of Proctor a standard of excellence throughout the United States.

There will be two sections of performance daily following out the lines of the Proctor enterprises in New York. The theatre will be accessible at all times to early and late comers. Courteous, uniformed attaches will be on hand to give patrons every possible attention required. Work is being pushed as rapidly as possible—most of the best local mercantile concerns holding contracts for the various lines of reconstruction. It is the aim of Mr. Proctor and Mr. Sanderson to give to the people of Plainfield a class of entertainment to which they will respond and appreciate and no stone will be left unturned to this end.

WITH BRUSH AND PAINT POT.

With a pot of white enamel and another one of paint one can accomplish wonders in converting a dull and dingy room into a clean white one. Choose a painted or a linoleum covered floor and then have the walls painted either white or some light shade. In expensively furnished kitchens the walls are tiled five or six feet from the floor and finished with a flat railing or board, into which rows of pot hooks are fastened. In a less costly fashion the same idea can be carried out by having the walls covered with washable paper or painted up to the railing and then covered with glazed paper above this. By this arrangement everything can be wiped off and kept perfectly clean and germproof at a minimum expenditure of labor.

Brass hooks for the pot and pan rail may be more attractive to the eye than any other kind, yet the experienced housewife favors white porcelain hooks wherever they can be installed. If wet porcelain ones, then metal ones that can be painted so that they do not require polishing are the best to use. And it is well to buy in quantities as well as in assorted sizes, for wherever there is room for a hook it will eventually be put up to serve a very useful purpose.

NO CAUSE OF ACTION IN CIRCUS MAN'S CASE

There was but one contested case in the district court Thursday that of Leon W. Washburn, the circus man, against Grant Luce, manager for the Martin Uncle Tom's Cabin Company, to recover $400 claimed as the plaintiff's share for a moving picture machine, and films, it being understood that the defendant was to pay that amount for it. After the case had been thoroughly threshed out, Judge William Newcorn rendered a verdict of no cause for action.

According to the testimony both parties to the suit were in partnership in the moving picture business, and it was claimed by the plaintiff that there was an agreement between them whereby the defendant was to take the machine and films and pay Mr. Washburn $400. Azariah Beekman, who with Edward Fisher, of Bound Brook, represented the plaintiff, was unable to prove such an agreement. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., was counsel for Mr. Luce. The attachment was issued through the district court several weeks ago when the Uncle Tom's Cabin Company appeared in this city.

BUSINESS BOOMING IN UNION COUNTY

Business is on the boom in all Union county towns. Every mechanic in this section at present has all the work he can handle. The factories are increasing their force of help and several are working overtime.

New machinery is being installed in the powerhouse of the Public Service Corporation at Elizabeth, which will almost double the capacity of the plant when completed.

At Kenilworth the American Circular Loom Company is running nights until 10 o'clock and the force is working all day Sunday. Since Election Day the firm has received an order for several million feet of conduits. The new fireproof plant of the company is completed.

The American Veneer Company at Kenilworth is also running until 10 o'clock each night and on Sunday in its efforts to fill orders for material for building and automobiles.

The Charles E. Wright Company at Kenilworth is busy, and the men are working on full time.

At Garwood the Hall Signal Company plant is again the scene of much activity; many new orders being received daily besides several large railroad contracts.

The Aeolian Company expects to put on more hands and run its force on full time within two weeks. The other shops in Garwood are also busy.

FULL MASONIC SERVICE FOR WILLIAM V. MUNDY.

Attended by many of his lodge brethren and other friends, the funeral of William V. Mundy was held Thursday afternoon at his late home on Duer street. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, and included a brief Masonic ritual. Two selections, "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," were sung by Elmer E. Runyon.

The attendants included fifty members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., who acted as an escort from the house to Evergreen cemetery. At the grave, the full Masonic burial service was conducted by Worshipful Master Samuel Fish, who delivered the eulogy, while Rev. McCrea acted as chaplain and read the prayers. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The pall bearers were Henry Liefke, George Watts and James F. Buckley, representing the Masons, and Harry Werner, Amos Andrews and Charles W. Tallman, from Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P.

ELKS WILL OBSERVE SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., at its regular session, Wednesday, appointed a committee to make arrangements for an "old time social" on Wednesday night, December 2, in observance of the sixth anniversary of the lodge's institution. The affair will be of an elaborate nature and the Elks at Somerville, Elizabeth and other places will be invited. The committee is comprised of Fred H. Firstbrook, John Nicol and John Conway.

The lodge has also arranged for the annual memorial service to be held at the New Plainfield theatre on Sunday night, December 6. The program is being prepared under the direction of Judge William N. Runyon, S. P. D. Wilbur, Joseph Noonan, A. D. Findlay and David J. Carney. Former Assemblyman Frank Crowther, of Perth Amboy, has been secured to deliver the principal address and the musical numbers will be made an important feature. It is likely that the Somerville lodge will join with 885 in the service.

LIBERALISM CHAMPIONED

Congressman and Jurist Talk Entertainingly at Men's Club Banquet.

THEY REFER TO SUNDAY GOLF.

Mr. Fowler Discusses Finance Question and Urges His Hearers to Study Problem.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church had for its guests Thursday night Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, of Elizabeth, and Judge Robert Carey, of the Circuit Court, Jersey City, both of whom entertained the large gathering of men in a delightful manner. The presence of the distinguished men brought out an unusual number of members and their friends and they were no disappointed in the speeches of the evening.

An excellent course dinner was provided under the direction of a committee from the club, assisted by several women of the church, and at its conclusion, F. O. Dunning, as president of the organization, made a few brief remarks concerning the club, its objects and its interest in the Sunday-school as well as the Sunday-school Athletic League. In a pleasant vein he called attention to the fact that this was the last banquet of the club that Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring would attend as a bachelor, and at his suggestion a toast was proposed not only to Dr. Herring, but the women, too.

Judge Carey, the first speaker, recalled his last appearance here two years ago when he spoke for two hours and a half at a political meeting in Concert Park, adding that he had purposely remained away from Plainfield ever since. Referring to the recent intrusion of thieves in the church, he said that he heard that everything worth taking but the dominie had been taken and he was going to be taken soon.

"Plainfield is the most beautiful city in New Jersey," continued the speaker. There is no better spot anywhere. It is the only city that can get excited over a game of golf, which shows the high moral tone of the community. Your Mayor came down to our town and advertised our place, and the open saloon and the people have been flocking there ever since, although we are trying to suppress this evil. There are a few people in Jersey City who go autoing on Sunday and they sometimes get as far as Plainfield.

"They never speak of Sunday golf in my city, simply because we haven't a golf course in all Hudson county. I would like to play golf on Sunday and if I should receive an invitation from your golf club to do so I would be strongly tempted to accept.

"There was a time when nothing excited the people of Jersey City. We could send sixty-nine ballot-box stuffers in jail and no one would get excited, but when you can get a town excited over a game of golf it is a good healthy sign.

"The church needs just such an institution as a men's club, a great means of getting the men in the church and filling the pews. I believe that we should have the Roosevelitan spirit and use the big stick. The church through its men should stand for the highest principles and if this is done even Atlantic City will be dry on Sunday. I do not believe that the church should be mixed in politics, because there are too many men of different views, but let them stand for that which is best and most noble. It was this that elected Governor Charles E. Hughes. Men like Colby will rise occasionally, but they will rise up stronger. I believe in a church being irregular. No church that is regular is ever a success. It must do things in an irregular manner. There are many people who do not like Roosevelt, but all admire him because he stands for honesty in politics. It is just this principle that keeps a man like Congressman Fowler in office and we are going to keep him there until this financial question is settled.

"Standards are higher today than ever before and everything is better. One thing is certain, if a people are to be successful they must keep busy, busy all the time and it is only in this way that anything will ever be accomplished. I want you to know that I appreciate your kindness and courtesy to me. I have enjoyed this occasion greatly and I am glad I came."

Following his introduction, Congressman Fowler remarked that he came here with more sincere gratitude than Judge Carey, for the indifference of the people of Plainfield who expressed at the polls is a source of great satisfaction.

"My friend Carey insists on the big stick," continued the Congressman, "one of the Roosevelt kind, but everyone doesn't agree with him. I do, however, but if there is any one thing that I would criticise our President for it would be his attack on the courts. That I believe to be a big mistake. Roosevelt has been a great moral influence in this country and he has given the country an impulse upward and onward that will last to the end of time.

"In his remarks Judge Carey very properly spoke of our being practical. As to Sabbath observance I want to say that I was brought up by a New England farmer, who would not allow the cracking of a nut on Sunday. That and other strict rules changed my whole view of church life and Sabbath observance. Since then I have been growing more liberal on this question.

"We cannot have castern rules, but they must be suited to each locality. As to the question of Sunday baseball marvelous changes are going on with great flexibility and the church must do its very best for the community in which it is located. We must display a Catholicity of spirit. I sympathize with the ministers for I tried to be a reformer once myself.

"When I went to Washington fourteen years ago there were but two, besides myself who were cold standard men. Today there are nothing but credit currency men in the country.

"A club of this kind is the best medium to reach men. Unlike other organizations it develops every noble side of man, while other kinds of clubs in my opinion lead to dissipation. A church men's club is a great moral force to keep the country right and safe. It is this very thing that elected Taft and Hughes, men who stand by high principles and their own acts. The victory of Hughes was a great moral victory, the greatest since I have been in political life.

"The financial question of today is one of great moral and national importance. It is a broad question and one that must appeal to you as the greatest before the civilized world. What we want is a system that shall prevent the panicles of the past year, the world of finance which is possible through the establishment of an absolute gold reserve in our banks. If a man is to erect a building one thousand feet high he will first make sure that his foundation is as strong as it is possible to make it. If the people of the country allow the present financial system to continue through their indolence, their children years hence will have to pay for this indifference. Every man has a great moral responsibility. This is the impending question.

"I would suggest that you appoint a committee of five and that your club study this question of finance and frame a bill as nearly right as possible. Study it thoughtfully and sincerely and remember above all things that you are American citizens."

After the speeches there was a brief social time during which those present had an opportunity to personally meet the speakers of the evening. The women of the church who assisted so largely to make the dinner a success in serving it were Mrs. John S. Johnston, Mrs. N. W. Cooke, Mrs. Charles Huebner, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Howard Martin, Mrs. George A. Ballentyne, Mrs. Raymond Martin, Miss Georgia Ricker, Miss Marion Englehard, Miss Dorothy Bull, Miss Alice Miller, Miss Beatrice Miner.

CLEVELAND MEMORIAL COMMITTEE GETS BUSY

Plans for the incorporation of the Cleveland Memorial Association, which will soon have for its purpose the erection of a suitable memorial at Princeton to the memory of Grover Cleveland, were considered at a meeting held in Newark Friday. It is the hope of those interested in the matter that $50,000 can be raised for the purpose.

The meeting was held in the office of ex-United States Senator John F. Dryden, and those in attendance were Mr. Dryden, who is to be president of the association; ex-United States Senator Frelinghuysen, Jr., vice-president; State Treasurer Daniel B. Voorhees, who is to be treasurer of the fund; former State Senator Harry D. Winton, secretary, and Richard C. Lindabury and George W. Mortimeyer, the last two to act as an executive committee.

In addition to those who attended the meeting a list of fifty names of prominent citizens of New Jersey will be drawn up, all of whom will act as incorporators. Local committees to collect funds for the monument will be organized in each of the twenty-one counties of the State.

Mr. Winton reported that he had received assurances from the residents of sixteen counties of the State that liberal contributions would be forthcoming as soon as the association had been organized.

The Daily Press has received $336.64 for this laudable object from patriotic citizens of Plainfield and hopes that the local fund may aggregate $500.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

Miss Sara Curry, manager of the Little Missionary Bakery, 92 St. Mark's place, New York city, makes her appeal for help to give the poor sick mothers a Thanksgiving dinner. Many a poor mother is struggling along with her helpless children, who will not have anything unless they have help. While we are enjoying our good dinner let us make some poor mothers happy with a good dinner; ours will taste better and will feel better; let us try it. Miss Carry gave 530 families dinner last year; in each home was from two to eight persons, making over 3,500 fed.

OFFICIAL CANVASS ENDS

Union County's Board of Registry and Election Finished Its Work Today.

ANNOUNCE PLAINFIELD RESULT

Wm. R. Townsend, for Tax Collector, High Man on Municipal Ticket —Total Vote Here 4,080.

After being in session all week, the Union County Board of Elections completed today the heavies canvass yet made in the county. The final work was on the municipal elections. In Elizabeth Dr. Victor Mravlag's plurality over Gen. Dennis F. Collins, the Democratic nominee, was 931, the former having received 6,850 votes and the latter 5,929. In Plainfield, Mayor Charles J. Fisk defeated his Democratic opponent by 1,127 votes. Fisk received 2,396 votes and Manning 1,269. William H. Garrison, Thomas F. Haviland, Charles J. Jensen and Jacob Martin were the successful freeholder candidates in Elizabeth and Samuel P. T. Wilbur and J. Hervey Doane in Plainfield.

The official canvass for Plainfield follows:

Freeholder—Doane, R., 2,843; Wilbur, R., 2,827; Colvin, D., 870; Waglow, D., 857. Board of Education—Buckle, R., 2,681; Tyler, R., 2,722; Goodfellow, D., 1,059; Hurlburt, D., 862. Tax Collector—Townsend, R., 2,849; Reville, D., 857. Common Council—First ward, Tolles, R., 578; Hanks, D., 180; Second ward, Holb, R., 686; Connelly, D., 180; Third ward Taylor, R., 608; Harkins, D., 152; Fourth ward, Randolph, R., 928; Tunison, D., 375. Hezekiah Hand, Jeremiah Manning and Robert Murray were re-elected constables.

The total vote in Plainfield was 4,080. There were only 29 rejected ballots. William R. Townsend for tax collector was high man on the winning ticket.

C. N. FOWLER PLANS FOR PARCEL TUBES

The plans submitted by William J. Wilgus, who until a few months ago was chief engineer of the New York Central railroad, to the Public Service commission of New York city, for a subway freight road around the city's water front, thus doing away with the Central's railroad surface tracks on the lower west side, were considered Wednesday by the commission at a public hearing.

The details of Mr. Wilgus' scheme have already been described. They include a general freight yard on the Hackensack meadows in which freight consigned to this city shall be transferred to cars that run through a tunnel under the North river and then into an underground belt line with branches to all the railroad docks. If the plan is approved by the commission Mr. Wilgus will apply for a franchise, and it is understood that he has the necessary financial backing behind him.

One of the interesting developments of Thursday's hearing was that Mr. Wilgus is not the only one who is seeking to solve the freight problem. Just before the close of the hearing Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, said that he also had a proposition to lay before the commission, one which he explained was of great importance to the people of New York. After a conference between the members of the commission it was decided that a special hearing should be given to Mr. Fowler at 3 o'clock tomorrow, when he will explain the details of his proposal.

After the hearing Congressman Fowler would say only that he appeared for the New York Parcels Delivery company, a new concern. The company's scheme, if it can get a franchise, is to lay under the streets large tubes for carrying parcels on a system somewhat similar to pneumatic mail tubes. The company will be prepared to tube not only under Manhattan, but to extend the system under the North and East rivers.

"BILL" GREEN A CONSTABLE.

Friends Put Up a Job on Princeton's Baseball Captain.

One of the humorous incidents of the recent election at Trenton was the choosing of William E. Green, son of Judge Elmer Ewing Green, of the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, former captain of the Princeton University Baseball Club, and now prominent in business and society, as a constable in the Second ward of Trenton.

He was nominated by some of his Republican friends as a joke, and then everybody made a point to vote for him, his vote rivaling that of the other "Bill"—Taft—in the ward.

Borough Pupils in Medical Tests.

Dr. F. J. Hughes, who is medical examiner for the North Plainfield schools, has begun his annual individual physical inspection of the pupils.

FORMER LOCAL TEACHER DIES IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Word was received by relatives and friends in Plainfield yesterday of the death in Boston of Mrs. Francis W. Hyde, a former resident of this city, which occurred Wednesday afternoon in a hospital in Boston. She entered the insitution to undergo an operation for a brain tumor and, which was followed by complications.

Mrs. Hyde was widely known in Plainfield from the fact that she was a teacher in the old Plainfield High School, now the Stillman Grammar, for many years, her name then being Miss Alice M. Whitney. She was in charge of what was then known as the fourth class, or what is called the freshman. She was married to Mr. Hyde about seven years ago, the latter having resided on Madison avenue previously. They have been making their home in Worcester, Mass., where the husband is the head of the boards clerical department of the public schools.

Beside her husband and a daughter, eighteen months old, Mrs. Hyde is survived by two sisters, Mrs. A. M. McKee, of Orange place, and Dr. Isabella Whitney, of Montclair, Miss Ming Bisinger and Miss Alice McKee, of Plainfield, are a nephew and niece.

Y.M.C.A. OFFICERS GREET GEN. HORACE PORTER

The annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Thursday, given by the International committee of the Y. M. C. A., was attended by more than four hundred association directors, secretaries and members. General Horace Porter was the guest of honor and delivered the principal after-dinner speech in the absence of Secretary of State Root, who was detained in Boston on account of a funeral. Other noted men present were Commissioner Robert Watchorn, General Leonard Wood, August Belmont, U. S. Commissioner of Education Dr. Elmer E. Brown.

Reports were read by the secretaries in charge of the different departments of the committees' work all showing a splendid advance.

HEMORRHAGE FATAL TO BOROUGH BUILDER

Seized with a hemorrhage, as he was about to retire, death came suddenly to Samuel Snyder at his home on Manning avenue Thursday night. Though not enjoying good health for the past year or more he had been about most of the time and was out yesterday afternoon attending to some business matters. He felt fairly well throughout the evening and was just going to bed when stricken. He died within a short time.

Mr. Snyder was a native of Chimney Rock, where he was born forty-nine years ago. He came to Plainfield when a young man and after learning the mason's trade became a contracting builder. He erected a large number of structures in the city and borough, among them North Plainfield's new fire house on Somerset street. He was a member of Unity lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias; the Patriotic Order Sons of America and the Master Builders' Association. He is survived by a wife, two brothers, Louis Snyder, of Dunellen, and Jacob Snyder, of New Market; also one sister, Mrs. Jorges, of Somerville.

ASBURY PARK CHURCH REGRETS LOSING ITS PASTOR.

The Classis of Monmouth held a special meeting on Thursday, October 22, at Long Branch, and dissolved the pastoral relation between Rev. John Y. Brook and the Church of Asbury Park. Mr. Brook, to the great regret of his church and of the Classis, felt it to be his duty to accept the call of Trinity church, Plainfield, to succeed the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, who has resigned on account of sickness. Mr. Brook's short ministry at Asbury Park has been very successful and augurs well for like prosperity in the new and larger field. The Classis adopted the following minutes, expressive of its action: "The Classis of Monmouth regret that we are called together to effect the dissolution of the pastoral connection between the Grand Avenue Reformed church, of Asbury Park, and the Rev. John Y. Brook. We very keenly this good church must lose a pastor in whom work and character are held in such high esteem. We, as a Classis, will miss him, whose friendly and genial manner has endeared him to us. We rejoice in his prosperity and congratulate him on being called to a larger opportunity for service in the Master's Kingdom."—Christian Intelligencer.

SHERIFF NAMES HIS AIDES

Announces Complete List of Appointments on Assuming New Duties.

DODD RETAINED AS WARDEN.

New Incumbent Declares the Office Will Be Conducted on Strictly Business Principles.

Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland took possession of his new office in the Courthouse Wednesday, and he immediately announced the appointment of his assistants in the office, and their salaries. They are all reappointments, with the exception of the Under Sheriff and his assistant, and one new office is created—that of night watchman in the jail, to which position Frederick Kraus, of Elizabeth, was appointed at a salary of $720 a year. The position is generally night deputy warden.

Under Sheriff—Wm. H. Wright, of Rahway, salary, $2,500.

Warden—Charles W. Dodd, of Plainfield, salary, $1,500.

Matron of the jail—Mrs. C. W. Dodd, salary, $360.

Night Watchman—Fred'k Kraus, of Elizabeth, salary, $720.

There will be no change either in the personnel of the force of constables nor their remuneration for the present, according to the announcement.

"The office will be conducted on strictly business principles," said Sheriff Kirkland. "The hours for the Sheriff and everybody connected with the office will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and anyone having business with the office can depend on finding someone here to attend to their wants during those hours, excepting, of course, Sundays and legal holidays."

There was but little business for the new Sheriff Wednesday except to get acquainted, and he spent the day looking over the business that is in the office for transaction and in getting in touch with all its details.

Sheriff Lawrence, who went out of office at midnight Tuesday, spent the morning picking up his personal effects and in bidding farewell to the office he has occupied for the last three years.

RAGS AND BAGS FOR CHRISTMAS

Bags of all sorts never come amiss to a woman, therefore they make the most acceptable Christmas gifts.

One young woman who selects two articles to make each Christmas, dividing them among her friends as she thinks they will prove appropriate, has this year chosen as one of her gifts an easily-made bag which she expects to work up in all sizes and materials.

It is nothing more than a square piece of material, hemmed all around or doubled according to the weight. The corners are turned in to a flattened line and each one has securely sewed to it a brass or crocheted ring. Through each ring a ribbon long enough to let the bag out to a square is run. This makes laundering easy also lets the bag serve as a protection to the work when on the lap.

Girls, Learn to Knit.

Young girls can well afford to spend their spare time learning to knit the warm jackets and sweaters that are so useful.

So many girls complain of cold during the winter term, and suffer to a very severe extent when the chilly days of November and December come round, that few items of wearing apparel are more generally satisfactory than the warm knitted sport or blouse, which is having such a distinct success this autumn.

With a neat navy or brown serge skirt, a smart chestnut-colored coat of this description in modified Norfolk style, and worn with plain linen collar and tie, would look exceedingly well for schoolroom wear and would obviate many hours of chilly discomfort, which, in spite of well-warmed rooms and corridors, numbers of girls at the growing age suffer from acutely. Many dear mothers and aunts knit these coats beautifully, and make them doubly valuable with their work.

Will Celebrate Twice.

Councilman Herbert Buston, of West Front street, who has been at Winnipeg, Manitoba, on business, is now at his old home in San Jose, Ill., which he describes as a fine town, cold, plenty of fresh air and snow. He says that Monday, November 9, was Thanksgiving Day in Canada, and in consequence this year he will get in two celebrations of the event.

Y. M. C. A. Relay Race.

The local Y. M. C. A. have been asked by the officials having the road race in charge, which is to be run in relays from New York to Washington, to furnish twenty runners to carry the race from Plainfield to Franklin Park, a distance of about twelve miles. The date for the starting of the race has been changed to Friday, November 20.

BOROUGHITES OBJECT TO THEIR ASSESSMENTS

North Plainfield's Taxpayers Appeal to Authorities for Relief From Injustice.

COURTS AS LAST RESORT.

North Plainfield's Burden Greater Than Ever and Its Benefits no Better—Demand for Square Deal.

Representative men, all heavy tax payers in North Plainfield, have sounded a strong protest against the inequitable and unjust assessments levied against them. When such men as Edwin S. Hooley, Charles W. McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield, Frank del. Hyde, David T. Kenney and C. M. French sign a complaint, that document is well worth the most serious consideration of the body to whom it is addressed.

These remonstrating taxpayers have addressed the following petition to the Mayor and Common Council of North Plainfield:

"The statement presented by the Hon. Mayor Townsend at the last Council meeting on the subject of the largely increased assessments on property in the borough this year, which was reported in full by The Press under the caption of 'Explain Raised Values, etc.,' is we infer also a communication to the tax payers of the borough, and as such is intended to invite public comment.

"At the outset it is hardly necessary to say that there is no reason, or desire on the part of any one, so far as we know, to question for a moment Mayor Townsend's good faith and good intention in seeking in this matter, as in all others, to protect the interests of the borough. The mayor's statement is a defence of his action before the taxing authorities of the State and of the county in urging and securing an increase in the assessments in the borough, and throughout the county, for the purpose of bringing about a reduction of the borough tax rate, and also to obtain for the borough a larger proportion of the railroad tax money from the State. To quote his own words in this connection: 'I urged a raise in valuations for another reason, and that was so we might secure a larger amount of the railroad tax, which is apportioned by the State among the counties in proportion to their ratables.'

"It is disappointing that the Honorable Mayor's statement, while it plainly enough sets forth the worthy aims which induced his industrious advocacy of higher valuations before the State and county taxing officials, fails distinctly to point out what was the result of his efforts, or the seriously disadvantageous position in which the borough is now placed by reason of the changes which he succeeded in effecting.

"Criticism of the mayor's action is hardly in order until consideration of the actual outcome resulting from what appears to have been a grave tactical error in attempting to accomplish an object, which however correct and desirable theoretically, was impracticable with the existing political influences and conditions in the county. This outcome, as can be seen at a glance, instead of being as the mayor intended, an equitable increase of property valuations in all of the taxing districts of the county, and thus an ideal attainment of equalization of taxes as contemplated in the State's law, on the contrary proves to be a most unjust and inequitable discrimination against the borough of North Plainfield, aggravating the inequality which had previously existed in the unrequited payments made by our borough to the county treasury. The direct results of the advanced assessments throughout Somerset county are:

"That the borough of North Plainfield is paying as county taxes an increase this year of nearly $4,000, although the county's total tax budget is actually $10,000 less, and State, school and county taxes combined, North Plainfield's payment is $5,700 more than 1907.

"That Bridgewater district, which includes Somerville, contributes this year to State, school and county taxes $1,700 less than 1907.

"That the burden of taxes as between North Plainfield and Bridgewater has been shifted on to the shoulders of the tax payers of the borough of North Plainfield for the benefit of Bridgewater to the extent of approximately $7,400.

"That the borough of North Plainfield has incurred, on the basis of the new assessments, an annual additional expense equivalent to 4 per cent. interest on $140,000 without one dollar's benefit from the county.

"It has been a matter of common knowledge that our borough has for years past contributed to Somerset county's expenses far in excess of any corresponding benefits—local or otherwise—received, and this year as the result of the plan started by our own initiative, our borough is saddled with a further large donation to the county funds, thus relieving other districts to a like amount.

"At the present time the total acreage of Bridgewater district is assessed on the basis of $105 per acre, whereas that of the borough of North Plainfield is assessed at $1,250 per acre.

"It would have been difficult to devise a more potent scheme to coerce North Plainfield into "moving out" of Somerset county, and it is intimated by some persons well qualified to express an opinion, that political influence has been used with this end in view. This intimation does not, however, refer in the slightest to the Honorable Mayor.

"The argument that we were forced into this injustice by reason of our tax rate being above that prescribed by law loses its force when we take into consideration the fact that the minimum tax rate has been increased by the Legislature this spring, and that the county, for reasons stated, was in no position to make a decrease in our rate by way of enforcing an increase in our assessment. Furthermore, last year when we were above the legal rate, no one of our community refused to pay taxes on this ground, and we no not believe that any self-respecting citizen would engage for to take advantage of such a technicality when it was once clearly shown that the cash amount to be raised by our borough would be the same whether under a low assessment with a high rate or high assessment and a low rate. As the matter now stands each will pay or must in the future bear his share of this additional $5,700 per annum.

"The additional charge may be slightly reduced next year should Somerset county's apportionment of the State railroad taxes be increased. If this is not the precedent for which the county's portion of the railroad taxes is proportioned to its ratables, yet its redistribution throughout the county is made on the basis of each district's school attendance and teachers employed. In this latter respect it is not safe to assume that North Plainfield will differ greatly from its present year. In any event, the borough will not receive next year from this source $1,000 increase over that which would have been due if no assessment raise had been made; therefore, our borough is paying out to the county treasurer for which the county's portion of the railroad tax is ap

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

"The honor of being a citizen of this great Republic would of itself be a sufficient cause for annually setting apart, in accordance with custom, a day for thanksgiving and prayer, but the people of New Jersey have much else to be thankful for. Their church relations, their free schools, their good roads, their unique situation, their clean State government, their picturesque hills, their unsurpassed seacoast, their efficient municipal governments, their vast mining, manufacturing and industrial interests, and their high average intelligence, all give cause for unbounded gratitude to the Giver of all good. Besides all this, the fields have been fertile, our homes happy, our transportation facilities satisfactory, the wages of labor fair, and the price of the product of our farms and the output of our factories remunerative. When to all this is added a splendid civic spirit, which is abroad in our public life, we can, indeed, be grateful for the Providence overruling it all. On every account our lot may truly be said to be cast in pleasant places.

"Therefore, I, John Franklin Fort, Governor of the State of New Jersey, do designate Thursday, the 26th day of November instant, as a day to be observed for general thanksgiving and prayer, and upon that day I recommend that all business cease, and that the people gather in their respective churches and other places for public worship, and in their homes in private, to make fitting acknowledgment to Almighty God of his unbounded benefactions to us as nation, state and individuals.

"Given under my hand and seal at the Executive Chamber, in the city of Trenton, the 13th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-third.

NOT A SQUARE DEAL.

Sound and convincing is the timely and justifiable argument made by large property owners of North Plainfield against the inequitable, unreasonable and extraordinary assessment methods resorted to in that borough. Very rightly, the complaining residents have appealed to the Mayor and Council to have the proper remedy applied and it is up to those authorities to lose no time in properly stating their case before the Somerset county board. Should relief be denied there, then the only recourse, as the petitioners intimate, is for action in the courts, where beyond the preadventure of a doubt "the square deal" will be found.

No one will gainsay the fact that Mayor Townsend in his successful efforts to have assessments raised uniformly in order to have rates lowered and larger railroad tax apportionment for the borough acted for the common good of his fellow citizens. But the fact remains that the desired results were not obtained. This was due in a large measure, possibly to the skillfull machinations of assessors in other sections of Somerset who saw an opportunity to reap a benefit for their own people and to make the burden heretofore borne by North Plainfielders all the more heavier. The figures show that the intended "reform" has worked as a serious detriment to boroughites who will be called upon now to pay a more exorbitant sum than ever to the county treasurer and who will receive not one penny more than the niggardly returns given in the past.

Some say and with plausible argument that behind it all is a carefully laid scheme to drive North Plainfield into Union county. Would that it be a part and parcel of this progressive jurisdiction but that such a change should be brought about by such methods no honest man would sanction. Annexation is bound to come sooner or later and the longer it is delayed the greater must be the loss to the taxpayers of "across the brook." But as long as present unnatural conditions exist, decency, law, order and equity demand that the borough taxpayer be given an honest deal. He is not getting it to day. He will get it on the morrow or he will know the reason why.

The Daily Press fully endorsing the action of the complaining tax payers calls the attention of its readers to the address to the borough authorities made by these protestants. This address will be found on the first page of this issue.

When the late President-elect was asked what he thought of Congressman Charles N. Fowler's effort to have himself named to fill Speaker "Joe" Cannon's shoes, he replied: "Ha, ha, that's funny, very funny. Mr. Fowler is quite a humorist." So say we, all of us.

Even the most optimistic election forecaster fell far behind the result in figuring on Taft's majority in this State. It appears that Taft's plurality reaches 82,389, which is 1,791 more than received by Roosevelt, whose phenominal run in 1904 was one of the greatest surprises in that campaign.

The Trenton True American, one of the most ancient and honorable of New Jersey newspapers, has been given a new and attractive dress by Henry Eckert Alexander, its purchaser. For a half century or more the publication had been in the Naar family since the death of the distinguished Joseph L. Naar fortune had not been so favorable to it. Some short time ago, however, William W. St. John was engaged by the receivers and he brightened it up considerably in the face of severe handicaps. If Mr. Alexander continues to keep his journal as newsy as Mr. St. John made it, he should, with ease and the addition of the necessary capital to push the enterprise, be should be able to restore it in time to the honored place it once held among the newspapers in the smaller cities in the East.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mimi Aguglia, the Italian tragedienne who will appear at the head of The Sicilians when they begin their engagement at The Broadway Theatre, New York, November 23, pronounces her name Meeme Agweelya. Among the press notices sent to Arnold Daly, Miss Aguglia's impressario, Joseph G. Schurmann, was the line—"now it is finished with Bernhardt and Duse. Mimi Aguglia is the one."

Now that Miss Ethel Barrymore has begun her annual New York engagement, almost the entire Barrymore-Drew family is in the city. Miss Barrymore is playing "Lady Frederick," one Maugham comedy, at the Hudson while her uncle, John Drew, is playing in "Jack Straw," another comedy by the same author at The Empire Theatre. At the same time Miss Louise Drew, Mr. Drew's daughter, is nightly appearing as a member of Miss Billie Burke's company in "Love Watches" at The Lyceum Theatre. George Drew Mendum, a cousin of Miss Barrymore's, is also playing in New York.

Nothing mercier nor clever is to be seen on the New York city stage than "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which is the season's offering of Brady and Joseph H. Grismer, the producers of "The Man of the Hour," are offering as co-stars those admirable comedians, Thomas A. Wise and Douglas Fairbanks, in the Bijou Theatre. Eight performances a week are being given, six nights, at 8:15 and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at 2:15. As in the case of "The Man Who Stood Still," in which Mr. Brady offers Mr. Louis Mann in the Circle Theatre, here is a play, this "Gentleman from Mississippi," to which mothers and fathers may safely take their children when in search of wholesome, clean, uplifting entertainment. The play has the endorsement of the People's Institute. A matinee at reduced prices is given Wednesdays, when the best seats cost only $1.50, and excellent reserved seats can be had as low as 50 cents. The Bijou is at Thirtieth street and Broadway, in the heart of the shopping district of New York.

Marie Cahill is appearing in her new musical play, "The Boys and Betty," at Wallack's Theatre, New York, and has scored the greatest success of her continuously successful starring career. There is no doubt that the play marks an advance in the development of the American idea of the musical play, and, as a medium for unfolding the comprehensive abilities of the charming star, it is the best she has ever had. To George V. Hobart goes the laurel for at last turning out a sane and interesting story with music, and to Silvio Hein as well for a multitude of haunting melodies which dovetail with the book and aid materially in the handling of the play. The production is a triumph. There is a multitude of new scenic effects never before attempted in musical plays; the scenery itself is a complete revelation, especially the second act which represents with most careful detail a swagger notion shop in Paris; the gowns and hats outrival anything ever before seen on the stage. Miss Cahill is supported by a splendid cast.

Julia Marlowe, who is to appear again under the management of the Messrs. Shubert, will be the attraction to inaugurate her season with a production of "The Goddes of Reason," a new poetical drama by Mary Johnston. The play was called to the attention of Miss Marlowe and the Messrs. Shubert only a few day ago by a Boston admirer of the actress, and Miss Marlowe will offer her Shakesperean repertoire as already announced, but she has decided to make "The Goddess of Reason" her initial offering as she is so pleased with the piece that she cannot bring herself to postpone the production. "The Goddess of Reason," a drama in five acts, is the first original dramatic writing from the pen of Miss Johnston. Her two famous novels, "To Have and to Hold" and "Audrey," were both dramatized, but the present play is the first of her productions to have been conceived and executed as a drama. Moreover, "The Goddess of Reason" is in blank verse and therefore is of distinct literary importance as bringing Miss Johnston before the public for the first time in the capacity of a dramatic poet.

DUNELLEN BURGLARS GET WINTER CLOTHES

Burglars broke into the tailor shop of Oscar Victorson at Dunellen last Sunday and carried away four overcoats and three dress coats. They forced an entry through the back window, smashing the glass and leaving in the snow outside many foot prints but which, when merged with those on the street, could not be tracked farther.

The owner of the shop lives in North Plainfield and the loss was not discovered until he opened up Monday morning.

PRINCETON ENTHUSIASTS STONED YALE AUTOISTS

State pride and youthful enthusiasm for home talent led to the arrest of ten West End boys, early Saturday afternoon, and their subsequent arraignment in the city court this morning.

Police headquarters was called on the telephone about noon by a resident of West Front street, near Compton avenue, who said that a crowd of youngsters was making life miserable for automobile parties on the way to the football game at Princeton. Whenever a car came along bearing Old Eli's colors, it was greeted with a volley of stones and shouts of derision, but on the contrary, if one hove in sight with the orange and black of Nassau flying proudly in front, it received a rousing send-off of cheers and expressions of good will. A Yale car had just been lambasted good and proper when Detective-Sergeant Flynn swooped down and caught the entire delegation.

The boys gave their names as follows: Joseph Bickerman, Henry Donnelly, Albert Porter, Percy Bunn, Frank Bond, Philip Millwater, Russell Hunt, Clifford Edmunds, Henry Anderson and Elmer Anderson. All showed up Monday with the exception of the Anderson boys, but as there was a heavy docket and all of the defendants were needed at school Judge Runyon put the case over to Saturday morning.

PUTTING GOWNS AWAY.

Great care should be taken in laying away delicate gowns.

Don't turn them inside out before hanging them up. As the outside is looser than the lining this method of hanging produces creases and quickly ruins the set of the skirt.

If a silk is very delicate in color put the skir. on a hanger and inclose it in a bag of blue muslin.

If a sachet is attached to the hanger the skirt will be pleasantly scented. Blouses should be laid in boxes with the sleeves each box stuffed with tissue paper and the sleeves also filled with it. Cover the blouses with muslin and, if possible, do not put one directly on top of another. With a little contriving this can generally be managed by wrapping them so that the crushable parts are free from pressure, or by putting them in separate shallow cardboard.

WORN COLLAR EDGES.

The edges of stiff linen collars that are slightly worn and therefore scratch the neck, can be made comfortable by rubbing them with dry soap. If a fine white variety is used there is no unpleasant result from the treatment.

It is said that if all collars are treated in this way the wearer need never be troubled with the dark mark that is apt to come where the top of the collar touches the neck.

Another way to lengthen the life of a collar is to have it laundered wrong side out; but this, of course, can only be done with plain linen ones.

He Lost the Bet.

An Irish waiter named Kenny was noted for his wit and ready answers. A party of gentlemen, who were staying at the hotel, board of Kenny's wit, and one of them made a bet that he would say something that Kenny couldn't answer at once.

A bottle of champagne was ordered; the one who had made the bet took hold of the bottle and commenced to open it. The cork came out with a "bang," and flew into Kenny's mouth.

"Ah," he said, "that is no: the way to Cork!"

Kenny took the cork out of his mouth and replied: "No, but it's the way to 'Kill-Kenny.'"—Ideas.

New York Easy for P. H. S.

The Plainfield High School football team was easily the victors in their game Saturday with the second team of the High School of Commerce of New York city, winning by a score of 29 to 0. Their opponents, although heavier, were weak in line plunges and in nearly all of their forward passes they were penalized. Despite the sleet, rain and mud, which put the field in a sloppy condition, the playing was fairly brisk. The trick plays of the Eternal Life, What Is It?

What is eternal life? Our Lord Himself defined it in these words, "This is eternal life, to know Thee, the only true God and Jesus Christ, whom Thou has sent." In other words "this is eternal life to know God." This sounds like a strange definition, because it is so natural to think of eternal as everlasting time. Then we have thought of eternal life as something which begins after death. We have, therefore, these contrasted thoughts in our minds; the temporal life we are living now and the eternal life we are to live by and by; yet the Scripture speaks of eternal life as a present possession, "He that believeth, hath eternal life." Of course, that belief must be more than intellectual in its nature; it must be more than an opinion. It must be a trust; such a trust or confidence in Christ, that makes Him Lord and Redeemer and Master of our lives. Eternal life, then, is the experience of God in your life. In the appeals to men to live Christian lives, we have often heard the words, "Where are you going to spend eternity?" The appeal is not unreasonable. It is better to ask, "What is your present relation to the eternal life? Are you living that life here and now?" For eternal life is to know God, and you can begin to know God now. This relation to God will never be disturbed by what we call death. Not all human beings believe in the eternal life as a present reality. Their attachment is to things that have merely a temporary value. Life to many men consists in having the wherewithal to enjoy the things of time. They would enjoy life if they had the means. They would build a mansion and own a motor car, or several, if they had the capital. They would travel and see everything. This is them, would be the very acme of bliss. I hear the Lord say to this class of people, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth." A man's life! Mark you, for a man made in the image of God cannot find permanent satisfaction in things that are of temporal value. Paul had a knowledge of the world. He was a man of broad experience. He said to Timothy, "Lay hold on eternal life, and then, in the same breath, he declared that this was the only real life,—the life indeed.

Some men believe that happiness in life consists in knowledge, and yet we have the testimony of the greatest minds that knowledge alone, without the thought of God and the immortal life does not satisfy the soul.

The very growth of enlightment, when there is not associated with it the belief in God and the immortal life, leads a man to despair. Knowledge alone never leads to happiness. The great philosopher Schopenhauer says: "And for them the have no consciousness of existence. The life of the animal is more to be envied than that of man; the life of the plant is better than that of the fish in the water, even of the oyster on the rock. Non-being is better than being, and unconsciousness is the blessedness of the lifeless stone. The best would be if all existence were annihilated." Why such a despair with all his knowledge! Because he did not believe in a personal God, whose heart is filled with good will to men. There was to his mind, only a blind, purposeless, unbehind nature. Goethe, the greatest literary genius Germany ever possessed, was not supremely happy with his knowledge for he confessed that he never, in all his seventy-five years, had a month of genuine enjoyment. It is not knowledge alone that will make them happy. It is a consciousness of God and of His good will to them. Christ came into this world that men might become better acquainted with God. This is what He means by the eternal life. "This life is more than everlasting life. Eternal is that which transcends time. It is that which has God in it. To know God in your experience is to know what life is.

This thought of eternal life helps up to understand the meaning of eternal punishment. If the eternal life is to know God, and not to be in harmony with His plans and purposes.

Eternal life, then, is a great deal more than living forever and ever. It is living with a consciousness that God is ruling your life; that God is young about you as a protecting, guiding power, because you have yielded up your will—yourself to Him. Paul told the Philippians that his citizenship was in heaven. That was simply another way of declaring that he was living the eternal life.

Princess Haim Eberstein said to her son Daniel Deronda: "Then talk of another life beyond the grave, I have long since entered on another life." It is man's privilege and duty to enter upon that life today.

"Some day or other, I shall surely come

Where true hearts wait for me,
Then let me learn the language of that home.

While here on earth I be,
Lest my poor lips for want of words be dumb
In that high Company."

I know of no better words in which to express this thought of the eternal life as a present possession than those of Phillips Brooks: "There is a bread of eternity running through human lives, something in all their transitoriness which must endure. The eternal part of us is not that which God shall choose at some future day to endow with everlasting life. Eternity is the true quality in the thing itself. That which is to exist forever has now in it the essence of immortality. It is nobler now than the perishable thing beside it. It not merely is to be, it is eternal. The power of the endless life is the power of the present life. That part of us which is to outlive the grave, and to go on and on into a length of life where the imagination and the faith ache, is then they try to follow it, is not that superior continuance, only because now it has a superior nature, and is to be the permanent part of us, because it is now the great and significant part of us." The significant part is in our nature today—and this is eternal life.

Death!—we make too much of it. It is an episode in our life, and it will never do us harm. It is rather the opening up of our powers. Christ spoke of His death as an Exodus. He had in mind the deliverance of Israel from bondage. That deliverance from bondage was an Exodus. Death, therefore, is not an extinction; it is a release from the bondage of this life into the larger life of the spiritual world.

Dr. Bradley speaks of Job's question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" Jesus would not have given a categorical "yes." His reply would have been, "If a man live he shall never die;" for that is what our Lord said to Martha, in answer to her statement that she knew that her brother Lazarus would rise from the dead the last day. Our Lord said, "I am the resurrection and the life, he that believeth in me shall never die."

Christ has not only given us a clearer and more definite idea of the other world, but He has told us that we are living in it today, and that we can let it touch our lives. We are living in a material world, but we are living in a spiritual world at the same time. We recognize one relation. Do we sufficiently recognize the other? John Morley tells this story of Gladstone, that he never went into a cabinet council without an hour's communion to God. He was acquainted with God. It is also said of Michael Angelo, that he never painted a picture until he had prayed. The eternal life is your privilege. You can feel the power of God in your life if you will. Let the undercurrent of all your complex earthly life be that of unceasing prayer to God.

"Speak to Him for He hears, and spirit with spirit can meet.
Closer is He than breathing and nearer than hands and feet."

KEEPING THE CORSET FRESH AND NEAT.

Many people believe it economy to pay as little as possible for the corset

One should not economize on the first cost, but once in possession of a good article, all sorts of economies may be practiced in order to save money for another pair. In fact, they can be mended and mended until they are like the boy's jackknife that had six new blades and five new handles.

As long as the bones or steels in any part become the least bit out of shape the binding should be ripped from the lower edge, the old ones taken out and new ones put in. By doing this corsets will keep their shape until they literally drop apart.

To strengthen corsets over the hips and to prevent the front from breaking little shields, made either of three or five strips of steel, five or six inches in length, and held together in the centre with a strip of the material, can be bought and placed inside the corset.

It is well to put shirtwaists, etc., to one's stays, but then many women do, and in time it is bound to tear the material.

As soon as it shows the least sign of being worn immediately patch it with a piece of heavy drilling. Instead of turning the edges of the patch in, which makes too much heavy ridge, baste it flat to the corset and with a piece of embroidery cotton cat-stitch the edges flat.

When they require cleaning this can also be done at home. Lay them on a soft pine board, and with an ordinary scrubbing brush, bought for the purpose, scrub them well with warm water and soap, first on one side and then on the other. Rinse them well under a faucet, and if they are hung where they will dry quickly there will be no rust marks.

Celebrated Silver Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi C. Kline, of Somerset street, were given a surprise party at their home Friday night, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. The evening was spent playing games, and enjoying a vocal and instrumental program, after which refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Kline received a large number of useful and handsome gifts appropriate to the occasion. The affair was a pleasant one throughout and the celebrants were heartily congratulated.

S. O.'S GREATEST PLANT

It's Near Elizabeth Where 5,000 Men Will Go to Work on January 1.

WORK QUIETLY DONE ENDS.

10,000 Will Eventually Be Employed There—To Be Huge Refinery City.

Within two miles of Elizabeth, the Standard Oil Company has quietly constructed the greatest oil refinery in the world. The plant is rapidly nearing completion, and it is planned to have it in operation soon after January 1. More than 5,000 men will be employed at the opening, and the plant will ultimately require at least 10,000 workers. As much secrecy as possible has been observed.

Even now, when eleven of thirty-three great storage tanks for crude oil have been connected with the Philadelphia branch pipe line tapping the Pennsylvania oil regions; when sixty of the vast stills and condensers have been completed; when one railroad line has been tapped and great docks along the water front are under constuction; with the wooden shacks of the construction gangs being replaced rapidly by the permanent brick shops for mechanics; definite announcement of its plans is still withheld at No. 26 Broadway New York.

The Bay Way Refineries Company is the name of the mammoth industrial establishment, which promises to eclipse Gary, the wonderful new city built by the steel trust upon the shores of Lake Mighigan. It is located at one of the bends of Arthur Kill around the little junction of Bay Way, about two miles south of Elizabeth.

More Than 2,000 Acres.

The tract, covering more than 2,000 acres, extends from the shores of Staten Island sound back to Linden. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks run off one of the which has not been cleared of timber, but which will eventually be included in the great fenced territory of the refinery itself.

The construction work upon this establishment has progressed with amazing rapidity. Just one year ago the tract was covered with a young forest and tough sea grass. In one month the clearing of these acres was accomplished, and eleven months of construction work, giving employment to from 2,400 to 3,750 men a day, the first stages of development has transformed all of this into a modern industrial plant.

A request made to Superintendent J. G. Black for an official statement as to the figures and plans for the new plant was referred to the office of the Standard Oil Company at 2 Broadway, New York.

The plant is isolated from communication by established methods of transportation. Less than one hundredth of the thousands of employes engaged upon the construction of the plant are housed within two miles of the plant. And, unlike the huge corporation establishments of Gary and Pullman, no provision has been made to house future employes on the property.

Labor Troubles Experienced.

Already labor troubles have been experienced in the new plant. A stone-throwing riot broke out about a month ago between groups of workmen at the entrance to the property about 100 yards from the office of Superintendent Black. As a result signs have been posted, printed in several languages, informing applicants that no common labor is wanted.

A uniformed police force, the members of which are armed with heavy night sticks, patrols the entire tract and guard every entrance and exit. Special watchmen, also carrying clubs, are found at important buildings within the plant.

Switch tracks have been laid and are now connected with a spur line extending from the Long Branch line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Construction material now is transported by this line.

WEEKLY CHASE.

Watchung Hunt Riders Cover Eight Miles.

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club was held Saturday afternoon, the riders starting from the Plainfield Country Club and going a distance of about eight miles, around Oak Tree, Mt. Pleasant, and the surrounding country. Although the weather was disagreeable and the going not extra good, the riders enjoyed the chase. There was only one spill that of Alexander Shields, of Bound Brook. He was riding "Harry Bailor," and before the start the horse threw its rider and he did not continue. Mr. Shields is an experienced horseman, but the horse got the best of him. He was not injured.

The club will meet at the kennel Wednesday morning at 6:30 o'clock for another hunt.

Surprised on His Birthday.

Fifty friends of Elton Giles, of West Fifth street, gave him a surprise party, Friday night, in honor of his birthday.

MERCHANTS PLAN DINNER

Their Association Also Considers Scheme to Organize an Express Company.

NAME FORCE FOR PRESIDENT.

Holiday Schedule is Finally Agreed Upon—Two Committees Are Appointed.

Nomination of officers to be elected at the January meeting, a decision to hold a banquet early in January with prominent speakers, and adoption of a schedule for holidays and a movement to organize a local express company among the members, were the most important matters decided at the meeting of the Plainfield Merchants' Association Monday night. There was a large attendance of members and the various topics were followed by lively discussion.

These officers were nominated and will be elected at the January meeting: President, A. E. Force; first vice-president, Herbert Schuldenfrei; second vice-president, A. J. Duttenhoffer; treasurer, John S. Johnston; secretary, H. P. Greenwood.

On account of the date for the next meeting coming so near the holiday season, it was decided to hold it earlier in the month, the date to be fixed later.

Morris C. Van Arsdale, Herman Schwed, F. A. Duttenhoffer, R. Barnhard and Theodore J. Shirley were appointed a committee to arrange for a banquet early in January, the details of which will be announced later. Speakers of national prominence have been assured for the occasion.

The question of keeping open or remaining closed on holidays has caused so much discussion in the past it was decided to fix a schedule for the coming year, the merchants agreed to close their shops all day on New Year's, Decoration Day, Washington's Birthday, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, and to close a half-day on Lincoln's Birthday, State election, and on such holidays when the stores are closed all day, they will be kept open the evening before.

The recent independent express business which was in operation between Plainfield and New York, having been given up, the merchants decided to organize their own express company, and a committee comprising Herbert Schuldenfrei, M. Levy and Harry Dreier, was appointed to carry out the wish of the association. It is believed that if all the merchants co-operate in the support of this project it will be a success.

H. Bellmer, Harold Stone and E. Fisk Brown were elected to membership. After the business, refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, coffee and ice cream were served, after which a smoker was enjoyed.

LITERARY

Bradley Gilman, a classmate of President Roosevelt at Harvard, has written a story of adventure in Egypt called "A son of the Desert," which will be published serially in St. Nicholas in 1909. A young American lad is a leading character; and the narrative has, among other incidents of stirring interest, an account of a horrible sandstorm, and a capture by brigands who are outwitted by an explosion of dynamite, and a subterranean escape.

Church Improvements Progressing.

The extensive improvements underway at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church seem to be progressing more favorably than at any time since they were started. The wood work, which was greatly delayed, was delivered from Boston last week. The new organ has arrived from Boston and will be set up as soon as it can be done in safety and without injury from the dust which the work in the church is causing. The new glass arrived on Friday and will be put in position as soon as possible. The mason work is finished and the new pulpit arch is nearly completed. At present it is impossible to say when the edifice will be ready for services again.

John Bremmer Taken Ill.

John Bremmer of Greenbrook road suffered an attack of heart trouble while walking on East Front street, near Park avenue, Saturday night, and this combined with the slippery condition of the walk, caused him to fall. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried to Whitney's carpet store, nearby. In the meantime his physician, Dr. C. A. Gusewein was called and he removed Mr. Bremmer to his home in his studio, and placed under treatment. Mr. Bremmer is subject to heart spells and he is seldom permitted to leave the house unaccompanied.

FEAST OF G.O.P. CLANS

Kean, Fowler and Ackerman Speak at the Union County Committee Dinner.

CHAIRMAN SMITH TOASTMASTER

Hundred Republican Workers Gather to Celebrate the Victory at the Polls.

One hundred or more of the active political workers, principally members of the Union County Republican Committee, under whose auspices the affair was held, attended a dinner at Russ's restaurant in Elizabeth Monday. All "the big guns," politically, were on hand to participate in the celebration over the recent victory.

Included among the number were United States Senator John Kean, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Assemblyman A. P. Kirstein, Carlton B. Pierce and Augustus W. Schwartz and Sheriff Robert Kirkland. County Chairman Frank H. Smith acted as toastmaster and during the evening he came in for a good share of credit for the party's big victory.

Senator Kean was warm in his praises of the county committee for its part in bringing about the record-breaking Republican vote. Incidentally he recalled the days when he was a member of that body and related some of his experiences in that connection. Senator Kean said that he was at one time treasurer, later secretary and finally chairman and that he knew of the great amount of work accomplished by that body as well as its large measure of responsibilities.

Congressman Fowler, like Senator Kean, eulogized Taft, and referred to *his prediction made two months be*fore the election that the Republican Presidential nominee would receive 75,000 plurality in this State. He added that he was pleased to find that the result surpassed his prediction. Mr. Fowler thanked the committee for what it had done during his campaign.

In his speech, Senator Ackerman took occasion to thank the party in general for the splendid vote given him and assured the committeemen that he would strive to his utmost to maintain the high standard set by his predecessors as State Senator from Union. He congratulated Chairman Smith and the county committee on the work in behalf of their loyal services.

The county chairman had something to say too. He declared that he took no personal credit for the big victory, but that as he had been chosen to head the organized workers he did all in his power to make the triumph as big as possible. Incidently he thanked the committeemen for the fine support given him.

The other speakers included Assemblyman Kirstein, Pierce and Schwartz, Master-elect Victor Mravlag, of Elizabeth, and Sheriff Kirkland.

The restaurant was gayly decorated for the occasion with American flags, bunting and the like.

Here is the menu:

Oysters on half shell
Cream of Celery Mock Turtle
Olives Salted Almonds Radishes
Roast Beef.
Sliced Turkey
Ham Tongue
Chicken Salad Potato Salad
Ice Cream Fancy Cakes.

Romance of Glen Gardner.

George Conkling, chief engineer and electrician at the State Sanitarium for Tuberculosis Diseases at Glen Gardner, and Miss Edna Eversole, of Pattenburg, were married at the bride's home Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Conkling are spending their honeymoon at Niagara Falls. They will reside in Glen Gardner. At the opening of the sanitarium a little more than a year ago, Mr. Conkling, whose home is in Somerville, was engaged as engineer and electrician, and Miss Eversole served as trained nurse. It was then they became acquainted. The wedding was set for October 21. A few days before this date Miss Eversole was taken so seriously ill that the wedding had to be postponed.

W. R. Townsend's Success.

William Raymond Townsend, a Brewster boy, who for several years held the record as patentee of more Hallowe'en pranks than any of his associates, is making good at Plainfield, N. J. On Tuesday, Nov. 3d, he was elected Tax Collector of that city by a majority away ahead of every other candidate on the ticket except Taft. His picture in The Plainfield Daily Press shows the same curly-haired, rosy, smiling Will. Long may he wave and win.—The Brewster (N. Y.) Standard.

Plainfielders for Jury Duty.

The following Plainfielders were selected Monday to serve on the petit jury at Elizabeth for two weeks beginning next Monday: Charles Manley, Frank T. Ostrom, U. B. Crane, William A. Garrigues, Samuel Williams, Sylvester Sharkey, Arthur J. Spicer, George A. Beaton, Franklin Merrill, Ernest T. Hand, Thomas Wheeler, Arthur Vail, Frank Smalley and Louis DuBoise.

AGED MOTHER IS ILL; SON AVOIDS SUPPORT

Celestina Bracco, the aged Italian woman who cut herself in the temple with a broken bottle during a fit of anger several weeks ago and was taken to the hospital, is about to be sent to her son in New York though not with his consent. The woman had been living with her sister on Regent street, but the latter claims she cannot afford to support her any more and as the hospital authorities do not hold a case after it becomes chronic, the Italian woman, being a chronic invalid and unable to care for herself is about to become a charge in the county unless her relatives provide for her, which they seem unwilling to do.

The borough authorities have written to the son, who has a barber shop on Boston road, Bronx, New York, and he declares that he is unable to care for his mother; that he has only one room in the rear of his shop. It is about decided, however, to take her to him and that, too, without any advance notice, as it is thought he would absent himself from the place should he be informed of her coming.

TAFT'S PLURALITY 82,389 IN NEW JERSEY

A tabulation of the vote of New Jersey for presidential electors at the last election, made by a reporter of the Trenton State Gazette, from returns in the office of the secretary of State, at Trenton, with the missing returns of the State gotten over the telephone by that paper last night, shows that William Howard Taft received at the election a plurality over William Jennings Bryan of 82,389, or the greatest plurality the State ever gave a presidential candidate.

This Taft plurality even beats the former high-water mark for Roosevelt of four years ago, when the Roosevelt plurality ran up to the unheard-of figures of 80,598. The Taft *plurality beats the Roosevelt plural*ity by 1,791.

The work on these figures was so carefully done, and so fully verified that it is believed that the official returns made by the State Board of Canvassers a week from today will not show it out of the way more than a hundred votes, either in favor of Mr. Taft or Mr. Bryan.

The vote for presidential electors at the last election will be found to be as follows: Republican, 265,189; Democratic, 182,800; Socialist, 10,249; National Prohibitionist, 4,930; Socialist Labor, 1,196, and Independence party, 2,911.

The returns show that the Socialist vote gained 662 votes in four years. The Prohibitionist vote fell off 1,915, or nearly 30 per cent., and the So*cialist Labor vote lost 1,584 in four* years, or about 60 per cent.

UNION CO. REPUBLICANS TO ATTEND INAUGURATION.

The Republican County Committee Monday night finished up the busine of the recent campaign. After the reading of reports and the treasurer's statement of contributions, Chairman Smith thanked the members for the hearty co-operation given him.

The chairman appointed a committee to escort for the trip to Washington on March 4, for the inauguration of Taft. James White, of Elizabeth, was named as chairman; James C. Calvert, of Elizabeth, secretary, and J. R. Randolph, of Rahway, treasurer. Other members of the committee are J. W. Cliff, of Summit, and William Tucker, of Westfield.

Y. M. C. A. Relay Race.

The local relay runners have not been selected for the big Y. M. C. A. race next Friday. The list will probably be completed Thursday morning. The Elizabeth runners will carry the message to the Y. M. C. A building here and the Dunellen boys, some twelve-five or more in number, will take in relays of a quarter to a half-mile each, to North Branch, where the North Branch boys, who are members of the Dunellen association, will take the tube and carry it to Franklin Park, a distance of seven miles. The race is from New York to Washington.

Lecture on Constantinople.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph will give an illustrated lecture on "Constantinople" at the Third Presbyterian church, Newark, on Friday night. In the near future, it is possible that Mr. Randolph will favor Plainfield with an illustrated talk on "Athens."

S. S. Basketball League.

The Sunday-school Athletic League basketball committee have effected the organization of a basketball league comprising the following teams: Crescent Avenue, First Baptist, Hope Chapel, Seventh Day Baptist, 1907 champions, and First Presbyterian.

FATHER BOGAN'S SERMON

St. Mary's Pastor Preaches to 2,000 Knights of Columbus at Newark.

AT SOLEMN VESPER SERVICE.

Big Parade Participated in by Delegations from Thirteen Councils Precedes Service.

Upwards of 2,000 members of the Knights of Columbus participated Sunday in a special solemn vesper service in St. James' Roman Catholic church, Newark, under the aspices of the New Jersey Chapter of the order. Delegations were present from all of the thirteen councils comprising the chapter and a parade preceded the service.

Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, State chaplain of the order, delivered the sermon. After welcoming the visiting knights to the city on behalf of the local councils, he spoke upon Christianity and the Knights of Columbus. He said that the organization was one of the greatest orders in the country in that it stood for everything that Catholicity and Christianity stand for, and also for the uplifting of its members, especially in a moral sense. He dwelt at some length upon the benefits to be derived from being a knight. "The members of the order give evidence," continued the speaker, "of their faith and loyalty by their presence at this grand service here tonight."

Vespers were celebrated by the Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, curate at St. James' church, Newark, with the Rev. William Corcoran, chaplain of the Newark councils, as deacon, and the Rev. E. A. Degen as sub-deacon. Father O'Donnell also was the celebrant at benediction of the blessed sacrament. The Rev. William Richmond acted as master of ceremonies.

Besides representatives from the three local branches, Newark Council, Olive Branch and Star of Bethlehem Council, there were delegations in line from Watchung Council, of this city, the Kearny Council, Belleville Council, Orange Council, Bloomfield Council, Montclair Council, Summit Council, Bailey Council of Elizabeth, Rahway Council, Carey Council of Carteret and the Uniform Corps of Brooklyn.

TRINITY QUARTET CHOIR EDIFIES THE WORSHIPPERS

A large congregation thoroughly enjoyed the fine musical service given at Trinity Reformed church last night by the quartet choir, Miss S. Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; F. S. Cutter, bass and E. D. Young, tenor, under the direction of Arthur L. Tilsworth. The special program comprised six numbers, and in each the members of the quartet acquitted itself in a manner that was pleasing to all.

Especially enjoyable was the soprano solo, "Great is the Holy One of Israel," by Miss Raybert, the selection affording her an exceptional opportunity to display the wide range and sweetness of her well trained voice. Another pleasing number was the duet, "My Faith Looks up to Thee," by Miss Raybert and F. S. Cutter. Their voices harmonized perfectly and the rendition was very effective. The contralto solo, "Babylon," by Miss Winifred Carroll, was also one of the best numbers and she was in fine voice.

The other quartet numbers were "Sing Alleluia Forth," Dudley Buck; "Salve Regina," Augusto Rotoli and "From Every Earthly Pleasure," Lists-Shelley, and they were given in a finished and pleasing manner, mak*ing the service an inspiring one.* Mr. Titsworth, as an accompanist, assisted largely in making the service a successful one.

In connection with the special numbers by the quartet, there were three hymns selected for the occasion "Ein Feste Burg," Martin Luther's great hymn written in 1529; "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," written in 1852 by Phoebe Carey, when she was seventeen years old, and "Just As I Am," written by Caroline Elliott in 1836. In the singing of these hymns there was particular interest as Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, in connection with his sermon, spoke of their authors and of the great help the hymns have been in religious work. The information given concerning these hymns by Dr. Johnson impressed the congregation very favorably.

Michael Gillman Injured.

Michael Gillman, aged fourteen years, of New street, while riding his bicycle near the postoffice Saturday afternoon, was struck by an automobile owned by Morris Brothers, of East Fourth street, and received a fracture of the collarbone. He was assisted to his home and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was summoned. eH set the bone and yesterday it was decided to remove the lad to the hospital. The injury is not a serious one and the lad is expected to recover within a few weeks.

BLUECOAT SAVED MAN FROM FREEZING TO DEATH

Patrolman Arthur McGinley's attention was attracted by a succession of groans at Grant avenue and Seventh street, late Monday, and tracing them up discovered the inanimate form of a man in the shadow of a tree. He was numb with the cold and would have probably have frozen to death but for the fact that he was fortified with rum. The officer had him taken to headquarters where he described himself as John Crawford, a farm hand, living at Belle Mead, after he had been thawed out.

In court, Tuesday, Crawford told Judge Runyon he was on his way from Belle Mead to West field to get some clothes at a former working place and stopped off at Dunellen to see a friend. They had a couple of drinks in a saloon and it gave him a thirst that needed quenching when he reached Grant avenue on a trolley car. He got off in search of a booze *camp and found it. The fact ex*plains his presence where the cop found him but he couldn't tell how he got there.

The magistrate suspended sentence on Crawford with the stipulation that he leave liquor along for at least three months and expressed his gratitude to Patrolman McGinley for saving his life. He agreed to both and the bluecoat got a handclasp that was genuine.

SHOT TWO WOODCOCK, FINED FORTY DOLLARS

State Game Warden LeRoy Guyer and Deputy Warden George Endicott, of this city, while out Monday in search of violators of the game laws, detected two hunters, Elias Bailey, of South Plainfield, and LeRoy Clawson, of Sampstown, hunting on Bailey's premises near the Lehigh Valley Coaling station. After a lively chase Bailey was caught, but Clawson succeeded in eluding capture. The former had in his possession two woodcock, while Clawson, it is said, had a rabbit, which the wardens saw him shoot.

Bailey was taken before Justice Smith at South Plainfield, last night, and a fine of $40 was imposed, $20 for each woodcock. The prisoner protested against the fine, explaining that he did not have that much money and he would have to go to jail if insisted upon. It is expected, however, that Bailey will succeed in getting the money. The authorities were confident of getting Clawson today, when he will be taken before Justice Smith.

Although the law was up Monday for game, including rabbits, woodcock, etc., it distinctly prohibits the hunting of such game in a tracking snow. The fact that there is considerable snow in the outlying districts, it was expected that some hunters would run the risk of shooting game and not getting caught. The game authorities, however, were prepared and the State was pretty generally watched for violators.

MRS. HUBBARD'S PAPER ON WEST'S EXPANSION

In the series of papers on "Our Country," the "Expansion of the West" was the subject of an interesting paper presented by Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard at the meeting of the *Monday Afternoon Club held Mon*day in the Hartridge School auditorium. The interest of Mrs. Hubbard's review of this country's acquisition for nearly 300 years was heightened by a well executed map illustrating the gradual expansion of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, including Alaska.

An animated discussion followed.

On account of illness, Mrs. Henry M. Masson, the president, was unable to be present and Mrs. Lefferts Calkins, one of the vice presidents, occupied the chair. Current events preceded the paper, given by a number of club members.

Imperial Club Elects Officers.

The Imperial Social Club of this city held its annual meeting last night. The reports of Secretary W. H. Jones and Treasurer Dr. J. C. Anderson were read and showed the club to be in a flourishing condition with a membership of thirty-five. These officers were elected: President, W. Sharrock; vice-president, Robert Stevens; secretary, W. H. Jones; treasurer, Dr. J. C. Anderson; assistant secretary, Henry Kaney; sergeant at arms, Walter Daniels; board of governors, William Mayhew, Robert Stevens, Dr. J. Anderson, S. J. Mackey, C. C. Irby, Eugene Johnson and William Mayer.

James E. Martine Club to Endure.

The James E. Martine Club of Elizabeth has sent out postals and circulars announcing that a meeting will be called sometime this month for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization. The purpose of the club will be to work in the politics of the State, county and town.

HOLY CROSS ELEVENS KEPT BUSY SATURDAY

The football department of the Holy Cross Club was severely jolted on Saturday. The third team was defeated 6-0 by a local eleven; the first team met Rahway High School and was taken into camp by a score of 11-0. It remained for the second team to uphold the prestige of the club, which it did, by defeating the second team of the Cranford High School, by a score of 11-4.

The game with Rahway High was late in starting and at 4 o'clock, when the contest began, the players lined up in a slippery, muddy field and the clouds spitting snow flakes which later turned into rain. Holy Cross was obliged to play three substitute players, but they all showed up finely. Rahway on its line was strong and the speed of the church boys counted for nothing upon a slippery field, where it was hard to get started.

The church boys, however, have *no excuse to offer and in their opin*ion as well as that of many spectators who braved the elements, Rahway was by far the best aggregation that the home team has met this season. Earlier in the season North Plainfield High met Rahway and played a no score game. The result of Saturday's game with Holy Cross ought to be well worth seeing as the Plainfield eleven who are pitted against Holy Cross for Thanksgiving Day morning at 11 o'clock on the Cricket Field.

Brakeley, Miller and Sub Sharrote did effective work and "Ginger" Lindsey, the line coach, was to the rooping rushes. Rahway won the game in the first half by clever trick plays, made for large gains. Two touchdowns being scored in the first half of a time limited to twenty minutes. In the second half Holy Cross braced up, held the line and put the ball frequently within fighting chance of a goal, but were unable to make good. The line-up:

Netherwood and Fanwood Tie.

The Netherwood A. C. football eleven played the Fanwood A. C. team *at the latter place, Saturday af*ternoon, the contest being one of the best of the season between these clubs. The final score was 6 to 4. The players averaged even weight about 130 pounds. The ball was kept in the middle of the field throughout both halves, neither side being able to advance it to any extent. In the first half Moss Rubenstein made the touchdown and Walter Nolting kicked the ball. Lidgat for the home team made a touchdown and kicked the ball. The Netherwoods lined up as follows: Guards, Gordon Moy and Bellows; tackles, Sidney Karr and Hanrihan; centre, D. Harrigan; ends, VanZandt and Richards; quarterback, Walter Nolting; fullback, Mose Rubenstein; right halfback, E. Bechtle; left halfback, Russel Miller.

These Won Scholarships.

James Richardson, of Pearl street, this city, was presented with a six months scholarship in the night school of Drake's Business College Saturday evening by Prescelle, the hypnotist, who closed his engagement at the Plainfield theatre on that evening. Ralph Parker, of Bound Brook, was the recipient of a three months' day school course in a like manner on Friday evening. In presenting the courses, Prescelle gave a very interesting talk to the young men in the theatre on the value of a business education.

NEW YORK YOUTH WITH GENUINE CAST-IRON NERVE

The "man with the cast-iron nerve" so frequently referred to by people in describing exhibitions of strength, will have to take a back seat for Louis Blatt, a Yiddish youth from New York, who was arrested Monday afternoon for peddling gas mantels without a license.

Patrolman Dobson appeared against him in the city court Monday morning, and asserted that the prisoner had lied to him about selling goods and that he had broken the ordinance in Plainfield several times. Blatt insisted that he had never been here before but in such a way that Judge Runyon did not believe him and imposed a fine of $3 or ten days. The young man stared blankly for a few seconds and then exclaimed:

"Please, Mister Judge, can you lend me the $3? I've never been to jail in my life and I don't want to go now. Please, Mister Judge, lend me the $3 and I give it back later."

Judge Runyon has seen on the bench for eight years but in all his experience he was never before asked to lend the amount of the fine he imposed and his amazement can better be imagined than described. Blatt had him completely nonplused for the moment and his audacity almost got him the money. On second consideration, however, he refused the request. This brought out the biggest piece of Blatt's gall for he produced the $3 from an inner pocket as he was being led to a cell and then asked if it couldn't be placed to his credit as taking out a license. The cops chased him out of the court room so quick it made his head swim.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Enoch Berry, who owns considerable land in the Highland Park section of the city, reports a lively boom in real estate there and the erection of several fine dwellings. He has sold the property at 279 Leland avenue to Mr. Acosta, a New York business man, who is now occupying the premises. He has also sold 281 Leland avenue to a Brooklyn merchant who will take possession in the spring. Besides he has purchased four lots on Grove street, opposite Emerson avenue, and will build two dwellings to cost about $4,000 each. They will be ready for occupancy in the spring. Felmey Brothers are now completing their fourth new house on Emerson avenue.

Mr. Wyman is rapidly pushing toward completion his new home on Leland avenue, and Mr. Merkle, of Brooklyn, has finished his handsome residence on George street, and is now in possession. Mr. Gibbs contemplates building another dwelling on the lot adjoining his present handsome home. Highland Park is considered one of the fine residential sections of the city. It is convenient to the Netherwood station of the New *Jersey Central, the main line trol*leys. The new dwellings erected in it are the pride of all attending, up-to-date and modern. The Watchung mountains lend a special attraction to home seekers and the fact that there are no factories or undesirable works in that section makes it possible to always maintain a desirable class of residents.

Mayors to Discuss Bridge Sites.

The interstate Hudson River bridge commission at a meeting held in New York on Saturday determined to invite the Mayors of the various municipalities along the Jersey side of the Hudson River to a special meeting, to be held some time next month in New York, when an effort will be made to select a site for the proposed bridge over the Hudson. The commission is aware of the agitation that has stirred Bergen county of late, and these boroughs and county officials will favor, it is said, the Cliffside site for the Jersey end. The Bergen County Board of Freeholders purpose to build a boulevard across the county to Paterson from Cliffside if that city is determined upon for the western terminus of the proposed structure.

GETTING THE CROWD IN LINE.

Showing the Methods of the Resourceful Street Faker.

Two belligerent appearing men faced each other.

"You're a liar."

"You're a yellow pup."

"Fight!" shrieked a small boy.

Then a crowd of curious began to gather in front of the Grant building in upper Market street.

"If you're looking for trouble I guess I can give it to you," hissed the "liar" between his teeth.

"You can place a bet that I intend to see things to a finish," replied the "pup," striking a fighting pose.

"Come around the corner where a cop won't bother us, then," said the first, and, war thus declared, the duo hastened around to an empty lot behind the post office, while a crowd of bloodthirsty men and boys dogged at their heels.

Arrived, the "liar" mounted a wooden platform newly built, while the "pup" dove into a dry goods box and extracted therefrom a bulging suitcase.

"While the 'doctor' gets out the packages of our magical herbs, guaranteed to cure cancer, bunions, all skin diseases, etc., I will entertain you with a few sleight of hand tricks," announced the "liar" in stentorian tones.

The crowd then realized that it had been gulled. A few on the outskirts slunk away, but the majority remained to fall victims to the wiles of the wily medical fakers and their cures all at "one dollar per package, and a pair of cuff buttons, warranted solid gold, thrown in."—San Francisco Call.

MAN A REAL LOVER OF BIRDS.

Has Provided 3,000 Nesting Boxes on His Estate.

At least one man with a big estate has made use of it to help birds to live there instead of turning it into a sort of open air slaughterhouse.

He is Baron von Berlepsch and his estate in Thuringia is a bird sanctuary. According to a writer in the Pall Mall Magazine, he has planted trees and bushes favorable to the birds he wants to cultivate and has supplied 3,000 nesting boxes in addition.

Of these 3,000 boxes 95 out of every 100 were occupied last spring. In one thicket, a little stretch planted with low bushes, there were 100 nests built by the birds at the rate of a nest to every foot of space. A close hedge of whitethorn and wild roses protects the grounds on the village side from the children who might want to come a-birdnesting, and ingeniously contrived traps await marauding creatures.

Working Nurses Needed.

A New York woman says that there is a great demand for nurses in the families of ordinary people who might be able to pay from $10 to $15 a week, but would expect the nurse to not only help with the sick ones, but assist with the work that is so much greater when there is sickness in the family. The trained nurse as a general thing would scorn to do anything else but her work proper, and she has her rights, but it will certainly be a good thing for the country when some one establishes a kind of working nurse who is not above helping those who cannot afford to hire the trained nurse and servant as well and are, under ordinary circumstances, their own servants.

Sterilizing Books.

The new sterilizing oven of M. Berlioz, a Frenchman, is designed for treating books and other easily damaged articles that do not admit of baking in an ordinary oven for destroying disease germs. It has a device for the evaporation of aldehydes, and, at atmospheric pressure and below boiling point, it completely sterilizes such objects as are closed books, without the least effect upon the paper or covers. Delicate bindings may be protected by a wrapper. A volume of 1,200 pages had been soiled with pus and faecal matter as far as the inner margin, but it was completely sterilized in two hours at a temperature of less than 200 degrees F.

Chicken Has Red Eyes.

George Ladenburger has a sure enough curiosity in the possession of a red-eyed chicken. It is not the eyelids that are red, as might be inferred, but the eyes themselves. The eyeballs are not bloodshot or inflamed, but are of a brilliant crystal red, while the sights are also red, but of a darker hue. So transparent are the eyes that when the head of the chicken is held between your vision and the sun it appears as if the sun were shining through from one eye to the other and the head lighted up inside. The chick is as healthy and can see as perfectly as any in the brood.—Dover (Del.) News.

Good Times in Turkey.

"You people of the warmer climates have little idea of our exhilarating winter sports," said the tourist from New England.

"Oh, I don't know," responded the Turk. "We have some pretty lively little slaying parties over in Armenia."—Kansas City Times.

HERE IS LIMIT OF HARD LUCK.

How Man's Reputation for Truthfulness Was Injured in Family Circle.

J. A. Pease, the chief Liberal whip, related at the dinner given to him by the Eighty club that during an all night sitting of the house of commons a certain member was, as he thought, absent. The gentleman, who really present at every division, but he was snatching sleep at intervals in one of the recesses of the house.

Mr. Pease, however, not having noticed him in the division lobby, sent a telegram to his house at seven o'clock in the morning, saying: "Come down at once and relieve the guard and those at work all night."

The member turned up at his own house at eight o'clock in the morning and expected to find a warm welcome from his wife and family and a good deal of sympathy for having been in the house all night.

But his wife's greeting was: "Where have you been?" To this he replied: "I have been at the house at an all night sitting."

"Now, it's no use telling me lies," said the good lady, and she produced from under her pillow Mr. Pease's telegram.—London Evening Standard.

BEAR NAMES OF GREAT MEN.

Famous Cognomens Borne by Those of Humble Occupation.

The question of what to do with our great men after they have ceased to hold public office is effectively answered in the New York city directory. According to that unimpeachable authority, George Washington is pursuing the humble but very useful occupation of a barber in Harlem—and, according to his customers, he is a good one. Andrew Jackson, whose name has heretofore been associated with notable military achievement, follows the peaceful calling of a nurse. Abraham Lincoln is put down as a secretary, William McKinley as a publisher, and James Madison as the secretary of an important corporation. James Monroe is a machinist; Benjamin Harrison a printer; William Henry Harrison a fireman, and Andrew Johnson a sailmaker. Thomas Jefferson is appropriately in charge of a Tammany clubhouse; John Adams is a policeman, and John Tyler proudly figures as a gentleman.—Lippincott's.

A Village Power.

A Columbus firm had an account against a man in a small country town in Ohio, and after ineffectual attempts to collect determined to do something radical. So they wrote a letter to the postmaster of the town and asked information concerning the merchant; what his reputation was, whether he paid his bills and what kind of a man he was generally, and said if he was no good to give the bill, which they inclosed, to the justice of the peace for collection. The answer they got from the postmaster took their breath away. It read something like this:

"Gentlemen: I am the John Smith about whom you are seeking information. I am also John Smith, postmaster, and I am John Smith, justice of the peace. Yours very truly,

"JOHN SMITH."

Indians with Beards.

It has been written over and over again that the North American Indian was always beardless. Now light comes from an unearthed letter from Capt. Amos Stoddard, United States Artillery and Engineers, in 1806, to Dr. Mitchell of New London, Conn., in which Stoddard tells of tribe of "yellow men, not in the least tawny, who lived near the lake on the west side of the Rocky or Shinning mountains, and who wore their beards, and a great number of whom had red hair on their heads." They were great experts with the bow and arrow. The lake referred to must have been Flathead lake, in northwestern Montana.

Immense Electric Machine.

The largest static electric machine ever built is owned by a New York physician, and is six feet high over all, seven feet long and four feet wide, weighing 650 pounds. It has 40 glass discs, each 40 inches in diameter, of which 20 revolve, while the others remain stationary. It is driven by an electric motor of one-fourth horse power, being first excited by a small auxiliary hand machine, and at full speed may yield a spark 30 inches long and three-fourths of an inch in diameter. To fully excite the huge machine requires from five to ten minutes, the charge, however, being retained for as much as 12 to 15 hours.

India's Savings Banks.

The postal savings bank of India was established in 1882, in which year the depositors numbered 39,121 and the deposits amounted to $932,542. In 1907 the depositors numbered 1,190,220 and the deposits amounted to $49,223,283, which, perhaps, should not be considered large in a country having a population of some 300,000,000, but the average Indian farmer, mechanic, servant or laborer never deposits money in a bank, but hides it away in a pot or box in the ground.—New York World.

Suggested a Remedy.

At a dinner that the women reformers in New York gave, a male speaker told them that the chief difficulty in their campaign for equal pay came from the men and he thought these gentlemen should be ashamed of themselves and should either as a matter of right grade their pay down to that received by the women or else grade the women's pay up to theirs.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 22, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Songs of the heart.—XII. Gratitude and how to express it.—Ps. cili. Thanksgiving day meeting.

With each recurrence of our national Thanksgiving day the hearts of all the American people, individually and collectively, should turn to God with great gratitude for His blessings to us as individuals and as a nation. The One Hundred and Third Psalm is a good model for this double purpose, and from it also we may learn how to express this twofold gratitude. It has been well said that it "is the outpouring of a full heart in thanksgiving to God for His grace and compassion, both as experienced in His own life and also as manifested to His nation in their history." Next to Israel and the Israelites God has seldom if ever bestowed greater blessings upon a people and a land than upon the American people and the American nation. Therefore we may well call upon our "souls and all that is within us to bless His holy name and to forget not all His benefits."

The first call to gratitude is for personal blessings, both spiritual and temporal, and the second a call to national gratitude for national blessings. Seldom, indeed, have the goodness and mercy of God been so beautifully and comprehensively set forth and in so few words as the psalmist expressed them here—how graciously upon forgiveness of sins and the subsequent new life is expressed, "Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases (spiritual); who redeemeth thy life from destruction (moral and spiritual); who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies; who satisfieth thy mouth with good things, so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's!" We have received such spiritual and temporal blessings in the past year, and out of a full heart we should express our gratitude to God.

National blessings have also been ours in the past year. It is true that here has been financial adversity to some extent, and yet we have been preserved and wonderfully blessed. Famine, pestilence and sword have escaped us. No great national calamity has befallen us. This, too, as with Israel, in that, although God has made known His ways and His acts unto us, we, as a nation, have not always followed in these ways of God, but for the fact that He is still "merciful and gracious, slow to anger and plenteous in mercy." His judgments might have been executed upon us. But the American nation needs to heed the psalmist's admonition, "He will not always chide; neither will He keep His anger forever." Fast nations have forgotten his warning and have fallen—Israel, Babylon, Greece and Rome. Will God spare us when He has not spared other nations? Nay, verily, but will be the greater because of our immensely greater advantages and opportunities to do His will. And who can deny our national iniquities? The greed for gold was never greater, and to many who have it it seems to bring with its inevitable companions, vice and sin, is the result. The marriage relation is not held as sacred as it should be. The liquor power, though greatly decreased, is still a mighty power. The Sabbath day is not remembered and kept holy as God demands. God's house is lightly esteemed by multitudes of Protestants, who, recalling the devotion of their ancestors to it, should be filled with shame. The business world and the political world do not lack corruption. God is all, but He is patient, but let us not think that His patience means forgetfulness. Yet, with it all, the signs of the times are favorable. Tremendous forces are being arrayed against evil. There has been a great awakening of the Spirit of God, and let us do all in our power to continue it until we shall not only know God's ways, but do them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiv, 1-8; lxviii, 19; c, 1-5; cxvi, 12-19; cxx, 1-10; Mark v, 18-21; Acts ii, 44-47; iii, 1-10; Phil. iv, 11-6; Col. ii, 6, 7; Rev. vii, 11, 12.

A Pledge Arrangement.

The following logical arrangement of the Christian Endeavor pledge was made by Mrs. O. W. Powers of Dayton, O., the wife of the home mission secretary of the American Christian convention. It is a most logical arrangement and shows at a glance just what we promise in the form of the Christian Endeavor pledge that is most commonly used:

"TRUSTING IN THE MEMBER'S PLEDGE.

Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him (1) that I will strive to be a Christian, (2) what He would have me do; (3) that I will make it the rule of my life (a) to pray and (b) to read the Bible every day, (c) to support my own church in every way, especially (d) attending all her regular Sunday and midweek services, (e) unless hindered by some reason which I can conscientiously give to my Lord and Master.

If obliged to be absent from the monthly consecration meeting, I will, if possible, send at least a verse of Scripture to be read in response to my name at the roll call.

From Small Beginnings.

The day of small things is not to be despised. In March, 1907, an English society distributed 2 cents to each of its members with which to trade. This year the members met and told how their missionary pennies had multiplied. The 46 cents had become more than $70, which went to missionary work.

Ingenious Jerseymen.

Patents that were issued to Jerseymen, reported by Drake & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents, Newark: Folding camera, F. A. Anthony, Hackensack; sectional firepot, P. Batz and J. H. Perry, Phillipsburg; window, D. Beebe, Newark; side frame for carriages, E. H. Meyers, Elizabeth; manufacturing cigars, C. M. Berry, Hoboken; tree and plant irrigator, A. Cleveland, Newark; refrigerator-fastening means, V. A. De Canlo, Union Hill; buckle, A. Fasig, Jersey City; combined reinforced door frame and vestibule member, S. W. Flah, Plainfield; two, storm leggings, H. B. Fowler, Newark; spring roll for leather-splitting machines, adjusting device for the lower knife-supporting jaw-beams of leather-splitting machines, J. H. Gay and Wm. D. Quigley, Newark; W. Nieland, Newark; wristband, A. J. Paroubek, Jersey City; petticoat, E. J. Segrell, Newark; type-writing machine, B. C. Stickney, Elizabeth; dumping car, C. P. Astrom, East Orange, (Trademarks), Asbeston packing, New Jersey Asbeston Company, Jersey City; linoleum and oiled cloth, A. H. Slater, Paterson; grape juice, Vineland Grape Juice Company, Vineland; disinfective scouring compound, C. White, Cedar Grove.

Pretty Barrettes.

Much attention is given now to the pretty combs and barrettes for milady's hair. The new barrettes in bowknot, formed of shell and amber, are extremely pretty.

These useful little accessories are much larger, both in length and width, than those used formerly. The jeweled barrettes for evening wear are aglow with artificial gems, and nothing seems to be too elaborate for formal occasions.

The dainty shell barrettes for day wear are exceedingly smart and entirely practical.

Satin and Silk Combined.

So closely allied are these two materials that they will be used together this season and one will find a satin dres trimmed with silk, or a silk one trimmed with satin, though the silks partake of such fabrics as voiles, crepe de chine and the like and not taffetas. Of course, taffetas are worn, especially black silks of this kind, but be prograhin with satins take precedence. We see fine silk grosgrain in millinery work, and there are many satin and net waists trimmed with pipings of the materials.

Both Agreed.

The Modern Life.

SOME HINTS FOR WINTER GARDENERS.

This is the time to make cuttings for the winter plants.

For ordinary purposes some cuttings, such as geraniums, coleus, roses, crotons, petunias, will often root if stuck in the ground by the plant. Coleus, crotons, tradescantia, oleanders, pitcher plants and dracaenas will root in clear water. The best results are had by sticking them in a sand box, either directly or in tiny pots of earth plunged in a box of sand which is constantly kept wet.

Cuttings can also be grown conveniently in a six or eight-inch flower pot, with the bottom filled with gravel for drainage, and on top of it set another pot two inches smaller. The inner pot is plugged and filled with water to supply moisture to the earth that fills the larger pot, and in which the cuttings are placed.

Probably the simplest and safest method is the "saucer system." Fill saucers or shallow soup plates with sand to the depth of an inch or two enough to touch. Water the sand and set the dish in sunny window. where it is never shaded.

The secret of success with this method is to keep the sand always in condition of mud. If once allowed to dry out the cuttings will quickly wilt.

As the slips are practically in water, a higher temperature than 65 degrees can be maintained, but the heat should not be excessive, therefore it is better not to attempt cuttings from June to September unless with tropical plants.

GOOD DRESSING ON SMALL MEANS.

To be dressed without much money requires good taste and ingenuity. One need not have many changes of costume nor need they be especially handsome if due attention is paid to the small touches that make just the difference between the well-dressed and the shabby genteel woman.

One of the smartest of the new touches this season is to have mave stockings, tie and belt to match. This matching process may be of color of any kind.

Very dainty did a young blonde look the other day in a freshly laundered white linen shirt waist suit, with a tiny butterfly bow of lavender messaline closing her embroidered collar; a lavender moire belt fastened by a buckle of old silver studded with pale amethysts; lavender stockings peeping out from white buckskin shoes. The collar bow in the new gray-blue and worn with an oval buckle covered with linen worked in smaller dots of blue.

The tie was a double tab of white linen, finished on the edge with several rows of tiny dots, the upper one headed by a smal rosette of Irish lace.

ART AND MECHANICS.

He sketched a might racing car,
And clouds of dust that showed its speed.
Its bonnet savored of the Star,
It had the Scorchers dash oil feed;
The body was the Rusher brand,
And this was printed down below;
"Swisbetti, as he passed the stand,
In P. J. Fisher's Navajo."

He pictured next another race
Between two motors on the road.
It was a most terrific pace,
As blinding dust clouds plainly showed:
The winning auto was a Flash,
Its gear control was strangely set
In low speed for that mad, wild dash,
What speed at high one ought to get!

His genius plays him queerish pranks
It seems that he has drawn a host
Of cars without their starting cranks
Or segment on the steering post;
But that is as it ought to be;
These things were ever wide apart
Pray we never, never see Mechanics hobnob with True Art.

—Charles R. Barnes.

A Button Hint.

The following is an excellent way of sewing buttons on children's coats, etc., says Home Chat. Make a good sized knot in your thread, which should be fairly coarse, then place a small pearl button in the inside of the coat. Put the needle first through the material, starting from the right side of the garment, then through the small button, then back again through the material and right through the big button. Continue to stitch through and through until the button feels quite firm, then give the thread a twist or two round the base of the button and finish off securely. There will then be no fear of the buttons coming off or tearing away the cloth.

Use Bits of Lawn.

Little touches here and there will dress up a waist wonderfully.

The woman who has any spare time will not use it amiss if she makes plaitings of any bits of lawn or muslin she has at hand. These plaitings can be used in numberless ways for dressing up a waist the coming months. The edges may be hemmed, hemstitched, overcast with colored silk or finished with a piping of narrow ribbon.

THE REAL BENEFIT OF MODERN PHRENOLOGY.

It is becoming quite the thing nowadays to take both boys and girls to a good phrenologist to be examined, especially during holiday time, for there is a growing belief on the *part of parents, guardians and teach*ers in the utility of phrenology in revealing the character and mental capacity of children, and enabling those who have to do with them to determine the best future method of training the boy or girl.

In some cases a child is difficult to manage, or shows complete incapacity for some subject of study, such as spelling, arithmetic or foreign languages. A phrenologist can soon discover the reason for this, and advise special treatment.

For instance, a boy who should have been fairly advanced in arithmetic was quite incapable of calculating beyond two or three, though both troubles and expense had been lavished on him in the hope of overcoming the deficiency. The phrenologist to whom he was taken, after examining the boy, under took to teach him to count in half an hour. He took the boy into another room, and at the end of the half hour the promise was fulfilled.

He had observed artistic ability in the child and an excellent memory for pictures; these he made use of in order to help him to count.

The idea that certain mental powers are dormant, that undesirable traits of character are becoming more marked, that some defect of temper is increasing rather than diminishing, should lead parents, to consider the advisability of a visit to a phrenological consultant.

But it is in choosing a career, perhaps that the phrenologist is most useful.

Often the ideas of the boy or girl on the subject are of a vague and unreliable nature.

There are, of course, cases where no hesitation is possible, because a special talent is shown almost from baby-hood; but in the majority of cases there is no such clear, guiding light. The phrenologist, however, can generally, even at the worst, suggest something worth consideration, and can often say decidedly in which direction the child's greatest talent lies. Anyway, the opinion is quite unbiased, for he has never seen, or heard of the boy or girl before.

Miracles of Pope Pius.

The Corsiera de la Sera, "of Rome in its present issue gives a list of miracles which have been credited to Pope Pius IX. by the Tribunal of Senigallia in view of Pio Nono's forthcoming canonization. Among these are the following: "A French woman, by touching the stocking of the Pope, healed her baneful disease of the thigh. Blind Maria Paesani, of Osimo, was restored to sight by the application of a piece of the sheet with which the Pope's dead body had been covered. The same fragment healed a lady at Senigallia and a certain laundress named Gostanza Meagoni. A lady in Senigallia was almost crazed with pain when the Countess Anna Ariolfi, the Pope's niece, handed to her a slipper which the Pope had worn. This she bound to the aching part and was at once relieved. These miracles have been vouched for by people of unimpeachable veracity."

A Royal Omelet.

King Alfonso of Spain (says The Bystander) is a simple Anglo-French rather than Spanish affair. There are days when his majesty will call for a chafing dish and make his own omelet. This is his recipe: Fry little pieces of chicken, or lobster, in butter until they are colored from the fire, and after turning the eggs into the pan place the chicken or lobster—upon them as the omelet is turning.

Received the New Gold Coins.

City Treasurer W. F. Arnold, of the City National Bank, has received a limited supply of the new two and half and five dollar gold pieces, bearing the motto, "In God We Trust." It is not as conspicuous as before it was removed from the coins, but can be seen by close observation. No favorable comments have been heard regarding the American eagle. It resembles a turkey according to the opinion of some people.

A Terror to His Kind.

A certain Congressman is the father of a bright lad of 10 who persists, despite parental objection and decree, in reading literature of the "half-dime" variety.

"That's a nice way to be spending your time!" said the father on one occasion. "What's your ambition, anyhow?"

"Dunno," responded the youngster, with a smile. "I'd like to have people tremble like aspen leaves at the mere mention of my name."—Lippincott's.

Pays Dollar Bet in Odd Way.

Robert Gillilan, of Belleville, who bet William Gilmore $1 that Harrigan would not be elected Sheriff of Essex county, paid the bet to Gilmore yesterday in the form of one hundred pennies glued on a board. The coins were arranged in the form of letters spelling the name of Harrigan.

"My mission in life," said the satirist, "is to put the dunce cap on the heads of other people."

"Be careful," replied his friend, "that you don't catch cold."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

DO NOT THROW FADED GOWNS AWAY.

This is the season when maids and matrons view their faded summer finery with utter disdain, and sort out the pretty delicately tinted frocks preparatory to consigning them to the temporary oblivion of the scrap bag. It is all a mistake. Before discarding the light-colored gown, do it up yourself. Soak it in salt water, wash and rinse in water in which not more than a little ammonia. The ammonia will often restore the color. Dry in the shade.

Supposing the faded, streaked appearance is beyond restoration by this method, then the best plan will be to wash the garment in hot water, which will probably fade it all alike. When faded uniformly any trimming, such as folds, can be ripped off, and new material, in a darker shade, substituted.

Cuffs and yoke of the new material or folds of some contrasting fabric, and as a waist usually fades on the shoulders first it is an easy matter to cut its portion away and substitute a guimpe. Goods matching the fold on the skirt should trim and vest the gown.

If the upper parts of the sleeves have faded take the under portions for Jap sleeves and trim them to match the waist.

It must be borne in mind that plain weaves must be bought when the dress to be trimmed is either figured, dotted, checked or plaided, and that fancy material is used when the background is plain.

Very fine dresses on the lingerie order, but colored, usually lose their brightness during repeated washings, and when they reach the faded stage may be boiled white and used afterward for dainty petticoats.

They seldom come out of the ordeal sufficiently clear-looking to be worn afterward as a dress. Still they make excellent petticoats for use under dancing frocks.

If the desire is to bleach a colored dress the garment should be put into a boiler, after wetting it, of boiling water, to which has been added a strong soap, shredded, and a handful of washing soda or a cupful of Javelle water.

When white, the dress should be rinsed in several waters. If the frock has a yellow tinge, a little bluing should be added to the last rinsing. Then the garment must be dried in strong sunlight. Then wet again, and put through the starch.

Gingham or chambray skirts that have faded in streaks, but otherwise retain their color, make excellent petticoats for every day wear. The bottoms of these skirts should be cut off—they will probably be worn —and a ruffle of new goods to match or in a contrasting color used to replace the part removed. A gingham or chambray flounce edged with a strong torchon lace is both pretty and serviceable.

Bill's Specialty.

They found the old man sitting on the fence smoking his corncob.

"Howdy, pap! What's your son Jim doing these days?"

"Jim? Oh, he's running a telegraph key at the depot. Jim's an operator."

"And how's Zeke?"

"Zeke? Wa-al, Zeze is captain of a lake steamer. He's a navigator."

"And Pete? Is he still living?"

"Oh, yes. Pete's working on an *airship. He's what they call an avia*tor."

"Well, what has become of Bill? Is he doing anything?"

The old man blew a quid of tobacco at a wide-eyed grasshopper.

"Yep, stranger. Bill's hanging around the house all day grumbling and complaining and saying the country is going to smash. Bill's just an aggravator, just a plain aggravator."—Judge.

Tricked.

"Oh, George, George, George, out to the club again! Indeed, you have no stability!' You are a very reed in the wind!"

Said the woman; but the man simply shrugged his shoulders, and left the room.

But tonight, resolved the woman, she would wait up for him. And if he got home after twelve—my word!

Hour after hour passed. Ten—eleven—twelve—one—two. By the fire she sat and read; but the book was stupid, the fire got low.

At length she gave up her watch, and wearily mounted to her bedroom, where—Horrors! He was in bed, and sound asleep!

He had evidently changed his mind about the club and gone to bed instead!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

One on the Editor.

"I seen a sign on them billboards," said the head office boy in the newspaper plant, "that if Taft an' Sherman was elected we would git good homes, better times and higher wages." Is that right?" When assured that such was the meaning of a Republican victory, the irrepressible youth said: "Well, you'se the boss, and a dollar extra would come in handy."

It seems strange, my brother,
Among the most of men,
If they should get cold feet
It's time to "hot-foot" them.

CITY LASSIES DEFEAT BOROUGH GIRLS' FIVE

The girls of the Plainfield High School met and defeated their rivals of the North Plainfield High School Friday afternoon, but it was a hard fight. The two teams gave each other a tussle that neither will forget, for ten grittier and more determined young women never fabbed at a ball, nor more had it befallen there were no excuses to offer, nothing to say, for each had done her best. The maids from the borough were disappointed, of course, but they had the satisfaction of having kept the score down and allowed the victors only three points to that good.

When time was called at 3:30 the gymnasium was filled to capacity. The North Plainfield supporters were present in large numbers, loyally cheering their heroines. That the teams were evenly matched is evidenced by the close score, 12 to 3. There were but few errors and no disputes. Miss Harriet Moodey of the P. H. S., scored the greatest number of goals. In fact she made all of the points but one for her side. Miss Katherine Smink making the other. In the N. P. H. S. Miss Marjorie Cooley made all of the points but one, Miss Anna Daley making that. The score at the end of the first half stood 7 to 3, with P. H. S. in the lead. In the second half the northern lights kept the score to a tie, making the final count 12 to 8.

The line up:

P. H. S.—Harriet Moodey captain, lf; Katherine Smink, rf; Thea Stiles, c; Margerite Ramsey, lg; Helen Wooley, rg.

N. P. H. S.—Marjorie Coole, lf; Anna Daley, rf; Marjorie Hart, c; Helen George, lg; Ida Englehart, captain, rg.

Referee, Miss Ferry; umpire, Miss Helen T. Stahlberger; linesmen, Miss Margaret Durar and Miss Ruth Daylimers, Miss Hattie Nitzwitch and Roy Wogdhull. Two fifteen minute halves.

Books in Maine.

Last summer, while sojourning at a large hotel in Maine, a prominent New Yorker decided to give a dinner to several friends in honor of his wife's birthday. Making inquiries, he discovered that no wines of any description would be furnished by the management, Maine being a prohibition State.

He was told, however, that should he succeed in having the desired wines delivered from outside sources care would be taken to have them properly iced and served.

The host-to-be set about to procure the necessary beverages and evidently succeeded, for about three days later a sturdy countryman strode up to the desk and, in a voice loud enough for all to hear, demanded of the clerk: "Is Mr. X. anywhar's round? Tell him to hurry up down at the dock. There's a box of books down thar for 'im an' it's leakin'."—Hartford Times.

"Are you ready to receive the obligations?" asked the Most Upright Supreme Hocus-Pocus of the Order of Hoot Owls.

"I am," said the candidate firmly.

"Then take a sip of this prussic acid, place your right hand in this pot of boiling lead, rest your left hand upon this revolving buzz-saw, close your eyes and repeat after me."

Early next morning shreds of Joyner's clothing were found upon the bushes and trees all along the road to Pottsville, thirty miles distant, and at Scrabbletown, sixty miles away, he was reported still headed west.—Judge.

MISSION WORKERS MEET

The North Jersey Institute Holds Two Sessions at Vincent Chapel.

CONFERENCES AND ADDRESSES.

The Plainfield session of the North Jersey Missionary Institute which was held in Vincent chapel, of the First M. E. church, Friday afternoon and evening was a success and was largely attended by members of the institute and friends who are interested in missionary activity in the church and Sunday-school. The institute is an effort to make more effective the out-reaching work of the church and showing church workers how to promote missionary activity. It seeks to work chiefly through Young People's societies and Sunday-schools, in conferences, led by experienced specialists, the best methods of work are presented.

During the past three years it has been the custom to hold a three days session of the missionary institute each fall in Newark, but this year it was thought best to hold six one-day sessions at central points in the northern part of the State. The institute is intended for every phase of missionary and Sunday-school work and to increase the interest in Bible study.

Nearly all of the Sunday-schools of Plainfield and North Plainfield were represented at yesterday's institute which began at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with an opening address by Rev. L. H. Hough, who briefly told of the purpose of the institute. This was followed by a conference from 3 to 4 o'clock on "Missionary Committee in a Young People's Society; its Organization and Work," led by Rev. Mr. Kinport, who took the place of Rev. Brewer Eddy, who was called away. Between 4 and 5:15 there was another conference on "The Sunday-school and Missionary Committee," led by Miss Soper, secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement. This was one of the most helpful features of the program and the speaker showed close relation that must exist between the Sunday-school and missions, both foreign and home.

Between 5:15 and 6:30 the time was given up to Mission Study classes, during which Miss Harriett R. Halloway, who is identified with the Young People's Missionary Movement, and one of the secretaries, gave a helpful talk on "The Why and How of Foreign Missions." Harry S. Meyers, another secretary of the movement, told of "The Moslem World;" E. D. Soper described "The Frontier," and Stacy F. Dafis, pastor of one of the M. E. churches of Elizabeth, spoke on "Uganda's White Man of Work," which were followed by an informal discussion. Supper was served at the chapel from 6:30 to 7:15, preceding the evening session.

When the evening session was resumed at 7:15 an hour was devoted to Mission Study classes, it being a repetition of a part of the afternoon session. Then followed an excellent address by George F. Sutherland, secretary for Young People's Work in the Methodist church. In an entertaining and impressive manner he offered many helpful suggestions to teachers, showing how they can combine the study of missions in their Sunday-school work through the use of pictures, good books, and also through the use of various objects.

The session was concluded with an illustrated lecture of moving and stationary pictures, being an interesting description of "Missionary Tour of the World." This was given by Harry S. Meyers, who explained the views in an impressive manner. The moving pictures were of *especial interest, showing views in for*eign lands, including the Mohammedans at prayer. The pictures gave all an excellent idea of the progress of Christianity abroad.

The evening session was in charge of William D. Murray, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday-school, and an offering was received for the work. The sixth and last session of the present series will be held at Elizabeth.

Separated.

A regiment of soldiers were recently drawn up one Sunday for church parade, but the church was being repaired and could hold only half of them.

"Sergeant-major," shouted the colonel, "tell all the men who don't want to go to church to fall out on the reverse flank."

Of course a large number quickly and gladly availed themselves of the privilege.

"Now, sergeant-major," said the colonel, "dismiss all the men who did not fall out and march the others to church—they need it most."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Remains.

"What's in here?" asked the tourist.

"Remains to be seen," responded the guide, as he led the way into the mummy room.—Pick Me Up.

REPORTER IS BARRED FROM THE PROCEEDINGS

Recorder on Bench But Authorities Claim Raid Case Action is But "Private Examination."

SIX ARE ADMITTED TO BAIL.

Borough Mayor, Police Chief and Prosecutor Order Newspaper Man to Get Out.

Closely imitating the country constable who assumes a pompous air when he makes a capture, Count Prosecutor Reger and the North Plainfield officials Sunday denied lawyers and newspapermen attendance to the proceedings against the prisoners taken in the Arlington Hotel raid Saturday night. The proceedings were conducted somewhat akain to star-chamber methods. The prosecutor and Recorder Dolliver assert that a three-hour session in the court room was a "private examination" and yet six people caught in the round-up were held in a lump amount of bail or put back in a cell because they couldn't furnish bonds to appear later.

At the same time, the presiding officials appeared to extend the glad hand to a borough councilman and allowed him to occupy a front seat while they questioned the men and women brought before them. If had no connection with the case, officially or otherwise, yet was conceded a privilege that others were entitled to but denied. When an explanation was sought today, the parties responsible were quick to shift the blame from one to another.

Prosecutor Reger was called from Somerville Sunday afternoon and began examining the prisoners on by one. There were eighteen in all and if they told enough to show that they should be held as witnesses against Proprietor Farbman, a complaint was made out by Recorder Dolliver and bail was fixed for a hearing. When the were found to know nothing of consequence they were ordered released. This was the extent of the "private examination."

The proceeding had been going on for some time when a reporter for The Daily Press reached the police station and started to go in but was stopped by Marshal Hope, who stood guard over the door. He informed the newspaper man that he had been given orders by Mayor Townsend and Chief Marshal Weiss to allow no one to enter. The unexpected barrier proved a big surprise to the reporter but he made formal demand upon the officer to admit him as a press representative and was told after considerable parleying that he might go in and see the chief.

Once inside the building, the scribe was first informed by the head marshal that he would have to go out because Mayor Townsend had said so. The reporter refused to comply and then the Mayor came up and said he must vacate because Prosecutor Reger had given orders for no one to be allowed in. The councilman was within three feet of the executive at the time. Whether he saw the councilman or not the scribe still held his ground and refused to join the throng of a hundred or more rubbernecks that ignored the cold to hang around out there. This was followed by a whispered conversation between Mr. Townsend and Mr. Reger at the end of which the latter called out:

"Are you a newspaper man?"

The Daily Press representative replied that he was and the prosecutor continued, "Well, you'll have to go out of here because this is a private examination. You will have a hearing next Wednesday afternoon."

"If that is so?" asked the scribe, "why is Recorder Dolliver presiding at his desk. He is a public official and this is a public court room; I claim a right to remain."

Mr. Reger then said that Recorder Dolliver was not presiding, that his attorney was there formality and that the proceedings were of a non-public character. The reporter accepted his word for it and retired but only a little while before a couple of men had been held under bail, an action that is public according to law and to which any citizen of the borough had a right to witness if he chose. A short time afterward, the same disposition was made of others and yet the proceedings were "private." This term is defined by the late Noah Webster as "sequestered from company or observation."

The experience of The Daily Press man was a repetition of what had happened earlier in the afternoon to Lawyers Francis J. Blatz and William G. DeMeza, who had been retained as counsel by some of the prisoners. Blatz was requested by Benjamin Farbman to look after the interests of his father, the proprietor of the hotel. When the lawyer went to the police station he was told he could not go in. He tried a little later to see his client but was again barred out. He then went to his home and called for Prosecutor Reger on the telephone, getting the official on the wire. Mr. Blatz informed him that he was to look after Farbman and was ready to offer bail. He was told that he might return to the police station and that he would be let in. Mr. DeMeza refused to take "no" for an answer when he reached the scene of the "private" hearing in response to calls from three of the people locked up and asked for admittance. He brushed the officer aside as someone came out and gained access to the room, asserting his right to remain. He did

When Recorder Dolliver was asked for his version of the proceedings he declared that it was not a public hearing except when Farbman and the witnesses were held in bail but a conference at which the Prosecutor was taking testimony of witnesses. Reger, he said, came down at 1 o'clock and started to examine the witnesses, having City Stenographer Wean with him. About 4 o'clock, Dolliver says, they phoned for him to come to the court. He sat on the bench he says because there was no other place to sit. "The newspaper man appeared at that juncture," he says, "and if he had waited outside until later he could have gotten in when Farbman was arraigned and when the witnesses were held in bail. We held Farbman in bail and he had his counsel then on hand."

According to Mr. Dolliver the hearing will be held on Wednesday, "unless only things done yesterday were for him to prepare the complaints and the bail bonds. He adds that he held five witnesses in bail to appear before the grand jury and that this was done at the request of the prosecutor. "The prosecutor did not want a newspaper man there while he conducted his private examination of witnesses detained because he did not desire his case given out in advance," said Dolliver, who later admitted that he had been kept busy making complaints, bail bonds, etc., from the time he arrived until he left.

TEN THOUSAND FIRE LOSS IN HEART OF CRANFORD

Fire was discovered in Morris Block's shoe store in the Sperry block, Cranford, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning and before the blaze was extinguished all of the contents were consumed and one end of the Sperry block damaged to a considerable extent. The loss on stock and damage will reach nearly $10,000. Morris Block is the son of Samuel Block, of New street, and resides here. He was at home till when the fire occurred. It was discovered by a drug clerk, who had a room over the shoe store. It was 6 o'clock in the morning when the fire was extinguished.

This is the second fire within a year in Block's store, and the origin of both are mysterious. Yesterday morning's blaze started in the basement but that is no one has been able to learn the cause. The officials of Cranford will now make a thorough investigation.

MRS. MARY A. NAYLOR DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Mary Ann Naylor, widow of Tunis Naylor and a former resident of Plainfield, died Sunday at her home, 776 North Sixth street, Newark. She had been ill a long time and only recently had been discharged from the Newark hospital after a serious operation.

Mrs. Naylor was the daughter of the late Randolph Smalley and was born in Plainfield seventy-two years ago, living here nearly all her life. She moved to Newark but a few years ago. Her grandfather on her mother's side was Gideon Wooden, who lived at Arlington avenue and Randolph road, at one time owning all the property in the vicinity where Muhlenberg Hospital now stands. He was the first recruit to be discharged from the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Mrs. Naylor is survived by a son, Alfred Naylor, and a daughter, Mrs. Clara Clark, both of Newark; ayso a brother, Lewis Smalley, of North Plainfield. John R. Naylor, of East Third street, is a brother-in-law.

Firemen Revising Law.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the local fire department, is one of twelve chiefs in various parts of the State appointed by Governor E. B. Sperry, of Passaic, to consider a revision of the New Jersey law covering the State Firemen's Relief Association. The first meeting was held at General Spencer's office in Passaic Saturday afternoon and the matter was thoroughly discussed. Several other conferences will take place before a report will be made.

The Hope chapel boys' club would like to arrange basketball games with teams in the vicinity of Plainfield averaging 120 pounds. Address Clinton Firstbrook, manager, 302 Grant avenue, Plainfield.

RAID BOROUGH HOTEL 19 PRISONERS TAKEN

Proprietor M. Farbman, Six Women and Twelve Men Spent Night at Headquarters.

RECORDER DOLLIVER HOLDS 6.

Hearing and "Private Examination" Yesterday Afternoon Conducted by Prosecutor Reger—Mayor Ordered Raid.

Following up a plan kept under cover for several months, the North Plainfield police surrounded the Arlington hotel at Somerset street and Greenbrook road, Saturday night, and raided the place under the state law governing disorderly houses. The proprietor, Morris Farbman, together with twelve men and six women who were in the building at the time, were placed under arrest and locked up in the borough jail. The only ones released after the first descent was made were those who were in the bar room but they were kept inside until the officers fully satisfied themselves that they were not wanted.

The prisoners were conveyed to cells in a wagonette hired for the occasion and which made three trips in all. The building has limited accommodations but no one was allowed to give bail until yesterday afternoon when Prosecutor John F. Reger, of Somerset county, was called down from Somerville to conduct an examination. The men and women were brought before him one by one and either released or put under bonds as he directed. Of the nineteen people captured, the following were held:

Morris Farbman, the proprietor, $500 bail for a hearing next Wednesday afternoon on a charge of keeping a disorderly house; Frederick Blaich, bartender at the hotel; Charles Reinmann, North Plainfield; Mary Johnson, Newark; Mrs. Eva Sparks, Plainfield, and Mrs. Gertrude Goodman, Plainfield, $100 bail to appear as witnesses against Farbman at the next session of the Grand Jury, "provided they are subpoenaed," as Recorder Dolliver expresses it.

Of the other thirteen, the names were not given out by the police and the newspaper men only secured five or six of the better known. Those who were not recognized gave fictitious names and addresses and though The Daily Press has no official knowledge for it "Mary Johnson of Newark" is probably one of this class. She is said to be a local woman whose husband died recently and he has relatives that might put up a "holler" if her right title was made known.

The raid was planned by Chief Marshal Weiss under instructions from Mayor Townsend some time ago that he would tolerate no disreputable places in the borough. It has been known for a long while that the Arlington held a say crowd on almost every night and especially on Saturday and a watch has been kept for an opportune occasion to swoop down. This was decided upon after it was noted that Farbman paid no heed to warnings.

The tip came Saturday night that everything was ripe and the chief marshal gathered in all his men. He also sent over to the city and secured permission from Chief Kiely to take Patrolmen Saffron and Nolan with him to help out. The building was surrounded by the officers and when it was made certain that every exit was guarded, Weiss and several of the bluecoats went inside. The people in the parlor on the bar room were first notified that they were under arrest and after that three of the cops hurried upstairs. It is said that Reinmann, "Mary Johnson," Mrs. Sparks and Mrs. Goodman were found on the second floor, thus accounting for their being held as witnesses against the proprietor.

The whole affair was accomplished quickly and no one got away that was wanted, although there have been all sorts of stories about wild leaps through windows and desperate onslaughts against the officers barring the doorways. Naturally enough, the people who had just dropped into the hotel to get a drink were greatly wrought up over their arrest and protested that they had been guilty of no wrong. Chief Weiss ignored all entreaties for release and the "just and the unjust" were used alike. The officers even refused to let any of them send word to friends. As many of five were kept in a cell from 11:30 Saturday night until 5:30 yesterday afternoon.

The raid caused a sensation in both the city and borough and the street in front of the jail was crowded all day yesterday. No one was allowed inside during the proceedings conducted by Prosecutor Reger and the only information that could be gleaned was from those who were turned loose after telling what they knew of the hotel and Saturday night's proceedings.

SUES FOR DAMAGES.

TROLLEY CRASH RESULT.

Conductor James N. Strieker, of the eastbound trolley car which collided head on with a westbound car near Finderne, last Wednesday, resulting in the death of Motorman Louis Zierer and George W. Meyers, a passenger, has been held responsible for the accident and released in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury. The coroner's jury besides holding the conductor, severely reprimanded the Public Service Corporation for endangering the lives of the traveling public by maintaining a poor system of signal lights on its single track lines.

Suits for heavy damages will be the outcome of the trolley crash. People who were injured and the families of the dead men will look to the trolley company for redress. Stark & Senator George A. Sliker has been retained by the family of Zierer to look after their interests. He attended the coroner's inquest at Somerville last week.

HE WOULDN'T SHATTER LOVE'S "YOUNG" DREAM

Love's young dream, not of the sweet sixteen variety but far more ardent and enduring, was revealed in the city court Monday, when Charles Rothehausen, an old time bachelor and graduate several times, confessed to adoring Mrs. Annie Murphy, a widow of forty-eight. Both were arraigned on a charge of being drunk and disorderly at Mrs. Poole's boarding house on Church street, where they had adjoining rooms. They became engaged two months ago and they have been celebrating the betrothal ever since, their enthusiasm finally reaching the stage where the landly had to complain.

"Judge, your honor," said Rothehausen, "I love this woman and we are going to be married on the eighteenth of this month. We didn't do anything wrong and if you say the word we'll get spliced right away."

Mrs. Murphy, the proprietor, chirped in: "Charlie's a good fellow if he'll leave drink alone and I'm going to try to help him give it up. You see, he's so lonely now and gets in company when he goes out and you can't blame him much. I like him and his children like me and so do his grandchildren," and the widow beamed on her gray-haired lover who has passed the seventy-third milestone in life.

Judge Runyon opined that he certainly didn't care to put a scar on the romance by sending either one or the other to jail as he always sympathized with lovers who had courtship troubles. He then gave both some advice on the perils of drinking and cautioned and told them to go out and complete their plans for the nuptial ceremony.

As Mrs. Murphy started to lead her fiance away, Chief Kiely asked her if it was true that she had money in the bank and that "Charlie" only wanted to marry her in order to get possession of it.

"I guess not," she exclaimed indignantly; "we think a good deal of each other and the money has nothing to do with it.

"But, anyway," she added hastily, "the bank books are in my name and that's the way they're going to stay."

Rothehausen is a candy maker by trade and has lived on Plainfield for many years. Mrs. Murphy is a trained nurse.

JOHN R. VORIS SPEAKS AT Y.M.C.A. MEETING

Describing the semblance between enlistment in the service of the country and the enrollment in the service of Christ, John R. Voris, in his talk at the Y. M. C. A. Men's meeting Sunday afternoon on the subject, "Wanted—Men to Enlist," declared that those who respond to *the nation's call to arms for the pur*pose of personal gain or for the glamour of it all, are in the same category with those who join the church through fear of future punishment or only to gain the good opinion of their fellow men.

"The true Christian spirit is helping others," he said, "and in helping others, we help ourselves. Going to church is merely getting inspiration for the work. Glory comes in knowing that you are serving in a glorious cause.

"The church needs moral men to train others. We find it simple to give encouragement to religion by attending services and making donations. But in order to fulfill completely our obligations to God and man, we must give our whole selves."

Pastor D. W. Cannon Resigns.

Rev. D. W. Cannon, of Princeton Seminary, who has been pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, this city, since January 1, 1908, has resigned his pastorate here to take up work in Southern California.

CLINTON AVE. CLUB'S RECORD FOR SEASON

The detailed story of the work of the members of the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club for the past season as shown in the official averages, puts the aggregation among the top-notchers in this part of the State. The club has a record of which it can feel proud. In batting there are three players in the 200 class, B. Martin with .249 and J. Emery with .304 and J. Martin with .302, while there are six players in the .200 class, and only five below that. Brit. Martin leads with the most number of runs, 22, and the greatest number of hits, 34, out of twenty-five games played.

Brit. Martin made eight two base hits. Emery seven, J. Martin 2, Moffet 2, Barnes 4, Boehler 2, O'Loughlin 2, Seery 1, Schott 2, while Brit. Martin made one three base hit, Emery 1, Barnes 1, O'Loughlin 1, Barnes made two home-runs and D. Scott 1. The sacrifice hits were distributed as follows: B. Martin, 4; J. Emery, 2; J. Martin, 1; Boehler, 2; O'Loughlin and Giles each 1; Schott, 2. Hit by pitcher—B. Martin, 1; Barnes, 4; Boetzler, 3; O'Loughlin, 2; Schott, 5.

In the fielding averages Schott, Seery, Giles and Snyder each have 1.000 per cent., while there are six players in the .900 class. Gilman holds the lowest average, .750, but he only played in five games.

Perhaps the best all-round work was done by Clifford Randolph, the star twirler. For twenty-three games he held a record of .923 strikeouts and allowed but 102 hits. He gave 76 bases on balls, had five wild pitchers and hit 24 batters. The batting and fielding averages for the season follows:

NEW TEACHERS GUESTS AT SCHOOL SOCIABLE.

The teachers of Plainfield and their friends gathered in the gymnasium of the High School Saturday night in a most enjoyable sociable, arranged for the purpose of giving the new teachers, some twenty in number, a chance to become acquainted. The affair was given by the hold-over teachers.

Dancing was the principal form of entertainment. Between numbers, the room was darkened and pictures thrown on a screen, each picture representing a city or a book, whose names or title was to be guessed. The slides had been made by some of the teachers in the High School. Charles L. Lewis' humorous readings were also greatly enjoyed. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Suhr's orchestra furnished the music.

Miss Noel J. Bullock was chairman of the reception committee, Miss Anna M Day, chairman of the social committee, and Miss Lena Bass, chairman of the entertainment committee. Others assisting in the entertainment were L. N. Lovell, Dr. H. Main, Miss Barber, Miss Flora Grimm and Principal I. W. Trowell.

Y. M. C. A. Basketball.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play their first schedule game Saturday with Milburn S. X. Club in the gymnasium here. The latter team claims to be the fastest in this section of the State. Last night the First and Second teams of the local association played a practise game, the former winning in a close score. Harry Gilmore, who has played forward on the First team for two years, was elected captain. He has been prominent in association athletics for several years. Last season he played second base on the Y. M. C. A. State champion baseball team.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

THE "KID'S JUDGE."

Ben B. Lindsay, judge of the Juvenile Court, of Denver, and a leader in the movement to prevent criminality by guiding boys and girls in chance, is booked for a lecture in Plainfield next Friday evening. His approaching visit makes timely a review of his work in that far west city.

Judge Lindsay is one of those forceful men whose appearance on the world's stage mark epochs in history. The Juvenile Court is a modern invention, and nowhere has it done better work than in the city of Denver. It matters little who conceived the idea, or where, Judge Lindsay has developed the Juvenile Court so effectively that he is justly entitled to the designation of its father. Slight of stature, boyish in appearance, under 40 in years, he is one of the biggest men in America; for he has reached down to unbit e vidual "citizens of tomorrow," weeded out of them the rankest growths, and nurtured therein the plants that flower and bring forth luscious fruit.

Colorado's juvenile code, generally regarded as the best in the union, is another monument to Judge Lindsay. It provides for the pinning of youthful offenders and for compulsory school attendance; it prohibits child labor and the confinement of children under fourteen in the jails, and it penalizes contributory negligence on the part of parents and other adults. These laws, combined with many admirable schools of detention and industry, similar to the sort that Judge Lindsay is trying to get the Mercer County Board for Freeholders to establish here, are a matter of State pride.

However good a code may be, its success requires a strong and fearless personality behind it. The excellence of Colorado's laws is largely due to the fact that they have Judge Lindsay to work them. His little, big man with keen eyes and soft voice, has made Colorado's code to transform leaders of the "gangs" into pillars of the law.

These are the reasons why other New Jersey cities will envy Plainfield its good fortune.—Trenton True American.

Christmas Arrangements.

The Sunday-school entertainment committee of the Park Avenue Baptist church has decided to hold its Sunday Christmas service on December 20, when both main school and primary department are to participate in a program of music, recitations and other appropriate exercises. On Tuesday night, December 29, a cantata entitled "Santa's Mix-up" will be given by members of the school. From now on two rehearsals will be held each week.

Nobody Got Hurt.

John Schinisky, the well known porter at the Kensington hotel, announced Saturday morning that he had claimed a bride, last Sunday, in the person of Miss Annie Stowinsky, of Newark. The wedding ceremony took place in the Polish church at the Essex county seat and John swears by thy memory of Kosciusko that there were no casualties at the celebration afterward. Several Plainfielders were in attendance.

Auto Rush to Princeton.

Patrolman John Kelly, who was on duty at Park avenue and Front street part of Saturday morning, counted a total of 192 automobiles en route for Princeton. Ninety-four across town the West Front street route and seventy-eight the Park avenue route, between 10:30 and 11:30 o'clock. All the machines were gayly decorated with the orange and black or the blue, displaying the preference of the enthusiastic Princeton or Yale supporter.

Extraordinary.

The son left the mother to the care of his sisters and ran to Dr. Anderson's office, afterward following his father to the police station. The physician reached the house in a very short time, otherwise the victim would have died to escape it.

Johnson was formally arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, but was remanded until tomorrow, pending the outcome of the wife's injuries. He gave his age as fifty nine years and that of his victim at forty-nine. She is the mother of thirteen children, all of whom have died but four. She is a member of St. Mary's church and the sons and daughters have been brought up in the Catholic faith.

Johnson has always borne a good reputation and was regarded very highly by the lumber firm for which he worked so long. He generally acted in the capacity of driver for Miss Anna Dodge and Mrs. John D. Runyon and for a long time was in charge of the firm's stables on West Fourth street.

MACARTHUR ON AMERICA

The Noted Baptist Divine Pictures Her Place Among the Nations.

SHE LEADS ALL IN INDUSTRY.

"Diplomatically we are Ahead of All Other Nations," He Says —Our Promising Future.

Rev. Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, of Calvary Baptist church, New York city, held the attention of his audience at the First Presbyterian church last night for two solid hours on the subject "America's Great Place Among Nations." The lecture was given under the auspices of the Men's club of the church. The speaker, while famed for his eloquence on any topic, was especially so on this, a patriotic one. Dr. MacArthur's address very clearly showed that in the forming of this nation, the hand of God was the directing power.

His brief history of the building of the nation demonstrated the fact that the ancient patriots of early days were foreigners fighting foreigners and that it has taken many generations to develop the modern thoroughbred American.

"We read of historical events of the past with wonder and awe and are disposed to depreciate the occurrences of the present day," said Dr. MacArthur. "We look towards the future, radiant with hope, but the present seems cold, barren, threadbare and common place. Standing close to a mountain, there is nothing especially attractive about it, but get off a distance and it is grand, sublime. We are too near the recent historical events to consider them great."

"Of all genuine Americans Lincoln's name lifts above the rest like a dome. It stands alone. He, himself, stands alone. I cannot explain the life of Lincoln by heredity, environment and education.

"Washington was British by birth his ancestors were British; his manners were British; his predilections were British.

"The war of the Revolution was fought by British against British. There were no Americans in that day in the modern sense of the word. Lincoln was the first great American of the soil. We are beginning to see his greatness as never before.

"Few appreciate the small dimensions of this country when it was composed of but thirteen states. It was then only about 30 per cent larger than Alaska and there were great gaps in the population.

"In 1803 the Louisiana purchase more than doubled the domain. But for that purchase there would be no American republic tonight. France might still own that tract. There was a time when the French commander, Champlain could have taken all of this continent and when I review these facts I recognize God's part in American history. There seems to be only one reason why the Frenchman didn't remain in Boston harbor and extend his control from there and that was because he had sailed up the St. Lawrence river and was charmed with the surroundings and decided to make Quebec, instead of Boston, the chief city.

Dr. MacArthur described graphically the assault by the British and colonists under General Wolf on the French army at Quebec, the defeat of the latter, which released the colonists from any further obligations, to the English and in this he declared was the hand of God, for it left the Americans free to demand their rights.

The clergyman declared that the American republic was then born on the Heights of Abraham. France afterwards lost the rest of its vast domain to Spain and when Napoleon came to th centre of the stage he allied himself to the Americans, not because he loved them, but because he hated the British and wanted to regain from Spain what France had lost. With the help in fighting England the colonists were willing to throw Spain into the Gulf of Mexico. But later when Napoleon found it necessary to send his army to fight the colonists, the hand of God again appeared. The rebellion in Hayti demanded his troops and there they were wiped out by the yellow scourge. The purchase of the Louisiana tract was then made possible.

"We were, until recently an agricultural people," he said, "but now we are getting to be an industrial nation. There is only one way we can lose our industrial supremacy and that is by a foolish war between capital and labor. Capital and labor are allies, not foes. We lead the world in industry and have all the requisites to make it permanent.

"In manhood and womanhood our nation is among the highest.

REV. BROEK'S FAREWELL TO ASBURY PARK FLOCK

Sunday marked the close of the pastorate of Rev. John Y. Broek, Trinity's new pastor, in the Grand Avenue Reformed church, at Asbury Park. In the morning he administered the communion service to a large congregation. At this service Mr. Broek took occasion to say a few words, regarding his departure. He said:

"Two years and five months ago I came to you from the New Brunswick seminary an unknown quantity. You welcomed me gladly and readily. I feel that much good has been done for the advancement of God's kingdom by our united effort. During my ministry 48 have been received into the church, 32 by letter, 15 by confession. There have been 12 baptisms, three adults and nine infants. Roll of church—active, 158, absent, 49; total, 207.

"Many improvements to the church property have been made. The chancel and parsonage have been painted, cement sidewalks laid; interior of church and lectyre room redecorated. memorial window installed and an endowment of $700 secured for the church and 200 has been paid off the parsonage. The Ladies' Aid Society, and recent improvement: made in the basement floor under the lecture room by the Dutch Arm.

"The financial report of the church shows 1,000 was raised more last year than the previous year and 1,500 over and out of two years ago.

"Wherever I go I shall remember my first pastorate. These two years have brought much happiness to me. I am conscious that much should be done which is left undone, though the church is in splendid condition for greater usefulness.

"If I have made mistakes, I can truthfully say they have been honest mistakes, for I have labored solely for the welfare of this church. If I have caused anyone pain or anguish, I deeply regret it.

"I will always cherish a kindly feeling and interest in you. For a time you will be pastorless. I plead with you stand together and work harmoniously. Do nothing that will create lack of harmony. Do as well and better if possible with your new pastor than you have done by me."

A short session of the consistory was held immediately after the close of the service. J. Bergen Thompson was appointed president of the consistory during the time the church is without a pastor.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Broek made a few kind and helpful remarks to the children of the Sunday-school. Following the service at the Sunday-school, Mr. Broek baptized an infant of the church.

The annual Thanksgiving offering which was received yesterday amounted to $150.

At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Broek preached his final sermon to a congregation that completely filled the auditorium of the church. Mr. Broek said he was much at a loss in selecting a topic for his final discourse, but finally selected as theme which is always dear to him. He announced is his theme, "The absolute certainties of our Religion and Faith." The text was taken from Philliplans 3: 10, "That I May Know Him."

Mr. Broek said that we could not know all things. We cannot know all about art, science, history, or literature. We cannot know all about God. We are necessarily limited in our knowledge, because of the finiteness of the human mind and understanding and from lack of spirit and discernment. None of us possess the entire embodiment of all truth.

"Yet while we cannot know and remember all things, there are some fundamentally essential things which every person ought to know. One of the absolute centainties of our religion is that we can know Christ as our Reedemer with positive conviction of that fact. Another absolute certainty of our religion is that child *of God is assured of Christ's protec*tion in this life. All things are in motion to bring about the effects which God desires. All things work together for good. Be moving to make the Christian more complete and harmonious in Christ."

Perkins' Narrow Escape.

Former Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who lives at Woodcliffe and has law offices in Jersey City, had a narrow escape from death yesterday morning while on his way to the city in his automobile. When near Hillsdale the car skidded and landed in a ditch, ripping both wheels from the front axles. The machine plunged through a fence before it stopped. Perkins and the chauffeur escaped with a few bruises, and after obtaining another automobile continued on their journey.

WILL HEAR TAXPAYERS

Somerset County Board Meets in Borough on Tuesday to Listen to Objections.

MANY MUCH DISSATISFIED.

Two Sessions to be Held and Large Property Owners to Attend.

As is its annual custom, the Somerset County Board of Taxation will hear the complaints of North Plainfield property owners who object to their assessments. For this purpose a meeting will be held at the Borough Council chamber on Tuesday afternoon and night, and as there is an unusual number of protests this year a decidedly lively meeting is expected.

Mayor Samuel Townsend, who by some is held to some extent responsible for increased assessments, will be on hand as will Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed. Assessor J. H. Cooley will be present too. Among those who will appear in person or will be represented by counsel, as objecting taxpayers, are Charles W. McCutchen, Edwin S. Hooley, W. J. Buttfield, David T. Kenney and H. M. French. These representative citizens a short time ago joined in a "round robin" against the alleged injustice perpetrated on the borough.

The figures show that while it was given out that North Plainfield would be more equitably assessed under the new method, the fact is that it has been more heavily burdened than ever before. The boroughites were assessed to the limit, while Bridgewater township taxpayers, who have always found North Plainfield "a good thing" for the Somerset county, are the beneficiaries as usual. That township, which includes Somerville, is paying less than last year and is getting more in return, while North Plainfield is paying considerably more and is getting less in return.

The afternoon session of the board will be devoted to the hearing of complaints, while the night session will be given up to a general discussion of the subject of taxation in the county. The county board consists of P. V. D. VanDoren, of Millstone; Newton H. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and S. A. Kenny, of Somerville.

LITERARY SOCIETY GIVES MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

A musical and literary entertainment was given at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night, under the auspices of the Women's Home Missionary Society. A large number of people were attracted to the church and all enpayed the fine program.

There were piano solos by Miss Mary Radford, recitations by Miss Helen Woolley and Mrs. W. B. Granatt, Sr.; violin solos by Miss Violet Staples and soprano solos by Mrs. Richard Gilbert, the program concluding with a two act drama, entitled "The Return of Deborah," which was well given by Miss Anna Lee, Miss Essie Gunzelman, Miss Irene Sawyer, Miss Ada Thompson and Miss Louise McCormick.

Milk Bottle as a Missile.

Frank Hermann, driver of a milk wagon, was arraigned in the city court today on a charge preferred by Patrolman Saffron that he had been smashing milk bottles on Plainfield avenue. The defendant told Judge Runyon that he had only broken one and that was because he had thrown it at a dog. The magistrate ordered him to make tracks for Plainfield avenue and pick up every piece of the glass he had scattered about.

Austano Boy Incorrigible.

Dominick Austano, the Lake street Italian boy who was recently before Judge Runyon on a petty theft charge, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, on complaint of Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city schools. He was charged *with general incorrigibility, the po*lice having made the request that it be done. The boy was sent to Elizabeth and will be taken in charge by Mrs. Williamson, the probation officer.

Randolph-Martin Nuptials.

Miss Mary Hazel Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin, of Pearl street, and Daniel F. Randolph, of Plainfield avenue, will be married at the home of the bride's parents tomorrow night at 6 o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and will be witnessed by a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of Newark, will spend Thanksgiving with their daughters, Mrs. W. E. Tunison, of West Second street, and Mrs. Fred Miller, of West Front street.

PHILIP CURRIN JOINS THE BENEDICTS' RANKS

Miss Emily E. Dey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dey, of Piscataway, this state, and Philip Currin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Currin, of the borough, were quietly married at 6 o'clock at the groom's new home on Mountain avenue. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, in the presence of the members of the two families and a few immediate friends.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Conover, of Piscataway, the latter being a sister of the groom. After the ceremony there were congratulations and supper was served. The couple received a large number of gifts of value and taste. The couple did not go away on a wedding trip. Mr. Currin is the proprietor of a well-established and successful grocery business at Somerset street and Grandview avenue, and he has a host of friends in the city and borough.

BOGUS PIANO TUNER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Richard J. Grant, the bogus piano tuner caught by the police after he had rifled numerous instruments in Plainfield homes, was given a hearing before Judge Runyon in the city court, yesterday afternoon. He was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and the specific complaints were made by Mrs. Chas. F. Dayton, of East Sixth street and William Abbe, of Webster place.

Grant admitted on the stand that way company, of New York, after a representative of the concern had declared the prisoner never worked for them. In reply to Judge Runyon's questions, Grant said he had never studied piano tuning in a school or factory but that his knowledge of the trade had been derived by reading books on the subject. He had also made himself acquainted, he said, with the works of all great musical composers. The court failed to see why these personal attributes entitled Grant to perform operations on pianos worth 1,000 or more and held him in 500 bail for the grand jury. He had no bondsman and was taken to Elizabeth today.

H. J. Lodge, the Steinway representative, to whom Kiely sold the piano, company had received complaints about Grant from Perth Amboy, Red Bank, Metuchen, Somerville, Bound Brook and other places. A determined effort had been made to catch him but without success until the Plainfield police took up the trail. He used the same game in all the towns he visited.

DOG ATE HER ROOSTER; COURT MULCTS HER $3

Walter Sharkey, of East Second street, is the owner of a fine young bull pup with fowling tendencies and the scrappiness of his breed. Mrs. Mary Jones, colored, who lives back of the Sharkey home on East Third street, numbered a plump Rhode Island rooster among her possessions until a few days ago when the Sharkey canine strolled into her yard and made a meal out of him. Filled with righteous indignation because she had been saving him for Thanksgiving, Mrs. Jones cooped up the dog and served notice on the owner that under the value of the fowl was produced at 6 o'clock that night the animal would be shot.

Sharkey hastened to the District court and secured a writ of replevin, forbidding Mrs. Jones to carry out her threat. Constable Herzkiah Hand served the papers at 5:55, just as the wrathful woman was taking aim at the pup for practice. She accepted the inevitable and also a notice to appear in the District court this morning, which she did.

Attorney Robert Newton Crane, as counsel for Sharkey, proved to the satisfaction of Judge Newcorn that he owned the dog and Mrs. Jones was ordered to give him up. The lawyer then called upon the court to fix expenses for all the trouble his client had been put to and Mrs. Jones was instructed to hand over $3. She was boiling with indignation when she paid up but served notice that she would begin suit against Sharkey for the value of the Rhode Island rooster.

FINISHING EXCISE REPORT

Fisk Commission Putting on Finishing Touches and Will Next Tackle the Law.

WILL FRAME PROPOSED BILL.

The State and Nation Gets $6,000,000 Revenue Annually From Sale of Liquor in New Jersey.

Chairman Fisk, Judge Rice and Peter Backes, of the State Excise Commission, spent the morning at Mayor Fisk's office going over the proposed report to Governor Fort. According to these three members the report in question is practically complete and their next work will be to draft a proposed law in line with their recommendations. Work on this will not be begun until next Tuesday when the other members of the commission are also expected here.

It has been found by investigations that more than $6,000,000 is derived annually in the shape of taxes by the State and Federal governments by the sale of liquor in New Jersey. In round figures $2,700,000 is paid for license fees to the various local governing bodies, while the United States revenue taxes aggregate approximately $3,400,000. On an estimated population of 2,200,000, there is about one saloon to every 284 inhabitants.

"There will be no minority report" reiterated Chairman Fisk today. "As you see our task of compiling this report is about through but we have a difficult job yet ahead of us. We must draft a law conforming with our recommendations for submission to the governor for approval. We may have differed on various points but we here is there a body that will not? As it is we seem all agreed and I do not see how anyone can imagine that there will be more than one report."

LOAN TO A FRIEND LEADS TO A COURT CASE.

At an adjourned session of the city court, yesterday afternoon, Raffe Tozzi, a West End barber, was fined $15 for assaulting Herman Semer, generally referred to as "Buck."

The occurrence took place two weeks ago and was brought about through a money loan of $20 that Tozzi made to a friend. The latter sold a horse to Semer and directed him to pay $30 of the sale price to Tozzi. He handed over $25 but the other five was not forthcoming because of poor business in Semer's line. Tozzi waxed angry at the delay and was made doubly so when his brother was chased out of the debtor's house when sent to collect. He resolved to take matters in his own hands and proceeding to Semer's home committed the assault that led to his arrest.

In explanation of the attack, Tozzi said that Semer and his entire family pounced upon him and he only acted in self defense.

GALAXY OF STARS IN WEBER'S STOCK COMPANY.

The Joe Weber All Star Stock Company, which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Monday night, will bring the greatest number of prominent actors and actresses yet seen in the city at the same time. The roster includes Joe Weber himself, Blanche Ring, who last appeared here in "Dolly Dollars;" Blanche Deyo, the world's greatest dancer; Charles J. Ross, of Ross and Fenton; Walter Jones, the original tramp of "1492;" Al Hart and the Weber beauty chorus. It will be the biggest musical event of the season and the way seats are selling already shows that people are alive to the fact.

Manager Counihan secured another noteworthy attraction today in Henry E. Dixey's new comedy, "Mary Jane's Pa," booked for presentation here next Tuesday night. The production goes into the Garden theatre, New York, next Monday night, December 3, the local playhouse will have "Paid In Full" as the annual testimonial to Treasurer Sam Cunningham.

Baptist Y. P. S. Social.

A meeting of the Young People's Society of the First Baptist church will be held tonight after the prayer meeting, to consider the adoption of a constitution. After disposing of this matter, the young people will enjoy a social time, and refreshments will be served. All who are interested in the young people's movement will be heartily welcome.

Mrs. Scarborough's Funeral.

*The funeral of Frances W. Scar*borough, wife of Hiram E. Scarborough, who died at her home on Mountain avenue, Monday night, will be held at the late residence, Friday morning at 9:30. Burial will be at Lambertville.

SPECIAL EXERCISES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Thanksgiving exercises were held at the various schools throughout the city today. Special programs of music, speaking and dialogues and recitations by the pupils were provided.

At the Plainfield High School the auditorium was well filled and an especially fine program was produced. Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, delivered an interesting address on the subject, "The Puritan Conscience." The program as given in this paper yesterday was followed.

The Thanksgiving address at the North Plainfield High School this morning was made by Rev. A. E. Phun, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. A special musical program was carried out, which included the singing of an anthem by the school, entitled "To Thee, Oh Lord, Our Hearts we Raise."

In the primary department and graded classes of Somerset school the pupils took part in a program of recitations, vocal solos and class singing as follows: Singing, "Golden Rod;" recitation, "Song of Praise," Clifford Causebrook; recitation, "Thanksgiving," Flaton Lake; recitation, "Origin of Thanksgiving," Walter Debele; song by pupils of third grade; recitation, "A Hymn," Marguerite Johnson; recitation, "A Wish," Russell Story; song by pupils of third grade; an original story by Jack Cannon; song, "Pumpkin Pie," three third grade girls; recitation, "At Grandma's," Marion Blair; song by pupils of fourth grade; recitation, "Bertie' Thanksgiving," Howard Willett; vocal solo, "November," Franklin Rowley; recitation; "A Trying Question," Stanley Burner; recitation, "Thanksgiving Reflections," James Whiting; recitation, "A Boy's Conclusion," Louis Chandler; sing*ing by school, "Flag of Our Nation."*

The pupils of Somerset school brought their annual Thanksgiving offerings for the Children's Home this morning. In the hallway was accumulated a huge pyramid of groceries and provisions of every variety from boxes of crackers to a barrel of potatoes. The cooking class yesterday baked a turkey and the result is a browned, tempting looking bird on a large platter surrounded with cranberry sauce, was carried to the Home this morning.

MISS DELIA KENNY NOW MRS. MICHAEL NAUGHTON.

Miss Delia Kenny, of this city, and Michael Naughton, of Washington, were married this morning at St. Mary's church, when a nuptial high mass was conducted by Father B. M. Hogan. During the mass the junior choir of the church, under the direction of Miss Mary A. Smith, organist, sang the several numbers.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Kenny, and the best man was John Naughton, of Washington, a brother of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and later the couple left for Washington, where they will reside. The groom holds a position in one of the Government departments.

CHARITY SOCIETY WILL MEET TUESDAY, DEC. 10.

The annual meeting of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held Tuesday night, December 10, at 8 o'clock in Grace church house. The meeting will be made the occa*sion for the discussion of probation* work and the truancy question in Plainfield. Short addresses will be made by Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, county probation officer, and Henry M. Maxson.

An opportunity will be given for questions and discussion from the floor. The meeting will be open to the public.

Samuel L. Miller.

Samuel L. Miller, for many years a well known Plainfielder, died last night at the State Hospital, Morris Plains, where he had been undergoing treatment for several years. He was forty-eight years old and until the time his illness began was a contracting painter. He was a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., and the Exempt Firemen's Association. A wife and two sons, Albert and Harold Miller, survive him. The funeral will be held at his late home on East Third street, Friday afternoon at 3:15.

Sale at St. Stephen's Church.

Under the auspices of St. Ann Guild of St. Stephen's church, a successful cake, candy and fancy goods' sale was held in the parish house yesterday afternoon. Those in charge of the affair were Mrs. Charles Stoutenant, Mrs. A. C. Hill and Mrs. William Miller. The sale was well patronized throughout the afternoon and the social features were also enjoyed.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

Services in the Churches, Football, Golf and Other Holiday Events.

UNION WORSHIP AT FIRST M. E.

Attractions at Plainfield Theatre, Y. M. C. A. and other Places—Hunt Club Chase.

Although the weather man can offer nothing of a promising nature for tomorrow, this will not interfere with the general observance of Thanksgiving Day in Plainfield and vicinity. There will be many events to attract and interest those who remain at home, from religious services to entertainments and sports of all kinds. As usual, the merchants will close their shops, with the exception of the drug stores, which will be closed at noon.

The religious service of special importance will be a union one of the evangelical churches at the First M. E. church at 11 o'clock, when an interesting program will be followed in which the various pastors will take part. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, will read sentences of Scripture, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, will read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation, followed with the invocation and the Lord's Prayer by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church. An anthem by the choir, "Praise Ye the Father," will precede the reading of the Psalter by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. Rev. A. E. Phun, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will read the Scripture lesson, followed with a prayer by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and the response by the choir. The sermon will then be delivered by Mr. Goodrich, after which the congregation will sing America.

The General Thanksgiving," to be rendered in concert will be led by Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, the choir will sing "Great and Marvelous," and the offering will be for the Charity Organization Society. Rev. John Y. Broek, the newly-installed pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will make the offeratory prayer, followed by the singing of the doxology and the benediction by Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Bapaist church.

Services will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross at, 9:30 in the morning, when there will be morning prayer and sermon by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner.

At St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock there will be a memorial mass for the departed members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and the members will attend in a body. Father B. M. Bogan will be the celebrant, Rev. E. J. Dunphy, of Dunellen, the deacon and Father Vincent Scholl, the sub-deacon.

The services at St. Stephen's church tomorrow morning will consist of holy communion at 7:30 o'clock, morning prayer and sermon by the rector, Rev. Morgan Ashley, at 9:30 o'clock, with a special program of music under the direction of Charles Suhr, organist and choirmaster.

The Holy Cross Church Club eleven will meet North Plainfield High School team on the Cricket Field tomorrow at 10 o'clock. The contest will be watched with great interest for on Saturday the church boys will meet Plainfield High School on Home Common Saturday afternoon. Tomorrow's game will show to some extent the relative strength of the church eleven and P. H. S., as the latter defeated N. P. H. S. last Saturday.

A game of football will be played between the Netherwood A. C. and the V. V. A. C., of Roselle, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning on the grounds at South avenue and Central street. The game will be a good one as both teams are of the same weight averaging 130 pounds.

The circulating department of the Plainfield Public Library will be closed all day tomorrow. The reading room will be open to visitors from 2 until 6 in the afternoon.

The final schedule golf event of the season at the Plainfield Country Club will be the cross-country tournament tomorrow morning. THE RAID CASE HEARING

State Presents Its Evidence and Farbman is Held for the Grand Jury.

LAWYER SWEATS CHIEF WEISS.

Counsellor DeMeza Submits Him to Rigid Questioning and Gets Some Admissions—Damage Suits to Be Brought.

Following a two hour hearing in the borough police court, Wednesday afternoon, Morris Farbman, proprietor of the Arlington hotel, raided by the North Plainfield police, Saturday night, was held in $500 bail to answer before the Somerset conty grand jury on a charge of conducting a disorderly house. The original bail of $500 fixed at the time of his arrest was allowed to continue. Recorder Charles M. Dolliver presided during the session and the State's case was presented by Assistant Prosecutor Edward P. Johnson, while Counsellors Francis J. Blatz and William C. DeMeza appeared for the defendant.

No startling features developed to reward a motley crowd of curiosity seekers for packing the court room to suffocation but it was brought out after the proceedings that Lawyer DeMeza had conducted the examination with the idea of having definite statements made that will assist him in bringing damage suits in behalf of indignant people who were caught in the raid and locked up although innocent of any wrong-doing. In this he was prevented as Chief Marshal Weiss admitted on the stand that the Arlington hotel is a regularly licensed place, that it was entered by himself and his officers without legal hours, that he did so without any warrant and that there was no whisper on the first floor where he placed ten patrons under arrest. Mr. Blatz is in reality the counsel for Farbman but the questioning and summing up were given over to Mr. DeMeza at his request. Who the people are who propose bringing suit and against whom action will be taken he refused to state when questioned by the reporters. He intimated, however, that the particulars would be given in a few days.

It was nearly two hours after the assistant prosecutor moved that the hearing proceed and the complaint against Farbman was read. It cited that he had maintained and conducted a disorderly house at Somerset street and Greenbrook road on Saturday night, November 14, and divers other occasions. The charge was made by Chief Marshal Weiss and he was called to the stand to give testimony.

Before the questioning was commenced, Mr. DeMeza inquired if Mayor Samuel Townsend was in the room and his name was called out but there was no response. The lawyer declared afterward that he had a purpose in seeking the borough's chief executive but it seems that he went to New York early yesterday and was nowhere near the court room at any time. There was a persistent rumor to the effect that the mayor had been apprised that it would be to the borough's advantage for him to remain away but he could not be seen to verify it.

Chief Weiss' testimony, given in the form of answers to the assistant prosecutor's questions, detailing in legal phraseology why he had raided the hotel; how it had been accomplished and the subsequent events. When Mr. DeMeza took him on cross examination he was subjected to a gruelling that lasted nearly an hour and a half during which the witness and the prosecution were very much "on the run." There were frequent objections raised but in three out of five the defendant counsel was sustained.

The first clash came when Mr. DeMeza asked the chief if he made the raid of his own accord or whether he had undertaken it at the instigation of Mayor Townsend or the chairman of the police committee. He was severely instructed to answer and declared that no one had advised him to do it. Immediately afterward there was another argument when he was asked what led him to declare the place disorderly and swoop down upon it, arresting not only the proprietor but people who were absolutely innocent of any wrong intent. Mr. DeMeza again won out and the witness said he be*lieved the hotel to be disorderly be*cause he had noticed married women of bad reputation going in the place with men other than their husbands, that he had witnessed a woman partially disrobed sitting in a man's lap at an upper window and that on two occasions he heard brawls in the bar room. He was asked what married women he had seen going in and replied Mrs. Eva Sparks and Mrs. Gertrude Goodwin.

"How do you know they are married?" queried the lawyer, "did you witness the ceremony?"

*The chief answered in the nega*tive and was told to confine himself to what he knew to be so and not what somebody had told him. In reply to a question as to what made him believe their reputations were not of the best he said he had seen them "around nights," that they had frequently gotten into cabs and drive-on off with men and that they frequented the Arlington hotel a great deal. This was the extent of his knowledge as to what constituted "bad reputation." He admitted that the same women had gone into other places in the borough but he didn't think it advisable to make raids there.

When it came to the examination of the raid itself, the chief said that he and two of his men had hurried upstairs after first entering the place and that six people were arrested on this floor. They were Mrs. Sparks and Mrs. Goodwin together with two young men with whom they were drinking; Charles Reinman and Miss Mary Johnson, who were in another room with the door locked. At this point the chief admitted that he had witnessed no disorder among the four who were drinking, that he had no warrant for anyone's arrest and yet had broken down the door of the room occupied by Reinman and his companion.

At another point in the cross examining, Mr. DeMeza asked the witness how long ago it was that he first considered the Arlington a disorderly hotel and was told three weeks.

"You mean to tell me then, that you were aware of disorder three weeks ago and waited until last Saturday night to make raids?"

"Yes."

"Why did you wait until then; why didn't you exercise your authority as an officer and place the proprietor under arrest instead of ignoring an alleged breach of the law in order to let the place fill up with the customary Saturday night legitimate patronage."

*An objection raised by Mr. John*son resulted in a five minute wrangle at the end of which the chief was ordered to reply. He stated that he "had raided the place Saturday night because he thought it was time to do it." Mr. DeMeza took exception to the witness' evasive style of answering and had him called to account by the recorder. He then said he believed Saturday night to be the best time to make arrests as the evidence would be there.

The chief was followed to the stand by Charles Reinman, who merely stated that he was at the hotel Saturday night and that he occupied a room with a single woman who was not his wife. He was dismissed without cross examination.

In the sum up, Mr. DeMeza made an eloquent plea for the defendant's acquittal on the ground that the State had failed to make out a sufficient case of disorder in the place. He branded the action of the police in raiding the hotel as they did as "a high-handed proceeding that might be expected in Russia but entirely out of place in New Jersey," a statement that brought cods of approval from the spectators. Mr. Johnson spoke briefly to the effect that the charge in the complaint had been upheld and the recorder agreed with him.

BREWERS IN CONTROL DECLARES PROBER FISK

Mayor Fisk, president of the State Excise Commission, in his address before the National Municipal League and the American Civic Association, jointly at Pittsburg, discussed brewery control in New Jersey among other subjects. He said in part:

"It seems only necessary that the brewers or any one else directly or indirectly interested in any saloon should be held jointly responsible with the proprietor of the saloon, if the said saloon is run contrary to the laws of the State. As it now stands in this State in case of a violation the brewer or wholesale dealer holding a New Jersey license immediately transfers the license to some other party, before the defendant can be brought to trial. Thus saving the license and the place where the license is granted, which is absolutely worth saving.

"The brewery influence in the State of New Jersey is very large. It is estimated that the breweries control at least 70 per cent., if not more, of all the licensed places in the State, and they bring their influences to bear politically and in other ways, in order to create as large a number of places as possible so as to procure an output for their beer.

"In the inland cities of New Jersey there were found very few violations of the excise laws. The people seem to be content with the present conditions, and with the sale of liquor on six days of the week. The principal violations found in the other parts of the State, such at seaside resorts and the larger cities, were (1) selling of liquor on Sunday, covering up the bar, particularly to girls, and the selling in back rooms in saloons contrary to law. The reasons for these violations could be sumed up in this manner. (1) Political influence; (2) brewery influence; (3) persistent determination to drink during prohibited hours; (4) non-enforcement of the law.

Knew Her Part.

"Why don't you go over and play with those other little girls, Ethel?" said the mother to her little girl, whom she found all alone on the street.

"I am playing with 'em, mamma," was the little one's reply. "We're playin' housekeepin' and I'm the girl what's just left!"—Yonkers Statesman.

ADDRESS BY EVANGELIST

Rev. L. Judson Westfall at Faith Chapel Draws Large Congregation.

"ROBBERY IN PLAINFIELD."

Dominie's Theme Last Night Was Devoted to Charges Against Local People.

"Robbery in Plainfield," was the subject of an interesting discourse by Rev. L. Judson Westfall of Wilmington, Del., at Faith chapel, Wednesday. This earnest divine has been conducting special services at the chapel and each night there have been large congregations present to hear him. His discourse Wednesday night was full of pointed truths.

"There is one great fundamental truths at the basis of a Christian civilization," said Rev. Mr. Westfall, "which cannot be too well understood, too often considered or too deeply felt; namely the proneness of human nature to exhibit an aversion to subjection or obedience to known truth. The defective sense of this and the evil of iniquity, the pride of our boasted freedom, the negligence of known obligation, lies at the root of all the wickedness of society.

"A proper conviction of this common evil will destroy all idea of human merit and lead us to prize God's offer of pardon. A sense of the power of evil is necessary to reformation and social improvement and this must be urged and forced upon the minds and hearts of men.

"Some take this world as a public boarding house, on the plan that the world owes them a living and they go about seeking to establish their claim. The world owes only those its living who first give to it a life. Others take the world to be a theatre and they are the actors in the drama of life—life usually ends in a tragedy with them. Others shift the responsibility of their misdeeds on their Creator and hence excuse themselves for indulging in things offensive to God and man.

"But what saith the Prophet Mah, the last of the Old Testament seers, who is rent with a message intended first to convince and indict the people for sacrilege, embezzlement and robbery and in addition to these, calls the inhabitants to an account with a question, 'Will a man rob God?' and then answers it himself, 'Ye have robbed me even the whole nation.' Hence, he brings the whole nation of Israel into the court of justice to answer the heinous crime of robbery.

"The prophet assumes the appointment of an attorney-general of State whose sworn duty it is to expose guilt and crime and then advise the cure. The prophet first exposes their sin to the view of all mankind and then promises the coming of Him who will remove the stain of their guilt. He opens the wound deep and wide, then applies the ointment of healing and the bandages of correction.

"The charges against the citizens of Plainfield are as follows: They are charged first with the henious crime of dishonoring God. The people in the prophet age had robbed Him of the integrity due His holy name, so that God was no longer reverenced and highly esteemed among men. His name was spoken of lightly. He that hongreth me I will honor saith the Scripture. The agreement is mutual and we know from history that God is abundantly able to bestow more honer upon man than man is upon his creator. He is honored as a father because he is his father; nature has written this law in the hearts of the children of men, long before it was written on Sinai. We may everyone of us look upon ourselves as *guilty of this first charge, our re*lation to God as our Father obliges us to fear and honor Him.

"It is a serious complaint and not to be thought of that God is so little in our thoughts and transactions. In the next place the citizens of Plainfield are robbing God of the service due Him. 'If I be a Master where is my service?' For the relation to God as a Master binds us to render an acceptable service that is well pleasing in His sight, but when we deliberately rob Him of time given us to grow in the knowledge of His will and use the same for our own selfish purposes, what is this but theft, but robbery. The crime is in evidence all about us everywhere. The contempt and criticism which society calls down on itself from sincere Christian people it to all fair minds just. In principle God is our Master but in practice He is robbed of that service due Him. This is a serious charge for which many careless people will have to answer. We cry, Lord, Lord, but do not the things He says.

"In the next place the citizens of Plainfield are guilty of robbing God in their business affairs. The guilt of this accusation is so great the people are not willing to even consider the charge as just, and they seek by every possible means to throw the burden of proof back on God. Fashionable people everywhere do not hesitate to engage in those things which works untold harm on the coming generation. They can engage in questionable amusements, Sabbath desecration, pleasure seeking and still claim to maintain the integrity of their Christian calling, but we sincerely doubt if when their influence for good is evil spoken of. The citizens of Plainfield have the New York fever of money getting, they appear more concerned in the way to invest their incomes than in the investment of a life. Time killing is one of the greatest sins that an individual can commit and God is robbed of many precious hours which might have been devoted to culture of the soul life.

"God has a controversy with the people of this city for deserting his army, for ignoring his claims, for their playing the priest and levite passing by on the other side. Thus by their influence they lead others to follow in their iniquity. A famous English leader said 'If I must make my brother to stumble I will eat no meat as long as the world stands.'

"Hundreds of the citizens of this *city are robbing God of their influ*ence. By our own pride, covetousness, love of luxury, desire and carelessness, we have changed the very influence of lives against truth and righteousness. No wonder that when we despise the name of our Heavenly Father, lightly consider his service as a Master and allow our good deeds to be evil spoken of we have robbed God and done that which has made his cause despicable to others. We cannot plead 'Not guilty.' The evidences are too strong, our only hope is a sincere repentance, namely, to turn from the evil of our way."

$600,000 WORTH OF STATE PLUMS READY

The places at the disposal of the Governor and State authorities next year will be worth a total of about $600,000. Comparatively few of the big salaried appointments are to be made. Some places not mentioned in the list below pay fees, and with some few salaried places omitted, the list totals the amount quoted. The most important places are as follows:

One Supreme Court justice, seven years, at $10,000 a year	70,000
One attorney-general, five years, at $7,000	35,000
Three law judges, Court of Errors and Appeals, at $20 a day, $2,000 each for six years	36,000
One county judge, five years, at $3,000	15,000
Two District Court Judges, five years, at $4,000 each	40,000
Four prosecutors, five years each, one at $10,000; one at $5,000; one at $4,000 and one at $1,500.	102,500
Three chancellor commissioners, five years, five years at $1,500 each	22,500
One banking commissioner, three years, at $6,000	18,000
One State assessor, four years at $2,500	10,000
One State tax equalization commissioner, five years at 3,500	17,500
Twenty-one county tax equalization commissioners, three years at varying salaries, totaling $31,000 a year	93,000
Six inspectors of prisons on five years at $500 each	12,500
State prison supervisor, three years at $3,000	9,000
State Reformatory superintendent to succeed Joseph V. Martin till 1912, three years, at $3,000 a year	9,000
Two Railroad Commissioners, one for six years and one prospective for two years at $5,000 a year.	40,000
One charities commissioner, three years at $4,000	12,000
One State sewerage commissioner, three years, at 1,500	4,500
Total	$446,500

Returns from Sad Mission.

Mrs. Louise Miller, wife of the late Rev. Robert Miller, of Clinton, Iowa, who came East three weeks ago with the body of her only daughter, Miss Grace E. Miller, for interment at Fairview, returned home, via the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Wednesday, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Sarah Randolph, of Duer street. After settling up the estate of the deceased, Mrs. Miller and her sister will return to the former's home on Dyer street, where she will live in the future.

Plainfield's Famous Ones.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of William J. Hirstbrook, of Grant avenue and Miss Edna Frances Reilly, of Newark, formerly of this city. Miss Reilly is the daughter of Robert A. Reilly.

HOLDS NEGRO BURGLAR

Prisoner Gives Ingenious Answers as to Use of Tools Found on Him.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST HIM.

Three Criminal Charges on Which He Must Face Jury and Another Will Be Added.

With a tongue glib enough to have reflected credit upon a seasoned lawyer, Thomas Allen, the negro nabbed on Roundaman Higgins, Tuesday night, sought to explain to Judge Runyon in the city court, Thursday why he carried a dangerous set of burglar's tools and weapons when caught. The entire outfit was spread before him and he took each article in turn, giving a series of ingenious answers to account for their possession.

Allen generally works as a coachman or stable hand and he said the jimmy he had was for taking stones out of horses' hoofs; the black jack in the belt was given him by a former employer for protection when he slept in a stable at a race-track; the bottle of pure ammonia and squirt gun was for making horse liniment and applying it; a solution of chloroform in a bottle was also for use in treatment; and a bunch of skeleton keys were those of the rooms, closets and bureaus of the hotel where he was stopping in New York.

Allen's ready flow of language and ingenious replies to all questions put to him produced more than one smile from His Honor and the police officials but the colored man continued on unabashed. His effort proved useless, however, as in the end Judge Runyon told him that his stories were not believed and committed him to Elizabeth to appear before the grand jury. The magistrate told him that even if his outfit was used for stable purposes, the fact that he was an ex-convict and knew that there are three indictments against him in Union county for Plainfield burglaries, should have been warning enough for him not to carry it and also to remain away from this city.

Allen will be arraigned for having burglarious tools in his possession, the only indictments as yet presented against him and if sent to prison he will have to serve a year on his last sentence taken off in the form of probation.

The prisoner is thirty-seven years old and has a wife living in New York. Chief Kiely had his room in the Claredon hotel in the city searched yesterday but it revealed nothing of an incriminating nature. He explained his presence in Plainfield by saying that he came here to see a friend, Alfred Cole, who formerly worked for a Park avenue family but is now employed on Stelle avenue.

HEAVENLY REST PARISH FLOCKS TO HARVEST HOME

The harvest supper given in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Thursday, under the auspices of the Women's Guild, of which Mrs. Juan A. Babcock is the president, was a great success. The rooms were a scene of beauty with pretty autumnal decorations contrasting in varied colors with the tables garnished with silver, glass and pretty linen. An elaborate and delicious course supper was served to an unusually large number of patrons.

A notable feature of the evening was the sociability of the guests, members of neighboring churches assisting in serving and in other ways to make the affair a success. There was a general expression of pleasure over the complete details. During and after supper an orchestra gave a fine program of music and many encores were requested.

The tables were presided over as follows: No. 1, Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. H. B. Sydam; No. 2, Mrs. F. J. Harris, Mrs. C. E. Borden and the Misses Forster; No. 3, Mrs. H. L. DeHart, Mrs. William Hull, Mrs. Frank Stillwell and Mrs. Thomas Conners;; No. 4, Mrs. C. Peterson, Mrs. L. A. Sutton; tea and coffee, Mrs. J. M. Peterson, waitresses, all of the young women of St. Agnes' Guild. Mrs. E. E. Brown, assisted by Mrs. Harry Fraleigh and Miss Wenzel, were at the serving table and Miss A. Forster took care of the cash and tickets. The reception committee comprised Mrs. Chas. Graves, Mrs. W. Campbell, Mrs. M. A. Grannatt. Much credit is due Mrs. Juan A. Babcock for the able manner in which she managed the affair.

Thieves Enter Church Again.

Thieves returned to the chapel of the First Presbyterian church this week and got away with a couple of rugs used in the class rooms. On the previous occasion about two weeks ago, nearly all of the silver spoons, together with two large portiere curtains, a silver trophy and the contents of a birthday bank, amounting to about $4, were taken. The church officials have been unable to obtain any clew as to the thieves, but a sharp lookout will be maintained for any further visitations.

TROLLEY SCHEDULE CONFERENCE SUBJECT

Following several meetings by the Councilmanic committee on public affairs, held with a view to learning exactly the present needs by the way of improvements in local trolley conditions, that body held a conference with District Superintendent Gettings and local superintendent, George Lahr, of the Public Service Corporation Wednesday. While the city officials had fully acquainted themselves with local conditions so that they were able to discuss the matter intelligently, they met the company's representatives with no recommendations or suggestions to offer, beyond stating conditions as they now exist.

They reviewed the advantages of the old trolley schedule here as well as the new one, pointing out the important features in both so that the company's representatives could learn that which it is believed would best suit patrons of the lines here. Both Mr. Gettings and Mr. Lahr were exceedingly courteous and gave every evidence that they stand ready and willing so far as they are concerned to give Plainfield the best trolley service possible.

There was an expression of opinion that the old schedule, whereby all of the trolley cars met at the Watchung avenue stand every fifteen minutes had its advantages over the present one, even though it congested traffic at that point. Under those conditions all cars connected, while now it requires a little figuring to tell just when to catch a trolley. On the other hand the city officials are anxious to do anything that will do away with the congestion of traffic at any one point.

Another opinion was that with an extra car on the Fourth and Somerset street line it would be possible to manage it in the correct schedule at all times which is not done at present. There was also a discussion regarding new cars, but nothing def*inite was reported. It is realized* that under the present conditions the single-end type of trolley cannot be operated in the city, owing to the absence of "Y's" and until such time as the city will permit these it seems hopeless to expect the latest style cars. There is another arrangement that prohibits the best possible service and that is the single tracks.

All of these matters were discussed pro and con and Mr. Gettings promised to take them up with the proper officials and report back to the committee within a short time.

WEINBERGER WON.

Moskowitz to Pay for Stock and Fixtures.

The greater part of Thursday's session of the District Court was occupied with an action instituted by Jacob Weinberger against Henry Moskowitz, in which the plaintiff sought to recover the balance due him for the sale of stock and fixtures, which he sold to the defendant in Summit over two years ago. Judge M. Clark Wittemore, of the Elizabeth district court, presided. Judge Newcorn occupying the bench for the former at Elizabeth.

Walter L. Hetfield represented the plaintiff and Francis J. Blatz the defendant. Judgment was given the plaintiff for the full amount and costs.

Marries the Boarder.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Emily Kiehl and Charles Thomas, her boarder, which took place three weeks ago, Rev. G. S. Konkle, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, performing the ceremony. The bride, it is said, was the wife of Louis Kiehl, who on September 23 last, committed suicide, after trying to kill his wife.

The Sure Treatment.

A Masquerade Ball.

The first masquerade ball of the season is announced for Friday night, December 4, to be given by the Plainfield Cycling Club at Spengerbund hall. Prizes will be awarded.

BOROUGH'S BIG BURDEN

Annexation's Veto Has Cost North Plainfield Taxpayers $50,000 Already.

SAUNDERS' PREDICTION TRUE.

Since 1902, It Has Been "Soaked" $6,000 Annually, Which Could Have Been Saved—Nothing in Return.

During the discussions immediately preceding the annexation election in 1902, former Mayor William L. Saunders pointed out that North Plainfield was paying a much greater proportion of the Somerset county tax than it ought to pay, especially in view of the fact that it got next to nothing back from the county. He asserted then that the Somerset county tax rate would go up, while that of Union county would go down. He also showed that as a simple business proposition it was a mere matter of self-preservation for property owners in the borough to assist in every possible way to change the county line so that the borough would be in Union county.

Since annexation was defeated eight years ago, the facts have fully justified Mr. Saunders' predictions. Somerset county has continued to treat the borough in the same old way, and a glance at the figures carefully compiled from official records show that it has cost the taxpayers $6,000 in eight years more than $1,000 a year on the average, or nearly $50,000 in eight years for the privilege of remaining in Somerset. This, to say nothing of the fact that the borough has not received from the county anything like the consideration and benefits which it would have received in Union county. Besides this, property in the borough, is, as every one must now admit, worth far less than if would be as a part of the city of Plainfield, with a sewer system and all the great benefits which would help coming from a union of the two places.

In considering the following figures, the fact must be borne in mind that even eight years ago the valuation of property in the borough for assessment purposes were as high as they are today in Plainfield, because since that year Plainfield was assessed at about thirty cents on the dollar, while North Plainfield was assessed at between fifty and sixty.

Year.	Total Valuation by Borough Assessment.	Somerset County Tax Rate.	Somerset County Amount of County Tax Paid by Borough.	Union County Tax Rate.	Amount of County Tax which Borough would have paid if in Union County.
1903	2,419,410	.65	15,315.34	.50	1,850.10
1904	2,553,175	.60	15,551.84	.47	12,003.21
1905	2,626,800	.64	16,785.92	.45	12,093.28
1906	2,983,150	.66	19,846.20	.28	8,352.82
1907	3,112,950	.65	20,364.03	.25	8,716.26
1908	4,482,700	.54	24,206.58	.22	12,999.83
			$126,086.95		$77,611.67

Amount of county tax paid by the borough since 1902 to Somerset county over and above what it would have paid in Union county on the same valuation during the same period is therefore $48,475.28.

McINTYRE CONCERT ON WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16.

The second Chamber Music Concert under the direction of Joseph McIntyre, will be given at the Hartridge School auditorium on Wednesday night, December 16, by the Knoisel Quartet, which Frederick McKay, musical critic of the New York Evening Mail, says is second to none in the world. The present indications are that every seat will be sold for this concert and music-lovers will have a rare treat.

In speaking of the quartet, Mr. Aldrich, the musical critic for the New York Times, has the following to say: "An event of first importance to lovers of music is the return of the Knoisel Quartet, which gave its first concert last night in Mendelssohn Hall, before a large and distinguished audience. The quartet has never played better. There was the same perfect ensemble that has been observed in the past. The same precision of touch, the same delicate shading and phrasing. In fact, such perfect playing as this quartet is capable of should be held up as the ideal of all quartets. An organization of this sort is a boon to the ear of the most fastidious concert-goer."

Observing Orders.

Jones—Did you deliver my message to Mr. Smith?

Johnny—No, sir. His office was locked.

Jones—Well, why didn't you wait for him, as I told you?

Johnny—There was a note on the door saying, "Return at once," so I came back.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Outside the Pale.

Bob—Introduce me to the old guy.

The Hostess—Why, you must know him. He's the president of your college.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 29, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Home mission. A million a year; our foreign immigrants.—Isa. ii, 1-22.

Isaiah's prophetic description of all the nations of the world gathering together at Mount Zion seems to express in a way the attitude of all nations toward our land. From what part of the globe do they not come to this fair and goodly land, upon which God has bestowed so many blessings? It is true that they come a million strong annually for the temporal and material good that is to be obtained, and yet their very presence here gives us a golden opportunity to bring them to the cross of Christ that they may be saved. God is giving us a foreign mission field at home, and we should take advantage of it, both for their sake and our own as a nation.

The general tendency up until a short time ago was to look upon this great influx of foreigners, many of them "undesirable citizens," as a menace to our national life and institutions. But this view is fast losing ground. Those who have carefully studied the subject have come to the conclusion that they are to be a blessing rather than a menace or a curse. It is true that they are vast in numbers, yet they scatter over large territories and therefore can do no very great harm. In our large cities the police can take care of them if they become dangerous. On Broad street, in Philadelphia, three brave officers put to flight an Italian mob following the red flag. It is true that many of the adults are illiterate, but their children can and are being educated in our public schools. The improvement even in one generation in this respect is almost incredible. They are mostly industrious and saving and are doing work in our land that Americans would do little today. Many great recent national operations in our country have only been made possible by the presence of this army of workers, who have been willing to wield the pick and shovel above ground or under ground. The present generation does not understand or appreciate our national institutions, but the second and third generations will if properly trained. The perpetuity of a nation depends to a great extent at least upon the constant adding of new blood into the national life. Continual intermarriage among the same race of people causes it to decline physically and mentally. For these reasons the coming generation of the foreigners may be a great factor in the perpetuation of the American people and nation.

In the face of these facts who can declare that foreign immigration, even at a million a year, is any great menace to us? Let us rather consider it otherwise and let state and church in their respective relations to these masses make the way easy for them to become real and true Americans, remembering that our ancestors were once immigrants themselves.

tary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association, appearing before student bodies all over the United States, winning the hearts of the students by his earnestness and eloquence. Mr. Poling is one of the strongest all around college men that the Pacific coast has ever produced. He won high honors in oratory and scholarship, was a leader in athletics and social life and has been prominent in Y. M. C. A. and church work. He is brilliant, forceful and interesting. He is well fitted for the position of field secretary and will prove a great inspiration and blessing to the Endeavorers of Ohio.

An "Endeavor" Society.

The great wisdom of the author of the pledge is shown in the use of the word "strive" in it and in the name he gave the society. Much as I esteem the name Christian, I believe it is well the society was not named the Young People's Christian society. To include the word Endeavor in the title shows commendable skill. Very few are worthy of being unqualifiedly called Christians.—Charles M. Fillmore in Jackies Endeavor Gem.

THE LATEST EDICTS OF THE STYLE MAKERS.

There are manies "an jour" and wraps for the evening, simple wraps and sumptuous wraps. I am not going to pretend to you that all of them are becoming, but "si vous le voules," I will guide your choice between the varieties which are offerred.

There is the jacket. It will surely retake its place in the category of wraps, because it need not necessarily match the skirt with which it is worn. I saw only the other day a very good-looking woman wearing a skirt of a different color from the coat. Then, there is the jacket in color worn with a black skirt, or the jacket may be black and the skirt in some color. It matters little—the two are both permissible. The advantage of the black jacket is that it may be worn with many skirts.

Many of these coats are braided—sometimes with black on black and sometimes black on color. Even one shade of braid on another shade of cloth has its charms.

As to the length of the jacket it is a matter of preference. If you choose one which reaches only to the top of the hips you will be quite correct. If you prefer one long, even one dragging upon the ground, you will be considered in the height of fashion.

There is also a mantle of the empire and directoire period, with flat cuffs and shoulders which resemble those worn by the heroines of 1830. There are redingotes of supple material in all shades. Sometimes they are trimmed with fur and sometimes they are adorned with lace. But should you prefer something more simple, behold, then, in response to your desire, the paletot, of masculine style, reaching to the feet of the skirt. Is it a mantle more sumptuous that you would have? Would you prefer a coat to accompany a costume you buy? Alors, here is the model jacket, "le dernier cri." It is made of rich material very much embroidered and braided from head to foot. One might wear with it "un belle zibiline" or "un joli renard." Later on this model will be repeated all in fur, and then it could not be rivalled in either magnificence or beauty.

Besides these coats that I have mentioned there are also the jackets with the touches of the directoire. There are the splendid fur coats on large, generous lines which envelop the figure and defy the cold weather of Father Winter, and there are also the evening wraps of liberty satin lined with fur and trimmed with a magnificent arrangement of gold and silver embroideries. What more could one want? It certainly would seem that Dame Fashion has outdone herself this year.

There is a little secret which I wish to impart to you! It is whispered among the wise that the elbow sleeve is returning for afternoon and evening wear. It seems as though the long mousquetaire has not been a good favorite with the particular Parisian and for some reason or other she has reverted to her former love. This is not stated definitely by anyone—it is sort of in the air, one may feel it. However, a few weeks will decide the important question.

The Parisian has taken up with enthusiasm the English habit of afternoon tea, and not only does she buy it at the Columbin, at Rumpelmayer's, at the Ritz, but she also serves it in her own house, and for these occasions she wears the English tea gown. Some of these are the height of simplicity combined with the most extravagant magnificence. One, for instance, recently seen at a great couturier's, was of meteore silk made with the Greek tunic and held over the bust by bands of embroidered ribbon. A bordure of material outlined the classic gown and the skirt was very long and supple.

Another gown was coral liberty silk in a princess form, tied below the waistline in the back and held in place by a buckle. The decolletage was filled in by pleated chiffon of black.—Eloise, in Philadelphia North American.

Days Growing Longer.

It has long been known theoretically, that the tides act as a brake on the rotating earth, and tend to lengthen the day. The effect, however, is so slight that it cannot be measured in any length of time at man's disposal. It may be estimated with the aid of certain assumptions and using the data available, W. D. MacMillian has recently made the necessary computation by the formulas used by engineers. He finds the increase of the length of the day to be one second in 460,000 years.—Youth's Companion.

THE POOR OLD BEGGAR.

The prosperous wholesale grocery dealer had sold out his business preparatory to departing for the west to live. He was reflecting, the next morning, on the prospect of getting a good price for his house, which the day before had been advertised for sale, when the doorbell jingled merrily.

"Sir," said the maid, putting her head in at the library door a moment later, "it's the old beggar from the corner near your store, sir."

"Old is the beggar, eh?" fondled the retired business man, taking from his pocket a coin. "I presume the wretched old fellow missed my customary contribution this morning and is come for it. Here, give him this dollar."

The maid went away with the money and again returned.

"I gave the dollar, str," said she, "and he seemed very thankful for it; but he says he'd like to speak a moment with you on business, sir."

"What business can that old beggar have with me?"

"He says that if you can bring the price of this house down to $20,000 cash he'd buy it, sir."—Judge.

THE ONE-PIECE DRESS HOLDS SWAY.

There was a time not so very far back in the history of fashions—our mothers remember it, even if we may not—when only the one-piece frock was dignified by the title of "dress." Two-piece garments were known as suits, perhaps, or basques and skirts or some such queer and awkward combination of words. "The dress," as a distinct class of wearing apparel, was always in one piece.

Now, as the princess or empire mode, but merely as a convenient way of making one's winter frocks, "the dress" has again come into fashion. That is to say, the one-piece dress has come to replace the two-piece shirtwaist suit and to a certain extent the coat-and-skirt suit.

For this is the short, stout woman is grateful, for to appear as one long column of the same color makes her look much taller than to seem like two blocks bound together, a white one topping a dark one, as is the case with a waist and skirt.

Then, too, the mode is a graceful one for any type of beauty.

Of course, good materials are expensive, but there is a decrease in the number of yards required for a dress. If you have been a careful calculator you will know that trimmings and linings and the dressmaker's bill are really the things that cost.

Now the trimmings for the new cloths may be hand-made—and we must be hand-made if an individual effect be desired. Almost any design planned for a blouse may be applied as bodice trimming. The design need not be repeated, however, in the manner appropriate for a lingerie blouse. Coarse silk embroidery thread may be used to define the pattern, and the treatment may be simple enough. Old-fashioned chain stitch is used with wonderful effect; Wallachian stitch, too, is pressed into service, and time-honored outline stitch plays a prominent part.

As to linings; A waist lining of some description is needed. Whether the foundation be close-fitted with darts and boned or cut straight with few seams on the blouse order depends upon the choice of material. There are thin linings that are firm —silks and satin and cotton fabrics. A waist lining, if it extends well below the waistline, may be the only lining required. Sometimes the skirt is supplied with an apron lining. If the material of the gown be very sheer and transparent a lining from top to hem is necessary.

But the biggest item of all is the dressmaker's bill, and there's the rub. She'll sacrifice on the altar of preference to the cause of economy, and make a shirtwaist suit "do" when we can't afford a big dressmaker's bill, or shall we cut the Gordian knot by combining a little skill with much common sense and more patience, and make a dress or two for ourselves."

There is another way for those who were born "handsome instead of rich." That was in the answer to the old conundrum "When is a dress not a dress?" The answer is when one of the new separate skirts is worn with a matching blouse. So skillful have been the dress designers that a skirt and blouse may masquerade as a dress if one of these new high-waisted skirts is bought at a reliable shop and completed with a little blouse of net or chiffon, dyed to match.—Philadelphia Press.

A NEW EFFECT ON THE SKIRT.

Quite the loveliest dress is of rose-colored "mousseline de soie," lined with white chiffon and worn over white satin. The skirt boasts a large square apron; indeed, it might be called an overskirt, which meets at the back of the waist.

Still carrying out this idea, the apron is tied back by strings rather more than half way down the back, but strings that were of pale rose-colored liberty, tied in an elegant bow, the ends of which flow down onto the train. An "entre-deux" of very handsome design embroidered with jet outlines this apron, and by means of a horizontal band cuts it into two parts. The upper and longer one is sparsely studded with fairly large jet cabochons, while the lower portion is thickly sprinkled with very small ones. These little cabochons are sewn all over the bodice, the large ones being reserved for the sleeves. The "decolletage" and the waist are outlined with the jet "entre-deux."

The apron, allow me to tell you, is also one of the novelties of the season not only for evening gowns, but also for smart afternoon and walking dresses. But in these it takes rather a different form from that which I have described above; it is smaller and is known as the "tablier Francaise." These "French mason aprons" are very narrow and reach from the waist to the knees, or lower in a more "dressy" dress. They are made of the same stuff as the rest of the costume, and hang quite loose from the very high waist. The lower part, if not the whole, is thickly embroidered with "soutache" "rouleautes," etc., and edged with a deep handsome fringe.

This fringe is an important item of the apron, and on no account must be omitted. Only a short length of it is required, but it must be of the best.

HEAVEN!

"The Children in Heaven."

By "ANON."

"Oh, what do you think the angels say?"
Said the children up in heaven.
"There's a dear little girl coming home today.
She is almost ready to fly away
From the earth we used to live in."
"Let's go and open the gates of pearl,
Open them wide for the new little girl,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"Jesus wants her here where the little ones meet,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"She shall play with us on the golden street,
She had grown too fair, she had grown too sweet
For the earth we used to live in.
She needs the sunshine, this dear little girl,
That gilds this side of the gates of pearl,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"So the King called down from the angel's dome,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"My little darling, arise and come
To the place prepared in thy Father's home."
To the home that my children live in."
"Let's go and watch at the gates of pearl,
Ready to welcome the new little girl,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"Far down on the earth do you hear them weep,"
Said the children up in heaven,
"For the dear little girls, that has gone to sleep?
The shadows fall and the night clouds sweep
O'er the earth we used to live in,
But we'll go and open the gates of pearl,
Oh why do they weep for their dear little girl?"
Said the children up in heaven.
"Fly with her quick, O angels dear,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"See! she is coming; look there! look there!
At the jasper Hight in her sunny hair,
Where the veiling clouds are riven!
Ah! hush—hush—hush—All the swift wings furl
For the Savior Himself, at the gates of pearl
Takes from His arms, dear tired little girl,
And carries her into heaven."

SUGGESTIONS FOR HOME TREATMENT OF SKIN.

The girl who aspires to a clear skin, untroubled with roughness, must needs give it careful attention from now on.

Dry skins which show patches of redness and roughen at the slightest excuse need as careful treatment as broken out or greasy skins.

The dryness shows there is a natural tendency to inflammation or congestion, therefore undue exposure to cold winds, sudden changes of temperature and too hot sun must be avoided.

Some of the causes of the dry skin are stomach troubles, rheumatism, poor soaps, over stimulation, too much and too rapid eating.

Lack of exercise, bad ventilation and too few baths also have a tendency to make the skin dry and blotchy.

The girl who aspires to a good complexion first looks at her general health. She eats proper foods, cuts out tea, coffee and all alcoholic drinks, for a time at least, and shuns spices, pies and pickles.

She exercises even when she is a born loafer, and has her windows up constantly, though a draft dreader.

She does not indulge in dressing before a blazing fire either just before or just after a walk in a blustery wind.

She sees that her toilet appointments are of the best and experiments until she finds lotions and creases that suit her.

She spends her spare moments in making bran bags and oatmeal bags to soften her wash water; and uses rain water whenever she gets a chance.

She believes in the soothing effect of friction, and washes her face thoroughly with a lather of a good complexion soap, containing sulphur, then rubs it briskly with a flannel to start the circulation.

Occasionally she uses a little olive oil to soften her skin, has her face massaged whenever she can afford it, and keeps a bottle of rosewater and glycerine on her toilet table to wipe off dust after a walk in the wind.

She goes closely veiled during cold weather and sees that her veils are kept free from impurities.

If, after thorough trial of simple home remedies her skin stays tender she either consults a skin specialist or decides to endure her complexion ills in silence.

WISE HOUSEKEEPERS HAVE A SCRAPBOOK.

To make a cream of beet soup chop cooked beets, add a cup of water, simmer them till they are soft, and mix with a quart of milk; season well, thicken slightly, strain and serve hot.

A dainty way to serve salmon is in the scooped shells of cucumbers. Place the four halves on a plate with salmon salad and surround with clusters of parsley.

Cheese may be kept from going moldy by wrapping it in a cloth dipped in vinegar and wrung nearly dry. Cover the cloth with a wrapper of paper and keep in a cool place.

A new way to prepare candied orange peel is to boil the peel, changing the water two or three times, until the bitter taste is removed. Drain from the water and cover with maple syrup and cook till it candies, stirring constantly.

In sterilizing or particurizing milk care must be taken that the bottles are cooled rapidly after heating, and that they are kept cool until a second warming is given before feeding.

"Apples on the half shell" is the rather curious name given to a delicious entree made with apples. Cut some thick slices of bread into rounds with a round cutter, butter and place in a shallow tin baking sheet; pare and core perfect apples of uniform size cut in halves across the equator, and lay half an apple on each round of bread; place a large plump raisin in the core cavity of each and sprinkle a mixture of sugar and nutmeg or allspice. Bake till the edges of the bread are slightly browned and the apple is tender. Serve at once.

Orange salad is quickly made and will not many a hurry-up meal. Simply peel large seedless oranges and slice thick. Lay the pieces on lettuce and pour rich dressing over them. Chill and serve.

Milk toast and cheese is a tasty luncheon dish. When trying to think of something a little different for lunch make some rich milk toast and place it in a flat pan. Cover with thick layer or grated cheese and put in the oven till the cheese melts and browns.

Caramel sweet potatoes are delicious. To prepare them simply boil and slice the potatoes and fry them first in melted butter and then in granulated sugar. Put into a hot oven till a coating of brown caramel is formed.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1908.

While his remarks were intended as political instruction for the youth, grown up people, who consider themselves fairly well informed in such matters, as well will gain some knowledge and spend profitable moments by reading and digesting the address made by State Senator E. R. Ackerman at the Plainfield High School Friday morning. His subject, "The Making of a Law," is treated in a thoroughly practical way. It is reproduced in full on the first page of this issue.

The New Jersey political writer on the New York Press reads the signs in Union county in this fashion: "It didn't require an elaborate luncheon to prove a reunion of the Kean and Fowler interests in Union. There is a wealth of tact in the indefatigable Smith of the County Committee, and he long since brought the tangled ends of the Republican organization into a serviceable whole. The Elizabeth "feast was simply a spectacular verification of the fact. From now on it will be hard to believe that Kean and Fowler are foes, and if Smith has anything to do with lining up the ranks there will be a pretty substantial expression for Kean in the primaries of Union county next September.

OLD NASSAU'S GRADS IN DIPLOMATIC SERVICE

Princeton alumni are just now unusually prominent in the diplomatic service. There are in all 104 members of that service representing the United States at foreign courts, including ten ambassadors, thirty-four ministers and sixty secretaries. Of this total membership, about 10 per cent. are Princeton alumni. Princeton's representation includes two graduates who are at the head of legations as ministers, one honorary alumnus is a similar post and eight alumni who are secretaries in line for promotion, sooner or later, to ministerial posts. The list follows:

Samuel R. Gummere, '70, Minister at Tangiers, Morocco; Richmond Pearson, '72, Minister at Athens, Greece; John A. Jackson, honorary A. M., '96, Minister at Teheran, Persia; Post Wheeler, '91, second secretary of the United States Embassy at Tokio, Japan; Charles D. White, '91, first secretary of the United States Legation at The Hague, Holland; John Barrett, '93, first secretary of the United States Embassy at Rome, Italy; George Barclay Rives, '96, first secretary of the United State Embassy at Vienna, Austria; Paxton P. Hibben, '03, first secretary of the United States Legation at Bogota, Colombia; John V. A. MacMurray, '02, second secretary of the United States Embassy at St. Petersburg, Russia; Arthur Orr, '06, third secretary of the United States Embassy at Berlin, Germany; H. B. Owsley, Jr., '07, first secretary of the United States Legation to Uruguay and Paraguay.

PROCTOR'S OPENING HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

Owing to the great amount of work yet to be accomplished, announcement is made today that Proctor's will not be in readiness for opening on Thanksgiving Day, as anticipated. A large force of men has been employed there day and night with a view to opening the new playhouse on Thursday, but this morning Manager Sanderson was obliged to announce that it would be an impossibility. Due notice will be given of the opening date.

Manager Sanderson in stating the inability to open the house this week, said that the work of remodeling the interior of the building has been a larger task than was expected, but as he is anxious to have everything in first-class condition he would rather postpone the date a few days rather than leave anything undone in the plan of improvements.

Will Run Twenty-five Miles.

The distance to be covered in the relay race between Plainfield and Morristown by the members of the Holy Cross Club is about twenty-five miles and an effort will be made to do it in record time. Already twenty boys have presented their names, showing their desire to join in the race and several more will probably do likewise. The race will be run under the supervision of Rev. George A. Warner, the rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. Several automobiles will be employed to carry out the project.

Last Gridiron Struggle.

The football game Saturday afternoon between P. H. S. and Holy Cross is the last game the High School boys play this season. Partisan feeling is running high. Both teams are strong and fast and both confidently expect to win. It will be a game worth seeing.

MARTIN FOR HUGHES PUBLIC UTILITY LAW

Now that the talk of enacting a public utility commission law at the forthcoming Legislature has been revived by Governor Fort's statement that he stands for such a measure, less drastic, however, than the "Hughes law," in operation in New York, Assemblyman William F. Martin announces that he is for the "Hughes law" in this State, first, last and all the time.

In other words, Mr. Martin, who introduced a public utility bill at the last session copied after the New York statute in all its essential details, and which was defeated by the same forces who backed a non-rate regulating public utility commission measure which Mr. Martin in his original bill again as soon as the Legislature convenes, and will fight for its passage. Anything "less drastic" in idea will be opposed by him and those he can muster to his support.

The Governor has said he considers the "Hughes law" filled with incongruities, and that its rate regulating feature is particularly radical in that he does not believe the proposed utility commission should take the initiative in the fixing of rates, but that it should have the right to act upon complaints, subject, at all times, to court review. Mr. Martin's bill of last winter, however, which was passed easily in the House only to be turned down in the Senate, gives the initiative to the commissions, and the Essex Assemblyman says he will stand for it again this winter. The fact that the Governor might oppose the measure would not deter Mr. Martin from fighting for it, he says. Anyhow, the same measure will be introduced again by Mr. Martin as his first bill.

Besides publishing this, Mr. Martin was willing, also, to talk about his Speakership chances. There are two other active candidates for Speaker in the Essex delegation in the persons of H. Stacy Smith and Henry Young, but it has been hinted that when the time for the House caucus comes there will be but one from here. Mr. Martin says he knows nothing about that, and if it is so, the one will be himself. If his colleagues do not unite on him it will not interfere, for he is in the fight to the finish, no matter what the odds. He was majority leader last year, and, according to precedent, as he views it, the Speakership should be his this year.

"It is up to those opposed to me to show reasons why I should not be elevated to the Speakership, following custom," said Mr. Martin, "and they will have to show good reasons. It is not for me to show why I should be elevated, but for those fighting me to show why I should not."

The Essex Assemblyman expected he would be a candidate to the last, and is confident of the support of quite a few of his fellow-Assemblymen.

CHAUFFEUR NOT GUILTY.

Jersey Jury Exonerates Frenchman for Killing Dr. Carlton Flint.

Louis Lefrancois, John W. Masury's French chauffeur, who ran down and killed Dr. Carlton P. Flint of New York outside of Seabright station on the night of July 24 last, and was indicted by the October Grand Jury for manslaughter, was acquitted Friday by a jury before Judge John E. Foster at Freehold. The jury was out only forty minutes.

The evidence showed that Dr. Flint had been called to Seabright by Dr. W. Gill Wylie for a consultation. The physicians had driven from the patient's home in Dr. Wylie's car to the Seabright station, it being Dr. Flint's intention to return to New York. While the doctor was crossing the road in the station he was knocked down by the automobile driven by Lefrancois, who was giving a bootblack a "joy ride." Dr. Flint received such injuries that he died next day at the home of Dr. Wylie.

PICTURED FRIENDS' MEETING.

The Winona Conference Story Is Told Interestingly.

The Friends General Conference at Winona Lake, Ind., was reviewed at the Friends' meeting-house, last night, by several persons who attended the great gathering and in addition about eighty fine views of the conference were displayed on a canvas.

Among those who related interesting facts concering the conference were Miss Elizabeth Stover and J. Barnard Walton, of New York, and Mr. E. D. Hutchinson and Mrs. W. A. Shoemaker, of this city, all of whom attended. The lantern was operated by Charles E. Vail and his son, Horace Vail, and altogether a delightful evening was spent.

Speer will address the Women's Home and Foreign Mission Societies of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon, December 15, at 3:30 o'clock in the church parlors and the societies have issued cards of invitation for the meeting. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting. There will also be an exhibition of missionary literature.

BOROUGH BOYS BEATEN

Plainfield High Humbles North Plainfield High Before a Big Crowd.

SCORE TWELVE TO NOTHING. MANY CLERGYMEN TAKE PART.

Riffert and Bingaman Each Make a Touchdown While Phillips Kicks Two Goals.

Plainfield High School won from North Plainfield High Saturday afternoon in a football game that was the more exciting because of the intense rivalry existing between the two schools in all athletic sports.

More than 2,000 people went out to Hope Common to see the boys in their fight for supremacy and were rewarded in witnessing a contest not nearly so one sided as the score, 12 to 0, would seem to indicate.

Although there were but few brilliant plays, enthusiasm was maintained at a high pitch because of the alternate advantages favoring first one side and then the other.

Forward passes were worked by P. H. S. successfully for long gains, but they were unfortunate many times in losing the ball on a fumble or by being penalized on some technicality. Both touchdowns were made with forward passes. The North Plainfield defense seemed so be impregnable to almost any other mode of attack.

Doane's touchdown in the first half, on capturing one of these forward passes, was made after fifteen minutes of see-saw playing up and down the field, with neither side able to get in close proximity to the opponent's goal. Even after that score and well into the second half there was doubt as to who would finally be victors.

North Plainfield had no difficulty in making short gains in line plunges, but their attempts at trick plays almost caused heart failure to their enthusiastic admirers on the side lines.

In the second half Plainfield kicked off and Conroy caught the ball on the fifteen yard line. Overton punted, gaining twenty yards and N. P. obtained the ball on a fumble. It was further advanced by line plunges, but a forward pass was captured by Riffert who succeeded in carrying the ball back twenty yards and came near getting clear away. He was finally stopped by Conroy.

A long dispute followed a forward pass play by Plainfield in which Field Judge Emmons was called in. It was claimed that the ends had not dropped back according to the rules. The play was not allowed and the ball was put in play again from its startline. In the exchange of punts that took the contest into Plainfield territory again. Riffert ran around the right end for twenty yards and was stopped by the speedy Conroy. Then the P. H. S. advanced the ball steadily to the centre of the field. A forward pass was caught by Doane on the thirty-yard line and he got away with it for a touchdown. Phillips kicked goal.

But little time remained and punting was the principal mode of warfare during the rest of the game. From that on there seemed but little chance for N. P. to even tie the score, though their opponents were equally unable to make headway or retain possession of the ball. Time was called with the ball on Plainfield's thirty-five yard line

After the game the pupils of the victorious school paraded the streets, celebrating the victory until late into the night.

Both teams have yet to meet the sturdy Holy Cross players, the members of which were interested witnesses of the contest Saturday.

The line-up:

P. H. S.		N. P. H. S.
Carpenter	left tackle.	H. Smith
Snyder	left halfback.	T. Overton
S. Parsons		Steiner

Phillips	right end.	A. Overton
Bingaman	fullback.	C. Smith
Riffert		Conroy

Referee, Phillips; umpire, Hamilton; timers, Wooden and Woodhull; linesmen, Abrams and Leggett. Touchdowns, Doane 2; goals, Phillips, 2.

Special Services at Swedish Church.

Commencing Friday night and continuing over Sunday, special religious services will be held at the Swedish Pilgrim church on West Sixth street. The pastor, Rev. Theodore Englund, will be assisted by Rev. Jonas Anderson, of Montclair, and Rev. G. A. Quarnstron, of Stamford, Conn. There will be special music and the Scandinavian people of the city are invited.

PASTOR-ELECT INSTALLED

Impressive Ceremony Marks Induction of Rev. Mr. Broek as Trinity's Pastor.

Duties Prominent in the Denomination as Well as Local Clergy Join in the Service.

Before a congregation that filled the edifice and included the pastors and many laity of most of the evangelical churches of the city, and bordering Rev. John Y. Broek was installed as pastor of Trinity Reformed church Monday night, succeeding Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, who served in that capacity for [illegible] years. The services by which the pastor-elect was inducted into office was both beautiful and impressive and during the two hours required for it, the large congregation listened with marked interest. The church was stringy, but attractively decorated for the event.

The installation services were in charge of the Classis of Newark, and its president, Rev. A. P. Tulp, presided. The quartet choir, Miss S. Ettie Raybert, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; F. S. Cutter, bass, and E. D. Young, tenor, with Arthur L. Titsworth organist and choirmaster, at the organ, took a conspicuous part in the ceremony.

Seated on the pulpit platform with Mr. Tulp were Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church and president of the Plainfield Ministers' Association; Rev. Dr. James L. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Dr. E. R. Johnson, of New Brunswick, for sometime acting pastor; Rev. Albertus Broek, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark, and brother of Rev. John Y. Broek, and Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, formerly of Somerville, but now of this city. The pastor-elect occupied a seat among the congregation, directly in front of the pulpit and took no part in the service until the close.

After an anthem by the choir, Rev. Dr. Chambliss read the Scripture lesson, the twelfth chapter of Romans, and Rev. Dr. Read offered a fervent prayer. Mr. Tulp announced that Rev. Albertus Broek would preach the sermon. This was a powerful and impressive discourse, the preacher selecting for his text the first verse of the twelfth chapter of Romans, "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

In referring to the writer of these words, St. Paul, the speaker said that he was a Christian filled with the mercies of God. He speaks of patience in redeeming love, of civic duty in the name of the Eternal King and here he impresses all with the spirit of sacrifice. He is not so much the act of the hand as the act of the heart, said the speaker, that is important, but the spirit of surrendering all to God.

"O, for such a conception of truth," continued Mr. Broek. "Jesus Christ did not redeem the world sitting in a pulpit, but while suffering on the cross. We should be willing to give ourselves as a sacrifice, acceptable unto God; not a dead, but living sacrifice; consecration not gratification. We are often called upon to crucify some passion. When the rich young ruler went to Christ with the question "what shall I do to be saved?" he was told to sell all and give it unto the poor. It must be a willing sacrifice, a perpetual one. While we are dividing our lives into minutes and seconds we find that the beauty in Christ's life is that it is all one, the same. The altruism of Christ is sublime.

"Throughout His entire life His thoughts were not of Himself, but of others whom He came to save. On the cross He was thinking of others. We must give a service that is reasonable, one having the dictates of the Holy Spirit. We have heard a great deal about the ethical Christ, but there is a vast difference between the Christ of ethics and that of incarnate love. He says, 'If ye love Me, keep My commandments.' And Rev. A NEW CHRISTENING FOR PEOPLE'S LOBBY

It was reported in the corridors of the State house at Trenton yesterday that at the annual meeting of the "The People's Lobby," of which R. Henry Depew, of this city, is president, to be held some time in December, the name of the organization will be changed to the Central Citizens' Union of New Jersey and that other changes will be made in the running ways of the "Lobby," so that its work shal not be so much in disrepute.

It was said that the name "People's Lobby," did not fit the aims of the organization, and that the name was against its future success.

Intimation was made that the organization will give up introducing measures and will confine its activity to watching bills and reporting to the executive committee on bills of civil nature.

Another matter that was discussed was the message sent down by Edmund A. Whittier, active for years past as a lobbyist at Trenton, as secretary of this organization, that he was out of politics with the defeat of Bryan and would not go to Trenton this winter except to try and defeat bills repealing the direct primary laws, if such bills were introduced.

MILBURN S. X. 36, AND PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A. 28.

The first of the Y. M. C. A. basketball league games was played Saturday night in the association gymnasium, Plainfield winning from the Milburn S. X. five by the close score of 38 to 36. In the early part of the game S. X. ran up a large score, before the locals got their combination up, but by the end of the half they were but one point in the lead. The score stood 23 to 22.

The skillful shooting by Schmidt of the Milburns excited the admiration of everybody. Plainfield showed form in making goals from the field, but were weak in shooting. Endicott was the Plainfield star.

When time was called at the end of the second half it was found that the score stood at a tie, 36 to 36. The referee decided that playing should be resumed until one side should score two points. Plainfield was just two minutes in making the necessary number, thereby winning the game.

Rumsey sprained an ankle at the close of the first half but was able to finish the game.

The line-up:

PLAINFIELD.		MILBURN.
Gilmore		Livingston
Collier	left end.	Schmidt
Rumsey	right field.	Roberts
Loizeaux	left guard.	Marshall
Endicott	right guard. centre.	Berstler

Goals from field: Gilmore 8, Endicott 12, Rumsey 4, Loizeaux 4. Goals from fouls: Endicott 2, Collier 4, Endicott 2. Substitutes: Hoagland, Cahone and Minor.

Referee, Morse; timer, 20 minute halves.

Will Discuss the Mormons.

The Young People's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will hold its monthly meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Bessie Flanders' theme for devotional consideration is "Light, or the Value of the Bible Training." Miss Ada Fountain and Miss Helen Armstrong will read papers on "Mormon History and Belief in Mission Work Among the Mormons." The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Jones, 16 Mountain avenue, the borough.

Echoes of Convention.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold a parlor meeting at the residence of Mrs. L. N. West, 412 West Sixth street, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson will be the speaker and her subject will be "Echoes from the National Convention held at Denver, Col." A silver offering will be received.

HELD RECITAL AND SALE

Silver Cross Circle Gave Pleasing Entertainment for Sweet Charity.

MISS SAUNDERS APPLAUDED.

Her Monologues a Feature as Were Miss Carroll's and Mr. Stanley's Singing.

Under the auspices of the Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters, composed almost exclusively of young women residing in the borough, a charming musical and sale was given in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There was a liberal patronage and a large attendance.

The musicale was considered an excellent one, and included vocal numbers by Miss Grace Carroll, contralto, and James Stanley, baritone, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church quartet, and Miss Louise Saunders, who gave two monologues.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the work of the artists. Miss Carroll first sang three delightful Indian songs, then a solo number followed with a duet by Miss Carroll and Mr. Stanley which called forth hearty applause. Mr. Stanley sang "The Bandolero," "The Explanation," and another number for an encore, in a way that aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

The work of Miss Saunders was, as usual, of the highest order. She gave two original monologues that were applauded heartily for their real merit. Miss Saunders has won her way in the hearts of her many friends by her clever work in monologue and yesterday she fully sustained her reputation as a true artist.

In addition to the entertainment there was a sale of home-made candy and tea was served. The reception committee comprised the officers of the Circle, which are as follows: President: Miss Elsie Suffern; vice-president, Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell; secretary, Mrs. Edward Hobbe; treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Baker.

The entertainment committee comprised Mrs. Frank W. French, chairman; Mrs. E. T. Wilson, Mrs. Allison Abbott, Mrs. Allen B. Laing, and Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell. Those at the candy table were Mrs. William R. Huber, chairman; Mrs. H. C. White, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Margaret Long, Mrs. D. K. Randall and Mrs. Howard Turrill. Mrs. Edward T. Wilson and Mrs. Donald McGee presided at one tea table and Mrs. Edward Hobbe and Mrs. Harry L. McGee at the other, while various members of the Circle assisted in serving to the large number of guests.

About $100 was realized, which will be used to meet the Circle's pledge.

ACKERMAN RESIGNS; WHEELER CHAIRMAN

Because his legislative duties will take all the time he can spare from his business, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield, resigned as chairman at a meeting yesterday afternoon at Elizabeth of the executive committee for the Union county observance of Lincoln's one hundredth birthday anniversary on February 12, 1909. Ira B. Wheeler, of Elizabeth, was chosen in his stead.

It is expected to hold the celebration at the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, the edifice having been connected with the early history of Union county. Already arrangements are being made to obtain a speaker of national fame as a statesman and in the course of a week his name will be announced provided he accepts the invitation.

In connection with the principal address, brief speeches will be made by a priest, a rabbi and ministers of leading Protestant denominations. In addition a choral society of note will be a feature on the program. The observance will probably be held in the afternoon.

PASTOR-ELECT'S FRIENDS WITNESS INSTALLATION.

Among those who attended the installation services of Rev. John Y. Broek, as pastor of Trinity Reformed church, Monday night was a loyal band of workers from the Grand Avenue Reformed church, Asbury Park, the pastorate of which Mr. Broek has just left. The party included Deacon and Mrs. John Sines, Mr. and Mrs. George Reighton, Mrs. Grace W. Keutgen, Miss Belle Hope and W. H. Conner, deacon and treasurer.

The party remained throughout the entire service and at the close took occasion to speak in the highest terms of praise of Mr. Broek, and to express their regrets that they were to lose his services.

Thanksgiving Holidays.

The schools of the city and borough will be closed on Thursday and Friday for the usual Thanksgiving holidays.

HELPED CAMPAIGN FUND

Through County Chairman Smith, Union Gave $3,974. Toward G.O.P. Expenses.

FOUR CONTRIBUTIONS MADE.

U. S. Senator John Kean and State Senator E. R. Ackerman Among the Givers.

The names of many Jerseymen are found in the list of contributors to the Republican campaign fund, which was filed in Albany yesterday by George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the national committee.

Colonel William Barbour heads the list of Jerseymen with two contributions, one of $5,000 and another of $1,000. Franklin Murphy is down for $1,000, and so is G. A. Hobart. United States Senator Frank O. Briggs is credited with a $500 contribution.

Frank H. Smith, Union county chairman, is down for four contributions, of 1,005, $1,562 and $916.40, and it is probable that United States Senator John Kean from New Jersey, as well as Senator McKerman and other prominent Union county Republicans, sent their contributions to the national committee through the chairman of the Union County Republican Committee.

John F. Dryden's contribution was $900, and Thomas A. Edison gave $500.

MEMORIAL MASS FOR THE DEPARTED KNIGHTS

A solemn memorial mass will be held at St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock for the deceased members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and the members of that organization will attend the service in a body. Father B. M. Bogan will be the celebrant; Rev. Edward J. Dunphy, of Dunellen, the deacon, and Father Vincent Sciolla the sub-deacon.

The deceased members of the Council in whose memory the memorial mass will be held are as follows: Lawrence Doyle, Michael Owens, Edward A Flynn, Joseph A. Barry, John N. Doyle, John H. Conroy, William J. Doyle, Alexander Flynn, James Hibbitts and James A. Saxed.

Father Vincent Sciolla will be the celebrant of the 8 o'clock mass Thursday morning.

MRS. SCARBOROUGH PASSES AWAY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

Mrs. Hiram E. Scarborough, daughter of Mrs. Maria B. Scarborough, and sister of Miss Claypoole, a teacher in the North Plainfield High School, died at her home on Mountain avenue at 7:30 o'clock, last night. She had been ill for two months with a complication of diseases. She was born near Bordentown and prior to moving to the borough about two years ago, lived at Lambertville.

She was a member of the First Baptist church, and a regular attendant there. Besides a husband, she is survived by two sons, Paul C. Scarborough, a graduate of the Trenton Normal School and now teaching in the summer, this State, and Irving Scarborough, who lives home. Definite arrangements have not yet been made for the funeral service, but it will be held either Thursday afternoon or Friday morning and the burial will be at Lambertville.

MRS. SAMUEL HUNTINGTON READS PAPER ON SUFFRAGE.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Samuel Huntington, of Franklin place. The subject, "Suffrage in the British Colonies," was presented by Mrs. Huntington. Her reports of the work in Australia and New Zealand were arguments in favor of granting the ballot to women.

Other members of the league brought suffrage news to the meeting and discussed the recent election in Denver when the women voted in large numbers for Judge Lindsey. Comment was also made on the fact that Judge Lindsey in his Plainfield lecture spoke of his indebtedness to the women voters of Denver.

Fair and Entertainment.

An elaborate entertainment and fair will be held at the Hartridge School auditorium, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evening, December 2 and 3, for the benefit of the Women's Exchange. There will be a Punch and Judy show, and one of the big features of the affair will be the appearance of Miss Louise Saunders, daughter of William L. Saunders, of the borough, in an original monologue prepared especially for the occasion. There will be a number of booths and other attractions, all planned on a more extensive scale than ever before.

ROOSEVELT GREETS RELAY MESSENGER

"I wish I could shake hands with every boy who handled this message," was the greeting of President Roosevelt to Gordon Leon, the 16-year-old boy who made the final run in the delivery of the letter which left New York Friday at 4:30 encased in a silver tube, and which was placed in the President's hand at 5:45 last night at Washington. Young Leon was one of about two thousand, twenty of whom were Plainfield boys, who relayed the message from New York, and he was a proud youngster as he emerged from the executive office with an autograph portrait of Mr. Roosevelt in his hand.

President Roosevelt read the message before bidding Mr. Sieman and the boy good-by, but did not make it public. The silver tube bearing the message is closed at both ends and is inscribed thus:

"For President Roosevelt, November 20-21, 1908," and is signed by Robert Morris, general secretary of the International committee of the Y. M. C. A. The message left New York on Saturday, the 21, but on account of delays the other side of Baltimore was not reached the latter place until 11:30 Saturday night it was held over until yesterday.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS FROM RIPARIAN GRANTS.

During the fiscal year ending October 31 last the receipts of the State from riparian lands amounted to $204,607. This was composed of the following items: Grants, $91,705; leases, $76,877; licenses, $50; conversions, $1,425; rentals on leases, $33,950.

The Riparian Commission, in its annual report to the Governor, comments upon the fact that although the revenue during the past year was not so great as that of the preceding year, a large number of applications are still under consideration by the board which would considerably increase the amount. The commission has maintained, and in many cases increased, the prices over those of last year, and is restricting the extent of the grants to the actual needs for the immediate purposes thereof.

The report points out that under the act of 1906 the commission has continued the recovery of vast tracts of lands under water formerly leased by the State and on which rentals have remained unpaid for a considerable time, as a result it has been to restore to the State some very valuable assets. Among the leases thus forfeited are the two issued to Robert Annett in 1874 for riparian rights along the Hudson in Bergen county. The lessees were the heirs of Mr. Annett. The granting of these leases was one of the topics which figured prominently in the riparian investigations of 1906.

CELEBRATED FIFTEENTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Huff observed the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding at their home on Codlington avenue, last night, where about fifty friends from Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Somerville and this city gathered to extend their best wishes and that the couple might enjoy many happy returns of the day. The home was attractively decorated with green and white crepe paper, arranged in a most effective manner.

A pleasing feature of the evening was a progra mof vocal and instrumental music. The couple received many handsome and useful gifts including a number of pieces of cut-glass. About midnight refreshments were served, and as the guests departed all agreed that they had had a most pleasant time. Mr. Huff is in the employ of the furniture department of a large department store in New York.

CAPTAIN THOMAE'S WIDOW DIES AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Sophy Stuart Thomae, widow of Captain De Forest H. Thomae, U. S. A., died at her home in Scotch Plains last night. She was sixty years of age and Bright's disease was the cause of death. After the death of her husband in 1876, she removed to Scotch Plains from Boston.

Surviving Mrs. Thomae are one brother, Henry C. Stuart, of Newton Centre, Mass., and two sisters, Miss Rea Stuart, of East Bridgewater, Mass., and Miss M. Alice Stuart, of Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Thomae was one of the founders and active members in the Scotch Plains public library, and was a communicant at All Saints' church, Fanwood. The funeral will be private.

Choir Gave Special Service.

"The Penitent," a musical service of sacred song and Scripture reading, arranged by Rev. Frankhil K. Matthews, was rendered in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was rendered by *the choir of that church yester*day afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, under the direction of Frank W. Conger. The choir was assisted by Albert Edmund Angus, of New York, baritone, and Warren French, of Westfield, bass. The musical treat, the first *of a series of special monthly ser*vices, was enjoyed by a large congregation.

IN HONOR OF POPE PIUS

Special Vesper Services at St. Mary's Commemorate His Ordination.

SERMON BY FATHER O'ROURKE.

Knights of Colombus, Holy Name Society and Ancient Order of Hibernians Attend the Celebration.

Vesper services were held at St. Mary's church last night in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination to priesthood of Pope Pius X.

Rev. John J. O'Rourke delivered the sermon. He was assisted in conducting the service by Rev. J. A. Smith, of Elizabeth, Rev. J. J. O'Leary, of Elizabethport, and Rev. J. J. O'Brien, of Roselle. A special musical program was rendered, in which the congregation and choir participated. Solos were sung by Miss Elizabeth Day, Mrs. John Campbell and Miss Mary Lennon.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, was represented by a large delegation of its membership. Delegations from the councils at Newark, Woodbridge and Perth Amboy of the order accompanied them. Mayor Joseph Herman, of Roosevelt, was among the Woodbridge delegation. The largest showing, however, was made by the Holy Name Society, delegations from the local parish as well as from St. Joseph's in North Plainfield, Raritan, Somerville, Bound Brook and Rahway being in attendance. St. Mary's T. A. B. Society and Court No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, of this city, were also well represented. The church was filled to overflowing and the service was most impressive.

YOUNG MARRIED MAN SEVERELY SCORED IN COURT

Frank Conger, a well known local young man, and Jennie Leon, an attractive looking girl who recently came to Plainfield from Albany, N. Y., were arraigned in the city court this morning on a charge preferred against them by Patrolmen Saffron and Kelley. The officers took the couple from a West Second street stable, yesterday morning, the owner having notified them of their presence.

Conger has been before Judge Runyon for various offenses on other occasions and today the magistrate scored him in plain terms. He informed the prisoner that but for his wife and family he would go to jail for a long term as the impossibility of a sentence would only deprive them of support. Conger stated that he earned $10 a week and His Honor made him sign an order to his employer, allowing his wife $7 of it each week. Sentence was afterward suspended with a warning to keep absolutely straight or suffer the consequences.

The Leon girl declared she had no one here to look after her and expressed a wish to be returned to her former home in Albany. The judge turned her over to the probation officer and she will either be sent back or placed in some institution.

COUNTY ELECTION BOARD'S BOX PARTY AND DINNER.

Following its annual custom, the Union County Board of Elections on *Saturday gave a box party and din*ner in New York. After seeing Lulu Glaser in "Mlle. Mischief" at the Lyric, a dinner was held at Martin's.

In the party were County Chairman Frank H. Smith, County Clerk James C. Calvert, County Collector Nathan Leavitt, Freeholder Director Benjamin King, Freeholder Henry Krouse, J. Rusling Ryno, Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, former Mayor James F. Buckle, George T. Smith and Robert H. McAdams, Ralph L. Morrow and George T. Stewart, of the county board.

Jersey's Apple Crop Short.

The State apple crop, according to the statistics filed with Secretary Franklin Dye, of the State Board of Agriculture, has fallen off this year to 1,500,000, as against 2,000,000 barrels in 1907, and 3,750000 in 1906. New Jersey's apple crop falling off fifty per cent., this State is worse off than other States in this respect, for the total apple crop of the United States this year was 23,000,000 barrels, as against 28,690,000 last year. This year the United States apple crop is about one barrel for each four inhibitants. The reason why Jersey fell behind this year is believed to be the late frosts of last spring, when the apple blossoms were out.

Will Form C. E. Union.

Charles F. Windham, of the borough, president of the Somerset County Christian Endeavor Union, is planning for a mass meeting to be held at Bound Brook, on Wednesday night, December 9, when a Bound Brook local union will be formed among the societies of that place.

WILL AGAIN EXPLAIN TAX ASSESSMENTS

Mayor Samuel Townsend is expected to supplement his recent message to the North Plainfield Council concerning the heavy increase in tax assessments and it is reported that his views will be communicated to the same body at its next regular meeting on Friday night, December 4. By many of those who believe that their assessments are unjustly severe, the mayor is held responsible in a degree for the new order of things.

Following the open letter addressed through the public press to the mayor in reply to his message, it has developed that the protesting taxpayers held a conference at his suggestion on Tuesday night. Such men as Charles W. McCutcheon, Edwin S. Hooley, W. J. Buttfield and David T. Kenney signed the remonstrances and according to report they with Mayor Townsend and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed took part in the conference. Report has it that there was no mincing of words nor of real expression of opinion, but those actually at the meeting decline to say what transpired.

COL. PEART ADDRESSES Y.M.C.A. MEN'S MEETING

The musical services at Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday afternoon attracted a larger number of men than usually attends the Sunday afternoon meetings. The music by the National Staff Band of the Salvation Army was of a high order. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental solos, selections by the band and songs by the band choir, following which Colonel William Peart, Chief secretary of the United States forces of the S. A., made an inspiring address, taking for his theme, "Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand."

The sinner, he said, cries not because of his sins but because of the trouble and difficulties that sin brings, and that is the turning back from the wrong road which he is following. If selfishness and worldly wrong, and seeking to live a righteous life, would lead to pardon.

MISS TEKLA TUVESON NOW MRS. HANS NELSON.

Miss Tekla Tuveson, of this city, and Hans Nelson, of Cedar Tree, were married in the Swedish Pilgrim church, on West Sixth street, Saturday night, by the pastor, Rev. Theodore Englund, in the presence of one hundred guests from New York, this city and Cedar Tree. The church was elaborately decorated for the affair with palms, cut flowers, while Swedish and American flags occupied a prominent place above the pulpit platform.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Hilma Tuveson as maid-of-honor, while Charles F. Nelson, a brother of the groom was the best man. The wedding march was *played by an orchestra in charge of Na*than Guttman, formerly of this city, but now of Perth Amboy, while the church quartet also sang several selections. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends.

The bride was for a number of years employed as a maid in the home of Mrs. Charles Pyde, of East Second street and the latter not only gave the wedding, but also remembered the bride with a handsome gift, a large cabinet plate-glass mirror. There were many other gifts of great value. The groom is in the employ of Thompson's garage on Park avenue, and the couple will reside in their new home on Cameron avenue, which has already been furnished.

Work for Children and Mothers.

The members of the Plainfield Mothers' Association are requested to send their contributions for the box to be forwarded to the bazaar at Philadelphia, to Mrs. C. S. Allpaugh, 223 East Ninth street, on or before November 30, on which date the box will be sent. Three large bazaars are to be held throughout the country, the purpose being to raise $10,000 with which to carry on the work for children and mothers under the direction of the Congress of Mothers.

Man's Perfidy.

"You have named the baby Tennus?" exclaimed the horrified caller. "Why, it's a girl!" replied Mrs. Lapeling. "I think that's what we'll call her. It's the name my husband suggests."

"But think how it will mortify her when she grows to be a young woman! Do you know what 'tennus' means? It means lockjaw."

"You must be mistaken about that. He says it means silent, quiet reserved."—Chicago Tribune.

Another County Aid Road.

The Union County Board of Freeholders, as a committee of the whole, will make an inspection of the Edgar road, three miles in length, extending from Elizabeth to Rahway, with a view to making it a county aid road.

D.A.R. IS ACTIVE AGAIN

Following Election of Officers, Continental Chapter Plans Season's Work.

TO STUDY STATE'S HISTORY.

Prize for Public School Pupil Submitting Best Essay on U. S. History—Washington Rock Tablet.

At the annual meeting of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Leggett on Madison avenue, officers were elected and steps taken to revive interest in the organization. During the coming year the chapter will study the history of New Jersey and it is the hope that Plainfield women may be led to inquire into their family history and learn whether they are eligible for membership.

It was also decided by the chapter to offer a prize of $5 in gold to the pupil of the Plainfield High School or the North Plainfield High School who shall write the best composition in United States History, the school authorities to select the subject.

Progress was reported concerning the fund being raised to place a bronze tablet at Washington Rock, to mark that historic spot. The fund has now reached about $500. Another important plan adopted is that hereafter the chapter will meet once a month and the next meeting will be at the home of the Misses Manning on West Front street, the exact date to be announced later. These officers were elected for the year:

Regent, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall; first vice-regent, Mrs. G. H. Campbell; second vice-regent, Mrs. Stephen R. Struthers; registrar, Mrs. Charles P. Leggett; secreary, Miss Addie Dietrich; treasurer, Mrs. N. W. Currie; board of managers, Mrs. Edward Hall, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mrs. Charles W. McCutcheon and Mrs. Henry A. McGee.

MEN'S CLUB ENJOYS LECTURE ON PANAMA.

The Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, was entertained last night with a fine stereopticon lecture on "Panama," given by Charles L. Lewis, of this city. Many of the views were taken by Mr. Lewis last summer when he visited Panama and they gave an excellent idea of that interesting country and of the great amount of work being accomplished there by the government. Mr. Lewis fully explained each view and after the lecture there was an informal discussion of the topic.

The concluding part of the evening was devoted to sociability and the serving of refreshments; also several vocal and instrumental numbers by members of the club. The entertainment was one of the best given this season and was largely attended by members and friends.

Juniors to Attend Church.

Franklin Council, Somerset Council, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend service at the First Baptist church, Sunday night, when Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preach a special sermon for the occasion.

Ball Player Gets Good Job.

George Pfamiller, the well-known pitcher of the Jersey City Eastern League team, and who has many friends here, has just been appointed to a position on the Jersey City Street and Water Board at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Married at the Parsonage.

Eugene G. Bowers and Miss Mary E. Williams, both of Warrenville, were quietly married by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, at his home on West Front street. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives of the bride and groom.

A Treat at Salvation Army.

A Thanksgiving concert will be given by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra in the Salvation Army auditorium, East Second street, on the evening of Thanksgiving Day at 8:15 o'clock. Martin Korff will preside and a silver offering will be received.

Shover Pays For Fun.

John Moran paid $5 to Recorder Dolliver last night for the fun he had on Somerset street Saturday night pushing people off the sidewalk. He plead guilty but said he did not know what he was doing at the time.

Ellis Carman's Party.

Ellis Carman was surprised by thirty of his friends Saturday night at the home of his aunt on East Sixth street. Dancing and games made the evening enjoyable. Supper was served.

Will Receive Bids for Bonds.

The Common Council will meet Friday night in an adjourned session to receive bids and award the street improvement and fire department bonds to the most advantageous bidder.

A Generous Love.

TRINITY CHURCH THANKS REV. DR. E. P. JOHNSON

After reading the notice for the evening service at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning, Elder Robert Clark, Jr., said:

"It would not be amiss at this time if I were to take the liberty of adding a few remarks in addition to these notices. I know that it is not considered good breeding to make remarks of a commendatory character in the presence of the person to be commended, but I trust you will pardon the liberty I take at this time, as it seems to me the occasion warrants it. I want to say that during the two years that Dr. Johnson has supplied our pulpit he has endeared himself to this congregation by his charming personality and never has the truth been presented more ably than by him. He will ever be remembered by the congregation of Trinity Reformed church of Plainfield, and it is the earnest prayer of this congregation that he may be spared for many years of future usefulness in the cause of the Master."

Dr. Johnson was visibly affected by Mr. Clark's remarks and as soon as he recovered himself he replied briefly and feelingly, referring to the strong attachment that had been formed between him and Trinity Reformed church and expressing his regrets over the parting soon to take place. He could not, he said, say good-bye, but in the language of the hymn he would say, "Blest be the Tie that Binds." In closing he wished the church and its new pastor all success and happiness.

FUNERAL OF ALEX. TITSWORTH.

Largely Attended Service Held Yesterday Afternoon in the Seventh Day Baptist Church.

The funeral of Alexander Titsworth, Plainfield's former city treasurer and well known resident, was held in the Seventh Day Baptist church yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Edwin Shaw, the pastor, and was attended by a large gathering that included a delegation from Jerusalem lodge, F. and A. M.

During the service the choir of the church sang two selections, "Asleep in Jesus" and "He Giveth His Loved Ones Sleep." There were numerous floral tributes. At the grave side in Hillside cemetery, the Masonic burial service was conducted by Worshipful Master Samuel Fish.

The pall bearers were Charles H. Durham, representing the Masons; Jeremiah C. Moore, for the Exempt Firemen's Association; A. L. Titsworth, L. T. Rogers, E. W. Titsworth and David E. Titsworth.

Miss Austin Will Assist.

Miss Florence Austin, a violin virtuoso, of New York, possessing unusual ability, will be the assisting artist at the Y. M. C. A. orchestra concert, the first of the association, Tuesday night, December 8. This will be Miss Austin's first appearance in Plainfield.

Chase and Hunt Breakfast.

The Watchung Hunt Club has arranged for a meet on Thanksgiving Day morning, when the hounds will meet at the Baltusrol Golf Club at 10:30 o'clock, the chase to be followed by a hunt breakfast, at the hunt club by invitation of Rufus P. Finch and Harry L. Finch. The breakfast will be at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

A False Alarm.

Sparks issuing from a chimney at Trupin's grocery store, 541 West Third street, led passersby to think there was a fire Saturday night at 6 o'clock. An alarm was turned in from box 44 and the cause was quickly located upon the arrival of Chief Doane and the apparatus.

BEN LINDSEY EXPLAINS JUVENILE COURT IDEA

His Lecture "The Misfortunes of Mickey" Enjoyable and Instructive.

HIS IDEAS ARE ORIGINAL.

Laws in Most States Concerning Treatment of Children, He Says, Are Inconsistent.

Before a representative audience of local people in the First Baptist church, Friday night, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, presiding magistrate of the Juvenile court at Denver, Col., and looked upon throughout the State as one of its foremost citizens, detailed the methods adopted in reclaiming reverent youth. In a most intensely interesting way he related how and why he advocated the change of laws that permitted the commonwealth to prevent a boy from committing a crime instead of waiting for him to do it and then inflicting punishment and also the plan now in vogue which puts probation above prison sentences. His lecture was announced under the subject of "The Misfortunes of Mickey," and the designation enabled him to recite personal experiences in the treatment of a street gamin placed in his charge for reformation.

Judge Lindsey is a comparatively young man, being still under forty, but through his persistent advocacy, Colorado has the best juvenile laws of any State in the union. In his address, last night, he pointed out the fact that the average boy who gets into court is not a criminal or any different from his young friends who have escaped collision with the police but simply a victim of circumstance, a creature of environment, therefore kindness and compassion are what he needs and not prison cells and the unexpected label as a menace to society. This has been his idea of the child problem and he has proven by figures and comparisons that his plan of procedure is of far more value to the country than the time-honored laws on the statute books.

"The inconsistency of most States in their treatment of children," Judge Lindsey said, "is shown in the following way: If a boy commits a theft, capitulating to temptation, he is put in the same class as a criminal fifty years of age and dealt with under the assumption that he is fully able to judge between right and wrong. If his parents die before he attains his majority and some money is bequeathed him, the court decrees that he is not competent to take care of it himself and appoints a guardian to look after his interests. In the one he is a man and in the other an infant."

The speaker asserted that the neglect of children by the State until they became victims of circumstance is one of the evils of the day and a fault that his plan of reformation seeks to overcome. He declared the proper thing to do is to change the environment, take the boys in the early development of their lawbreaking tendencies and teach them that there is nothing manly in lying, stealing or speaking disrespectfully of policemen.

"The State, the home, the church and the school are all included in the environment," he continued, "and kindly influence should be brought to bear upon the children at all times. Where the parents are careless or neglected it is up to the State to step in and interfere and we do this in Colorado through the 'delinquent' law. If a boy persists in running upon the railroad track or doing things he is told not to do, we can take a hand in his development by declaring that he might become a cripple and accordingly get hold of him before he really does something that demands drastic measures. We also call the parents to account and have the power to punish them for their indifference. It is a fact that in almost every large city, nearly hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent each year for policemen but there is nothing expended to save the boys. They are supposed to shift for themselves and if by chance they steal a bicycle or something else, and are punished, the courts believing in protecting the property but not the youth."

Lost Faith.

"Do you think we can trust the great corporations?" inquired the thoughtful citizen.

"No," answered Senator Sorghum, "after the carelessness some of them have shown with correspondence I'm afraid not."—Washington Star.

F. M. VOORHEES GETS FIFTEEN THOUSAND.

Under an order of Vice Chancellor Howell filed at Trenton Thursday, former Governor Foster M. Voorhees is to receive $15,000 for his services, costs, disbursements and fees as receiver of the Republic Savings and Loan association. The order is for the payment of a final dividend and includes the disbursement of $54,513 which remains in the hands of the receiver.

The order also accepts the preliminary final account of Mr. Voorhees, which was filed in chancery chambers at Newark on October 13 last. It directs that he proceed forthwith to make final distribution of the funds in his possession, deducting his allowance and some small estimated expenses for printing, postage and incidentals.

The proceedings against the association were begun by the late William Bettle, as commissioner of banking and insurance, and have been before the courts for a number of years.

RULING ON CARD PARTIES.

If Consideration is Charged Participants They Are Classed as Lotteries.

George W. Pollitt, postmaster of Paterson, recently had his attention called to the fact that newspapers were publishing accounts of euchres and other card parties at which prizes were awarded for skill. Thinking that the publication of such matter might come within the law relating to lotteries, he wrote to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, asking for an opinion on the subject, and received the following letter from E. P. Goodwin, Assistant Attorney General:

"Sir: In answer to your letter of the 9th inst. to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, which has been referred to this office, you are advised that card parties are not regarded as lotteries unless a consideration is charged participants. In that event, they are lotteries, and matter relating to them is unmailable.

YALE MAGISTRATE REBUKES PRINCETON SYMPATHIZERS

The ten West End boys arrested last Saturday as they were stoning Yale autos on the way to the football game at Princeton and cheering for the undergraduates of Nassau, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court, Saturday. Their acknowledgement of guilt and a plea that they meant no harm met with a rather cold response from the bench. His Honor happens to be a Yale graduate, and a loyal one at that, and he didn't like the idea of his Alma Mater being ridiculed in Jersey.

"When you boys get into a fight," he said to them, "you like to see a fellow set on the square. You don't stand for any biting or kicking and yet you showed a mean disposition in throwing stones at Yale autos simply because you weren't in sympathy with them. It wasn't a bit fair and it wasn't a bit nice and I want it to be a lesson to you in the future to be honest in sport or anything else.

At the end of his talk the magistrate suspended sentence and in turn received a hearty "thank you, Judge" from each one of the defendants.

40 LOCAL GRADUATES OF YALE UNIVERSITY

In the directory of living graduates of Yale University, which was published recently, the list of New Jerseyites shows a slight increase over the lists published in 1901 and 1904. There are now 467, against 397 three years ago, and 407 in 1901.

Newark leads the list, with 56 men registered from that city; Plainfield has 40; Montclair, 35; Orange, 30; East Orange, 27; Morristown, 26; Jersey City, 26; Princeton, 21; Paterson, 15; Elizabeth, 14, and South Orange, 12. All of the other towns listed have less than ten men registered.

The summary shows that a total number of 14,806 graduates are listed, of which 407 own foreign countries as their present residence.

Two Story Ornamental Entrance and Passage Bridge at Liberty St. Terminal.

DESIGNED BY J. C. OSGOOD.

Structure to Cost $18,000—At 144 Liberty Street With "L" Opening at 101 West Street.

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Murphy of New York for the new two-story ornamental entrance and passage bridge to the Manhattan ferry terminal of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to be erected at 144 Liberty street, New York, with an "L" opening at 101 West street.

The building is to be of brick, twenty-two feet front on Liberty street, with an entrance of marquise shelter. The first story will be fitted as stores and the second floor finished as a bridge passageway leading direct to the ferry terminal.

The building is to cost $18,000, and was designed by J. C. Osgood, of South Plainfield, chief engineer for the railroad company.

DR. GLATZMAYER GUILTY

For Turning State's Evidence, Indictment Against Former Boroughite will be Dropped.

MRS. CAROLINE ZAHN IS FREED.

Jury Recommends Extreme Penalty for Physician—Mis-hum Sentence Seven Years.

After being our four hours and a half the jury in the case of the State against Dr. Herman A. Glatzmayer and Mrs. Caroline Zahn in Newark, returned a verdict at 7:30 o'clock last night before the clerk of the court as follows:

"We, the jury, find Dr. Herman A. Glatzmayer, to be guilty, with a recommendation for the extreme mercy of the court. Mrs. Caroline Zahn is not guilty."

The evidence in the case, in which the defendants were charged with complicity in a criminal operation on March 26 last, which resulted in the death of the patient, Mary E. Vliet, of Blairstown, was completed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and as Mrs. Sarah M. Dodge, formerly of New Brunswick, and Irving Van Horn, formerly of North Plainfield, who were indicted jointly with the defendants, turned State's evidence, the case was very much simplified for the State.

In summing up began immediately after Senator-elect Starry V. Osborne asked the judge to rule on a motion to direct the acquittal of Mrs. Zahn. This was refused as was a similar one in regard to Dr. Glatzmayer.

Prosecutor Mott explained in summing up why Mrs. Dodge and Van Horn had been used as State's witnesses and why the cases against them would be nolle prosed. He also stated that he had treated them as he did because they were the only persons by whom he could trace Miss Vliet from the Lackawanna depot to the place where Dr. Glatzmayer treated her.

Osborne and Boettner, counsel for Dr. Glatzmayer, will take an immediate appeal. The minimum penalty is seven years, and the maximum penalty is in the discretion of the court.

H. W. MARSHALL ACQUIRES VALUABLE BUSINESS SITE.

H. W. Marshall has purchased from Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor a strip of land at Watchung avenue and East fourth street, as an investment. The property has a frontage of 130 feet on Fourth street and thirty feet on Watchung avenue, and extends back as far as W. T. Kirk's property on Fourth street. The business property now occupied by Mr. Marshall on East Front street is owned by J. A. Staats, and sometime in the future he may decide to erect a building on his newly-acquired land for his undertaking business.

The deal between Mr. Marshall and Mr. Taylor was negotiated by Charles H. Lyman, real estate broker.

Park Avenue Baptist Endeavorers' Organization is Twenty Years Old.

AN ANNIVERSARY SERVICE.

Letters From Former Heads of Society Read—An Evening of Social Enjoyment.

Twenty years ago the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was organized and Friday in the church parlors an event was celebrated by the members and friends at an anniversary service, followed by an evening of social enjoyment.

Charles Dayton, the president, delivered an address of welcome. The principal speech was delivered by T. S. Lunbar, who gave a detailed account of the work done during the twenty years of the organization's life, its history and a prophesy of what may be accomplished in the future.

An impressive feature of the program was the reading by the recording secretary, Miss Lena Bowling, of letters from former presidents of the local society, who have since moved away from Plainfield, but who still have a deep interest in its welfare. The writers of these communications include the organization's first president, Miss Ada Dilts, now of Lowell, Mass. who was also pastor of the church at that time; A. R. Van Schuyler, now of Binghamton, N. Y.; Emma Virginia Fish, of Kenmore, N. Y.; Anna W. Wyckoff, of New York city; Rev. J. Wilbur Richardson, of Stanford, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Scattin, of Cincinnati, both of whom had been president.

The assembly room was prettily decorated in the society's colors, pale green and white. Long streamers of crepe paper streching from all sides overhead converged in the center where hung the society monogram. The music was furnished by a stringed orchestra of five pieces and singing by the boys choir of the C. E. S. Splendid refreshments were served in the large room.

The success of the celebration is credited to Rowland Treadwell, who was in charge of the general arrangements. The chairman of the lookout committee was Mrs. George Cratsley, chairman of the social committee, Miss Hawkins, and chairman of the committee, Miss Cora Brokaw. In charge of the decorations were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Winkle and on the refreshment committee were: Mrs. Lowrey, Mrs. A. E. Finn, Miss Mary Giles and Miss Bessie Giles.

The young women who served the refreshments were Misses Eleanor Stutsman, Mabel Stutsman, Alice, Arlene and Marjorie Brown, Marion Mortimer, Sarah Boyd, Hannah Boyd, Mamie Clarke and Anna Hibard.

WESTFIELD TO REVIVE TROTTING AND RACING

For the purpose of promoting interest in trotting and pacing and reviving sport at the old Fair Acres track, Westfield, a large company of men met at a dinner given in Westfield, Thursday night, and organized what is known as the Westfield Riding and Driving Association. Considerable interest was shown and a thing was effected to which it is hoped will be put in first-class condition. The dinner was held at the North Avenue Hotel, and Dr. C. M. F. Egel was toastmaster. These officers were elected:

President, J. H. Senior; first vice president, W. H. Grieson; second vice president, Dr. C. M. F. Egel; secretary, W. H. Wheatley; treasurer, C. B. Smith. The charter members are as follows: G. E. Richardson, W. E. Tuttle, Jr., Frank Irving, A. L. Alpers, J. W. Gorton, J. F. Crespe, E. B. Morton, H. A. Love, H. C. Pines, Warren French, A. H. Meyer, W. J. Hudson, C. E. Pearsall, R. L. Edwards, H. W Evans, John TenEyck, George Perry, Paul Q. Oliver, J. S. Irving, H. E. Jackson, John Heeley, John Todd, Adam Lance, J. E. Gallagher, E. D. Floyd, Hugh Talbot, E. R. Perkins, R. F. Hohenstein, Dr. H. H. Butler, Adam C. Blair, W. R. Hutchings, A. P. Flagg, Fred C. Decker and W. W. Mooney.

S.E. SOCIETY'S BIRTHDAY TEA AND SALE FOR VINCENT CHAPEL FUND

For the purpose of raising funds with which to make some alterations to Vincent chapel and to make a change in the covering of the floors, a tea and sale was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, on Washington avenue, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church. The affair was very largely attended and the net proceeds will amount to $90. This will form the nucleus of a fund to be enlarged from time to time.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, who was in charge of the affair, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Mrs. L. M. French, while other members of the general committee were Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. George H. Whitney, Mrs. J. Herve Doane, Mrs. N. W. Pike and Mrs. John M. Lewis.

Mrs. Henry R. Joy and Mrs. Josephus H. Howell were in charge of the dining room, pouring tea and chocolate. They were assisted by a number of young women of the church in serving. In addition there was a sale. Mrs. John M. Lewis was in charge of the fancy and useful articles' table, Mrs. N. W. Pike the cake table and Mrs. L. M. French the candy table, assisted by other members of the society. The social features of the tea were enjoyed by everyone and the society was complimented upon the great success attained.

BOLTON HALL TALKS AT BERKELEY LYCEUM

Bolton Hall, famous as a lawyer, lecturer and writer, gave an exceedingly interesting and able address at the Berkeley Lyceum, Berkeley Heights, Thursday night. He began by explaining the relation of the factors to the production of wealth, showing how prosperity affects the workingmen, pointing out that there are just as many miners and plumbers around who would steal as quickly as some of the brokers in Wall street, all simply being the victims of the dreadful economic conditions.

The speaker showed how it is possible for men to accumulate wealth without working for it, if they have a monopoly, patents and tariff monopolies, and then coming down to the real object of his lecture, showed how a man by owning a piece of land to that extent becomes a monopolist, advising everyone to buy land near a railroad or trolley where it is now cheap. He showed how a man could purchase a strip of land in Berkeley Heights and not lift from it anything with it at all and get rich at the expense of those who do the work. He praised the efforts of William Jeffery, as a man who was not satisfied unless he was doing things.

Following the address the improvement society held a business meeting and appointed committees to investigate school matters and the condition of the children. Only one case of distress was reported in the township. Other matters to be taken up include that of additional electric lights and the publication of the assessments every year so that taxpayers can get a copy by October 1. William Woodruff and W. C. Johnson addressed the meeting in conclusion.

GREAT FUTURE FOR JERSEY.

Real Estate Dealers Say So at a Meeting to Boom Land Here.

Two hundred members of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange met in the Hudson Building in New York Thursday afternoon to discuss ways of developing North Jersey real estate to its highest possible value.

President Calvin Tomkins, of the New Jersey Waterways Association, the principal speaker, advised the exchange to persuade the State of New Jersey, as soon as possible, to appoint a State commission under the guidance of which certain valuable public improvements could at once be started.

"New York city is the industrial centre of the whole American continent," he said, "and any railroad map will show you that Hoboken and Jersey City are Manhattan's logical railway terminal. The tunnels under the North river are making them an economic unit with Manhattan. Land is too valuable in Manhattan to use it for warehouses and factories. The logical and inevitable place for these activities is across the North river.

"While land is cheap, the State of New Jersey should acquire lands for parks and inter-park highways. There should also be a marine park at Atlantic Highlands. New Jersey has a great opportunity to become almost the most important State in the union. But it is neglecting this opportunity."

PAYMENT PUTS END TO THE TRIMMER CASE

With the payment of $1,719, the amount agreed upon by the attorneys, the case of the borough of Roselle against Charles B. Trimmer, former collector of taxes of the borough, which has been pending for two years, has been settled. The amount has been received by Nathan R. Leavitt, counsel for the borough, in the shape of a certified check given him by Edward Nugent, Mr. Trimmer's attorney.

The Trimmer case has been pending since January, 1907, and is the result of charges of shortages in borough accounts made by the Mayor and Borough Councilagainst Mr. Trimmer, as collector of taxes and custodian of school moneys. For months various hearings were held in the matter, in which many legal fights were had between the attorneys in the case. Experts were engaged to go over the borough books. Shortages were found amounting to more than $1,500, and finally the matter was referred to Judge Clark McK. Whittemore, referee, by the Circuit Court, where it had been taken. Judge Whittemore, in the opinion which he filed back to the court, claimed that there was a shortage in the accounts amounting to somewhere near the figures that the committee set forth.

When the referee's opinion was filed with the Judge of the Circuit Court, Collector Leavitt, in the name of the Mayor and Borough Council, began suit for the recovery of the amount, and the case was placed on the list for this term's causes.

As considerable money had already been spent on the case by Mr. Trimmer and as it had already cost the borough a large sum, a few days before the case was called Mr. Nugent and Mr. Leavitt held a consultation, with the result it was decided that $1,700 was to be paid by Mr. Trimmer to the borough within thirty days as final settlement of the matter. It was this amount which was received yesterday.

NO MORE "SCHOOL TICKETS."

Railroads to Abolish Special Commutation Rates Next Month.

As a result of the decision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission that the sale of special-rate commutation tickets to students is a discrimination against the general traveling public, all the trunk lines centering in New York have posted notices that, beginning next month, the sale of "school tickets" will be discontinued. These tickets have been sold at almost half-fare rates. The information against the sale of school tickets are sold on the roads going into New York from New Jersey.

The loss to pupils in having to pay full commutation fare will be about 35 per cent. For instance, those coming from Englewood to New York will have to pay $6 for monthly tickets instead of the old rate of $3.75. State Normal School pupils at Montclair, who formerly traveled for $6 a month, will now have to pay $7.50.

HOW THE LAWS ARE MADE

State Senator E. R. Ackerman Gives High School Pupils an Instructive Talk.

DESCRIBES ALL ITS STAGES.

Takes Civil Service Statute as an Illustration—His Address Proves Most Interesting.

State Senator E. R. Ackerman, at the request of the Plainfield Board of Education, Friday, gave an instructive talk to the pupils at the City High School. His subject was "The Making of a Law." The Senator's address follows:

"It is always pleasant to be within the walls of one's alma mater and while more than a quarter of a century has flown since I was amenable to its jurisdiction, yet the flight of time only increases my senses of obligation to its judicious training and wise mandates, which while I was a student it so generously bestowed. With a desire to repay, if possible, if it be only to a very small degree, the many obligations which I have received at the hands of the Plainfield Board of Education and recalling the fact that the theme which was assigned to me for a graduating essay was 'A Glimpse of the History of Roman Law,' I suggested to Professor Sprague that perhaps a brief insight into the making of a law in our own State and country, might be interesting if not instructive. While not attempting to influence or trying to persuade, may I not with fitness be permitted to take as an example a law, which in the opinion of those competent to judge, is destined to contribute much to the further uplifting and upbuilding of our honored State?

"There is nothing which man so unwillingly relinquishes as power, and while the ancient motto 'To the victors belong the spoils,' has in some States been laid upon the shelf for many years, yet it was only in this year of grace that New Jersey finally saw the folly of the barbaric practice of filling offices as rewards for political activity, superseded in many times by a statute which has for its foundation the cornerstone of merit and fitness and embraced in the term its civil service, which in its plainest sense means a 'square deal' to a man without a 'pull.'

"Initially the law affected only 3,000 employes of the State, but by the elastic provisions of the law, which can easily be set in motion, 7,500 more employes are either protected by its sections, or are anticipating in the very near future being covered by it.

"To give you some idea of the great volume of business before a legislative body, it will only be necessary for me to mention that during the last three years in New Jersey, a total of 2,628 bills were introduced in the Legislature, of which 943 became laws, while since the year of 1845 the Legislature of our State has passed 18,737 separate laws.

"Having mentioned these facts it seems appropriate to state that we as legislators are surrounded and circumscribed by regulations which, while not Hampering our activities, contribute most decidedly to our comfort by the knowledge that we are acting under delegated authority and that the Judiciary is empowered to state whether or not our acts are constitutional, in other words, all law making in this country is finally subjected to the ordeal of the courts, for we must remember that we are obliged to legislate within the defined powers of the constitution of the State, which in its turn must not conflict with the constitution of the United States. The law makers in this country, either State or Federal, do not possess the powers of a member of Parliament, for in the United Kingdom no limitation is imposed upon their powers or legislation, they being the sole possessors of the power as to what shall be enacted. The reason for this is that England has no written constitution and it is considered that anything which Parliament does, must operate as a modification or amendment to their theory of an unwritten constitution, while here, our law makers must do nothing that our Judges can interpret as conflicting with the constitution, for our laws while made by legislators are in reality only laws, after having the final seal of validity set upon them when they have successfully undergone the scrutiny of the courts, which most properly are ever on the alert to see that nothing is enacted that infringes on the rights of the people as guaranteed to them by the constitution.

"Then we say, the making of a law is an act of sovereignty and this is a question which has engaged to a greater or less extent, the thoughts of man since the dawn of history.

"Those of you who are familiar with English history understand the progressive steps by which constitutional liberty has been attained. We have the Magna Charta, the Petition of Right and the Bill of Rights. The Magna Charta in 1215 compelled King John to place restrictions on the kingly power, which before had been unlimited, and it is said that upon this charter has been built the structure of constitutional liberty and Parliamentary institutions. The Petition of Right declared that no man shall be compelled to yield to tax without common consent by act of Parliament; and the Bill of Rights in 1688 was framed for the purpose of re-establishing the rights of the people, which had hitherto been practically set aside.

"The early colonists in America objected to the making of a law unless they were represented in its construction, in other words, the question was epitomized in the phrase of the time 'No taxation without representation.'

"The proposition embodied in the term 'The making of a law' was, therefore, responsible for the Declaration of Independence, for the Articles of Confederation and finally the Constitution of the United States.

"The city of Philadelphia is known as the cradle of liberty, because within its confines are found so many historic landmarks of Independence. There is Carpenter's Hall in which assembled the First Continental Congress, Independence Hall, in which the Constitutional convention met and was presided over by George Washington and the old Betsy Ross Home within the walls of which the Stars and Stripes became the symbol of liberty.

"Everybody should be interested in the welfare of the State, for the making of a law covers the subjects of unwise or wise taxation, of bad or good government and all properties within the walls of which have a voice in the making of a law, through their representatives, was the keynote of the war of the American Revolution and faith in the justice of this right was what gave the colonists courage and endurance to withstand the power of England and bring their contention, by the force of arms, to a successful conclusion.

"The debates, the contentions, the ideas advanced in the making of a law, have enriched the pages of history with the achievements of great men from the early days to the present time. Two of the greatest men in American history are George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. It is well and truthfully said that George Washington was the 'father of his country.' On whose soil did he lay within his power to declare what mankind should expect in the future regarding the character of the government in America. The finest example the world has ever seen of wisdom and statecraft was the creation of the Union which has for its States and George Washington presided over the deliberations of the convention in Philadelphia which created that great document, which has been the admiration of thinkers and statesmen since that time. In that convention the name of George Washington stood for supreme intelligence and had it not been for his consummate tact, it is probable the assemblage would have adjourned without action, which would have meant anarchy in America, instead of the purifying influence of constitutional government.

"On the back of the presiding officer's quaint, black arm chair there was a half-sun brilliant with its gilded rays. Benjamin Franklin pointed to the chair and said, 'As I have been sitting in all these weeks, I have often wondered whether yonder sun is rising or setting, but now I know it is a rising sun.'

"The constitution may be defined as a body of rules and maxims in accordance with which the powers of sovereignty are constantly exercised, in other words, the people delegate to their law makers certain plain rules which they must not violate.

"The sad, patient and triumphant Abraham Lincoln is also identified in the history of our country with the making of a law which has been a blessing to millions of his fellowmen, as well as a cheer to succeeding generations. The great civil conflict was brought about on the question of the extension of slavery, and Abraham Lincoln arose from the ranks of America's humblest citizens to assume the greatest burden which has ever fallen upon the shoulders of a statesman in the history of all mankind. The responsibility which he was called upon to face was the preservation of our institutions and our government, so that they might continue to be an inspiration to the people of the world. Had our glorious country been divided or destroyed, the hopes of mankind would have fallen with it. The victorious arms of the Union made possible the great President Lincoln to issue the Emancipation Proclamation which gave freedom to the slaves, and the ideas originating with that proclamation was subsequently embodied in the constitution of our country in the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments.

"Having thus generally covered the subject of law making, it remains for us briefly to trace the steps whereby the civil service law was passed by the New Jersey Legislature and this we will proceed to do.

"First. The idea and subject.

"Second. Preparing the bill.

"Third. Introduction in Legislature and bill number.

"Fourth. Reference to committee and presiding officer's formula.

"Fifth. Printing the bill.

"Sixth. Committee work on bill.

"Seventh. Report of committee.

"Eighth. With or without amendment or committee substitute.

"Ninth. Second reading.

"Tenth. Amendments and debates.

"Eleventh. Official copy reprint.

"Twelfth. Third reading and passed.

"Thirteenth. Signature of officers.

"Fourteenth. Resolution to send to the other house with request for concurrence.

"Fifteenth. A bill passed by one House and sent to the other House goes through the same form as though it was just introduced as a new measure; in fact it is a new proposition to the second House.

"Sixteenth. Movements in second House.

"Seventeenth. Reference to committee and usual formula by presiding officer.

"Eighteenth. Number of bill doesn't change.

"Nineteenth. No reprinting required.

"Twentieth. Report of committee with or without amendments or committee substitute.

"Twenty-first. Second reading.

"Twenty-second. Amendments and debate. To illustrate the possibility of amendments and how they are sometimes offered, perhaps, to defeat a bill, I will take the case of the civil service measure, upon which a total of 109 amendments were offered. Of these amendments only 14 were adopted, these being of minor importance.

"Twenty-third. Third reading and passed.

"Twenty-fourth. Signature of officers to bill and amendments.

"Twenty-fifth. Sent to the House of origin with request for concurrence, if amended.

"Twenty-sixth. House of origin refuses to concur.

"Twenty-seventh. Resolution for conference committee usually in following form:

"The Secretary of the Senate be directed to notify the House of Assembly that the Senate has failed to concur in Assembly amendments and the Speaker is requested to appoint a conference committee of three to meet with a similar committee to be appointed by the President of the Senate.

"Twenty-eighth. Work of conference committee.

"Twenty-ninth. Report of conference committee.

Thirtieth. Bill introduced to conform to the recommendations of conference committees.

"Thirty-first. Adoption of committee's report without new bill—if nothing is added.

"Thirty-second. Concurrence by the two Houses or amended by one House.

"Thirty-third Returned to the House of origin and concurred in.

"Thirty-fourth. Referred to committee on printed bills and reported correct and then compared in open session.

"Thirty-fifth. Sent to committee on passed bills.

"Thirty-sixth. Care to see that each page of the act is properly stamped and dated, having the signatures of all officers.

"Thirty-seventh. Certification by the clerk or secretary, usually in the following form:

"The following bill having passed both Houses, was this day delivered to the committee on passed bills with the following endorsement thereon: 'I certify that this bill originated in the Senate,' or House, as the case may be.

"Thirty-eighth. Delivered by chairman of committee to the Governor for his approval or rejection.

"If a bill is referred to committee and not reported, or if it has not passed both Houses before final adjournment, it is delivered by the secretary of the Senate or clerk of the house at the conclusion of the session, to the state librarian for safe keeping."

DR MAXSON ADDRESSES PARENTS AND TEACHERS

A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Whittier and Stillman Public Schools was held at the Stillman School, Thursday afternoon. Following a short business session, Mrs. W. M. Sandford, Jr., president of the Mothers' Association, told in a few words of the aims and purposes of such an association. Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the schools, gave an address on the training and care of the child. During the afternoon Miss Kate Bigiow gave a fine piano selection. Miss Day, principal, ably assisted by her corps of teachers, was in charge of the social hour, which was a delightful feature.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom; vice-president, Miss Day; second vice-president, Mrs. M. A. Zook; secretary, Mrs. Charles DuBois; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Collin; representative to Mothers' Association, Mrs. George B. Wean.

Octopus at the Font.

A couple in a country village took their baby to be christened, and on the clergyman asking what name they had chosen the happy father replied, "Octopus, sir!"

"What!" ejaculated the astonished divine, "but you cannot call a child by so extraordinary a name."

"Yes, sir, if you please," was the reply, "you see it's our eighth child and we want it called 'Octopus.'"—Gentlewoman.

LANEHART CASE HEARD

Errors Court Sits to Review the Skillman Conviction.

PENCIL MARKS IMPORTANT.

William H. Skillman Convicted of Forging Will, Takes an Appeal—Decision Reserved.

The case of William H. Skillman, a well known resident of Blairsburg, Somerset county, convicted of uttering the forged will of William Lanehart, a neighbor, was argued in Court of Errors Wednesday. Skillman stands high in his community and his wrongdoing came as a surprise to everybody. He was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison and to pay a fine of $1,000.

The facts brought out in the argument were that Lanehart and Skillman were close friends and neighbors and because of an infirmity Skillman did much of the writing for Lanehart, who could hardly hold a pen or pencil. Under the forged will Skillman was to inherit many thousands of dollars to the exclusion of brothers and sisters of Lanehart, who were taken care of partially in another will, known as the "Race will."

The lawyers for Skillman contended that photographs harmful to the cause of Skillman were improperly admitted at the trial of the cause in the lower court, and that the charge of the trial judge was prejudicial to the interests of Skillman.

The State contended that all evidences regarding the "Race will" was such as there were pencil marks around the forged will of Lanehart, this constituted evidence of forgery. The defense was that Lanehart first traced the signature with pencil because of his almost inability to hold a pen, and then traced it over with ink.

Decision was reserved.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL

Largely Attended Gathering at Nurses' Home for Hospital Benefit.

DONATIONS IN ABUNDANCE.

Guests Received by Mrs. Tomlinson, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Dumont, Mrs. Corlies and Miss Cock.

The annual harvest home held at the Nurses' Home of Muhlenberg Hospital, Thursday afternoon, was a delightful affair. There was a generous donation of vegetables, fruits, jellies, preserves, cereals, as well as of money. While a complete list of the articles donated have not yet been made, it is believed that they will equal those of previous years. Throughout the afternoon there was a large attendance of friends of the institution, including many former patients, who returned to assist in any way possible.

At a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson received the guests, assisted by the other officers, Miss Elizabeth R. Cock, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews, while Mrs. John B. Dumont and Mrs. J. Hodgkiss Corlies, representing the Ladies' Guild, were in charge of the room, explaining its purposes and needs. The guild contributed an unusually large number of garments to the hospital this year, all of which will be very acceptable.

Those who assisted in serving in the tea room included Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. Augustus F. Kleinecke, Mrs. Henry L. Hall, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. G. Harry Squires, Mrs. W. T. Pelletier and Mrs. Julius E. Erickson. The social features of the affair were fully enjoyed and many were present for the first time had an opportunity to learn with interest more about the good work being done at the hospital.

Nine Cases of Typhoid.

There are nine cases of typhoid fever at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment and all are reported to be steadily improving. The past month has been one of the heaviest in the history of the institution there being an unusually large number of operations.

Concert at Grace M. E. Church.

The quartet of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will give a concert at Grace M. E. church on Thursday night, December 10, at 8:15 o'clock. The program will be one of unusual merit.

"Can't we arbitrate this matter?" whined the malefactor of wealth.

BUILDING ON THE BOOM

Many New Houses Going Up in Various Parts of the City at Present.

MOSTLY IN THE EAST END.

Cost of Erection Varies From $3,500 to $5,000 as a Rule—Upward Movement in Realty.

There is a steady, healthy boom in building enterprise in the East End of the city, which prophesies a good year for all class of mechanics and the style of houses being erected are all of the best. Some of the dwellings are well underway, others are nearing completion, while in other cases ground has been broken and all is in readiness to start the work. The permits were issued by Boulding Inspector T. O. Doane.

S. A. McNabb is building a house on Clinton avenue, near West Front street; F. Schwed is erecting a dwelling at 1447 Evergreen avenue. J. Manhattan has received a permit for two houses on McCrea place. Peter Feimley is building one house on Emerson avenue near George street and Albert Williams is building a house on Belvidere avenue, near Park lane. H. R. Palmer is building two houses on Berckman street and one on East Second street. Mrs. B. Uhler is erecting a large dwelling on Dennis road, near Belvidere avenue, and Mrs. A. F. George Weigand is building one house at 241 Leland avenue, George Quinn one at 1228 Lenox avenue, E. E. Beys one on Laramie road, near Cameron avenue and J. Duffey three houses at 738-742 East Sixth street.

STAR COURSE OPENER PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE

The first of the season's Star Course Lyceum entertainments was given Thursday night in C. A. hall before a good sized audience. The Edwin R. Weeks concert company was the attraction and gave a very pleasing performance. Encores were demanded after every number and the members of the company cheerfully responded, thus doubling the regular program, which in itself was quite extensive.

Mr. Weeks put the audience in a good humor at the start with his humorous sayings, inflecting them with a touch of laughing bacteria and Miss Lulu Sinclair with her violin and Miss Lucia Gillespie at the piano were just as pleasing.

The opening number of what was designated at the "Menu of Mirth and Music" was a monologue by Mr. Weeks, entitled "The Man with the Wooden Arm," following which he made up to as Paderewski and imitated the great musician's gestures at the piano.

Miss Sinclair played a pretty violin solo, "Mazurka" by Volpe, accompanied by Miss Gillespie with the piano and responded to a hearty encore.

Mr. Weeks recited James Whitcomb Riley's "Backslider" and another recitation entitled, "The Sod House in Heaven," which, as he said, was a very touching little thing, so he sang a mixture of thirty songs to counteract the sadness he had caused. He also sang "A Merry Widow Hat" as another encore.

Miss Gillespie rendered a piano solo "Mortuo Perpetuo," Gottschalk.

Miss Sinclair played three selections on the violin. They were: "Adagio," by Ries; "Canzonetta," by d'Ambrosia; and "Bouree" by Delidig.

A dialogue between Miss Gillespie and Mr. Weeks, with the latter made up alternately as William J. Bryan, William H. Taft, Chauncey Depew, Theodore Roosevelt and Enrico Caruso was very laughable.

A violin solo, the "Hungarian Dance," by Brahms-Joachim, was rendered by Miss Sinclair with several encores, and the entertainment concluded with what Mr. Weeks said was an "operetta with fifteen characters," entitled "A Suggestive Comedy, viz.: "The Pickaninny and the Big Crocodile." His vocal powers were exerted in an effort to imitate all of the singers, in successive order, from soprano to base.

MRS. ALEX. MILLAR DEAD

Wife of Union Pacific Railroad's Secretary Succumbs to Heart Trouble.

SHE WAS MUCH BELOVED.

Husband and Six Children Survive Her—Funeral Services on Sunday Afternoon at 3:15.

Mrs. Jeanie Wilson, wife of Alexander Millar, secretary of the Union Pacific Railroad, died at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at her home on Madison avenue, following an illness of two years. During the past year she grew gradually weaker and a summer in Maine failed to give the beneficial result hoped for. Despite the best of medical aid Mrs. Millar did not respond to the treatment. The food she partook of did not assimilate and this fact together with heart trouble resulted in her death. Only recently a specialist from New York was summoned, but he was unable to give any relief. The physicians in attendance were not especially alarmed over her condition and in consequence her death was rather unexpected.

Mrs. Millar was a native of Gladcow, Scotland, being the daughter of the late Robert Wilson, of that city. In 1875 she followed Mr. Millar to this country and the couple were married at Jamaica Plains, near Boston, in that year. Soon afterward they moved to Hyde Park, Mass., where they lived until 1894, when they came to Plainfield. They have resided here ever since.

Mrs. Millar was a woman of rare Christian qualities, thoroughly devoted to her home and her family, and beloved by all who knew her. Mrs. Millar was a member of the Congregational church and in numerous ways that church was the recipient of her kindly service. She will be greatly missed there as well as in the home, although illness prevented her attendance at services for some time.

Besides a husband there survives six children, three sons and three daughters—Alfred Wilson Millar, of Sonora, Mexico; William R. Millar, a lawyer at Los Angeles, Cal.; Harold M. Millar, a student at Swarthmore College; Miss Ethel Millar, of this city; Miss Bessie Millar, of Grafton Hall, of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Miss Jeanie Louise Millar, a student at Wellsley College.

The funeral services were held at the residence in Madison avenue on Sunday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

COP'S "GOOD WORD" SAVED PRISONER $15

Patrolman John Payne was passing down New street near the railroad, Thursday noon, when he saw Charles Hawkins, colored, steal a bag of coal from a passing train and placed him under arrest. He was arraigned in court Friday, and started to give Judge Runyon a fairy tale about the theft when Payne interrupted him.

"Hold on, now Hawkins," he said; "you asked me to put in a good word for you to the judge and I said I would, but I won't if you don't tell the truth."

The colored man hesitated a moment and then asserted that he would be honest. He had been working, he said, and had no particular reason for taking the coal but did not think it would be any great harm. He pleaded for leniency and declared he would never go near the railroad again.

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Judge Runyon remarked, "and I'll take the officer's 'good word' in consideration. I'll make your fine $5 instead of $20."

Hawkins was so elated over saving $15 that he uttered profuse thanks to Patrolman Payne and neglected to express his gratitude to the court.

Want Names of Peddle Students.

Approps of the fourth annual banquet of the New York Alumni Association of The Peddle Institute, to be held at the Hotel Manhattan, New York, on Friday night, January 29, the association is anxious to learn the names of all former students in Plainfield and vicinity at the Institute, whether graduates or not. Names should be sent to Dr. J. Herrey Buchanan, of Duer street. At present it has been learned that there are about twenty such students here, but it is known that here are many additional ones.

EX-CITY TREASURER DEAD

Alexander Titsworth Passes Away at the Age of Seventy-Three Years.

ONCE A FIRE COMMISSIONER.

Before Retirement for a Long Time One of Plainfield's Most Prominent Men—Was Unmarried.

Alexander Titsworth, a life-long resident of Plainfield and one of its best known citizens, died Thursday at 5 o'clock at his home on West Fifth street, following an illness of six weeks. A general breaking down brought about by the infirmities of age is ascribed as the cause of his demise. He had been in a weakened state for the past ten days and the end was expected by his relatives and friends.

Alexander Titsworth was the son of John D. and Jane Dunn Titsworth and was born in Plainfield in 1835. The homestead was located on West Second street, the residence having recently been remodelled by the Public Service Corporation and now serving as an office building. When a young man, Mr. Titsworth attended Alfred University, at Alfred, N. Y., and afterward became connected with the firm of J. D. & R. M. Titsworth, engaged in the wholesale clothing business in New York. From there he went to Selma and Montgomery, Ala., as a member of the firm of Titsworth, Scott & Co. His business interests were in the south but he retained his residence in Plainfield and returned to this city in 1876.

In 1887 Mr. Titsworth was elected city treasurer and he remained in office for ten years, retiring in February, 1897. He was succeeded by the present incumbent, William F. Arnold. While serving the municipality, his duties were discharged in a faithful and efficient manner and he was frequently complimented for the attention he devoted to even the slightest detail. A short time after retiring, he became associated with the Potter Printing Press Company and remained with the concern until his last illness began.

It is through Mr. Titsworth's connection with the early history of Plainfield's fire department that many of the citizens know him best and his service was one of great pride to himself. He became a member of Gazelle Engine company in 1857, later serving as its foreman for two years. At that time she lads William L. Force was first assistant and Chief T. O. Doane, second assistant. His activities in the department earned him recognition from his townsmen and he was elected to the board of Fire Commissioners. While he was serving in this capacity in 1885, the organization brought about the erection of the present No. 1 house on West Second street, his associates in the board were E. B. Pope, Joseph B. Coward, Jonas H. Platt, John W. Murray, Sr., and Theodore French. Mr. Murray is now the only one surviving.

In early life Mr. Titsworth was a leader in public and social affairs and for a long time he held the reputation of being "Plainfield's best dressed man." He was extremely particular about his attire and at all times were immaculate clothing of the latest mode. He was one of the founders of the Reform Club, a life-long member of the Seventh Day Baptist church and was the second oldest member of Jerusalem lodge, F. and A. M. The oldest is William L. Galvet.

A paralytic stroke which Mr. Titsworth suffered in 1872 left him in a somewhat crippled state but despite this drawback he continued to be identified as before. He was known to all for his genial and sunny disposition and had a good word for everyone. He was possessed of strong will power and exerted it until death came, bearing his suffering with extreme fortitude and no complaint. He was a bachelor and leaves no immediate family. His nearest relatives are first cousins, Mrs. James Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. Tomlinson, Arthur L. Titsworth and E. Wood Titsworth; also a second cousin, David E. Titsworth, all of Plainfield.

NEW CHAPTER HOUSE PLANNED AT RUTGERS.

Plans have been completed for the erection of a new chapter house for the Chi Phi Association at Rutgers College.

The plans have been prepared by the firm of Hill & Stout, New York architects, and call for a three-story building to be constructed of brick, marble and terra cotta. The frontage will be fifty-three feet, with a depth of forty feet, and the site selected is at the southeast corner of College avenue and Bishop place, New Brunswick.

The building will be up to date in its interior fixtures and will cost $16,000 when completed.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The question of a head coach at Princeton for next season is engaging the close attention of the students and those alumni too who take a lively interest in football. It is not believed Bill Roper, one of the hardest working and painstaking coaches Princeton has had and who accomplished a good deal during his regime, will act in the capacity of head coach again, so a change in the system is probable. Not a few of Old Nassau's football experts would like to see Phil King the head coach next season and are using their influence, it is said, to bring that about. They think King would be the best man for the responsible position and that Eddie Holt would be the right man to take charge of the line coaching. King showed ability as a coach at Wisconsin, and the experience he had there of being thrown on his own resources as coach and his ability to cope with it are points in his favor.

Capt. Siegling already is planning for next season, and there is not a little confidence in his ability to steer the team to a victory over Yale. If his play is any indication of his worth as a leader, Siegling will be not only a hard, agressive and determined captain but possess thoroughness in managing the campaign. He has a pretty good nucleus of players. Tibbott, Dilon, Wallef and Booth are through, but there is a goodly supply of varsity material left and also some promising men on the freshman team. It may be that big McCrohan, who was not a success as a back, will be tried in the line, a position for which it is believed by some that his physique is more suitable.

The football season of 1908 has practically run its course. Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Brown and most of the other teams have played their last games, and it remains for the Army and Navy to bring the season to a close on Saturday, after Cornell and Pennsylvania have fought out their yearly battle tomorrow. These two games hold an interest not far behind those between Yale and Princeton and Yale and Harvard, and with reason, as they have usually been productive of hard fought struggles and high class football. There is another game in New York for Thanksgiving Day between Fordham and Villanova, which will prove entertaining to those who cannot go over to Philadelphia. At first glance Pennsylvania, which has a strong, well balanced team this year, is a strong favorite in most quarters to beat Cornell, while the Navy appears to have the call over the Army, based on the work of the two elevens during the season. Enthusiasts are rather disposed toward Annapolis, as the team has been playing the kind of football all the season that indicates complete and thorough knowledge of the game and the ability to make the most of it, whereas West Point has shown streaks of looseness with flashes of brilliancy. As to the Pennsylvania-Cornell game, experts are not so sure, as they have a growing conviction that the eleven from Ithaca is much stronger than is indicated on the surface, and that it may come out of the game with a victory.

BASEBALL.

One of the National League clubs has just passed a rule that its players cannot draw any advance money before March 1, and that the limit then will be $100. For many years ball players have been in the habit of drawing a part of their salaries for the next year during the winter months, but the magnates have been finding so much fault that it will not be at all surprising if a halt is called all around. The magnates say there is no reason why the players should not save enough from their salaries during the ball season to keep them on easy street all winter. They also believe that the practice of getting advance money between seasons has been the cause of much extravagance and high living on the part of the diamond artists. A well known club owner not more than a year ago advanced more than 50 per cent. of one of his player's salaries before the championship season opened. The player was one of the most valuable on the team so that it was not considered good policy to turn him down. But early in the spring the player was injured and remained out of the game for more than half the campaign, the magnate of course being out of pocket. It turned out afterward that the player wanted the release all along, for when he got it he went to another club and put up a star game. Some owners say that a rule should be passed this winter putting an end to this advance money evil and that such a rule would be a source of benefit both ways.

GOLF.

A plan which has been under way for some time contemplates the consolidation of several of the country clubs in the vicinity of Paterson into one big club with the intention of owning its own golf course, clubhouse, and adjuncts which go to make up a first-class country club. The leaders in the plan are former Governor John W. Griggs, of Paterson, and William D. Moffatt, of Hackensack.

The scheme as originally laid out called for the amalgamation of the North Jersey and Hackensack Golf Clubs into one organization. Later Ridgewood, Yanticaw and Englewood all asked to come in, and present indications are that the prospective club will be one of the largest in the country.

The future of the various clubs is what confronted the governing boards of each is looking about for new quarters. The North Jersey Club leases the property on the south side of Broadway from Col. William Barbour. That lease has about two years to run. The property to the north of Broadway is owned by Mrs. Sarah Barbour, and is leased to the club from year to year. Already building has begun in the vicinity and at any time the club may be asked to vacate. A similar situation prevails in Hackensack.

Yanticaw leases from six different landlords, and Ridgewood has but a small course. In Englewood the property used as links has been threatened for some time. Mr. Moffatt, who is acting as trustee in the negotiations, has an option on a large tract of property at Arcola back of the picturesque Bastern place. The tract contains about 150 acres, and more land in the vicinity may be had.

since the discovery of Australia. It will change all the currents of trade of the world.

"Diplomatically, we are ahead of any other nation in the world, and American diplomacy is a synonym for the golden rule. As a nation we have passed from boyhood into manhood and no throne of Czar, Kaiser or King is so high as the Presidential chair. The foremost man in the world is the president of the United States."

tee to 12th green.

The special events scheduled for tomorrow at the Y. M. C. A. include two basketball games in the afternoon at 3:30, the first between the association team and the Naval Reserves of Brooklyn and the second between the association second team and the Business Men's team. In the evening the Oak Farm Dramatic Company will present the comedy drama "Oak Farm," in the association hall. The company has already given this play with much success under the auspices of St. Stephen's church and of Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M. A first-class entertainment is assured all who attend.

The boys and girls at the Children's Home will be given a Thanksgiving dinner at the Home, tomorrow, according to the annual custom. This is made possible by the generous donations by friends of the institution.

The Hope chapel Boy's Club and the Junior Boys' Club will hold a cross-country run tomorrow. A large number of boys will take part. The start will be made from the chapel, through Fourth street to Grant avenue, to Greenbrook road, to Jefferson avenue to Dudley, to South Plainfield to Clinton avenue to Fourth street and back to the chapel for a shower bath and good rubdown.

The two strongest football teams of North Plainfield will battle tomorrow morning. Holly Cross, which has won from some of the best teams in this part of the State, and North Plainfield High School, which has only two defeats against it this season, both remarkably clever football teams, will fight out their rivalry on Cricket field at 11 o'clock. It will be the most important and by far the most exciting game played on that field this year.

Mrs. J. M. Charles, of Madison avenue, is quite ill at her home.

Charles Staats, of Brooklyn, who has been spending the past two weeks here with relatives, has returned home.

Mrs. Frederick Phillips, of West Front street, who has been an invalid for over a year, is improving slowly.

George Wiltse, the star twirler of the New York Nationals, has been spending a few weeks with his brother, Louis Wiltse, of the New Madison.

J. T. Closson, of East Front street, who has been very ill with heart trouble, is slightly improved and the prospects of his getting about in the near future are brighter.

Fred Haberle, whose wife is still detained at the hospital in Manasquan, has been spending a few days in Plainfield. He reports that Mrs. Haberle is convalescing slowly.

Albert L. Schomp, of West Front street, is slowly convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever. His brother, Fred Schomp, who is ill at the hospital with the same disease is also much improved. His attack was not as severe as that of the former.

Rose Horan, of Lehigh avenue, is confined to her bed by illness.

EET REV. J. Y. BROEK

astors and Laity Welcome Trinity's New Head at Church Reception.

UR HUNDRED ARE PRESENT.

v. Dr. Herring and Rev. Mr. Goodrich Among Those Who Welcomed New Pastor to His Local Field.

The members of Trinity Reformed urch and congregation, also the astors, wives and members of other urches of the city and borough, the number of about four hundred, gathered at the church last ght to extend a welcome to the w pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, and come better acquainted with him.

It was a delightful occasion in which astor and people joined heartily, inicating the perfect harmony and hristian spirit that prevails and romises earnest work for the future.

The Sunday-school rooms, where he reception was held, were attractively decorated for the occasion, here being a pleasing arrangement f palms and flowers about the platorm, while crepe streamers of orange and white colors, were suspended from the ceiling reaching in ll directions.

The affair was under the direction of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, and every member, assisted by he young people of the church, aided in making it a great success. Rev. John Y. Broek, the pastor, was assisted in receiving and being introduced to his people by the elders of the church and their wives, all being present except Elder George L. Van Emburgh, who is detained at home by illness. The greeting on the part of pastor and people was a hearty one, giving assurances of united support and co-operation in church work.

There were several features that combined to make the reception one of great pleasure. During the evening Miss S. Etta Raybert and P. S. Cutter, of the church quartet, sang two delightful selections. The presence of several other pastors of the city was thoroughly appreciated by Pastor Broek. Elder Robert Clark, Jr., called upon Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, to say a few words, and in doing so he extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Broek to the Plainfield Ministers' Association. He said that he was glad that the members of Trinity church had chosen a pastor and leader, and he considered it a pleasant duty to welcome him and wish him God speed and great success in his work.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, who was introduced as one who had always been near to Trinity church, added a few words of welcome to those of Dr. Herring. He said that Trinity had always been blessed with fine pastors. He recalled the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Raymond, relating an amusing incident in his service here. He said that he met him one Sunday night after service and inquired what made him look discouraged. He replied that his wife had told him that his sermon that evening was a stupid one. He did not believe it, he said, that Mr. Brock would have the same experience as he has no wife to criticize his sermons.

Mr. Goodrich also paid loving tribute to Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and his long service. He said that Dr. Schenck always seemed a holier member of the local clergy than the rest of them and he referred affectionately to his admirable Christian qualities. He also welcomed Pastor Broek to Plainfield and the ministers' association.

The whole evening was practically devoted to sociability and it was long after 10 o'clock when the affair terminated. The pleasing decorations were the work of a committee comprising Mrs. Jacob Beckman Mrs. George W. Cole, Mrs. L. B. VanCamp, Mrs. C. Henry, Van Name and Mrs. L. M. Dunavan. In looking after the refreshments and other features of the reception all of the members of the Ladies' Christian Work Society assisted. During an intermission ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Among the pastors and their wives present were Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Shaw, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, Rev. J. W. Musson, Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Squires, Rev. W. E. Honeyman and wife and Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn.

Exchange Sale and Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Women's Exchange and for the benefit of that institution, a sale and entertainment will be held at the Hartridge School auditorium tomorrow and Friday afternoon and evening. There will be numerous attractions and an opportunity to obtain many suitable gifts for the holidays.

ITALIANS FIERCE COMBAT

Quarreling Over Game of Cards, Two Foreigners Slash Each Other.

BOTH IN THE HOSPITAL.

Importo's Throat Is Cut, While Delbene Receives Wounds in Shoulders—Must Answer for Assault.

Tonaso Importo and Salvatore Delbene, of the Italian colony at Fanwood, engaged in a stiletto duel yesterday afternoon and are now in Muhlenberg Hospital. Importo's throat was cut, while his companion received many stab wounds in the shoulders. Both were greatly exhausted from loss of blood before medical aid could be summoned.

Marshal Logan of Fanwood, found the men near the Loizeaux Lumber Company's yards, and with the assistance of Peter Ritter took them to the hospital. It was found that none of the wounds would prove fatal. Delbene was able to leave the institution today, and was immediately placed under arrest. Importo will be detained there for possibly two weeks, but he too will be held by the authorities as soon as he is able to leave. While he suffered an ugly cut in the throat it was not deep.

The two Italians had been playing cards and drinking beer all the afternoon and toward night they were in a hilarious and boisterous mood. Suddenly a dispute arose over the game, one of the men accusing the other of cheating. The charge was resented and instantly the men were fueling each other with stiletto in hand. The men clinched and while in this position, Importo's throat was cut, and Delbene's shoulders were terribly lacerated with repeated stabbings. The latter succeeded in breaking away from his companion and ran out of the house, with Importo closely following on his heels.

With blood gushing from their wounds the men ran a distance of a quarter of a mile to the Loizeaux Lumber Company yards, where they fell from exhaustion. Friends sought Dr. F. W. Westcott, but he was away from home and then Marshal Logan arranged to have the men taken to Muhlenberg Hospital at once. The Italians were in a semi-conscious condition when they reached the hospital and it was believed at the time that both would die.

In the meantime two other Italians were arrested and placed in the lock-up of Fanwood where they are being held as witnesses. Some say that they were indirectly responsible for the trouble, but thus far the authorities have been unable to get the men to talk.

Early in the afternoon, Importo, accompanied by several Italian friends, visited the grocery store of Sheelen Brothers of Fanwood and made some puchases. The men were in a jolly mood and those who saw them believed that they had been drinking. Importo has been employed in a gang on the New Jersey Central, while Delbene has had no employment. The former is twenty-four years old, while Delbene is twenty-one years of age. They have both been members of the Italian colony at Fanwood for a long time.

Changes in the Lighting System.

It is understood that whether the Councilmanic light committee is successful or not in installing any number of arc lights in the city in the near future, there will undoubtedly be radical changes in the lighting of the business section. Merchants on West Front street have petitioned the Common Council to install arc lights on that thoroughfare, the desire being to make it more metropolitan. At present the main business streets of the city are practically illuminated at night by the merchants, several big lamps being installed from time to time. They think that it is about time the city undertook some share of the expense and no doubt efforts will be made in that direction before long.

Alaska Missionary to Meet.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held in the church parlor on Friday afternoon, December 4, at 3:30 o'clock. An address will be made by Rev. S. R. Spriggs, who has spent nine years as missionary and teacher at Point Barrow, Alaska, the most remote northerly station under the charge of the Women's Home Mission Board of the Presbyterian church.

Lecture at Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Francis DuBois will lecture on "The Heart, Lung and Digestive Organs," in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The lecture is the second of a series to be given by different prominent physicians on the care of the body.

LEWIS DEFEATS PIERCE

Passaic County Man Wins Leadership of the Lower House at Caucus.

JOHNSON IS JOURNAL CLERK.

Professor Pierce Chosen as Speaker of House—Senator to Hold Caucus on December 15.

Republican members of the Assembly met in caucus in the Assembly chamber at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and decided upon the House officers for the next session of the Assembly. Grimth Lewis, of Burlington county, was elected chairman of the caucus by a vote of 28 to 12 over Assemblyman Pierce, of Union, the latter Mr. Lewis the Republican floor leader.

Professor John D. Prince, of Passaic county, was selected as the Republican candidate for speaker over Assemblyman William P. Martin, of Essex, by a vote of 37 to 4. Mr. Martin is one of the "new idea" Republicans, and his candidacy was advocated in an earnest speech by Assemblyman Blauvelt, of Passaic, and other new idea Republicans, who said that a failure to elect Mr. Martin would be recognized as a surrender upon the part of the Republicans to the corporations.

Officers elected without any opposition were: Journal clerk, George H. Johnson, of Scotch Plains; assistant journal clerk, Lewis R. Williams, of Trenton; sup'ervisor of bills, George A. Glover, of Essex; first assistant supervisor of bills, Charles E. Heritage, of Gloucester; second assistant supervisor of bills, Walter H. Percell, Essex; sergeant-at-arms, William R. Swan, Essex; first assistant sergeant-at-arms, William S. Day, Middlesex; second assistant sergeant-at-arms, Paul T. Ludlam, Cumberland; bill clerk, Richard J. Chaplin, Morris; assistant bill clerk, Enoch S. Clunting, Cape May.

The steering committee will probably not report until after the caucus of the senators, which will occur in the State House December 15.

COLONEL SAVAGE BUYS A TWENTY-FIVE CENT SEAT

Colonel Henry W. Savage, New York's big theatrical manager, came out from the city, last night, to witness his new production, "Mary Jane's Pa," at the New Plainfield theatre. While standing in the lobby he noticed a three sheet poster on the wall announcing that Treasurer Sam W. Cunningham's benefit tomorrow night and he turned to the box office window where that worthy was handing out pateboards.

"Say, Sam," he said to him, "that 'Paid in Full' is a good show and as it's your benefit I'll buy a gallery seat."

The New Plainfield's treasurer was in the colonel's employ for five years but never knew him as a "kidder" so he looked at him incredulously.

"I mean it," Mr. Savage said earnestly; "hand it out."

A ticket for the "kid" with twenty-five cents was shoved through the window opening and a twenty dollar gold certificate was passed back.

"Never mind the change," the colonel said as he started to move away; "if I can't attend the performance I'll keep this ticket as a souvenir and think of Sam Cunningham whenever I look at it."

Dr. Grenfell's Lecture.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell whose life of manly courage and practical Christianity in his heroic work among the deep sea fishermen of Labrador has awakened international interest will lecture in the Plainfield High School auditorium on Tuesday, December 22, on his life and work that decolate coast. Dr. Grenfell is a doctor of medicine not a doctor of divinity. An Oxford man with broad outlook, fertile in resource and adventurous in spirit he might have chosen any of many advantageous vocations.

Kitchen Shower at Hope Chapel.

A novel entertainment and social in the nature of a kitchen shower will be given at Hope chapel tonight, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. All persons who attend are requested to bring an article which can be used in the chapel kitchen. All members of the chapel are invited. Refreshments will be served and a social time enjoyed.

ALLEN GETS SIX YEARS

Picked Up Here Recently, He is Sentenced for Jobs Done in This City Six Years Ago.

GRANT PLEADS NON-VULT.

Johnson, Another Negro, Who Attempted to Kill His Wife, Pleads Guilty to Charge.

Thomas Allen, colored, who was arrested here about two weeks ago by Roundsman Higgins was sentenced by Judge E. S. Atwater in the Union county court, this morning to six years in State Prison at hard labor. The sentence was on two indictments one for entering the home of Corporation Counsel C. A. Mark, on West Eighth street, and the other for entering the Netherwood Station, both acts being committed six years ago.

Allen appeared without counsel, but he made a strong plea in his own behalf. He admitted that he was a burglar, but explained that, when sentenced from Mercer county for burglaries committed in that county, he was given to understand that he would not be called upon to answer to other charges. He failed to state, however, what these charges were to be dropped, provided he remained away from Plainfield, which he did not do. When arrested here by Roundsman Higgins, Allen had in his possession a full set of burglar's tools, showing that he was still working the old business.

Thomas Johnson, colored, of this city, who recently attempted to kill his wife, was arraigned this morning on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He also appeared without counsel. He entered a plea of guilty, admitting to the court that he tried to kill his wife. He was remanded for sentence on December 9.

John Scoggs, of Fanwood, who was charged with carrying concealed weapons and threatening to shoot, was placed in charge of the probation officer for one year with instructions to pay $2 a month to the probation officer. His counsel, W. G. DeMeza appeared in his behalf, making a strong plea for leniency.

Richard J. Grant, who traveled about Plainfield representing himself to be a piano tuner and charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, entered a plea of non-vult. He was remanded for sentence on Wednesday, December 9.

RUNAWAY HORSE CRASHES THROUGH STORE WINDOW

A spirited horse belonging to W. W. Wesnock, the baker, ran away on Park avenue at 8 o'clock this morning and inside of five minutes furnished more excitement than ten ordinary mishaps of the kind. It occurred when the wagon was left to take care of itself while the driver delivered bread at a number of stores. The animal took fright at a flying piece of paper opposite Willett's shoe store and started off at break-neck speed, before the driver, Clarence Zimmer, could stop it. At the Front street corner, it was unable to turn and plunged headlong into the big front window of Schwed's clothing store, scattering dummies in all directions. Zimmer jumped from the wagon and tried to catch the horse, as did several other men, but it backed out of its own accord and then started off again. It went down West Front street, smashing a couple of bicycles on the way, and collided with George Henry's milk wagon in front of the postoffice. The Warnock vehicle was thrown on the front end and held the runaway down. Henry escaped injury.

The Warnock horse was badly cut by the window glass and it was thought at first it would have to be killed. Dr. Herbert arrived within a few minutes and after checking the flow of blood found the animal could be brought around. The wagon was only slightly damaged.

Bigelow in Columbia Law School.

L. H. Bigelow, captain of the Yale football team in 1907, and head coach this season, entered the Columbia University Law School yesterday. He intends to practice in New York when he completes his legal education. He does not know whether he will be able to take a hand in the coaching of the Yale team next year, as the course at Columbia begins late in September, just at the beginning of the football season.

City Committee Meets.

The Republican City Committee met last night with W. S. Angleman in the chair. Reports of the recent election were submitted. Another meeting will be held on Tuesday night.

WANT SUNDAY OPENING

Excise Commission Divided on Important Phrase of Its Recommendations.

MAY BE MINORITY REPORT.

Rumor Has it That Whitpeck is Here for Opening Saloons on Sunday Afternoons.

Newark, Dec. 2.—When the State Excise Commission, of which Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, is chairman, meets there tomorrow, the fight for Sunday opening will be renewed. It has become known that at least one of the commissioners is strongly in favor of Sunday opening during certain hours, so far as serving liquor with meals at hotels is concerned. This man is alleged to be Mr. Whitpeck, but he will neither affirm nor deny the report.

When the commissioners read over the prospective report at Mayor Fisk's office, in Plainfield yesterday, according to a story current here, both Commissioners Whitpeck and Howe took a decided stand against the views of Commissioner Backes, who was supported by Commissioner Fisk, that no liquor should be sold on Sunday. Mr. Whitpeck, it is said, took the ground that the excise business should be conducted on Sunday afternoons but he received, it is rumored, no support except from Mr. Howe who later changed his position to conform with the report.

Originally the commissioners agreed against Sunday opening and this leads to the belief that if Mr. Whitpeck renews his efforts in that direction there will be a minority report. If such is the case, however, it is likely to be confined to that single phase of the report, although there is some authority for the assertion that both Whitpeck and Howe do not entirely agree with other details.

According to a story going the rounds here, both Commissioners Fisk and Backes insist that there be no recommendation favoring Sunday selling under any conditions or at any places. Commissioner Rice is said to hold that same view.

According to a report from Newark, the commission will recommend local boards of excise to be composed of from three to five members.

TWENTY-FIVE OBJECT TO ASSESSMENTS

The Somerset County Board of the Equalization of Taxes convened at the North Plainfield Council Chambers yesterday afternoon to receive complaints of taxpayers. Of the appeals made by twenty-five property-owners of the borough from what they believed to be excessive assessments only one was allowed. It was that of Charles Weizel. It was admitted that in his case there was an error and as the amount involved was small, it was allowed.

The appeals for reductions ranged from $100 to $200 from the assessments levied, and the highest one was for $1,000. The board listened attentively to every complaint and the arguments presented for a reduction of assessments. The complete list of those who made appeals is as follows:

Mary O'Connor, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, William Kaeding, Jacob Keller, E. J. Coe, Mrs. M. Vetsberger, John Abbott, Silas Coddington, William Dunham, Patrick Duffy, Charles Wetzel, Susan A. Bright, Frederick L. Dealaman, Peter K. Dilts, E. M. French, M. J. Long, William Pasch, W. J. Buttfield, James Tappen, E. S. Hooley, Mabel B. Hooley, Lucy B. Hooley, Thomas B. Brooks, Charles W. McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield (five appeals).

A communication from former assessor E. M. French was filed by the board.

Lecture on Athens.

An illustrated lecture on "Athens and the Eleusinian Mysteries" will be given Monday night, December 14, at the First Baptist church, by L. V. F. Randolph, under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church. Mr. Randolph spent some time in Athens last winter, and also visited the site Elensis. His lecture will deal with both present day Athens and its life in ancient times. All of the Men's Clubs in the various churches of Plainfield and the members of the ancient history classes of the local high school are invited to attend.

Sesame Club Meeting.

The Sesame Club will meet with Mrs. Foster, 331 East Seventh street, on Thursday morning. The subject will be "Carlyle."

HOLD BURGLAR SUSPECT

Negro Arrested After Messerschmidt Shooting Fails to Clear Himself.

FINGER PRINTS POINT TO HIM.

Comparison of His Own With Those on Ballentyne Window Sill Shows a Sameness, Expert Declares.

John Jones, the negro captured by Patrolman McDonald yesterday morning, following the shooting of William Messerschmidt by a burglar, he grappled with at his home on Washington street, failed to stand up under Chief Kiely's quizzing as to his presence in this city. He was unable to give a good account of himself and this morning was arraigned before Judge Runyon on a technical charge of carrying concealed weapons, a revolver having been found in his coat pocket. He was held in $200 bail for the grand jury.

The finger prints on the window sill at George Ballentyne's residence where Messerschmidt boards, were photographed yesterday and Chief Kiely had them compared with those of Jones made by William Banker, who has charge of the Bertillion system at the Rahway reformatory. Mr. Banker declared that the two are identical. Messerschmidt stated that the man who shot him was white, but he might easily have been mistaken if Jones is his assailant, as the latter is very light in color. The hallway where the two men grappling was quite dark at the time and in his excitement it is not unusual that the victim gained a wrong impression.

Jones, who is twenty-nine years old, says he came from Williamsport, Pa., Sunday to visit Henry Alexander, of Cottage place, at present serving a term in jail for coal stealing. When he found that he was away he went to the home of a married woman friend, he says, and remained there until just before he was arrested at the depot. When the chief asked for the name of his friend so that she could be secured to corrobate his statement he refused to give it, saying that it would compromise her. He was warned that he was in a tight position and that she would be protected, but he steadfastly refused to give the information.

George Webb, the white man who was caught in the police dragnet, was released this morning, his statement to the police being satisfactory. He also claimed Williamsport as his home, but denied knowing Jones. He is a mechanic and said that he came here looking for work.

Messerschmidt is resting easily today. He was operated on this morning for the removal of the bullet. It entered the fleshy part of the left leg and took a downward course. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, the physician in charge, who removed the bullet, does not anticipate any complications.

N. P. H. S. ATHLETES USE DEBELE HALL FOR GYM.

The pupils of the North Plainfield High School now have a place for their gymnasite exercises, basketball practice, etc. The Board of Education has engaged Debele's Hall on Chatham street to be used for athletic purposes five afternoons and two evenings each week. Heretofore the basketbal teams have been handicapped by not having a place to practice. They will now have a hall for this purpose and also for holding inter-class contests.

At stated times boys and girls who are not members of any team will have the opportunity of free play.

George Webster, the tackle of Manual Training, will be the basketball coach for the boys. The coach for the girl's team has not yet been selected.

Will Study Agriculture.

William Jeffery, son of the Bungalow Man," from Berkeley Heights, and Peter J. Cooper, of this city, were among the large number of men who were enrolled at the State Agricultureal College for Short Courses at New Brunswick yesterday. This brings the total number up to fifty-nine, which exceeds any former registration by seventeen. Both Jeffery and Cooper will take up general agriculture.

Gave a Progressive Euchre Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, entertained a number of friends at their home last night at a progressive euchre party. At the conclusion of the play it was announced that Miss Minnie Rosinger and Prof. Townsend, superintendent of the Scotch Plains public schools, were the prize-winners. Refreshments and a social hour were then enjoyed.

BOROUGH TAXPAYERS MAKE A BIG KICK

Warm Time at County Board Hearing When Personalities are Exchanged.

ASSESSMENTS ARE UNJUST.

E. S. Hooley, N. R. Smalley and Others Give "Tart" Talks—Officials Make Answer.

The Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes held an open meeting in the North Plainfield council chambers, last night, for the purpose of having a full discussion of the recent increase in valuations throughout the borough. It was attended by a big crowd of citizens that included many of the best known and wealthiest residents of the district and the objection to the raise in assessments was most pronounced. Men like Edwin S. Hooley, William A. Cutfield, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Harold Serrell protested against the jump in tax values and called upon the board to make a material reduction. Plain speaking marked every step of the proceedings, former Mayor Newton R. Smalley, a member of the equalizing body, making the request in an introductory address that everyone give their views without mincing matters.

The full taxation board, composed of V. D. VanDoren, Steward Kenney and Mr. Smalley, presided over the session, with the former mayor acting as chairman because of his residence in North Plainfield. In opening the meeting he said it had been called for the purpose of getting the property owners' views on what he called an absurd raise in valuations and that he and his colleagues wanted everyone to be heard. He continued on to explain to a certain extent just how the valuations in North Plainfield had been almost doubled the last year while those in other parts of the county had not been increased in proportion. He spoke from the standpoint of a citizen who was decidedly opposed to the assessor's proceeding and continuing on said:

"The argument for this change is valuations came directly from Mayor Townsend and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed. They appeared before the county board and asked that it be done. The board disagreed declaring there were portions of the county taxed enough and that it was not seeking money that did not belong to it. However, that agitation has resulted in North Plainfield getting a far greater raise than any other municipality. The assessor should have been conservative last May if for no other reason than the general depression that existed throughout the country at that time. If the question of annexation has anything to do with it whatever, to my notion it would be a weak argument to have the county line changed with such a load hanging over us. The law says property must be assessed at its true value and what it could be sold at when the valuation is made. I doubt if ten per cent of the property in this borough could have been sold at its true value when the assessor made his rounds. And now I say again that the responsibility for this controversy in North Plainfield rests with those who started that agitation and they can't get away from it. Reed is the power behind the throne. The board is going to settle this matter according to its best judgment and will try to correct all evils so far as it lies in its power. We are open to suggestions, the good ones will be accepted and the bad ones cast aside."

Edwin S. Hooley took the floor immediately after the former mayor concluded speaking and his address was not only "plain" but full of "hot shot." He implied at the outset that the increase in valuations was a plan on the part of Mr. Reed to swing around the anti-annexationists and that those who opposed this measure in other years were the men who received the brunt of the raise.

"Did Saunders or Townsend get it?" he asked; "no, but Hooley and McCutchen did because Reed wants to swing them around. Assessor Cooley convicts himself by his own figures."

"At this juncture Mr. Hooley was interrupted by Mayor Townsend who stated that he explained his part in the agitation several times and that it was hardly necessary to go over it

BOOK SHOP WAS HUMAN

Unique Social Function at Which Prizes were Given Best Guessers.

PARK CLUB LIBRARY PARTY.

Mrs. Otis E. Hovey Highest Among Seventy-five Contestants—Decorations Attractive.

Probably one of the most unique social functions at the Park Club in several years, was the library party given Wednesday night. The affair was under the supervision of the entertainment committee, of which Harry L. McGee is the chairman, and a great many features were combined to arouse the interest of the large number of guests attending. Those present were requested to array array themselves to represent some noted book and the attractive auditorium at the club was arranged to represent "Ye Olde Booke Shoppe."

There were about seventy-five books listed and these were represented by the guests. The difficulty was to guess the name of the book. The entrance to the large hall was arranged like a library, through the use of rugs, lamps, tapestry, etc. kindly furnished by Shirley & Johnston, while the stage depicted an old book shop, comprising old-fashioned bookcases, the oldest volumes possible to obtain, maps, an old stove, and other things to make the picture complete.

While the decorations were attractive, the greatest interested was centred in the prizes to be represented the best known books and the work of guessing the names of the authors enthused everyone. It was announced that two prizes would be given, the first to the one guessing the greatest number of authors correctly and the one guessing the one coming nearest to that number. The first prize was presented to Mrs. Otis E. Hovey, it being Macaulay's History of England, and Mrs. Frank W. French received the second prize, George Barr McCutcheon's latest book, "The Man from Brodneys." Mrs. Hovey had thirty-nine correct guesses and Mrs. French thirty-eight.

Among some of the best representations were the following:

"The French Revolution," C. G. E. Larsson; "Poems," by Lowell, Henry A. McGee; "Old Furniture Book," Mrs. Josephus H. Howell; "Uncle William," August Kleinecke; "The Lady of the Decoration," Mrs. Everett Murray; "The Newcombs," A. M. Abbott; "Nicholas Nickelby," Dr. F. W. French; "The Pioneers," Edward T. Wilson. Other books represented were "The Choir Invisible," "The Virginian," "Lavendar and Old Lace," and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

Another feature of the affair was the dance order. Instead of the usual way of designating the dances, the names of well-known authors were used. Throughout the evening dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by Muller, of Brooklyn.

The patronesses for the event were Mrs. Otis E. Hovey, Mrs. V. VanD. Hedges, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. August Kleinecke and Mrs. Frank Harrington, of the entertainment committee comprises Harry L. McGee, chairman; Mrs. Harry L. McGee, Miss Louise Saunders, Miss Verna McCutcheon, Dr. and Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Hugh Jarvis and Vaughn McGee.

N. P. High School Class Supper.

The senior class of the North Plainfield High School gave a supper Wednesday night at which members of the faculty were entertained. The tables were laid in the drawing class room of the school building. There were dancing and games in the kindergarten room.

Those in the faculty present were Superintendent H. C. Krebs, Principal B. J. Phelps, R. Kieffer, Miss Helen Stahlberger and Miss Phoebe Walker. The committee in charge of the arrangements were Misses Ruth Day, Elsa Brose, Florence Fowler, Jennie Nelson and Elvira Hoerster.

ABRAM B. KING WEDS

MISS GRACE JOHNSON.

Miss Grace T. Johnson, of Duer street, and Abram Bryant King, of Chatham street, were married Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, performing the ceremony at the parsonage. The only attendants were Miss Josephine Eoff and John J. King, daughters of the groom. The couple will continue to reside in the borough.

The groom is a well-known citizen, being in the employ of a local life insurance company. He is also a member of Winfield Scott Post No. 73, G. A. R. The bride has also been a resident of the borough for many years. She is a member of the First Baptist church.

The D. & I. Co. Dissolved.

The D. & I. Company, of which F. T. Ostrom is the agent, has been given a certificate of dissolution by Secretary of State S. D. Dickinson. DeWitt C. Ivins was one of the largest stockholders of the concern.

SEASON'S FINAL EVENT AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The final schedule event of the season at the Plainfield Country Club was the cross-country golf tournament Thursday morning. There was quite an entry list and in all twenty-four contestants engaged in the competition. The course was two rounds of seven selected holes, making a total distance to be covered of 7,600 yards, or more than a straight eighteen holes. The prescribed course is as follows:

12th tee to 15th green by way of 14th hole, 16th tee to 17th green 18th teet to 3d green, 10th teet to 18th green, in front of the clubhouse to 11th green, 12th tee to 7th green and 6th tee to 12th green. It was a foursome event and C. B. Morgan and Will T. Glenney will be set scratch of 75 were the winners. J. Whitney Baker and R. S. Rowland with a 77 finished second, while Dudley H. Barrows and W. Lester Glenney came in third with a 78. Their scores are as follows:

C. B. Morgan and Will T. Glenney, 81, 6-75; J. Whitney Baker and R. S. Rowland, 83, 6-77; Dudley H. Barrows and W. Lester Glenney, 82, 4-78.

BROKEN LIMB ADDED TO ULLMAN'S TROUBLES

Harry Ullman, a dry goods dealer living on West Third street, can corroborate Shakespeare in his assertion that "when misfortunes come, they come not single spies but in battalions." He was to have appeared in the city court, Saturday, to answer a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by his wife but he had a very good reason for not showing up. His horse ran away with him on Rahway road, near Woodland avenue, late Friday afternoon and Ullman is now in Muhlenberg Hospital with a broken leg. The case was indefinitely postponed.

The runaway occured as Ullman was driving into town, his horse taking fright at something, along the road. The animal ran at breakneck speed into Woodland avenue and opposite H. L. Hall's home the driver was thrown from his seat, landing near the curbing. He remained on the ground helpless and was picked up by Mr. Hall's workman, Lewis Booker, who hurried to the scene of the misbaance. Ullman was in great pain and beside moaning about his hard luck, screamed lustily all the way to the hospital. He was resting easily today.

The runaway horse was captured by Patrolman Dobson before it wrecked the wagon and its load of dry goods.

Ullman's wife has a pulmonary trouble and only recently returned from the Adirondacks where she was undergoing treatment. The couple have had numerous grievances and the husband's attitude has been specially aggressive because of interference on the part of his father-in-law.

JURY FINDS WOMAN TO BE OF UNSOUND MIND

Miss Mary A. Vail, alleged to be of unsound mind, was Friday adjudged to be so by a commission in lunacy and a jury of twelve men. The action was the result of a petition filed by sister, Miss Althea Vail, who asked that a commission be appointed for that purpose as the latter owns property and nothing could be done with it under the circumstances.

The Court of Chancery directed John H. VanWinkle as chief commissioner, with Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow and Floyd Woodhull as associates to inquire as to the mental condition of Miss Vail. The commissioners met yesterday afternoon in the district court, where a jury of twelve men were convened by Sheriff Robert Kirkland. Dr. Evans, of the State Hospital, Morris Plains, was the chief witness, and after hearing the testimony in the case, the commissioners and jury signed the inquisition and Miss Vail was found to be of unsound mind as alleged in the petition.

The jury was comprised of the following: B. Frank Coriell, J. Fred MacDonald, Harry B. MacDonald, Henry Leifke, James F. Buckle, J. P. Lalor, Charles W. Eoff, John J. Kenney, George T. Raymond, Jr. Jacob Schreiner, Freeholder J. Herves Doane and James C. Pope. Nelson and William N. Runyon are the solicitors of the petition.

Family Gathering at "The Gables."

Among the pleasant Thanksgiving Day events was the family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, "The Gables," where sixteen members of the family sat down to dinner. The affair was all the more enjoyable by reason of the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shepard, formerly of Madison, Wis., but now of Philadelphia, were there. The only absent ones were Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Bright, who are sojourning in North Carolina.

NAVAL RESERVES 24, AND LOCAL Y.M.C.A., 53

A one-sided game of basketball was played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Thursday afternoon when the local five defeated an association league team, the Naval Reserves, of Brooklyn, by the score of 53 to 21.

The visitors were not able to break up the team work of the locals, which has much improved since their last game. Finding themselves unable to score by clean playing the Reserves resorted to roughness and were repeatedly penalized for that kind of work. On one occasion when the referee charged them with a foul, their captain began using abusive language and was charged with another foul. That did not stop him, however, for he persisted in talking until a fourth foul had been counted against him. Then the referee warned him that he would stop the game. Plainfield, however, failed in all five attempts to shoot goal.

All of the local players were in good form and did fine work, except in shooting goals from the fouls. Every seat was taken in the spectators' gallery and many were standing.

The line-up:

PLAINFIELD.		RESERVES.
Loizeaux		Birch
	left field.
Gilmore		Evans
	right field.
Endicott		Vogt
	centre.
Miner		Carrigan
	right guard.
Rumsey; Cahoone		Schmidt
	left guard.

Goals from field: Plainfield, Loizeaux, 8; Gilmore, 2; Endicott, 3; Rumsey, 3; Miner, 6; Cahoone, 1. Naval Reserves: Evans, 2; Birch, 2; Carrigan, 6. Goals from fouls: Plainfield, Gilmore, 2; Miner, 1; Cahoone, 1.

Referee, C. B. Morse.

The Y. M. C. A. second team won from the Business Men, 22 to 21. It was closely contested. Both teams played well, showing good team work. Doane and Clarke, of the Business Men did especially well in shooting.

The line-up:

Rockwell		Clark, Runyon
	left forward.
Templin		Doane
	right forward.
Joseph		Dunning
	centre.
Hoagland		Jarvis
	right guard.
Mackey		Spicer

HOLY CROSS NO MATCH FOR N. P. H. S. ELEVEN

Greatly to the disappointment of the supporters and admirers of the Holy Cross Club football eleven, it went down in defeat on the Cricket Field, Thursday morning. North Plainfield High School taking the game by the score of 22 to 0. Team for team the church boys were outweighed about ten pounds and this fact combined with straight football on the part of the school boys brought them victory. They made use of very few tricks. Both teams received good support from the sidelines and were cheered to the echo. The church boys made a good fight, but proved unequal to the strong game put up by their opponents.

The best playing for N. P. H. S. was done by Conroy, Webster, C. Smith and the spectacular feature was Parson's fifty yard run. Smith made the four touchdowns, two in the first half and two in the second kicking goal in the first half, and the second in the second half. Sharrots was the only player injured, but it is expected that he will be in condition for tomorrow's contest with P. H. S. on Hope Common.

The line-up:

N. P. H. S.—Left end, Webster; left tackle, H. Smith; left guard, Steiner, Adams; centre, Powlison; right guard, Zeglio, Lee; right tackle, Becker; right end, Dunning, A. Overton and Bailey; quarterback, Conroy; left halfback, Tone Overton; fullback, C. Smith; right halfback, Parson. Holy Cross—Left end, Coyle, Harriman; left tackle, Stein; right guard, Blazier; centre, Lindsay; right guard, Mosher, I. Vail and Firstbrook; right tackle, Sinclair; right end, Sharrots, Mosher and Hughes; quarterback, R. Vail; left halfback, Ira Vail, Mosher; fullback, Nash; right halfback, Williams.

Halves—20 and 20. Timers—Woodhull and Phelps. Referee—Best. Umpire—Phillips. Linesmen—Roberts and Abrams.

L. V. F. Randolph's Property.

In a recent article concerning real estate improvements, reference was made to two new houses on Second street, just above Berkman street, as belonging to Mrs. A. F. Randolph. They belong to L. V. F. Randolph, for whom they have just been completed by J. Abbett & Son, and are advertised for rent in another column. They are of unique construction and stand opposite Mr. Randolph's garden.

CITY'S BONDS COME HIGH

Two Bond Issues, Aggregating $46,000, Are Sold at $1,516.16 Premium.

EIGHTEEN BIDDERS IN ALL

Moffett & White, of New York, Are Successful Bidders—Firm Offered $103,296.

The entire issue of bonds, $15,000 on account of the proposed new fire house in the East End, and $31,000 on account of the brick pavement, were sold by the Common Council Friday night, to Moffett & White, of New York. The combined bid of 103,296 being the highest and most advantageous. The price is considered an excellent one. In all there were eighteen bids for the bonds and the finance committee offered a resolution, which was adopted, awarding the bonds to Moffett & White, and returning the certified checks of the other bidders.

The list of bids follows:

Kountze Brothers, New York, $47,002.80 for all on one; fire, $15,327; street, $31,675.80; Moffett & White, New York, fire, $15,498.40; street, $32,021.76; J. D. Everett & Co., New York, fire, $15,349.50; street, $31,-815.30; Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, fire, $21,940.32; O'Connor & Kahler, New York, fire, $15,402; street, $31,892.80; R. Irving Outwater, Jersey City, street, $31,900; J. S. Rippel, New York, fire, $15,404.85; street, $31,876.55; R. M. Grant & Co., New York, fire, $15,-304.50; street, $31,654.10; Farson Son & Co., New York, fire, $15,369; street, $31,806; H. L. Crawford & Co., New York, fire, $15,402.45; street, $31,831.73; Plainfield Trust Company, $15,305; street, $31,695; City National Bank, fire, $15,254.95; street, $31,539.55.

The bonds are 4 1-2 per cent. interest, bearing date from date of delivery to the Columbia Trust Company, of New York or City Treasurer W. F. Arnold. The fire house bonds are to run for ten years, while the others will be retired from year to year, as in the case of previous issues. Both issues date from December 1, 1908.

TO PLACE ILLUMINATED CLOCK ON FRONT STREET

The question of granting the petition of Charles P. Soering and Leo Slonim to erect a handsome ornamental clock on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Slonim's jewelry store on West Front street, caused considerable discussion at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last Friday. Mr. Gloak, as chairman of the street committee, and who has had the matter in charge, moved that the petition be granted. He explained that the clock is to be a costly one, keeping accurate time and the faces are to be illuminated at night.

Having previously talked with Mr. Slonim regarding the proposition, Mr. Buxton stated that the jeweler had agreed to keep the town clock in good running order during 1909 for the privilege of erecting his clock and he thought it would be wise to grant the petition. Mr. Slonim agreed to the proposition, but President Tolles, who was against granting the petition, explained that that was too much in the nature of a bribe and he did not favor the suggestion. He said that the aim of the street committee had been to clear the streets of all obstructions and he could not conscientiously vote for the petition. The idea that the privilege was to be a perpetual one was not to the liking of Mr. Hibbard and he believed that the Council should have the right to revoke it, at will. Mr. Taylor was inclined to be of the same opinion, as was also Mr. Suydam. Mr. Montgomery expressed the belief that the privileges could be revoked without any trouble.

The privilege of the floor being granted, T. J. Meaney, of this city, who is connected with the Howard Clock Company, the concern that will furnish the timepiece, stated that it was proposed to place a clock in each city that are being put in all the big cities of the country. The design selected called for a twenty-four inch square base of iron the same to be from twelve to fourteen feet in height. The only advertising on it will be the name of Mr. Slonim in keeping with the suggestion. He said that this style of clock is considered an ornament and will be guaranteed to keep accurate time, which he believed would be a benefit to the citizens, especially commuters.

After a lengthy argument pro and con, Mr. Gloak instructed City Counsel Collins on his motion granting the petition, eliminating the provision that Mr. Slonim keep the town clock in repair. This amendment was cut out of the resolution and the original proposition was adopted, Councilmen Buxton, Gloak, Hall, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and Suydam voting in favor, while Councilmen Hibbard, Mygatt, Taylor and Tolles voted in the negative.

'BUNGALOW' FURNISHINGS

After Lively Debate, City Fathers Allow $800 for Fixing Up Headquarters.

MR. MYGATT'S OPPOSITION.

Third Ward Member Prevents Too Hasty Action—How Money is to be Spent.

Every step in the course of erecting the new police headquarters' building has been met with some difficulty, and it was not any great surprise when at the meeting of the Common Council, Friday night, there was a protest against appropriating $800, with which to furnish the building. The trouble began when Mr. Buxton, as chairman of the finance committee, attempted to secure the adoption of a resolution calling for an appropriation for the purpose.

Mr. Mygatt raised a point of order, claiming that the matter had not been before the finance committee and that the resolution had not come up in the proper order. This brought out the fact that Mr. Buxton was presenting it for Mr. Randolph, chairman of the police committee, who desired that the finance committee should take care of it. Mr. Mygatt did not object altogether to the appropriation, but the way in which it was brought before the members. The opposition nettled Mr. Buxton and he refused to withdraw it, explaining that the members could kill the resolution if they wanted to but he would insist on a vote.

Appealing to the chair for a decision on the point of order, President Tolles ruled against Mr. Mygatt. Mr. Buxton declared that he was presenting the resolution as a member of the Council and not as chairman of the finance committee. Then Mr. Mygatt moved to amend that the resolution be referred to the finance committee. The amendment was carried.

After this set back, Mr. Buxton was plainly discomfited, and in a spirit of disgust he moved that the Council take a recess for one hour. This brought forth a storm of protests, especially on the part of Mr. Mygatt, who stated that he objected to having the Council held up in that way. If it was the intention of Mr. Buxton to take a recess simply to hold a finance committee meeting he would oppose the motion.

"I have always been willing to give my time freely to the city's work," continued Mr. Mygatt, "but I do not propose to give my consent to such action as proposed. I want time to consider the expenditure of $800 and it cannot be done even in ten minutes. There has been plenty of time to hold committee meetings to discuss this matter, and I cannot see why it should be brought up in this late day and then rushed through. I will refuse to attend a committee meeting at this time."

The motion for an hour's recess offered by Mr. Buxton was finally withdrawn and Mr. Suydam substituted one for a fifteen minute recess. This was lost, Councilmen Buxton, Gloak, Frank Randolph and Suydam voting for it and Councilmen Hibbard, Hall, Montgomery, Mygatt, C. C. Randolph, Taylor and Tolles opposing the motion.

The resolution was returned to the police committee, of which Chairman Frank Randolph, of that body, presented it, after which it was referred to the finance committee.

There was further discussion when Councilman Charles C. Randolph stated that the new building would have to be furnished, no matter whether the money was appropriated from the general, police or any other fund and he favored action at once.

At this point Mayor Fisk was asked to explain the situation. He said that the original appropriation for the building, land, etc., was $39,000, but it was found that the land compelled the Council to appropriate the exact amount for land and building, exclusive of grading, cement work, furnishings, etc. Then $25,500 was named at that required for buildings and land. Later $1,850 was appropriated for grading, walks, etc., and now $800 is required for furnishings.

He then enumerated the furnishings required. These include a sergeant's desk, one for the court room, both to cost $175, four for the chief to cost $45, another for the judge's room, at $42, chairs for these rooms at a cost of $7 each, twelve other chairs at a total of $72, tables for the reporters and lawyers, at $10 each, rugs at $15 each, making a total of about $400. Then in addition there would be a expense of thirty lockers at $240, settees, shades, etc., all of which will bring the total up to about $750. It was further stated that it is the desire to take possession of the building complete about January 1.

Mr. Mygatt asked whether competitive bids had been received for the furnishings. Mr. Randolph said that the architect, Evarts Tracy, had obtained the bids named, but that others were expected by December 1. Mr. Mygatt expressed the belief that Mr. Tracy's figures were outside ones and that better prices could be obtained. Mr. Montgomery concurred with Mr. Mygatt by adding that those who knew Mr. Tracy's artistic taste might expect that the prices for furnishings would be fancy.

"I suppose Mr. Tracy has gone to one of the nice furnitire houses," said Mr. Mygatt, "and obtained an outside figure on the furniture. Naturally, the expense would be greater."

Mr. Suydam, who said that he was formerly in the furniture business, declared that better prices are obtainable and he believed that through competition the expense would be much less. There was a general protest on the part of Mr. Mygatt and others against paying fancy prices and this will probably lead to competition.

On the final vote to appropriate the $800, all of the members voted in favor, except Mr. Mygatt. It was afterward explained that arrangements may be made to get the money from the general fund.

SEEKS DAMAGES FROM CITY FOR HIS INJURIES

Charging neglect on the part of city employes in leaving a large piece of dirt directly opposite the driveway to his residence on Kensington avenue, which caused his horse to fall and inflicting injuries to himself, Hugh Gormley, commonly called "Hughie," addressed the Common Council Friday, seeking a settlement for injuries to himself and his horse. He claimed that while going out on horseback recently, his horse stumbled over the dirt, throwing the animal and himself. He further claimed that the horse which was capable of earning him $5 a day, was about ruined and would not be engaged by any of his patrons, while he had been suffering from a lame back since the accident. He requested the Council to consult with him before completing the matter in the hands of a lawyer. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Five special patrolmen, who have been doing regular duty for some time, were appointed regulars by Mayor Fisk. The appointments were confirmed. Those named are John Payne, Daniel McDonald, Frank Sweeney, Thomas Flatley and Richard Birmingham. They have been serving from 1905 to date as specials and the appointments were upon the recommendation of the police board.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, provided for the application to the courts on December 9, for the appointment of commissioners to assess benefits and damages in relation to the improvement of certain streets, now completed. Mr. Suydam protested against the action on the ground that both Clinton avenue and West Third street are not in good condition. It was explained, however, that the appointment of the commissioners was merely for the purpose of arriving at the cost of the work and if the work in any case was not properly done, the contractor would be held responsible and would be expected to make it right.

Samuel E. Miller's Funeral.

The funeral of Samuel E. Miller was held Friday afternoon at his late home on East Third street. The service was conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and the attendance included delegations from Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., and the Exempt Firemen's Association. Interment was made at Hillside where the Pythian burial service was conducted by Past Chancellor V. W. Nash, Jr. The pall bearers were from Perseverance lodge and were Asa D. Mosher, Morgan Mason, Manning, F. Gano, Cyrus P. Boice, Thomas Osment and Edward Bowman.

CHARITY ENTERTAINMENT FOR WOMEN'S EXCHANGE.

Under the auspices of the Women's Exchange an entertainment and sale will be held at Hartridge School auditorium, Thursday and Friday afternoon and evening, December 3 and 4. Thursday afternoon Ducrot, the magician, together with a Punch and Judy show, will be the attractions. In the evening Miss Louise Saunders will give original monologues.

Friday afternoon and evening Robinson's moving pictures will be seen. Mrs. Henry L. Hall will be in charge.

HANNAH ELIAS' FRIEND JOHN R. PLATT, DEAD.

John R. Platt, of New York, the retired glass manufacturer who four years ago gainly sued Hannah Elias in the Supreme Court of New York to recover $685,385, money which he alleged he had loaned her during his acquaintance he became acquainted with her in 1896, died Thursday at the home of his daughter, 139 West Seventieth street, New York, in his eighty-ninth year. Mr. Platt was a widower, but left two married daughters.

His father, the late Isaac Platt, at one time resided in East Front street, this city.

FAMILY STRICKEN AGAIN

Frederick Gray's Death Follows That of His Brother a Month Ago.

BOTH VICTIMS OF TYPHOID.

Mother Still Combatting the Disease at Muhlenberg Hospital and Can't Be Told of her Bereavement.

Following an illness of nearly two months, Frederick B. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gray, of West Front street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital at 5:30 this morning, the second member of the family to fall a victim to typhoid fever within a short time. Just one month ago an older brother, Walter Gray, succumbed to the disease after fighting against it for three weeks, and it was thought then that Fred would recover. He seemed to gain strength steadily and was practically out of danger when a relapse came last week and an operation was performed. He failed to rally though consciousness remained until the end. He was eighteen years of age.

The circumstances surrounding the death of the two sons are especially sad from the fact that the mother has also been ill with typhoid and is still a patient at Muhlenberg. She was unable to see either of her boys in their last moments and Walter was buried before she knew of his demise. Her condition today has not warranted the telling of the second bereavement.

Both boys were extremely popular in the city and borough and Fred especially so because of his membership in associations. He was president of the Holy Cross Boys' Club and belonged to the First Presbyterian church. He was a senior at the Plainfield High School and no pupil in any of the classes was better liked. Possessed of a fund of youthful enthusiasm he was fond of athletics and was prominent in the events of both the Holy Cross boys and the P. H. S. In respect to his memory, the football game between the juniors of the two, scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The young man realized that his end was near, early last night, and informed Rev. George A. Warner, who was with him until the last, that he was prepared to go. His sister, Miss Freda Gray, was also at his bedside and to both he requested that "good byes" be conveyed to all his friends. He had lived a Christian life and his last words were of patient submission to the Master's will and the whispered message that he was ready to go.

Besides his parents, the sister, Miss Freda, is the only surviving relative. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring and Rev. George A. Warner will officiate.

ARRANGE TO EXTEND KENSINGTON AVENUE

When the ordinance providing for the opening of Kensington avenue, from Prospect avenue to Park avenue and Randolph road, was called up on its third reading at the meeting of the Common Council Friday night, by Mr. Gloak, some of the members, including Mr. Hall and Mr. Buxton, objected to the hasty action. It was recalled that there had been objection to the improvement at the time of the public hearing, but this it was alleged was a personal matter on the part of those who spoke against the adoption of the ordinance.

Mr. Gloak said that the ordinance simply called for the opening of the avenue, not macadamizing, and as it had been before the Council for several years he believed it should be adopted. He added that the late Stephen A. Dunn had favored the ideas also his son, Daniel F. Gunn, who, while a member of the Council strived to have the improvement made. In response to a question, City Engineer Gavett explained that the distance to be opened extended over one thousand feet and that he understood that while Ernest A. Sharpe, an affected property-owner, was willing to donate land for the opening he was not willing to pay much in the way of an assessment for benefits.

After the matter was pretty thoroughly threshed out, the ordinance was finally passed on the third reading all the members voting in favor of it, although when the first vote was taken, through an error, Mr. Buxton voted in the negative.

Lewis R. Bird a Benedict.

Lewis R. Bird, son of Lewis M. Bird, of Summit avenue, and Miss Bessie R. MacCallum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacCallum, of 817 Richmond street, were married at 5:30 o'clock last night by Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver at his home on Fairview avenue. The couple was unattended. They will reside in the borough. Mr. and Mrs. Bird have many friends in the city and borough.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 6, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Commending our society.—Vi. By consistent living.—Isa. iii, 10-15. Consecration meeting.

Profession without possession is a fashion in religion as well as in every other relation in life. The man who professes to be a Christian and whose life is inconsistent does intolerable harm both to himself and to others. He harms himself, for if the counterfeit is of any value to him the reality would be of much greater value, and when it comes to religion God's grace is free and accessible to all, and it is even easier to be a true Christian than a false professor of religion. The inconsistent Christian also harms others. There is perhaps no greater stumbling block in the way of unsaved men who really want to be saved than the inconsistencies of the many who profess to be Christians. It should not be so, but nevertheless it is. Who would judge a physician by a patient who only pretended to take his medicine, but really did not do so? Who would judge a lawyer by a client who only pretended to follow the counsel he had given? Why should men, then, judge Christianity on a different basis? Look at the Christ, who was sinless! Behold the multitudes of Christians who in spite of all the temptations of life do possess the Christ spirit and live a consistent Christian life! If men would do this they would be dealing honestly with Christianity, judging it by the real coin tested of by the consistent. But the inconsistency is not in the church. Inconsistent judgment is no better than an inconsistent life, and yet many will doubt or deny the power of real Christianity because they know some inconsistent Christians, not realizing their own inconsistency in so doing.

After all, though, consistent Christian living is invaluable. It is invaluable to ourselves. If we do not live up to what we confess, it is absolute proof that our confession is false. If consciously and knowingly we engage in a sinful life, we must know in our own hearts that we have only the form and not the power of religion. But what is the form without the reality? What is the shadow without the substance? For our own sakes let us examine ourselves and see if by a changed life we can prove that our hearts have been really changed by the power of the Holy Ghost. James well says that a sweet fountain cannot send forth bitter water, nor a fig tree bear olives, nor a grapevine figs.

A consistent Christian life on the part of professing Christians is invaluable to all with whom we come in contact in life. Men may not read the Bible, but they read it. They may not know little about Christ first hand, but they will get their conceptions of Him through us. "We are living epistles, known and read of all men." And what do they read in us, in our daily life, and speech, and actions? Do they read that we "have been with Jesus," or do they read a misrepresentation of Christ that keeps them from finding the real Christ?

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xxii, 1; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Isa. i, 1-4; Matt. vi, 1-8; vii, 1-5; John iv, 24; Acts ii, 43-47; Matt. vii, 15-20; II Cor. iii, 1-6.

Our Missions to the Young.

Christian Endeavor has a mission, a many sided mission, to the young people of America and of the world. One prominent feature in that mission is its educational value. The ancient Greek idea of education was to produce a man of wisdom and a man of action, and Christian Endeavor is doing both. Phoenix says of the education of Achilles:

In all this I was set by him to instruct And form to speak and act.

That thou mightst speak when speech was fit and do what should be done, Not sit as dumb for want of words, idle for skill to move.

Now, no modern institution has done so much as Christian Endeavor for developing the power of speech "when speech is fit" nor for organizing activity in all spheres of life. A new vision of utility is forming itself for us in our civic relationships, and the Patriots' league is as a cloud the size of a man's hand, destined to grow, however, until the whole sky be covered.

Christian Endeavor is going to write this ideal upon the hearts of its 4,000,000 members and in a decade or two will help to flood the country and fill the polling booths with men—and women, for their suffrage is coming—that will grant and do justice with all the energy and strength of Christian righteousness and fair play and brotherhood.—Ripple in Christian Endeavor World.

He Said "Can."

Secretary Hubbell in the Ohio Endeavorer gives the following account of an Endeavorer that "gingered up."

A short time since a young person named Davis took charge of the Hopeben Congregational church. The Endeavor society numbered ten and was unanimously feminine. Some folks said "You can't." Mr. Davis sized up, but did not give up, the situation. He did not say "can" or "You can," but he did say "We can!"

And they can-ned so optimistically that they have secured forty new members, twenty-five of them young men. In the lives of some a radical transformation has taken place. The faithful pastor is rewarded by an active society of fifty, and they are after twenty-five more members.

Peruse ye postscript preachment: "It never pays to give up. It always pays to 'ginger up.'"

Gives Edge.

The pledge gives edge to Endeavoring.—Christian Endeavor World.

On motion of Freeholder Cady the three foregoing communications were received and placed on file.

Also, the City Clerk of Rahway, as follows:

October 26, 1908.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—At a meeting of the Common Council of the city of Rahway held on the 19th inst. the following action was taken: "On motion of Mr. Trembley it was directed that this Common Council request the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders to construct wing walls at the new Church street and Plainfield avenue bridges; the same being necessary at the new Church street in order that the city may fill in dirt to continue the approach as constructed on the bridge in order to prevent a washout to the damage of the bridge."

Very respectfully yours,

CHARLES H. LAMBERT,

City Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Stephan received and referred to the two committees heretofore appointed on said bridges.

From the Linden Township Committee as follows:

Resolution introduced by John E. Tucker:

Linden, N. J., Oct. 21, 1908.

Whereas, Edgar road, running through Linden township, and the city of Rahway to the city of Elizabeth, is a much used and traveled highway, and forms a very important connecting roadway between these cities, and is one of the principal roadways in the township of Linden, and

Whereas, It is the desire of the property-owners along Edgar road, *and of the residents and property-*owners of Linden generally and also the desire of this committee, that Edgar road be improved by the county of Union and added to the present county road system, be it

Resolved, That this committee hereby requests the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders to adopt Edgar road through Linden township, from Rahway to Elizabeth, as a State aid road, and to improve the said road as provided in the State aid road laws, for its length of about three and one-quarter miles.

Adopted at a meeting of the Township Committee of the township of Linden held on October 21, 1908.

JOHN P. WINANS,

Chairman.

Reports of Committees.

By the Jail Committee:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Jail Inspection respectfully reports that it has inspected the jail and also the books of the warden. We find the total number of prisoners committed during the month of October, 1908, to be 108. Number of prisoners in jail November 1, 58. Daily average, 63. Treated by physician, 11.

We would also call your attention to the fact that from time to time inmate patients are brought to the jail, and there confined until examined by the physician. The law demands an examination by the jail physician, who must call an associate or consulting physician to assist in the examination. This service is made for the compensation of the associate; we would therefore respectfully recommend that the board fix a stated sum to be paid for all such services hereafter rendered.

Respectfully submitted,

E. K. ADAMS,

J. HERVEY DOANE,

J. LOGAN FAY,

Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and referred to the Committee Jail Inspection and the County Attorney.

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL WELCOMES PASTOR BROEK

The Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church extended a hearty welcome to the new pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, at the session Sunday afternoon. The attendance was large, being equal to that on rally day. Superintendent F. E. Smith planned a welcome for Mr. Broek from each department, those speaking for them being as follows:

Beginners, Master Carman Trembath; primary, Mrs. J. M. Tier; junior department, Miss Mabel Wilson; intermediate department, Charles M. Dolliver; Bible classes, Robert A. Meeker; officers, Superintendent F. E. Smith. Each one expressed in few words the pleasure in welcoming the new pastor and the desire to cooperate with him in the work of the church.

Mr. Broek made an appropriate response, expressing the hope that his pastorate would be a pleasant one, and that the church would continue to grow and be an influence for great good in the community. He said that he expected every pupil of the school to be present each Sunday, that he intends to visit each department, and if there are any absent ones he will know it. He impressed everyone favorably by his words and the great interest he displayed in the Sunday-school. Several scholars were so deeply impressed with Mr. Broek's words that it is quite likely that they may soon unite with the church.

BIG HOLIDAY SHOW.

New Being Made at Hahne & Co.'s Mammoth Emporium.

For the fifty-first time in its history the great Hahne & Co. store makes a magnificent holiday display, the present one being, doubtless, greater than any that has preceded it, because of more thorough organization, more complete stocks and greater variety. With many notable achievements in the way of man displays to guide by, the great Broad street emporium has endeavored this year to surpass itself. That it has done so will likely be conceded by the most critical. Hundreds of thousands of people will visit this store between now and Christmas. People flock here from towns within a radius of fifty miles. The Hahne & Co. establishment is so fully abreast of metropolitan methods that few New Jersey folks find it necessary to go to New York to do holiday shopping. With its fields of furniture, its upholstery stock, its showing of Oriental and domestic rugs, its toy store, its wearing apparel department, its jewelry and silverware store, its candy store, and its basement full of art wares, chinaware, cut glass and household utensils, and its splendid grocery store, the Hahne & Co. establishment brings to the people of New Jersey practically everything in a gift store that could be thought of. Stocks now are at their very best, and no one can profit by delay in purchasing. Santa Claus will be at the big store every day now until Christmas, and will distribute toys free to his little visitors. The children are invited to write letters to Santa Claus telling him what they want.

Shiloh Baptist Church Rally.

The members of the Shiloh Baptist church, colored, have just concluded a successful rally for the building fund. Through their efforts a total of $458.71 has been raised and there are many envelopes yet to be heard from. Several checks have been received from white friends of the church. The amounts raised by the different teams follow: No. 1, Archie Jones, $14; No. 2, A. S. Venable, $116.80; No. 3, John Stewart, $6.50; No. 4, William Burton, $84; No. 5, Charles Irby, $11; No. 7, William Phillips, $4; No. 8, J. C. Lumpkins, $8; No. 9, R. B. Randolph, $28.15; No. 10, William Jeffery, $4.15; Archie O. Campbell, $13.10; No. 12, Howard Benn, $22; table collection, $12.67; harvest home, $126.85; grand total, $458.71. Rev. M. A. Alexander is the pastor.

Good Music at Men's Meeting.

A dramatic and singing recital by Miss Charlie Runals took the place of the usual speaking at the Men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall Sunday afternoon. The attendance was large. Miss Runals sang beautifully and her narrations, taken from Ralph Connor's novel, "Black Rock," were much enjoyed. She was accompanied with the piano by Miss Marian Poole.

Thomas Hendry Improved.

Thomas Hendry, of West Fourth street, who has been seriously ill with blood poisoning of the knee for the past two weeks, is greatly improved today and is resting easily at his home. It was due to prompt medical aid on the part of Dr. P. B. Cregar that Mr. Hendry was saved from an operation.

JUNIORS HEAR SERMON

Rev. Dr. Chamblies Delivers Powerful Discourse to Four Local Councils.

ON "CHRISTIAN TRAINING."

"Two Boys—Two Men," Pastor's Theme, Thoughts on Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Members of Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., to the number of about two hundred, attended divine services at the First Baptist church, Sunday, according to the annual custom. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblies, the pastor, preached a strong and impressive sermon for the occasion, some of his chief thoughts being taken from President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving proclamation.

Before beginning his sermon which was on the topic, "Two Boys —Two Men," Dr. Chamblies spoke briefly of the principles of the Jr. O. U. A. M., which he said he understood to be the development of the highest ideals in American citizenship, worthy in every respect with such a great country to preserve and protect.

Dr. Chamblies gave an impressive and interesting talk concerning the lives of Esau and his brother, Jacob, showing how the former loved to hunt, fish and roam the fields, while Jacob preferred to remain at home and tend the sheep. He then traced their lives from boyhood to manhood, when Esau returned from a hunting trip, tired out and hungry, Jacob had prepared a large dish of pottage and his brother wanted some of it. Then the latter saw his opportunity and agreed to give his brother something to eat if he would sell his birthright to him. It was quickly agreed to and Esau got his mess of pottage.

"Many a man sells his birthright these days for a mess of pottage," said Dr. Chamblies, "only they do so in a different way, such as over the gaming table, the wine cup and in other dangerous practices. This cannot develop the highest Christian citizenship and it is the duty of every man to follow the teachings of Christ and thus become useful citizens. We learn that Esau was of an athletic turn, and we must agree with our President that this side of man should be developed, but the moral and religious side must not be neglected, for it is in this way that the whole nature of man is made perfect."

The preacher presented many strong arguments to show the duty and result of Christian training, which must affect the whole character of the nation and make it just what God intended that it should be. The service closed with the singing of "America."

For Embroiderers.

Many clever amateur needle women would design and mark their own linen, but do not know how to transfer patterns or make the transfer powder. Here is a suggestion:

Take a teaspoonful of talcum powder and add to it finely powdered rosin, about one fourth of a teaspoonful. It can be pounded to a powder with a small hammer. Mix the two and apply to the paper pattern with an old powder puff or soft piece of flannel; rub the powder off the pattern, place a clean cloth upon the paper and press with an iron. The design will be a perfect white outline. Charcoal and rosin make a suitable powder for white or light fabrics.

Standard Oil Company Takes Title.

The Standard Oil Company took title Saturday to the large tract at South Elizabeth which was formerly the Linden racetrack, thus completing the purchase of several hundred acres of land, part of which is already under development by the company as a great refining and storage plant. Recently there has been talk that the Pennsylvania Railroad would acquire the property, and it is said that some proposals have come from the railroad, but the Standard Oil representatives finally made an offer acceptable to the owners.

The Parvenu.

A stout over-dressed woman sat talking to a friend. She said:

"Yes, since John came into his money we have a nice country house, horses, cows, pigs, hens, and—"

"That must be charming," broke in the other. "You can have all the fresh eggs you want and—"

"Oh, well," hastily interrupted the first speaker, "of course, the hens can lay if they like to, but in our position it isn't at all necessary."—Harper's Weekly.

Women Large Owners of P. R. R.

Women own practically fifty per cent of the stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Forty-seven per cent is the exact amount. Thus nearly half of the semi-annual dividend of the road, $3,437,839, which is being distributed today, goes to women.

A masquerade ball will be given Friday night by the Plainfield Cycle Club at Sangerbund Hall. Prizes will be awarded to the best dressed woman and the most comical man.

AMUSEMENTS.

Monday night at Weber's theatre, Miss Annie Russell was seen for the first time in New York as Mary Barrington, in John Valentine's comedy, "The Stronger Sex," under the managerial direction of the Wagenhals and Kemper Company. Miss Russell fills a peculiar niche in the affections of playgoers, being one of the few stars with a personal clientele, a following due to her rare personal charm, as well as to her ability as an actress. In "The Stronger Sex," the Wagenhals and Kemper Company have surrounded her with a supporting company of more than usual importance. The following well known players are in the cast: Oswald Yorke, Robert Drought, Dore Davidson, William Wadsworth, J. A. Sawtelle, Elwyn Eaton, Alma Kruger, Helen Tracy, Irene DeRigney, Cecilia Radclyffe, Grace Spalding, Ina Rorke, Agnes Wadley and Helen Day.

Paris and the lightning minded Parisians, ever crying "Le Roi est mort, vive le Roi" in every department of life, are already speculating upon the logical successor of Victorien Sardou. Sardou himself, however, rather settled the question before his death. It is said that he bequeathed to Henri Bernstein to crystallize into compressed and chaste dramatic form the sentiments, ideas and passions of the modern world—which he himself, though well aware of, too often ignored for the more lucrative pseudo-historical plays. Bernstein's first work is that of "Samson," "The Thief" and "Israel." like Sardou, possess a prodigious fund of dramatic energy. Like Sardou, too, Bernstein is imbued to the full with the very genius of the stage; but his dramatic power and facility has not been paralleled since the making of the Greek tragedies.

Every airship expert in the country has declared "The Battle in the Skies," one of the big spectacles at the New York Hippodrome, to be a remarkable exhibition of the future of the armed aero-plane in wars among nations. In this spectacle, which is supposed to take place fifty years from now, the first scene shows the Hudson river, mouth of the Erie with a threatened conflict between airships of two nations. The second scene shows the fortifications for protection fro airships, the guns all being pointed skyward. While the officers are discussing the situation, various airships flock across the Hudson. A gigantic aero-plane appears with guns that are supposed to be loaded with radium, firnb volleys that destroy the city. The Birdland ballot, the most gorgeous presentation of its kind ever done in this country, has become the talk of the land. The bill also includes ten big circus acts that are given under a tent erected in full view of the audience. Two performances are given every day.

BOMB STUNS A POLICEMAN.

An explosive powerful enough to wreck the front of a saloon at Montgomery and Straight streets at Paterson and thrown that neighborhood at Policeman Thomas Fitzsimmons, but missed him by a few inches. The policeman was stunned, though not seriously injured. Buildings in the vicinity were shaken. No one knows who threw the explosive, but it is believed that it was intended for Fitzsimmons because of his activity in suppressing disorderly houses in the vicinity frequented by Italians.

The saloon partly wrecked by the explosion was conducted by Angelo Gallizo. Fitzsimmons was alone in the building which seemed to come across the street, whizzed passed his head. Before the policeman recovered from the effects of the explosion, hundreds of persons from houses near by ran into the street. Plaster from the interior was scattered with a white substance. The bomb is believed to have been made of potash and sulphur, and was filled with small pieces of chain and stones.

A New Name.

A man who had been playing golf with a clergyman heard him swear two or three times under his breath. Suspecting the lapse he could not be sure of it until one monosyllable came out with unmistakable clearness. After he had finished the match a friend of his said: "I saw you playing just now with the Rev. Mr. Dash; of what denomination is he?" "Some people say he is a Baptist," replied his late opponent, "but I should call him a Profanitarian."—Scottish-American.

Enthusiasts Want Game Played.

There is some talk heard about P. H. S. objecting to its game with Holy Cross Club on Saturday. This would be a mistake for there are too many people interested in the outcome of such a contest. The game should be played if for no other reason than that P. H. S. has defeated North Plainfield and N. P. H. S. has defeated Holy Cross. The result of the contest between P. H. S. and Holy Cross would decide the city championship. Owing to the death of Fred Gray, president of the Holy Cross Club, the game could not be played last Saturday, but there is no valid excuse why P. H. S. should not meet the church boys this week.

An Approaching Marriage.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of John Foster, of New street, and Miss Kathryn Rummel, of Kearny. The wedding will take place the latter part of January.

PASTOR'S FIRST SERMON

Two Stirring Discourses by Rev. John Y. Broek to Trinity Reformed Flock.

MARKS MARKED IMPRESSION.

Dwells on "The Condition of the Successful Church" and Points Out Many Truths.

Rev. John Y. Broek, the newly-installed pastor of Trinity Reformed church, preached two sermons Sunday, morning and evening, addressing large congregations. He deeply impressed all with his earnestness, while in the presentation of his all important truths he held the closest attention of everyone. His theme for the morning discourse was "The Condition of the Successful Church," his text being, First Samuel 10:24—"And there went with Him a band of men whose hearts God had touched."

In part Mr. Broek spoke as follows:

"The text refers to Saul after he was anointed king. Samuel had poured the sacred oil upon his head, and kissed him, setting him aside for his kingly and royal destiny. There is much significance in the words of the text. On the march from his anointing, we are told that a loyal, faithful band of men followed Saul, accepted him as their leader and formed a loyal guard of supporters.

"There are many thoughts in the text suggestive of what will make the successful church today. Every great movement must have a leader. The success of the Union armies during the Civil War was largely due to the leadership of Grant. So also in religious history. God always calls forth leaders. God called on Abraham to be father and leader of the faithful. Then he called a Moses, Saul, Elijah, Elisha. In the church of Christ God has also provided leaders, whose chief duty is to preach the unsearchable riches in Christ, and earnestly to persuade men to enter Christ's kingdom.

"The church must have organization; order is God's first law. We recognize the value of organization in the home, in society, in business. When we show privileges, we must also bear burdens.

"So God has established government in the church. We have the church of Christ live in peace and holiness. We are dependent one upon another, we cannot work alone. Combination is God's great principle.

"It is necessary that there be cooperation in the successful church. We must work together when we are doing great things. We do our best work when we co-operate, and the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have not need of thee; nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you.' So also in the church, one member needs the help of another member. We all need each other, and the church needs all its members. We all need to hold up our corner in the church's activity, and as soon as we let down our corner it responsibility, the entire organization must suffer.

"But we may have every so efficient a leader, ever so perfect an organization, ever so helpful co-operation, but these, while helpful, do not make the church. Every member must be touched by God. This is essential condition of the successful church. That touch is energizing, beautifying and transforming. Abraham will never forget the touch when he was called from Ur of Chaldees. Moses will never forget the burning bush. Peter and John will never, even in heaven, forget the time when they were called by Christ to be disciples, and the Christmas will never forget the time when the sermon or reading of a book he was convicted of sin and God touched his heart.

"We are too often apt to rely upon human means and expedients in gaining success in God's work. Heaven never helps us, when we depend solely upon our plans, regardless of God. Our reliance is often upon ecclesiastical machinery, instead of upon God. Our prosperity to be real, to be genuine, must be able to God's test and heaven's estimate of worth and usefulness. When our hearts are really touched by God, there will be that intense earnestness, soul-to-hearted communion, often attained by great soul struggle, which cry's out finally, 'Lord, what what will Thou have me do;' when we can can realize and say that, everything will be gained.

"Our Dutch forefathers had the right idea. They placed the emblem of our church, the motto: "In union there is strength." They recognized the value of leadership, organization and co-operation, which are distinctive works of our Reformed church. But above that motto they placed another one, "without the help of the Lord all is in vain." All our planning falls into insignificance when we recognize that "God must be our helper."

"I have often thought during the past week why have I come to this church. I have but one resolve and that is to do my best by God's help. There is a certain thrill of inspiration in beginning a new work. You have welcomed me gladly and readily, but there is also a deep feeling of my responsibility that rests upon me. But then I take courage in the fact that, I am not working alone, but I know you are going to help me. But there I take added courage by the thought, that not by our combined efforts of pastor and people is our work to be a success, but God must be our partner and God must be our helper. And that is only true condition of the successful church.

"If dear old Trinity is to advance, *whose record has been made so glo*rious by the faithful and loving ministry of my Godly predecessor in this pulpit, then our advance and progress must be upon our knees. Not one step dare we take alone without God. 'With God across the seas, but without God, not across the threshold.'"

The theme for evening discourse was "The Highest Attainment." Phil. 3-13:14, and again Mr. Broek spoke to a large congregation.

JUST OUT OF JAIL; EXILED FOR SIX MONTHS

Released from the county jail Saturday noon, after serving a sixty days sentence, John Giles, of Lake street, hurried back to Plainfield and celebrate his return. By nightfall he had imbibed a large quantity of the beverage that cheers and gives headaches and wrapped himself in slumber on a Watchung avenue lawn. He was enjoying the sleep of the just when Patrolman O'Keefe roused him up for a walk to Sycamore street.

Giles escaped going back to Warden Dodd, Monday, by telling Judge Runyon he had a job waiting for him at South Plainfield. The magistrate suspended sentence with the understanding that whether he works or not he must remain away from Plainfield for at least six months. If he is seen on the streets before the exile is over the cops are to take him in custody.

GRAND JURY RETURNS TWENTY-TWO INDICTMENTS

The Union County Grand Jury completed its labors at Elizabeth, Monday, presenting twenty-two indictments, among them several for Plainfield cases. After making the report the members journeyed to Truell Hall in automobiles for dinner. The jury, comprising twenty-three members, was accompanied by Judge E. S. Atwater, Sheriff Robert Kirkland, Former Sheriff Lawrence, Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Robert L. Eaton, clerk of the jury.

The dinner was set for 2:30 o'clock and a feature was the presentation of a handsome loving cup to the foreman, Allen B. Wallace, of Summit, by H. H. Isham, in which he expressed the manifest fairness of Mr. Wallace during the deliberation of the jury. The recipient made a happy response.

SAY MARRIAGE IS ILLEGAL.

Word Sent to Couple on Their Honeymoon That Wedding is Void.

Through a letter sent to the Trenton press by ex-Mayor John Briest, the discovery has been made that Acting Mayor John D. Howell, of that place, had no legal right to marry Miss Mary Ankell Birch, daughter of a rich carriage builder of Burlington, to Seligman Abel Myers, of New York city. Some lawyers at Trenton declare that this leaves the couple not legally married.

The lawyers hold that the section of the city charter which puts on the President of the Common Council all the duties of the Mayor simply is confined to his duties as Mayor within the city charter, and in no wise can it be construed to give the power to marry to the Acting Mayor because that power comes from a distinct State statute, which says who may perform the marriage ceremony. It is understood that word has gone to the couple on their honeymoon of the difficulty.

Pupils Get Positions.

These pupils of the Plainfield Business College have taken positions during the past few weeks: Sallo H. Kahn, stenographer; Ira S. Cramer, bookkeeper, both in New York city; Miss Florence McDonnell, stenographer for Allen B. Laing; Mary Morrison, stenographer, New York city; Helen Southard, stenographer, New York city, and Fred Hall, stenographer for J. Henry Crane.

FEW FROM PLAINFIELD ON THE PETIT JURY.

A jury was drawn Monday by Sheriff Kirkland, in the Union County Quarter Sessions Court, to serve in the various county courts for the rest of the term. Following is part of the list:

Plainfield—Abram Hart, Jabez C. Gilbert, August L. C. Marsh, Garrett T. Dunham, Gilbert B. Fletcher, Harry Drier, E. D. Middlekauf, Lester B. Harris, William H. Drayton.

Fanwood—Anthony Wahl, Frederick Schmidt, John F. Miller.

BRICK PAVE'S BENEFITS

Property Owners in Business Section May Only Have to Pay Normal Assessments.

TO APPOINT A COMMISSION.

Application to Be Made December 9 in Order to Follow the Laws Requirements.

Nominal benefits at the most, it is reliably reported, will be assessed against abutting property owners in the business section where the permanent brick pavement has been laid. The fact is that it is question yet to be decided whether the city has power to collect anything from the effected property holders inasmuch as they have, as a rule, already paid assessments for permanent pave as required by law.

It is understood that the proceedings instituted to have commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages is more a formality than anything else and is resorted to simply to comply with the law's provisions. Years ago the Park avenue property-owners between Front street and Fourth street paid heavy assessments for a permanent wood pave which did not prove satisfactory. Later a macadam road bed was substituted.

While not as heavily assessed as the Park avenue holders, the East and West Front street real estate owners, in the business section, which paid a goodly sum towards the expense of making a durable macadam road bed. Hence, they can not be heavily assessed again according to reliable authority. As for the Watchung avenue improvement, there is said to be a different situation. There it seems the property owners have never been called upon to pay any large proportion for street improvements.

Application will be made before the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth on Wednesday, December 9, for the appointment of three commissioners for the purpose of assessing benefits and damages. It is generally believed that almost the entire cost of this brick pavement improvement will have to be born by the taxpayers generally and that it will therefore com eout of the city's funds.

These are the thoroughfares thus improved:

East and West Front streets, respectively, from the westerly side line of Madison avenue to the easterly side line of Watchung avenue.

Sycamore street, from the northeasterly side line of Front street to the bridge over Green Brook.

Watchung avenue, from the southerly side line of East Front street, to the southerly side lines of East Fourth street, exclusive of the portion of said Watchung avenue already provided with brick pavement.

Park avenue, from the southerly side line of Front street to the southerly side line of Fourth street.

East Fourth street, from the northerly side line of West Seventh street to the southerly side line thereof; also from the northerly side line of West Eighth street to the southerly side line thereof.

LODGE BRETHREN AT GEORGE WALSH'S FUNERAL

The funeral of George B. Walsh was held at his late home on Lafayette place Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Park chapel, officiating. Many members and the attendance included large delegations from the Odd Fellows, the Red Men and Painter's Union, of which he was a member. At Hillside cemetery, where busial was made, Watumpka tribe, I. O. R. M., conducted the ritual service of the order. There were numerous floral tributes.

The pall bearers were selected from the organizations to which Mr. Walsh belonged and the delegations proceeded to Hillside cemetery by special trolleys.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH HAS MUSICAL SERVICE.

A special musical service was held at Grace Methodist church Sunday. Those taking part were: Miss Josephine Martin, soprano; Mrs. Harry De Meza, contralto; Dyckman Winkler, violin; Miss Alice Carroll, organist. The program consisted of the following numbers:

Voluntary, violin and organ; anthem, "O Sing Unto the Lord," Barker; duet, soprano and alto, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," W. E. Brown; soprano solo with violin obligato, "O, Divine Redeemer;" Gounod; anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul!" Shelley; postlude, "Star March of the Priests," from "Rienzi," Wagner.

Report on Trolley Conditions.

The Common Council will hold its regular December meeting Monday night when it is expected among other things that Chairman F. E. Mygatt of the public affairs committee, may have a report concerning the improvement of local trolley conditions.

"ROASTS" MR. RUSHMORE

N. Y. Tribune in Reply to His Communication Scores Local Manufacturer.

SOME VERY TART LANGUAGE.

S. W. Rushmore's Effusion "One of the Least Intelligent Letters We Ever Received," it Says.

Samuel W. Rushmore, who has gained a reputation for his novel campaign against present alleged unfair methods of tax assessments in this city, comes in for a good sized "roast" from the New York Tribune. In a lengthy communication to that paper, Mr. Rushmore protested against its attitude concerning the automobile and referring to "drunken farmers" who are run down by them advises more general use of good auto lights as a remedy. Mr. Rushmore, by the by, manufactures auto lights.

This is what the Tribune says editorially in reply to Mr. Rushmore:

"The letter printed elsewhere, which was elicited by a recent editorial article in this paper entitled 'The Haves and the Have Nots,' is one of the least intelligent letters we ever received. In the article referred to, Mr. Rushmore completely took exceptional pains to make itself easily understood. It was addressing that simple type of intellect which maunders about the dangers that beset society from the 'have nots' or which sees a hope of Utopia in the operation of envy, malice and all uncharitableness. Addressing its remarks, therefore, so as to be surely comprehended of all socialists, cranks and economic idiots, calling the attention of all such to the paradox that in the case of automobiles the "have nots" vastly outnumber the "haves," and asking them why their prophecies were not realized. And even thus we went over the head of our correspondent. But if we had known that there was a mind in the world which could conceive of The Tribune as trying 'to stir up class hatred' we should not have tried to reach him level.

"The automobile has no more ardent admirer than The Tribune. No one has ever more earnestly proclaimed its immense utility. We do not hate the automobile. We hate its abuse, and are its true friend in doing so. We hate to see it in the hands of knaves and fools, and we have often expressed deep regret that the great majority who use it wisely do not make a more earnest effort to repress the vicious and indecent few who do all they can to render it odious."

LOCAL Y.M.C.A. FIVE WINS FROM WESTFIELD, 35-23

The local Y. M. C. A. basketball team had no difficulty in defeating Westfield Saturday night in the association gym by a score of 35 to 23. Endicott and Gilmore did brilliant work. In fact the entire team shows steady improvement and when the major league games open Saturday, ought to make a good showing from the start.

The lineup:

Plainfield—Loizeaux, Cahoone, rf; Gilmore, lf; Endicott, c; Hoagland, Loizeaux, rg; Miner, lg. Westfield—Martell, rf; Dallas, lf; Trizell, c; Mason, rg; Roland, lg.

Goals from field: Loizeaux, 7; Gilmore, 3; Endicott, 6; Martell, 6; Mason, 3. Foul goals—Gilmore, 5; Martell, 3; Mason, 2.

P. H. S. FOOTBALL SQUAD AT LINDSEY BEST HOME.

Having ended the regular season of playing, and with an excellent record, the Plainfield High School football team, with Holy Cross, gathered at the home of Lindsey Best, Saturday night, in response to his invitation and reviewed their struggles on the gridiron. Ice cream and cake were served and the boys made merry until late. There is some talk of a game with Holy Cross, the scheduled contest with that team having been cancelled owing to the death of one of the club members. A vote is being taken among the players and should they decide to play the game it will probably take place next Saturday.

Maoma Beats Westfield Owls.

The Maoma football club won from the Westfield Owls Saturday by the close score of 6 to 5. The game was really won in the first half as neither side was able to score in the second. The game played this year for Westfield and Mullin, Slyvain and Mallenson starred for the Maomas.

Dr. Grenfell to Lecture.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, of the Labrador Mission, will speak at the Hartridge School auditorium, Tuesday night, December 22. The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon views. The affair will be given under the auspices of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

GRAND JURY SCORES ELECTION OFFICERS

Methods in Two Local Districts Enough to Arouse Indignation of Self-Respecting Citizens.

URGES THE COURT TO ACT.

Boards in First Districts of First and Second Wards Arraigned by Grand Inquisitors.

The Union county Grand Jury caused a pronounced stir in political circles Monday by returning a presentment against two election boards in Plainfield, those of the first district of the First ward and the First district of the Second ward. Gross irregularities in the registration of voters is alleged and Judge Atwater is requested to take the matter up with the idea of dealing with the offenders in a manner beyond mere censuring. The court announced that the proceedings would be continued on to Justice Bergen, of the Supreme bench, and that careful consideration would result.

The presentment as returned by the jurors declares that "the irregularities in these two wards are such as to rouse the indignation of every self-respecting citizen. They are so pronounced as to threaten the foundation of our government and the court is respectfully requested to put an end to such gross neglect of duty."

While the violations of the registry laws are not explained at any great length in the presentment, the specific complaint of the Grand Jury alludes to the alleged wholesale adding of names to the lists without first getting a sworn affidavit as required. The irregularities, it explains, are probably due to ignorance of the law and carlessness in fulfilling sworn duties. Charges that the registration work in Plainfield was not what it should be were made just previous to the recent election and the jury examined a large number of witnesses in consequence. It was generally expected that either a presentment or indictment would be returned.

The presentment at no time mentions the boards individually and it is thought that whatever censuring is done will be to the members as a whole. Those of the two districts are as follows: First ward, first district, D. S. Dunavan, Michael Dolan, Courcey P. Van Arsdale and Thomas L. Walsh; first district, Second ward, J. W. Drayton, Harry W. Leek, George A. Ballentyne and Patrick J. Connelley.

TWO PASTORS OFFICIATE AT FRED GRAY'S FUNERAL.

Attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, the funeral of Frederick Gray, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital after an illness with typhoid fever, was held at the home of his father on West Front street, Sunday afternoon. It was conducted jointly by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring and Rev. George A. Warner and was very simple. A wealth of floral tributes showed the esteem in which the young man was held, the offerings from friends forming a bank about the casket. The Holy Cross Boys' Club, of which he was president, contributed a beautiful spray of white carnations and roses.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery and at the grave the committal service was conducted by Mr. Warner. The pall-bearers were all close associates of Fred in his school and club life and were as follows: Albert Miller, Russell Conroy, Harrison Fahn, Ira Vail, Leslie Leland and Gardner Bristol.

Mrs. Park—No wonder. It's so trying to find out from your friends what they'd like to have for Christmas without conveying the impression that they may expect it from you.—Smart Set.

What Her Pa Said.

Oliver—What did your father say when you told him I had asked you to marry me?

Natica—Shall I leave out the swear words?

Oliver—Of course.

Natica—Then I've nothing to tell you!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

H. D. Allen a Bankrupt.

Howard D. Allen, the North Plainfield confectioner, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court at Trenton Saturday. His liabilities are $7,923.33 and his assets are $6,167.25. His place of business has been located on Somerset street.

GIRLS' HOME HEAD ADMITS USING STRAP

Mrs. Mansell, the Superintendent, and President Fay of the Board of Trustees of the State Home for Girls, were witnesses before the Crimes and Dependency Commission at Trenton Monday, when the inquiry into the charges of cruelty in the home was began. Mrs. Mansell described the "meditation rooms," and insisted that they were not dungeons. One, she said, was a light and the other a dark room, but both were well ventilated. She declared that she is in favor of doing away with the dark room. Insubordinate girls were confined in the light room one night, but there was one girl, she said, who had to be kept there five days and nights.

"Are there rats in the dark room?" asked a Commissioner.

Mrs. Mansell replied that there were rats in the building.

The witness admitted that a strap was used, and said that when a girl was unusually violent Koehler, the engineer, was called in to hold the victim down while the lash was applied. The Superintendent agreed in the future to keep an accurate account of punishments visited on the girls under her care.

President Fay surprised the commission by telling it that though he had held office four years he did not know of the "light meditation room," and as to corporal punishment he thought the strap was kept for moral effect only.

The commission visited the 'dark room," and found it up under the slope of the roof with no window except a two-foot opening leading into the main attic, also very dark. The door is guarded with iron bars and the lock covered with tin. The light room is a wire screen cage partly lighted and partly ventilated.

Catherine B. Abbey, Secretary of the Charities Aid Society of Burlington county, testified as to a shocking state of moral depravity in the almshouse there.

The Rev. Thomas J. Moran, of the Catholic Protectory at Arlington, said he believed in corporal punishment, and practiced it in his institution.

Dr. Britton D. Evans of the Morris Plains Asylum, one of the alienists in the Thaw trial, said that he was in favor of the repeal of all the detention laws of the State and a comprehensive system enacted which would put an end to corporal punishment and binding of prisoners.

STATE LAWS REVISION COMMITTEE TO REPORT.

*The three men appointed by Gov*ernor Fort under authority granted at the last session of the Legislature to revise the State laws and combine under general heads the statutes covering the big subjects, will make an extensive report to the Governor in the course of a few weeks. The Governor will transmit the report to the incoming Legislature in January. Joseph L. Munn, of East Orange; former Governor George T. Wetrs, of Jersey City, and Allan Strong, of New Brunswick, are the commissioners.

Speaking of the progress made by his appointees, the Governor recently had this to say:

"I am informed that much more has been accomplished in the work of revision than had been anticipated and I am expecting a number of important bills from the three men who have been at work during the last half year or more."

Mr. Munn said last night that the practice act and all its supplements and amendments had been revised and whipped into shape for the consideration of the Legislature, as had the abatement act. Both of these acts, so interesting and important from the viewpoint of the legal profession, and indirectly vital to popular interests, will be submitted to the Legislature for re-enactment in simplified language.

Several years will probably be required for the completion of the work. The commissioners serve without any fixed term. Their compensation is $300 per month each. They replaced the old commission that had been created a number of years ago with very limited powers.

TROLLEY JUMPS TRACK; TRAFFIC TIED UP AN HOUR.

The rear trucks of a trolley car jumped from the track at Embree Crescent, near Westfield, at 5:40 Monday, jolting and frightening the passengers, and tieing up traffic for more than an hour. The screaming of two women almost started a panic, in which there would have been serious injury had it not been for the coolness of the crew and motorman of the other men aboard. A man standing on the back platform was thrown to the ground, bruising him badly.

After investigating the matter thoroughly the officials were unable to find the cause of the accident, there being no defects either in the trucks or rails.

Witnessed Army-Navy Game.

Plainfield was well represented at the Army-Navy football game at Philadelphia, Saturday, when the Army triumphed over the other branch of the service. Among the Plainfielders there were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Miss Helen Cruikshank, S. A. Cruikshank, Frank Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Blakewell, Miss Blakewell, Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, H. H. Runkle, Miss Mary Grey Runkle, Miss Mary Perkins, Dr. Charles Davis, Miss Davis, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holland, Miss Alverda Holland.

Public Invited to H. S. Lecture.

Principal Ira W. Travell is planning a series of lectures to be held in the High School auditorium and to which the public will be invited. The first of these will probably be given either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week at 10 o'clock in the morning, and the speaker will be Briston Adams, of the United States Forest Service Department of Agriculture. His subject will be "A Prodigal Nation," dealing with the question of forest preservation, and will be illustrated with colored stereopticon views.

Left-Over Coffee.

If there is coffee left over from breakfast, pour it off from the grounds and save until an hour before dinner or lunch, when it is put into a double boiler and a cupful of minutes tapioca added. Cook until clear, and just before serving add a half cup of sugar and a good-sized lump of butter. Serve hot, with either plain or whipped cream on it.

IT WAS ONLY 180 YEARS

While on a recent visit with friends in the beautiful hills of Hunterdon county, it was the writer's pleasure to be shown a great variety of keepsakes, and being a native of New England his attention was especially directed to a newspaper entitled "The New England Journal." It was the original sheet, eight by twelve inches in size, printed on both sides, published in Boston April 8, 1728. Below the heading it contained the following prospectus printed as here shown, omitting the old-fashioned s:

"There are measures concerting for rendering this paper yet more universally esteemed and useful in which 'tis hop'd the Public will be gratify'd and by which the Gentlemen who desire to be improv'd in History, Philosophy, Poetry, &c., will be greatly advantaged, we will take the liberty at this time to insert the following Passage of History.

"London, Oct. 28, 1727. On Wednesday last, 24 Patents pass'd the Seals, constituting the Rt. Hon. the Lord St. George, Vice Admiral of the Province of Cannaught, in the Kingdom of Ireland.

"The beginning of this week, Dr. John Friend and Dr. Alexander Stewart were introduced to their Majesties, and had the Honor to kiss their Hands on being appointed Physician in Ordinary to the Queen.

"We hear that the Charity Children of St. Mary le Bow are to have a Sermon preach'd in the Steeple of this Church, over against the Balcony, where the Royal Family are to be next Monday, and they are to sing an hymn there in Honor to their Majesties.

"The Hon. Henry Ord was last week sworn of the Masters of the Exchequer in the room of Mr. Lancaster, deceased.

"The Rev. Dr. Knight and the Rev. Dr. Waterland were yesterday unanimously chosen Proctors for the Diocese of London, in the ensuing Convocation.

"London, Oct. 31, 1727. On Sunday last died Mr. Wilcocks, under Treasurer to the Honorable Society of the Middle Temple.

"On Saturday last the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Pomfret had their Majesty's Hands on being appointed Master of the House to the Queen."

"Cambridge, Nov. 2, 1727. This day Dr. Colebatch and Mr. Perkins were chosen Proctors for the Diocese of Ely, in the ensuing Convocation in the room of the late Clergy that hath been known to appear upon such an occasion.

"London, Nov. 11, 1727. Three men of war of the 6th Rate are going to be put in commission.

"The Fever which raged here and in the country is very much abated both as to its Frequency and Fatality; but they write from Amsterdam that for 5 weeks their Burials have amounter so 600 per week, they are now risen to 3000 and its reckon'd there are 40,000 Persons lying sick in that City.

"The most Violent Storm in Naples that ever was known has Destroyed Houses, Bridges, Men, Women and Children in great numbers out of 500 Inhabitants in one Village only six escaped."

The following are a few items selected from the Home News:

"Custom House, Boston, Apr. 6, 1728. Entered Inwards. Benj. Thorndike from Long Island. Moses Gaillie from Maryland, John Coles from Virgania, John Gerald, Benj. Kent, Nath. Lewis and Thomas Belsher from the Bay of Honduras, and Josiah Jones from North Carolina.

"Cleared Out. Quite a number are reported to be gone to the Westward, South Carolina, Barbados and New Foundland.

"Burials in the Town of Boston, since our last issue. Five White, One Black.

"Baptised in the several Churches, Nine."

The following are selected from the advertisements:

"Choice New Coffee to be sold by Arthur Savage at his House in Bratle Street, Boston, for Eight Shillings per Pound.

"A very likely Negro Woman who can do Household Work and is fit either for Town or Country services, about 22 years of age, to be sold. Inquire of the Printer hereof."

"A very likely Negro Girl, about 13 or 14 years of age, speaks good English, has been in the Country some years, to be sold. Inquire of the Printer hereof."

Leap-Year Dance at Fanwood.

Young people from this city and Fanwood attended a leap-year dance given Saturday night at the firehouse, Fanwood, there being about one hundred guests. The affair was arranged by a committee comprising the Misses Edith Hinaford, Sadie Coyle, Jean Coyle, Ethel Prior and Florence Prior. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Mary Collier, of this city. Many of those attending the dance from this city are pupils at the Plainfield High School.

Miss Nora Moran entertained about forty of her friends at a euchre and informal dance Saturday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. McGauley, on East Sixth street. Guests were present from Brooklyn, New York and Plainfield.

FEE ABUSES OF SQUIRES

Governor Fort Likely to Recommend Salaries for the Justices of the Peace.

CONDITIONS ARE SCANDALOUS.

Many Innocent Persons Committed to Court by These Fee-Grabbing Officials.

One of the matters which Governor Fort is seriously considering for his message to the New Jersey Legislature is the abolition of fees for justices of the peace, to correct the "crime mill" which is flourishing in many municipalities of the State, where justices work in cahoots with not overscrupulous persons to get all the fees possible by holding innocent persons for action by the grand jury.

If cannot be denied by any one at all acquainted with the Jersey situation that justices of the peace in some instances are sending cases to the grand jury which should be dismissed. To send the case to the grand jury means to reward some constable or other person with a fee, besides a larger fee for the justice himself. There are justices in offices in this State who can justly be termed fee-grabbing sharks.

The matter is getting to be a public scandal and were it not for the pending constitutional amendments for the terms of Governor, Senators and Assemblymen and reforming the courts it is likely that a move would be made in the coming Legislature to abolish the office of justice altogether. As it is, those other things are so important that it would be unwise to disturb their final passage, now that they have been safely put through one Legislature.

So the Governor is being urged to strike at the real root of the justice of the peace evil by having fees abolished and putting justices on salaries.

The fee system has been abolished in the State and in county offices, and to abolish it in the cases of justices of the peace is to follow out a logical step in reform.

The grand juries of the State throw out on an average two-thirds of the complaints sent by justices of the peace, but the fees for the justices come when the commitments are made.

Once a commitment is obtained the justice dismisses the matter from his mind. He can get no more money out of the case in any event, so he strains a point for the commitment.

Fees allowed justices of the peace for cases are printed on cards in their offices, as follows: For disorderly conduct, criminal, 25 cents for each commitment and 15 cents for taxing bills of cost, making 40 cents in all; for criminal cases, such as petty larceny, grand larceny, assault and battery, etc., 80 cents, with 15 cents added for taxing bills of cost; while his corps of constables receives 50 cents per head for arrest and 30 cents more for taking the man to jail on a commitment.

The constable is in 50 cents for the arrest if the justice lets the man go, and the justice makes nothing, while the justice gets the fees and his constable 30 cents more if the man is sent to jail.

DUNBAR WRIGHT'S FAME AS LANDSCAPE ARTIST

Dunbar Wright, brother of Mrs. J. Edgar Corlies, of this city, is rapidly coming to the front as a painter of distinction and a score or more of his pictures in oil have attracted considerable attention from art critics in New York. Arthur Hoeber, an artist, and perhaps one of the best known critics in the east, has the following to say about Mr. Wright:

Dunbar Wright is the unfamiliar name of a painter who holds an exhibition of paintings in oil at the galleries of Fishel, Adler & Schwartz, 313 Fifth avenue, New York, where he offers a score or more of his pictures for public inspection. Almost as many ways of looking at his theme does Mr. Wright disclose, and there are moments of pardonable surprise suggested in a glance about the room, some of whom he has laid under unmistakable tribute. Obviously he has looked long and admiringly at the work of the late Fritz Thaulow, as is apparent in "The Waterway" at Boves, France, with its rippling streams and tones of red, and there are snow scenes that recall Jonas Lie, of Plainfield, and his school, while perhaps Mr. Ranger's pictures have given further inspiration. Yet despite these sources, Mr. Wright is not without a feeling of his own for nature, though where he is quite himself he lacks craftsmanship authority, and has a tendency toward the sentimental.

Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver, who has been connected with the law firm of Reed & Coddington, announces that he has opened offices for the general practice of law at 148 East Front street.

MRS. LEVIS BRINTON DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Levis Brinton at her home in San Diego, Cal., on Friday, November 25. As the wife of Rev. Joseph Brundage, who for for half a century a chaplain in the U. S. Navy and whose grave is in Hillside cemetery. She was well known here. She was one of the earliest members of the Park Avenue Baptist church under the pastorate of Rev. Robert Lowry, and was beloved and active member there. She was the first president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and was active in establishing the Holly Tree Inn.

After the death of Dr. Stockbridge his widow removed to California for the benefit of an invalid son's health, and there in the extreme south of the State she met and married Levis Brinton, who was a member of a prominent family in Pennsylvania.

In her beautiful home on the shores of the grand Pacific, Mrs. Brinton had the pleasure of welcoming some of her old Plainfield neighbors, and while deeply interested in the old home she never saw it again.

Many of the friends to whom she was much attached and who were co-workers with her in various good works had preceded her to the Spirit Land.

BOOKLYNITE BUYS F. W. MORSE RESIDENCE

Frank W. Morse, through Albert Lederer, real estate broker, has sold his handsome residence at 601 Central avenue, and a strip of land adjoining in the rear, to L. H. Strouse, formerly of Brooklyn, but now residing on Crescent avenue, and he will take possession as soon as the deeds are passed. Mr. Strouse is the secretary and treasurer of the Bates, Voorhees Company, law book publishers of New York. The strip of land purchased in the rear of the property will be used for an automobile garage. Mr. Morse has not definitely decided on plans for the future, but he expects to remain a resident of the city.

Mr. Lederer has also closed another deal, whereby he has sold a valuable piece of land adjoining that on Central avenue to New York parties and a $10,000 residence will be erected there within a short time.

Piano Extravagance

Consists Only in Buying the Wrong Piano at Any Price

As home entertainment is a necessity for the welfare of the family circle, and the next thing to a good piano is the best investment you can make for increasing the pleasure of your home, the only mistake you can make is in buying the WRONG PIANO AT ANY PRICE. The purchase of a

Hallet & Davis Piano

is economy personified. You want your dollars to go as far as possible. You want the best for the right price. This is what you get in a Hallet & Davis, to say nothing of the quiet joy and satisfaction that inheres in the ownership of good and beautiful things—this makes Hallet & Davis pianos true bargains.

Our small payment plan makes piano buying easy. Write for catalogues of pianos and special offerings in Player Pianos.

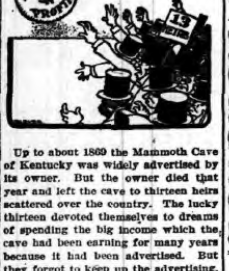
Holed Out and Pulled the Hole In After Them.



Up to about 1869 the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky was widely advertised by its owner. But the owner died that year and left the cave to thirteen heirs scattered over the country. The lucky thirteen devoted themselves to dreams of spending the big income which the cave had been earning for many years because it had been advertised. But they forgot to keep up the advertising.

Now the cave is visited by comparatively few persons instead of by many thousands annually, as in the days when it was advertised.

But the great cave conveys a lesson to every business man. If you quit advertising, your place will be ignored by the public even more than Mammoth Cave is ignored, because you are not even a natural curiosity.

TAKES ROMANCE FROM TEARS.

Weapon of the Heroine Coolly Analyzed by French Chemist.

One does not care to have one's tears analyzed like a patent food or medicine, and to associate them with chemical substances, but we are nothing if not practical nowadays, and every shred of romance, poetry and sentiment is remorselessly wrenched from us for scientific purposes.

A French journal devoted to matters of this kind has been telling us, not only of what tears are composed, but exactly the effect that is produced on brain and body when we shed them.

So henceforth when we read that the heroine's "beautiful eyes were suffused with tears," that "in a moment she was weeping passionately on his shoulder," we shall know that by a kind of shower-bath arrangement a mixture of albuminoid, water and chemical substances was let loose at the back of her skull, thus dulling the nerve centers, and really giving her relief.

However, it does not sound romantic, and mere man is likely to imagine that the fair one is really suffering doubly when all this happens.—Gentlewoman.

NOTHING LEFT TO BLUSH FOR.

A young man in want of $25 wrote to his uncle as follows:

"Dear Uncle—If you could see how foolish for shame as I am writing, you would pity me. Why? Because I have to ask you for a few dollars, and do not know even how to express myself. It is impossible for me to tell you. I prefer to die. I send you this by messenger, who will wait for an answer. Believe me, my dearest uncle, your most obedient and affectionate nephew.

"P. S.—Overcome with remorse for what I have written, I have been running after the messenger in order to recover this letter, but I cannot catch him. Heaven grant that something may stop him or that this letter may be lost."

The uncle was naturally touched, but was equal to the emergency. He replied as follows:

"My Dear Jack—Console yourself and blush no more. Providence has heard your prayer. The messenger lost your letter. Your affectionate uncle."—Judge's Library.

A Coward of Conscience.

Tired and dusty the excursion was returning from the bank holiday trip, and Simkins, a little bald man with big ears, overcome with his fair of happiness, dropped off to sleep, says the Philadelphia Record. In the hatrack above, another passenger had deposited a ferocious crab in a bucket, and when Simkins went to sleep the crab woke up and finding things dull in the bucket, started exploring. By careful navigation Mr. Crab reached the end of the rack, but the next moment down it fell, alighting on Simkins' shoulder. Not feeling quite safe, it brandished the voluminous ear of Simkins to steady itself, and the passengers held their breath and waited for developments. But Simkins only shook his head slightly.

"Let go, Emma," he murmured. "I tell you that I have been at the office all the evening."

Character Molds the Face.

It is not in words explicable with what divine lines and lights the exercise of godliness and charity will mold and gild the hardest and coldest countenance, neither up to what darkness their departure will consign the loveliest. For there is not any virtue the exercise of which, even momentarily, will not impress a new fairness upon the features; neither on them only, but on the whole body the moral and intellectual faculties have operation, for all the movements and gestures, however slight, are different in their modes according to the mind that governs them—and on the gentleness and devotion of right feeling follows grace of actions, and, through continuance of this, grace of form.—John Ruskin.

Had Provided for Pets.

Francois Coppee, the French author, like many artists and actors, was excessingly fond of cats, and for years he had in his house in Paris and in the beautiful rose garden back of the house a number of fine specimens, including several valuable natives of Persia. When Coppee died, to be followed soon by his devoted sister, who was his nurse, the Paris Animal Protective society felt called upon to look for the cats, which were supposed to have been left in the deserted Coppee home to starve. Investigation showed, however, that the master had anticipated the end. He had given all his pets to friends.

What's in a Word?

Two men were discussing the trouble in India, and each had a deal to say about his notion of Hindu character.

"They're such a bellicose set of people," said one.

"Indeed!" exclaimed the other, in surprise. "I was always under the impression that they were very spare men."—Harper's Weekly.

A Veteran's Advice.

Miss Gertrude Coghlan, daughter of the superb technician, the late Charles Coghlan, used to act little roles under her father's eye, when she was a child. Once this dialogue was exchanged, she says:

"What shall I do with my hands?" I asked.

"Forget them," my father replied."

PROTEST ASSESSMENTS

Borough Fathers, by Resolution, Object to Somerset's Taxing Methods.

THEIR LANGUAGE UNEQUIVOCAL

North Plainfield "Soaked" Worse Than Ever and Its Council Will Not Stand for It.

The North Plainfield Council held a special meeting Friday night to consider the tax assessment situation. Besides Mayor Townsend and all Councilmen, except Woolston and McGee, there were also present Assessor J. H. Cooley, Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed and former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, the latter being a member of the Somerset County Tax Board.

All of the members were of about the same opinion in the matter of reductions. Mr. Smalley answered the questions that were put to him by the Mayor and Corporation Counsel, who desired information on some subjects pertaining to county tax board matters, and Mayor Townsend then addressed the meeting, briefly explaining his position in the matter of reduction of taxes in the borough.

Mayor Townsend said:

"With reference to what is said in the communication before you, criticizing the part I took in regard to the raising of valuations throughout the county, I want to say that at the last Council meeting, I gave my reasons for the course I had pursued, and it is hardly necessary to repeat or enlarge upon them in assessing property than any private citizen. The assessors of the various taxing districts make the assessments and the county Board of Taxation, from whom they receive their instructions, has full power to accept their valuations, or, correct them, if inequalities exist.

"I, therefore, absolutely refuse to accept any responsibility for work over which I have no control. I want to say, however, that I thoroughly agree with what is said in the communication as to the injustice done to the Borough of North Plainfield, by the inequitable assessments of the county.

"This protest coming, as it does, signed by eminent citizens of the borough, is entitled to the careful consideration from whom you will give it. I lay it before you and express the hope that action will be taken, as far as practicable, in line with the suggestions made."

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered sent to the Somerset board:

"Whereas the assessed valuation of taxable property in the Borough of North Plainfield, according to the official published statements of the State Board of Taxation, was increased in 1908 $1,369,750 over the assessment in the same borough for 1907; which amounts to an increase in 1908 of over 14½ per cent. of the total valuation of the said properties in 1907;

"And whereas the total increase in assessed valuations for 1908 over those of 1907 in the entire county of Somerset, outside of the Borough of North Plainfield, was less than 18 per cent., while the total increase in such valuations in the township of Bridgewater for 1908 over 1907 assessment was less than 15 per cent.;

"And whereas the immediate result of this great discrimination against the Borough of North Plainfield, if allowed to stand, will be to force that borough to pay in 1908 $3,842.55 more county tax than in 1907, and this in spite of the fact that the total county tax paid by the whole County of Somerset in 1908 is $428.60 less than in 1907; also that the said borough must pay for State school tax in 1908 $2,850.77 more than in 1907, thus in these two items alone being obliged to pay over $5,000 more in 1908 than in 1907 by reason of this most astounding inequality of increase in valuations;

"And whereas it is a matter of common knowledge that the taxable property in this borough was valued for assessment purposes in 1907 and previous years at its full, fair proportion of value as compared with similar valuations in the rest of the county, as was determined by the County Board of Equalization and Taxation for 1907 which formally approved the assessed valuations in that year; and consequently it is clearly apparent that if any increase should have been made in valuations of the same properties this year such increase in borough should have been at no greater proportion than the increase in the remaining taxing districts of the county, it being, also, a matter of common knowledge that there has been during the past year no greater proportionate natural increase by way of new buildings or the like in this borough than in other parts of Somerset county.

"And whereas this increase of over 14 per cent. in this borough as against less than 18 per cent. in the remainder of Somerset county is, under all the circumstances outrageously and palpably unjust upon its face.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield that the aforesaid increase of assessed valuations of property in the Borough of North Plainfield, beyond and out of all proportion to the increase of assessed valuations in the remaining taxing districts of Somerset county, is most unfair and injurious to the said borough and the citizens and taxpayers thereof, and that said Mayor and Council do hereby emphatically protest against the same.

"Said Mayor and Council do hereby further resolve that the Somerset County Board of Equalization of Taxation be and is hereby earnestly petitioned to immediately take up and thoroughly examine into this whole matter, and to take such remedial action as may be possible to forthwith relieve this borough and its taxpayers from such most unfair and unjust discrimination in valuations and assessments, and also to prevent any repetition thereof; and

"Said Mayor and Council do further resolve that the Clerk of this Borough do forthwith mail or deliver a certified copy of this resolution to each member of said County Board and to the Clerk thereof."

It is not known what action the board will take, if any, when the meeting is held in the borough on Tuesday.

MISS MARTIN THE BRIDE OF DANIEL RANDOLPH

Miss Mary Hazel Martin, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin, of Orchard Park, and Daniel Randolph, son of Mrs. Daniel A. F. Randolph, of Plainfield avenue, were married at 6 Thursday night at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends from this city and nearby towns. Rev. John Y. Brock performed the ceremony, it being his first wedding since becoming pastor of Trinity Reformed church, last week.

The bride wore a traveling gown of gray cloth and left a picture hat to match and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Martin, as maid-of-honor, who was gowned in white and tan silk. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and violets. The best man was Lloyd Van Middlesworth, a cousin of the bride.

The home was decorated with palms, ferns and smilax, the arrangement in the parlor being especially attractive. Following the ceremony, which was performed in the parlor, there were congratulations and supper was served. The wedding march from Loehengrin was played on the piano by Miss Estelle Francis, of Jersey City, an intimate friend of the family.

The bride received a large collection of handsome and useful gifts from relatives and friends, including furniture, cut glass, table linen, etc. The couple did not go away at this time, deferring the trip until a later date. For the winter they will board with the bride's mother on Plainfield avenue. Mr. Randolph holds a position with one of the large insurance companies in New York. Both he and his wife are well-known here. Mr. Randolph is popular as an athlete, having been a member of the Orange A. C., and Mono A. C. football and baseball teams.

SOUTHERN COUPLE WED IN PLAINFIELD

Miss Maud E. Swilling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Swilling, of Lavonia, Georgia, and Swift Gilmer, of Atlanta, Ga., were quietly married at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frank W. Morse, on Central avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, in the presence of the immediate relatives. The couple was unattended.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a pleasing arrangement of ferns, carnations and other chrysanthemums throughout the parlor, reception hall and dining room. After congratulations a wedding and Thanksgiving dinner combined to make the occasion one of added pleasure to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer left on the 3:09 train in the afternoon for a few weeks' wedding trip in Northern cities, after which they will reside at Atlanta, where the groom holds a position in the railway postal service. The bride received many gifts of value and use. Both she and her husband have a host of friends with whom they are popular and their return home will undoubtedly be marked by a reception fitting the occasion. The bride has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morse for several months in preparation for Thursday's event.

A Puzzler.

"I always try to treat my maid as if she were a member of the family."

"Gracious, how do you get her to put up with it?"—London Opinion.

MANY LIKE TO EAT AT P.G.C. RESTAURANT

Miss Scott has made a report to the officers of the Country Club, showing an extraordinary amount of business done by the restaurant since she assumed the management last summer. In less than four months, including the dull mid-summer season and the late fall season, the club has served 2,000 meals, an average of about 125 per week. This does not include light refreshments served at the numerous card parties. There have been 1,038 regular table d'hote lunches and dinners served on the sixteen Saturdays, or an average of about 65 per Saturday. On election and Labor Day there were 168 meals served. There have been 430 table d'hote meals served on days other than Saturdays and holidays. In addition, there have been 342 private or special dinners and lunches, and 254 special light refreshments.

The service this year, as outlined above, has been maintained under great disadvantages. The kitchen is too small and there is no pantry. One descends through a trap door laid in the floor of the overcrowded kitchen, and arrives in a small damp hole which is called the cellar. Before another season, the defects must be cured, and the piazza dining room the most attractive place for meals, must be doubled in size. The golf course having been brought after ten years of labor, beyond the formulative stage into good condition, needs merely to be maintained as at present, with the attention of the trustees is now directed to clubhouse improvements. The demand for meals and private entertainments is such that better facilities must be provided immediately, and it is realized that more money must be expended for regular help, in order that the service may be prompt at all times. There has been a very large growth of social activity at the club, and provision must be made by enlargement of dining rooms, kitchen, etc., to handle the business. The club is also being used so much for large private functions that there must be better clonk-room facilities, especially for the ladies. There must also be a competent clerk constantly in charge of the office and of the books. It is estimated that not less than 5,000 meals will be served next season, with the same high grade cuisine maintained, and there will have to be a competent man in charge of bills and books. All these matters are now being considered and a plan will be formulated and submitted to the club during the winter. The club house is to be kept upon until further notice and the full service is being maintained.

HOPE CHAPEL SOCIETY GIVES ELABORATE DINNER

Departing from the conventional form of social affair, the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel, gave an elaborate dinner in the dining room at the chapel, Thursday. It observed no special occasion other than the holiday itself and was attended with the society's colors, yellow and white.

Miss Sloan was ably assisted in arranging the affair by Miss Edna Eckert and Miss Elsie Rimmer, as members of the social committee, and also by Frank Rimmer, Hugh B. Sweeny, James Kenny and William Sorig. The dinner proved to be such a success that another will be given in the near future.

Juniors Held Interesting Meeting.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society meeting at Trinity Reformed church, Wednesday afternoon, was made of special interest by the presence of Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. R. V. Kinney and Miss Mabel Wilson, who made short addresses to the young people. This was followed by a social meeting and refreshments were served. It was also the occasion for bringing in the thank-offering. A generous donation of jellies, cereals, vegetables and canned goods. They were all distributed among members of the congregation, the jellies being sent to those who were ill. There were about thirty-five members of the society at the meeting.

Miss Mary Rose Waters, of Newark, and E. B. Gotlick, formerly of Stony Hill, flat now of East Orange, were married Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Stony Hill by Rev. Father Schwartz, the pastor. The groom is well-known here.

ALL DAYS THANKSGIVING

Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard Tells How St. Paul Observed the Great Feast.

THANKS FOR TRIBULATIONS.

No Days of Depression Nor of Blueness for the Man of God Says Hope's Pastor.

Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, for several Sundays has been preaching a series of sermons on "The Christianity of St. Paul," which has aroused especial interest. On Sunday his appropriate subject was "Thanksgiving in the Teaching of St. Paul." He said in part:

"St. Paul did not celebrate one thanksgiving day out of all the year, but apparently kept up the celebration all of the time. The same thing was true of his praying. He did not save his prayers for Sunday, nor even for bed-time every night, but was praying in some way always, and whenever he was praying he was also giving thanks.

"This seems so impractical to some that they say the words of the text, 'In everything give thanks,' must be merely a strong figure of speech emphasizing the need of thanks giving on all suitable occasions. The words occur, however, toward the close of a rather long and serious letter, and in the midst of quite a list of practical instructions regarding the Christian life, not the sort of place in which one would be likely to use an exaggeration, or be carried away by enthusiasm. No, every evidence from the connection, and from the light to be gained on the subject from other letters of St. Paul's is to the effect that the apostle wished to have Christians who would be likely to use exactly what he said in urging them always to be giving thanks to God. Soberly and seriously, he thought that was good advice and it is my conviction that he was right about it, and that we Christians of today would be better Christians if we could take that advice to ourselves and never be without the spirit of thanksgiving.

"It must be noted, however, that St. Paul couples thanksgiving with prayer. 'Pray without ceasing,' were his words just preceding those of the text. Now it is evident that one could not be uttering formal prayers without ceasing, but nevertheless he could be praying. A man can be praying while he is at work, while he is eating, yes, I believe he can be praying even while asleep, because many prayers are the utmost heart of man laying hold on God. You have heard of persons who were greatly interested in some problem keeping at it day and night, even while they supposed they were doing other things. It 'quite often occurs that one will go to bed with such a problem unsolved, and in the morning find that the solution is perfectly clear. Psychologists are telling us in these days that such work is done by something they call the subconscious mind. Whatever we call it, I believe every one realizes the fact of an inner self of which he is not always fully conscious, but over which he nevertheless has a large measure of control.

"It is in this inner self that prayer can always be going on if we will. Here we can be, as it were, spiritually upon our knees, year in and year out. Here in this inner life we can be reaching out hands in supplication, and leaning upon the everlasting arms. God is ever round about us:

'Nearer is he than breathing,
Closer than hands or feet.'

And what we need to do is to be aware of His presence. Then His spirit will become to our spirit like the air to our physical beings. This is what it means to pray without ceasing. It is living in such a way, to the deepest depths of our hearts, that we are never without the consciousness of God. It was with St. Paul; not only was he always conscious of God, but he was always gratefully conscious of Him.

"There were once, it is said, a long, long time ago, two women who were wonderfully blessed of Haven. As they were busy about their work they overheard Jesus Himself, and he exchanged the two to guard with zealous care that which he had entrusted to them. In one case it is said, however, the gift did not seem to be welcome. The recipient did not like to be bound by the conditions upon which it was given, however free the gift itself might prove to be, and so, while awaiting the hour when the favor of the King might be joyously declared to all the world, she passed her time in bitterness and complaint.

"It was not so with the other chosen one, however, as the tale declares, but from the very first her heart was filled with happiness and exultation. A divine light of gladness shone from her face and the knowledge of the wonderful gift of God to her seemed to make her whole life one great song of rejoicing. All who met her were happier by her presence, and seemed to catch her spirit of thanksgiving. At last, meeting a dear friend and kinswoman of her, she burst forth into singing, with words that are familiar to all: 'My soul doth magnify the Lord, And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour,
For he that is mighty hath done to me great things,
And holy is his name.'

"You know the rest of her story, for it is one which all delight to read; but as to the other recipient of a Divine gift, what more has the tale to tell? It is said, alas! that her wretchedness scarcely grew less, but rather increased. Occasionally she would remember that a good gift was promised, but mostly she complained at the strange and often burdensome conditions that were laid upon her in receiving it, but at last the promised time arrived, and the gift of the Lord was here. Happy now, despite her complaints, she looked smiling through her tears upon the face of a little baby boy, and called his name Judah, a famous and highly honored name of her race. The boy lived, however, in a time when Greek influence gave the name a different sound, and the world from then till now, so says the story, has called him Judas. God's gift ungratefully received becomes God's curse sometimes, and we do not conscious of God in fear and in dread, instead of in gratitude and love.

"It was this better way in which St. Paul was aware of God. It seemed to him that the King of Kings had given to him a great good gift, and that it was his blessed privilege to him ever to forget it. The gift was a gift of life, through his Son, Jesus Christ; not something which the Christian can remember merely as having been given in the past, but something rather which every Christian can be living always in the present personal possession, just as really as the two mothers of the story could know of the gift of God to them. Moreover, with St. Paul, the constant knowledge of Christ with him brought as great a joy and offered as deep a feeling of gratitude as it had with the happy mother Mary of the story. He knew, as she did, that God had wonderfully blessed him, and he was always rejoicing and always giving thanks. I believe that we can be constantly aware of the same Lord and recipients of the same marvellous gift from the King of Kings could likewise begin to take the attitude of praise within our hearts which we would allow nothing whatever to disturb.

"Think what this would mean! No days of depression, no bitterness, no complaint. Meditating upon God's goodness to us, his good purposes which we can share, and his good gifts, a knowledge of which we may be rejoicing always, we should be flooded with inner happiness which would show itself in the very tones of our voices and the look of our eyes. It was so with St. Paul, although the outward circumstances of his life were exceedingly hard, as ever anyone had grounds for complaining, it would seem as if this brave soldier of Christ did. He had given up everything,—home, friends, position, all that the world holds dear, and what did he received in their place? Punishments and persecutions; disappointment in those for whom he labored; slander and hatred from the world around him. For what did St. Paul give up his honorable lot as the well-educated and well-to-do Jewish youth—to poverty, shipwreck and robbery; for stoning, imprisonment, chains and death! Yet this is the man who always gave thanks. His letters to the churches, however troublesome and unwelcome they might be to their members, gave repeated thanks for the faith of the faithful, and urged them to give thanks always for all things.

"We ask sometimes, when things look dark, if it would be right for us to give thanks. How was it with St. Paul? He gave thanks even for his trials, "'rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation.'" Yes, he even says, "I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulations.' There is a bright side to dark clouds, and one of these will look upon them as means of getting closer to God and to men, a means of doing greater service and more fully realizing the Divine purpose. So it is that even after a year of hard work, Christians who have suffered most will as naturally as any lift up their voices in thanksgiving, believing that the best things of God are not the produce of the field, the mere corn and wine which is so often sung, but the spiritual harvest reaped within the reverent hearts and consecrated lives.

"Then there is the wonderful fact that it is the thankful heart which helps more than anything else to accomplish desirable results, even in the outward life. Some one has said that 'thanksgiving is the business end of prayer.' It is the expression of the faith we have that what we have asked for is being received, that God is faithful who has promised; and so, praying with thanksgiving, and giving thanks for everything as we pray, we are entering in to the working of God's own will is bring*ing to pass the bright things* and good things that are needful for our welfare. St. Paul, 'abounding in thanksgiving,' wherever he went and whatever he suffered, was accomplishing by that very fact, or rather, helping to accomplish, the outward effects of the very gift of God for which he was giving thanks. So we, with readier thanksgiving, will be more certainly enjoying the gifts which Heaven has ever in store for us."

YOUNGER SOCIETY SET GIVES DELIGHTFUL DANCE

The social season was inaugurated Wednesday night when the younger society set gave its first dance at the Hartridge School auditorium. The affair, like those of other years, was a great success, more than two hundred guests being present from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, while many of the leading colleges were represented by their students, including a number of football heroes who have made history on the gridiron.

The auditorium, so recently remodeled, was made even more attractive with handsome furnishings and a pleasing arrangement of floral decorations. The stage was planned to represent a garden scene and here the Hungarian orchestra, of New York, fourteen pieces, in full evening dress, was seated. The program of dances was considered one of the best and it was after 2 o'clock in the morning when the delightful affair was terminated. During an intermission at midnight supper was served by a well-known caterer.

The committee under whose direction the dance was given and to whom the success of it is due, comprised Miss Helen Timpson, chairman; Miss Annie G. Fisk, treasurer; Miss Margarette Carpenter, Miss Dorothy Fisk, Miss Katherine McCutcheon, Miss Caroline Martin, Miss Martin and Miss Elinor G. Waring. The patronesses were Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Osborn Hatfield, Mrs. Frank S. Martin, Mrs. Robert Mc. Cutcheon, Mrs. A. M. Post, Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson and Mrs. Orville W. Waring.

The young women will probably give another similar dance at Easter time, allowing the bachelors to give their annual dance just prior to Christmas.

THANKSGIVING CHASE OF WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB

The Watchung Hunt Club held one of its most successful hunts of the season, Thursday morning, when sixteen members met with the hounds at the Baltusrol Golf Links at 10:30 o'clock. The going was exceedingly stiff and heavy, there being no end of high fences and wide ditches and the recent moderate spell had left the ground in a soft and soggy condition. However, the ride was an exciting one which all the participants fully enjoyed. There were only two spills, G. F. Casey, of Long Branch, and Peter Hauss, Jr., of Newark, being the unfortunates. They escaped injury, and after a few minutes were able to continue the chase.

The hunt ended at the Clubhouse, which was reached about 21 o'clock, and there the riders, together with many invited guests to the number of about seventy-five partook of a hunt breakfast, the hosts being Rufus C. Minck and Harry L. Fisher. The breakfast was served under the supervision of Steward Weatherbee and the menu was a delightful one.

Those participating in the hunt were Lewis E. Waring (master), Fred Bull, C. E. S. Bellows, Richard S. Waring, Rufus C. Fisch, Harry L. Fisher, Miss Mabel Cooley, Miss Gertrude Noe, W. C. Eckerson, Louis Batjer, Singleton Van Schaick, Walter Reynolds, Peter Hauss, Jr., Robert Anderson and Chris Cuming. Among the other guests at the breakfast were Stuart Wortley, of London, Eng., and Alfred A. Lascaster, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davies, S. A. Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Miss Helen Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. W. DeLaB. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Butler and Dr. F. C. Ard.

P. C. C. NOMINATORS.

The nominating committee of the Plainfield Country Club has been appointed and will comprise Elliot T. Barrows, Charles A. Reed and Edward H. Ladd, representing the club at large, together with Leighton Calkins, the president and George S. Kirkbride, the secretary. It will be the duty of this committee to name three trustees to be elected at the annual meeting in February.

The trustees whose terms expire are T. M. Day, J. M. Shellabarger and J. B. Sherrerd. Mr. Day has served six years, Mr. Shellabarger three years, while Mr. Stevens was only recently appointed. An auditing committee has also been appointed consisting of S. D. Loudsbery and George S. Clay.

The Human Test.

Lady in touring car beckons to pedestrian.

"Will you kindly do me a small favor, sir?"

"Certainly, madam."

"Then please stand out on the middle of the highway and yet me see how quickly I can stop my car without hitting you. I'm afraid the brake is out of order."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UNITED IN THANKSGIVING

Protestant Congregation Meet Together Following Their Annual Custom.

EIGHT PASTORS TOOK PART.

Rev. Mr. Goodrich Preached the Sermon—Congregation Large Despite the Bad Weather.

Most of the Protestant churches of the city joined in a union service of prayer and thanksgiving Thursday morning at the First M. E. church. There was a large attendance, though the threatening weather and muddy condition of the streets prevented many from attending.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church. The devotional exercises were begun with the singing of a hymn, "Come, Ye Thankful People," followed by the reading of sentences of Scripture by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church. The President's proclamation was read by Rev. O. J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist, delivered the invocation and led in the Lord's prayer, after which the choir sang an anthem, "Praise Ye the Father."

Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, conducted the reading of the Psalter, which was taken from Psalms 145, and Rev. H. B. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, read the Scripture lesson from Samuel 2: 22. The congregation sang "Eternal Source of Every Joy."

Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, led in prayer, and a "Response" by the choir was followed by the sermon of Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, at the conclusion of which the congregation sang "America."

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea led in the reading by the congregation of a general expression of thanks to God. During the singing of an anthem, "Sweet and Marvelous," by the choir, offerings were made for the Charity Organization Society.

Rev. John Y. Brock, of Trinity Reformed church, delivered an offertory prayer, following which the congregation took the doxology. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Charles Shaw.

Rev. Goodrich, in his sermon, referred to the day as the one when thoughts of the old home came to us especially strong, with its memories of the past, and he felt that all, too, he said, "for our forefathers, the noble and good men before us, whose Christian character we have inherited." It was true, to an unusual degree, he declared, that the pioneers were God-fearing men.

The speaker took as his taken his text from Psalms, 61: 5, "Thou hast given me the heritage of them that fear thy name." He believed that the long line of Godly fore-fathers has given us a momentus in Christianity which cannot be checked, and that this inheritance of character is what we have received in the way of a background.

Individuals of Christian parentage, said he, have stronger bodies by the inheritance of a Christian, intellectual and physical background. Godly parents have a different outlook on life than had they for parents those who disregard morality. They realize more readily the importance of higher education; they are taught a higher standard of morality and as a result nothing but high morality will satisfy them.

He pictured a father taking his boy up on a mountain and showing him the beautiful view below, and this he likened to the start in life the child has from a generous father and unselfish mother, who point the way from a higher position.

"And," said he, "we can bequeath this inheritance that we have received from those who feared God before us, to those who come after us."

K. OF C. HOLDS MEMORIAL SERVICE AT ST. MARY'S.

A memorial mass for the departed members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, was held at St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The members of the council attended the service in a body.

The departed members of the council in whose memory the mass was held are: Lawrence Doyle, Michael Owens, Edward A. Flynn, Joseph A. Barry, John E. Doyle, John H. Conroy, William J. Doyle, Alexander Flynn, James Hibbitts and James A. Saverd.

St. Agnes' Guild Dance.

Under the auspices of St. Agnes' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, a delightful dance was given in the parish house, Wednesday night. There were about fifty couples present. In addition to the dansing, games were enjoyed by some of the guests. The affair was under the direction of Mrs. Franklin Merrell, who is directress of the guild and she was assisted by other members. The music was furnished by Miss Jane Bennett and Miss Grace Squier. Refreshments were served during an intermission.

ARTHUR PECK'S TALK

His Lecture on "Custer and the Indian Lands" One of Absorbing Interest.

SOME FINE VIEWS SHOWN.

Boston Man Addresses the Monday Afternoon Club at the Hartridge Building.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Arthur K. Peck, of Boston, Monday at the Hartridge School auditorium, where he gave a lecture of absorbing interest on "Custer and the Indian Lands," before the Monday Afternoon Club. His remarks were beautifully illustrated with colored pictures shown by a stereopticon.

Beginning with some outposts of civilization, exhibiting pre-historic animals whose remains are found on our continent and wonderful geological formations, Mr. Peck showed some curious resemblances between the wonders of foreign travel and the rock formations of the far west, among the native castle on the Rhine, the Bridge of Sighs and the Sphinx. The wild lands where the Indians roamed and the home of buffaloes were clearly pictured and an interesting tale told by him of the Indian reservations, the conflict between the natives and the cow boys and the encounters between the United States troops and the Indians, resulting in the massacre in 1876 of General Custer with 260 men. The tepees of the Siouxs, their chief Sitting Bull, the mounds beneath the pictured stream and battle field gave a vivid representation of the scenes of the fearful massacre. Later the national cemetery that marked the resting place of the slain heroes was shown.

The lecture concluded with views beautiful beyond description of the marvels of Colorado, the Yellow Stone Park, Inspiration Point in the temple of the Almighty, and the grand canyons of the Colorado river in Arizona propesying that in days to come more travelers who now seek pleasure on foreign shores will turn their feet to the wonders of their own beautiful land.

Prior to the lecture an hour's discussion on next year's program occupied the club, Mrs. James W. De Graff, a vice-president presiding in Mrs. Maxson's place, illness detaining her at home.

ALBERTO BUCCINI'S FINE ART EXHIBITION

Alberto Puccini, who is a frequent visitor to this city, where he has many friends Tuesday opened an exhibition and sale of rural and decorative paintings and art silks at No. 347 Fifth avenue, New York, displaying one of the finest collections seen in that city this year. The exhibition will continue until Saturday night, and Mr. Buccini's local friends are invited to inspect it.

The choice paintings are figural, ornamental and floral and are especially designed for use in religious edifices, public buildings and private homes. The artists are designed for the embellishment of private chambers and include a great and most attractive variety.

In his announcement, the exhibitor states: "In giving this exhibition of mural and decorative paintings the artist, Alberto Buccini, has in mind to acquaint the critical taste of America with the latest European development in interior artistic decorative work. The artist is eminently fitted by his training and skill to execute this work." He has studied under his father, Eduardo Buccini, one of Italy's foremost artists, and other eminent artists of Europe, and in the leading academies in Paris, Rome and London."

WAKE ASTERN; KIPLINGESQUE.

I wonder, all these lonesome years
Since I been goin' on th' sea,
How many miles o' wake I've sunk
Between my home an' me.

Birds are flyin' 'round th' wake we're leavin',
Birds are sailin' high against th' wind;
An' it ain't a bit o' use t' be a-grievin'
F'r what we've left behind.

In trade winds when th' sea is smooth
An' everything is drawin' fine,
Th' wake spins out a mile an' more,
A white an' even line.

Down south along th' westerlies,
Th' runnin' sea yaws us away,
An' twists our track across th' waves,
Th' livelong dreary day.

Birds are beatin' 'round th' wake we're leavin',
Birds are flatin' high against th' wind;
An' it ain't a bit o' use t' be a-grievin'
F'r what we've left behind.

PROOF OF SIGHT IN PLANTS.

Nature Student Comes Forward with Convincing Argument.

"Darwin believed that plants could see, and I believe so, too," said a nature student.

"I was reading on my veranda the other day; one foot was near a large convolvulus. The tendrils were pointing outwards, but in a few minutes I heard them rustle faintly—they were turning towards my shoe. They began to advance towards it, moving as a very sluggish serpent might have done, and by the time I had finished the joke columa they were within a few inches of me. I went indoors then for dinner. On my return the convolvulustendrils, disgusted, had resumed their outward march towards the rail.

"I got a pole and set it up a foot from the nearest tendrils. In ten minutes they were creeping sturdily towards the pole. To-day they are twined about it.

"How could the convolvulus tendrils approach my foot and the pole, both placed in the opposite direction from the light, unless they saw? Yes, they must have sight, these plants, or they couldn't trot about in the silent, clever way they do."

SNAKES A GENERAL NUISANCE.

Pennsylvania Farmers Seem Greatly Bothered by the Reptiles.

George Burbee, who is building a new house for himself on a part of his father's farm on German Hill, went to refill a water jug the other day that had been left in the shade, when he luckily espied a huge rattler 42 inches long and carrying 13 rattles, ready for a fight about the jug. George lost no time in killing the reptile and has preserved the skin and rattles to verify his statement.

Two young sons of George Copeland were chicken hunting near one of their father's home, on Little Hickory creek, one day recently and killed an even dozen of rattlers before they gave up the battle.

Henry Amburger of Hunters Station has been missing eggs from the nest in his chicken coop, even a china egg disappearing. He suspected rats or other small animals, but the other day when he found a dead blacksnake eight feet long nearby, with a china egg lodged in its stomach, the great mystery was solved.—Tionesta Vindicator.

Authors Who Are Giants.

Tit-Bits has recently been publishing some facts about the stature of well-known English authors, in one of its articles it says: "Of great giants in literature in two senses of the term, we have Thackeray, who was six feet three inches in height. Coming to the present time, we have Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is six feet two inches high. Rider Haggard took it on account of his stalwart build. Then there is Cutcliffe Hyne, who is six feet three inches in height, while Hesketh Prichard is even a shade taller. Keble Howard, the author of 'The Smiths of Surbiton,' runs to six feet 1½ inches in height, while his brother, R. S. Warren Bell, who at once ends and tops our list, is close upon six feet five inches."

To Use Electric Trucks.

Electric trucks have been introduced by the company which controls nearly all the docks of the Brooklyn water front with great success. Formerly trucks run on three wheels were used, and these were drawn by horses. The matter of transportation by this means was always necessarily slow, and the action of the feet of the animals tramping constantly over the wood covering of the piers made the item of repairs a very heavy one. The new trucks carry four wheels, are as safe as the horse-drawn ones, besides reducing the cost of dock repairs to a minimum.

Only One Life.

The chief of the fire department of Philadelphia, watching a dangerous fire in that city not a long ago, was amazed by the daring of a recruit in the service, a young fellow plainly of German origin.

After the new fireman had emerged from his perilous position, the chief met him with many expressions of commendation and admiration.

"Well done, Hans, my boy!" exclaimed he; "but I never expected to see you alive again!"

"Alife again!" repeated the German, surprised. "Vy, I hafn't been dead yet!"—Exchange.

Strenuous Home Rule.

A New York mission worker tells of encountering a new game in one of the tenements in that region.

Two urchins were driving a rubber ball back and forth with home-made rackets. The youngsters were intensely absorbed in their sport.

"What rules are you using?" asked the mission worker, with a smile, "English or American?"

"Aw, wese got our own rules," replied one of the youngsters, scornfully. "I bats der ball ter Chimmy till he misses a bounce, an' den I gets ets de right ter swat him t'ree times wid me bat."

Inventor of Suspension Bridge.

The inventor of the modern suspension bridge was James Finley of Pennsylvania. His first bridge was built in 1801-02. By 1810 he had built eight. He built many more after that. A bridge built by his licensee, John Templeman, over the Merrimac, in Massachusetts, in 1810, is still in use and traversed by trolley cars. A bridge built in strict accordance with his original plans over the Lehigh river, at Lehigh Gap, in 1824, is still in use.

HEAVEN

A series of Sermons by Rev. Dr. Chas E. Herring.

Underneath is God.

"The Eternal God is thy Refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arm."

These words are part of the blessings of Moses upon Israel, just before his death. In the American Revision of the Bible, the verse reads: "The eternal God is thy dweling place;" for the Hebrew word which is translated "refuge," means a home, an abiding place. What a comforting thought not only to Israel, but you; "The eternal God is your home, your dwelling place."

When you consider the circumstances, I think the verse will mean a great deal more to you. Moses had guided Israel for forty years in the wilderness. The people had not settled place of abode. Mosse had seen many changes in that time, for nearly all those who had left Egypt had died in the wilderness; only their children remained, and only two of all the number that departed from Egypt, Caleb and Joshua, entered the Promised Land. It is with this picture in his mind that he says, "The Eternal God is our abiding place, and underneath are the everlasting arms."

We are living in a world of change, and as we grow older, we become more convinced of it. The old love to revert to the past, for the past means so much more to them than the present, and it grieves them that the past is gone. It grieves us to think that there is such a thing as change, but our experience teaches us that beneath all the changefulness in the world, there is something that does not change. I am not speaking of the changelessness in the world to come, but of the changelessness in this world. Experience teaches us that underneath there is the law of change that does not change. "Change and decay in all around I see," but that change progresses according to certain definite laws which never change. If there were no steadiness in these laws we could not be able to exist and carry on our work. We are able, therefore, to plan and carry out our plans, because of the fixity and certainty of the laws of the universe. The laws that determine change, are changeless. The change, for example, the law of the seasons; spring, summer, autumn, and winter that follow each other with unchanging regularity. That law has never changed. It is because of this unchanging law that the farmer is able to do his planting at certain seasons of the year, for he believes that conditions will follow in a few weeks which will develop the seed he has planted. He believes it, because it has always been so in his experience, and in the experience of men of all time. He believes that his expectation will not be disappointed now, and, it is not disappointed. He never doubts that the seed which he plants in the spring, will develop in the summer and produce after its kind in the harvest.

Well, what does all this mean? It means that underneath the visible world is the spiritual world. The surface may show change, but there is the invisible, law beneath the surface which is changeless. The changings we see are temporal—the laws we do not see are eternal. The law of change is not only unchanging but it is unchangeable. You can change the surface of things; you cannot change the law which are underneath all things. You can tunnel the mountains, and turn the course of the rivers, but the substrata of things you cannot in the slightest degree touch or change. Your wisdom is seen in adapting yourself to the laws of nature. You may find a higher law of nature that modifies a lower one, but you cannot change a law of nature; and so the scientist's purpose is not to reverse any of these laws that they may be more to his liking. His purpose is to know them more thoroughly, that he may more perfectly adapt himself and his conduct to them. The real basis of this changing world, then, is unchanging and unchangeable.

Moral and spiritual laws are likewise unchanging. We may make intellectual advance, but we never get beyond the teachings of the Lord as they are recorded in the New Testament. The great need of men remains the same. The fashions of this world are passing away, but God's moral and spiritual laws are not growing old.

"What rules are you using?" asked the mission worker, with a smile, "English or American?"

"Aw, wese got our own rules," replied one of the youngsters, scornfully. "I bats der ball ter Chimmy till he misses a bounce, an' den I gets ets de right ter swat him t'ree times wid me bat."

Inventor of Suspension Bridge.

The inventor of the modern suspension bridge was James Finley of Pennsylvania. His first bridge was built in 1801-02. By 1810 he had built eight. He built many more after that. A bridge built by his licensee, John Templeman, over the Merrimac, in Massachusetts, in 1810, is still in use and traversed by trolley cars. A bridge built in strict accordance with his original plans over the Lehigh river, at Lehigh Gap, in 1824, is still in use.

all in the unchanging God.

You remember how in the ninetieth Psalm Moses says "Lord, a home Thou hast been to us in all generations. Amid all the changes in this wilderness as we moved our tents from place to place and felt that we had no real home, Lord! Thou wast our home."

In a recent address on America's Place in the history of the nations of the world, Dr. Ira. S. Arthur said: "that the rise of this great republic was not the work of chance but the work of God. His whole address centred in this thought that the shaping of this great nation was distinctively the work of the Divine Artificer. That is consonant with the teaching of the Word of God. God elevates one nation and destroys another. He elevates that nation not for its own selfish glorification but that it may bless the world.

Underneath the history of nations is God and underneath the life of every individual soul is God. Underneath the changing circumstances of your life is the loving Father who does not change, and whose plans do not change and who will carry out His purpose for your good. Wherever you go you think of the changes in this life but you believe that you are related to a world that does not change and that thought should fill your soul with joy. Heaven is round about you, then why should you be troubled? Your friends, Where are they? Departed? Where? "With Christ which is far better." They are in the spiritual world. You are, likewise, in that spiritual world. Death is not a sleep but an awakening. Bye and bye you will discover that heaven is not so much another place as another view. The verses of Rossiter W. Raymond are in line with this thought, and as they have been such a comfort to many who have lost their dear ones, I am going to quote them to you.

Beside the dead I knelt for prayer,
And felt a presence as I prayed.
Lo! it was Jesus standing there;
He smiled: "Be not afraid.

"Lord, thou hast conquered death, I know.
Restore again to life," I said,
"This one who died an hour ago."
He smiled: "She is not dead."

"Asleep then as thyself didst say,
Yet thou canst lift the lids that keep
Her prisoned eyes from ours away."
He smiled: "She doth not sleep."

"Nay, then, tho haply she doth wake
And look upon some fairer dawn,
Restore her to our hearts that ache."
He smiled: "She is not gone."

"Alas, too well we know our loss,
Nor hope again our joy to touch
Until the stream of death we cross."
He smiled: "There is no such."

"Yet our beloved seem so far,
The while we yearn to feel them near,
Albeit we trust with thee they are"
He smiled: "And I am here."

"Dear Lord, how shall we know that they Still walk unseen with us and thee,
Nor sleep nor wander far away?"
He smiled: "Abide in me."

TRAVELED 22,000 MILES WITH WILD WEST SHOW

Traveling over 22,000 miles in thirty weeks, Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, returned home Monday, enthusiastic about her wonderful experiences as a member of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. After exhibiting for three weeks first May at Madison Square Garden, the show traveled through Pennsylvania, and then turned to the Eastern States going as far north as Maine, thence to the middle States as far as St. Louis. Retracing its steps to Springfield, Mass., the show then exhibited through New York State, Canada and Detroit, Wisconsin, Michigan, Denver, Leadville, Col., and then took the famous trip through the Rockies.

Miss von Ohl appeared at every performance on her celebrated pony "Aristocrat," who executes many wonderful stunts, including the cake walk, that of jumping three feet in the air from a standing position and many tricks which the owner describes as of the high schoolvariety. Everywhere both rider and animal received a great ovation.

While in Salt Lake City Miss von Ohl visited the famous Mormon Tabernacle, and had the experience of meeting a young woman who in a day or two was to marry a Mormon. Other places visited included Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Seattle and Los Angeles and Arizona. In the latter State the show appeared in a town that is 150 feet below the level of the sea, and Miss von Ohl was the guest of Charles Meadows, the wealthiest man in Arizona, at a buffalo feast.

From Arizona Miss von Ohl went to Texas, where she had her picture taken in one of the large rings, where bull fights are held. Then a trip was taken through the Southern States, as far as Memphis, where the show closed. Col. Cody has shipped his five stock to Coatesville, Pa., for the winter, while he himself will spend the time on his ranch in Wyoming. Miss von Ohl returned with many valuable relics, including a number obtained from Indians. While in Texas she just missed by one day one of the greatest bull fights of recent times.

ELECT THEIR VESTRYMEN

Protestant Episcopal Parishes in City and Borough Hold Annual Elections.

NAME CONVENTION DELEGATES.

Edwin S. Hooley Succeeds Frank Harrington at Holy Cross—Grace Vestry Large.

The annual parish meeting of Grace church was held Monday at the parish house, at which time vestrymen and wardens for various terms were elected. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector, presided, and in connection with the business of the evening he took occasion to thank the retiring members of the vestry for their efficient service in the past. The condition of the parish was reported to be satisfactory in every way.

These vestrymen and wardens were elected:

Vestrymen—Three years, Orville G. Waring, W. T. Pelletier, George S. Clay; two years, G. M. Holstein, J. Paul Nolting, E. F. Feickert; one year, F. W. Iredell, Marion S. Ackerman, William Palmer Smith. Wardens—two years, Howard Fleming; one year, W. T. Keough. Delegates to diocesan convention—John B. Dumont, Howard Fleming, George S. Clay; alternates, J. Paul Nolting, A. W. Kleinecke and E. F. Feickert.

With one exception all of the vestrymen and wardens were re-elected at the parish meeting of the Church of the Holy Cross Monday night, exception was in the retirement of Frank Harrington, who declined to serve another year. Edwin S. Hooley was chosen in his place. Rev. George A. Warner, rector, presided at the meeting and there was the reception of the annual reports all showing the parish to be in fine condition, financially and spiritually. The extensive improvements underway, were stated to be progressing satisfactorily.

Dr. J. H. Carman was elected senior warden and Charles L. Nichols junior warden. The vestrymen elected are as follows: William L. Saunders, Everett Murray, Herbert Langford, Wesley Hegeman and Edwin S. Hooley. The delegates will be elected later.

The parish meeting of St. Stephen's church will be held Thursday night for the election of vestrymen and wardens and reception of reports.

The annual parish meeting of the Church of the Heavenly Rest is held in the spring of the year instead of at Advent.

RAILROAD TAX MONEY NOT YET FOR PEOPLE

Although under the law the counties of the State are entitled to receive their apportionment of railroad taxes from the main stem sources by November 1, the fact that these taxes have not all been collected may make necessary the passage by the coming legislature of another enabling act before the State treasurer can pay out the proportion of moneys now in his hands.

The situation is similar to that which existed last year over the distribution of the 1906 tax, which should have been paid to the counties on November 1, 1907. The State comptroller then was advised that owing to litigation large amounts of tax moneys had not been paid, and that he had no authority to make partial payments to the counties. Then the Legislature passed an enabling act directing him to pay out but this act does not apply to the sums received since.

Of the 1906 main item taxes there remains $200,000 due, the Pennsylvania Railroad owing $198,000 of this amount. The courts have recently decided against the railroads and they will have to pay up. November 1 has passed and they have not done so. Of the 1907 taxes only about $25,000 is still unpaid, but this is added to and up to the apportionment of about $2,250,000 pending legislative action.

Almanac for 1909.

Professor Mayo has just issued a most beautiful, useful and complete almanac. It contains not only all the scientific information concerning the moon's phases, in all the latitudes; but has illustrated articles on how to read character by phrenology, palmistry and birth mouth. It also tells a little card reading, birth stones and their meaning, and gives the interpretation of dreams. It teaches beauty culture, manicuring, gives weights and measures, and antidotes for poison. In fact, it is a magazine almanac, that not only gives valuable information, but will afford much amusement for every member of the family, especially for parties and evening entertainments. Farmers and people in the rural districts will find this almanac almost invaluable. It will be sent to anyone absolutely free on application to the Mayon Remedy Company, Philadelphia.

TAXPAYERS MAKE A 'KICK'

again. He said he was before this taxation board in the interests of North Plainfield and he wanted the members to consider the question and put before them by the committee appointed for the purpose. Then, turning directly to Mr. Hooley, he said:

"You can't afford to keep your position in this matter."

"You can't," said Mr. Hooley.

"You're wrong. This has nothing to do with it. There's the assessor over there—"

"I wouldn't take his word," Mr. Hooley interjected.

"Well, just the same I had nothing to do with your assessment," said the mayor and he sat down.

"I don't know that you had anything to do with the assessor's books," Mr. Smalley exclaimed direct to the mayor, "but you persisted in this raise and I hold it to you."

Mr. Hooley then resumed, by saying that of the increase in taxes in North Plainfield this year, Charles W. McCutcheon, W. J. Buttfield and himself had gotten practically all of it.

"Where did you get your information?" asked Mr. Saunders.

"From the assessor's books."

"Well, let me say right now that my tax is now $365, more than it ever was before. As a matter of fact, I came here tonight to complain and I disclaim any responsibility for this increase."

Mr. Reed secured the floor at this juncture and stated that any charge that he and Assessor Cooley were in cahoots in the raise of valuations was ridiculous, adding that they hadn't agreed on anything in ten years.

"No, not in public," said Mr. Hooley.

"This talk about my being the power behind the throne," resumed Mr. Reed, ignoring the interruption, "is amusing to me. I knew nothing abont any agitation for an increase in valuations until Mayor Townsend made his statement. He asked my opinion about it after explaining his views with reference to the benefits to be derived from the railroad taxes, and other matters and I thought it was all right. I went to Somerville with Mr. Smalley to discuss the increase for the benefit of the county and the members agreed with him in doubling values."

"We did not," exclaimed Messrs. Smalley, Stewart and Van Doren in unison. An argument followed as to whether they did nor whether they didn't and it was eventually dropped without any conclusion being reached. Resuming his statement, Mr. Reed said:

"I put it up to the board about the railroad tax and as a result of the recommendation, North Plainfield got a raise of 44 per cent. and the rest of the county 18 per cent. We have a member of that board, (referring to Smalley) and he knows how the raise was made; the assessor gives figures subject to the board and is guided by them. If there is a change it's not my funeral—I'm not on the board."

Mr. Smalley again took the floor as the borough counsel concluded and speaking more to him than to the gathering, he said:

"Mr. Reed's assertion that the railroad tax would give up more money is foreign to the fact. I disagreed with him right there at the meeting and we frowned on his proposition from the first. I say now in regard to his part that his natural tendency for the past few years has been increased values and expenses and create dissatisfaction. It was so in my term of office and it is so now. His recommendations resulted in Assessor Cooley taking things in a different light than ever before. If it hadn't been for the agitation Mr. Reed has created the dissatisfaction would never have acquired."

The former mayor's remarks were followed by a few minutes of cross-fire talk between himself, Mr. Reed, W. L. Saunders and Mr. Hooley at the end of which Mr. Hooley again took the floor with a copy of tax assessments and other figures in his hand, from which he read.

"My increase in assessments this year," he said, "has been 344.71 per cent. Mr. Buttfield's 121.60, Mr. McCutchen's 76.26 and Mr. Saunders' 37.25. I don't think I should pay ten times as much as Mr. Saunders and five times as much as Colonel John F. Wilson. Mayor Townsend last year paid taxes on $8,100 worth of property; this year on $11,000 and yet his percentage is the same as that of Mr. Saunders. It is remarkable that in the assessments of all the men who wanted annexation there has not been a variation of five per cent."

"Mr. Hooley made a palace out of his house within the past year," said Mr. Saunders, jumping to his feet; "while I added but $2,000 worth of improvement to mine."

"I am not kicking about the assessment," retorted Mr. Hooley, "I can pay my taxes but I don't see why one or two should do it all. I believe before we go to Somerville every one ought to have a few funerals right here."

Henry C. White said he believed the citizens were getting into the trouble in the wrong way. He declared the vital question was not as to who started the agitation but to take cognizance of the petition put before the board for the increase.

Assessor Cooley explained his position. He declared that he had no wish to shirk any responsibility for the increases and that he would tell why he had made them. He cited the instructions given him by the county board to assess everyone on a fair and equal basis and how he had sought to live up to the law. He expressed doubt if there were a piece of property that was assessed at a figure that it was ever sold for and declared that there were other districts in the county that were not assessed properly. He said he had increased the figures on Mr. Hooley because he found that his house greatly enlarged and a great many valuable horses and carriages in his stables.

"How about your own assessment, though?" asked Mr. Hooley, "I don't know whether you found any improvements on your house or not because I didn't go to your place and look at your cows and baths."

Mr. Cooley said he had increased his own assessment about thirty per cent.

Mayor Smalley took exception to the assessor's statement relative to asking the board to go before it with him, declaring that his books were all made up before the members accepted his invitation. This Mr. Cooley denied, adding that only one-tenth of his assessments had been put down.

W. J. Buttfield, who had hitherto refrained from speaking, stated that the borough was being used as a football. He declared that the investigation showed that the assessor was not acting in good faith, whether from ignorance or carlessness he didn't know.

"In going over the tax books," he continued, "I have found many inequalities and Mr. Cooley's personal assessment compared with others shows it. The figures show that he pays on only $3,000 worth of personal property. I say he is not doing his duty."

Councilman Woolston followed him for a brief talk during which he said Mayor Townsend had looked up the law relating to the increased assessments because last year the borough was above the legal rate in taxation. He decided that North Plainfield was not assessed too much, wherein Mr. Kenney, of the board, agreed with him.

"The main kick," said Mr. Kenney, "always seems to be that the borough is not getting a proportionate return from the county for what it pays out. It's the same everywhere; Somerville has the same complaint. The money is generally spent in building roads and bridges in the rural districts."

Somebody chimed in to say, "yes, much of Somerville township in which Somerville is located," but Mr. Kenney made no reply.

Harold Serrell took occasion to cite some tax assessments in his neighborhood and they were presented in the form of an objection to his own. Mayor Smalley told him that that was a matter that the board was responsible for and his figures would be considered if he presented them in the usual way.

"I am glad to hear Mr. Smalley say that," exclaimed Mayor Townsend, "because if he is responsible for the Serrell case he is responsible for the county."

Former Mayor Hegeman was the last speaker to make any sort of an address and he was "plain" from the outset. He asserted that North Plainfield's position is very humiliating and that it knew it was and the assessor the citizens had "been done by the rubes in the county." He asked Mr. Cooley direct if he didn't know that by raising the values forty per cent. he was laying himself liable to something and that if he didn't know it the assessors elsewhere in the county would not follow suit.

"If this board will give us relief from the position we have placed ourselves in," Mr. Hegeman concluded, "we will have something to be thankful for."

There was more or less general conversation after this, during which there were several "plain" statements made and not a little personal talk. The chairman put an end to it by declaring that unless someone wanted to say something direct to the board the meeting was adjourned. No one spoke up.

Expert Billiardsists at Club.

The annual billiard tournament of the Park Place Club was inaugurated Tuesday night by an exhibition game between two expert billiard players from New-York, Messrs. McLaughlin and Gallagher. Followiwg the game each will devote half an hour to fancy shots.

Fatiguing.

"You look tired, Johnny. What's the matter—social duties too much for you?" said a gentleman in a Cincinnati elevator the other day, jocosely.

"Yes, sir," replied the elevator boy, opening the door at the ninth floor to let out Mr. Taft, "I've been getting up a large party."—Lippincott's.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XL PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1908. NO. 50

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

PATROLMEN ORGANIZED

William J. Messler Head of Local Branch of N. J. Benevolent Association.

STATE OFFICERS ARE PRESENT.

Refreshments Served and Speeches Made Following the Formal Institution.

Plainfield Branch, No. 18, of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of New Jersey, was instituted in the Knights of Columbus Hall, yesterday afternoon and officers for the coming year were elected, after which a banquet was enjoyed. The institution of the new branch, which starts with a charter membership of nineteen, was in charge of State President Henry W. Weller, of Newark, who was accompanied by other State officers.

After the branch was organized these officers were announced for the ensuing year: President, William Messler; vice-president, Charles Flynn; recording secretary, Cornelius McCarthy; financial secretary, Daniel MacDonald; treasurer, Dennis O'Keefe; sergeant-at-arms, Arthur McGinley; legislative committee, committee, John Payne, George Dobson, Richard Birmingham; trustees, George Dobson, Andrew Saffron and John Payne.

President William Messler.

Following the details of organization, President Messler addressed the members. He briefly stated the objects of the association to be benevolent and for the protection of the members of time of sickness and accident. He called upon everyone to co-operate and stand shoulder to shoulder in the performance of duty and urged the men not to criticize their superior officers, but to lend every assistance in preserving the peace and good order of the city. He cited the fact that the patrolmen have always been loyal in the past and he felt sure that in the future they would prove equal to every occasion.

In referring to the objects of the association, President Messler expressed the hope that through co-operation the interest of every man would be protected and that their rights would be maintained. He asked for the united support of every member in holding up the high principles set forth in the constitution, realizing that the State association comprising a membership of about 1,500 men, is banded together only for that which is right. Mr. Messler's remarks were received with much applause.

Remarks were then made by State President Henry W. Weller, State Delegate John E. Smith and Patrolman Theodore McNally, of Newark; State Vice-President John Begins, of Jersey City; Past State Presidents Daniel Walsh, of Hoboken, and J. D. Garrison, of Paterson, and State Secretary H. B. G. Harrison, of Hoboken.

After the meeting for organization which was private, the members and invited guests, including Chief Kiely, Captain Chris. Frederickson, Detective Sergeant John Flyn, Sergeant Herbert L. Overbaugh and Roundsman Maurice Higgins, adjourned to the banquet hall, where a fine spread was served by Timbo. Afterward a smoker and social time was enjoyed.

The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association is being organized in eighteen cities of the State, Asbury Park, Bayonne, Elizabeth, Hoboken, Jersey City, Long Branch, Newark, Paterson Passaic, Trenton, West Hoboken, West New York, Perth Amboy, Weehawken, Union Hill, East Orange, North Bergen and Plainfield.

The association has been formed along lines similar to that of the Superior Officers' Association, and is now strong enough to secure legislative enactments favorable to the interests of the patrolmen. During the past two or three years considerable advancement has been made in this direction and other legislation is anticipated this winter.

Miss Ida Yerkes, of Grove street, has gone to Philadelphia to spend a couple of weeks with friends.

TALKS ON THE FILIPINOS

Dr. Charles C. Pierce, Former Army Chaplain, Contrasts Them with Cubans.

HIS DISCOURSE INSTRUCTIVE.

Lecturer Says People in Philippines Are Fitted for Self-Government; Not So Cubans.

The experiences of a chaplain of the United States Army while stationed in the Philippines during the late war, were related by the chaplain, himself, Dr. Charles C. Pierce, of Philadelphia, last night in an address to the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue church. About forty members were present and after the lecture all gathered in the chapel where refreshments were served and an opportunity given to meet the speaker.

It was Dr. Pierce's belief that the Filipinos are far more capable of self government than are the Cubans, and he explained his position by citing the attitudes of the two races towards the church. He had served eight months in uba also, and had observed that the Cubans were irreverent and treated their own church with disrespect, while the Filipinos, who, he said, had much more reason for abandoning their church, on account of their hatred for the Spanish friars, were still devout worshippers.

He did not state how soon the islanders might be able to run their own government, but declared that before that could be, they would first have to develop a race of their own, the Filipinos of today being represented by a number of different races, of widely divergent characteristics. By the process of intermarriage, a characteristic Filipino people would be developed which would be a credit to every nation.

The lecturer explained why industrial enterprises had not flourished under the Spanish rule. Taxes which yielded no returns to the people and which ate up all of the profits, had been imposed upon everything, even to the raising of a cocoanut tree. The natives could find no enjoyment in working whereby some one else would reap the benefits, and themselves receive nothing, and their spirit had, therefore, gradually deteriorated.

There is no danger of Japan ever gaining control in the islands, he believes, for the reason that the natives both fear and hate the Japs. This condition has existed since a ship load of lepers had been dumped among them by the Mikado many years ago, the act having been done in retaliation of a grievance which he had held against the Spaniards who were then in possession. The sight of a Jap is distasteful to the inhabitants to this day, he said.

HOLY CROSS CHRISTMAS SERVICES ANNOUNCED.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has sent a Christmas greeting to all his parishioners, in which he calls attention to some of the important events connected with the festive occasion. On Christmas Day morning there will be the first celebration of Holy Communion at 6 o'clock, the second at 8 o'clock and the third at 11 o'clock with morning prayer and sermon.

The children's carol service and Christmas tree will be in the church on Monday night, December 28, at 7:45 o'clock. The children of the church will bring each one some gift either of games, toys, fruits or groceries, which will be sent afterward to the Gladstone School for poor boys.

Dislocated His Shoulder.

William Osborn, colored, of 206 Arlington avenue, was taken to the hospital last night suffering from a dislocated shoulder, the result of a fall he had a short time before. He was engaged in the junk business and was loading some stuff on his wagon, when the horse made a sudden start, throwing him off. He landed on his shoulder putting it out of place. Dr. E. W. Hedges was summoned and after Osborn was taken to the hospital the bone was reset. He will be able to return home within a few days.

New Curate at St. Mary's.

Father Daniel Hogan, the new curate at St. Mary's church, was formerly of the Diocese of Mobile, but lately has been stationed in Jersey City. He is a young man and takes the place of Father Keogh, who has been transferred to Jersey City.

Joseph A. Dear Critically Ill.

Joseph A. Dear, publisher and principal owner of "The Jersey City Evening Journal," is critically ill at his home in that city.

BIG CROWD AT CONCERT

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra's Performance Proves to be a Popular Attraction.

MISS ANNA L. CASE APPLAUDED

Soprano Soloist's Contributions a Feature—Some Fine Violin Solos Heard.

A packed house greeted the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, at its concert last night and many persons were unable to get in the auditorium at all ,space where anyone could sit or stand being already occupied.

The music was excellent. Miss Flocence Austin's violin renditions captivated the audience and she was compelled to respond to many vociferous encores.

Miss Anna L. Case, also won the admiration of her hearers with her soprano solos, and the orchestra itself which always pleases with its admirable music and is therefore very popular in Plainfield, received thunderous applause last night. They were generous with encore selections and were well prepared with extra ones, past experiences teaching that they would be needed.

Dr. J. H. Buchanan and Miss Marion Austin accompanied the soloists with the piano.

The program follows:

Masonic Band March, "Imperial Teteques," F. H. Losey; overture, from "Jolly Robbers," von Suppe; trombone solo, "Ave Maria," Charles Gounod, D. Lawson and orchestra; selected, soprano solo, Miss Case, Dr. J. H. Buchanan at the piano; violin solo, (a) introduction, Andante; (b) Adagio Religioso; (c) Allegro, Miss Austin, Miss Marion Austin at the piano; "Hungarian Dance No. 5," Joh. Brahms; Menuetto, "Atlantique," Paderewski I; Waldher's Prize Song, from "Die Meistersinger," Richard Wagner; W. Frazee and orchestra; march, "The Turkish Patrol," Theo. Michaelis; intermezzo, from "Cavelerii Rusticana," Pietro Mascagni; sextette, from "Lucia di Lammermoor," Donizetti; piano solo, selected, Miss Case; violin solo, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell; "Hungarian Dance," Nachez; Miss Austin, Miss Marion Austin at the piano; Marguerite Valse Intermezzo, from "Faust," Charles Gounod; Anvil chorus, from "Il Trovatore," Giuseppe Verdi; march, "From Ocean to Ocean," F. H. Losey; M. A. Korff conductor.

SCOTT POST CHOOSES H. C. SMITH COMMANDER

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at its regular meeting last night, elected these officers for the ensuing year:

Commander, H. Craig Smith; senior vice-commander, Charles B. Stephens; junior vice-commander, Fred Wenzel; quartermaster, John H. Naylor; chaplain, N. C. Pennington; officer of the day, S. R. Struthers; officer of the guard, Edward Vanderweg; surgeon, E. E. Townley; trustees, Past Department Commander William C. Smith, Past Commanders William Hand and M. C. Dobbins.

There are a number of appointive officers and these will be announced later. It is likely that the installation of officers will be arranged to be held jointly with those of the Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans, as has been the custom in the past.

DEMAND FOR REMOVAL OF BAD GRADE CROSSING.

Former Judge William A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, appeared before the State Railroad Commission at Trenton yesterday in the interests of the residents of Lincoln and vicinity who want the grade crossings of the New Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroad at that place properly protected. It has been shown that on three selected days 275 trains passed over this crossing on both roads each day, showing the need for protection. Both railroad companies were represented by counsel, who oppose the action.

A decision is expected within a few days.

C. S. C. to Hold Up Appointees' Pay.

At the meeting of the Civil Service Commission at Trenton yesterday the action of the Essex County Board of Freeholders in making appointments contrary to the civil service law, was discussed. Gardiner Colby, secretary of the commission, was instructed not to certify the payrolls containing the names of the new appointees.

RECITAL MUCH ENJOYED

Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler Gives Brilliant Piano Program.

AT MRS. A. H. ATTERBURY'S.

Her Interpretation, Phrasing, Technique and Touch Simply Wonderful—Audience Highly Pleased.

Probably, the most noteworthy musical event of the season was the piano recital given at the Partridge School auditorium last night, by Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, considered one of the foremost women pianists of this country. The affair was given under the auspices of the Musical Club of Plainfield, and it was through the influence of Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury that this talented woman was brought to this city. Her appearance attracted a capacity audience of genuine lovers of classical music, for the entire program was of that order, the numbers being by Beethoven, Chopin, Schubert, Debussy, Saint-Saens, Delitis and Tschaikowsky.

It is exceedingly doubtful whether a program giving more genuine pleasure could have been arranged, and from the first to the last numbers there was evidenced that keen sense of appreciation that is so much enjoyed by an artist. Frequently, before Mrs. Zeisler would conclude her number, the audience would burst forth in applause. Repeatedly she was recalled after each number, and she graciously responded to two encores, one being after the last selection, when the audience refused to let Mrs. Zeisler go without another rendition.

Perhaps, the crowning achievement of the evening's recital was the rendition, "The Erl-King," by Schubert, transcribed for piano by Liszt and translated from Goethe's poem. This was given by request and it was the means of displaying the marvelous interpretation of the artist. This was the occasion for the rendition of a large bunch of beautiful roses and violets by the club.

Words cannot adequately describe the work of Mrs. Zeisler. Her mastery of the piano, interpretation, phrasing, technique and touch all held her audience spell-bound throughout the rendition of every number. The strong passages were executed with a vigor that aroused everyone to the greatest point of enthusiasm, while in the softer lines there was a delicacy of touch that was charming. Each degree in each number the rendition was absolutely perfect.

The program follows:

HORSE CLEARS STREET UPSETTING ALL OBSTACLES.

The quietude of West Third street was disturbed yesterday afternoon when the delivery horse belonging to H. I. Farbman, the grocer, suddenly came to life after a life long Rip Van Winkle existence. One man was stood on his head in the street, a buggy upset and the street quickly cleared of all traffic.

The horse mounted the steps of Jacob Schick's residence then continued down the street to First place, where it stopped and quietly surveyed the results of its 300-yard dash. What she saw was an overturned van with a broken axle, belonging to Hoagland's Express Co. and from which Fred Taylor, the driver, had been ejected upside down and a shattered buggy with six men holding the horse which had been cut from its moorings. Besides its own wagon which she had succeeded in shaking loose.

Why the mare took a notion to run is not known. The driver had entered the store and there was no one at the reins.

TWO ARE HURT IN CRASH

Trolley Car Strikes Milk Wagon and Patrick J. Regan is Severely Injured.

HIS DAUGHTER MUCH BRUISED.

Broken Rib and Cuts and Bruises Suffered by Regan—The Vehicle Is Totally Wrecked.

Patrick J. Regan, a milk dealer residing on Harrison avenue, was severely injured, and his daughter, Miss Anna Regan, 12 years old, was slightly hurt in an accident at West Front street and Giraud avenue, early last evening, when Main line trolley car No. 1922 crashed into their wagon. The vehicle was reduced to kindling wood and the two occupants were buried in a mass of wreckage from which they were extricated with difficulty. The horse escaped without a scratch.

Regen was hurried to Muhlenbers Hospital in F. W. Weed's automobile where it was found that he had sustained a broken rib, numerous cuts on the face and scalp and contusions about the entire body. His condition is not serious. Miss Regan's hurts comprise cuts on the head and bruises on the left side. She is being treated at home by Dr. Bonta.

The accident occurred just as Regan emerged from Giraud avenue and was crossing the west-bound track. The car was bound for Dunellen and was proceeding at a high rate of speed, being on the down grade that begins just west of Plainfield avenue. The motorman, Charles Block, of Elizabeth, did not see the vehicle until almost directly upon it. He made every attempt to avert the crash, but had barely more than time to apply his brakes when the wagon was struck squarely in the center. The horse was cut loose and ran away while Regan and his daughter were tossed to one side.

The crash was witnessed by Frank W. Weed, who afterward appeared before Mayor Fisk and charged Motorman Block with running the car at a reckless rate of speed. The police instructed the latter and also the conductor, William Rassley, to appear in the city court this morning. They obeyed the summons but at the request of Public Service officials, the matter was adjourned until next Wednesday.

EXCISE COMMISSION COMPLETES ITS WORK

Excepting the minority recommendations to be added by Howe and Whitbeck, the State Excise Commission's report was finished after some changes were made at a meeting held at Mayor Fisk's office here yesterday. Backes' recommendation that a tax of fifty cents a barrel be placed on the State breweries' output was stricken from the report. The minority members refused to accept the concession offered by the five other members that the recommendation for a minimum fee of $1,000 be reduced to $500, Howe and Whitbeck holding that the minimum fee should not be over $250.

The Newark typographical union filed a protest with the Commission against allowing the report to be printed in a non-union shop, but was informed by Secretary Dengler, who had the matter in charge, that it was too late to take the order away from the printing concern who had been given the order. Report has it that the entire expenses of the commission will not exceed $10,000.

The report will be given to Governor Fort next Monday.

Seeking Gottfried Hannig.

Chief of Police Kiely received an inquiry from the State Society of the City of New York, this morning, asking him if he could locate Gottfried Hannig, who formerly lived here, or any member of his family. It was stated that a court in Germany is seeking to trace them up because of an inheritance due Hannig. He is said to be fifty years old, if living, and had several children. The police have no knowledge of Hannig or his family, and will be glad to receive any information.

Mrs. Hannah VanHorn.

Mrs. Hannah VanHorn, colored, widow of William VanHorn died this morning from a paralatic stroke. She was eighty-eight years of age, and had lived alone on Race stret in North Plainfield twenty years. Burial will take place at Lamington, N. J., Saturday.

$50,000 MORE FOR P. O.

An Additional Appropriation Sought by Senator Kean is Included in Budget.

IT'S NEEDED FOR A SITE.

Original Sum, $100,000, Will Be Used for the Election of a Handsome Building Here.

In the estimates made by Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou of the appropriations necessary to be made at the present session of Congress for the year ending June 30, 1910, $50,000 additional is named for site and continuation of the erection of the postoffice building in this city, making the total appropriation $150,000. The extra appropriation for Plainfield was included in the estimates through the influence of United States Senator John Kean, who was successful in securing the original $100,000. It is the belief that Congress will allow the extra amount.

In trying to find a suitable location for the proposed Federal building, it was found that the real estate values here were higher than anticipated and that it would be practically impossible to purchase a site and erect such a building as proposed for $100,000.

The property at East Front street and Watchung avenue, thought by many to be the ideal site, was offered for about $66,000, and the whole tract was not included for that price. This was thought exorbitant as the property is assessed at $22,000.

The only available site for the building was said to be at East Front and Church streets, the price being less than $10,000, but this is considered too far away from the business section of the city, a fact that many do not want overlooked. Several other sites, including the Hotel Iroquois property, the David T. Kenney property on North avenue, the site at Watchung avenue and East Third street, where the Friends' meeting house stands, also the one at Watchung avenue and Second street.

Unless some of the prices for property are reduced, it is possible that condemnation proceedings may be adopted for the purpose of acquiring a site. This would require considerable time, but it would result in the Government obtaining a site at a fair figure. The building proposed for Plainfield would be 70x140 much larger than that now occupied here by the postoffice.

Among the other estimates calling for an additional appropriations for Federal buildings are the following: Elizabeth, $71,250; New Brunswick, $25,000 for enlarging present building; Trenton, for competition or enlargement, $40,000; Asbury Park, for site and commencement of postoffice building, $40,000; Jersey City, for continuation of construction of postoffice building, $150,000.

SIMPLE SERVICE OVER WILLIAM LEWIS MURRAY.

The funeral of William Lewis Murray, whose tragic death occurred Saturday afternoon, was held yesterday afternoon at his late home on Rockview avenue. The service was very simple and was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. The attendance was very large, many of Mr. Murray's business friends being among the mourners.

There were numerous floral tributes from banking men in New York and relatives and friends in Plainfield.

The body was placed in the receiving vault in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Harry Culver and Charles Halsey, New York; Edward Van Vleck, Morristown; Fred Ryer, White Plains, N. Y.; A. M. Wilcox and David Randall, Plainfield.

"The Cedarcroft."

The large comfortable brick house on the corner of Park and Martine avenues, formerly known as Cedarcroft School is to be opened the first of January as a very desirable boarding house. Carpenters, plumbers and painters are already at work making improvements and alterations, chief of which is the putting in of new bath rooms and converting the really beautiful school room into a dining-room, which will be only one of the many refined attractions of the house. Mr. Huse, the owner of the property, has gone into a small house on Park avenue, and is going to do private tutoring.

Sesame Club to Meet.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning with Miss Cook, 144 Crescent avenue. The subject will be "Carlyle."

COOPER RELEASED ON $10,000 BAIL BOND

Enters Plea of Not Guilty When Formally Arraigned After Coroner's Inquest.

JURY FIXES RESPONSIBILITY.

Declares That Auto Driver Caused the Death of Jonathan H. Randolph in Mishap on West Front Street Sunday Morning.

Deliberating forty-five minutes after an inquest in the City Council chambers, yesterday afternoon, the jury empaneled by Coroner William H. Donaldson declared Floyd H. Cooper, of Westfield, to be responsible for the death of Jonathan H. Randolph, who was mortally injured by the former's automobile on West Front street, early Sunday morning. Within an hour after the verdict was returned, the accused man was arraigned before Mayor Charles J. Fisk on a charge of homicide and entered a plea of not guilty, waiving examination for appearance before the grand jury. He was taken to Elizabeth on the 6:45 train where Judge E. S. Atwater admitted him to bail in the sum of $10,000. The amount was furnished by William E. Tuttle, of Westfield.

Cooper has prepared to wage a determined legal battle against the prosecution of the authorities and has added Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to his defense. He will be associate counsel to Messrs. Reed and Coddington who were retained by him immediately after his arrest. They have given him to understand for the purpose of entering a plea of "not guilty" or what the line of defense will be.

The coroner's inquest was conducted by Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., although Prosecutor L. Addison Swift was present during the entire proceedings.

Fourteen witnesses was placed on the stand by the State but only sufficient evidence was produced to establish the death of Mr. Randolph and to prove that it was caused by being struck by an automobile in charge of Cooper. The coroner's jury was composed of former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, foreman; Cyrus F. Bolce, Noah W. Pike, John K. Large, Theodore J. Shirley and Clarence B. Rittenhouse.

The most important testimony was given by Miss Nettie Robinson and Miss Matilda Schenck, who were in the automobile when the fatality occurred; Charles Hendershot and Charles Hyde, motorman and conductor of the car from which Mr. Randolph had just alighted when he was struck down; Roundsman Morris Higgins and Patrolmen Daniel McDonald and Richard Birmingham, who saw the Cooper machine at various times Saturday night and early Sunday. Mrs. Sarah Robinson, the fourth and remaining member of the auto party, was not called as a witness, it being stated by her physician earlier in the day that she was confined to her home by nervous prostration, the result of worriment over the affair.

An important point brought out by the testimony of Patrolman Birmingham was the fact that Cooper had stopped to light the front lamps of his machine shortly after the accident. This same officer had noticed the car on West Front street and Grant avenue shortly before 12:30 Sunday morning. There were no lights in front at the time and he called to the driver to stop but was not obeyed. Twenty minutes later the same auto passed him at Fourth street and Spooner avenue and the lamps were then burning brightly. It was shown by other witnesses that Cooper has deontined on into Dunellen after Randolph was hit, turned into Washington avenue, thence along New Market road to the street that leads into West Fourth street and so on to Mrs. Robinson's home at 62 Sandford avenue.. Stress was placed upon the lamp episode for the possible reason to show that Cooper had realized that he was violating the law and that identification would result quicker because of several people having noticed the lights were out. Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman McDonald both testified that a small light in the rear was all that showed on the car when it passed them at Front and Somerset streets.

BOROUGH'S EXCISE RULE

Ordinance Passed on First Reading Provides for Closing Saloons at 11 o'Clock.

SAME HOUR AS IN PLAINFIELD.

Disorderly Conditions During Night Responsible for the Proposed Reform.

After January 31, North Plainfield will put in effect a closing hour for saloons similiar to that in effect in the city for many years, the Council having gone on record last night for stopping the liquor traffic at 11 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock in the morning. Not long ago, the borough fathers ordained that the license fees be materially increased in order to obtain as nearly as possible an uniformity in this respect with the city's regulations.

The excise question is but one of the vexing problems which confronted the borough fathers for years, due entirely to the fact that although one community having every interest in common, except geographical, North Plainfield and Plainfield are separate municipal governments. Rowdyism and general disorder have prevailed in the borough during the night hours because of the fact that the borough saloons, being under the jurisdiction of the Somerset county court, have been allowed to keep open until 1 A. M. This early element in this city have made a practice, as a consequence of going "cross the brook" to quench their thirst when the saloons are shut up here.

At last night's session of the Council, L. B. Woolston presented an ordinance, which was passed on first reading after Mayor Townsend and Councilman VanArsdale had spoken a few words in its favor. This ordinance provides a penalty of $100, or sixty days in jail for any violation of its provisions.

Mayor Townsend took occasion to explain the efforts he had made to improve the conditions now existing in the borough relative to the excise problem. He had felt powerless to act in the matter of shortening the hours until he had consulted Corporation Counsel Reed and received a communication from him giving the section under which an ordinance could be passed. This ordinance, he said, was the upshot of that communication.

"Some of our saloons are very orderly and well conducted," he said, "but others are not and are the cause of considerable trouble, notably the one which figured in a sensational episode recently. I refer to the Arlington."

The Mayor asked for the opinions of the members on the proposed ordinance.

"Councilman VanArsdale said: "If we have power to control the sale in this way, I should say it is a very good thing."

On being put to a vote the ordinance was adopted unanimously on first reading.

This ordinance follows:

"An ordinance to conserve the peace and quiet of the Borough of North Plainfield, by limiting the hours for sale of intoxicating liquors by licensed vendors thereof.

"Whereas, the Borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset, and the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, are contiguous municipalities, and are so situated with respect to each other as to form practically a single community containing about twenty-five thousand people, of whom about three-quarters reside in the city of Plainfield, and one-quarter in the Borough of North Plainfield; and

"Whereas, the power to regulate and grant licenses for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors in the city of Plainfield is vested by law in the Common Council of the said city, which body has, by ordinance, duly passed, prohibited the sale of any such liquor in the said city between the hours of eleven o'clock at night and six o'clock the following morning, or upon the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, except such as prohibit such sales on Sunday and Election Days; and

"Whereas, there exist in the city of Plainfield various places licensed for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors which are require1 by virtue of the aforesaid provisions of the ordinances of the city of Plainfield to close at eleven o'clock at night, while at the same time there are various places in the said Borough of North Plainfield, licensed, as aforesaid for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors by the Court of Common Pleas of the county of Somerset, which places are not required to close at eleven o'clock at night; and

"Whereas, the keeping open of the places licensed to sell liquor in the borough after those in the city are closed tends to cause disturbance of the peace and quiet of the borough as should for the welfare and protection of persons and property therein be prohibited; now, therefore,

"The Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield do enact and ordain as follows:

"Section 1. That no person licensed under any law of the State of New Jersey to sell spirituous or fermented liquors of any kind in the said Borough of North Plainfield shall, between the hours of eleven o'clock at night and six o'clock the following morning, or upon the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, sell or offer, expose for sale, or furnish, or permit to be sold, offered, or exposed for sale or furnished to any person or persons any spirituous or fermented liquors of any kind, or any composition therefrom; and any person convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this section shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the borough lockup or the county jail of the county of Somerset for any term not exceeding sixty days, or both so fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

"Section 2. That this ordinance shall take effect on the 31st day of January, nineteen hundred and nine."

ELECTION INDICTMENTS, DEFECTIVE, ARE QUASHED

Justice James J. Bergen in the Union county court this morning quashed all of the indictments for alleged fraudulent registration in Elizabeth, except the sixteen indictments against George Daubner, of that city. They will stand and it is possible that they may go before the grand jury again for further consideration. Justice Bergen quashed in all eleven indictements on the ground that they were defective.

In giving his decision, Justice Bergen said that the indictments failed to show why the accused did not know why they were not entitled to register or vote. He then said that he would quash them, unless they were nolle prossed. This was done at once. The indictments against Daubner are for alleged false swearing in of votes.

INTELLIGENT DOG PUTS SNEAK-THIEF TO FLIGHT

Four guests at Mrs. Lena Hellstrom's fashionable boarding house on East Seventh street owe the possession of their overcoats Saturday to the fact that McLean Parker, another guest, has an intelligent bulldog. The canine intercepted a sneak thief at work in the place at 7 o'clock last night and went at him in such vigorous fashion that the intruder was compelled to drop his loot on the front porch. He got away without anybody seeing him and as the dog could furnish no description the police are in the dark as to what he looks like.

Mrs. Hellstrom has two separate dwellings in her establishment, one devoted entirely to rooms and the other used partly for dining. The guests were all at the latter place last night with the exception of Mrs. Parker, who remained upstairs in her room because of a slight illness. She was alone in the house when she heard her husband's dog rushing about the lower rooms and barking furiously. This was followed by someone dashing out of the hallway and down the porch, causing her to summon the police and make other inquiries. They found that a sneak-thief had removed four overcoats from a rack and had dropped them on the porch. The dog had evidently discovered him at work and induced his flight by a determined attack.

The police were notified and Chief Kiely conducted a personal investigation. The thief is evidently a local man who knew the custom of the people at the place in going to the opposite dwelling for meals.

Elks to Have Minstrel Show.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., has decided to hold another minstrel show during the coming winter. A committee comprising John H. Cose, chairman; Judge William N. Runyon, W. J. Counihan and William Doud has been appointed to make the arrangements.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD AMENDS CERTAIN RULES

The State Board of Education, which finished its work at Lakewood late Wednesday afternoon at Lanel-in-Pines, placed Pennington Seminary on the registered list of private schools for four years of academic work. This action admits graduates for medical, legal and dental licenses without any examinations in academic subjects.

W. R. Haven, city superintendent of schools at Morristown, resigned as a member of the State Board of Examiners and Henry Snyder, city superintendent of Jersey City, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The county superintendent of schools for Burlington county, Herman A. Stees, issued an order last July withholding the State school moneys from the school district of Springfield Township for the reason that it was not furnishing suitable school facilities to certain children.

The children desired to attend a high school, there was none in the district and the Board of Education neglected to provide for their education in high schools in their districts. From this order the local board of education appealed. The State board dismissed this appeal and the order of the county superintendent was affirmed.

In 1907 the Legislature passed an act providing for evening schools for the instruction of foreign-born residents of the State in English and the form of government of the State and of the United States.

The act made it the duty of the State board to prescribe rules for carrying the law into effect. The board over a year ago prescribed certain rules.

Experience has shown that the rules should be amended, and at the meeting yesterday the following changes were made:

Hereafter persons desiring to teach in these schools will not be required to pass an examination in foreign language. Any form of certificate now issued will be a rated license to each in such schools any of the subjects covered by the certificate. A person desiring to teach any of the special subjects prescribed will not be required to pass an examination in all the specified subjects, but will be granted a certificate in one or more of them and be granted a certificate of the subjects in which he has been examined.

The courses of study for foreign evening schools submitted by Princeton and Cook's Academy were approved. The members of the board at the meeting were: President James L. Hays and Edward G. Robertson, Newark, and Samuel St. John McCutcheon, North Plainfield; Edward Russ and William D. Forbes, Hoboken; William R. Nicholls, Jersey City; Francis Scott, of Paterson; William H. Morrow, of Belvidere, and W. Edwin Florance, of New Brunswick. Others present were Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. Brognard Betts, of Plainfield, and High School Inspector Louis Bevier.

HUGE PUMPKIN CROP IN STATE THIS YEAR.

Reports from the pumpkin growing sections of the State indicate that the crop will be larger this winter than in many years. All sorts of wagons are being pressed into service to get the vegetable to the markets, and South Jersey canning factories are working day and night to keep up with the shipments constantly arriving.

The canning houses of Bordentown, Quinton's Bridge, Hancock's Bridge and Salem are handling the pumpkin deluge from the farms near Salem with great dispatch, but there still remains part of pumpkins piled high in the canning house yards, and long rows of wagons line up the village streets waiting their turn to disgorge and return to the farm for more.

The crop has been not only exceptionally large, but the vegetables are of uniform size. The popular type is the Quaker Pie variety. It is said that this furnishes the finest grained and the richest flavored meat—just what is wanted for a good pie—and this is especially desirable for the canning house rush, as it keeps longer than some of the older varieties. The old standard variety, known as the Large Cheese, is also a favorite.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING; XMAS BOX FOR SAILORS.

The W. C. T. U. held its monthly business meeting Thursday afternoon in the union rooms on Madison avenue.

The treasurer, Miss May E. Howlett, reported that about $75 was turned into the treasury as a result of the fair which was held a few weeks ago. Mrs. P. B. Beaney, corresponding secretary, read reports on the evangelistic work done by the organization in the past month and Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson spoke of the foreign missions and temperance work.

A Christmas box is being prepared to be sent to the sailors in Brooklyn. Contributions of oranges, cake, nuts and delicacies of all kinds will be received for the box at 117 Elmwood place.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A GOOD CORSET.

"You know it is said that so many of our sins are those of omission rather than of commission. I am inclined to believe that such a condition influences in no small degree the corset situation. Much ill corsetting is due to carelessness and indifference and appreciation on the part of women. I so much want you to get better acquainted, to make friends with your corset, that I am begging you in today's little talk to arouse yourselves from carelessness and indifference and to make acts of a few "don'ts" and "does"—some one of them is sure to apply to you—and, maybe, two or even more.

The moment I succeeded in striking a personal note, then I am sure of your interest and appreciation.

First, don't buy a corset at random or because it has given satisfaction to some friend in whose judgment you have implicit faith, whom you consider a good dresser; neither buy a corset which you, unadvised, think is the proper one for your figure; rather go to one who is educated in the making and fitting of corsets and be willing to go to the trouble of having the corset tried on and fitted.

Second, don't economize by buying but one corset at a time. This rule of economy is just as appropriately applied to corsets as to shoes and silk petticoats. You know full well how much more service you get out of running two pairs of shoes at a time than by waiting until one pair is no longer presentable before procuring another pair. Once I yearned for a $15 silk petticoat, but when the salesgirl was about to "charge and send" it I suddenly told her to send me two petticoats at $7.50 each. These petticoats were identical—I had to mark the belt of one with a red ink cross to distinguish it from the other. I had three times as much out of those two petticoats than I would have had out of the more expensive one.

Buy your two corsets alike in quality, cut and fit.

Third, don't begrudge the price of a good corset. Buy just as good a one as you can afford. If necessary, cut one frock from your list in order to buy a better corset.

Fourth, don't begrudge the price of a good corset. Buy just as good a one as you can afford. If necessary, cut one frock from your list in order to buy a better corset.

Fourth, don't bend over unnecessarily in your corset. To pick up something on the floor, learn to bend the knee rather than to bend the body from the waist. Sit and stand as erect as possible; it will not only improve your figure but it will improve your digestion, your health in general, and at the same time preserve the lines of your corset.

Fifth, don't have your gowns cut and fitted until your corset is right. A sad experience had a friend of mine who had her gowns made, then straightway went to an expensive corsetiere and was measured for a $25 corset. The result was that every gown's blouse and coat in her wardrobe had to be altered to agree with the newly corseted figure.

If women only understood that the corset is really the backbone of all dressing their interest would grow. Then defects would be noticed. The realization and abhorrence of wrong only stimulates us to do right.

If you want to be enlightened upon this subject, or upon minor details, write to the "One Who Knows," and you will be most gladly heeded and encouraged.—Washington Star.

HEMMING NAPKINS.

The napkins used for the afternoon tea are eighteen inches square. It is best to make a French hem, for their iron much better and have a neater finish. Of course, hemstitched napkins are preferrid, but the French seam is neat. To make this seam, turn a very narrow hem as you would if you were going to stitch it upon the machine. Instead, turn the seam back upon the napkin on the right side, thus making three thicknesses of damask. If you press the seam with an iron, you can more readily complete the hem. Select a fine needle and fine thread which will sink into the mesh of the material and become a part of the weave, and it will not wear out so quickly. Whip the edge rather closely to make the stitch alike upon both sides. Press on both sides and both sides are identical. This is one of the neatest hems we have and is found upon hand-made tablescloths and napkins of the best quality.

PLAINFIELD KENNEL CLUB IS LAUNCHED.

The Plainfield Kennel Club was formed last night at a meeting of local dog fanciers at Truell's Hall. Those attending the initial meeting were Abram G. Hooley, A. C. Willmerding, E. H. Hobbie, R. J. Lescher, E. L. Force and Dr. Lewis Hall, all of whom own valuable dogs that have taken many first prizes at leading kennel shows. There was some discussion as to the advisability of holding a kennel show here. If sufficient support is assured, no doubt plans for such an affair will be carried out.

Another meeting will be held in the near future to elect officers and decide upon other details of organization.

FOWLER HAS TARIFF BILL

Fifth District Congressman Believes His Measure Would Solve Problem.

MAKES THE SUBJECT A STUDY.

New Jersey Representative Speaks of His Investigation and Its Results.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of this district, chairman of the House Committe on Banking and Currency, will, he says early in the session of Congress, introduce a bill embodying his idea of a correct tariff revision. He said yesterday that he is now preparing a bill which he will introduce. He says that while the bill would embody any of the theories he had already expressed, and said it would not, but that his bill will be radically different from anything yet put forward.

He was asked if any of the local industries would be directly interested in the bill, and replied they would not so far as he is aware. He said he did not know that there were any industries here that needed protection, and if there are, none had appealed to him.

"I have not been actively interested in the tariff for a number of years," said Congressman Fowler, "but I have been making a special study of the question, and believe I have a solution of the problem. I do not care to predict the probable success or failure of my bill, but I shall do my best to put it through."

Mr. Fowler is also preparing a general statement for the press, which will be published next Monday, in which he will outline his views on currency and banking, and until this statement is ready he said he did not intend to make any statements. He admitted that he had several new propositions on financial affairs which would be of interest, and he will give them in full in the statement. What these new ideas are he declined to say at this time.

MINOR MATTERS BEFORE THE BOROUGH FATHERS

On the suggestion of Councilman Woolston, North Plainfield's Council last Friday arranged for the advertisement of bids for the publication of the borough's tax list.

He had received figures from one civil engineer for the proposed new road maps and was waiting to hear from another before ordering them made. He also stated that the overseer of the poor had asked for further appropriation of $100, and on a resolution being introduced by Councilman Nichols, it was voted that this request be granted.

Borough Clerk Frank A. Martin reported that during the month of November $41 in permits had been made, and $42 in fines paid.

It was voted that the meeting be adjourned until December 29.

Henry C. White, secretary of the Plainfield Protective Association, by invitation of the Mayor, made a short talk in which he explained the purpose of the organization which he represented, saying that the members had originally got together to consider the lighting of both city and borough, and asking that they be given an opportunity of meeting the council and with the Borough Council to discuss matters pertaining to that subject. An invitation was extended to them through the Mayor.

MRS. MAGGIE JOHNSON HAS PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Maggie Johnson, wife of Andrew W. Johnson, of Duer street, died between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, following a long illness, during which she was a great sufferer. She was patient through it all and bore her affliction with Christian fortitude. Mrs. Johnson was a member of the First Baptist church and a faithful attendant at all the services when her health permitted. She was especially interested in the work of the missionary societies and was a liberal contributor to them.

Mrs. Johnson was the daughter of the late Abram and Zeurah Cadmus, both of whom were well-known here among the older residents. All the members of the family were present when Mrs. Johnson passed away. Besides a husband, Mrs. Johnson is survived by one son, Russell Johnson, who resides in Newark and one sister, Miss Josephine Cadmus, of Greenbrook road, the borough. The

JEFFERSON AVE. TO BE A "STATE AID ROAD"

Resolutions were offered at the December meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders Thursday by Freeholder S. T. Wilbur providing for making Jefferson avenue, this city, a State aid road. Mr. Wilbur was anxious to have the resolutions adopted at this time so that the State approval could be obtained before January 1, as otherwise it would not go through for a year. The matter was referred to the board as a committee of the whole and will be considered further at an adjourned meting on Thursday, December 17.

The Willswood Dairy Company, of this city, presented a claim to the board for $75 for injuries received by a horse owned by the company, while crossing a county line bridge here. The communication stated that the animal stepped into a hole on the bridge on September 6, and the accident resulted in the loss of the services of a veterinary and loss of services of the animal. The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has also received a similar communication and the matter was referred yesterday to the Plainfield members of the Union county board and the county attorney for a conference with the Somerset county board.

SECOND TRIAL AND THE JURY DISAGREES

After considering the evidence for two hours and forty minutes, the jury in the case of Christopher Meyers against the Public Service Corporation, returned to the court last Thursday, and the foreman reported that the members could not agree and asked to be discharged. This was the second trial in the verdict in the first one being in favor of the plaintiff. But at that time it was learned that members of the jury had acted in an irregular manner by leaving the jury room for additional information and Judge Newcorn granted a new trial.

Thursday's verdict means a third trial, which has been set down for Thursday, December 17, although it is possible that it may not be called that day. This will depend upon the other cases listed. The plaintiff is seeking damages alleged to have been received by his wife while attempting to board a main line trolley car on East Second street, July 31, 1908, when he claims the car was started before she could get aboard and she was thrown in the street. The company's defense is that Mrs. Meyers in trying to get on the car lost her balance and through her own act fell while the car was standing perfectly still. About an equal number of witnesses were called by the plaintiff and the defendant company.

MARTINE SAYS BRYAN GIVES UP ASPIRATION

Never again will William Jennings Bryan be a candidate for the democracy for the Presidency, according to his bosom friend, James E. Martine, the farmer-orator of Cedarbrook, a veteran of four decades in the party's service and a perennial defeated candidate. Moreover, Martine, who is frequently in correspondence with the Nebraskan, says that Bryan will never again aspire to an elective office, excepting that of United States Senator. Mr. Martine said:

"Mr. Bryan would make an ideal Senator, and I would like to see him again in the halls of Congress. In my opinion his defeat for the Presidency was nothing less than a public calamity, but I accept the inevitable. Were he to aspire once more for the Presidency he would have no chance, for it would be impractical for the Democratic party to nominate him in the face of past performances. I cannot conceive of any circumstances whereby his nomination could be obtained, although I believe he is the greatest living statesman.

"There is a probability of his being named for the Senate, and in such event I would like to see Theodore Roosevelt in the city at the same time, but I don't believe that Mr. Roosevelt would accept such a situation. Mr. Bryan is a giant as a statesman, but as for Mr. Roosevelt he would look like the smallest peanut in the bag in that classification."

Mr. Martine stated that he, himself, would never again run for office, but according to persons who know him this decision is subject to revision.

What They Will Wear.

The society reporter knocked gently at the door of the rich apartment.

"Pardon me, madam," he said to the beautiful creation in a sheath gown who answered his summons, "but have you heard what will be worn at the dedication of the new tank at the Ladies' Gym Association?"

"I have heard—nothing," replied the creation, closing the door gently.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS

It Considers Old Home Week Idea and Many Other Suggestions.

ABANDON THAT FAIR PROJECT.

May Postpone Annual Dinner—City Lighting Scheme—New Members Chosen.

Various protest against the poor lighting of the platforms at the North avenue and Netherwood stations of the New Jersey Central was made at the regular meeting of the Board of Trade, Thursday. The matter was first brought to the attention of the members by Herman Schwed, who declared that the illumination is so poor that it is almost impossible to locate anyone getting off trains. He had a personal experience in this respect that he related and which bore out his assertion.

Other members of the board confessed to having had similar experiences and it was unanimously voted that the attention of the proper officials be called to the matter. The secretary was instructed to write them and he will report any answer at the next session.

The question of the board's annual dinner was brought up last night but because of the fact that the Retail Merchants' Association has planned an affair of this kind for next month no decision was reached. It was thought that inasmuch as the two organizations had practically the same membership it might be better to have a joint dinner instead of two separate functions close together. A motion was made that a committee be appointed to confer with the Retail Merchants in this respect. Vice-President W. R. Codington, of the board, who presided in the absence of President Marshall, stated that he would let the latter name the committee at a later date.

F. A. Duttenhoefer, of the committee which visited the Allentown fair for the purpose of getting an idea as to how a similar enterprise might be brought to Plainfield, reported that the members did not favor going any further with the plan but that they believed and Old Home week would be a good thing. He said it had the approval of the Retail Merchants' Association and other organizations and that it would be an easy matter to carry out such a project. No action was taken but the suggestion will be taken up in earnest at a later date.

A communication was received from A. C. Pleydell, of this city, dated at Columbus, O., in which he inclosed photographs and literature describing the arch system of street lighting in that place. Large steel arms are erected over the thoroughfares from curb to curb and from fifty to 100 ordinary incandescent lights are placed on each one. The result is declared entirely satisfactory and the idea is being copied by other cities throughout the West. The communication stated the customary discussion over Plainfield's insufficient illumination in the business district but no action resulted.

Another communication was received from Daniel Thompson, of Beaver, Pa., asking if the board could suggest any suitable building in Plainfield wherein a factory might be located. F. A. Duttenhoefer and E. M. Laing were appointed a committee to investigate and answer.

The following were elected to membership in the board: F. V. Larned, George W. Neff, Frederick A. Martin, S. W. Rushmore, E. W. Poynier, Paul Collier and Hugh B. Sweeny.

THE SECRET OF SMART CLOTHES.

Dress becomingly.

Be individual in your style.

Do not dress beyond your means.

Learn the right times and season for wearing your clothes.

Make a study not of your good points but of your weak ones before buying your frocks and hats.

Learn materials for their wearing qualities; especially if your clothes must do duty another season.

Study color effects and know what combines well, as well as what is suitable to your type.

Learn the lines that suit you and stick to them. Only modify them enough not to be hopelessly out of date.

Don't trust to what your dressmaker or milliner tells you. Use your common sense.

Get good things and few of them rather than the other way round. The former will look well as long as they hang together, while the cheap ones look well till you are caught out in the first damp day.

Don't try to make your cast-off finery of winter do duty for summer evenings. You will look fresher and sweeter in a ten-cent lawn or Swiss, simply and becomingly made, than in a bedraggled chiffon than has been danced into disreputableness.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WORK

In Six Months 1,470 Children are Cared for at the Day Nursery.

THE YEAR'S RECIPTS $1,700.

Encouraging Reports Are Read at Semi-Annual Meeting at Vincent Chapel.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters was held Thursday afternoon in Vincent chapel. Fifty members were present, representing all of the eleven circles of the union.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, led the devotional service, which was followed by an address by Rev. J. O. McKelver, of Warren chapel, who took for his subject, "My Work is for a King."

The officers of the society, who were present and took part in the meeting were Mrs. F. W. Jones, president; Mrs. A. N. Lagrave, secretary, and Mrs. A. M. Most, treasurer.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert read a report of the summer work at the baby camp, which was conducted with much great success. Another interesting report was that of the chairman of the nurse committee, Mrs. A. E. Faber, concerning the Day Nursery, "an institution maintained by this Society, where working mothers may leave their children during the hours they are away from home and be assured that they are being well taken care of. The cost of this service to the mothers is but five cents a day for each child. The children that have been accommodated range in age from three weeks to five years. Since September 1, there have been seven infants under seven months and three less than two months. One six weeks-old child was kept night and day for seven weeks while the mother was in the hospital.

There were 1,470 children taken care of in the nursery between June 1 and December 1, this year. The amount collected from the parents, $73.50, was sufficient to pay for all of the milk used.

The balance of the expense in operating the Day Nursery is borne by the society and by personal contributions. The latter, however, have not been large or numerous and the secretary reports that the institution is greatly in need of provisions.

The society feels very grateful to the kind women who yesterday afternoon donated a barrel of flour, and also to the club of young girls who gave $60 for linoleum, and to the Edgwood Club which gave $25, with which gas fixtures were installed.

Besides caring for the children brought to the nursery in the day time, the King's Daughters nurse administers to babies in their homes. She has made 834 visits of this kind in six months. The caring for the children of these women who must go out every day to earn their own living is the greatest help that can be offered to them. The service is kept up the year around, without intermission.

The treasurer of the union, Mrs. A. M. Most, announced that the receipts for the year amounted to $1,-700 51, disbursements $1,531.22, leaving a balance of $169.29.

After the business meeting tea was served by the Cheerful Workers Circle, of which Miss Dorothy Fleming is president.

FAITH CHAPEL FAIR PROVES A SUCCESS.

One of the most successful church fairs of the year was conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society of Faith chapel Thursday afternoon and night, in the Stirling building on Park avenue.

The store room on the first floor was very prettily decorated with ferns and other plants provided for the occasion by Mrs. L. J. Denton. The booths and counters contained a large assortment of home-made fancy articles, quilts, aprons and some most delicious looking cakes.

The place was well filled with patrons most of the time and the sales kept up at a brisk rate. Aprons and quilts were the favorites of the purchasers, but there was almost everything else there that woman's ingenuity could devise, and they all went before closing time arrived.

R. V. Lough gave a concert with one of the big photographs from his store on North avenue.

The proceeds of the sale are for the parsonage of the church. Those in charge of the affair and assisting at the counters were: Mrs. J. W. Musson, the president; Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, Mrs. John Mackey, Mrs. Thomas Jeter, Mrs. George Staats, Mrs. William Conger, Mrs. Frank Conger, Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. John Key, Mrs. John Utzinger, Mrs. Mattie Vierbrock, Mrs. William Crow, Mrs. D. Patterson, Mrs. Joseph Quint, Mrs. P. P. Goodfellow and Mrs. Elizabeth Peck.

Assemblyman's Daughter Weds.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ethel Cook Smalley, daughter of Assemblyman and Mrs. W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, and Rev. Jesse C. Miller, of Woodcliff-on-Hudson, the ceremony having been performed at the bride's home Wednesday night.

HERBERT S. BROKAW JOINS THE BENEDICTS

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Fanny B. Huntington, daughter of the late John H. Huntington, of Troy, N. Y., and Herbert S. Brokaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brokaw, of Grove street. The ceremony took place in the First Baptist church, Troy, on November 25, Rev. Dr. G. F. Perry, the pastor, officiating. Immediately after the wedding the couple left on an extended trip, including Washington, and they are now spending a few days with the groom's parents here, where on Tuesday night a reception was given to them. The affair was attended by a large number of friends.

Mr. Brokaw is a graduate of Rensselear Polytechnic Institute, Class '08. Since that time has been on the staff of engineers connected with the New York State Engineering Department, and at present is located at Rochester, N. Y., where he is looking after large canal work. Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw will continue to make their home at Rochester for the present.

DR. CORNWELL TO WED MISS E. F. JOHNSON

Invitations are out to the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Fairfax Johnson, of New York, to Dr. Frank Wilbur Cornwell, of this city, on Wednesday, Dec. 16, at 2 o'clock in the Chantry of Grace church in New York. The wedding will be a small one and there will be no reception. Miss Johnson will have no attendants. She will be given in marriage by Nicholas Snowden Hill, Jr., of New York.

Dr. Cornwell has chosen Dr. Van Alstyn Hartwell, formerly of Trenton, as his best man. Dr. Herbert C. De Vere Cornwell, of New York, Calvin Freeman Cornwell, of Morristown, cousins of the bridegroom; John Lutz Cornwell, of this city, a brother, and William A. De Long, Jr., will serve as ushers.

Miss Johnson comes of colonial ancestry, being connected with the old Johnson and Fairfax families of Virginia.

Dr. Cornwell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Robbins Cornwell, of this city, and is a graduate of the New York Homeopathic College, class '09.

BOARD OF HEALTH MAKES MONTHLY REPORT

With the exception of typhoid fever, the number of cases of communicable disease reported to the Board of Health during November was unusually low, as shown by the following statistics presented at the December meeting of the board, last Wednesday night:

Scarlet fever, 1; diphtheria, 1; measles, 1; typhoid fever, 9; tuberculosis, 4; a total of sixteen. One death from diphtheria was reported, two from typhoid fever and four from tuberculosis.

Since June, but two cases of scarlet fever and three of diphtheria were reported, considered a remarkable record for five months. One of the two deaths from typhoid fever was a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital brought there from Westfield, and had no connection whatever with Plainfield.

During the month thirty-two samples of milk were collected and analyzed and the quality was found to be good. Eight samples of cream were analyzed. These applications were granted last month: To sell milk, B. C. Firstbrook, W. J. Dealaman and R. H. Keenan; to collect garbage, John Anderson, F. Brown; to remove dead animals, James B. Guttridge; to collect offal, James B. Guttridge. The following plumbers' bonds were ordered filed: Peter S. Peterson, Martin J. Whalen and George F. Giles & Company. These returns were made to the office during the month: Marriages, 15; births, 22; still-births, 3; deaths, 23.

TO ADOPT U.S. UNIFORMS

Plainfield Company to Be Measured for Olive Drab Uniforms.

BLUE IS NOT SERVICEABLE.

Lieutenant-Colonel Dungan Will Issue Orders for Equipment In a Few Days.

Lieutenant Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, commander of the Second Regiment New Jersey National Guard, to which Co. K, of this city belongs, will in a few days issue official orders for the equipment of the entire regiment in olive drab uniforms, to replace the blue uniforms now worn by the State militiamen.

The new uniforms will be in strict conformity with the regulation dress of the United States army, and the orders will eventually be extended to uniform the entire national guards of the State in a similar manner. Under the new arrangement, the old familiar blue uniform of the Jersey guardsmen will be a thing of the past.

The matter is now under advisement by the State military board, and while no official notification has been sent out ordering the change from the blue to the gray, it is an absolute certainty that it will be done when the members of the State military board convene in a few days.

As a result of the visit of Colonel Dungan to Trenton Wednesday night, the members of the local companies, together with the members of the Second battalion, who drilled here, have been ordered to get measured for the new uniforms, and it is expected that before the end of next week the measurements of every local guardsman will be forwarded to the regimental headquarters.

It is likely that the old blue uniforms will be disposed of through the agency of the military board and they may descend to the Sons of Veterans, as was the case several years ago, when the present form of dress was ordered.

While the new olive drab uniforms will not present as nobby appearance on parade as the uniform about to be discarded, they will be more serviceable, and it is for that reason, more than any other, that the change is to be adopted.

Conclusive evidence of the superiority of the drab over the blue uniform was furnished last week, while the Jersey guardsmen were doing duty at Perth Amboy.

The guardsmen were forced to do considerable maneuvring during their stay at the scene of the strike, and their uniforms were almost ruined. At least, they showed unmistakable signs of wear and tear, and it is an assured fact that the guardsmen would have made a more presentable appearance in their return home had they been attired in the regulation army color.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS WIN FROM Y. W. C. A. FIVE

The girls of the North Plainfield High School basketball team triumphed over the Y. W. C. A. five yesterday afternoon by a score of 18 to 14.

It was the first match game of the season for the association girls, but they showed good form in team play and played a fast clean game. The North Side girls went into the game with their usual zeal, and displayed excellent ability in shooting goals.

Misses Marjorie Cooley and Helen George shot the goals for N. P. H. S. and Misses Minnie Line, Bessie Conroy and Bertie Stiener for Y. W. C. A. The contest took place in the gymnasium of the latter team.

The line up:

N. P. H. S.	Y.W. C. A.
Helen George	Bessie Conroy
Marjorie Cooley	Bertie Stiener
Marjorie Hart	Minnie Line
Ida Englehart	Dorothy Randall
Marjorie Ackor	Louise Layton
	Stella Kline

CAPACITY AUDIENCE AT SAM CUNNINGHAM'S BENEFIT.

The popularity of Sam W. Cunningham, treasurer at the New Plainfield theatre, was plainly evident, last Thursday when the performance of "Paid in Full," given as his annual testimonial, drew a capacity audience. Every seat in the house was sold by 5 o'clock and after that many bought standing room. It was one of the most successful benefits yet arranged at the theatre.

The attraction was seen in Plainfield earlier in the season but the fact did not detract the interest in the slightest, last night. The company was up to the standard set by Messrs. Wachenhals & Kemper and the stage settings were of the same elaborate nature that marked the original Astor theatre production. The audience was liberal with its applause and there were numerous curtain calls.

RETURNS HOME TO FIND WIFE'S LIFELESS BODY

Returning to his home on Harrison avenue at noon Friday, Howard Carver, a coal dealer, discovered the lifeless form of his wife lying on the floor. She had evidently been stricken but a short time before as the body was still warm when he attempted to lift her up in the belief that she had only fallen. A physician was summoned and declared that heart disease was the cause of death.

Mrs. Carver had not been in good health for the past two years but was about the house as usual Friday morning. She is the mother of five children and all were away at school but an infant. She was evidently at work in the kitchen when the fatal attack came upon her.

Chief Marshal Weiss was called to the house and the county physician was notified later.

Mrs. Carver was about thirty-five years old and had lived in the borough for a long time. Her husband is well known, having been employed for many years by E. H. Holmes when he was in the coal business on Madison avenue.

COP ARRESTS SWAIN RETURNING FROM CALL

The difficulties and unlooked for obstacles that courtship were brought directly home to Henry Seigel, of South Plainfield, Thursday, when he was arrested on upper Plainfield avenue by Roundsman Higgins for carrying a revolver. The police have been unusually on the alert for suspicious characters since the shooting of William Messerschmidt by a burglar, Sunday night, and his story that he had been calling on his lady love was not taken seriously. When the officer located the weapon in one of the pockets there was nothing to do but take the owner to the lockup.

Seigel declared to Captain Fred erickson that he is paying attention to a young woman who is employed by Mrs. Charles Parker, of Hobart avenue, and that he was on his way home at 11:15 when the officer stopped him. He was confused for the moment when questioned and the finding of the revolver made him more so than ever. He carried it, he said, to protect himself on his lonely walk to South Plainfield as he feared someone he had been held up while returning from his regular sweetheart call.

Mrs. Parker was sent for in time for court, Friday, and she was on hand when Seigel was arraigned. She corroborated his statement in every detail and gave him a very good recommendation beside. Judge Runyon accordingly ordered his release.

NO CHARITY BALL FOR THE HOSPITAL

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital has practically decided not to give a charity ball this winter according to the usual custom, or to resort to other forms of entertainment as a means of raising funds for the maintenance of the hospital. Instead the finance committee, with the aid of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, who benefitted by the hospital, will be requested to contribute a stipulated amount to be decided by themselves, and in this way put the institution on a paying basis.

William L. Saunders, a chairman of the finance committee, has issued a large number of postal cards which have been sent out to Plainfielders asking for such financial aid for the purpose of bringing the income of the hospital up to the expenses by *an enlarged annual list of subscrib*ers, and thereby do away with the usual carnival, kirmess and other entertainments.

SIXTY LOTS ARE SOLD AT "HIGHLAND PARK."

A successful sale at auction of lots in Highland Park has just been concluded, it having been conducted by Lancaster & Mills. Mr. Lancaster has a system of giving out presents at each sale which proves a great drawing card.

The sale lasted for six days, and over sixty lots were purchased, these being among the buyers: M. E. Wooden, of New York, twenty lots; H. S. Goodwin, of New York, sixteen lots; Thomas A. Moore, five city lots; W. C. Smith, of the borough, two lots; William Bouchon, of this city, two lots; August Prudhon, two lots; Peter Schubert, three lots; Elmer Apgar, of High Bridge, two lots; Mary Fowbeck, of Newark, two lots, and Mrs. Mary Fowbeck, of this city, two lots.

The time of year was not propitious for the selling of these lots, but it only goes to show the Plainfield property is greatly in demand, and when sales can be made at auction during November and December, it certainly makes a bright outlook for *real estate activity during the com*ing year.

S. A. OFFICERS' FAREWELL

Capt. and Mrs. Hopkins Given Reception Following Col. Damon's Lecture.

A LARGE CROWD ATTENDS.

"Darkest America" Subject of Illustrated Talk on Tenement Life Conditions.

Salvation Army hall was filled last Wednesday with friends of Capt. and Mrs. Arthur Hopkins, who made their last public appearance in Plainfield before taking up their work in Boston. Both the Captain and his wife made farewell speeches, expressing their regrets in leaving their many friends here. They had spent seventeen months in this field, but being soldiers were obliged to obey the command to march on.

Captain Hopkins asked all to clap their hands who were in favor of him leaving his wife behind. The clapping was so vociferous that the electric lights flickered and later went out entirely. After the meeting the couple were surrounded by their admirers and were given a farewell that left no doubt as to the high regard in which they are held in Salvation Army circles in Plainfield.

Colonel Alex. Damon, of New York, delivered his famous lecture, "Darkest America," illustrated with stereopticon views, showing scenes in the tenement districts of New York.

For eighteen years Colonel Damon has been associated with Salvation Army work in large cities; he, therefore, speaks as one having experience with the problems discussed. He stated that there are single blocks in New York city with from two to three thousand people living in them, that Army workers had found six to eight persons living in one room.

The audience shuddered as he stated that there were two hundred thousand (200,000) rooms in New York without a single window in them, and 125,000 more rooms without windows across the river in Brooklyn.

Child life in the slums was dealt with, and everyone in the audience was convinced before the subject was finished, that a dark side of American life had been considered. To bring light to this dark side, the Salvation Army has opened, in many of the large cities, Slum Nurseries, where the children of the poor mothers are cared for during the day while the mothers go to work. These nurseries make it unnecessary for the mothers to lock up their little ones in their slum homes during the hours they are away. Thousands of the little waifs and strays of slumdom are cared for by the Army every year.

The problem of the fallen woman was mentioned. It is estimated that there are 300,000 such unfortunates in the United States. Society has branded them as lost, but the Salvation Army believes that there is hope for them, and with a large force of especially trained women officers they undertake the work of rescuing and saving them. The Army conducts 22 Rescue Homes located in the large cities of this country.

In spite of the fact that the colonel spoke very rapidly it was not possible for him to mention in detail all the branches of work that are being operated to bring light to the dark sections of our land. He merely mentioned in passing that the Army is operating three colonies at the present time; one in Cleveland, one in Colorado and the other in California.

The Army carries on an extensive work among prisoners, undoubtedly doing the greatest prison work of any organization in the United States. They receive discharged prisoners and give them a chance to start once more on the path of right.

The majority of people have been under the impression that the Army's principle work was to stand upon the street corner, beat a drum, and to preach. This is not the truth that stood about the open-air service, but the people who attended the lecture last night had their eyes opened as to the magnitude of the work that is being carried on by this great organization which has its work established in every city in this country, but in fifty-four countries and colonies of the world.

HINT TO HOME DRESSMAKER.

The home dressmaker is always discouraged when it comes to hemming a plaited skirt. The plaits, for some unknown reason, take it into their heads to hang at different lengths, so that the foot line when finished is bound to be uneven.

The best way to secure an even edge is to baste the plaits full length after the seams have been stitched and the bands sewed and the hooks and eyes put on. Then turn up the hem as in a plain gored skirt and press. After removing the bastings, turn the hem in the single material according to the crease first made.

A skirt turned up in this way may easily have the braid sewn on before the hem it stitched. This does away with all hard work and extra pinning.

UNITY LODGE, K. OF P. NOMINATES OFFICERS

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., at its regular meeting Thursday nominated officers to be elected at the next meeting. The second rank was also conferred on one candidate. There was a large attendance of members and considerable interest shown in the nominations which were as follows:

Chancellor Commander, Fred Sears, W. L. Hetfield; vice-chancellor commander, Samuel Rohberg; prelate, Robert Fitz Randolph; master of work, Jeremiah Van Winkle, George Dean; keeper of records and seal, Eugene V. Lorton, Frank Putnam; master of finance, J. E. Martin; master of exchequer, J. E. Humpston and J. D. Anderson; master at arms, E. W. Titsworth, A. E. Causebrook, J. D. Anderson, R. F. Randolph and Frank Dunham; inner guard, Harry Werner, S. E. Humpston, A. E. Causebrook; outer guard, C. E. Harris, George Dean; representatives to grand lodge, Fred Sears, A. E. Causebrook, George Dean, Harry Werner, J. D. Anderson, Eugene V. Lorton; alternates, J. D. Anderson, George Dean; trustees for three years, Jeremiah Van Winkle.

TO FACILITATE WORK AT FREIGHT HOUSE

For the purpose of having a system in the delivery of goods from the freight house, Agent Peter Kohler has made some changes which he believes will greatly facilitate business and be a benefit to expressmen and others who have occasion to cart freight. Heretofore, with the limited amount of help, persons in search of goods there have been detained there an indefinite time before they could get a clear bill and take their goods.

Under the new order of things two assistants have been allowed the bill clerk, whose duties will be to help people find their goods and this save time. There has been an order in force at the freight house to the effect that any recognized expressman or other person known to those in charge can enjoy the benefit of a credit system, while others have been obliged to pay for goods when delivered.

In speaking of the matter today Agent Kohler said that there would be no change in this rule, except that in the future more care would be exercised in the delivery of goods and it will be necessary for everyone to get a signed bill from the clerk before taking goods away. Those who are allowed credit will receive a bill of a certain color and the amount of the goods will be charged up to them. In the case of those who are not given credit a bill of another color will be given and they will be obliged to pay for their goods when they receive them. It is said that it has been more or less of a custom for anyone to go to the freight house and get goods without any system and it is this practice, Mr. Kohler says, he intends to correct.

COLBY TO FIGHT ON SAYS HE'S NO QUITTER

Instead of giving up his legal residence in New Jersey and abandoning the contest for the New Idea principles for which he has fought so long and hard, as reported yesterday, Senator Everett Colby announced last night that he and his followers in the New Idea movement had already started the fight to capture the control of the Essex County Republican Committee from the regulars at the primaries next September.

The Senator had just returned from Cleveland, where he had addressed the Credit Men's Association of that city. When asked if he proposed giving up his home in New Jersey, he said:

"Well, I should say not. I'm no quitter. The fight for clean politics in New Jersey will be continued harder than ever. We have already completed plans to capture the Republican County Committee at the September primaries, and from now until primary day there will be no let up in the fight."

The Senator said that he and Mrs. Colby, following their usual custom, would spend a part of the winter in New York. This year, however, he had leased a home in the city and Mrs. Colby, who preferred the quiet of her own home to the inconveniences of a big hotel.

The Essex County Republican Committee consists of 211 members, who are chosen for two years. The next meeting will be held on the last Friday in this month, when Alfred N. Dalrymple will be re elected chairman for another year. At the present time there are sixty-four New Idea members of the committee, but 106 are needed for a majority.

One of Senator Colby's friends said yesterday that he would probably be a candidate for the Republican Assembly nomination at the open primaries.

TERMINAL READY JAN. 1

Will Stand as a Monument to Jos. O. Osgood.

IT IS A HANDSOME STRUCTURE.

Work Started September 23, 1904, and the Difficult Task is Now About Finished.

From the present outlook, the Jersey Central's new passenger terminal on Liberty street, New York, will be ready for occupancy about January 1. When completed it will be one of the most handsome and substantial structures in the country. It will stand as a monument to the engineering skill of Joseph O. Osgood, of this city, who is chief engineer of the Jersey Central.

The general design of the new building follows the ironic type, the front elevation being rendered in copper. So far as possible the entire structure has been made fireproof, wood being used only for the trim of the windows, for which quartered oak has been chosen to harmonize with the massive high-backed settees. The walls of the main waiting rooms on both the ground floor and the second floor giving access to the upper decks of ferryboats, will be done in artistically moulded plaster with a deep wainscoting of Istrian marble.

One of the great advantages that passengers will gain in the new terminal will be the bridge across West street connecting the upper floor with exits and entrance from Liberty street, concrete piers for the span having already been laid.

The task of erecting the new terminal without interrupting the great daily tide of incoming and outgoing traffic, has been a long and arduous one and beset with not few difficulties for Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood, of the Central, and C. F. Morse, engineer in charge of the works. The first step was the demolition of old Pier 14, adjoining the old passenger station on the south and the building of a new pier 300 feet long and resembling it, was started September 23, 1904. At the end of this pier, which will later be extended 50 feet and used for freight —a temporary ferry slip was installed. This was begun in the following October, and as soon as boats could tie up to the bridge, slip No. 3, adjoining on the north, was placed out of commission and the erection of a platform for a new and permanent slip in its place was undertaken. By the middle of the following May, the new makeshift ferry house was ready for use and the old structure was abandoned. Simultaneously, dredging for the foundation of the bulkhead wall, a necessary support of the new station and slips, was begun, and by July, the filling in with broken stone—the initial stratum of the bulkhead foundation—was wel under way.

Some idea of the stalwartness of this formation may be gathered from the fact that more than 21,000 cubic yards of crushed stone was dumped, among piles, 35 to 75 feet in length, and driven to solid rock. On this substantial basework was built the bulkhead wall containing 44 blocks of reinforced concrete, weighing 50 tons each, and resting on the river, 16 feet below low water mark. To set these blocks and level up the foundation on this massive abutment, it was necessary to employ relays of divers and the task was slow and tedious. By November, 1906, however, the bulkhead was finished, and the permanent foundation of the new ferry house was started. Something like 2,000 piles were used in the foundation which was completed June 3d last, and on July 18, the piling proceeded of the main steel work of the superstructure was in order. As the staunch metal frame gradually rose higher and more cross girders were set in place, the heat-resisting hollow bricks kept pace with the growing steel work until the entire ground floor has been enclosed, the second floor is well advanced, and half of the roof has been put on. In the meantime the side "racks" of both of the pesmanent slips have been extended some fifty feet southward into the river, the reconstruction of these and the new trusters at the ends, consuming in the neighborhood of a thousand piles exclusive of those driven for the foundation and another thousand used onl ytemporarily.

G. Harvey Bogert a Benedict.

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of Mrs. Jennie May Flemington, daughter of the late Harvey Bogert, formerly of this city, but now of Flemington. The ceremony took place at Westfield on November 28, and the couple is now residing at Flemington. Mr. Bogert, who is well-known here, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bogert. He resided in this city for many years.

A Favor Suggestion.

A neat little gift is a small crochted slipper, with a shamois sole, in which a silver thimble is placed. Crochet the toe and sides with silk-ateen. Two slippers can be made, tied with ribbon, and one stuffed with an emery bag. Each should be an inch long.

HALF YEARLY FEAST OF BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS

The Business Men's Class of the Y. M. C. A. indulged in its semi-annual banquet Monday in the Association rooms. Twenty-three members were present and several of them made short after dinner talks, which were principally in the nature of anecdotes.

Dr. Charles G. Davis acted as toastmaster and those who responded were: H. C. Runyon, H. E. Parker and G. L. Listman.

Harry K. Litster's "talking machine orchestra" entertained the banqueters with a program of fourteen numbers, which included vocal and instrumental solos, duets and quartettes besides band and orchestra selections.

Mrs. Henry Johnson, the caterer, supplied the eatables.

Those present were: G. M. Clark, B. F. Adams, Dr. O. B. Whitford, H. C. Runyon, W. S. Angleman, D. J. Carney, Dr. N. H. Probasco, Dr. G. H. Hillman, H. T. Joseph, F. O. Dunning, Dr. R. S. Stevens, Dr. B. F. Leonard, Dr. C. W. Leonard, H. C. Runyon, John M. Doane, G. C. N. Smith, John G. Lidseans, W. H. P. Weyant, W. Pearce, H. E. Parker, G. L. Listman, Prof. G. E. Webster and Francis J. Blatz.

TAX BOARD MAKES TOUR AND REDUCES ASSESSMENTS.

Assessments were reduced on some of the more larger properties in the borough Monday afternoon by the Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes at its meeting in the Council chamber. About thirty applicants asked for reduction, and the board found that about half of the protesting property-owners had no cause for reduction and the assessments were therefore left as they stood.

A tour of inspection was made and the property of every protested assessment examined. In a few instances the assessments on improved property was found to be too high, and were accordingly readjusted.

Congressman Talks at Lodge of Sorrow in Elizabeth.

In unison with the rest of Elkdom, the Elizabeth lodge of the order Sunday night held its annual memorial services in Proctor's theatre, which was thronged with friends of the Elks and their departed brothers. Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, of this city, was the principal speaker. He dwelt on the commendable practise of paying tribute to the departed and declared that it was a practise that might well be emulated by other organizations. "Its showed," he said, "that the feeling of brotherhood and love for humanity was still strong. He was introduced by the exalted ruler of the lodge, Samuel Cohen.

M'GOWAN A PARTNER IN "ELIZABETH TIMES."

John J. McGowan, formerly of The Daily Press reportorial staff and for the last few years telegraph editor of the Elizabeth Daily Journal, has become a part owner in the Elizabeth Evening Times. He will assume the editorial management of the county seat's Democratic daily on January 1. His partner, J. Nelson Barton, will have charge of the business end of the office. It is proposed to remove the plant to Broad and Grand streets.

J. Leo Sauer, who has been editor of the Times for several years, has resigned.

"Holy Jumpers" Are Active.

"The Holy Jumpers," a religious sect located on what was the Garretson farm near Wetson, Somerset county, are erecting a large building of cement block, wherein all of the departments will be housed and spacious dormitories will be provided. There is now maintained by the sect a fine printing office, in which there is a large printing press; also book binding machinery. Two religious papers are published every week, in addition to books and pamphlets of all kinds. The machinery is run by motor power.

Funeral of Mrs. Johnson.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Johnson, wife of Andrew Johnson, was held at her late home on Dean street, Monday afternoon, a large gathering of relatives and friends being in attendance. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss officiated. During the service, two of Mrs. Johnson's selections were sung by Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff. There were numerous floral tributes. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Frank E. Woodruff, P. H. Bennett, Abram King, B. F. Conover, L. B. Woolston and John Dickson.

AMUSEMENTS.

For well on toward two hundred nights George Arliss has presented his magnificent performance in "The Devil" at the Belasco theatre with absolutely no slacking in the demand for seats. Mr. Arliss continually adds delicate touches that strengthen his already incomparable interpretation, while the cast as a whole display that cohesive team work that has contributed as much to making the acting of this piece the most praised effort of the theatrical season. Nothing finer or more finished than the performance of this brilliant play has been seen on Broadway in years, and it fully merits the unflagging, enthusiastic reception accorded it.

Miss Ethel Barrymore has emphatically come into her own and is playing to the largest houses that have ever greeted her in New York, thanks to the finished performance she nightly gives of "Lady Frederick." The success of the piece—its evenly balanced cast, the careful rescue of some of its situations fro mthe melodramatic note inherently in them, is all due to Miss Barrymore, who always sat side by side with Charles Frohman at its rehearsals.

Eight weeks is the length of the New York engagement planned by Charles Frohman for Miss Maude Adams in the Barrie comedy "What Every Woman Knows." Eighty would be nearer the mark, judging from the popularity of play and player wherever they have been seen.

When an actress of the charm and talent of Miss Annie Russell scores a brilliant success in a new play, it is the signal, not only for her own loyal following, but for every lover of the best in the way of amusement, to furnish prompt support. That theatregoers both in and about New York appreciate Miss Russell's new comedy, "The Stronger Sex" in which the Wagenhals and Kemper Company are presenting her at the Lyceum, is demonstrated by the demand made on the box office for the advance reservation of seats. "Miss Russell at her best," is the unanimous verdict.

Among the host of American comedians Henry E. Dixey, with his graceful art and magnetism, stands alone. His comedy is spontaneous, delicious and unique. His power to convulse any audience with hearty laughter is a divine gift that goes unpolished and unchanging personality. "Mary Jane's Pa," every body admires Dixey except Mary Jane's "M." The more "Ma" dislikes "Pa" the funnier becomes the comedy. Mr. Savage "offers" Mr. Dixey as a star to New York in the new play, and the actor's friends predict that he will continue at the Garden theatre.

Marie Cahill and "The Boys and Betty" are smashing all attendance records at Wallack's Theatre, New York City, for the charming comedienne has scored a most emphatic hit. The success stands alone for this season for while hit of other years may have equalled that of Miss Cahill, there has been nothing within hailing distance of her during the present season. "The Arab Love Song" is again proving that Miss Cahill's personality is most effective in the establishing of a popular song. No less than half a dozen songs have been heard in the past few years which deal with the Bedouin's love, but this is the first to score heavily.

Klaw & Erlanger gave a special matinee performance last Wednesday of "Little Nemo," now running at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York, for Mlle. Adeline Genee, the dancer, who has been identified with most of the greatest London spectacular productions and pantomimes. In consequence the English and American offerings, she says as follows: "For the first time it has been my privilege to witness an American spectacle in 'Little Nemo' at the New Amsterdam theatre, and it has been one of the greatest treats of my life. The special Wednesday matinee of 'The Soul Kiss,' in which I am now appearing, was abandoned simply in order that I might see 'Little Nemo,' a performance which fills me with wonder, delight and surprise."

"A Gentleman from Mississippi" is galloping on to its fourth month in the Bijou theatre, New York city, where, without question, it will still be drawing well after the holiday season is over. Not since William H. Crane set the town a-laughing in "The Senator" has a play of Washington life caught on in New York like this one. A breath of playwrights and young Douglas Fairbanks do. The world's stage might be searched without finding two men more nearly suited to their respective and well-contrasted roles than Wise and Fairbanks; while they have the kind of support in all the characters that is the trademark of the play's managers. William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer.

LITERARY

The December Atlantic opens with a Christmas talk by S. M. Crothers. The Bayonet-Poker is his theme, for such an implement stands by his own study fire, devoted now to a wholly peaceful purpose, and the essayist takes it as symbolical of the coming of international peace. In Ghosts, Frank Crane protests against the inherited notions which we imagine to be convictions of our own. Again this month the Atlantic presents an important article by President Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation on The Organization of Higher Education.

With the approach of Christmas, everybody ought to be in a joyous mood, even if everybody is n't, so let us sway with gloom and melancholy, and have about us only reading matter that is cheerful in tone and atune with the holiday season. Such a volume is Lippincott's provides just the sort of entertainment to put you in good humor. The complete novel is a humorous mystery story entitled "Seven Days," by Mary Robert Rinehart, whose book "The Circular Staircase," is now ranks as one of the season's "best sellers."

In the December number of "Success Magazine," Leroy Scott explains Russian imagination in "The Lure of America." Glenmore Davis writes upon "Our Billion-DDollar Smile," an analysis of the cost of the show business. Robert Haven Scauhffler discusses the problems of the country preacher, and Albert W. Vorse gives an imaginative picture under the title, "What Will the Airship Mean?" Other articles are "Self-Mastery," by Orison Swett Marden; "The Automobile for the Average Man," by Herbert L. Towle; and "Living on a Little," by Isabel Gordon Curtis.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine displays great wealth and variety of illustration, containing many of the original studies and sketches by Edwin A. Abbey, R. A., for his wonderful series of pictures at the Harrisburg Capitol. An article by Royal Cortissoz gives a most appreciative account of this distinguished series of decorations as they appear in the new Capitol. Mr. Abbey's own studies sho whow such great success is achieved by patient labor at all details. Another artistic feature is the series of pictures by Alonzo Kimball, reproduced in colors, which illustrates Sheridan's famous toast in "The School for Scandal."

Andrew Carnegie, who built up the steel trust and amassed a huge fortune under protective tariff, claims that there is no longer any need of protecting our "infant industries" which have now grown to lusty maturity; that duties on manufactured articles ought to be greatly reduced, protective duties of steel and oil altogether abolished and "duties on luxuries" increased on imported luxuries consumed by the rich. These amazing statements from a man supposed to be a "dyed-in-the-wool" protectionist, Mr. Carnegie makes in his article, "My Experience with and Views Upon the Tariff," which will appear in the December issue of the "Century Magazine."

Within are short and interesting extracts from articles appearing in the December, 1908, issue of the Technical World Magazine. They are especially prepared for the use of Library and Exchange Editors. We shall be glad to grant permission to reprint entire articles, provided credit is given. We shall thank you for calling this offer to the attention of your Sunday editor.

The love letters of George Sand and Alfred de Musset disclosing the secret history of this dramatic and hitherto unexplained literary love affair are given to America through the Metropolitan Magazine. The first instalment appears in the Christmas number. The Real Panama and Its People" by Eleanor Yorke Bell, gives the reader the results of a careful study of Panama and its inhabitants and the conditions under which our men are working, simply telling facts without sensational charges such as have characterized the majority of the other articles on the canal.

The Christmas number of Woman's Home Companion is one of the most beautiful of the holiday magazines. Its cover is blue and gold depicting the Madonno and Child. There is a beautiful painting in color by James Montgomery Flagg, occupying a full page. Another delightful and unique feature consists of two big pages of old-fashioned Christmas Carols, with decorations by Ernest Haskell. For the Christmas Woman's Home Companion, Edwin Markham has written a most beautiful poem, "Before the Gospels Were."

Will Include a Theatre and Hotel, Too.

A new headquarters building to include a hotel and a theatre besides the necessary lodge rooms, has been planned by New York Lodge, No. 1, B. P. O. E.

The building, which will be twelve stories high, is to stand on the south east corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-third street, and will be ready for dedication by Christmas, 1909. It will cost $1,000,000.

Y. M. C. A. STARTS BADLY IN BIG LEAGUE SERIES

More than one goal basket would be superfluous to Passaic. One is sufficient, but the rapid succession in which the players dropped the ball into that, Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, made it seem as if there were baskets everywhere for their convenience.

It was the first league game for the local Y. M. C. A. team in the State championship series and they were badly defeated by the clever Passaic five, the score being 48 to 23.

The teamwork of the visitors was excellent and their shooting notably accurate. Dunn, Jeoger and Reining did especially good work.

Some of the Plainfield players were in poor physical condition, which accounts for their very weak shooting. Had they been in their usual shape, there would doubtless have been different figures in the score.

The lineup:

Y. M. C. A.		Passaic.
Plainfield.
	Right forwards.
Loiseaux		Tracker
	Left forwards.
Gilmore		Jeoger
	centres.
Cahoone, Endicott,		Dunn
	Right guards.
Ramsey		Stroyer
	left guards.
Miner		Reninc

Individual scorings: Gilmore, 9; Loiseaux, 4; Cahoone, 2; Miner, 8; Endicott, 4; Jeoger, 15; Dunn, 12; Stroyer, 4; Reming, 12. A foul while shooting scored 1 for Passaic.

MANY SALES REPORTED BY LOCAL REALTY CONCERN.

The unusual activity in real estate in Central Park, which is owned by the Central Park Realty Company gives promise of a bright year and a steady growth in the development of Plainfield property. The company has sold to J. Philip Bird, business manager of the National Manufacturers' Association the large dwelling and lot on the south side of Evergreen avenue, near Kensington, also the lot at the southeast corner of Plainfield and Edgewood avenues, 125 feet front and 166 feet deep, to William E. Ferguson, a prominent real estate operator of Baltimore for investment purposes.

John Abel, treasurer of the Merserau Metal Bed Company, of Jersey City, has purchased nine lots having a total frontage of 491 feet on Prospect and Kensington avenues. Mr. Abel who now resides at New Rochelle, will build a large dwelling for his own occupancy and two others for investment purposes.

Franklin Groff, president of the Merserau Metal Bed Company, who purchased a large dwelling on the north side of Prospect avenue, near Kensington, has purchased the adjoining lot on the east giving him a total frontage of 100 feet on Prospect avenue. The Central Park Realty Company has sold for James C. Manning the ten-room dwelling and large lot on Gresham road and Park Terrace to DeWitt D. Darlow, of Putnam avenue, and the dwelling and large lot on Cameron avenue, near Randolph road for Manning and Briggs to C. C. Newell, of Arlington avenue. The total sales aggregate $50,240. Ernest Sharp is president and Charles Matt the manager of the sales department of the Central Park Realty Company.

N. P. H. S. FIVE LOSES TO Y. M. C. A. SECONDS.

North Plainfield High School was defeated by the Y. M. C. A. Second team Saturday night at the association gymnasium, 39 to 19.

The line-up:

Y. M. C. A.		N. P. H. S.
Templin		Conroy
	right forwards.
Rockwell		Vanderbeek
	left forwards.
Hoagland		Overton
	centres.
Joseph		Becker
	right guards.
Mackey		Powlison, Steiner
	left guards.

Goals: Templin, 12; Rockwell, 2; Hoagland, 2; Joseph, 8; Mackey, 4; Conroy, 17; Vanderbeek, 2. Two points allowed Y. M. C. A. on fouls.

CAPACITY AUDIENCES AT THE PROCTOR THEATRE.

The new Proctor theatre drew capacity attendances at all performances given Saturday afternoon and night. Wit hthe opening of the door for the matinee, the rush almost carried the ticket pagoda out of position and the attendants had a strenuous time bringing order about.

The program of pictures, songs and travelogues proved highly pleasing to the patrons and the majority took occasion to inspect the improvements. The general comment was to the effect that Managers Proctor and Sanderson have one of the handsomest playhouses in the State.

"M.O." COMMISSION BUSY

Public Ownership of Water Supply Report to be Considered December 21.

JOINT PLANT SUGGESTION MADE

Another Scheme to Sell Water to Nearby Towns—Some Legal Difficulties.

The final draft of the report to be submitted to the Common Council on Monday night, December 21, will be considered at a special meeting of the local municipal ownership commission which is vested with the power of investigating the scheme of public control of the water supply. Countless meetings have been held by this body and by its several committees on law, engineering and the like.

According to well defined report the commission has found a number of legal difficulties to be overcome, but these are possible of satisfactory solution. As for the feasibility of the proposition, it is said that the commission will suggest that municipal control would only be a satisfactory and paying investment provided agreements could be made with the surrounding communities for the supply of water or if these communities could be induced to join in the enterprise. Whether a joint plant of this kind could be established is problemmatical. On the otherhand it is said there are legal obstacles to the city's making a contract to supply water to other towns.

The exhaustive report of the commission will be presented at the Common Council's adjourned meeting but the consensus of opinion is that the matter will be passed on to the incoming Council, which will likely devote a special session to its consideration.

WOULD CLEAN BROOK AND ERECT WALLS

Retaining walls will line Green brook on both sides if the plans of the Board of Health of North Plainfield are put into execution. At the regular meeting of the board Monday night resolution were adopted instructing Counsel F. J. Blatz to take the matter up with the boards of freeholders of Union and Somerset counties, with a view to having the walls constructed from Watchung avenue to Grove street and to have the bed of the brook cleaned out and kept free from the accumulations which have for a long time made the stream a menace to public health.

In a former agitation of the subject it was demonstrated that the Board of Health had no jurisdiction over the brook, and that it was a matter for the Board of Freeholders entirely, hence the present action of the health officials.

"JERSEY DAY" AT THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT.

Bishop James A. McFaul will be one of the principal speakers for "Jersey Day" at the international tuberculosis exhibition and congress to be held in the American Museum of Naturdal History in New York, December 17.

Governor Fort will preside and the bishop will speak on "The Responsibility of the Church in the Tuberculosis Campaign."

William C. Smallwood, executive secretary of the New Jersey Society for the Relief of Tuberculosis, will talk on "What New Jersey has Done to Prevent Tuberculosis." "The Responsibility of the State and the Municipality in the Tuberculosis Campaign," will de discussed by Mrs. Emily Williamson, president of the State Charities Aid Association, and "New Jersey's Need of Sanatoria and Hospitals for Consumptives," by Dr. Henry H. Davis, of Camden.

Removing Temptation.

"Why don' you lock it?" he said.

"In a minute I will," I answered, and he was silent a little while. Then: "I wish you would come do it now."

"But why, Lawrence?" I asked.

"Well," he sighed. "I might tum in, and my mamma said not to."—The Delineator.

THEY WANT ARC LIGHTS

Merchants' Association Members Urge the Common Council to Take Action.

DIFFICULTY IN THE EXPENSE.

City Fathers Have Long Considered Scheme—Business Men Willing to Pay Bill.

Accepting the invitation of Councilman F. L. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, a delegation of twenty-five members of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, attended the Council meeting Monday and through its president, A. E. Force, expressed its opinion regarding arc lights for the business section. Mr. Montgomery was invited to the association meeting, but being unable to go there, he suggested that the merchants be present at the Council session.

The privileges of the floor were granted the merchants upon motion of Mr. Buxton, and Mr. Force addressed the city fathers. He declared that if the city could not afford to install a reasonable number of arc lights on the business streets, the merchants would be willing to stand expense of erecting these lights and paying for their maintenance, provided the Council would give the P. S. C. the right to erect poles and string wires.

"It was four months ago," continued Mr. Force, "that a petition signed by nearly four hundred persons was presented to this body asking that arc lights be established. That petition was tabled. Then another petition was presented and Mr. Montgomery said that he would take the matter up with the committee and other members. Since then the association had heard nothing further on the subject and is now anxious to know how much longer the proposition is to be held up. The merchants are anxious that the business streets shall be lighted with arc lamps, believing it would be a good advertisement for the city and a help to business. I would suggest that the city make a contract with the P. S. C. for arc lights independent of the incandescent contract."

"This matter has been considered by the light committee," explained Mr. Montgomery, and while the P. S. C. submitted a proposition for furnishing arc lights, the Common Council was not willing to accept this contract. That provided for a five years' contract. I would like to ask whether the Board of Trade or Merchants' Association would favor a five years' contract for arc lights."

In reply Mr. Force said that he believed both organizations would favor such a contract independent of the incandescent contract.

Speaking further on the subject, Mr. Montgomery said that the P. S. C. had quoted a figure of $80 a year for arc lights, considered reasonable, but that under present conditions there were not enough votes in the Council to pass such a contract and until such time as the city fathers can obtain a favorable contract nothing will be done.

Mr. Suydam spoke favorably of arc lights, but opposed the contract proposed by the P. S. C. J. A. Duttenhofer, of the merchants association, told about lighting conditions in Harrisburg, explaining that arc lamps are furnished in that city for $47.50, while at $50 there is good profit. He favored the installation of a municipal lighting plant to be operated by the garbage collector throughout the city. This he believed would be economy.

In referring to Mr. Duttenhofer's ramarks regarding the price of arc lights at Harrisburg, Mr. Montgomery explained that there are two companies there and one is trying to kill the other. This accounts for the low price for lights. There being no further discussion, the merchants retired.

Mrs. E. E. Waldron Entertains.

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, of Central avenue, entertained a few friends at her home Monday night. The evening was spent in an informal manner, there being a program of vocal and instrumental music and refreshments. Those present included Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Shaw, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson, U. S. B. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. William Keys, Mrs. Clarence L. Murphy, Miss Nettie Cass, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bird, Miss Alice Bird, Miss Edna Bird and Ernest Bird.

Harry Finch Injured.

Harry Finch, of Park avenue, while out horseback riding Saturday afternoon was thrown from his horse and his elbow joint was dislocated. He was taken to the office of Dr. G. W. Endicott, where the bone was put back in place, and Mr. Finch is now detained at home. No serious consequences are feared.

Nature Below Par.

Cride—What do you think of that? Isn't it a magnificent view?

Miss Blasson—I must confess my disappointment. But then (apologetically), I've seen postals of the place, you know.—Puck.

ANNEXATION IS FAR OFF

Commission Made Its Report A Year Ago, But Has Had No Bill Drafted.

COMMISSIONERS KEEP MUM.

None Will Say Why This Delay, but There May be Something Doing Very Soon.

Although more than a year has passed since a favorable report was filed by the Bi-Municipal Consolidation Commission, the necessary referendum bill or bills yet remain undrawn. In fact not until Monday had any action been taken towards that end. What was done at a meeting held at the home of the chairman, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, none would say. Mayor Fisk was present but refused to say anything about it. The commissioners assumed the same attitude. It has been gathered that the commissioners are very wary of incurring any indebtedness that would be necessary for legal services.

It is reported by members of the local Common Council that intimation has been given that when they hold an adjourned meeting on Monday night, Dec. 21, the dilemma of the commission will be unraveled. So far as the city, at least, is concerned there is no more agitation in favor of either consolidation or annexation than there ever has been. The city's attitude on the subject was probably best shown when the commission was invited to public hearing for taxpayers of Plainfield. Less than half a dozen attended the meeting to express their views.

In North Plainfield, however, there is a growing feeling, it is considered, favorable to the annexation of North Plainfield to Plainfield on account of the commission has recommended that annexation must include consolidation of city and borough, it is expected that a vote will be taken on the joint scheme provided a bill should be passed by the legislature. North Plainfield, it is said, pays more tax burdens from which it appears it is said there is no relief would, according to those in a position to know, pass favorably on the project. The situation is far different, in Plainfield, however, for the city is blessed with all modern improvements while the borough is almost bereft of them. Plainfield taxpayers approached on the subject give this as reason why they would vote against the scheme. They take the position that the consummation of the plan would mean increased taxes for them without a single benefit.

PETITION COUNCIL TO EXTEND JOHNSTON AVE.

Two petitions were received at the December meeting of the Common Council, Monday, asking for the adoption of the ordinance providing for the opening of Johnston avenue, between North and South avenues. They were signed by a large number of property-owners in the vicinity of Johnston avenue and the many advantages that would result from such an improvement were set forth. It was argued that it would afford easy access from the new fire-house to the northside of the railroad tracks, thereby giving the desired fire protection and besides it would be a great convenience to residents of the Netherwood section living between Berckman street and Leland avenue.

Another point referred to in the petition was that it would be an easy matter for the New Jersey Central to construct a bridge at that place. C. S. Smincl, one of the signers, said that he favored the least expensive plan, provided the railroad company would stand the cost of building the bridge. The matter was referred to the street committee.

There was some surprise when Chairman Montgomery of the light committee presented a communication from W. R. Causebrook, of the Public Service Corporation, in which the latter stated that it was discovered that the company had been charging the city for two incandescent lights which it did not have. After a conference with the light committee it was decided to submit a proposition in settlement, namely, that the company pay a rebate to the city of $77.50, equivalent to two lights at $15.50 a year for two and a half years. The offer was accepted and the amount will be credited.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton, chairman of the finance committee, authorizing City Treasurer W. F. Arnold to draw a check for $113,521.94 on account of Plainfield's share of the State and county tax ordered forward to the state by the county collector was adopted.

Weekly Chase After the Hounds.

A dozen members of the Watchung Hunt Club followed the hounds Saturday afternoon, starting from Colonia, Pennsylvania Railroad Station, at 3 o'clock. The chase extended over the surrounding country covering a distance of about seven miles.

WILLIAM L. MURRAY'S END WAS A SAD ONE

Relatives and Friends Unable to Account for Bank Teller Taking His Own Life.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW

Trust Concern Head Says Dead Man's Accounts Straight—Domestic Life Happy.

Funeral services over the remains of William L. Murray, the New York bank teller who killed himself at Scotch Plains on Saturday, was held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home, 155 Rockview avenue, Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, of which Mr. Murray was a member, officiated. Temporarily the casket was placed in the vault at Hillside cemetery.

Friends and relatives alike are unable to account for Mr. Murray's self-destruction. According to them he had every thing to live for; his domestic life was happy and his business affairs were in excellent condition. LeRoy Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust Company, where Mr. Murray was employed in the capacity of paying teller, sent Pay Teller O'Keefe yesterday to express his sympathy to the widow in her bereavement. Mr. O'Keefe said that the trust company president had caused an examination to be made of Mr. Murray's books on Saturday night and that they had been found entirely correct.

Mr. Murray committed suicide at Scotch Plains early Saturday afternoon by shooting himself in the head. According to his custom, he took the 7.45 o'clock train, Saturday morning for New York, and soon after reaching his place of business complained to one of the officers that he did not feel well and that he would have to return home. He was advised to give up his duties for the day, and he left the banking institution in time to catch a local train leaving New York at 10 o'clock.

Arriving at Westfield, five miles from this city, Mr. Murray left the train and going to Decker's livery stable, nearby, engaged a man to drive him to Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, the price being satisfactory. When Scotch Plains was reached, the driver of the carriage was startled by a pistol shot, and looking back saw Mr. Murray fall from his seat with the revolver clutched in his hand. He had placed the firearm close to his right temple and fired. There was no sound other than that of the shot and death was instant.

The driver thoroughly frightened rushed to a nearby residence notified the family and then Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician, was summoned. He examined the body, questioned the driver and then gave permission to have the body removed to the undertaking parlors of George Cole. Later it was taken to the dead man's home on Rockview avenue.

In searching Mr. Murray's clothes, Dr. Westcott found about $12 in cash, a commutation ticket, bearing the man's name, also a plain envelope upon which was written in pencil his name and address and that of his brother, C. Everett Murray and his address. This leads the authorities to believe that the act was premeditated. Inquiry fails to reveal where Mr. Murray obtained the revolver. It was never his custom to carry one. It was of .32 calibre.

In the meantime Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, of which Mr. Murray was a member, was notified of the affair and he was requested to take the sad news to Mr. Murray's wife and mother, which he did. He also met Charles L. Nichols, an uncle and C. Everett Murray, a brother, upon the arrival home from New York. Neither one could believe that Mr. Murray had taken his life and at first thought that a mistake had been made.

Mr. Murray was the son of Mrs. Irene S. Murray and the late W. M. Murray, who formerly resided at Goshen, N. Y. After the death of Mr. Murray the family moved to New York and about ten years ago came to this city, where they have lived ever since. Mr. Murray was married to Miss Hattie Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Goodwin, formerly of New York, but now of the borough. They had no children.

Mr. Murray had been an employe of the Empire Trust Company since its organization and for many years the paying teller. President L. W. Baldwin of that institution said Saturday night that an examination of Mr. Murray's accounts had been made and that they were in perfect condition.

"So far as his connection with our company is concerned we are at a loss to understand his taking his life," said President Baldwin. "His work with us had always been satisfactory and we had the fullest confidence in him, in fact he understood."

As a member of the 71st Regiment, of New York, Mr. Murray served in the Spanish-American War as a lieutenant. He was in Cuba and at San Juan Hill, where he performed valiant service. He was greatly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Santiago Society, which is composed of the officers who served in Cuba in the war.

Besides a mother, Mr. Murray is survived by a wife and one brother, C. Everett Murray. He was thirty-seven years old.

Dr. Westcott, who has made a searching investigation, says that the circumstances are such that no known reason can be ascertained for the act and he does not believe that it will be necessary to hold an inquest.

CHAUFFEUR FINED $15 FOR SPEEDING HIS AUTO

As a result of the killing of Jonathan Randolph, Mile auto automobile, Saturday night, the police exercised unusual vigilance Sunday for violations of the speed law and two arrests were made, both by Patrolman Dobson. One of the prisoners, John Harsen, driver for Frank Jay Hind, was caught at Mile road and Fifth streets after he had sent his car down South avenue at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, according to the officer's statement. The chauffeur declared he was only going at a twelve-mile clip but Judge Runyon refused to believe him.

"There's altogether too much of this speeding in town," he said, "and I believe the officer knows what he is talking about. I'll impose a fine of $15."

The other prisoner was Alexander Grosset of Woodland avenue, who was driving his own machine at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour when Dobson saw him. He followed the autoist to Laing's garage where he was placed under arrest. Grosset admitted exceeding the speed limit but said he had to keep going because of a defect in the machinery and that was why he went to the garage. His story was accepted after corroboration by a witness. Sentence was suspended.

MISS SULLIVANT'S DEBUT IS ATTENDED BY 300.

A charming social function Saturday afternoon was a tea and reception at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Jeremiah Manning, 1 Cornelia Place, when Miss Eudora Sullivant was formally introduced. About 500 invitations had been issued for the affair, and the guests from this city, New York, Philadelphia and other cities, numbered about 300. The home was attractively decorated with pink roses. Miss Sullivant was the recipient of a wealth of gifts, including many beautiful flowers.

Those who received with Mrs. Sullivant and Miss Sullivant were Miss Anna Garrigues, Miss Florence Wildey, Miss Nancy Van Deventer, Miss Catherine Knox, Miss Beresford Letcher, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson and Mrs. G. F. Earl, of Plainfield; Miss Winifred Dorrance, of Bristol, Pa., Miss Katherine Colahan and Mrs. Clarence A. Wray, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Archibald Davis, of Lakewood.

Following the reception and tea in the afternoon a supper was given in the evening for the members of the receiving party and later there was an informal dance to which the men were invited.

TWENTY-THREE ADDED TO TRINITY CHURCH ROLL

It was a happy day for the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek and the members at Trinity Reformed church Sunday when twenty-three persons were received at the communion service in the morning. Of this number who enjoyed were received on confession, eighteen being from the Sunday-school, and four by letter. The candidates stood in front of the pulpit platform and all were warmly welcomed by Pastor Broek.

The occasion was made all the more enjoyable by the fact that Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, who was acting pastor nearly two years, agreeably surprised all by attending the service. He offered a prayer and assisted Pastor Broek at the communion service. The accession of worshippers was one of the largest in the history of the church.

In the afternoon at the Sunday-school, Dr. Johnson addressed the officers, teachers and children, expressing his pleasure at being present and speaking words of encouragement for the excellent work being done by both school and church. There were 419 persons in attendance at the Sunday-school session.

The Women's Exchange will net $375 as a result of the recent sale and entertainment held at the Hartridge School auditorium. This is considered exceptionally good, inasmuch as several similar affairs were held at the same time.

ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW

Annual Memorial Service Conducted in the New Plainfield Theatre.

MANY PEOPLE IN ATTENDANCE.

Members of Plainfield and Somerville Organizations Mourn Their Dead—Address by Dr. Crowther.

In accordance with the annual custom of the order, Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, and Somerville Lodge, No. 1068, B. P. O. E., held a joint memorial service for departed members at the New Plainfield theatre Sunday night. The two organizations occupied the center of the orchestra while the invited guests filled all the other seats and those in the balcony. The session was one of the most impressive yet conducted by the Plainfield Elks.

Exalted Ruler Clarence E. Teel, of the local lodge, was master of ceremonies, and conducted the opening exercises while Exalted Ruler Alexander W. Mack, of 1068, presided at the close. The assisting artists included Mrs. Katherine Blume, soprano; Miss Cornelia Marvin, contralto; Edward Strong, tenor; Townsend H. Fellows, baritone, and Constantino Yon, pianist.

The program included the following: Selection, quartet; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," by Elks and Mendantic prayer, Rev. George A. Warner; solo, "'Tis Only a Little Way on to My Home," Mr. Fellows; memorial oration, Brother Frank W. Crowther, Perth Amboy Lodge, No. 784; "The Memory Trio," Mrs. Blume, Miss Marvin and Mr. Strong; memorial eulogies, for Plainfield lodge, Judge William N. Runyon; for Somerville lodge, Nelson Y. Dungan; solo, "Abide With Me," Miss Marvin; closing ceremonies; selection, quartet; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee;" benediction, Rev. Mr. Warner.

Plainfield lodge has been organized five years and in that time has lost six members by death. They were Daniel Detweiler, who died April 8, 1906; Herbert S. Taylor, April 16, 1906; Robert L. Thomae, July 24, 1906; Dr. Olin L. Jenkins, November 13, 1906; Herbert S. Brooks, January 8, 1907, and Charles C. Burnett, February 23, 1907. Somerville lodge has been in existence two years and has lost one member, Henry W. Reuswig, who died on July 19 of the present year.

The eulogies as given by Judge Runyon and Major Dungan were replete with the sympathy and tenderness of Elkdom and following out the order's motto of "the faults of our brothers we write upon the sands, their virtues on tablets of memory and love." As the roll of the departed members was called by the secretary, seven electric lights in the form of a star were extinguished one by one.

Dr. Crowther's address was greatly enjoyed. It dealt for the most part with "charity," his view being that it is much better to award bouquets in life instead of waiting for death to bring about their presentation. The art of giving, he said, is one to be proud of and those who extend a helping hand when it is needed are those who are welcomed to Elkdom.

The memorial committee, which arranged and had charge of last night's service, was composed of Samuel P. T. Wilbur, chairman; Judge William N. Runyon, Joseph Noonan, Frederick Sandford and A. D. Findlay.

NEW YEAR'S EVE WILL BE 'CHARITY NIGHT' HERE

Mayor Charles J. Fisk and others interested in local charities met Saturday night and decided to set apart New Year's eve, Thursday night, December 31, as "Charity Night" here. The scheme is to devote the profits from all local places of amusement that night to the various charities. Already the necessary arrangements are being made with the several amusement proprietors.

In addition a ball will be given at the Hartridge School auditorium under the auspices of the bachelors' committee. The net proceeds from this affair will likewise be proportionately divided among all charities instead of giving them to the hospital alone as in the past.

Speaking of the plans today, Mayor Fisk said that he believed the scheme would be successful and that the people of Plainfield would be only too willing to lend their support to such a movement which will mean help for every charity here, including the Children's Home, the Charity Organization, the Day Nursery conducted by the King's Daughters, as well as Muhlenberg Hospital.

A public meeting of those interested will be held soon when committees will be appointed to arrange the details for the affair.

JOHN H. TIER JR., DEAD AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

John H. Tier, Jr., one of the best known residents of Plainfield, died at his home in Bank place, at 12:35 Monday afternoon, following an illness which extended over a period of seven years. Death was due to cancers which had caused Mr. Tier intense suffering. There were times when he would be able to attend to business, but during the past four weeks he was confined to his bed and he failed rapidly.

Mr. Tier was forty years of age. He was born in Plainfield and always lived here. For many years he and his father conducted the ice cream business, and following the death of the father, the son assisted by a brother, William N. Tier, continued the business. Mr. Tier was a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 71, K. of P.

Besides a mother, Mrs. John H. Tier, Sr., and a brother, William N. Tier, there survives a wife and five children—Mrs. Gertrude Ross, the Misses Ida May, Elsie, Beatrice and Winifred Tier, also one grandchild, Dorothy Ross.

CHAMPION P.H.S. SQUAD IS HONORED BY SCHOOL

The most important social function of the season for the Plainfield high school pupils was the reception to the football team given by the school Saturday night between 8 and 10 o'clock.

The auditorium was filled to overflowing with pupils and invited guests.

A few hours earlier the squad had demonstrated on the gridiron its superiority, defeating in a decisive manner, one of its most formidable rivals and thus ending the season as the champion football team of this section of the State.

Several of the members were called upon for speeches, and their remarks were applauded with zest.

Arthur Bingaman, the fullback, gave a history of the development of the team and the reasons for its becoming a winner. He said that it was due to the combination of excellent coaching of Lindsey Best, the capableness of Captain Kenneth Phillips, the efficiency of Referee Roy Phillips and the loyal support of the school.

He also told why each player loved the game, and what it was that promoted the different ones to jump into it so energetically. "As for Doane and Van Zandt," said he, "they exert themselves because there are girls on the side lines."

Captain Kenneth Phillips, on behalf of the team, presented Coach Lindsey Best with an album containing the pictures of the players and also of the members of the teams during the preceding four years.

In accepting the gift, Mr. Best thanked the boys and praised their work, mentioning the especially strong opponents that had been met. Some poetry, which he read, commending on the different players, provided considerable amusement.

Roy Phillips, the referee, spoke interestingly of the benefits derived from athletics and of the satisfaction in having a good football team.

A monologue, entitled, "Traveling," was delivered by Edward Samitz.

Dancing followed the speeches, a stringed orchestra furnishing the music. The manager of a local theatre had previously invited the football team to witness the performance respecting two boxes for their use. Some of the members, therefore, cut out the dancing and accepted the invitation. The Holy Cross team had also been invited and occupied the boxes on the opposite side of the house.

LARGE GATHERING AT MISS HUMMER'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Gennie May Hummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hummer, of Covington avenue, who succumbed to typhoid fever was held at the parents residence Saturday afternoon. Rev. O. J. Shoop pastor of Grace M. E. church, was in charge, assisted by Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church. The attendance of relatives and friends filled the house to overflowing.

During the service E. E. Runyon sang "Sometime We'll Understand" and "The Christian's Good Night." The floral tributes included an immense wreath from the Sunday-school of Grace M. E. church and a bouquet from the deceased class. A large pillow from her parents and several choice pieces from friends and relatives.

Burial was made in the family plot in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: John Ammerman, Randolph Chandler, Edward Mundy, Lester Matthews, Walter Boylan, Frank Mobus and David Weber.

HALL'S IDEAS RADICAL

At Least College President Could Find Few "Cissy" Boys at High School.

TRAVELL DEFENDS SCHOOLS.

America's Public Educational Methods Constantly Being Improved —Textbooks the Best.

Local educators, naturally, are interested in the statement of President Stanley Hall, of Clark University, in which he criticizes the American public school system as being inefficient and unprogressive, charging that because of so many women teachers the boys are becoming "cissified" and effeminate. He has said that there is something wrong with a boy, who, when in his teens is only a little gentleman;" that he should be barbarious and a good cudgeling by a man teacher would promote development of character. He also declared that the text books are degenerating and that the moral side of education is almost wholly neglected.

The opinion of Principal Ira W. Travell of the Plainfield High School is that some of the charges might stand if they were modified, but that it must be kept in mind that Professor Hall is always radical in his speeches.

"The Professor's theories," said Mr. Travell, "while they are usually expressed in extreme terms, are nevertheless stimulating because after they have been toned down they are found to be pretty near to the facts, and are splendid as hints to improved methods.

"Women teachers do not have an influence towards making the boys effeminate any more than the mother, and it is the mother, after all who is the greatest force in forming character. From her the moral education is acquired, during the adolescent stage. Such a condition as he names might have been true in former times, before athletics were brought into the school work, but the modern method, with its competitive sports, brings out the manly qualities.

"A young man can be manly and yet be cultured and refined, besides, gentle manners and polite conduct are valuable aids in business as well as social affairs in later life.

"Look at those boys out there," pointing to the picture of Holy Cross and high school football heroes, who piled in a heap, were pushing and pulling each other in their struggle for supremacy, while the principal was giving out these opinions.

"Do they seem to be cissified?" he asked. The reporter was sufficiently convinced that no "girly-girly boy" would willingly tip-toe into that mixup.

In regard to the extension of school year he said that it is gradually being lengthened by adding a summer course for those who have fallen behind in studies or desire for any reason to occupy the vacation months in that way, such schools being successfully carried on in Philadelphia and the plan is being adopted in New York and other cities.

Also the manual training courses, now found in most of the schools and conducted along with the regular studies, would be developed gradually and enlarge into a broader system in which trades will be taught, as already in Philadelphia the trades unions are taking an active interest in this branch of the schooling.

Plainfield schools already have several classes in cabinet making and work of that nature, and while it does not provide a finished course in any trade, it is valuable in bringing out the latent talent and stirring to action the natural desire to construct and do things.

"I cannot believe the text books are degenerating," said he, "because we choose the best there are, whether they be ancient or modern."

EDITOR TELLS MEN OF CHRIST'S INTELLECTUALITY.

Dr. L. Boutelle Plumer, associate editor of the Passaic Herald, addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, on the subject, "The Intellectual Greatness of Jesus." The ability to adapt himself to conditions making himself at ease with all classes of men and in all surroundings and his absorbing mind which was quick to grasp a situation and to give a manifest answer in argument, were all indications of Christ's greatness the speaker said.

No better evidence could be produced, he thought, than the Lord's treatment of the books of the Old Testament, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. He had declared that all of the prophesies shall be fulfilled and when asked by the unbelievers where he had got his authority, replied: "From above, from my Father."

HOLY CROSS' DEFEAT MAKES P.H.S. CHAMPION

The champion football team of Plainfield, city and borough, is the title acquired by the P. H. S. eleven in defeating the last of its rivals Saturday afternoon at Hope Chapel ground, when Holy Cross was forced to swallow a 12 to 0 score. Its to the church boys' credit however, that they made things exceedingly interesting for everybody concerned.

This, the last game of season, was attended by a more enthusiastic crowd of spectators than any of the others, though not quite so large in numbers as the contest with North Plainfield. The air was clear and crisp, typical of December, putting extra life into the players and affecting the spectators with a desire to jump up, wave their arms and yell. Whatever the cause, the cheering was loud and incessant, the visitors coming in for a large part of it.

High School, as a team, played the best game, and therefore were deserving of the victory. Ploughing great furrows in the Holy Cross line, Riffert was permitted to get through for the only touchdown shortly after the game began. The next touchdown was made only a few moments later by Bingaman breaking through the tackles and making a thirty yard run. Both goals were kicked by Phillips.

These two touchdowns ended the scoring, however, and during the balance of the contest neither side was able to gain any considerable advantage. Both teams lost by various times by their own unsuccessful attempts to perform trick plays. One instance being when Vail captured one of Doane's forward passes.

Bingaman repeated his usual great stunts of plunging through the line, while Harriman did some wonderfully good tackling for Holy Cross. This was the first game on the first team, he having been on the second eleven, heretofore, and was only sent in to take the place of an absent regular.

Nash made two remarkable kick-offs, sending the ball over the goal line both times, and he also did good work in punting both with the wind and against it.

Phillips and VanZandt did excellent tackling for the high school, and Miller for the church club.

The lineup:

Cab Horses Run Away.

A team drawing a carriage filled with mourners returning from a funeral Saturday afternoon became frightened at Belleview avenue and ran at full speed down Park avenue. The driver was unable to check the animals which have made several attempts to run away lately, but at North avenue one of them slipped and the runaway came to an end within a few inches of Armstrong's drug store windows. The Plainfield Cab Company, which owns the rig, stated that no serious damage was done beyond frightening those in the carriage.

LITERARY

James de Conlay, who knows the Orient as it is given to but few occidentals to know it, contributes to The Red Book Magazine for December a singularly appealing article on the many Americas fugitives he has encountered far from the beaten paths. He calls his article "The Men Who Can't Come Back" and tells many anecdotes of them, from the Cincinnati embezzler who turned Mussulman, to the case of the Cleveland boy, college man and cowpuncher.

In the December American Magazine, Ray Stannard Baker begins his new series of articles on "The Spiritual Unrest," which is to be a complete report of various movements in America, to regain for the church its diminished influence and usefulness. The first article in the new series is entitled "Healing the Sick in the Churches," and it includes the story of the Emmanuel movement in Boston. The article contains a mass of new facts and ideas.

To those to whom the Christmas season means peace and good will and the assuming of an optimistic frame of mind toward mankind in general, the December Everybody's will carry a direct and appealing message. The leading article, "The Sunday Lady of 'Possum Trot," is by John L. Mathews, and tells of the courage and enthusiasm of a Southern woman who has given up her life to the uplifting and useful education of her mountain people.

America's net war forms the theme of the complete novel published in the December number of The Smart Set. This is an imaginative romance by Arthur Stanley Riggs, whose fancy soars to almost as great heights in dealing with the future as *did that of Jules Verne. In this no*vel, "in Quest of Fame," the author cleverly interrupts now and then the progress of a charming love story to draw a very logical picture of the conditions that may bring on an ultimate conflict within the next two decades.

The Popular Science Monthly for December includes the following articles: "The Cause of Pulsation," by Dr. Alfred Goldsborough Mayer; "A Biographical History of Botany at St. Louis, Missouri," by Dr. Perley Spaulding; "The Application of Zoological Laws to Man," by Professor William Ridgeway; "Canadian Wheat," by Professor John Waddell; "College Standardization," by Professor W. *Le Conte Stevens; "As*pects of Modern Biology," by Professor T. D. A. Cockerell; "Loyalty," by Professor John C. Branner.

HATS IN FANCY AND IN FACT.

"I have bought a hat," announced the girl in brown, with an air of final and desperate accomplishment. "Woe is me, I have bought a hat."

"Don't you like it?" inquired the girl in navy blue, actual sympathy in her voice.

"Like it?" The girl in brown poised her coffee spoon in the air and regarded it, tentatively. "Yes, I like it. I tried on twenty-nine hats, at seven different places, and it took me the biggest part of a week. And at last I found this one. Yes, I am almost sure I like it."

"But before I got that hat I didn't see a single thing that was fit to look at; and now every hat I see is a dream. I bought the hat I did, because it was the Only One; it was positively the Only One; there were no others in town that I could have worn; you know the feeling it gives you to try on a hat that you simply cannot wear? Well, this one was the Only One. And so I bought it.

"And since then I have seen about thirty-two others that I am sure would look—O, I'm sure they'd not only look beautiful themselves, but they'd make me look beautiful, too.

"I walked down Chestnut street, and, with a habit formed in the dreary searching of the past six weeks, I look in the windows of all the millinery shops. I gaze at hats. I think how they would look on me. I discover that in every window there is at least one hat that would be a picture of perfectness on top of my yellowish-brownish hair. I decide that I have time to go in and try it on, and price it. And then I bethink me that I bought my own hat two days ago.

"Either Lane hat a hat that is a dream, and Betty Wells got one home yesterday that—O, I wish you could see it! Every girl on Chestnut street is wearing a hat that I simply adore. I long to go and get one like it—like them all. And then I remember that my hat is coming home from the store today!"

"But don't you like your own hat?" repeated the girl in navy blue. "Isn't it really the one that suits you best? Isn't it stylish, and dainty, and chic? It probably looks lots better on you than Elinor's would, you know."

The girl in brown sighed. "Oh, yes," she assented. "I know all that. But it can't help wondering—would I look better in another hat, or would I look worse? Or would I look exactly the same? How would I look, anyway, in one of them—in all of them? I assure you that there are hundreds, and should I have got one of them, instead of the one I did get?

"I wish it was Christmas, and all the hats in the world were old. I hate new hats, anyhow. I hate all hats. And most of all, I hate those lovely, haunting, exasperating, nerve racking things—the hats I didn't buy!"—Philadelphia Press.

SOFT SATINS SOUPPLANT SILKS.

Silk is not in vogue at present. Since the long clinging skirts of the revived directoire and empire periods have most undoubtedly come to stay, it follows as a foregone conclusion that soft satin will be the favorite fabric for evening frocks, as well as for afternoon dresses of the smarter sort.

*The latest variety of satin charm*ease is of a gossamer fineness, and it lends itself with special appropriateness to the styles which are most in vogue just now for evening dresses, while in the matter of coloring the newest tints include some lovely shades of sunset pink candlelight-gray, moonlight blue and a deep but brilliant tone o fsea-green, which looks particularly well worn with emerald and diamond jewelry.

There are some lovely tones of yellow, too, among the new evening colors, including certain shades of pale gold, which always light up successfully at night. These are very effective in satin charmeuse. One graceful and picturesque evening dress of a soft shade of gold has the long plain skirt arranged with the favorite princess effect, and left without any kind of trimming, unless a girdle of antique silver filigree can come under that category, set with amethysts, and used as a chain for holding a tiny satchel made of the same soft satin as the gown.

The bodice is most artistically draped to follow the lines of the figure, and caught in the centre with a buckle-shaped ornament composed of folds of the same satin. Across the front of the bodice there is an emplacement of lace, with a little chemisette of tucked mousseline de soie above it, bordered along the top with a light frill of lace. Over the shoulders there are soft folds of chiffon, continued in the form of draperies, which serve as sleeves. These chiffon draperies, falling aside, show dainty underslecves of lace, and to complete the picture long chains of amethysts, set in antique silver, are arranged across the bodice and caught on the shoulders with buckle ornaments made in pale yellow satin, to match the clasp which gathers up the folds in front.

GOOD SALADS AND THEIR MAKING.

The true test of a good cook is in her salad making.

A salad maker can command a large salary in a hotel, for it is said that a good salad is more difficult to make than a fine cake or pudding, because it is impossible to give exact quantities, especially when one must consider a diversity of tastes. One famous chef uses but one egg as the foundation for a quart of salad dressing made with oils, cayenne and other seasonings. The first requisite for making a salad is to have pure materials and fresh vegetables or fruits. Cream and melted butter is largely used by persons who do not care for olive oil. In making a mayonnaise have the dishes and spoons very cold. Break the egg into a soup plate and beat it until it is very light and smooth. The truth is that the egg cannot be beaten too long. Use a silver or wooden fork for the purpose. Add the oil very slowly and continue beating the ingredients. Use white pepper and the best olive oil, strong cider vinegar or lemon juice. If you wish to preserve the crispness of green vegetables put them into cold water for an hour, dry them upon towels without bruising. Lay lightly in a colored vessel and place upon ice. Tear green vegetables apart or clip with sharp scissors.

Embroidered Bands.

Embroidered bands and heavy laces have the appearance of being set into rather than on the materials. When bands of insertion are to be used above the hem of the skirt the correct length is marked and turned up, the lower fold edge being closely basted. Turn the plain material under at each edge of the embroidered strip and baste in strips with small stitches to the skirt at even distances from the lower edge; then baste the upper edge of the strip in the same manner.

Cut the skirt material from under the lace, leaving enough for a seam on each side. Stitch the embroidery and material together and turn the hem in over the seam. Baste this carefully and finish with a row of machine stitching on the right side. The upper edge is finished by basting the plain material of the embroidery in over the skirt material and basting both flat against the skirt. Secure them by a row of machine stitches on the right side.

To Keep the Milk.

If you cannot afford a large refrigerator, demanding many pounds of ice, then use a large covered pan for the purpose and buy a small piece of ice to place in the bottom of the can. Have the bottles with long wire handles, which will make them easier to draw from the can. If a small handle is soldered to the top of a glass jar lid, butter can be kept in the jar, the lid easily lifted and contents taken out without removing the jar. The can should be placed in the cellar, or if it must be kept on the porch, it should be well covered.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 13, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Books that delight and strengthen.—Prov. iv, 1-9.

In these first nine verses of the fourth chapter of Proverbs Solomon exhorts us to get wisdom and understanding. He tells of his own experience and how his father had taught him and enjoined him to get wisdom and understanding. We must remember, however, that "wisdom" is used in Proverbs in a different sense from what we use it. It often does not mean so much to intellectual as to practical knowledge, the knowledge that tells us what is right and wrong and that helps us to do the right and avoid the wrong. The word as used by Solomon has a large moral element in it. It is with this meaning that he says: "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom; and with all thy getting, get understanding. Exalt her and she shall promote thee; she shall bring thee to honor, when thou dost embrace her she shall give to thine head an ornament of grace; a crown of glory shall she deliver to thee." These are the blessings that shall come to those who are wise enough to do good and to avoid evil. Life is the result of such wisdom. "Let thine heart retain my words; keep my commandments and live."

One of the chief sources of obtaining wisdom is through books. Parental instruction comes largely from experience, and how wise we would be if we would profit, for it would mean much. But books form no small part in the making up of our character, the result of practical wisdom. The chief end in *reading, therefore, should be the de*velopment not of the mind, but of the heart, the sanctification of character, which alone is "an ornament of grace" and a "crown of glory."

From the Bible, the book of books, down there are thousands of good books that can both delight and strengthen us, that will interest and enrich and ennoble us. But there are other books—books that degrade and debase moral character. An important phase of the book question is, therefore, the selection of the books that we are to preach. This selection will depend upon our training and natural disposition. Parents and teachers should assist children to develop a taste only for inspiring and ennobling literature. There are few things more debasing than a taste—yes, a craving—for impure books. One true Christian Endeavor girl should hide away and take stolen glances at a book she would not want her mother to see, nor should the boys read what they know their fathers would not approve. If we do not possess it already, let us cultivate a taste for good books only, the masterpieces of the world's great writers, and, above all, for the Bible, God's book from heaven.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xix, 8-10; xciv, 12; Prov. iii, 13-23; viii, 10, 11, 33-35; Joh xxvii, 12-28; Isa. viii, 19, 20; Mal. iii, 16; John v, 39; I Tim. iv, 13; II Tim. iii, 14-16.

The Founder of Christian Endeavor.

I have never met a man so thoroughly devoted to a single purpose as Dr. Clark. And he, I think, the secret of his abounding success. He will take his family and a few close friends off for a canoe ride and a jolly picnic and excursion on the river Charles that bends its romantic waters around the hill upon which his house stands. In the midst of the merry games the gentlemen will be drawn aside for a half hour's quiet talk over "our work." Eight or ten of us will tear ourselves away from the office for a hard earned two weeks in the Maine wilderness. Scarcely they must pass, however, without its earnest conference under the pines and prayers breathed out into the great solitude for God's blessing upon the millions of Endeavorers. I have seen him in all moods, and Christian Endeavor is uppermost in them all.

Jealous at every point for the cause of the young folks, Dr. Clark is singularly forgetful of himself. A plan is so good coming from some one else as from his own head—if it is a good plan. It is a strange sight to see him preside over a conference of workers, the least talkative and aggressive of them all, watching and listening with perfect modesty and purring forth his own voice with hesitation, yet almost without exception his are the views that prevail. Probably no man on earth has so wide a knowledge of the world's religious denominations or is honored by so many ministers of all faiths, who have come to be his personal friends. Similarly he is an American of Americans, though he was born in Canada, but he is at home in all lands and is in the truest sense a citizen of the world.—Amos R. Wells in Irish Endeavorer.

Hard Work Never Kills.

It is a mistaken idea that hard work kills. Hard work never kills. If an individual gets plenty of sleep and takes good care of his constitution, he is in shape to do hard work. The man who makes most in the business world is the man that works hardest, not necessarily doing the most things with his hands, but doing the most things with his brain. The more you do with your brain the less your hands have to do. It needs hard work to make a success, but you mustn't let worry mix in with your hard work. Hard work brings success, but to do hard work the machinery must be in good order.—Irish Endeavorer.

In Chile.

Dr. Clark found seven Christian Endeavor societies in Chile in his recent tour of South America—one English speaking and six Spanish.

A series of Sermons by Rev. Dr. Chas. E. Herring

"PRAYER AND THE UNSEEN WORLD."

Of what use is it to pray? Are not the laws of nature fixed? How then can we expect to change them by our prayers?

Recognizing the unchangeableness of the laws of nature, some have defined prayer as the harmonious adjustment of our own feelings and thoughts to the laws and unchangeable purposes of God, and that, in a sense, is just what prayer is. Men have said that God in His infinite *wisdom and love, will not be thwart*ed by the foolish prayers of men, so that He will change in His good purposes towards them. The value of prayer, then, consists in this: It reconciles men to God's plans. There is comfort in that. God in His infinite wisdom, power, and love plans the best thing for man, but, yet He tells them to pray. We are directed "in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving to make our requests known unto God." It is not said that all our requests, just in the original imperfect way we have asked them, will be granted, but if is said that "the peace of God shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."

We may pray for that which we never receive but we never pray without receiving the answer of God's peace. I have known of a young girl who prayed that her brother might be spared to her. Her brother died. Nay more, another brother died only a short while after, but God did answer that prayer in filling her soul with a confidence in God's wisdom and God's love which she had never possessed before. A mother lost her only child and, for a time, was inconsolable. She had such hopes and plans for her life, now she had nothing to live for. All her expectations had been shattered, but years later, when questioned, she said, "I can see now that God was leading me even in my sorrow. I lost what I loved most but I was permitted to make my loss the door to a larger service." "Whatsoever thinks ye have need of" the Lord says he grants to us. He has given you more than you have asked. If He had given it to you in exactly the same way you asked for it, it would not have been a blessing.

Prayer then is resignation to the laws and good purposes of God.

You regard it, therefore, as foolish to pray to Him because He will not and cannot change these rigid laws. You believe that His purpose will be carried out whether you pray or not. True, but what is His purpose? Is it not to answer real prayer, and has that not been His purpose from the beginning?

A certain psychologist said concerning prayer, "The fundamental point is that in prayer spiritual energy that otherwise would slumber becomes active, and spiritual work of some kind is effected." Then prayer *is something more than contend*ing with our purse in the world. It opens up to us spiritual energy, and makes us more effective for God. There is spiritual power outside of us which may be ours to bless us and the world.

It is said that "people in our own day, through the power of prayer, have been able to summon unexpected forces of resistance against disease which have sometimes turned the scale of life and death." Prayer is the turning on of the current of God's power in your life. It is putting you in touch with God. The *electric switch board is a fine illus*tration of the power of prayer. A man moves a lever and through that act lights a house or a section of a city. There are "powers in the world." Perhaps he does not know all about its operation. He knows this much that the turning of that lever opens up the current of illumination and energy. It is not his power. He has used simply the lever of power, and that lever is prayer. Above all is God's power. The character of that Presence is a great mystery to us. We do understand it so far as Jesus Christ has made it plain, and He tells us to pray for the things we have need of. Why pray for these things if they will be granted anyway? There are somethings that will not be granted without prayer. It is true that more things are

"Wrought by prayer

Than this world dreams of."

Prayer, then, is resignation to God's good purpose. But so far more than that, it is the means of influencing higher agencies. If we neglect it, we "loose the use of a mighty engine which can help our lives and others." There are orders of the divine intelligence by us. Prayer brings them to our help.

S. D. Gordon, in a very helpful little book on prayer, says of its power to help men, "You can do more than pray after you have prayed, but you cannot do more than pray until you have prayed." You may give of your abundant means to the foreign field and say in your heart that "the chariot of the Gospel moves on wheels of silver dollars," but there is something greater and more important than money. It is prayer that "moves the hand that moves the world."

You can bless individuals and the world by hopefully and importunately praying for them. Prayer to God is not for the purpose of making Him willing. It is simply turning the lever of God's grace to empower and enlighten the world. Sir Oliver Lodge remarks, "Prayer, we have been told, is a mighty engine of achievement, but we have ceased to believe it. Why should we be so incredulous?"

Gordon gives us these two illustrations of the effectiveness of intercessory prayer. A woman in Iowa prays for the conversion of her skeptical husband, who is in Washington attending a stormy session of Congress; suddenly there comes to him a strange consciousness of the presence of God. He is not a Christian man and the experience, therefore, startles him. Later he discovers that the time of this unique experience corresponds with the time of his wife's prayer for him. The result is that his whole life is changed. Prayer, then, in this particular case was not effective in making the woman willing, but in making him a Christian man. Mr. Moody tells the story of the prayer of a certain sick woman in London, who prayed for her church, and prayed persistently. He was clearly convinced that this ministry for that church was the result of that sick woman's prayer; shut in from service, she felt that she could pray and her prayer was wonderfully effective.

No, God will not break one of His laws for us, but He will do for us matter of our prayer what He will not and cannot do without it.

Prayer simply resignation! No. Prayer gathers force that helps and blesses. When we reach the other world and have had some experience in that world, we shall wonder, as we look back upon our lives here, why we did not pray more.

The weary ones had rest, the sad had joy
That day; I wondered "how!"
A ploughman, singing at his work had prayed,
Lord, help them now!"

Away in foreign lands they wondered "how!"
Their single word had power!
At home the Christians, two or three, had met,
To pray an hour!

Yes, we are always wondering, wondering "how,"
Because we do not see
Someone, unknown perhaps and far away,
On bended knee.

Dr. Stuntz to Preach Here.

Rev. Dr. Homer Stuntz, who succeeded Dr. H. K. Carroll, as secretary of the foreign mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church, and who isconsidered one of the most prominent members of the denomination, will preach at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, December 13, and address the Sunday-school in the afternoon in Vinton chapel. Dr. Stuntz is particularly well-informed on foreign mission work, especially in the Philippines, where he led in the crusade against the sale of opium. He was stationed in the Philippines, while President-elect Taft was Governor there and has since been in close touch with the work. He will have something to say here regarding the Philippines.

CORBS GET A "BAD" MAN

Crated by Drunk, Frank Trotter Gives Headquarters a Strenuous Time.

ATTEMPTED TO KILL HIMSELF.

Kicked Patrolman Sweeney in the Face and Ranged Chief Kiely on the Head With a Shoe.

The most violent prisoner Police Headquarters has held in many months was brought in 7:30 Friday night by Patrolman Sweeney, who carrested him at Park avenue and Front street for drunkenness. His name was given by a brother as Frank Trotter, 26 years old, of 419 West Fourth street, and inside of an hour he made more trouble than half a dozen ordinary booze-laden guests. His yells, curses and ravings could be heard a block from the building and it required the efforts of four policemen to manacle his arms and legs to prevent him committing suicide, one attempt leaving his throat in a terribly gashed condition.

Trotter is a painter who came here from Freehold two months ago. He has been living with his brother, John Trotter, a lineman, and yesterday the latter sent him to town to buy some meat. He spent the money for rum instead and shortly after 7 o'clock last night the brother hauled him out of a Front street saloon, crazy drunk. His attempts to get him home proved futile and Patrolman Sweeney was called to arrest him.

The policeman got Trotter to headquarters without any trouble but when he was being put through the searching process in front of a cell he suddenly sprang at the officer like a demon. The two went to the floor together and while they were rolling about, the prisoner dealt Sweeney a kick squarely on the bridge of the nose. It knocked *him out for the time being but re*covering quickly he gave Trotter a shaking down that made his teeth chatter. Before he came to he was in a cell.

The instant the door closed, Trotter seemed to lose all claim to reason and dashed about in the enclosure like a maniac. A pail, a tinlined iron bucket kept in every cell was the only thing moveable he could find and he banged it against the bars until it was reduced to a battered piece of metal. Tiring of this, he produced a pocket-knife that had been overlooked when he was searched and began slashing his throat. He shouted several times that he would kill himself but the officers about the cell room could not see him and paid no attention to his cries.

The latter was still slashing and cursing when Chief Kiely entered the building and went to the rear to learn the cause of the disturbance. The police head had barely gotten in front of the cell when the prisoner hurled a shoe through the bars at him with unerring aim. It collided with the side of the chief's head, jarring his memory and knocking off his eyeglasses. When he had gotten his rights he was out of range but not so far away but that he could notice Trotter's throat. He quickly called for officers and they entered the cell to learn the cause. When they found that he really wanted to make a way with himself they decided to bind his arms and legs but it was accomplished only after a three minute struggle. A physician dressed his wounds a little later.

When Trotter was arraigned in court this morning, he was as meek as he had been violent. He declared that he was used to drinking rum and that a little more than he should have taken deprived him of his senses. His brother gave him a good recommendation and neither Chief Kiely or Sweeney were anxious to press any charges against him, so sentence was suspended. Before leaving the room, Trotter apologized to each of the cops in turn and gave his solemn promise to Judge Runyon that he would never drink liquor again.

For the Maid with Freckles.

Autumn winds are now finishing up the work begun by the summer sun.

The little sun kisses are not easily bleached, yet they can be greatly reduced in color if persistently given a treatment for bleaching them. A good remedy for freckles on the arms and hands is made of cocoa butter, four scruples; sweet almond oil, four scruples; oxide of zinc, two and a half grains; borate of soda, one and a half grains; essence of bergamot, eight drops. This will keep the arms in splendid condition and prevent many freckles from coming. Now for a remedy to cure them on the face. Elderflower water four ounces; eau de cologne, one ounce; tincture of benzoin, one-half ounce; cucumber juice, two ounces. Take care there are no pimples or bad scratches on the face when this lotion is applied.

As to a Maid.

"She breaks a good deal of china." "Yes, but she's thoroughly impartial about it. Just as liable to smash a cheap dish as an imported vase."—Baltimore Herald.

MISS SARAH CURRY'S THANKSGIVING DINNERS

"This has been a very busy day," said a little woman with a long white apron on, reaching to her feet; her sleeves rolled up above her elbows, and saw to the filling of the large flour sacks, with all the nice things that go to make a good Thanksgiving dinner and the poor happy.

"Put in an extra lot of potatoes, and a tender chicken, there are two cripples in that home," as the name was called out, and the sack was handed to a poor thin mother, the only bread winner in the home, and she bowing her thanks, and with a smile on her face, as she turned away with the boy, which she was hardly able to carry.

As the little woman turned to the next comer, she said: "Don't forget to put an extra lot in that bag, the man has been out of work a long time and they are perfectly destitute."

The next name called out was a poor man living in the cellar, was sick, had no fire, a stove had been provided for his family the day before, when his name was called two little girls answered and carried off the sack.

In the rooms of the nursery were full of half-starved children, and tired mothers, and old men, three or four hundred were waiting with their cards to receive their Thanksgiving dinner.

This keen eyed little woman was busily engaged by a woman. "What is your name?" The woman said "Mrs. Swartz; I live on the first floor." The little woman then replied: "I know Mrs. Swartz; you are not Mrs. Swartz; you have stolen this card and would have robbed a poor woman of her dinner. Now you clear out." The woman left, but she wished all manner of evil to fall on this little woman.

Some business men passing by the nursery asked what all this crowd meant; it looks like a crowd we saw over here some time ago—a run on a bank. One of those waiting for her dinner said: "Don't you know this little woman? This is Miss Sara Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, who has cared for our children for the past three years, now we went to our work, and if we are sick she comes to us and nurses us free of all charge, furnishing her own medicines. She has given out eight hundred dinners to the poor, sha-lins and cripples. She said she should have been my sack, it contained potatoes, apples, parships, turnips, onions, cabbage, a can of corn or tomatoes, tea, coffee, sugar, butter, rice, a chicken and mince pie. This is good enough dinner for any one," said the mother.

Miss Curry after finishing this hard day's work, which was the day before Thanksgiving, was called the next morning by a sick mother to the hospital, where she remained with the sick one till six o'clock p. m., thereby losing her Thanksgiving dinner. This is one day in Miss Curry's life.

FLOWERS THAT WILL BE A JOY FOREVER

In making the bed remember that most of the lilies like rich, light soil and are impatient of too much moisture. Therefore the bed should be raised so that it sheds water, and the top soil can be rounded.

Use plenty of thoroughly rotted manure in the compost, but see that it does not come direct in contact with the bulb, which should be set in a handful of sand.

There should also be room for the lilies to grow, and they should be set where it is not necessary to move them frequently.

The various Japanese lilies are not imported early. Therefore it is well to cover the place where they are to be planted with manure so that the ground does not freeze too hard for planting before their arrival.

In planting lilies plant lilies three times the depth of the bulb. Planted deep they are less easily injured by alternate thawing and freezing.

Among the Japanese lilies the speciosum varieties are very beautiful and easily grown. The speciosum rubrum, with its pods of rich crimson, and speciosum album, with white and green bands, are particularly lovely.

Another good Japanese lily is the auratum with its golden bands; while the longiflorum is also charming and a luxurian grower.

Most of us know the trumpet-shaped lilium longiflorum with its waxy white petals; but not so familiar is lilium gigateum, which grows to a great height and bears large clusters of creamy flowers tinged with purple.

With the candidum lily, which should have been set in August, as it makes a fall growth of leaves, the flaming tiger lily and the showy lilium superbum or Turk's cap or swamp lily, one can have wide choice in hardy lilies for next season's garden.

Remember that now is the time to plant them and that money spent in good bulbs will bring delightful returns next summer. By judicious selection one can have lilies of some kind blooming from July to September.

HAVE YOU PLENTY OF CLOSET ROOM?

Very few houses have enough closet space to satisfy the average housewife. She must needs look about her for a method of creating closets and cupboards out of next to nothing at all.

A clever woman who spent her summers in a bungalow where closets were scarce, solved the problem of keeping her skirts and blouses in a safe place away from dust by making two boxes to hold them.

First she selected a box four feet long, two feet wide and about two feet high. On one side of this she fitted hinges to the bottom of a small catch fastener in the centre of the front at the top, making a door which opened out and down.

The back corners she nailed securely with cleats, then tacked an old quilt, folded many times, on the inside of the box.

This she covered with pretty figured denim, fastening it on the edges with brass-headed tacks. She heaped cushions on it, making a pretty comfortable window seat.

Inside at the ends were nailed, the length of the ends, small strips of wood one-half inch square. On these were placed three thin boards, which slid in and out on them, forming shelves.

Thus she could keep the skirts separate, so they would not become crushed.

The shirtwaist box was fashioned in the same manner, a box three feet long being used.

Little bags made of bits of fancy ribbon and filled with her favorite sachet powder, which were tacked at intervals inside, gave a refreshing, faint perfume to the blouses.

Such boxes will be found useful in many houses as a place in which to keep clothes or articles of house hold use.—Philadelphia Press.

A SUGGESTION FOR CHRISTMAS.

Everyone is now busy with crochet hook and knitting needles preparing for Christmas.

For an invalid there could be no better present than a pair of bedshoes. This does not mean the ordinary knitted-slipper with the leather sole, lined with lamb's wool. Bedsocks look like a huge baby boot or a Dutch wooden shoe whatever. The best material to make them of is fourfold yarn or a fourfold knitting worsted. They should be knit on No. 4 bone needles, and may be done in the ordinary knitting stitch or some more complicated one, which the one I am about to describe are done in plain knitting, and require one skein of pink and two skeins of gray worsted yarn.

To begin, cast on with the gray, 113 stitches for the sole and knit forward and backward for eleven rows, or twenty-two needles.

With pink yarn knit fifty-four stitches; then knit two together. Then again knit fifty-four stitches to the end of the second needle.

On the next row knit fifty-three stitches; knit two together, knit one, knit two together, and then knit fifty-three stitches to the end of the needle.

Using gray again, narrow on each side of the centre stitch. Then knit two needles of each color until there are seven pink and seven gray ridges.

Knit six pink and five gray ridges in one row plain and one row purl.

In the next row work four plain, throw the needle over, knit two together, and repeat the process until the end of the row.

Next row purl. Next row plain. Next row purl. With pink, work two rows plain and finish with a shell of five treble, in gray, of course, with a crochet needle.

Work the last row, one single crochet in ever stitch, using pink. Finish with ribbon round the top of the boot.

This will make a pink and gray slipper which will reach to the ankle.

Work is What We Make It.

"Housework is such a drudgery," I heard a housewife lament the other day. But it ought not to be, if you really take an interest in it, and if you don't—well, any other work would become a drudgery under the same circumstances. Don't get yourself into a habit of considering your daily work a drudgery. When you reach the drudgery stage, it is of ten merely a sign that you need a change, and, if possible, rest, and after a holiday you will probably be quite glad to don your housekeeping apron again. If you can't get away to stay, try taking a little extra rest when possible, and go and look up old friends.

His Lucid Answers.

They were asking the eminent lawyer why he took so large a fee from the trust.

"I think it was its largeness that made it easy to take," he smilingly answered.

Then the State's attorneys conferred.

"And didn't you stop to consider that the money was tainted?" they asked him.

"No," he ingeniously replied, "only stopped to count it."

This closed the proceedings for the day.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GUESTS OF PROCTORS

Mayor and Other City Officials Among 150 Entertained at Private Performance.

IT'S A SUPERB PLAYHOUSE

Those Invited Are Delighted and Congratulate Management —Refreshments Served.

Preliminary to the formal opening of the New Proctor theatre on West Front St. Saturday Managers F. F. Proctor, Jr., and Harry Sanderson gave a private performance for 150 invited guests, Friday, mostly local officials and business men with their wives. It was followed by a general inspection and light supper served in the lobby, transformed for the time being into a most delightful lounging room. The affair was in the nature of an informal social and was greatly enjoyed.

From the moment the guests first entered the lobby of the theatre until they expressed congratulations to Messrs. Proctor and Sanderson at the close of the evening's entertainment, they were treated to a constant series of surprises. To those who remember the place as Music Hall the change is a revelation. People in a position to know declare that it is the handsomest playhouse in the State. Everything shows the work of experienced designers and artisans and the result is sure to be appreciated by the amusement loving public.

The commodious vestibule is decorated in Grecian style while the ceiling is done in a soft olive green, with ornaments grounded in Roman gold. It is high lighted with ivory relieved with a soft tone of pale terra-cotta. The mural paintings are particularly attractive. A large center panel represents the power of civilization over the barbaris stage. In the center of the picture are seen two chaste and exquisitely modeled seated figures. The decorative work is the work of David Littgar, artist, or Albany, N. Y.

Handsome palms and plants, together with easy rockers, line the lobby its entire length, giving a decidedly cosy and attractive appearance. The women's retiring room to the right is most gorgeously fitted up with furnishings in red and green while every comfort for the patrons has been provided. A maid will be in attendance at all times.

After the guests had inspected the orchestra by uniformed ushers and a complete show of the kind that will be given in the house for the present was conducted. It comprised moving pictures, illustrated songs, the wonderful cameraphone and a number of acts of vaudeville artists, travelogue by William Downs and selections by the orchestra, composed of Mrs. Downs, pianist, and Harry Rosenthal, trap drummer. Effects are given with all the pictures and every film was enthusiastically applauded. One of them, "The Story of Jane Shaw," was brought directly from the New York Customs House yesterday in order to be presented last night.

With the close of the performance, the guests were escorted to the lobby where Caterer W. W. Warnock and a score of assistants were in readiness to serve light refreshments. They comprised delicious salad, sandwiches, fancy cakes, bisque tortoni and coffee. It was a feature that added the finishing touch to a delightful evening and elicited many complimentary remarks.

The first public performance began at the theatre this afternoon and at the theatre this afternoon.

The guests last night included Mayor Charles J. Fisk, former Mayor James R. Buckley, former Mayor W. B. Smallwood, of the borough; Chief T. O. Doane, Chief P. C. Kiely, Judge William A. Coddington, City Physician C. B. Lufburrow, Borough Physician A. B. Dundon, Dr. F. J. Hughes, Republican City Chairman Hon. Ignatius Williams, Democratic Chairman John C. Denman, and Joseph Sperry, of Cranford; Lawrence Brannon, of Newark.

The work in altering the playhouse was accomplished by the following contractors: Carpentering, Walter Apgar; masonry, William C. Smith; painting, D. W. Little; plumbing, Charles Dutcher; wiring and all electrical work, Allen Laing; general decorating, James C. Hansen; front entrance marquise, Paul Scherbner, New York; are glass doors, Rheinfrank Company, New York; fire escapes, W. F. Kirk Company; ticket pagoda, A. Stenzenberger. Shirley & Johnson arranged and provided all the furnishings and Mrs. Newhall, of N. Y., the draperies.

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS JONATHAN H. RANDOLPH

Machine Driver Continues on After Victim is Hurled Against Trolley Car.

ARRESTED SIX HOURS LATER.

The Prisoner, Floyd H. Cooper, Held Without Bail on Homicide Charge—Accident Result of a "Joy Ride."

Struck by a recklessly driven automobile as he alighted from a trolley car on West Front street, almost opposite former Councilman James Craig's residence, at 12:25 Sunday morning, Jonathan H. Randolph, of Jefferson avenue, received injuries from which he died in Muhlenberg hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness. His body was hurled with terrific force against the front door of the vehicle which he had just left, breaking both legs and an arm and almost disemboweling him. Dr. Main, of Dunellen, was summoned and gave the victim temporary treatment before the ambulance arrived in response to a call but it was realized from the start that death was but a matter of a short time.

The automobile continued onward Dunellen after the accident and it was not until several hours later that the police learned the name of the driver and the members of a party with him on a "joy ride." The machine was in charge of Floyd F. Cooper, 28 years old, of Westfield avenue, Westfield, and beside him it held Mrs. Sarah Robinson, of Sanford avenue; her daughter, Miss Nellie Robinson, and Miss Matilda Schenck, of Orchard place. Cooper was arrested at his home at 6 o'clock Sunday morning by Sergeant Herbert L. Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins, but the latter refused to admit that he knew anything about the affair but later said that he had been to Plainfield in an automobile that had struck a man. When Chief Kiley asked him why he did not stop after he knew that he had run over someone, he replied:

"I don't know why I didn't stop; I was nervous and excited at the time and thought somebody would take care of the man."

Cooper was locked up at headquarters on a charge of homicide, all offers of bail being refused. He was to have been arraigned before Judge Runyon, Monday morning, but pending a coroner's inquest the matter was adjourned indefinitely. A relative of the prisoner engaged former Judge William A. Coddington as counsel and the latter appeared in his behalf at a preliminary session conducted just before noon Monday by Coroner William H. Donaldson, of Linden in the city council chambers. A jury had been empaneled but as the necessary witnesses had not been subpoenaed and Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who is handling the case for the State, was detained at home by illness, they were excused until Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The jury is composed of the following: B. Frank Coriell, foreman; Cyrus F. Boice, Noah W. Pike, Theodore J. Shirley, John K. Large and Clarence B. Rittenhouse. They were at an autopsy conducted last night by Coroner Donaldson, the latter afterward giving the case to Coroner Donaldson.

When the police were first informed of the accident, the victim was then at the hospital and the only clue they had to work on was a description of the automobile furnished by the trolley car crew, Motorman Charles Hendershot and Conductor Charles Hyde. This was given to all the officers and Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman McDonald remembered having seen such a machine at Front and Somerset streets on two occasions. McDonald saw it pass by quite early Saturday night and recognized one of the occupants as a Miss Cregar, who lives with Miss Schenck on Orchard place. The same machine was observed by Higgins after midnight just previous to the time the accident occurred and he attempted to stop it because the front lights were not burning. It was going so fast he was unable to attract the driver's attention.

Through McDonald's recognition of Miss Cregar, it was learned in a roundabout way that Mrs. Robinson had been in the machine at midnight and the police went to her home at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. She admitted having been out automobiling but at first refused to reveal the identity of the driver. When threatened with arrest she said it was Cooper and declared the trip was the outcome of a party that had been held at her home during the evening. Cooper, she said, had come down from Westfield with William DeCamp and that some of the people at the house expressed a wish to take an auto ride. The men were willing and Miss Cregar was one of those who went out at first. When the machine returned, Mrs. Robinson, her daughter and Miss Schenck were taken for a similar trip. They went down Sanford avenue into North Plainfield and came around to Front street by way of Somerset. It was when they passed the corner that Higgins noticed the lack of lights.

Mrs. Robinson said she was not sure for her part that anybody had been hit and as her daughter was sitting on the floor of the car with her feet on the running board she was not in a position to see anything. She admitted, however, that there had been a jar as the machine passed the trolley and Jefferson avenue. The information was sufficient to warrant Chief Kiely sending officers to Westfield to arrest Cooper.

Mr. Randolph, the victim of the affair, was fifty seven years old and had lived in this vicinity all his life. He had been in Plainfield on business matter during the evening and alighted opposite Mr. Craig's residence in order to make a short cut through to his home when the auto bore down upon him at an alleged speed of thirty miles an hour. He was hurled against the car with such force as to smash in the vestibule door. When Motorman Hendershot looked out to see what caused the mishap, he discovered the limp form lying on the ground just below the car steps.

Mr. Randolph was foreman of the Dunellen Stone Company's quarry near Washington Rock and was widely known throughout Plainfield and Dunellen. He is survived by a wife, two sons and two daughters, Harlan and Harold Randolph and Miss Eva Randolph, living at the home, and Mrs. Louis Vosseler, of Dunellen. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Isaac S. Randolph, of West Front street; Richard Randolph, of Long Island; the Misses Nan and Matilda Randolph, of West Fifth street; Miss Jane Randolph, of West Seventh street, and Mrs. Amelia Smith, of Newark. The funeral was held at his late home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Wooden tubs are much used for washing glas and delicate china, as there is far less risk of breakage, but a friend lately assured me they were useless, as if not used for a day or so they leaked hopelessly. Naturally, if left dry; so do boats; but if a little water is left in them the wood does not shrink, and if, owing to neglect, it does, soak it for an hour and it will soon be water-tight again.

Lace curtains wear much better when washed at home, as they need more careful treatment than is usually afforded them by the professional laundress. After washing thoroughly, starch white well with thin, boiled starch. Next hang them lengthways, double, over the line, pulling the edges at the same time gently into shape. Curtains treated in this way will not have the stretched look at the edges that is so ugly, but will look finally "damped down" and rolled up, and will then be found quite easy to iron.

Nothing is more provoking to the careful housewife than to have a perfectly clean tablecloth liberally bespattered with gravy the first time it is used. Keep a large table napkin, one to match the tablecloth if possible, and a piece of white oilcloth, cut an inch shorter and an inch narrower than the napkin. Place the oil cloth where the meat dish will stand, and the napkin over it. The gavy cannot penetrate through the oilcloth, thus there is a considerable saving in the washing bill.

MRS. EMMA K. COX THE BRIDE OF HENRY FRAZEE.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Emma K. Cox, wife of the late Andrew Cox, of this city, and Henry Frazee, also of Plainfield. The couple was married Thanksgiving Eve at the residence of Mr. Frazee's daughter, Mrs. George Hunt, in Metuchen, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John W. Coulin, pastor of the Reformed church, that place.

Mr. Frazee is prominent in lodge circlees here, while Mr. Frazee is a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. The couple has returned from a short wedding trip and now reside at 303 West Second street.

Sadly True.

Murrayhill—A few months brings *strange changes. There's old Much*wed, for instance, who married his stenographer.

Westend—Well, he went around with her before they were married. I don't see much change in that.

Murrayhill—Yes, but it was he who used to dictate to her, you know.—Town Topics.

Willing Workers Elect.

The Willing Workers of Trinity Sunday-school held their annual business meeting and social at the home of Mrs. Albert J. Martin, on Pearl street Monday night. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Coddington; secretary, Mrs. R. F. Kinney; treasurer, Mrs. Elmer Wheeler.

INDUSTRIAL HOME'S RULES ARE REVISED

Following several conferences held by the Councilmanic alms committee, in which Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, took part, the rules governing the Industrial Home have been revised. At Monday's meeting of the Common Council, Mr. Suydam presented a copy of the new regulations in the absence of the chairman, C. C. Randolph. They were laid on the table for further consideration. It is the intention of *the committee to ask for their adop*tion the latter part of the month.

There are fourteen rules in all and they provide among other things that the establishment shall be under the general supervision of the alms committee, subject to the control of the Common Council; that the immediate direction of the Home shall be under the supervision of the superintendent and matron, who shall report to the overseer-of-the-poor and that it shall be the duty of the overseer-of-the-poor to make a monthly report to the alms committee of any information he may have.

It is further provided that the superintendent and matron shall in no instance leave the Home at the same time without permission from the overseer-of-the-poor, and not then until some suitable person shall be obtained by him to take charge during their absence, that no female shall leave the premises of the Home without permission from the superintendent and matron and such permission shall not be given more than once a month for meritorious service.

The superintendent and matron are strictly directed to prohibit all persons from bringing ardent spirits upon the premises and they shall refuse admission to any visitor known to have violated this rule. They are instructed to see that all inmates in the Home take a bath at least once a week, unless otherwise directed by the attending physician. The rules also provide that they shall see that the rooms occupied by inmates are thoroughly cleaned and the floors scrubbed at least once a week, and shall see that the halls and bath rooms are thoroughly scrubbed once a week. No person, male or female, under fourteen years of age shall be admitted as a beneficiary.

The inmates of the Home will be permitted to visit them twice a week, Sunday and Wednesday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, except in cases of sickness or special emergency, and discretionary power is given the superintendent and matron as to the admission or exclusion of visitors.

It is also provided that when any inmate having reason to make complaint for any cause, he shall do so to the overseer-of-the-poor in writing, and shall forward the same to the alms committee. The overseer-of-the-poort is directed to report to the alms committee any inmate who refuses to comply with the rules relating to their discipline and government. Smoking will not be allowed in any of the inmates rooms, except in the smoking room, unless by special permission of the superintendent.

THE LATEST FUR HATS.

The latest style in the way of fur hats has a rather broad brim and crown entirely covered with soft moire breichwanz, or astrakan, with around the crown justly simply coiled a snow-white fox with naturalized head, or a beautiful dark sable.

Dark velvet toques with chinchhilla brim and a Magyar aigrette on the front are very smart; and so are entire toques of marabout feather, a fusee aigrette of some curious tropical bird rising dashingly upon the side. These Eastern caps or "bonnets," are the latest cry in Parisian millinery.

A pretty accessory to the toilets is the rather large spray of artificial flowers, gardenias, tuberoses, white, mauve or purple violets mounted in slanted maiden-hair fern. The flowers are scented and, the stems enwrapped with tinfoil. In the fur coat, or pinned upon the muff, these sprays are very effective, dainty and charming.

Will Discuss Probation and Truancy.

The annual meeting of the Charity Organization Society will be held in Grace church parish house Thursday night, when there will be a discussion of probation work and truancy in Plainfield. Short addresses will be made by Mrs. Ralph Williston, county probation officer, and Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the public schools. An opportunity will be given for questions and discussion from the floor, with a view to developing practical remedies to meet Plainfield's needs. The meeting will be open to the public.

Fanwood Woman Fleeced.

Harold E. Brewer, the swindler of women, who was arrested in Newark Friday, was committed to jail today in default of $3,000 bail. Among his victims who identified him in court was Mrs. George Carter, of Fanwood, from who mhe had got $50. Brewer married a Munroe girl two weeks ago, while posing as a traveling salesman.

CITY FATHERS CONSIDER MANY MINOR MATTERS

The greater part of the December meeting of the Common Council Monday was devoted to the consideration of petitions of one sort or another, and but little business of any importance was presented. Among the petitions were a number for lights, including one from L. V. F. Randolph for two lights on Farragut road, another for two on Leland avenue, one for two on Compton and Dunellen avenues, and for a light at Monroe and Sherman avenues.

Later in the evening resolutions offered by Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, were adopted, granting a light at Monroe and Sherman avenues, one at Leland and Columbia avenues, one at East Second and eGorge streets, in the vicinity of Randolph road, Cameron and Lenox avenues and Laramie road, two on Farragut road, two on Dunellen and Compton avenues and one at Frace and Maple avenues.

W. J. Poulson, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, asked for permission to erect temporary storm doors in front of the hotel's main entrance and the matter was referred.

A protest was received from Herman A. Weber regarding an assessment from macadamizing in front of his property on West Second street, the petitioner claiming that he had the work done at his own expense. The matter was referred to the street committee.

A claim was received from Harry Dencklau for injuries which he claimed his horse received at Watchung avenue and Fifth street, July 26, 1908, by stumbling and falling in a hot hole in the road. He stated that his horse, which was valued at $150, sustained a cut on the knee which laid the animal up for several months and he was obliged to hire, then purchase another horse. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Another petition from Charles P. Seering and others requested that Central avenue, between Front street and the railroad bridge, be widened. This was referred to the street committee, as was also a petition from the Highland Park Realty Company relative to vacating Raymond avenue.

The monthly report of H. G. Adams, clerk of the district court, showed the receipts to be $114.11, the expenditures $33.21, leaving a balance in the fund of $80.90.

A petition of Mrs. Emily Goodwin relative to an assessment, was presented by Mr. Buxton accompanied by a letter from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, in which it was stated that the assessment was paid in 1907 and there was no further cause for complaint.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized an appropriation from the general fund of $1,849.71 for street work, the same to be paid to the City Public Service Corporation on account of that amount being due from the corporation. A number of old petitions referred sometime ago to the committee on public affairs, were reported back by Chairman Myatt, the same being accompanied by a list of the petitioners informed of the fact.

At the suggestion of Delafield & Longfellow, bond experts, who passed upon the recent street and firehouse bonds, and in accordance with a request of Moffett & White, of New York, the successful bidders, the Council authorized the registration of the bonds.

Mr Gloak reported that a settlement had been made with Hugh Gormley for injuries which his horse received sometime ago by tumbling over a pile of dirt in front of his home, Mr. Gormley agreeing to accept $75 and sign a release for that sum. On motion of Mr. Gloak the offer was accepted. Another resolution by Mr. Gloak and which was adopted, called for a reconsideration of a resolution giving Charles P. Seiling and Leo Slonim permission to erect a clock in front of the latter's place of business. It was then amended to read that the point of the base of the post to be erected be within ten inches of the curbline. The amendmeant was passed and then the resolution adopted, Councilmen Myatt and Taylor voting in the negative.

Mr. Buxton moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, December 21, at 8 o'clock, was adopted.

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary.

In honor of his third birthday anniversary, Willis Allen J. Roome, of Sycamore avenue, the borough, gave a party for her son, Willie J. Roome, Saturday afternoon. The program included a peanut hunt, and a donkey party. First prize was won by Isabelle Wilson, while Sanford Broome received second prize. Refreshments were served. The dining table was ornamented with a large cake upon which was placed three lighted candles. Covers were laid for twelve.

CLIP THIS FOR USE NEXT SUMMER.

Some of the cures for exterminating ants, such as naphtha, kerosene, oil of peppermint and citronella, are almost worse than the pests. The boxes will keep out ants, but nothing can overcome the bad odors of the various cures when applied to a kitchen closet.

A young housekeeper who spent last summer at the seashore is authority for the following novel cure:

She was half wild with small red ants in her closet and around her sink. Every remedy had been tried in vain. Then one day the cook carelessly left some fresh clam shells in the sink where she had finished cleaning them.

They remained all night and in the morning not an ant was to be seen. Both the cook and her mistress thought it but a coincidence, but decided to put some shells around the closet shelves as a test. In a few days all the ants had disappeared.

Every week or so during the rest of the summer some of the clean, fresh shells were scattered in the ants' haunts, and there was no further trouble.

Such a simple remedy is worth trying. The young woman says she can give no reason, only states facts.

NEW TRIMMINGS FOR THE NEW COSTUMES.

Self-color and black trimmings are a noticeable feature of the fall and winter gowns. On toilettes of all colors and materials, from sheer to heavy weaves, this style prevails, and will probably be adopted for evening as well as day wear. The lace and velvet ribbon, the passementeries, appliques or lace incrustations. The word lace in this case means net braided or embroidered and applied to the gown.

Self-covered novelties applique in black net in a floral design and outlined with metallic beads was the trimming used on a dinner gown of mauve pink crepe de chine. A band about ten inches wide encircled the bottom of the skirt, from which the material was cut. On the waist the trimming was arranged in surplice style and formed parts of the sleeves.

A new trimming for jackets and skirts of tailored suits is a very thick cord covered with taffeta or satin. It is especially fashionable in black and is used on dark brown, blue and green suits and cheviots. The cord thus treated is arranged to form very large medallions, in the centre of which is worked out some design in braid, or the cord is twisted to form a floral design. This novel trimming is known as corded rouleaux.—Philadelphia Press.

A Different Show.

It is related that a farmer visiting Philadelphia wandered with his wife into a theatre where one of the gloomiest of gloomy Ibsen plays was in progress.

For about half an act the good couple listened in puzzled silence to the mournful remarks thrown out by the group of Norwegians infesting the stage. Then at last, after a particularly harrowing prediction of sudden death to everybody in the last act, the farmer turned to his wife with these words:

"Say, Mandy, I'm darned if this is 'The Man of the Hour.' Let's go."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Special Services at Cranford.

Rev. Frank Wright, the former Indiana evangelist, who is now connected with the Reformed Church of America, has been conducting special services this week in the Presbyterian church, Cranford. They will close with a number of special meetings Sunday. Mr. Wright has many friends in Plainfield, who will remember services conducted by him here several years ago.

THE DAYS OF QUEEN ANNE.

Bed couches have been revived in Queen Anne style, though the present article is made of dull finished brass instead of black wood. They are built in single bed size, with head section rising just the height of a roll above the mattress, and with no foot section. The ends of the four posts are finished with knobs and the bed is covered with lace or stamped cretonne. If the piece of furniture is to be installed in a regulation sleeping apartment, then the roll and bed cover may be made to appear all in one piece, the flat cover having a valance as wide as the length of the bed, and this continuing over the end of the roll. These beds find favor with persons who prefer the effect of a couch in the room, yet like the comfortable arrangement of a real bed with springs and mattress. They can be bought in plain enamel and later will probably be made in iron and wood.

He Peddled Them.

F. Hopkinson Smith was sketching a landscape in Maine when an aged man stepped up behind him and looked over his shoulder at the canvas.

"Humph!" said the stranger somewhat scornfully, "what do you paint them for—the market?"

"Yes," said Mr. Smith.

"You must paint a lot of 'em to get a livin'. I guess you have a harder way of gettin' a livin' than I have."

"What is your business?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Oh, I peddle pond lilies," said the man.—New York Herald.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

When a girl can love an old man, it's a sign she can fool him into thinking it's real.

Everybody is intolerant of other people's bad habits when he has different ones of his own.

One of the easiest things is to marry a girl because she made you think you wanted to.

Maybe the reason some women can't hesitate to color their hair is because generally it isn't theirs.

A pleasant thing about expecting money is all you can plan to do with it until it comes and your family gets it.

It's the easiest thing in the world for a woman to make a man think he is in love with her unless they are married.

Even when she's a grandmother of several years' standing a woman never wonder why she has gray hair at such an early age.

The maddest girl in the world is the one who ate onions because she was sure nobody was going to call, and then he came.

A good way to get men to drink plenty of water and buy lots of money for it would be to put an internal revenue tax on it.

A man is hardly ever prouder of anything than when he sat in the same smoking room of a sleeping car with some politician and told him what time it was.—New York Press.

Some women won't be satisfied in heaven unless they can have a box party.—Nashville America.

POINTS AND PLEASANTRY.

It's a poor mule that don't work both ways.

You must either give up your grouch, or your friends.

Foundations for divorce suits are usually laid during the honeymoon.

Even in very hard times, furs are worn most extravaganty by the lady beavers.

The gas company doesn't claim to make the city any better, only a little brighter.

When a man has nothing to say he is usually given an opportunity to make a speech.

Eve's sheath skirt wouldn't hang well, because it wasn't tailor-made. Adam said he "wouldn't give a fig for it."

THOUGHTS FOR THE DAY.

If a man knows his faults, no good is accomplished by musing him confess them.

Every man's life may be a poem, but he wastes an awful lot of time trying to make all the lines rhyme.

It is a hard struggle, but one worth keeping up, not to meddle in other people's affairs, even when they ask us to.

Public speakers running for office utter many stale and virtuous platitudes, but it may be fortunate that they are not smarter than they are.

COOPER RELEASED ON BAIL

Miss Schenck and Miss Robinson told practically the same story when placed on the stand, both declaring they were ignorant of the fact that the machine in which they were riding had struck a man on West Front street near Jefferson avenue. They admitted feeling a slight jar as they passed a trolley car but believed it was caused by a bump in the roadway. Miss Robinson said she wore a heavy veil and had her coat collar turned up while Miss Schenck said it was almost impossibe for her to see anything because of a robe that had been wrapped about her as a protection from cold.

Miss Robinson was the first witness called in the proceedings and related in detail the auto trip that led to the killing. She said the party comprised her mother, Miss Schenck, Mr Cooper and herself and that they left her home somewhere about midnight Saturday. From there it was sent through Sandford avenue, to Brook avenue, thence into Chatham street and across to Somerset place. The last named thoroughfare ends in a pocket and after getting into it by mistake, they turned back to Somerset street, thence to Front and on through to Dunellen. They were waved by way of New Market road and West Fourth street to Watchung avenue, reaching home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Miss Schenck and Mr. Cooper were in front, her mother occupied the middle seat and the witness sat on the floor on the left side with her feet on the running board. She denied knowing that Mr. Randolph had been hit.

Miss Schenck told practically the same story only she said Mr. Cooper had stopped the auto when they reached New Market road. In response to a question she said he did so because something in front was not working right and that the fixed it by "turning a crank." She declared that at no time was the machine proceeding at more than ordinary speed and that she recalled Mr. Cooper slacking up as they approached the trolley car near Jefferson avenue.

Motorman Hendershot and Conductor Hyde, of the trolley car, told of Randolph's body being hurled against the front vestibule door after he had alighted and of seeing an automobile speed by. Hendershot said that he had helped place the prostrate form to one side of the road and then ran his car to Dunellen to get a doctor. Hyde, who, like Hendershot, a passenger, testified to the same effect and added that the automobile approached without giving warning of any kind.

In proving the death of Randolph and the identification of the automobile, the following witnesses were called: Engineer H. C. Van Emburgh, who prepared a map of the scene where the accident occurred; F. C. Langhorne, who photographed the machine; John Walten, orderly at Muhlenberg Hospital; Undertaker Goe, of Goe & Stelle, and Kiely and City Physician Lufburrow. The last named witness declared the victim's death to have been caused by hemorrhage and shock, induced by "a terrific blow in the abdomen which caused it to burst." There were other injuries, he said.

The jury's report in full was as follows:

"We find that Jonathan H. Randolph came to his death from injuries received in an automobile accident on West Front street, near Jefferson avenue, between the hours of 12 and 1, Sunday morning, December 6, said auto at the time being run by Floyd H. Cooper, whom we believe responsible for his death."

George W. Thompson, a member of the State Auto Commission, attended the proceedings and shortly afterward that he would recommend that Cooper's license be revoked."

THE MILTON TERCENTENARY.

In recognition of the tercentenary of the birth of John Milton, which falls on tomorrow, the Newark Library will reserve on a special shelf in its lending department books and magazine articles on Milton's life and work. These may all be borrowed for one month.

The biographies of Milton especially recommended by the library are those by Rev. Stopford A. Brooke, Richard Garnett, in the "Great Writers" series, and David Masson's large biography in one volume, has been called the most valuable work on both the literary and religious history of Milton's period. Mark Pattison's able monograph in the "English Men of Letters" series is invaluable to students of Milton. W. V. Trose has also written an excellent short history of Milton's life and works.

For briefer appreciations of the great poet, very delightful are those by Matthew Arnold in the second series of his "Essays in Criticism;" James Russel Lowell, in his "Among My Books," and the longer essay by Macaulay.

Both the English and American magazines for this month are full of tributes to Milton. The bound volumes of earlier magazines are also to be found in the library. Articles recently printed are "The Youth of Milton," "Milton as an Educator," "England's Debt to Milton," "Milton as a Romancer," "New Lights on Milton," "The Many-Sided Milton" and a score of others. All of these are in the library's collection.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XL — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1908. — NO. 51

"Support the Constitution, which is the element of the Union as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

ORGANIZED THE SENATE

Republicans in Caucus Make Robbins President and Frelinghuysen Leader.

HOUSE APPORTIONS POSITIONS.

Union County Fairs Well in Both Branches in Distribution of the Plums.

Republican members of the State Senate, constituting the majority of that body, met at the State House in Trenton yesterday and caucused on the official makeup for the ensuing term. The slate agreed upon by the Republican leaders went through without a hitch, except for a tilt over the position of assistant secretary.

These Senate officers were selected for the 133d Legislature, which will be convened here on Tuesday, January 12:—President, Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington county; Republican Floor Leader, Joseph Frelinghuysen, of Somerset, the position putting him in line for the presidency after the last year of his present term; Secretary, Howard L. Tyler, of Cumberland; Assistant Secretary, William C. Murphy, of Camden; Journal Clerk, John W. Cliff, of Union; Sergeant at Arms, Gundolup A. Holt, of Mercer; Bill Clerk, Charles A. Trimble, of Union, and Supervisor of Bills, Edward A. Sexsmith, of Monmouth.

Apportionment of minor offices, doorkeepers, pages &c., was left to a steering committee, consisting of Senators Hillery, of Morris; Leavitt, of Mercer; Wilson, of Atlantic; Bradley, of Camden, and Ackerman, of Union. The committee apportioned the patronage as follows:

Atlantic—Assistant to president's secretary, doorkeeper, gallery keeper and page.

Bergen—Calendar clerk, clerk to Railroad and Canals Committee and doorkeeper.

Burlington—Assistant sergeant at arms, president's private secretary, page.

Camden — Assistant secretary, clerk to Appropriations Committee and cloak room keeper.

Cape May—Assistant bill clerk, gallery keeper and file clerk.

Cumberland—Senate secretary, clerk to president and doorkeeper.

Gloucester—Clerk to Printed Bills Committee, doorkeeper and file clerk.

Mercer—Sergeant at arms, stenographer and two pages.

Monmouth—Supervisor of bills, assistant to secretary and page.

Morris—Clerks to committees on Revision of Laws, Banking and Insurance and Municipal Corporations and gallery keeper.

Salem—Assistant supervisor of bills, clerk to Public Health Committee and doorkeeper.

Somerset—Assistant journal clerk clerk to Judiciary Committee and file clerk.

Union—Journal clerk, bill clerk, clerk to Corporations Committee and doorkeeper.

Tilt over the position of Assistant Secretary was due to the candidacy of Howard B. Keasby, of Salem county, for whom Senator Plummer stood sponsor. Keasby was last year clerk to the Committee on Printed Bills, and this year wanted something better. He had no show in the caucus, however, due, it was said, to the fact that he is in disfavor in South Jersey because of the part he has been taking in factional disputes in the party ranks. Mr. Murphy was backed by Senator Bradley, of Camden, and easily won out. Last year he served as private secretary to the President of the Senate, Thomas J. Hillery.

House Steering Committee, appointed two weeks ago, made these assignments of offices:

Atlantic—Doorkeeper and two pages.

Burlington—Assistant to clerk, doorkeeper, page.

Camden—Assistant clerk, two doorkeepers, page.

Cape May—Assistant bill clerk.

Cumberland—Assistant supervisor of bills, doorkeeper.

Essex—Supervisor and assistant supervisor of bills, sergeant at arms, assistant to journal clerk, two doorkeepers, four pages.

Gloucester—Assistant supervisor of bills.

Mercer—Assistant journal clerk, stenographer, doorkeeper, page with postmastership.

Middlesex—Assistant sergeant at arms, stenographer, doorkeeper, page.

Monmouth—Doorkeeper, two pages with postmastership.

Morris—Bill clerk, doorkeeper.

Ocean—Doorkeeper.

Passaic—Clerk, two secretaries to speaker, doorkeeper, page.

Somerset—Doorkeeper.

Union—Journal clerk, doorkeeper, page.

COURT DISMISSES CHARGE AGAINST MOTORMAN LOCK

The charge of running a trolley car at a reckless rate of speed preferred against Motorman Charles Lock after he had crashed into Patrick J. Regan's milk wagon at Front street and Girard avenue, last Tuesday night, was dismissed in the city court, this morning. Judge Runyon declared that sufficient evidence had not been produced to verify the complaint.

The police put Peter Mohan and George Rinehart, of Dunellen, on the stand as witnesses, but their stories did not jibe. The former declared the car was running at a high rate of speed but he was unable to state how much, while Rinehart said it was fully twenty-five miles an hour. Mohan also admitted that the car had stopped within a length after Regan's wagon was struck and that there is a down grade where the accident occurred. Lock was represented by Lawyer Clarence Case, of Somerville, of the firm of Clark & Case.

Regan, the victim of the accident, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital Monday, but it will be some weeks yet before he recovers fully. He sustained two broken ribs and numerous severe cuts on the head.

GRAND JURY THROWS OUT ARLINGTON HOTEL CASE

From various authentic sources it was learned today that the Somerset county Grand Jury, yesterday, threw out the disorderly house charge preferred by the North Plainfield police against Morris Farbman, proprietor of the Arlington hotel. Several witnesses were brought before the body but it is understood that what they had to say did not substantiate the claim made by the authorities. Further proceedings, it is said, were ordered dropped and Farbman's bond will be released.

The defendant's arrest came after a spectacular raid on the Arlington hotel in which some eighteen men and women patrons of the place were arrested in addition to the proprietor. They were kept prisoners in the borough jail from 1:30 on a Saturday night until late the next afternoon. At the hearing before Recorder Dolliver, Farbman was held on the charge of keeping a disorderly house and four men and two women caught in the raid were placed under bonds as witnesses. Chief Marshal Weiss made the complaint against the proprietor and stated on the witness stand that the descent on the hotel was planned and conducted by himself.

Francis J. Blatz and William G. DeMeza were counsel for Farbman and conducted a vigorous defense at the hearing.

HAND MADE ARTICLES FOR SALE BY SISTERS.

Some very beautiful pieces of fancy work, made by the Sisters of Mercy, of Mt. St. Mary's College, are for sale at the home, 43 Manning avenue.

Tapestries, doilies, center pieces and china painting of pretty designs and excellent workmanship are on exhibition, or if any one wishes to inspect a certain line of work, samples will be submitted to them at their homes, on their calling. Telephone 718-J.

The sale will continue for two weeks at the home and after that the *articles may be secured at the col*lege, at any time during the year.

The sisters work monograms and special designs on household linens, and in fact, are prepared to fill orders for all kinds of useful and ornamental articles, made entirely by hand.

IMPORTO IS HELD TO AWAIT ACTION OF GRAND JURY.

Tomaso Importo who engaged in a stiletto duel with a fellow Italian at Fanwood a few weeks ago, during which his throat was cut, left Muhlenberg Hospital this morning in company with Marshal Logan, of Fanwood, who took the man to the county jail at Elizabeth, where the other Italian is being detained. He will be held to wait the action of the Grand Jury.

Importo was more seriously injured than the other fellow, and at first it was believed he would die. The Italian with whom he fought received stabs in the shoulders, but has since recovered.

Juniors Did Not Meet.

The committees from the various Jr. O. U. A. M. councils of the city which were to have met Monday night to consider questions relative to forming a Union county association, did not put in an appearance. Arrangements will be made to hold a meeting within a short time.

Crimes Commission Majority so Recommend in Report to Governor Fort.

THE WOMEN MEMBERS RESIGN.

But They Signed Majority Report and Their Reason is Only Known to Themselves.

Governor Fort's special commission to investigate the cause of dependency and crime had a stormy conference at Trenton yesterday, in which the two women members resigned because of serious differences of opinion relative to the work and the report of the commission. The retiring members are Mrs. Emily V. Williamson, of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, of Hoboken, two of the best-known philanthropists of the state. Real reason for the resignation of Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Alexander is known only to themselves and to Governor Fort, with whom the conference was held. One of the most radical recommendations of the majority report is for the sale of liquor on Sunday. The report says—

"We find a general and notorious violation, most of it unpunished and apparently unpunishable, of the present stringent laws against the sale of liquor on Sunday. We believe that relaxation of the excise statutes will lead to a more general observance and respect for all laws. For that reason, we recommend that the sale of wine and malt liquors be legalized in restaurants and dining-rooms of hotels, with meals on Sunday."

*Majority members also recom*mend the repeal of the old "blue laws" and the legalizing of Sunday baseball and like amusement for the benefit of those who are obliged to work all through the week. Other recommendations relative to amusements include the establishment of public playgrounds and the restriction of cheap theatres and moving picture shows. The report recommends the abandonment of the State prison in this city, declaring that it is shockingly unhealthy, and recommends the erection of a modern prison with a large farm attached. The trusty and contract labor systems at the prison are condemned.

The women members signed the majority report.

FERGUSON PROVES THAT "PUNCHIE" TOOK HIS $2

Miss "Punchie" Lewis' vigorous defense against Al Ferguson's accusation of having stolen his $2 at the Betts family joy party, Saturday night, collapsed like a punctured balloon in the city court this morning. She was candid, fair and square with the goods and after a few feeble denials of testimony submitted by two witnesses she obeyed Judge Runyon's command to hand over the amount involved in the dispute. She paid it out of the $19 she clutched tightly in her hand while the hearing proceeded and the fact that she had the money ready is explained by the following:

Ferguson declared yesterday that he could produce witnesses who saw Miss Lewis rob his $2 and he came to court real early this morning with Mrs. Betts and a Miss Agens. "Punchie" arrived a little later and she at once proceeded to buzz the two women to see what they were going to say. Then is every reason to believe that from what she learned, the defendant realized she had a hard proposition before her as she suddenly chased out of the room and sped up Sycamore street. When she returned a few minutes later her right hand was clutched around something. It proved to be $19 when the grip was loosened. The court cops figure out that "Punchie" believed she would be called upon to refund Ferguson's two spot and probably pay a fine besides. There was no penalty attached, however, but Judge Runyon warned her to take something for her symptoms of kleptomania.

Mrs. Betts and Miss Agens told stories that left no doubt in the court's mind as to what had become of the greenback and "Punchie's" protestations that they were wrong in their assertions had no effect. Ferguson refrained from saying anything but it was plain to see that he was greatly pleased at getting revenge on the defendant for her refusal to him yesterday as a "chip munk." He grinned broadly and said "thank you" when "Punchie" passed over the two bucks.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Klimer, of Dunellen, on Thursday.

TUBERCULOSIS CONGRESS

Dr. B. van D. Hedges and L. R. Thurlow Among Speakers for Jersey Day.

N. Y. TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Governor Fort to Preside—Bishop McFaul and Mrs. Williamson to Make Addresses.

Governor Fort has accepted an invitation to preside at the great International Tuberculosis exhibit, American Museum of Natural History, New York, tomorrow. It will be New Jersey State day at the exhibition, and an elaborate program has been arranged by the New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, which has made all arrangements for the day.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Gov*ernor Fort will preside at a meeting* which will include the following speakers and program:

"What the New Jersey Has Done to Prevent Tuberculosis," William C. Smallwood, executive secretary of the New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis; "The Responsibility of the Church in the Tuberculosis Campaign," the Rt. Rev. James A. McFaul, bishop of Trenton; "The Responsibility of State and Municipalities in the Tuberculosis Campaign," Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, president State Charities Aid, of Elizabeth; "New Jersey's Need of Sanatoria and Hospitals for Consumptives," Dr. Henry H. Davis, of Camden; "The Danger of Apathy in Tuberculosis," L. R. Thurlow, health officer of this city; general discussion, Dr. Gordon L. Dickinson, Jersey City; Dr. Luther H. Gulick, Williamstown; Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, of this city, and Selskar M. Gunn, Orange.

The New Jersey State day meeting will be held in the auditorium hall of the Museum of Natural History. Indications point to a notable gathering from all parts of the State of people interested in the fight against tuberculosis. The meeting has been widely advertised through the twenty-five local committees of the association, through churches, department stores, Y. M. C. A. schools and State and local boards of health. A request has been made to the State Board of Education to dismiss the schools on that day, giving every teacher in the State an opportunity to visit the exhibition.

Thursday evening a public conference of all citizens and societies interested in the cure and the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis will be held at the Free Public Library in Newark under the auspices of the Board of Associated Charities.

RELIEF CORPS ELECTS.

Scott Post's Women's Auxiliary Meeting.

At a special meeting of the Women's Relief Corps, yesterday afternoon, these officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. S. R. Struthers; senior vice-president, Mrs. Emma K. Frazee; junior vice-president, Mrs. Emma B. Stephens; treasurer, Miss Mary T. Smith; chaplain, Mrs. Sarah E. Mack; conductor, Mrs. Hattie Gibbons; guard, Mrs. Elizabeth Naylor; delegates to department convention, Mrs. Maria C. Terry and Mrs. Hattie Ribbons; alternates, Miss May E. Howlett and Mrs. Mary Meyers. The appointive officers will be announced by the president at the time of installation in January.

Saleem Farhat Comes to America.

Saleem Farhat, brother of Mitree Farhat, of this city, arrived in New York on Monday on the steamer Philadelphia, from his home in Tyre, Phoenicia. The brothers have not seen each other for four years and the greeting at the steamship landed for several minutes. Saleem Farhat, who is fifteen years old, will make his home in Plainfield soon after the first of the year. He speaks excellent English, having been educated in the Presbyterian Mission School at Sidon, of which Dr. Jessup is the president. Young Farhat arrived in his Eastern costume, and the first thing his brother did was to take him to a men's furnishing store, where he donned American clothing and furnishings. He is now stopping in New York temporarily.

Glenmanna School Xmas.

The annual Christmas exercises of the Glenmanna School at Watchung Crest will be held Saturday afternoon at the school. Dr. C. B. Poland, superintendent of the public schools of Newark, and Dr. George Alexander Kohut, of New York, are expected to make addresses. Dr. Poland is considered one of the foremost educators in the country and is practically interested in the establishment of special provisions for exceptional children in public schools. Cards of admission to the exercises can be had on application.

DOLLAR GAS JANUARY 1

Public Service Corporation Making Preparations for Reduction in Rate.

ELECTRIC RATE THE SAME.

Where Quarter Meters are Being Used, Lower Price for Gas is Now Being Given.

According to the announcement in The Daily Press on October 24, 1906, the Public Service Corporation, commencing January 1, 1909, will reduce the price of gas in Plainfield and vicinity from $1.15 net to $1.10 net, and if bills are paid within ten days the consumer will receive a ten per cent. discount, making the price $1. This price has been in effect in Newark for the past six years, but two years ago the company announced that the same rate would become effective here on January 1, 1909, and that the change would mean a dollar gas for Plainfield and adjoining towns.

While the new rate for gas will go into effect generally January 1, there are instances of where it will become effective at once. This will apply to the quarter meters now in this vicinity. The company, to conform to the reduced price for gas is compelled to change the quarter meter boxes, installing a twenty tooth wheel for the one now in use. A charge of five cents a tooth is made. Wherever the new wheel is changed for the old, the new rate becomes effective at once. This work had to be started now in order to complete the work by January 1.

According to officials of the company this is a marked reduction, as there are few suburban towns and cities that have dollar gas. The change here will make a big difference in the bills of the consumers, as well as the receipts of the company from the gas department.

No change is announced in the rate for electricity. The company reduced the price for electric consumption a year ago, and there will be no further reduction for some time to come. The company has for a long time received its supply of gas from the large plant at Camden, and owing to better facilities is able to cut the rate on gas.

DR. CORNWELL WEDS MISS ELIZABETH JOHNSON

In the presence of a small gathering of relatives and friends in the Chantry of Grace church, New York, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Dr. Frank Wilbur Cornwell, of this city, and Miss Elizabeth Fairfax Johnson, of New York, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington.

Miss Johnson was given in marriage by a relative, Nicholas Snowden Hill, Jr., of New York, and is unattended. The best man was Dr. VanAlstyn Hartwell, a former well-known resident of Trenton, and the following were ushers: Dr. Herbert C. DeVere Cornwell, of New York; Calvin Freeman Cornwell, of Morristown, cousins of the groom; John Lutz Cornwell, of this city, a brother, and William A. DeLong, Jr., also of Plainfield. There was no reception. Dr. and Mrs. Cornwell will return from a wedding trip on Christmas day and will reside at East Seventh street and Watchung avenue.

Miss Johnson is a native of Virginia and a member of the Colonial families of Johnson and Fairfax. She has been making her home in New York for some time. Dr. Cornwell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Robbins Cornwell, of this city, and is one of the most successful of Plainfield's younger practitioners. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High school and the New York Homeopathic College, class '00.

Negotiated Hotel Deal.

John H. Kitchen negotiated the deal for the transfer of the Hotel Kensington business from W. J. Poulson to John Burns, of Flemington. In part payment, Mr. Poulson got a handsome home in Flemington where he will reside. Mr. Burns will take possession of the hotel as soon as the license can be transferred to him.

Christmas Box for the Sailors.

Any person wishing to contribute articles for the Christmas box which will be sent to the sailors in New York, may do so by sending their donations to Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of 117 Elmwood place, not later than Monday, at which time the box will be forwarded to Captain Benn, who has charge of this work in New York.

MISS BLIMM THE BRIDE OF GEORGE O. STRAYER

Miss Mary Katherine Blimm and George O. Strayer were quietly married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blimm, only the immediate members of the two families being present. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edward O. Clark, and her brother, Harry Blimm, acted as best man. A traveling gown of London smoke material was worn by the bride and a maroon colored gown with hat to match was worn by the bridesmaid.

The parlors were prettily decorated with ferns and white flowers. Edward O. Clark played the wedding march. A reception and supper followed the ceremony and the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington and Philadelphia.

On their return in two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Strayer will reside on Barrow avenue in a house recently built for them. The groom has lived in Plainfield for several years and is a machinist employed by the Pond Company. His parents live at Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

JOHNSON'S SENTENCE SEVEN YEARS IN PRISON

Thomas Johnson, the Plainfield negro, who shot his wife with murderous intent after fracturing her jaw with a blow from his fist, was arraigned before Judge Atwater in the Union county court, this morning and sentenced to seven years at hard labor in State prison. He received the court's judgment with the same stolid indifference that has marked his demeanor since he gave himself up to the police after committing the crime. He will be taken to Trenton within a day or two.

Richard J. Grant, the bogus piano tuner who pleaded non vult on two charges of obtaining money from Plainfield people under false pretenses, was also arraigned this morning, and committed to the Rahway reformatory. The length of his imprisonment will depend upon his conduct and the action of the court at some future date. Grant pleaded hard for leniency and petitions in his behalf were presented by New York friends. During his operations in Plainfield he pawned several instruments he was supposed to repair, two of them being valued at $7,000 each. He claimed to be a representative of the Steinway company and gained entrance to the homes of the wealthiest residents of the city and borough.

The crime for which Johnson was sentenced was one of the most brutal the local police have ever encountered. He returned to his wife's home after practically deserting her for seven months and then found fault with all he and her children did. He claimed that the latter "sassed" him and determined to wreak vengeance on Mrs. Johnson because she upheld them. He walked up for her at the home where she was out consulting white friends as to what she should have done with him and picked a quarrel with her as soon as she returned. He had a pistol in his pocket and after giving her a terrible beating, shot her in one of the eyes. She was discharged from Muhlenberg hospital last Saturday, but will never fully recover.

Funeral of Hugh Laing.

The funeral of Hugh Laing was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of William F. Williams, of Westervelt avenue. The service was private and was conducted by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The floral tributes included an offering from the Painters' Union and the following members of the organization acted as pall bearers: Andrew Love, George Mead, Fred Hale, George Rockefeller, Edward Chargois and Thomas Stack. Burial was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Notified of Father's Death.

Robert F. R. Huntsman, of East Front street, and John F. Huntsman, Jr., of Watchung avenue, received word by telegram this morning that their father, John F. Huntsman, had died suddenly at his home in Providence, R. I. He was general agent in that city of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company and a prominent resident. He is survived by four sons and four daughters. Robert Huntsman left for Providence at once.

"M. O." REPORT FINDING

Public Ownership of Water Supply Deemed Advisable Under Certain Conditions.

ALTERNATIVE, BETTER TERMS.

Final Approval of Document Last Night—To Be Presented to Next Common Council.

Unanimous approval of its report was made at a meeting last night of the Bi-municipal municipal ownership commission, which has investigated the feasibility and desirability of public water supply control, and the document is now in the hands of the printer. It was originally intended to present the report to the City's Common Council at a special meeting on Monday night, but the plans have been changed and the report will be made to the incoming body next month.

While every effort is being made to keep the findings as secret as other reports of the present administration before presentation to the governing body, it is commonly reported that the commission favors public ownership provided the city can obtain the present facilities of the Plainfield-Union Water Company and that it can get permanent and exclusive control of the water supply in this city. This, it is reported, is made conditional on the voters' approval, and on the removal of all legal barriers.

The law committee of the commission has submitted an extensive report dealing thoroughly with every phase of the question and its finding is that the legal obstacle is not insurmountable. The engineering committee, guided largely by Joseph O. Osgood and William L. Saunders, has also gone deeply into the subject pointing out the difficulties confronting the attainment of the scheme.

If public ownership is not finally favored, it is said that the commission recommends that the city fathers obtain a better contract from the private company for the benefit of the consumers. If such be the case, demand will be made for water meters.

Those at the meeting last night were Mayor C. J. Fisk, Joseph O. Osgood, William A. Coddington, George P. Mellick and John B. Dumont.

TO EXPLAIN OBJECTS OF A BENEVOLENT ORDER.

The Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association will meet Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's School Hall on Liberty street, to discuss plans for the winter. The aims and objects will be explained by Mrs. M. T. Quinn, supreme trustee and Mrs. Jane Dougherty of the New Jersey Advisory Senate. This association has now over 125,000 members and a reserve fund of over $1,000,000.

The New Jersey Advisory Senate composed of delegates from the branches of this association will have its banquet in Newark, on February 22. It promises to be one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever held.

Mrs. Adelaide D. Drayton.

Mrs. Adelaide D. Drayton, widow of John S. Drayton, died at 4:30 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. Henry Depew, on Hillside avenue, following a long illness. During the past month she failed rapidly. For several years Mrs. Drayton has been living with her daughter. She had been a resident of Plainfield about thirty years, having moved here from Jersey City. She was a faithful communicant of Grace church and prior to her illness was actively engaged in the work there, and was also a liberal contributor to various church and charitable objects. She is survived by three sons, William H. Drayton and J. Wiswell Drayton, of this city, and J. Gilmore Drayton, of Niagara Falls; also one daughter, Mrs. R. Henry Depew. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Wanted—A Xmas Tree.

For the first time in the history of the Children's Home, the Board of Managers has found it necessary to ask for a Christmas tree for the entertainment of the children to be given on Wednesday, December 30. Any friend wishing to donate a tree of good size for the above object may addres Mrs. A. N. Seltes, No. 7 Rockview Terrace, North Plainfield.

Annual Christmas Entertainment.

Miss Sara Curry, manager of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 St. Marks place, New York, announces that the Christmas tree and entertainment will be held at the Seventh Street M. E. church, 22 East Seventh street, New York, Tuesday night, December 22. All friends of the work are invited.

FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

Congressman Fowler Introduces Bill Aiming for Revision of Tariff Duties.

DISCUSSES CURRENCY PROBLEM

Fifth District Representative Points Out Three Necessary Banking Reforms.

Representative Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth New Jersey district, Wednesday introduced a bill in the House at Washington for the appointment of a tariff commission.

It provides that Congress shall fix maximum and minimum tariff schedules, and the commission within these limits shall fix the rates of duty upon all imports. No rate so fixed by the commission shall become operative until eighteen months after it has been promulgated.

As chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency Mr. Fowler has given out a statement with regard to financial and currency legislation at the present session of Congress. He began by emphasizing the importance of principles rather than of particular bills in this matter, and urged "all business men, bankers and lawyers, who should inform themselves upon this most important question before the American people that they study principles, and," he said, "I hope my suggestion may fall under the eye of everyone who takes an interest in financial and currency legislation."

"The only true and the most economical currency is an untrameled credit currency. That is, a currency which is interchangeable with bank deposits and subject to check. Such a currency very greatly facilitates trade and commerce, and prevents currency panics."

Mr. Fowler called attention to the fact that a bank failure in one section, under our present financial status, may affect the business interests of the whole country, and asked how protection from such consequences can be attained. He answered his own question as follows:

"We should be able to know both the quality and quantity of the bank's reserves in every banking institution in the United States. This can only be done either by retirement or conversion into gold certificates.

"The reserves of the banks in any country should be coined out of the standard of value of that country. Our standard of value is gold; therefore our reserves should all be in gold or gold certificates, which are the same thing.

"To preserve and maintain the principal of individual banking and at the same time secure that strength and protection essential to absolute confidence and an impregnable defense to American commerce," the Congressman continued, "we must accomplish three things.

"First—We must unify American banking.'

"Second—We must decentralize our bank credits.

"Third—We must centralize our gold reserves.

"The unification of our banking system can be accomplished only through a National act, which after thorough study and mature deliberation, shall be approved by the business and banking interests of the whole country and commend itself to the loyal support of the people as well.

"Such an act must give sufficient freedom to enable the individual banks to efficiently exercise their important functions. It must at the same time carry limitations and restrictions in the interest of safety, which, being enforced by thorough supervision, will give the highest guarantee for continued solvency.

"It must provide for a common, central, ample and general gold reserve directly related to the total liabilities of all the banks, and must also provide for a degree of mutuality of responsibility between the individual units composing the system sufficient to make loss to the depositor, as well as to the noteholder, impossible.

"Neither a Government savings bank nor a Government guarantee of bank deposits, which are identical in fact and principle, should find any place on the statute books of our country, whose chief asset, greatest strength, and crowning glory is the individualism of our citizenship."

Shower and Cobweb Party.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of 82 Duer street, entertained her Sunday-school class from Trinity Reformed church, last night, at a "cobweb party," which was turned into a linen shower for two of the young women members of the class—Miss Ursula Auten and Miss Annie Bodine, who are to be married this month. While enjoying the cobweb party, those who engaged in it found a pretty little gift at the end of each string and the task of unwinding the numerous strings afforded lots of amusement. During the evening refreshments were served.

Local Organization in Annual Session Addressed by Union County Probation Officer.

SCHOOL HEAD ALSO SPEAKS.

Encouraging Reports Are Received —A Nominating Committee Named by Trustees.

The annual meeting of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held at Grace church parish house Thursday. Fifty-five members were in attendance. The president, Hugh F. Fox, was in the chair. The business session was followed by brief addresses by Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, county probation officer, and Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of Plainfield schools.

Mrs. Williamson described her work and told what is being accomplished for the probationers. She was, she said, not entirely in sympathy with the methods of Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, believing that they contained too much sentimentality.

"We have no occasion for sentimental work here," she said, "because the people are so well educated. If the work is different. His boys are very devoted to him, and so are the boys here devoted to the probation officers."

Mrs. Williamson said she was averse to the juvenile court being conducted in the presence of spectators other than the officials and complainant.

In cases of men prisoners, even when the record was found to be especially bad, he might be reformed by probation, and she said she had found that where a man cooperates with her in the work, though they are generally convinced from the start that the prisoner is guilty.

Probationers seldom fail to report, Mrs. Williamson said. It is required of them to come to work for a month or six weeks, according to the individual, and the intervals are gradually lengthened. She stated that she gives receptions to her charges occasionally to which they like to come and bring their relatives.

She described the lawyers to have all doubtful cases put on probation was deplored, as quite frequently a case was disposed of quickly in this way and afterwards found that the subject was innocent, thus doing him an injustice. Her experience with boys was that their confidences could be easily gained and they would admit the truth about a wrong doing. The girls, on the other hand would keep things back and could not be compelled to tell. A woman probationer would fix up a false story and stick to it.

Miss Elizabeth night school for probationers was declared to be a success. The Board of Freeholders had provided the rooms and desks and the teacher is supplied by the school board. The membership numbers twenty-seven and they are all happy and doing good work.

Henry M. Maxson spoke on the truancy question, saying in cases of incorrigibility in children and how the cases are treated by the truant officer. He said that in some instances parents do not estimate the importance of sending the child to school and through ignorance allow the child to be deprived from schooling the child is put out to work. This might be done partly because of poverty, and when on investigation it is found that a child's wages are needed towards the maintainance of the home, the officer assists the parents.

"Every child is entitled to a schooling and his right must not be taken away from him," said Mr. Maxson. "If the parent cannot make this provision the authorities should furnish his support. The first thing to be done when a child is found to be out of school is to show the parent the law, and tell him what he should do and if this is not heeded he is given an interview with the judge, who warns him, and if that does no good he is fined.

"Compulsory education," said Mr. Maxson, "is a protection for the parents and protection for the children. It is to see that the children have their rights, according to law, which gives them the privilege of attending school up to fifteen years of age.

"A boy may stay out of school of his own accord because he cannot see that it is of any benefit to him. He thinks the greater good to himself out of school. In this case he should be made to change his estimate.

"Schools are being made more and more attractive and better fitted to the nature of the child so that he will desire to attend."

Mr. Maxson believes that usually the child is more sinned against than sinning, and that the law should be appealed to only when necessary. He said the base of the work is in protecting the children and the family. He would be loathe to send a boy to the reform school, because of the stigma it puts on him, but there comes a time when he cannot be kept in school in justice to other children. The only thing that can be done is to thrust him into the street. What is needed, he declared, is a parental school on a farm, to take him away from cursed influences and put around him new strong influences. Such a school would be the truest economy because it would save the county the expense of imprisoning them in after years. It would fill the gap between the special school and the reformatory.

The special schools which are conducted in other cities and are proposed for Plainfield, are the last when incorrigibility first approaches. He continues to live at home but attends this school where he is given individual attention by a competent teacher, and receives the focus of efforts in building a Christian character. But in a great many cases there are bad home influences to work against, and from which he should be removed.

The incorrigible girl, he believed, was the worst problem, but fortunately there were not many of them, and as with the boys, the first point of attack is the parents.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany read a report of the committee on play grounds. Investigation of the playgrounds in other cities had been made and received very favorable comment. It was recommended that efforts be made to secure suitable lots for this purpose in Plainfield.

William H. Wright, the treasurer, read the annual report and a report of the relief committee was read by Mrs. C. E. Ryder. Reports were also presented by the secretary of the committee, Mrs. Harold Pender, and by the treasurer, Miss Moore.

The board of trustees recommended these as a nominating committee and they were elected:

Henry L. De Forest, Hugh F. Fox, Henry M. Maxson, Samuel St. J. McCutcheon, John Doull Miller, Mr. William M. Murray, Mrs. Mary S. Myers, Miss Mabel E. Pierson, Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, Mrs. Henry Lapsley, Duncan W. Taylor, Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany, William S. Tyler William M. Wherry, Jr., William G. Wright.

As the report of Miss Margaret C. Holly, the organization agent, follows:

"This report covers the first year of our work, since the consolidation of the Organized Aid and Relief Associations. The pressure upon the relief resources of the community has been greater than usual because of the hard times and lack of employment. The industrial situation is now improving and large employers of factory labor in Plainfield, have done their best to meet the situation by keeping open in part time, even during the worst of the depression.

"We have had applications from 232 families for help, which represent at least a thousand individuals. Many of these were applications for work. Besides those who sought aid in the form of temporary help in the workroom and the wood yard, there were 115 applications for outside work. We were able to secure places for forty-two of the applicants, mostly for women who were employed in laundry work and as charwomen. The relief committee and the trustees will show what was done in emergency cases, and also under the various forms of relief that are furnished. The work in the wood yard, and the sewing orders that have been given out, have enabled a number of families to hold together through the hard times. The day nursery has also been of the greatest value in taking care of children whose mothers have thus been enabled to work for their support.

"We are now trying to handle the class of cases, which in the larger cities would come under the separate direction of a Children's Aid Society. This has necessitated the close co-operation of the probation officer, the truant officer and the visiting nurse. We have had twelve eight children in reform schools during the year, and have referred eighteen cases to the truant officer, and have given shoes and clothing to fourteen children to enable them to attend school. The cases of child neglect are the most perplexing because of the difficulty of getting evidence which would warrant our interference on behalf of the child. The development of this department of work in Plainfield will increase with the facilities which are afforded by meeting it. It is the most hopeful and constructive part of all humanitarian work. We cannot emphasize it too strongly.

"A new feature of our work is the investigation of the conditions of free patients in the hospital which has involved the study of 141 cases. This is not only a protection to the hospital against imposition by people who can afford to pay for their treatment, but it also results in following up convalescent cases which need home treatment of various sorts. The visiting nurse employed by the King's Daughters has continued to co-operate with us and has done most valuable work. The cases which have been referred to her, both in the hospital and also to the Board of Health, have all been handled efficiently. We have also worked in harmonious co-operation with all the different churches and organizations. The clergy and the physicians have been unfailingly helpful, and we have appealed successfully in a number of cases to relatives and employers.

"The various investigations of new and old cases during the year resulted in thirty-one being refused as either fraudulent or unworthy. For example, 4 sixteen applicants refused work when it was offered them in return for relief. The permanent character of the needs of 28 cases warranted their being referred to the Overseer of the Poor. We also recommended prosecution by the poor master in twelve cases for non-support.

"Contrary to the general impression only a quarter of our applications have come from colored people.

"The causes of distress are many and complex. The direct cause in a majority of cases is illness, accident or inability to obtain work. The records of the past year indicate that a comparatively small percentage of the persons who have applied for material help attributed their trouble to intemperance in the family.

"We have had several cases of defective children that we have been unable to dispose of because of the fact that our State institutions are over-crowded and that no provision is made for the institutional care of idiots and imbeciles.

"Attention should also be called to the need of a home for the aged in New Jersey, and for the establishment of a State sanitarium for the treatment of cases of tuberculosis. There is also urgent need of provision for habitual tramps and boys and girls who cannot be controlled by the ordinary methods of discipline in the schools. Plainfield also needs playgrounds and organized provision for recreation."

METAL WORKERS FEAST AND EVERYBODY SPEAKS

Local Union, No. 259, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance held a banquet at Saengerbund hall Thursday. There were two tables extending the length of the hall and they were loaded with good things. It is best described as a big jolly dinner.

As guest of honor, Local No. 142, of Elizabeth, was present in a body and two of the brothers, Finn and Glover, made formal speeches. Everybody at the tables were called upon after the dinner, each in his turn, for a talk, and he was seen to that no one was overlooked. Chairman Richard Richmond acting as toastmaster.

David Bodine, business agent of the local organization, spoke of the purposes of the alliance and its attitude toward capital, declaring that it was dedicated to fairness. Edward Conshay played several selections on the piano, and William Robson sang.

The excellence of the dinner is due to Mrs. Matthias Menzenback, who had charge of its preparation, and Mrs. Greenbaum and Fred Koller assisted in serving.

Those comprising the entertainment committee were Richard Richmond, Joseph Newman and Victor Lerton.

REV. MR. TULP CONVERT TO EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. A. Peter Tulp, of Newark, who is well known here where he has officiated in a ministerial capacity frequently, will shortly leave the Reformed denomination to enter the Episcopal church. It is said in this town he has called a special meeting of the Reformed classis of Newark, of which he is president, in order to have his pastoral relations at the New York Avenue church, Newark, dissolved, and to have himself received from obligation to that denomination. The meeting will be held at the North Reformed church, Newark, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 15, at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Tulp applied some time ago to Rt. Rev. Edward A. Linea, bishop of Newark, as a candidate for orders in the Episcopal church. As a result he has been assigned to the parish at Englewood, probably as a deacon, and in due time will be regularly ordained. While still a student at Rutgers Theological Seminary, he acted as a supply at the Marconnier chapel, a branch of Trinity Reformed church, and he has frequently preached to the denomination's local congregation. After he was ordained to the Dutch church, he was assigned to Newark and was recently made pastor of the New York Avenue flock a that city.

At the recent installation of Rev. John Y. Brook at Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Mr. Tulp acted as the presiding officer.

New Republican Club Formed.

The Republican Club of New Providence Township has filed a certificate of incorporation with James C. Calvert, county clerk for Union county. The incorporators are Clark Trustees, Charles Wahl, W. H. Johnson and Henry F. Fullerton. The club proposes, among other things, that it will see that New Providence henceforth shall be a thoroughly Republican township.

"Bob" Whittaker Returns Home.

Robert Whittaker, Plainfield's well known equestrian and circus man, has returned to Plainfield after a successful season. He came direct from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was in charge of the arenic end of the business men's annual carnival. During the summer Mr. Whittaker was equestrian director with the Gorman Brothers circus which toured New England.

WOOD LAUDS NEW JERSEY

Congressman Speaks at Banquet of U. S. Potters' Association.

ONE OF THE GREATEST STATES.

It Occupies Today a Place Near the Centre of the Stage, in Activity, He Says.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth, New Jersey district, was one of the principal speakers at the banquet of the United States Potters' Association, held at the Hotel Raleigh, at Washington, Wednesday.

"I presume," said the Congressman, "that I am expected to say a word as to New Jersey—the State that I have the honor to represent in part in the national house of representatives. You have all, doubtless, some time in your experience, passed through New Jersey. In fact, to get almost anywhere, one has to cross over our little State. With one exception, all of the great trunk lines of the country are going in the metropolis come within our borders.

"You have seen New Jersey, but you have seen her from a car window. You have caught fleeting and kaleidoscopic visions as you have sped onward at the rate of sixty miles an hour over one of the most magnificently constructed railways to be found anywhere on the face of the globe. Even at that, you have seen something worth while.

"You have seen vast stretches of what was one time but barren wastes and sand dunes transformed now into world-famed summer resorts. You have seen picturesque hills and valleys in the northern part of our State, scarcely surpassed for beauty anywhere on the American continent, dotted now with the palatial homes of the wealth, culture and fashion of the great metropolis that lies just beyond our borders. You have seen thriving towns and great cities studding our railroads almost continuously for the ninety miles that stretch between New York and Philadelphia.

"You know historic New Jersey—the New Jersey of colonial days—the New Jersey of revolutionary renown, where George Washington in the darkest days of the revolution faced the foe and the disheartened colonial forces took fresh courage in hope and courage to press on to the glorious triumphs of Yorktown. But we want you to know better the New Jersey of today; the great industrial, manufacturing State; the sixth among all the States of the union in the aggregate of the manufactures, whose imprint dents, stamped with the mark 'made in New Jersey,' are shipped all over the world.

"A year ago I visited the Jamestown exposition. I saw there, as many of you saw, the various States of the union being vied with one another in the exhibits of their industrial achievements, and I felt proud to see my own little State holding her own, and more than holding her own in competition with the great commonwealth whose magnificent geographic area makes them veritable empires in themselves.

"New Jersey occupies today a place very near the centre of the stage in our American activities. In educational development she yields the palm to none. In industrial and commercial enterprise she is well up toward the head of the procession of the great commonwealths of the American union."

COLD CREAM AND GROWTH OF HAIR.

Nearly every one who uses cold cream on the face worries more or less for fear that it may cause hair to grow. This is needless worry.

Doesn't it seem reasonable that if ordinary cream would cause hair to grow where no hair is intended to be, bald-headed men and women would acquire heavy heads of hair by merely applying a little cream? It is said by skin specialists that no cream ever made would cause hair to grow.

Any frequently applied friction may stimulate the skin to such an extent that a small fuzz will start to grow. This is the same way if you rub any part of the body. The hair will grow to protect the skin from irritation.

It seems very unlikely, however, that even if the cream is used every night it will cause any annoying growth of hair.

Attended College Club Dinner.

Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, Rev. Edwin Shaw, Dr. Marcus L. Asa F. Randolph, William C. Hubbard, John B. Cottrell, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, Dr. Rogers and Dr. Daniel C. Main, of this city, attended a meeting and banquet of the Alfred University Club held at the University Club, New York, Wednesday night.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has issued invitations to a dinner and entertainment to be given the members of the Holy Cross Club and choir in the parish house, Wednesday, December 30, at 6 o'clock. There will be dancing from 9:30 until 12 o'clock midnight.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS MAILING

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has called attention of persons using the mails to a few valuable hints regarding the Christmas rush of postal business.

By paying attention to these hints a more satisfactory use of the mails will be had and many delays caused by the lack of information will be avoided. The postmaster's hints follow:

"Always place stamps in upper right hand corner.

"Second, third and fourth class matter deposited either in street box or postoffice, if not fully prepaid, is held at the office of mailing until addressee sends amount of deficiency.

"Mail matter of every description should bear name and address of sender in upper left hand corner. This should insure the return of matter if for any reason same cannot be delivered.

"Have your packages properly addressed naming county and State.

"See that the postage is fully prepaid.

"Mail matter deposited on top of a street letter box is not in the custody of the postoffice.

"It is especially urged that persons sending packages see to it that they are securely tied, otherwise the wrapper often becomes separated from the box or article, in which case neither sender nor addressee can be identified.

"Do not abbreviate name of State. More mail matter is improperly handled, delayed and misdirected because of imperfectly or carelessly written abbreviations of States than from all other causes combined.—Journal.

"Any postoffice, no matter how small, makes special delivery of mail matter bearing a special delivery stamp, within one mile of the office.

"A special delivery stamp on a letter or package does not guarantee it against loss, but serves to secure prompt delivery at the receiving office. Do not use delivery stamp in place of registering valuable letters or packages. A special delivery stamp may be used on registered mail matter if prompt delivery is desired.

"Particular attention should be paid to the above at holiday times.

"Stamped envelopes which have been spoiled by misdirection or other cause, and which have not been cancelled, for a whole condition, will be redeemed for the value of the postage on them payable in stamps, but an impression (stamp) cut from a stamped envelope is of no value.

"All letters and packages with valuable contents should be registered, as it is almost impossible to trace lost mail unless they have been so registered.

"It is of daily occurrence that letters intended to be registered and have the necessary postage thereon, are dropped in the postoffice in the ordinary mail boxes. The letters are not registered, but go through as ordinary mail matter. The postoffice department requires that articles registering mail present same at postoffice registry window, where a receipt will be given for same as carriers on their routes will receive and receipt for registered mail.

"A large quantity of souvenir postal cards are mailed daily without postage stamps affixed, mailers of which are evidently under the impression that same go through the mails free. For the information of such persons, it is stated that all souvenir postals with or without writing thereon, require the proper stamp; imitation 'Post Cards,' in leather with written message thereon or a message burnt upon same require two cents in postage."

AGAIN TRY TO GET ARCHER.

Essex Prosecutor to Wait Until Washington Governor's Term Ends.

Prosecutor Wilbur Mott of Essex County has received a letter from Prosecutor Kenneth McIntosh of Kings County, Wash., in regard to the failure of Governor Mead to recognize the requisition of Governor Fort for the extradition of Elliott F. Archer, who is wanted in Newark on forgery charges. Mr. McIntosh declares in the letter that the papers for Archer's extradition were in proper form and that Detective Godfrey, who had gone for the prisoner, had done everything possible to get him, but that Governor Mead had refused to honor the requisition for reasons which Godfrey could explain when he reaches home.

Mr. McIntosh further stated in the letter that he and the Attorney General of the State were clearly chargrined over Governor Mead's action, as they both advocated the turning over of Archer to Godfrey.

Governor Mead goes out of office on January 1, and another attempt may then be made to get Archer.

Marvel of Marvels.

The extreme of plainness seems to be aimed at in some of the new hats. There are side-brimmers, sailing hats, for instance, much more extended at the sides than at the back, and trimmed only with a feather, and not a large nor voluminous feather at that. One of these is in gray, with a gray feather, very stiff and curled, caught with two silver wings in front and extending to the back at the left side.

ROADS COSTING $75.000

Four Thoroughfares Inspected Yesterday by Union County Board of Freeholders.

IMPROVEMENTS ON BIG SCALE.

Last Year $50,000 Was Spent and Another Large Approriation Will Be Made.

The entire membership of the Union County Board of Freeholders made a tour of inspection of the county roads Thursday, during which several roads were passed upon as "State aid roads" and will become as such after the usual formality. The trip included nearly all of the important thoroughfares in the county, including the road leading from Westfield to Rahway, Two Bridges, to Terrill road and South avenue, on the way of Willow Grove, which has been designated a State aid road.

Jefferson avenue, this city, was also decided up on as a State aid thoroughfare and will be attended to in the spring, as will also the road leading from Cranford township, to Baltusrol and the county road at Summit.

It required seven automobiles for the party of freeholders and other county officials. A stop was made at the Hotel Waldorf, this city, at noon, where dinner was served by Henry Windham. The day's trip was concluded at Springfield, from which point the freeholders separated and returned home.

Applications for the improvement of these roads were received too late to be acted upon at the last meeting of the board, and it was for the purpose of considering them before the beginning of the new year that the inspection was made. The committee will report at an adjourned meeting to be held for the purpose next Thursday afternoon. County Engineer J. L. Bauer accompanied the committee and assisted in the examination.

Numerous petitions were received from citizens residing along and in the vicinity of each road, as well as from the authorities of the towns in which they are located.

During the past year the county board has authorized the improvement of more than eight miles of roadway, at a cost to the county of about $50,000. The total cost of the roads will reach about $75,000, one-third of which will be paid by State approriation. If the board accepts all the roads which are being considered, it will mean an addition of two-thirds to the number of miles that have already been adopted, or an increase in expenditure for road work of two-thirds for the year, one-third of which will be paid by the State.

CHOIR ENTERTAINMENT DELIGHTED AUDIENCE

An audience thoroughly appreciative of the fine program arranged, enjoyed the musical given at Grace M. E. church, Thursday, by the quartet choir of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, under the direction of William P. Dunn, organist of the church. The quartet consists of Mrs. Virginia Wilson, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Herbert Taylor, tenor and James Stanley, bass.

In addition to quartet selections, tenor, contralto and bass solos, Mr. Dunn favored the audience with two delightful organ solos, Handel's "Largo" and Dubois' "Fiat Lux," to gether with an encore. The members of the quartet were in excellent voice and were obliged to give an encore following each number. Miss Carroll, who is a favorite at Grace church, was given an ovation and the rendition of her numbers was heartily applauded. There were also solo numbers by Mrs. Virginia Wilson, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Stanley, all of which were appreciated. A feature of the program was the concluding number, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," quartet with organ. This gave an exceptional opportunity for the quartet to display its ability in the rendition of this class of music.

The program follows:

Part first: "The Miller's Wooing." Fanning, quartet; "Dein Gedenke," Meyer-Helmund; "Song of Waiting," Wrisht, Herbert Taylor; "My Heart is Weary," Goring-Thomas, Miss Carroll; "Good Night, Beloved" Pinsuti. Part second: Organ solos, "Largo," Handel; "Fiat Lux," Dubois, William P. Dunn; soprano solo, "The Nightingale," Stephens, Mrs. Virginia Wilson; trio from "Aida," Verdi, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Stanley; bass solos, "In a Garden," Hawley; "The Trumpeter," Dix, Mr. Stanley; quartet with organ "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," Gadsby.

What He Wanted.

"Well, what do you want?" quelled the stereoscopic lecturer, as a stranger appeared before him.

"Oh, I merely came to get your views," replied the stranger, who proved to be a constable—as he proceeded to levy on the outfit.—Chicago Daily News.

MISS JENNINGS A BRIDE

She Becomes the Wife of Howard Masten Canoune of Brooklyn.

DAUGHTER OF F. C. JENNINGS.

Rev. Dr. Holderman, of New York, Officiated—Miss Margaret Loizeaux Brides-maid.

Miss Annie Louise Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Jennings, of Rockview avenue, the borough, and Howard Masten Canoune, of Brooklyn, were married at 8 Wednesday night, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. I. M. Haldeman, pastor of the First Baptist church, 49th street and Broadway, New York, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with old point lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and roses. She wore a diamond pin, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Margaret Loizeaux, a cousin, whose gown was of white silk voile, trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was unattended.

Mrs. Richard Griffith, of Baltimore, an intimate friend of the bride, was at the piano and she played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered the parlors, where the ceremony was performed. Afterward congratulations were offered and supper was served. The bride was the recipient of a wealth of wedding gifts from relatives and friends.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion, there being a pleasing arrangement of flowers and *screens throughout the parlors, din*ing-room and reception hall.

The guests were from Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, Long Island, Rutherford and this city. The bride's mother wore a gown of gray silk trimmed with old lace, while Mrs. Canoune, mother of the groom, was gowned in black velvet, trimmed with duchesse lace. There were a number of other handsomely gowned women in the party.

Later in the evening the bride and groom left for an extended wedding trip and upon their return will reside in Brooklyn. The bride is well-known here in a large circle of friends. The groom is engaged in New York in the practice of law. He is a member of one of the oldest families in New York.

TRINITY'S CONSISTORY CHOOSES ITS OFFICERS.

When the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church held its regular monthly session Thursday night Rev John Y. Brock, the newly-installed pastor acting as chairman of the meeting, the routine business was followed by the election of a clerk of the consistory, treasurer and assistant treasurer of the church.

These officers were unanimously re-elected: Edgar F. Sheppard, clerk; H. E. Gayle, treasurer and Philip Woom, assistant treasurer, all of whom were heartily thanked for their services during the year. The chair appointed Robert Clark, Jr., F. E. Smith and Charles M. Dolliver as a committee to make the annual audit of the treasurer's books. The standing committees which are the same as last year were announced by the pastor.

PLANS TO IMPROVE JERSEY S. S. WORK

Thirty members of the State executive committee of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association met at the Third Presbyterian church Wednesday at Trenton for their quarter conference. This committee is composed of Sunday-school workers from all over New Jersey, and the meetings are held every three months to consider plans for the betterment of the work.

The most important work accomplished by the committee yesterday was the adoption of resolutions presented at the State convention, which called for the new evangelistic committee to do certain work in New Jersey during the next few months. The evangelistic committee reported by the executive committee, and the following resolutions were adopted:

"We believe that the evangelistic work of our association is of sufficient importance to be created as a department of State work, and so, we recommend that in order that the work may be State-wide, we recommend that every county be requested as soon as possible to appoint a county superintendent of evangelistic work, who may properly be a pastor. These representatives when appointed, together with the committee on evangelistic work, will form a department to be known as the council of evangelistic work.

"A State superintendent should be appointed, and for this position we would recommend Rev. Abram Dupree, of North Hackensack, to have charge of the work, in co-operation with the council under the direction of this committee.

"To secure the carrying out of this work in every county, we would recommend that Sunday, February 21, when the lesson is on the death of Stephen, or Sunday, March 21, which is review Sunday, or any other day which seems better in any given locality, be chosen as a general decision day, in order that there may be something definite to recommend and work toward.

"We recommend that the general secretary be requested to arrange for the presentation of this subject at the institutes which are to be held this spring."

PROPERTY OWNERS FORM A GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB.

Property owners living in the Rockview Heights section of the West End, the newly developed property adjacent to West Fourth *street and Rock avenue, have organ*ized a "good government" club for the purpose of bringing about improvements in that territory. Most of it is located just outside city line and for this reason the residents are *practically without police or fire pro*tection and lack the conveniences of householders within a few blocks.

The club meets regularly on the first and third Wednesdays of the month and has elected Joseph Brandt, president; Irving De Hart, secretary, and Edward Burke, treasurer. The meeting place is in Brandt's bungalow on Rock avenue. One of the undertakings planned for the near future is the organization of a volunteer fire company which will be fully equipped with necessary apparatus.

MRS. WARD ASKS DIVORCE

Charges That Henry E. Ward Deserted Her in 1903 and Has Disappeared.

SHE PETITIONS FOR ALIMONY.

The Three Children are With the Mother—She Was Miss Julia Wayland.

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Chancery Court at Trenton by Mrs. Julia C. Ward, of this city, for a divorce from her husband, Henry E. Ward. In the petition filed Mrs. Ward alleges that she was married on December 4, 1884, to him at New Haven, Conn., and that since that time she has resided in New Haven, Conn., and that she then moved to Bound Brook. In 1905 she moved to North Plainfield and in 1907 she removed to this city.

Mrs. Ward charges that until 1892 she and her husband lived together with their three children in New Haven, but that Ward supported her and the children in an "indifferent manner." On June 2, 1892, she alleges, he deserted her and the children and left her alone, compelling her to support herself and her children.

Mrs. Ward, whose maiden name was Julia Cornelia Wayland, asks the court to permit her to resume her former name and also to divorce her from her husband. She also asks for an order requiring him to contribute to her support.

An affidavit on file by the solicitor of Mrs. Ward discloses the fact that he has made several efforts to find or locate Henry E. Ward, the defendant, but he has failed to locate anyone who has seen or heard of him in sixteen years and then avers that "if he is still alive" he must "be a resident of some other State or country that is unknown to deponent."

Arthur Murphy is solicitor of the complainant.

BOROUGH YOUNG COUPLE ANNOUNCE THEIR MARRIAGE

Miss Marguerite Serrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, and Charles H. Lyman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, of Washington avenue, surprised their parents, Wednesday, by announcing the fact that they had been married for some time.

The ceremony was performed in January last but details have been withheld by both families until cards have been issued to friends. They will be sent out within a few days.

Both young people are very well known in the city and borough and though it was understood that they were engaged, the announcement of their wedding came as a great surprise.

Mrs. Lyman, Jr., is a member of the First Baptist church and has been prominent in the social affairs of the younger set. Mr. Lyman is employed in New York.

JERRY "THE BOY BANDIT" RAIDS A GROCER'S WAGON

Jerry Crowley, the "boy bandit," who held up a little chap at the point of a pistol on July 4 last and made off with a basket of a quart of ice cream, was again a prisoner in the city court Saturday. This time he was arraigned for making a raid on B. Mann's grocery wagon as it stood in front of a house in the West End. With him, as a partner in crime, was Peter Phelan, another boy, who had helped to confiscate and carry off the loot.

When Judge Runyon began questioning Jerry about the affair, he handed out a choice line of falsehoods, stoutly maintaining that he had found a sling from the wagon. Peter, he said, was the sole and only desperado who had purloined the goods. Peter in turn frankly declared that he had stolen two packages of cornflakes and a dozen eggs while Jerry's hand comprised ten pounds of butter, a pound of raisins and some cigars that he had taken from Mann's coat, left on the seat.

"He smoked one of the cigars, too," said Peter, "and told me afterward to forgot to save the butt."

This Jerry indignantly denied but after a little coaxing he fessed up to taking the raisins and cigars but nothing else. Judge Runyon finally got out of patience with him and released him in his father's custody to appear before the probation officer next Saturday. The father was also instructed to pay Mann a dollar for the goods that had been taken. Peter was let go with a warning to behave himself.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE OF PHYSICAL DIRECTORS

The physical directors of the State Y. M. C. A. held the regular monthly conference at Elizabeth Wednesday. The Plainfield Association was represented by G. L. Listman.

An address was made by Dr. G. L. Meylan, of Columbia University, on "The Value of Physical Examinations." He urged the directors to keep abreast of the times, for new and improved systems are continually being devised, and said that a physical director could not be considered proficient unless he understood physical examinations in all their details. He went into physiology to some extent and altogether gave a talk which will prove a great help to those present.

In the afternoon State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was present and spoke of the State work, which is now on a firmer basis than ever before. The outlook, he said, is very promising and with more initiative would be even better.

It was decided to have the association represented at the tuberculosis exhibit in New York on December 17, which will be known as "Jersey Day." At that time a representative of each Y. M. C. A. in the State will be present. It was also announced at the meeting that the State officers of the Athletic League of North America would meet in the Newark Y. M. C. A. for reorganization on December 16, and at that time arrangements will be made whereby the two organizations will be able to co-operate in the future. This union is expected to prove a great benefit to both bodies, especially in the arranging of State meets.

The next meeting will be held at Madison, January 13.

GEN. COLLINS AGREES WITH THE PRESIDENT

General D. F. Collins, commander of the Second Brigade, agrees with the President in his views expressed in his special message in which he favors a volunteer army ranging in number from 50,000 to 2,000,000. He also spoke favorably today of the change which gives the President power to order the National Guard troops to the United States when needed. The general favors the placing of the proposed army in a similar position to that formerly occupied by National Guard regiments.

"There has never been a question as to the possibility of enrolling the volunteers," said he at times," said General Collins, "but in the conditions prevailing in these crises the army officials have to contend with well nigh insurmountable obstacles. Everything must be done on the spur of the moment, and the ponderous machinery of the national defense cannot be swirled into action as satisfactorily as it may be under the Presidential plan. All the details would be perfected in times of security so that at a moment's notice the staffs and equipment to handle an immense volunteer army could be at once brought into action. I think the plan is an excellent one, and even with a possibility of having 2,000,000 volunteers in reserve it would in my opinion be practicable."

COOPER'S AUTO LICENSE REVOKED BY THE STATE

The State Motor Vehicle Department issued an order from Trenton, Thursdays revoking the driver's license and automobile registration held by Floyd D. Cooper, of Westfield, whose machine ran down and killed Jonathan Randolph, Sunday morning. The action followed a report submitted by George W. Thompson, of Somerville, an auto inspector, who personally attended the proceedings in this city directly after Cooper's arrest and also the coroner's inquest. The facts brought out at the latter caused him to make the recommendation that the defendant should no longer be allowed to run a car.

The revocation of Cooper's license is one of a very few that have been ordered since the law went into effect. The authorities have become aroused over the numerous fatalities that have occurred through careless or reckless driving and it has been declared that measures of this kind will hereafter follow all such cases. E. R. Thomas, the well-known banker who figured in an accident at Long Branch, last summer, is one of the first automobilists who was denied the right to run a car.

WOMEN DRIVING MEN OUT AS PEDAGOGUES

In his annual report to Gov. Fort, Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will show some remarkable conditions in the school profession in New Jersey. One of the most interesting of these is that women are steadily driving men from teaching, and unless there is a change in this respect soon, the schools will speedily be completely feminized.

The number of male teachers employed during the past school year was 1,100, 42 less than in the preceding year. The number of female teachers was 9,173, an increase of 210. In 1856 the number of male teachers employed was 1,125, while the female teachers numbered only 817. The total number of teachers employed last year was 10,279, an increase of 268 for the year. The average salary paid was $697.06, an increase over the preceding year of $79.59, or 12.2 per cent.

The report shows total enrollment of 402,856 pupils, an increase of 2,806 for the year. The costs of the schools for the year aggregated $14,951,775, an increase over the preceding year of $2,017,738. The salaries paid last year were $7,165,966 of the total value of the schools in the State is estimated at $28,582,358. The school tax for the year was $3,238,558.28, the increase being 57 per cent over the preceding year.

The appropriations for the school year of 1908-9 are: State school tax, $4,051,360.32; State appropriation, $1,012,840.08; the district school tax and the 2½ mill tax, making a grand total of $10,097,402.92.

THE WINTER SUIT AND USES OF COAT.

No matter what the season may be, we seem doomed to worry about seasonable clothing and appropriate clothes.

Winter is almost here, even though balmy days may belie the season, and everyone is interested in securing holiday habiliment, which is why we are waiting the first of the year to purchase marked-down articles. Certainly dress articles will be far less expensive after the holidays, and there are then four long months for wearing winter dresses. In selecting a jacket suit this is how we sensibly plan a house or evening dress—get one of the dark cloth kinds, showing a conventional long coat, semi or all fitted, and buttoned down the centre front or at the side in a double-breasted design. If the coat is quite long and very full, it can be used for evening wear and may be worn with hat and gown. A selection in dark blue, very dark gray or black would be best. Get one of the herringbone materials of semi-weight or a broadcloth. The suggested coat may be devoid of many little features that dress upon more extravagant trappings, but spring will see the return of more sensible coats in the conventional patterns.

KNOWLEDGE IS SWEET.

"Now, dear," said mamma yesterday
"I will explain to you
All in a very simple way
How one and one make two;
Here is a cookie from the jar,
And here's another one;
Just count and see how many are
There now—the sum is done!

"And if you eat one cookie—so
Another sum is done.
You count what you have left and know
That one from two leaves one;
And now you eat the other and
Another sum you do,
For you have none left in your hand
When you take two from two."

"Oh, dear!" sighed little Isabel,
This very afternoon,
"I thought I knew my sums so well
I'd not forget so soon.
I really think I ought to go
And ask my mamma quick
To get the cookie jar and show
Me my arithmetic."

UNION COUNTY HAS 323 INDIGENT INSANE

Union county has at the Morris Plains Hospital for the Insane 322 patients of unsound mind, who are so called indigents. The bill to the county for their support is about $36,000 a year. Until within a few years the cost to the county was about $40,000 per year for less than 300 patients. This reduction of the charge to the county is brought about by the careful work of the Lunacy Committee of the Board of Freeholders and of County Collector Leavitt, who, for a number of years, has had special charge of this department.

The Lunacy Committee, which is composed of Freeholders Meisel, Fay and Perry, made its semi annual visit to the asylum a few days ago, in company with Director King and Collector Leavitt. Mayor P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, who is one of the eight managers of the hospital, accompanied the committee, and was active in extending the courtesies to the party, which included two invited guests.

Dr. D. D. Evans, medical director and Warden M. K. Everitt aided the committee in its investigation and escorted the whole party through the institution.

Evidently the asylum is managed in a most exemplary manner. All the buildings are in most scrupulous neatness and cleanliness. The patients, so far as seen, were all neatly dressed and apparently as happy in their surroundings as their individual states of mind would permit.

Union county has the largest number of insane indigents already upkept of, a number of private pay patients. These of course, are given private rooms, but the general care of those less fortunate is just as good.

The managers who have charge of the affairs of the institution have two regular meetings each month, and numerous committee meetings. They give their time and careful attention without compensation. Mayor Ryan has been a member of the board for several years, and serves on several of the most important committees.

$2,727.50 TO TROOPS FOR THEIR STRIKE DUTY

Major Samuel S. Armstrong, assistant paymaster of the National Guard of New Jersey, has completed compilation of the pay rolls for the New Jersey militiamen who did riot duty from November 25 until the following Saturday at the plant of the National Fire Proofing Company at Perth Amboy. The pay rolls show that this service cost the State $2,727.50 and that the total number of men on duty was 518, consisting of thirty officers and 288 enlisted men.

The checks for the pay have been signed and they will be turned over to regimental headquarters of the Second Regiment for distribution.

The Trenton Battalion will be paid off this week when the various companies meet in the armory for drill purposes.

The strength of the companies in the field and the amount of pay follows:

Field staff and non-commissioned staff, 11 officers and five men; pay $272.

Medical department and hospital corps, two officers and seven men; pay, $345.

Company A, three officers and forty-one men; pay, $1105.50.

Company B, three officers and fifty-one men; pay $345.

Company D, three officers and thirty-four men; pay, $257.25.

Company E, two officers and forty men; pay, $267.50.

Company H, three officers and fifty-six men; pay, $618. (In service seven days as against four days of the preceding companies.)

Company L, three officers and fifty men; pay, $551.25. (In service seven days as compared with four days of the preceding companies.)

The Belt Line.

No difference how fine the shirt-waist material is, find the true waist line and stitch around it a white tape on the under side. In the centre of the back and on each side firmly stitch a horizontal straight metal eye, with correspondingly wide hooks on the skirt. This will not tear the waist. An elastic, one-half inch wide, two inches shorter than the waist measurement, fastened with a button clasp or hook and eye is very useful in holding the waist in place, after which the petticoats can be adjusted over it. A waist seldom slips up when held in place with all the skirts.

Mrs. Gramercy—So you had it hard to make both ends meet?

Mrs. Park—Yes. The money I won at bridge while away at the country scarcely makes up what my husband lost in town at poker.—Puck.

FORESTS ARE IN DANGER

Bristow Adams Talks on United States Forestry Service Aims.

NATURAL RESOURCES SINKING.

Illustrates Cases of Great Waste of the Country's Wealth During Recent Years.

"How to protect the nation's natural resources," was the subject discussed by Bristow Adams, the Federal government's expert in the forestry service, at the Plainfield High School Thursday. The auditorium was filled with pupils and as the general public had been invited, the balcony could scarcely hold those who took advantage of the opportunity to hear a lecture on this interesting topic.

Colored stereopticon pictures were used to show the nation's wealth in forests, their appearance before and after the great fires had swept through them, and the blaze itself in action. Seventy-five of these views were thrown upon the screen.

The speaker declared that the forest fire problem was one of the most serious before the country, because of the relation of the forests with all other sources of material wealth. He said:

"We want, and we ought to remain the richest nation. This we cannot do, if we waste and throw away our inheritance as we are doing now.

"In 1868 Bismark said that the real test of the American form of government would come when that country's great resources began to be exhausted, when the "limitless opportunities" were no longer to be had. The imperative need, then, is the assurance that our governmental institutions shall be maintained on a high plane of unselfishness. For the only way in which the need can be met is by enforcing through laws that principle, clearly enough recognized in our codes, that the wealth a man controls is his to use but not his to waste.

"Looking back upon the whole past history of forest fires and especially upon 1908 with its immense damage to the country's woodlands, there is little cause for pride and much cause for shame even of the present.

"Perhaps, if people only realized what a forest fire is when it gets a good start, they would not look upon the forest fire problem with so little concern. A fire of grass and leaves may be uncomfortable enough, but it can be successfully fought; but a forest fire fanned by a high wind is an indescribable thing terrible beyond words, and not to be prevailed against. A crown fire roaring from ground to tree-tops presents a sheet of flame, a rush, a roar, and a crashing awful beyond description, and moves with indescribable swiftness, so that few who have seen one at really close quarters have lived to tell of it.

"These direct losses to life and property, estimated at $50,000,000 and an annual average of 50 deaths a year for the past 27 years, 2,000 in all, should be enough in themselves to bring a change in attitude toward forest fires on the part of the American people. Yet the indirect losses are in many ways more far reaching and more disastrous. Among these must be reckoned the damage to young growth, the effect of fire swept areas on soil and on stream flow, and the many consequent losses to business interests. These need be only touched upon. All bear a close relation to the question of fire, since fire exerts a tremendous influence on the forests.

CENTRAL LODGE, A. O. U. W. HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order of United Workmen, at its meeting Thursday, elected these officers for the ensuing year, following the routine business of the evening:

Past Master Workman, Henry B. Zimmerman; master workman, Andrew J. Stiglitz; foreman, Fred Ickes; overseer, Leonard Alpaugh; guide; Isaac E. Houston, recorder; Harvey R. Thorn; financier, William Newcorn; receiver, Charles H. Randolph; inside watchman, Robert W. Ellis; outside watchman, Edward M. Mosher; trustee, three years, Lorenzo J. Spicer; organist, Theodore J. Mason; representatives to the Grand Lodge, William Newcorn and Harvey R. Thorn; alternates, Walter Bradford and Theodore J. Mason.

The officers will be installed by the special deputy at the meeting to be held on Thursday night, January 14. There was a large attendance at last night's meeting. A smoker followed the business and there were a number of good speeches and a general good time.

Roughing It.

"No, I can't stick it any longer. I'll off tomorrow."

"Why, the shootin's good enough, isn't it?"

"Oh, the shootin's all right. It's the management's so rotten. One expects to rough it a bit—luncheon without a band, and so forth—but today! drinkin' champagne out of cricket glasses! Well, hang it all, there's the limit!"—Punch.

HE KNOWS HOW THE RETIRED LIFE SHOULD BE ENJOYED

L. V. F. Randolph, formerly president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, is a fairly old man, not so desperately old, but old enough to have worked and worried for half a century under the shadow of Trinity spire; fairly lucky because he has won his luck fairly. He is not tremendously rich, but is better off than is the influence and he well knows when he has enough. So he has retired and travels through Italy, Egypt and the Hold Land and occupies his mind by writing books and delivering lectures on Constantinople and Athens.

Mr. Randolph resides in Plainfield and owns one of the most valuable properties in the place, where he raises Jersey cows and flowers and has one of the finest gardens in the country, which contains a specimen of every tree plant and shrub, no matter how expensive, that will grow in this country. He is almost a botanist.

Then his life has had its picturesque features. He marched under Meade at Gettysburg. He has owned cattle on a thousand hills in New Mexico, he has dashed in the Cowlowstone, shot antelope in Wyoming and climbed the Sierras, the Rockies and the Alps. He has conducted reform movements, written volumes of poetry, managed big estates and "busted" broncos. But he never "busted" anything in Wall street, not even himself. He has always made a success of everything he has undertaken. As *treasurer of the Il*linois Central, as president of the Atlantic Trust Company, and as head of the Consolidated Exchange he showed himself to be a conservative, hard headed business man of the first rank. He has handled hundreds of millions of money and always paid 100 cents on the dollar. Now he takes his ease, serenely oblivious to booms and panics, and simply enjoys his health and his good luck.

Mr. Randolph is rich in interesting reminiscences, and is one of the most interesting after dinner talkers to be found in a day's travel. Plainfield regards him as one of its conspicuous ornaments, and he was considered by many to have been the ablest Mayor the place ever had. He is vice-president of the Public Library, and much of its popularity is due to the personal interest he takes in building up the standard of the institution.

His hospitality is proverbial, and his beautiful home is presided over by one of the most charming of wives, and he is surrounded by a bevy of attractive and accomplished daughters. Randolph's home contains many relics and curios collected in foreign countries, some of the articles being 4,000 years old.

Mr. Randolph, accompanied by Mrs. Randolph, expects to depart next month for a three months' trip to the Mediterranean. If the good wishes of many friends avail, they will be certain to enjoy a delightful respite from the rigors of our winter and a safe and enjoyable voyage.—New York Telegram.

"JIM" HUMMER VICTIM OF PANAMA EXPLOSION

Included in the fourteen men killed by the premature explosion of twenty-two tons of dynamite on the Panama canal workings at Bas Obispo, Panama, Saturday, was James L. Hummer, a New Market resident and formerly employed in Plainfield. He was employed as a steam shovelman and was buried with 100 others beneath tons of debris. His body was one of the first recovered and will be forwarded at once by the United States officials to New Market. The funeral will be held at the home of his uncle, Henry Hummer, superintendent of the Piscataway township poor farm.

Hummer was a young man and was widely known in this city. He lived with his widowed mother and one brother, Harry Hummer, of New Market. He was known to eberyone as "Jim." Before going to Panama he was employed at the Pond Tool Works where his brother holds a position at the present time. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. George Edmondson, of 646 Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn.

The accident is the worst that has taken place in the Panama canal work since the United States took charge. The blast was already to be set off and it is believed one of the electric wires was "sparked" by the arm of a steam shovel striking it. Beside the fourteen men killed, there were seventy-five injured. A train carrying 500 laborers passed within a hundred feet of the charge three minutes before the explosion.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR MISS H. M. KREITLING.

The funeral of Miss Henrietta M. Kreitling, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital last week, was held at the home of her parents on West Front street, Monday afternoon. The service was private and was conducted by Rev. John W. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. In the course of his remarks the clergyman took occasion to speak of Miss Kraitling's devotion to church work in the last years of her life and the many womanly traits that endeared her to all her friends. There were numerous floral offerings, among them a wreath of galax leaves from the Loyal Band Sunday-school class of which she was secretary.

Burial was made in the Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Charles M. Dolliver, Edgar F. Shepherd, William Trembath and Albert Honeyman.

FLAMES DEVOURED NEW BRUNSWICK EDIFICE

Fire destroyed the St. James Methodiit Episcopal church at New Brunswick early Sunday morning, causing a loss estimated at about $25,000, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered by James Quackenbosa, one of the trustees of the church, who was passing the edifice. He alarmed the pastor, the Rev. F. C. Uhl, who with his family, lives in the parsonage adjoining the church. All escaped in safety.

Chief John Poerschner summoned all the fire companies in the city. The damage was confined within the heavy stone walls of the building. The lofty steeple was saved. It may have to be torn down for safety.

All of the New Brunswick pastors offered their services in the conflagration, and services will be continued next Sunday, probably in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church.

St. James Methodist Episcopal church was built in 1840 and was first known as the Bayard Street Methodist church. It was the most beautiful church in that city, having fine stained glass windows and being of Gothic design, with a steeple 160 feet high, on which stood a golden cross. The original cost was $75,000. When it had financial trouble years ago James Bishop contributed liberally, and the church was then named St. James.

There is $15,000 insurance on the property.

One of the city fire alarm bells is in this church, and this bell called the firemen.

THE TEMPER AND THE COMPLEXION.

Temper and clear complexion are not on friendly terms.

The girl who has a very quick temper must expect to have trouble with her complexion. Sometimes red spots come out prominently and refuse to be hidden even by powder. Sometimes there is a flush, and when it disappears the skin is quite dry and feels almost painful.

The cause of all this is the excitement of getting angry. Very little can be done for the skin while the temper remains unchecked. Perhaps it would be a good idea for the girl who is worried about her poor complexion to examine herself to find out if a nasty temper is the cause of the mischief. Should this be so, let her set about gaining self-control before she attempts to improve her looks by the application of creams and lotion.

THE HYDRANGEAS.

The half-hardy hydrangeas, that have been out of doors all summer in pots or in the ground, may either be grown along in the house during winter or rested in the cellar until spring.

For house use pot at once, water well and set them in the shade to recover. Those that are already pot bound must be brought in before frosty weather, or they do not seem to be thriving, they may need to be repotted. Keep them in a moderate heat indoors and water regularly.

If hydrangeas turn yellow after transplanting they can be set in a cold room, where they will not freeze and give less water for a month or more, when they will soon recover.

If the hydrangeas are to rest all winter, keep them in a dark cellar, where they can remain until they begin to grow, when they must be brought into a lighted room, or they will become weak and sickly.

The Street Garb.

The Denise is a smart walking costume of gray tweed with a half length coat opening over the front of the vest, displaying a narrow white cloth vest beneath. The lower portion of the coat is slightly ripped and losed down the front. The skirt is rippled to match the coat, and each seam at the knee line is trimmed with a horizontal strap finished on the pointed end with a small gray button. The sleeves are moderately full, being the long length sleeve made close with stitched plaits from the elbow to the wrist. A small black cuff finishes the sleeve and outlines the narrow collar, extending to the top of the vest. For a tailor-made costume, this style is very attractive and is something stylish and neat for more than one purpose.

Your Note Paper.

A dainty letter comes like a well groomed person and it is cordially received. One considers a letter written on cheap linen paper as something very far removed from good taste. It is always a mark of refinement to use good stationery and good varieties are found at reasonable prices. A paper that is well liked for the correspondence examineless white, the envelope being almost square and the point of the flap reaching almost to the bottom of the envelope. Comparatively little colored paper is now used, and very few odd-shaped envelopes.

An Incident in German Society.

Pianist (sarcastically) — I'm afraid my music interrupts your guests' conversation.

Hostess—Then don't play so loud.—Luftballon.

AMUSEMENTS.

A particularly fine bill will attract audiences to the Alhambra this week. Miss Alice Lloyd will play a return engagement at this house with her budget of English comic ditties and her dainty costumes. Henry Lee will give his brief lecture entitled "A Day in Ireland with Squire Croker," introducing some vitascopic views of the famous Tammany politician, his fine estate and his handsome race-horses. The Nelliphos presenting a really novel and excellent acrobatic specialty in which they wear the picturesque Venetian costume and perform their feats surrounded by a scenic representation of Venice with its bridges and canals, are another feature. Those amusing brothers, The McNaughtons, will add to the fun with their repartee and screamingly funny burlesque boxing bout; Binns, Binns & Binns will present their comedy acrobatic specialty, while Capitaine, the perfect gymnast, will demonstrate her claim to that title; Barrows, Lancaster & Co. will be seen in a one act comedy skit; Barry & Halvers will present their attractive singing and dancing specialty, and there will be several other acts including the Vitagraph. The usual Sunday concerts will be given.

Few actresses have won a reputation as great as that of Annie Russell. In her new play, "Miss Hopper Sex," at Weber's theatre, New York, she is delighting huge audiences at every performance, and earning new honors for herself. The Wagenhals and Kemper Company has proved that the John Valentine comedy is a most artistic success. The scenic equipment is lavish, and the gowns worn at the wedding reception in the first act have become patterns for Gotham's social set. All feminine New York is taking notice of the remarkable gown worn by Miss Russell during the second act of the piece. Never before has a stage dress received such homage as the beautiful baccarat frock of gold meteor crepe. "The Stronger Sex" might be termed a woman's play. At least the gentler sex have adopted it as their very own. Men like the delightful comedy, but women simply love it. Every line reflects some little emotion dear to their hearts. This is likely the reason for the popularity of the two weekly matinees, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Weber's cozy little theatre is packed from pit to dome with the fair ones.

"Little Nemo," at the New Amsterdam theatre, is unquestionably the greatest musical spectacular production ever presented either in this country or in England, the home of magnificent spectacles. Its gorgeous scenes, wonderful ballets and processions, beautiful dances, sparkling comedy and entrancing music make it far superior in every respect to anything of the kind attempted in this field of entertainment. While it fulfills every expectation from a scenic and spectacular standpoint, it does not appeal to the eye alone. Victor Herbert's exquisite melodies charm the ear and haunt the memory, and Harry B. Smith has provided a book brimful of funny incidents and clever lines. In fact, the comedy element alone of this production, aside from its many other attractive features, would carry it to success. So much interest is still sustained by those able comedians, Joseph Cawthorn, Harry Kelly and Billy B. Van, while Master Gabriel as Nemo and Aimee Ehrlich as the Little Princess carry the sentimental vein.

Albert Sutherland will present "The Patriot," the first American grand opera in vaudeville, as the headline attraction on the bill at the Proctor Park Palace theatre in Newark during the week of December 21. It is a stirring episode of Revolutionary times. Another big number on the same bill will be Lucy Weston, a famous English song-bird who has never been heard here before and whose singing has created a sensation in New York during a limited appearance there. Blondin and his tiny trick elephant will add materially to the entertainment, and Lancton Lucier and a capable company will produce a one-act playlet entitled "Doctor Abrams." Geo W. Cooper and William Robinson will give pleasure to the audiences by the presentation of their new skit called "A Friend of Mine," and Annie and Effie Connelly will do a lively singing and dancing act. Arthur Borani and Jack Navarro, eccentric comedians, will do a skit entitled "Weary Waggles, the Dandy Dude Tramp," in which there is an abundance of fast tik, some good singing and grotesque features which make the laughter loud. There will be other equally good numbers and the show will close with a series of the newest and best moving pictures.

Hotel Business Changes Hands.

The Hotel Kensington's business has again changed hands. W. J. Poulson, who bought out J. A. Staats in February, having disposed of the trade to John Burns, of Flemington. Mr. Poulson will retire just as soon as the license transfer can be made. The new proprietor has for years conducted a hotel at Blairstown. Mr. Poulson, who formerly ran the Globe Hotel at Red Bank, will retire to a Hunterdon county farm near Flemington. Former Judge W. A. Coddington negotiated the deal.

BISHOP DUBS' ADDRESSES

United Evangelical's Head Speaks at Y.M.C.A. Meeting and at Two Churches.

MAKES MARKED IMPRESSION.

Preaches at First Baptist Church in the Morning and at the First M. E. Church at Night.

Rev. Dr. Rudolph Dubs, of Harrisburg, Pa., bishop of the United Evangelical church of Pennsylvania, preached to three large audiences in this city Sunday. He occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church at the morning service, addressed the Y. M. C. A. Men's meeting at 4 o'clock, and delivered the sermon to the congregation of the First M. E. church at night.

Speaking to men only in the afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., Bishop Dubs took for his subject, "The Faultless Christ." He declared that after years of research and study of the life of Christ in the sentiments he could find no fault with Christ.

"The word faultlessness expresses more than sinlessness," he said. "Christ was not only sinless, but he never made a mistake; no evil ever came from his heart. He never repented for he had nothing to repent. He said no need of asking anybody's forgiveness for anything he had said or done. There was never a suggestion in his mind of a wrong thing.

"Many men are too meek and without self reliance; they lack symetrical rounded manhood. So so with Christ. He was like a lamb and like the remarkable lion one.

"There are four standards of faultlessness. The first is based on the actions of a man's life external. As for instance, the judge deals with what he knows of the man's performances and has no knowledge of what is in the heart. Many a man is in the pen now, who ought to be out, and many are out who ought to be in. Men lack the understanding of each other's soul.

"The second standard is the artistic or aesthetic, and the third is based on the refinement of things that appeal to the senses.

"The fourth is the religious, divine standard, and is expressed in the words 'Blessed are the pure in heart.' If the heart is pure the conversation is pure; the lips, hands and feet are pure.

"As the sun reflects its light best in the pure chrystal waters, so God can imprint His reflection of holiness best in the pure heart.

"This is said to be the age of criticism, and the coming topic in Christianity is the subject. Jesus Christ had no fault to his coming in a Jewish family. No nation was ever organized like that of the Jews, which came from one family and I have no fault to find that the oracles of God were committed to their care. What I criticise is that though the entire Bible was written by Jews, they refuse to believe in the new testament.

"I can find no fault with Christ concerning his teaching. He is the only infallible teacher that came from God and his wonderful understanding of each individual man, woman and child, and ability to read their hearts makes him worthy to be the true son of God.

"There are those who claim that the external body is a revelation of the soul, but I have at all I doubt it. It is not a lack of love which causes men to misjudge each other, but a lack of understanding. Christ alone has this power of seeing into men's souls and therefore no human being could be the redeemer of the world.

"In my library I have all of the books ever written in criticism of Jesus Christ. I read them because I want to know what anyone can possibly find against him, and have in consequence found them all to be infidel still finds no fault with Christ, or neither does my heart, and I have an intense burning desire, day and night, to do something for Him."

A large audience listened to the noted preacher at the night service in the First Methodist church. His topic was the Trial and Crucifixion of St. Paul, and How He was Helped Out of It," was a most interesting account of the apostles persecutions, his two and a half years confinement in jail, and the torturous journey to Rome in the company of a lot of criminals.

The thoughts of what his reception would be at Rome, where he would no doubt be killed, made Paul very gloomy and it was in that distressed condition that his followers had found him, having gone out to meet him on hearing of his coming.

The speaker's description of the arrival of the apostle and of good cheer to the discouraged apostle produced a vivid picture in the minds of his hearers, as each mention of the party was brought forward, using the exact words with which he greeted the venerable Christian prisoner.

Bishop Dubs explained that Paul was an old man and had come to believe that his days of service to his God were at an end, which had added to his sadness. All was *changed, however; when the messen*gers arrived. He said that there was an inclination at the present time to push aside the age ministers of the gospel and fill their places with young men, but that it was hard for one to quit when he had spent so long a time in the work. It was with them as with the old cavalry horse, which had been retired to service on a farmer's truck cart, but on hearing the encampment and hearing the bugle sound, dashed into the ranks, truck, farmer and all. He said that as for him he would rather preach than eat and that the place upon the pulpit was the most precious spot in the world.

"Never be ashamed," the bishop said, "to honor the aged. Revere them for what they have done and go to them as a deputation of cheer."

The bishop's discourse at the Baptist church dwelt principally on the benefits of the Young Men's Christian Association to young men. He believed it to be the greatest agency in working for their good, in the entire world, and declared that the association, together with the young people's societies of the churches, were the fulfillment of the prophecy of Joel, "Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy and your young men shall see visions." He held that as Isaiah was the prophet of the redemption by the cross so Joel was the prophet of Pentecost.

Bishop Dubs has no official connection with the association but is one of its most devoted friends, and is often called into its service for sermons and addresses. He is a man of seventy years, perhaps, of large mould physically as well as in heart and mind. He is quite informal in his address with no effort at rhetorical or eloquent, uses notes in an easy way, much as a lawyer does his brief before a jury, and never fails to hold the attention of his audience. He is instractive, deeply earnest, sometimes quietly humorous, always impressive.

PERMISSION IS NOW GIVEN TO HOPE.

The makers of the fashions say, hopefully, that there is upon us a season of sensible shoes.

The new shoes are dainty and neat and smart, to be sure—trig little pumps and boots with the new concave Cuban heels. But they are comfortable. Many of them are of suede; many more are of soft gunmetal kid.

They have heavy soles, these new walking shoes, and they are cut in shapes at once pretty and sensible. It is no longer the style to wear tight boots.

Also, and perhaps this is the sanest tidings of all, it is no longer the style to wear low shoes in cold weather. The exasperatingly self-assured young person who tells you, proudly, that she "always wear oxfords," oh, yes, all the year round, of course, is no longer considered distingue or well dressed. She is merely considered silly. If she is really smart and modish and trim she wears during the winter months high-buttoned boots.

Not, to be sure, that we are approaching an era of square toes and spring heels. Far from it! But we are learning, it may be, in this matter of footwear, to combine "style" and sense.

ENORMOUS MUFFS.

Sumptuous is the only word that expresses the newest muffs. Some of them are simply immense in regard to size and all are of the richest furs. Even the fancy muffs are extremely large.

One on this order fashioned from caracul was made with flaring ends faced with black satin, box-pleated and edged with a ruching, black silk cords adorning the front, a regular granny muff, indeed.

Chinchilla and black lynx muffs resembled veritable pillows and ten pelts of the little ermine went to make a single muff, while a fashionable one in Parisian lamb took as much fur in its construction as a small coatee.

Disarmed.

"What did your wife say when you got home at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning?"

"Oh, I fixed it all right. She was sitting on the stairs waiting for me, but as soon as I got the latchkey in place I spoke up before she could say a word and told her I had won seven dollars—and she asked "Who's elected?" and went back to bed."

Early Advantages.

"If the human race was evolved from monkeys, it at least has the satisfaction of knowing that its ancestors were intelligent," said the thoughtful thinker.

"How's that?" querier the dense party.

"They were educated in the highest branches," explained the t. t.—Kansas City Journal.

One Remedy.

"It says here," began the lady who could do more talking in one day than six phonographs and five parrots combined, "that after a balloon has ascended to the height of six miles the occupants dare not open their mouths."

"Will you go up, Maria, if I buy a balloon?" asked her husband, desperately.—Answers.

MRS. W. W. ST. JOHN DIES IN HOSPITAL AT TRENTON

Mrs. Barabara St. John, wife of William W. St. John, the forger well known local newspaperman and at one time editor of The Daily Press, died Saturday afternoon in Mercer Hospital, Trenton. Death was due to a fall which she sustained ten days ago and which injured her severely. She was removed to the hospital at the time but did not improve and sank rapidly until the end came.

Mrs. St. John was twenty-nine years old and was a native of Wallingford, Conn. She was married to Mr. St. John in New York eleven years ago and came to Plainfield immediately afterward. She resided here until two years ago when her husband went to Colorado for the benefit of his health, afterward returning. Mr. St. John is now connected with the True American at Trenton, where he has been living for the past six months. Mrs. St. John is survived by her parents, three sisters and a brother.

SCHOOL BOARDS PLAN PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

In accordance with a resolution passed at a meeting of the committee of conference of the presidents of the School Boards of Union county, appointed by the Union County School Board Association for the purpose of arranging for a permanent organization, a meeting of the Union County Board will be held in the Washington school auditorium, Westfield, Friday night, at 8 o'clock.

The committee on constitution will report, Deputy State Superintendent J. B. Betts, of North Plainfield, will talk on "Teachers' Contracts," and Dr. John J. Cronin, medical inspector, New York, will give an illustrated lecture on "Medical Inspection." State Superintendent C. G. Baxter, members of the State Board of Education, medical inspectors, superinendents and principals of Union county have been invited to be present. County Superintendent J. J. Savitz will be in charge of the meeting.

GOOD USE IS MADE OF HOSPITAL BEQUESTS

Several years ago, when the new hospital buildings were built, the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg resolved to meet a deficit in the amount needed to complete the buildings by appropriating to that purpose certain memorial funds that had been left by will to the institution. The amount of the memorial funds so appropriated was $19,146.38; and in accordance with the by-laws of the hospital the tablet was erected last week commemorating the names of the twelve donors whose bequests made the completion of the buildings possible. Among those whose names now stand on that bronze tablet where everyone who enters the hospital may see them, are some of persons in humble stations in life who loved and helped the institution when living, and did not forget it when they died.

All gifts by will to the hospital are presently invested, and the income only is expended in the maintenance of the work, the course being laid down in the by-laws; and that course was departed from in 1904 only under special stress of circumstances, the buildings and the bronze tablet forming a lasting memorial.

What Girls Do.

Today I read a series of letters written by girls who have "made good." All told of modest beginning, difficulty in trying to succeed, consideration of details, advancement by observation and by filling in the yawning niches where they headed filling. Some people think it never pays to strive for the very best, that no more can be seen or found at the top than at the bottom; yet these girls, all receiving $1,200 or more a year, started on $4 and $5 a week, and grew with the trade.

Drying Pumpkin.

Prepare a pumpkin as careful as for stewing. Let it boil briskly until all water has evaporated, then boil slowly, stirring often until very dry and slightly brown. Put on plates in a moderate oven to dry. Hang up in cheesecloth bags, wrap in paper or put into tin coffee cans. When wanted for use take as much as one cup of an egg and put a quart of warm milk over it and let it soak over night. It will be ready for use the next morning.

A Handy Blouse.

Hunter's green taffeta is a pretty material for a silk shirt waist to be worn with a green broadcloth skirt. The waist is made very plain with plaits over the shoulders, leg-o-mutton sleeves, and a small, little white collar and black tie. It is a serviceable waist for a school girl, and may be remodeled at times by the addition of lace sets.

HE BLAMES THE FRIARS

Dr. Stuntz Tells of Progress in Philippines Since American Occupation.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC REGULATED.

New Courts, New Schools, Decent Judges and Decent Police Among Improvements.

The great progress in mission work, together with the urgent need for more help to carry it on, especially in the Philippines, was the basis of an interesting talk by Rev. Dr. Homer C. Stuntz at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning. Dr. Stuntz is the first assistant corresponding secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, and he has had a world-wide experience in mission work, having labored in China, Europe, South America, Mexico, as well as the Philippines.

By way of introduction he said that yesterday marked the twenty-second anniversary of his ordination, as a deacon and elder under the missionary rule at Bloomington, Ill. Immediately afterwards he with his wife and child started for India, where he expected to spend his life in mission work. This privilege he was denied, he said, because of physical reasons.

Dr Stuntz briefly recited how the different nations of the world have been led by God to take charge of the great missionary movement, and showed that the Gospel has followed the American flag.

Turning to the Philippines, Dr. Stuntz gave a clear and comprehensive insight into the internal affairs there since the Spanish-American war, by way of comparison with affairs previous to that time. He said that the world missionary movement is closely connected with that in the Philippines.

"Twenty years ago," continued Dr. Stuntz, "I was told to keep my eyes on the Philippines. God did not want the Catholics to control India and the same proved true of the Philippines. I was told that the intolerant attitude of Spanish rule in the Islands would soon only be broken, and that it would not be ten years before the doors would be open to the missionary, not by England, but possibly by Germany or Japan. We did not think at that time that America would be called upon to assume the responsibility, but many years from that date our attention was directed to the Philippines and since then we have been committed to the question.

"I was a pastor in this country then, and I remember how I told my people what would happen in the Philippines, and I am glad that I have never since been compelled to retract one word. God has kept us there and will do so until that whole people is evangelized. Now as a nation we are responsible.

"When the United States took charge of the Islands, a reign of religious intolerance was found. The Catholic friars were in charge of everything. I could stand here by the hour and tell you of the cruelties practiced and the reign of terror instigated by these friars. We then took the hands of the clock and *turned them around and gave free*dom to every inhabitant. New courts were established, decent judges were appointed, new schools started, a decent police system was organized and through Legislative acts the people were given fair and equitable laws. We have made many mistakes, of course, but more progress.

"*You say that not all is righteous*ness there, but you can say the same of the United States. I think that some places in this State could be improved, notably Atlantic City, but thank God you have a Governor who is not only holding the fort but is taking the fort of the other fellow, as well.

"Before we took charge of the Philippines a liquor license was granted for $2 a year and no questions asked. Since then the fee has been raised to $800 and through the influence of the Taft Commission all saloons were abolished within a radius of two miles of every military post. This movement started in a Methodist prayer-meeting and the good work has been going on."

Dr. Stuntz in closing spoke of the arrival in the Philippines in August, 1901, of 550 school teachers and of their influence there. To show how important these teachers are to spread the Gospel, the speaker said that on one occasion he preached for four hours to an audience of 2,000 people. To-day there are Methodist churches organized in 128 cities and in all there are five hundred preaching places with a church membership of 20,000 and 400 preachers and teachers. At the close of the service subscriptions were received for this work.

The Girls Aid the President.

A Western college for girls has barred the "Merry Widow" hat.

A delegation of the young women called upon the grave and reverened president.

"Would you also bar the sheath skirt?" ahey asked him.

"I would want to see more of it before I could decide," he coldly replied.

Whereupon the girls went away giggling.

TOLLES AGAIN PRESIDENT

Caucus of 1909 Common Council Also Decides for MacMurray for City Clerk.

COMMITTEE CHANGES PLANNED

Holt to Head Laws and Ordinances Committee and Robert L. Hall Fire Committee.

At a caucus of the members of the 1909 Common Council, Monday night, to plan for the re-organization of that body the first of the year, President Ralph I. Tolles was the unanimous choice of the members for his present position. It was previously understood that there would be a change in the presiding officer, but when the members got together, Mr. Tolles was prevailed upon to take the position for another year.

Having served in that capacity for three terms since his election to the Common Council, Mr. Tolles was not anxious to continue in the chair, being willing to stand aside for anyone else. When he learned the wishes of his fellow-members he then gave his consent.

In the choice of a city clerk for the next three years, James T. MacMurray, the present incumbent, was also the unanimous choice, as was George B. Wean for the position of stenographer and city typist. It was also decided that Jacob Dunham should continue as janitor.

While there was practically little or no discussion regarding the make-up of the 1909 committees, that matter being left to the president, it was decided to have a new committee to know as the law and ordinance committee, and Frank L. Holt, who succeeds Mr. Hibbard from the Second ward, will undoubtedly be appointed to the chairmanship. He is a lawyer and in every way qualified to head such a committee. It is not customary to give a new member a chairmanship, but Mr. Holt's ability is recognized and he would no doubt render valuable service in looking after the laws and ordinances pertaining to the city government. He will also be placed on some of the other more important committees.

In the appointment of the heads of the various other committees, few changes are anticipated. It is believed that Mr. Gloak will remain chairman of the street and sewers committee, and Frank A. Randolph, who has served as chairman of the police committee, will be reappointed.

The retirement of Mr. Hibbard, who is chairman of the fire and building committee, leaves a vacancy and there is no doubt but that Councilman Robert L. Hall, of the Second ward, will get that plum. He has been exceedingly active in fire matters and it is largely through his influence that a new fire-house is now being erected in the Netherwood section.

The fact that that building will still be under construction next year and Mr. Hall is so closely in touch with the work, practically assures him the chairmanship of the fire committee.

No change is looked for in the head of the finance committee, in the opinion of the Council, Mr. Buxton has performed excellent service in that position and he will undoubtedly be prevailed upon to continue another year in looking after the financial part of the Council affairs.

There is a belief that there may be a change in the head of the light committee, although at present the name of a successor to Mr. Montgomery has not been suggested. He was the only absent member from the caucus and before an announcement is made President Tolles will probably confer with him. As Mr. Mygatt has done good work as chairman of the public affairs committee he will probably be asked to serve there another year, while he is also entitled to membership on some of the other important committees.

Among the other members who are entitled to recognition in the distribution of plums in the makeup of the committees, are Duncan W. Taylor, Charles C. Randolph and H. B. Suydam, and President Tolles can be depended upon to recognize their ability and the fact that they have done excellent work this year on the several committees of which they are members. Last night's caucus was a harmonious one and every Councilman present seemed pleased with the preliminary plans looking toward the coming year.

The 1909 Common Council will hold its first meeting Friday night, January 1, when the formal organization of the body will be effected and the committees announced by President Tolles. The city ordinances compell the Council to meet on the first day of the year for organization after which an adjournment is usually taken to a week or two later to take up the regular business.

A Precaution.

DR. TOMLINSON SPEAKS AT C. E. ANNIVERSARY

The feature of the seventeenth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Sabbath morning, was an address on "What is Thy Name?" by Rev. Dr. Everitt Tomlinson, pastor of the Baptist church, Elizabeth. During the course of his address he recalled in amusing fashion the many nick-names often given persons and how well they apply. He made an appropriate application explaining the advantages in being known as a Christian Endeavorer and a follower of Christ. Dr. Tomlinson held the close attention of his congregation throughout.

In connection with the anniversary Miss Eva Rogers as secretary of the Senior society, presented a report for that society as well as the Juniors. This showed that there is a total membership of forty-nine in the Senior and fifteen in the Junior societies. All departments were stated to be in excellent financial and spiritual condition. Treasurer Ray Burdick reported the receipts to be $153 for the past year. Miss Mildred Greene, as president of the Senior society, presided at the meeting.

HUNT CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY WEEKLY CHASE

Although the going was a trifle heavy, about twenty members and friends of the Watchung Hunt Club turned out Saturday afternoon for the weekly chase after the hounds. The meeting was at Dog Tavern, where under the direction of Lewis E. Waring, master, the riders followed a course extending to Lambert's Mills, Westfield, Netherwood and home, a distance of about eight miles. The chase was not a single spill and everyone reached home in good shape, thoroughly delighted with the hunt.

Among those who rode were Lewis E. Waring, master; Fred Bull, Rufus L. Finch, C. E. S. Bellows, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Charles W. Fisk, Charles F. Wildey, Fred Stover, Cris. Cumins and Peter Hauck, Jr.

There was a "stein night" at the hunt club, Saturday night, when a company of about twenty-five male members and their friends enjoyed an informal program. There was some excellent vocal and instrumental music, while the members were much pleased with the supper provided by the house committee, of which W. L. Righter is the chairman.

MISS DORA SCHICK IS THE BRIDE OF JOHN KELLY, JR.

Announcement is made of the marriage of John Kelley, Jr., son of John Kelly, of New street, and Miss Dora Schick, of Dunellen avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, on Friday night, last, at 7 o'clock in the rectory of St Mary's church.

The attendants were Miss Etta Trembley and Miss Catherine Kelly, the latter a sister of the groom. It was a private wedding, owing to the fact that the bride is not a member of the church. Her home was formerly in Pennsylvania, but she has resided in this city for the past three years. The groom is a machinist and is well-known in this city.

ANNUAL DINNER AT Y. M. C. A. IN JANUARY.

The annual Y. M. C. A. dinner will be held on the night of January 21, in the association banquet room. Charles R. Towson, secretary of the industrial department of the international committee, will be the principal speaker, and the president and secretaries of the local association will read their 1908 reports.

This is one of the main events of the Y. M. C. A. calendar and is open to all of the members and to the public. A fee is charged for each plate.

Mails Closed Up 'Em.

Postmaster Bird received notice today from the postal department at Washington that newspapers carrying items advertising or relating to card parties in which an entrance or admission fee is charged contestants and prizes awarded the winners, must be excluded from the mails. Advertisements or articles relating to such card parties are only mailable when they refer to parties for participation in which no charge is made.

Holiday Reception for Debutante.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, Mrs. Dense M. Van Vliet and Miss Ruth Gray Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, have issued invitations for a reception on Monday, December 28, from four to seven o'clock at 91 Mercer avenue. Teas will follow Tuesdays in January.

"STANDARD OIL BANK," THE LARGEST IN AMERICA NOW OCCUPIES THE OLD U. S. C. CUSTOM HOUSE SITE

The National City Bank of New York.

The National City Bank of New York, the largest banking institution in America, has moved into its new building on Wall street. The removal was a simple matter of crossing the street from its old home at 52 Wall street, and the transfer of the bank's enormous holdings of cash and securities was accomplished as easily as if they had been a few bundles of every-day merchandise.

It is necessary to go to some of the great central government banks of Europe to find an institution whose resources compare with those of the National City Bank. Its total assets recently touched the record figures of $372,849,000, a sum sufficient to pay off the national debts of Mexico and all the Central American states.

The National City Bank was a member of the syndicate which subscribed for the entire issue of Spanish American War loan. It also arranged for the transfer of the $20,000,000 payment made to Spain for the Philippine Islands.

The National City Bank is ninety six years old and was founded at the time of the War of 1812, when it was one of nine banks in New York, whose total capitalization was $7,558,760, while there were only eighty-eight banks in the whole country at the time, with a combined capitalization of $42,650,602. Since its formation the National City Bank has had ten presidents. Much of its early prosperity was due to Moses Taylor, who for thirty-five years was a director and for twenty-six years president. In 1882 he was succeeded by Percy R. Pyne, and in 1891 James Stillman was elected president and he still holds that office. Mr. Stillman was the main factor in broadening the influence of the National City Bank, as he and the Taylor estate owned a controlling interest in the institution, and the work of developing its resources was left largely to him.

HOPE'S FIVE DEFEATED BY ROGER A. C. TEAM

The Hope Chapel Young Men's Club basketball team was defeated by the Roger A. C. team, captained by Russell Morris, Saturday night, by a score of 40 to 38. The victorious team was composed of P. H. S. players. The game was fast and free from all roughness. It was replete with sensational goals from the field, the passing and team-work of both teams being excellent.

The score at the end of the first half was 16 to 8 in favor of the Young Men's Club, and when time was called in the second half the score was a tie, 38 to 38. The game was resumed and it was fully five minutes, when Sherwood Parsons, who was doing excellent work as a guard, had the ball passed to him and he put it in the basket for a goal. This was his first and only try during the game.

For Y. M. C., Doane, Hunter and Rimmer did good work and Riffert, Clark and Captain Morris did most of the scoring for the Roger A. C. The lineup:

Roger A. C.—Forwards, Riffert, Clarke; centre, R. Morris; guards, Bristol and S. Parsons.

Hope Y. M. C.—Forwards, Rimmer and C. Firstbrook; centre, M. Hunter; guards, Clyde Doane and H. Kenney.

Goals from field—Clyde Doane, 8; Clarke, 6; Morris, 7; Riffert, 5; Hunter, 4; C. Firstbrook, 3; Bristol, 1; Rimmer, 1; Parsons, 1; goals from foul, Doane, 6. Referee, Allen Snyder; timekeeper, John Kenney; scorer, John Siorah.

TOSSES BABY INTO MUD. TO GET WOMAN'S PURSE.

Refusing to yield to the demands of a highwayman, evidently a Dane, to surrender her purse, while on the road to Woodbridge Saturday morning, Mrs. Oscar Wilson, who lives about a mile outside of the town, was attacked by the stranger, who wrested her baby from her arms and threw it to one side in the muddy road.

The man then twisted Mrs. Wilson's handbag from her wrist and ran away. The bag contained $25 in cash and considerable jewelry.

Mrs. Wilson rescued her baby, which had fallen into a heap of soft mud and was unhurt. She was on her way to visit friends in Woodbridge, and with her bedraggled baby continued her journey. The police have been notified and have a good description of the man.

"Peter," said Mrs. Pneuritch, "I want you to have that roof taken off our garage and one of a different kind put on."

"What for?" demanded Mr. Pneuritch. "What's the matter with it."

"I heard an architect say the other day that it's a hip roof. Everybody knows that hips are out of style now."—Chicago Tribune.

ASSOCIATION DECIDES IN SMALLEY'S FAVOR

The National Trotting Association while in session at Hartford, Conn., December 1, 2, 3, and 4, decided the case of Newton B. Smalley against Adam C. Blair, relative to the claim that the latter's horse, "Aaron B," was formerly known as "Leon," and was entered in recognized races by the latter name. Following an investigation the Board of Review made this report:

"Ordered, that the horse, having started under a changed name, his winnings are unlawful and are ordered to be distributed to the parties entitled to same."

As the race meet held at the driving park July 4, last, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Driving and Riding Club, Newton B. Smalley asked for the identification of the horse owned by Adam C. Blair, entered in the 2:30 class and known as "Aaron B." At a subsequent meeting of the club the subject was thoroughly discussed and then left to the National Trotting Association for a decision.

Publicity to the decision is requested in the hope that future entries to races may be made with the understanding that those who enter there may at least have the right to ask the stranger his name.

MAJOR TEAM PRACTICES ON Y. M. C. A. SECONDS

In place of the scheduled game with the Columbia University five, which was unable to come Saturday night, the Y. M. C. A. major league team played the Second association five and ran up a score of 71 to 22.

It was really a faster game than some of the more evenly matched contests have been, as the shooting was especially accurate and there was but little fouling.

The lineup:

Major team.		Seconds.
Forwards.
Joseph		Templin
Degion		Bogardus
Centres.
Cajoone		Martin
Guards.
Miser		Hoagland
Rumsey		Rockwell

Goals: Denton, 7; Joseph, 7; Cajoone, 8; Miner, 3; Rumsey, 10; Cajoone, 1; Templin, 3; Bogardus, 1; Mackey, 2; Martin, 1; Hoagland, 2; Rockwell, 1; 3 from fouls.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weiss, of Regent street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Henrietta Weiss, to Edward T. Texier, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Texier, of Watchung.

MRS. FISHER THE BRIDE OF ALBERT J. MEYERS

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Fisher, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Ramsey, of Lebanon, and Albert J. Meyers, both of Dunellen. The ceremony took place Saturday afternoon last at the parsonage of the Reformed church, South Bound Brook, Rev. Henry Stout, the pastor, officiating. The couple was unattended, preferring that the affair should be a quiet one and as unostentatious as possible. The couple is residing at the home of the bride in Dunellen for the present.

Mrs. Meyers has a host of friends and acquaintances. Her first husband, Mr. Fisher, died eight years ago. Since then she has resided at Dunellen, where she conducted a boarding-house. Mr. Meyers, who is an expert draughtsman and in the employ of Levering & Garrigues, has made his home at Dunellen for several years. Mrs. Meyers has two children, Lillian and Joseph Fisher. She is a sister of Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street, this city.

DOG LOVERS MEET AND ORGANIZE CLUB

The Plainfield Kennel Club was organized Monday with a charter membership of fifty. Its formation was accomplished at an enthusiastic meeting held at Truell Hall at which were present a majority of the dog lovers and owners whose names had been subscribed to the charter.

A. C. Wilmerding was elected president, A. G. Hooley, secretary, and W. W. Cortell, treasurer. One of the objects of the club is to inaugurate and annual open air bench show where dogs will be brought in competition for prizes, and another of its purposes is to protect the dog interests of the community from infringement of their rights by bad legislation or otherwise.

CRITICS HIGHLY PLEASED WITH JONAS LIE'S WORKS.

"The Storm" and "The Last Gleam," Jonas Lie's large canvases on exhibition at the National Academy, New York, are attracting much favorable comment and much notice among the four hundred representative paintings. The New York Times in speaking of Mr. Lie's work remarks: "This same intense vitality is felt in the two canvases by Jonas Lie, together with a finer arrangement of masses and a more blended simplicity." The New York Evening Mail says in part: "Jonas Lie has one of his storm pictures which shows great imagination and power."

"The Witches Pool" at the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, is likewise a centre of attraction; the exhibition had hardly opened before he received invitations to exhibit the picture elsewhere. He was only able to accept one of the three and chose the Alaska Yonkon Pacific Exposition in Seattle 1909. It seems that Jonas Lie is indeed coming to the front in American landscape painting. The exhibition now at his studio in the Babcock building, and the last he will hold here before going abroad is open to the public every day.

FREEHOLDER ADDED TO HOSPITAL BOARD

The regular meeting of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held at Mayor's office Monday evening. The medical director's report for November showed patients remaining at date of previous report, 46; admitted, 57; total number of patients treated, 103; discharged cured, 53; improved, 9; not improved, 1; died, 4; remaining, 36; hospital days, 1182; operations, 57. In the dispensary, number of patients, 49; visits, 108; operations, 5; cases in isolation ward, 1.

The managing committee reported that the space of the hospital had been connected with the city sewerage system, thereby relieving the institution from the care of the private disposal beds heretofore in use on its own premises, which is considered a great advantage. An amendement to the by-laws was adopted increasing the number of members of the Board of Governors to twenty-six, by providing that one of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county shall be ex-officio a member of body, such member to be designated annually by the freeholders themselves.

The finance committee reported that the responses to the postal cards sent with the view of enlarging the annual subscription were gratifying, and it was hoped that further replies would be received, so as to make it unnecessary to call so frequently on the people to contribute through entertainments.

MUST PAY MEN'S WAGES AND A FINE FOR ASSAULT

G. A. Becker, of South Plainfield, was fined $8.25, including costs, for an assault upon one of his former employes, Anthony Lukovic, and ordered to pay him $60 back wages. He was also ordered to pay Augustus Tomasiska, another man who had worked for him up to the first of the month, $30 in unpaid wages.

The cases were heard before Justice Smith Saturday night at South Plainfield, having been continued from Thursday. In giving his decision the squire commented on the fact that at Thursday's hearing the defendant had stated that he has kept no salary account in his books *with the men, but that he now pro*duced such accounts.

Becker paid the fine under protest and has appealed the cases. Mr. Becker testified that she sometimes paid the men, and named several occasions, one of which she has paid Lukovic $8 and a quart of whisky, and at another time to Tomasiska, $8 and a pair of shoes. She said that sometimes her husband had paid the men at home and at times in Plainfield.

Both complainants declared that they had not received any money since July, and prior to that only in small dribs, or in merchandise. Their stipulated wages were to have been $16 per month and board but after the first two months had never received more than $10 for any single month.

While they claimed they had been discharged, the defendant was equally certain that they had quit on their own accord, and that therefore they could not claim for December.

BAPTISTS AND METHODISTS UNITE TO HEAR A BISHOP.

The congregation of the First Baptist church united Sunday night in the services at the First M. E. church to hear again Bishop Doss who had spoken in the morning at the former church in the interests of the Young Men's Christian Association. When the hour of service arrived, Dr. Chambliss, the Baptist pastor, suggested to his people that as the inclement weather would greatly diminish both congregations it would doubtless be for the pleasure and profit of all to have one service instead of the two, and proposed that they cross over the street and join their Methodist brethren. This they were the more ready to do, as an effort has been made of late to secure Bishop Doss for a special address in the evening at the Baptist church, and Dr. McCrea, pastor of the Methodist church, had fraternally suggested that the congregations unite at his church.

Such indications of brotherly spirit between churches of different denominations are most helpful to the cause of religion in the community.

No Successor to Dr. Lewis.

The American Sabbath Tract Society met Sunday at the rooms of the society in the Babcock building and after some discussion it was decided not to appoint at present a *successor to the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lew*is, as field and corresponding secretary. Arrangements were made to have Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, attend to the correspondence work, and at a meeting in conference with the missionary board, a field secretary will be named.

BROUGHT THEM ALL FORWARD.

Husky Bricklayer Worked Bluff on Occupants of Car.

At a village station a husky young man and a robust young woman boarded the train, and they had only taken their seats when his arm fell around her waist and her head fell on his shoulder. The other passengers became interested at once, and a general grin passed around the coach. Some peppermint drops, carried in the young man's vest pocket, and doled out one by one had been eaten before he caught on to the smiles. Then he stood up and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is my wife. We were married an hour ago. She is a bride. We married for love. I hain't no pietur' and she hain't purty, but that's our business. Your congratulations are now in order."

The smiles faded away, and no one moved—no one but the husky husband. He slowly removed his coat, rolled back his sleeves, and continued:

"There's 12 men in this here car, and I want every durned one of them to come forward and salute the bride. It's her due, and it's got to be done or you will have to settle with me. Nancy, get ready to be saluted."

Nancy rose up with a blush, and those 11 men, one after another, left their seats and one by one forward, and gave her a brotherly kiss and wished her all happiness. When the circus was over the husband rolled down his sleeves, resumed his seat, and sat down with the remark:

"The bride now having been saluted according to custom, will now undergo further hugging, and if any galoot sees anything in it to smile at, he will be informed that my name is Moses Green, and that I'm a rough-and-tumble I weigh a ton."—Buffalo Express.

DEFENDS CHICAGO'S GOOD NAME.

Association of Commerce Arraigns Attackers of City.

Rev. G. W. McPherson, who in a speech in New York recently said: "While New York is the wickedest city in the United States, Chicago is worse—so bad that it cannot be called American! it isn't even civilized," is severely arraigned in a bulletin issued by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Referring to Mr. McPherson, the bulletin says: "This benighted individual should be taught that the intemperate use of the tongue is more baneful than the intemperate use of alcohol or other drugs that kill; the latter poisons the individual offender, while the former cuts and wounds the reputation of many." The association then goes on to set forth facts showing Chicago's greatness and goodness, its commercial and industrial resources, its prosperity as indicated by its bank deposits and the number of wage earners at work, and its charities. One of the statements is that "Chicago has 69 hospitals, a larger number in proportion to population than any other large city in the country, notwithstanding it has the lowest death rate of all of them."

The Clever Woman.

With all the discussion that is now going on about what constitutes the clever woman it is interesting to get the opinion of a great English author and editor.

A clever woman; as a wife, is a woman who is skilled in the conduct of life, in the control of the household, and, above all, in the management of her husband, says William T. Stead in the Bellefactor. A woman who could scribe or read nor write would be a bad wife for any ordinary man in a civilized community, but such an illiterate woman, if she were clever in all the arts of domestic economy, in the rearing of children and in being at once the inspiration and comfort of her husband, would be clever enough for the cleverest man in existence, and infinitely preferable to the clevereat woman in book learning that has ever been turned out by a university.

Likely Reason.

The city man was jogging on toward the summer boarding house in a rickety rockaway. The driver was glum and far from entertaining and the city man felt rather lonely.

"Fine field over there!" he ventured after a long silence.

"Fine," grunted the driver.

"Who owns it?"

"Old man Bitt."

"Old man Bitt, eh? Who are those children stacking up hay?"

"Old man Bitt's boys."

"And what is his idea in having them out there in the field such a hot day?"

"Wal, I reckon he thinks every little Bitt helps, stranger. Anything else you want to know? Get up here, hosses."

Noah's Excuse.

Capt. Pritchard of the record-breaking Mauritania, told a group of Americans on a recent voyage that a sailor's life was a hard one.

"It is not so hard as it used to be before the coming of steam," he said, "but it is still fearfully hard, for all that. In fact, I never heard of but one man who had a decent excuse for going to sea."

"And who was he, captain?" said a Chicagoan.

"Noah," the captain answered. "For if the old fellow had remained on shore he would have been drowned."

Recovered.

"I hear Brown has recovered his reason."

"Yeh, yes, you know he's discharged his doctor."—Detroit Free Press.

SOME VAGARIES OF THE PRESENT MODES.

Net is newer than lace for the coffee coat that is so useful an addition to the winter wardrobe; but, as it undoubtedly bids fair to be a fabric with a very popular future before it, in its new square meshed design, lace will probably be preferred by many who are now choosing their models.

A coat design, with a fitch vest of chiffon neatly folded and drawn under the waist-sash, which will be threaded through the coat at the sides so that the fronts are left free, will be found most graceful and satisfactory.

Though the use of lace and fur in company is condemned in no measured terms by stern critics in dress, who maintain that two such different materials cannot possibly agree, there is no doubt about the fact that that they will be used, and do look very rich and fascinating when deftly mingled.

Happily the bag purses that carried out jewelers' zoological specimens somewhat absurdly, such as elephants, piggies and midnight owls are conspicuous by their absence; while for ladies in half-mourning the gun-metal bag, quietly and prettily ornamented with half pearls inset around the clasp, are exceedingly tasteful and elegant. Some have the light of the diamond sparkling from the dark gray polished background, but although very smart they are hardly in good taste for half-mourning; amethysts are quieter and withal quite as elegant when intermixed with pearls.

The jeweled purse-bags, outside of their luxurious appearance, are decidedly inconvenient, and to obviate the vexatious process of picking up various items that have a tendency to rolling upon the ground or onto the floor of the motor car, the small interior purse, also of chained gold, has been invented, and adopted with success.

Can anyone take exception to a bridge coat made of beautiful white lace, the serrated edge of which is covered with chinchilla, caught up where each arabesque ends with a cocarde of silver tissue sewn with little crystals and pearls? Or of ivory lace hemmed with ermine, and given a belt of vivid green satin? This coat with a crepe de chine skirt, makes an evening robe so beautiful that its fascination is irresistible.

THE WINTER GARDEN IN THE WINDOW.

When building our house a number of large window sashes were left over, which later were utilized for the purpose of constructing a small room, seven by nine feet, off the sitting-room and connecting with it by sliding doors. The sashes were put on on three sides—east, west and south—and projected beyond the house line four or five feet. Winters we placed shelves in it at proper distances to accommodate potted roses. While there were many plants growing outside, only a few, the best, were put into this room. These were Bon Silene, Queen's Scarlet, Enchantress and similar varieties.

To make sure of being successful a florist was called in occasionally to look at the plants, and sometimes he brought new specimens to refill any vacant place or to replace any which were not in the best of condition. Those brought in were fresh and about ready to bloom, so we had a continual supply of vigorous plants which had lots of buds and blooms, which flowered all the winter, something very delightful and not common in window gardens.

The florist suggested many helpful ideas, among which was that several large ferns and palms be added to occupy the space beneath the lower row of shelves. This made a green set off the bright flowers in a most beautiful way, and, besides, we had quite a nice and refreshing little fernery.—Suburban Life.

WHEN SPEAKING OF THE ABSENT ONE.

Little things, but how much they count in the long run.

It may sound like a very little thing, but, really, the mentioning of an absent person, whether it be your husband, your sister, your mother or your fiance, is an indication of your education and a clue to your breeding.

Of course, were it impossible to correct mistakes of this kind it would be totally unnecessary for me to write these articles. But every one may learn to do better, and surely every one wants to do exactly right.

I have heard a girl mention her husband to her own mother as "Mr. Jones," and many a time a girl, recently married, mentions her husband by his full title to her most intimate friends. This is but foolish affectation.

If you are speaking of your husband to a servant, he should be given his title, but if you are speaking to a friend of yours or his there is no reason why you should not call him by his first name. Should you speak to a stranger of your husband, call him by his first and last name, as "John Robinson."

The new bride who goes around speaking of "my husband" makes herself really ridiculous. If you are natural, if you call him what appears to you as being the correct thing, you cannot make a mistake.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 29, 1906.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Why was the King born?—John xviii, 33-37. A Christmas meeting.

The Christmas season has returned, and naturally doesn't mean turn to Bethlehem, and in our churches and other places of religious worship and study the subjects selected have to do with some phase of Christ's birth. The subject suggested for our study is an interesting and important one. Why was the King born? When we turn our thoughts to the birth of Christ we usually think of its humbleness, and yet, while He was born amid lowly surroundings, He was nevertheless a King. He was King of heaven and King of the earth and came into the world as the King of the Jews. The wise men of the east when they arrived at Jerusalem asked, "Where is He that was born King of the Jews?" When Pilate pressed the question upon Him He did not deny His kingship, but acknowledged it when He declared, "My kingdom is not of this world." Having a kingdom, He must have been a King. He further proceeds to answer the question before us: "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world that I should bear witness of the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth My voice."

Christ, the King, was born to bear witness of the truth. The transition of Christ from kingship to witness bearing is a striking one. It seems to indicate that His kingship lay in His witness bearing. His kingdom was not temporal, but spiritual. The purpose of His coming was not to teach men the true way of conducting governments, but the eternal truths of God concerning spiritual things—yea, to reveal truth in Himself—for He said on another occasion, "I am the way, the truth and the life." Being at the head of those who were to receive the truth taught by Him, He was a King in this spiritual realm, and the very purpose of His kingship was to make known by precept and example the great truths of God to man. For this purpose He left His throne in heaven and came to earth, being born as a man that He might the better perform His great mission. Well may the world therefore rejoice upon the anniversary of His birth.

But merely to witness to the truth was not the cause of the King's coming. Through witnessing to the truth He was to call to Him all who were of the truth, all who desired spiritual truth, that He might set them free from error and from bondage to sin. "The truth shall make them free." Have we accepted the kingship of Christ? Is He to us the truth, and have we found spiritual liberty and freedom in Him and His teachings? If not, "seek ye and ye shall find."

THE CLINGER AND THE POOR CLINGEE

The impression is general that the "clinging vine" is of feminine gender. Not so, my children. More often than is supposed the clining vine is a male. The chief difference in the vine clings openly, frankly, making no pretense of strength, while the male vine puts on a front to the world and clings like an English Ivy in private.

We do not so much mind the woman who clings. We can shoulder her troubles and give of our sympathy and help her to stand on her own feet, and do it cheerfully, and for an indefinite time; but the male clinger?—he is a variation of nature, unnatural, incongruous. He is weakness where he should be strength. His cravings for support and sympathy is a kind of shock to the feminine mind. His constant demand for encouragement is a drain upon our vitality, and, sooner or later, the limit of our patience is reached, there comes a feeling of revulsion too strong to be suppressed, and the male clinger, to *his in*tense astonishment, finds himself despised.

Much is written and said of the man who tells his wife nothing of his business affairs, but how about the man who tells his wife all of them?—at least so much of them as cause him worry. He cannot rest nights because of his worry, but piles his debt on on the verge of bankruptcy, and why should his wife sleep so soundly? He wants her sympathy, he wants somebody upon whom to unload, so he saddles her with his troubles, which she bears along with her own daily annoyances—annoyances which do not disturb him in the least.

*The pleasant things in his busi*ness life the clinger takes as a matter of course, he forgets to mention them, but he comes home on the high hope to tell his troubles. And his wife smiles and soothes and comforts him, and he puts on his bold front and goes out again, leaving her scared stiff inwardly, for business entanglements seem infinitely blacker to a woman than to a man.

When the clinger was away his letters have the cheerful effect of death notices upon the recipient. "He is crazy with a jumping toothache; missed his train and had to walk miles in the rain; terrible cold and high fever; expensive trip and doubtful of sufficient funds."

From habit alone he is writing his troubles and demanding sympathy, though he is perfectly well aware that they will have passed by the *time the letter reaches its destina*tion. A dentist pulls his tooth out and a hot lemonade cures the cold, while his bank wires money, and he is contentedly continuing his journey at the time his wife sees him in a strange hotel, penniless and tossing in delirium.

A genuine illness is "pickings" for the clinger. He can fold his pale hands and look almost like a corpse. The pressure he extracts from describing his sufferings and symptoms and inquiring weakly "If he ever will be well" is almost compensation for some real pain.

The Slough of Despond is the natural habitat of the clinger. When he is not feeling unnecessarily chesty over some slight achievement he is convinced that the Fates are crouching like a cougar in his lair waiting for him to come along. At such times he absorbs sympathy like a sponge. He is Old Man Trouble's own son. Failure is stamped on him like a brand on a Texas mustang, he declares—waiting to be contradicted—and he is blind that the only solution to the problem is for him to remove himself by his own hand, though everybody knows he would fight like a Frenchman in a fire to save his own life.

The clinger must be constantly assured that he is loved. He takes nothing for granted—he must be told, and that often—while any act of indifference fills him with despair and he has an eye like a hawk for slights.

To the strongest natures and bravest hearts there come times of weakness, a longing for encouragement, and to such persons one extends a quick and eager sympathy, but as sure as there will be a tomorrow so sure will a feeling of contempt grow in the heart of the woman to whom a man clings.

There are some women who seem to attract to themselves clinging women to whom all clingers with whom they come in contact gravitate like squash vines to a trellis—not because they fancy clingers, either, but, perhaps because they are strong, sympathetic and tolerant. Women of kind heart especially marry clingers, knowing them to be such, and bolster them up to accomplish *something in the world, and the wife*made clinger may appear like a sturdy oak in the public eye, but you can gamble that there is one person who never mistakes him for anything but what he is.—Philadelphia Press.

HEAVEN

The Sadness of Scepticism

Paul said to Timothy "Godliness is profitable for all things having the promise of the life which now is as well as that which is to come." He meant that a man's faith is not simply to prepare him for another life but to help him live this life, for when a man gives up his belief in divine things, in God and immortality, he takes all the value out of the present life. Without God and without hope in immortality a man's life here is one of great sadness. The world, then, is to him a great mistake and a mockery, and his earthly life is not worth living. There is one thing alone that can satisfy men. It is the thought of God as a loving Father and an eternal life. Let us listen to the words of a few very successful men who have confessed that with all their success they have been unhappy. If success and applause could have perfectly satisfied them they certainly would have been happy, but they confess to their unhappiness and the reason is simple. They have lost the comforting assurance of God's presence and of immortality in their lives. Because there is no other life to give them comfort, they are not perfectly happy in this life. This life would be comfortless to you if you were sure God was dead and that there was no after life. We have already spoken of Goethe, Germany's Shapespeare. He was regarded as an optimist. Was he?

He said that he never had a month of genuine comfort.

Voltaire was regarded as a great literary genius but he had no center of his life and hope. He said "strike out the few sages and the crowd of human beings is nothing but a horrible assemblage of unfortunate criminals. I wish I had never been born." He did not think much of humanity. He never looked down upon them as the Lord looked upon the unfortunate of earth and said, "Ye are of more value." You have great possibilities in your being which will require an eternity to develop.

The young scientist, Clifford, doubted the existence of God. He said that the idea of a God is a comfort to those that hold it and the loss of it a very painful loss. "We have seen the spring sun shine out of an empty heaven to light up a soulless earth and we have felt the utter loneliness that the great Companion was dead." What did he mean? This, that the loss of God, the Great Companion, was a great loss. On earth, there are no souls. In heaven, there is no God. All is matter and will return to matter. He was like the scientist, who goes by the name of "Physicus," who said, when he denied the existence of God, the universe lost its soul of loveliness, he spoke of the appalling contrast between the "glory of the hallowed creed that once was mine and the lonely mystery of existence as I now find it." We find young men who are ready in a spirit of bravado to part with the faith of their fathers, but when they do, they part with their best friend.

These illustrations confirm the statement of Sully in his great book on Pessimism. "I am keenly alive to the fact that our scheme of universal happiness, even when taken as including the good of others now living and to live, is no perfect sub*stitute for the idea of eternal happi*ness presented in religion." You simply cannot replace the loss of faith in God and immortality by any scheme of philanthropy. The hunger of your soul demands God and another life. When that brilliant woman, George Eliot was walking with her friend Myers in the Fellows Garden of Trinity College, Cambridge, she spoke impressively of those three words that are the watch words of our lives. "God, immortality, duty. The first, how inconceivable, the second, how unbelievable, the third how peremptory and absolute."

Myers said: "It was as though she withdrew from my grasp, one by one, the two scrolls of promise, and left me with the third only, awful with inevitable fate." If a man is immortal then it is worth while to save him. For who knows what wonderful development shall be his in the ages to come. If there is no other life says Prof. Seely, then duty is to seek self-sacrifice for the sake of others, for others are just as contemptible as we are and human happiness is too paltry to be worth increasing. If a man is immortal, he may not have made a great showing here but he has an eternity in which to develop. So it is not what a man is at the present moment but what he may become in the after life that interests us. If he is simply a creature of a few years and then perishes, what matters it? A vivid picture of the absurdity that scepticism produces is given us in the words of the French philosopher Theodore Jouffroy: "Never shall I forget the December evening when the veil which hid my unbelief from my own eyes was torn away. The hours of the night glided away and I perceived it not; I anxiously followed my thought, which descended step by step to the bottom of my consciousness, and dissipating one after another all the illusions which, till then had hid them from my view, rendered its subterfuges more and more visible to me. In vain, I clung to my last beliefs, as a shipwrecked sailor to the fragments of his ship; in vain, by efforts unknown, I made waste it which I was about to float. I threw myself back once more upon my childhood, my family, my country, all that was dear and sacred to me; the inflexible current of my thought was the stronger; parents, family, memories, beliefs—it forced me to leave all. I knew then that at the bottom of myself there was nothing left standing, that all I had believed about myself, about God, and about my destiny in this life and in that to come, I now believed no more. This moment was frightful; and, when, towards morning, I threw myself exhausted upon my bed, it seemed to me as if I could feel my former life, so cheerful and complete, die away, and behind me, one by one, close another life, dark and dispeopled, where henceforth I was to live alone, alone with my fatal thought which had just exiled me thither and which I was tempted to curse."

This picture of Jouffroy has been paralleled in many other cases. Men whom the world honors for their intellectual brilliancy, if they have parted with their faith in God and the immortal life, are unspeakably sad. They picture their condition as frightful, appalling, terrible. And these instances are an evidence that *the foundations of a noble and hap*py life can only be laid by holding to these great truths? A man can not live a normal life if he denies God and immortality.

LOCAL PEOPLE ATTEND MISS PHILLIPS' RECITAL

The pupils of Miss Frances L. Phillips, of Bound Brook, gave a delightful recital of music in the Bound Brook Methodist church Friday night. It was attended by a large number of people from Plainfield, Dunellen and other places in addition to local residents.

The program comprised numbers by Miss Blanche Jacoby, Miss Rachel Canter and Goldie Hunt Martin, of this city, that were very pleasing and warmly applauded. Miss Martin did exceptionally well in a number, "Caprice Hongroise" and also as accompanist on second piano to Miss Martin in the solo "Fairy Dance." The pupils all showed exceptional talent and ease in performing. Mrs. Elmer A. Gidden and William Campbell, both of Plainfield, were allotted numbers on the program but were unable to be present.

The assisting artists were Miss Elizabeth Ray Clemmer, soprano, and Mabel Sperling-Paul, violin.

COURT PLAINFIELD, I. O. F., HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, received one application and initiated two candidates at its meeting Friday night. The annual election of officers resulted in a lively contest for the various offices. These persons were chosen:

Court Deputy, Charles J. McCarthy; court physicians, Dr. Henry H. Lowjie, Dr. Carl A. Gesswein, Dr. A. E. Brennan; chief ranger, Henry Hansen; vice-chief ranger, Edward J. McCue; recording secretary, James Patterson; financial secretary, Joseph E. Kelley; treasurer, John R. Cline; orator, William Brown, senior woodward, Frank J. Winzenried; junior woodward, Martin Hansen; senior beadle, P. Harrington; junior beadle, Thomas Fitzgerald; trustees, Louis J. Feiring, John F. Casey; finance committee, T. Monsell, P. Harrington.

The officers-elect will be installed by High Chief Ranger Fred Storm, of Elizabeth, and staff at the first meeting in January.

HUGH S. LAING DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

Following an illness with diabetes Hugh S. Laing, a well known and life-long resident of Plainfield, died at his home on North Avenue, early Saturday. He had been ailing for a year or more but had been confined to his bed only for the past week.

Mr. Laing was the son of the late Mrs. and Mrs. James Laing and was sixty-five years old. He was a painter by trade and worked for local firms. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Julia L. Force, of the borough, and Mrs. Norman C. Dunn, of Philadelphia.

A Christmas Suggestion.

We are all racking our brains to decide what we will give so-and-so for Christmas. Winder ties, which are so very much the rage at the present moment for low lace collars and other collars of the Puritan stamp, may be easily made by buying a piece of material cut on the bias and hemming it around with machine stitching. The material should be surah silk or one of the soft taffeta varieties, but it should not be ribbon. It is absolutely necessary that it be cut on the bias. The finished tie should be one and one-quarter yards long and about five and one-half inches wide. The ends should be cut so that they form points.

MANNERS AND CLOTHES IN THE HOME.

A great many people seem to think that the marriage ceremony absolves them from all further courtesies and attentions to the person whom they have wed.

After that they are always in negligee, both as to manners and clothes, when they are at home.

This is a fatal mistake. Because a woman is married is no excuse for her going untidy about the house and telling her husband home truths that hurt his vanity. Because a woman is his wife gives a man no right to say things to her he would not dare to say to any other lady who possessed a big able-bodied brother.

Good manners are the preservative of peace and concord, and are warranted to keep happiness in any climate.

The problem of how to be happy though married is really no problem at all. No mystery should ever have been made of it.

It is merely fair dealing in fair partnership, giving the other party the same privileges and perquisites you assume for yourself, and allowing the person you love as much consideration and civility as you would show a stranger.

HOW WE MAY LIGHTEN THE ROOMS.

There are bound to be some rooms in the house which are more or less dark, either because of location or lack of windows, draperies, etc.

What to do take away the dark look from a room with an eastern exposure has bothered many a house keeper. In city houses especially such a room may be so gloomy and dingy as to require artificial light most of the day.

A decided effect of sunlight can be given by the right papers and furnishings. Select a warm yellow two toned paper. Select a white ceiling, paint the woodwork white and have the curtains, if any are used, of the thinnest kind of white net. Window shades should be white or a warm cream color and if there are outer curtains they should be of a thin yellow silk.

Should the furniture be mahogany it can be covered in yellows and dull blue, but if it is not especially valuable the framework could be enameled white to still further lighten the room; with such coloring a soft brown rug could be placed on the floor.

THE HELPLESS BABY AN UNWILLING VICTIM.

How would you like it, you grown man or woman, to be hauled along by a giant; your weary legs vainly trying to keep up with his seven league strides?

Yet that is just what happens when you take your small boy or girl out for a long walk. Children often get spanked for badness when they are cross from utter fatigue.

Try walking at a forced pace for an hour or two with one of the wisdom of the children's specialist who insists that the baby carriage or push cart should go along on every long walk taken by a child up to the fifth year, longer if the little one is not sturdy.

If mothers would cling longer to the push-cart, nuisance though it be, there would be fewer sufferers from curvature of the spine and infantile paralysis. Four-year-old Johnny or Mary will probably rebel at being pushed and consider it beneath his or her dignity. But the knowing mother will insist upon occasional lifts because of the benefits to tired legs and backs.

No child of 3 or 4 years old should walk more than half a mile at a time.

GOOD MACHINE HINTS.

When using a chain stitch machine gathering may be done without an attachment if the thread is wrapped twice round the tension. This is a very good thing to know, and, while it will not make any deep gathering, it will be quite effective for any ordinary ruffling.

With a double-threaded machine the under bobbin may be threaded with a cotton ten numbers coarser. Loosen the tension until it is very slack and then place your garment under the needle and gather. When it is stitched you will find that you may draw up the material to the required fulness with the aid of the under thread. It will not be necessary to alter the stitch if it is ordinarily short, and the result will be very satisfactory.

With the aid of these two ideas it should be easy to do very good gathering on any machine.

LOVING CUP FOR RECTOR.

Rev. Dr. Henry Hale Sleeper, rector of Grace Episcopal church, at Elizabeth, was presented with a silver loving cup by the members of his congregation Thursday night at a banquet commemorating the twentieth anniversary of his pastorate of the church. The affair took place in the Church Club house, which is the gift of Mrs. Potter, wife of the late bishop.

Dr. Sleeper thanked the Misses Kean, sisters of United States Senator John Kean; Mrs. Elizabeth Dean, London, and Mrs. Potter for their gift. Dr. Sleeper is a graduate of Princeton University and the General Theological School of New York. He received his degree of Ph. D. from the University of New York.

GIRLS GIVE A DINNER FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

The football team of the North Plainfield High School came in for well earned honors last night when it and the faculty were banqueted by the senior girls. The feast was served in the drawing room of the school and all of the food was prepared by the girls of the class and was high grade in every particular. A reception and dance was held by the kindergarten rooms after the supper.

Benjamin Phelps was presented with a cup by the team in recognition of his valuable services as coach during two years, 1907 and 1908, the presentation being made by Captain Tone Overton.

In his acceptance speech Mr. *Phelps said that he regarded the ex*cellent spirit of the team which had expressed itself in upholding the honor of the school at home and abroad. He believed it to be the very best gift they could give. Walter Hamilton was also presented with a cup, with a few words of praise by Manager Harry Smith, for his work as coach during the season just closed.

The members of the social committee were: Miss Margaret Lee, chairman; Miss Florence Wyckoff, Miss Anna Daly, Miss Jennie Nelson, Miss Elvira Hoerster and Ray Vanderbeek. Those of the faculty who were present were Richard Keiffer, Benjamin Phelps, Miss Rhoda Weller, Henry C. Krebs, Miss Helen V. Stallberger and Mr. and Mrs. George Webster.

Immediately after the banquet the football squad gathered in the library and elected a captain for next year, to succeed Tone Overton, who graduates in the spring. Russel Conroy was the unanimous choice for the place. Besides Overton, there will be three other valuable players to retire, on the completion of the present term of school. They are: George Parsons, Clarence Stelner and Leslie Powelson. Coach Phelps announced that there was some promising material with which to fill the vacancies and no doubt there would be a strong team next year.

This year's team has been very successful, having lost but two of the eight important games played. The hardest game and the one in which the boys showed their best was the one with the strong Perry Street eleven, which went down to defeat 5 to 0. Nearly all of the season attended the boys in the contest with Plainfield High School. The members of this year's team who were in attendance last night were: George Parsons, R. Conroy, T. Conroy, C. Bennett, C. Lee, L. Zeglio, C. Adams, J. C. Lee, H. Smith, C. Smith, F. Becker, L. Powlison, G. Webster, C. Steiner and C. Bailey.

TRAFFIC IS DELAYED ON JERSEY CENTRAL

Traffic on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was delayed for two hours at Somerville, Saturday, while firemen fought a blaze in the hay press owned by James Q. Van Eyck beside the tracks near Bridge street in that place. It was necessary for the firemen to drag their lines of hose across the tracks to the fire, and until the building was destroyed the trains piled up in long lines and the passengers got out to watch the spectacle.

The whole interior of the hay press was in flames when the fire was discovered and little could be done except to prevent the flames from spreading to neighboring buildings. A number of horses stabled in the building were rescued, but the other contents, hay, machinery and tools were all destroyed. The loss will be about $5,000, as there was no insurance on the building itself, although the contents were insured.

Foresters Plan Annual Affair.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, will hold its annual entertainment, reception and dance in Saengerbund Hall, Friday night, January 15. The Supreme Court Ranger Elliot G. Stevenson, of Toronto, is expected to be present and make the principal address. There will be an up-to-date high-class vaudeville program to be followed by a dance. Admission will be ticket only and Edward J. McCue is the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Miss Natalie Wildey Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Natalie Wildey, youngest daughter of Charles F. Wildey, of Central avenue, and Hart Fiztee, of New York. Both are prominent in the younger society set. Miss Wildey, like her sisters, is an expert tennis player, while Mr. Fiztee is a member of the Watchung Hunt and other clubs. He is a cousin to Mrs. Charles J. Fisk. No date has been set for the wedding.

MINSTRELS MAKE A HIT

Franklin Troupe Springs Surprises at Season's First Performance.

A GRAND PATRIOTIC WIND-UP.

Show Given as Feature of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.'s Annual Reception to Women Friends.

Resplendent in new costumes and backed up by regular scenery fresh from the artist's studio, the Franklin minstrel troupe opened its third season, Friday night, in connection with Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.'s, annual reception to its women friends. The affair took place in Junior hall and the attendance was the largest it has ever held, a noteworthy fact in view of the opposition weather.

Peter H. Latourette was in charge of the evening's program and made an address of welcome, leading up to the black-face performance. When the curtain was drawn, the members of the troupe were revealed in regulation military costume in a setting representing a camp. Guns were stacked in the center of the stage and a full length drop in back showed a line of white tents in the distance. The audience was quick to show its appreciation by prolonged applause.

James Jamison was in the interlocutor's chair, garbed as an officer; the chorus men wore khaki suits and the ends, George Mead, George Hittenhouse, George Wilson and William J. Firstbrook, were in the old style blue. During the customary first part, up-to-date, local and almanac gags were handed out and a plentiful supply of solos livened up the fun. The four end men made a hit with "Captain Billy Brown" and also with individual numbers as follows: George Wilson, "Love Spells Trouble to Me;" George Hittenhouse, "If the World Don't Treat You Right, Come Home;" William J. Firstbrook, "Don't Take Me Home;" George Mead, "Hang Out the Front Door Key." Messrs. Firstbrook and Wilson also sang, "Jungle Town" and ballads were rendered by James Jamison, William Anderson, Hugh Hicklen and Walter Vail. Mrs. Vail's solo, "My Dream of the U. S. A." was one of the features of the program.

The performance closed with a most novel and original effect. While the troupe sang, "The Star Spangled Banner," a flower garden descended over the audience and running to the dome in the centre of the hall, were suddenly drawn aside. From their folds there dropped 500 miniature flags that were borne to every part of the room by the powerful drafts from electric fans. The finish was totally unexpected by those not in the secret and it evoked great enthusiasm.

Following the show, refreshments were served and later the floor was cleared for dancing. The music was in charge of William Kenyon, who is accompanist for the Franklin troupe.

The affair was arranged and conducted by the Good and Welfare Committee of Franklin Council, composed of the following: Arthur Joy, chairman; Jack Martin, E. G. Wilson, Fred Soper and Walter C. Walker.

MEMORIAL TABLET IS PLACED IN HOSPITAL

Desiring to recognize in a suitable and substantial manner the several bequests made to Muhlenberg Hospital, the Board of Governors has caused to be placed in the hallway of the hospital a handsome copper bronze tablet, three feet square, bearing the names of those who have remembered the institution. The tablet, the work of John Williams, Incorporated, New York, is considered one of the finest made by that concern. There are no ornamentations, the tablet being a plain one, yet in its simplicity it is beautiful.

This inscription appears on the tablet: "In Memory of Mrs. Phoebe Gifft, by Will invested in Hospital Buildings." Then are inscribed these names, which will be recognized by many interested in the hospital as well as others:

The tablet occupies a prominent position just to the left of the main hall, where it can be seen by everyone who enters the building. It was erected a few days ago and already a number of people have been attracted to the hospital to see the memorial.

"She certainly is a woman of tact"

"Tact is no name for it. She is a great diplomat. Why, she can have two birthdays a year for the purpose of gathering in presents and in the meantime not grow a day older."—Nashville American.

TWO EXCISE REPORTS FILED WITH GOV. FORT

MINORITY MEMBERS DIFFERING RADICALLY

Chairman Fisk and Four Others on the Commission o

Seven Recommend Local Excise Boards, Power of Revocation, High License Fee, No Sunday Selling, Limit to Licensed Places and Other Restrictions.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as chairman, handed to Governor J. F. Fort Tuesday at Trenton, the majority report of the State Excise Commission. It is an exhaustive document of 25,000 words and contains not only a summary of the probe in each county but recommendations for a new law based upon such investigation, as well as a copy of the proposed law. Other data including the testimony taken and the laws governing the liquor traffic in this and other states was also filed with the Governor. The majority report is signed by Messrs. Fisk, Rackes, Rice, Smith and Appleby. A minority report signed by Messrs. Howe and Whitbeck was also submitted.

This is the majority report in a nutshell:

A local elective Excise Board, of three members, for every town, city, borough, village, and township, with powers to grant, refuse and revoke licenses, members to serve three years.

The Board of Excise to have powers to make regulations governing the sale of liquor locally, within the limits of the State law.

The nomination of candidates for such boards to be made by petition of ten or more residents of the municipality.

The local Board of Excise to be responsible to the Governor for the enforcement of the Excise law.

No license should be pledged in transfer and no transfer should be made under any power of attorney of the license.

Close and lock all saloons during prohibited hours, allowing only employees in the place, the presence of others being considered prima facie evidence of violation of the law.

No liquor should be sold or given to any minor, nor may an older person send a minor into a saloon to purchase liquor.

No saloon man shall serve anyone who has the habit of drinking intoxicating liquor after he has been served with a written notice by the husband, wife, parent, guardian, child, employer, trustee, Mayor or overseer of the poor.

Close the saloons throughout the State from midnight Saturday to 6 o'clock Monday morning.

A tower's sign shall be considered prima facie evidence that the saloon is controlled by such brewer.

No shades, screens, blinds, cabinet-work, merchandise, curtains, nontransparent glass or any article of obstruction shall be put in the window of any bar. The windows and doors must be of clear glass and a full view of the interior shall be had from the street at all times.

No boxing bouts, theatricals, pool tables or bowling alleys shall be allowed in any saloon, room or yard connected therewith.

No transfer of license shall be granted except in case of bona fide sale of the business or death of the owner.

No licenses shall be granted to places in cities of less than 15,000 inhabitants where liquor is to be consumed in the premises, unless such place be an inn, tavern, hotel or restaurant of six spare rooms, with stabling accommodations.

No new license shall be granted within 200 feet of any church, school-house, armory, hospital or any charitable or benevolent institution.

Outside a city, no liquor shall be sold within a mile of any industrial school, asylum, State hospital, State agricultural college, school, colony or institution established for the treatment of epileptics or poorhouse, or regularly incorporated camp meeting.

Licenses should be refused minors, those convicted of crime or employing an ex-convict, foreigners, those whose employees are twice convicted for violation of the excise law, those whose membership includes minors.

No license holder should permit any girl or woman to serve drinks.

The Mayor of a municipality should be held responsible for the enforcement of the law. He shall instruct the police to watch for violations and submit reports of such to the Excise Board.

The Mayor shall personally examine regularly all places where liquor is sold, sending his reports, through the Mayor to the Excise Board.

Should the Mayor refuses to act, in cases of violation, the Mayor shall report the case to the Court of Common Pleas and to the Governor.

The Governor shall prefer charges against any police officer who refuses to enforce the excise law.

Any failure, wilful neglect or refusal to act, constitutes malfeasance in office.

Such failure on the part of a police officer shall be a misdemeanor and the punishment shall be removal from office.

The Sheriff or prosecutor who fails to do all within his power to enforce the excise law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

For selling without a license, a fine of not less than double the license fee should be imposed.

For Sunday selling, selling to a minor, keeping a disorderly house or selling to intoxicated persons the penalty shall be a fine of half the license fee for the first offense, revocation of license for one year for the second offense and permanent revocation for the third offense.

Power should be given to the Governor of the State to remove any Mayor, Sheriff, prosecutor or judge who does not do his ful duty in enforcing the excise laws.

THE MINORITY REPORT.

Here are some salient extracts from the minority report:

We concur in large part with the statements of fact concerning conditions in the various counties of this State as set forth in the majority report, but we cannot give our sanction to the sweeping allegations in the majority report, that the judges of one County Courts, the prosecutors, the sheriffs and mayors in New Jersey are under the domination of the manufacturers and dealers in intoxicants, in that they owe their appointments or elections to political leaders, who in turn are under financial obligations to the liquor trade; that by reason of this domination licenses are improperly granted, violators of law are shielded from indictment and prosecution, and a perversion of judicial and administrative functions in the interest of excise violators generally exists.

We cannot concur, without reservation, in the recommendation of the majority of the Commission in favor of an elective Excise Board in each municipality, each member to serve three years and a new member to be elected annually as a specific measure to the end that appointments or elections to political leaders, who in turn are under financial obligations to the liquor trade; that by reason of this domination licenses are improperly granted, violators of law are shielded from indictment and prosecution, and a perversion of judicial and administrative functions in the interest of excise violators generally exists.

We cannot concur, without reservation, in the recommendation of the majority of the Commission in favor of an elective Excise Board in each municipality, each member to serve three years and a new member to be elected annually as a specific measure to the end that appointments or elections to political leaders, who in turn are under financial obligations to the liquor trade; that by reason of this domination licenses are improperly granted, violators of law are shielded from indictment and prosecution, and a perversion of judicial and administrative functions in the interest of excise violators generally exists.

We dissent from the proposition that the governor of this State be vested with the power to remove county and municipal officers, whether constitutional, statutory and whether elective or appointed. There is certainly no warrant in the investigation of this Commission for the assumption that evils due to non-enforcement of the excise laws exist to such an extent as to justify recourse to so drastic a remedy.

We recommend that where a business arrangements exists, the wholesaler should be held jointly liable with the customer for a violation, and that even the latter should be charged with such knowledge and against the wish of the wholesaler, is repugnant to the elemental principles of justice.

We concur in the proposition that certain sections of the commission's power to regulate and control be incorporated in the general laws of the State, to wit: A minimum license fee of $250 for all licenses, no new license in a municipality until the population has increased so that the ratio of one licensed place to 500 inhabitants has been established and the maintenance of that ratio thereafter, provided, of course, that each municipality is entitled under all circumstances to at least one license; no sales between the hours of 12 o'clock midnight and six o'clock a. m., except by special permission of the licensing authority and the issuance of a special license with additional fee therefor.

It is idle to speak of local control and regulating and then strip the local board of every vestige of discretion by means of general laws prescribing the most trivial details in regard to excise matters. The places to which licenses shall be granted is also very properly a regulation to be left with the local boards and should not be the subject of a general law.

We recommend to the consideration of the Legislature the proposition whether the licensing authorities should not be empowered by law to grant to certain hotels and restaurants, if in their opinion a reasonable demand therefor exists, the right to serve beverages to bona fide guests, who have registered in the licensed place on a Sunday for food or lodging. We do not hesitate to say unequivocally that we favor such legislation.

We cannot concur in the recommendation for additional legislation on the subject of revocation of licenses. Ample power to bring about the revocation of a license for cause already exists in our laws.

Finally, we lay stress upon the fact that the excise question has been a most disturbing agitation, during which endless turmoil have flowed frequent changes in the law. The result has been that no plan has been given sufficient permanence to afford a fair test of its efficacy. It has not yet been shown that any radical changes should be made in the existing laws of this State. If there are to be such changes, we believe the above recommendations are fair and reasonable.

THE GIRL AND HER POINT OF VIEW.

So many young girls leave home, says Katherine Moody Spalding, because they are ambitious to do the greater things in the world that they need about the home doing. Surprise to the making of home pleasant for the dear father and mother and looking after the comfort of brothers and sisters.

It is natural for some to be great, but not all can be spared to fill these high places. Duty comes first.

Ambition is commendable, and we are glad when we see it in young folks, but one must not mistake restless spirit or a covetous one, for a worthy ambition. There is a marked difference between them.

Some girls are forced by circumstances to leave home to earn wages. To such we would say, do the best you can, be noble and keep your womanliness and femininity unmarred by the friction with the world. Do that which is the most congenial to you and to which you are adapted. You will be honored as a brave girl.

But if doing so would it not be better for the daughter to remain home, whose presence in its is a comfort to her family, whose manners are polished until charming by the love she bears herself by the devotion to her town, we would urge that she be contented to stay right there until Prince Charming claims her for his own kingdom. She will grace it all the more beautifully and be all the dearer to those who come into its life for being trained by a home under the wings of a good mother and father.

So many girls fret against the restrictions of home that their parents are glad to get them into some office or business where they will be more contented. Is this fair to the child trained in love under God during the years of helpless infancy? Does not the girl owe them something beside the privilege of feeding and clothing her?

Perhaps a mother might do well to put some of her household responsibilities on her daughter's shoulders, so that she may have less leisure in which to get restless. But if doing so would it not be wise to give her some pay for it so that she can have the coveted pin money which makes her chum independent? Get at the root of the matter. This is a wage-a-day world and we need not be surprised that our girls get the fever in their blood and listen impatiently to call of the office. Dishwashing and mending seem very commonplace and unattractive with being dressed up all day and playing the keys of a typewriter. Girls love pretty things and see thus a way to get them, but if this means sacrificing the home, selfishly leaving work they should do to older and weaker hands, and giving up the pretty charm of the sheltered home girl, is not the cost very great? Can they afford to do this thing for the sake of personal vanity?—The Philadelphia Inquirer.

COATS AND COLORS FOR EVERY-DAY WEAR.

Colors come and colors go, but good old blue goes on forever.

Year in and year out, the school coat of dark blue serge holds its own against all rivals. The reason for this is not far to seek. The color is subdued, but not sombre, and the material sheds the dust. Blue will accord with almost any other shade; it becomes a youthful face, and it lends itself readily to supplementary adornment.

Some of the blue serge coats now worn by school-girls—the majority of these are shaped similarly to those developed in black and white checks—are brightened with huge buttons of gold and silver, showing some tinge of the dark blue in their incrustations.

Other blue coats of this class have black and white checked silk collars and cuffs, and nearly all have little neckties of black or dark blue satin, with tiny gilt tassel-finished ends.

MR. RANDOLPH ON ATHENS

The Banker - Poet Vividly Pictures the Capital of Ancient Attica.

THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES.

Illustrated Lecture is Much Enjoyed By the Men's Club of the First Baptist Church.

Before the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, Monday, L. V. F. Randolph gave a delightful illustrated lecture on "Athens and the Eleusinian Mysteries." The speaker has traveled considerably abroad and last night's talk was descriptive of one of the most interesting trips taken by him through Athens. The lecture was also highly instructive and the large audience present and many expressions of pleasure were heard afterward. The views were especially fine and gave all an excellent idea of the country discussed.

In part Mr. Randolph spoke as follows:

"Neither in its traditions nor in its physical position does Greece seem to belong to Europe. It is a fond, whose far-stretching toes daily wash the waves of the Mediterranean. On one side of its foot comes down the Aegean Sea on the other, that which was the father of Athens than of Greece that we now speak; and ancient Athens was the capital of Attica. Here we have a country and a nation in miniature. All of Attica covered a space containing about seven hundred square miles, nearly the average size of an American county. But from this nation of Lilliputian dimension went forth the power of a giant.

"It was the very smallness and poverty of Attica, and of its city, Athens, that helped to stimulate the energy and purpose of the able and brilliant men who had there found a home. This was ever, and still is, one of the most striking examples of all history, of the truth declared by Paul to the Corinthians, that God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and things which are not to bring to naught things that are.

"Christopher Wordsworth, writing on the extent and influence of Attica, wonder is at this small province, confined within these narrow bounds, yet stretching itself, like a living Agent, from its contracted limits, by vigorous growth, elastic energy, and expansive activity to a comprehensive vastness, and yet to a kind of intellectual omnipresence upon the surface of the earth. 'There is,' he says, 'no region of the civilized world which is not breathed on by the air of Attica. The works of the architect and of the sculptor in every quarter of the globe speaks of Athens.'

"Even our manufacturers are imprinted with her ornaments; the galleries of Princes and States, the temples and palaces, the libraries and council rooms of capitol cities pay homage to Athens, and will do so forever. To Attica, therefore, it was due that when a channel of general communication was most needed, there existed a common language in the world, and that this language was Greek; or that, to express it, that there was at the time of the propagation of the Gospel, a tongue in which it could be preached to the whole world.

"The population of modern Greece is somewhat over two and a half millions, and the number of Greeks of it is to be found in Athens and in her twin city and Port, Piraeus, where the increase has been by doubling and trebling within a dozen years. Greek merchants, who have amassed their fortunes abroad, return to make this city their home.

"Then again, the world at large is today more than ever before interested in Greece. Free, progressive, modern, Christian Greece, so near to Turkey, but no longer under her control—an object lesson which explains, economizes the travelers love to visit and contemplate. To this, add the glamour and the glory of ancient Greece, of the Greece that endowed the earlier ages with her art, and culture, and of the Greece, which, as we have shown, furnished the language for the presentation of the Gospels in a classical language (which is well nigh identical with the language of today) and one may cease to wonder that the citizens of all countries come hither, bringing homage. But the most powerful influence for bringing foreign travelers consists in her peculiar antiquities, and with these is closely associated the romantic setting in which these jewels are displayed. Surely, the unique aspect of Athens, in the combination of her natural charms and her splendid relics, entitle her to peculiar praise.

"At its portal, on the day of our arrival, we enjoyed our first grand view of the Acropolis. It was perhaps an hour before sunset; and the sun's rays, streaming through the dark shafts of Pentelic marble which remain to adorn the Acropolis after the vicissitudes of thousands of years, seemed to transform them into alabaster, and then almost to transfigure them with a supernal and golden transparency. After this, we could not be satisfied until we had ourselves stood on the spot, so replete with physical beauty and with precious associations; and before the day had closed we had left Lykabettos and had climbed the Acropolis.

"On this rocky elevation, overlooking Athens and the Attica Plain and its environment of handsome hills, stood three edifices, each of which has been called a Temple; and on this rock were also three famous statues of Athens. We make repeated visits to the Acropolis, and wonder and wonder amongst its ruins.

"A view of Athens and of Salamis and the sea, equally fine with that to be seen from the Acropolis, is to be had from the Hill of Philippapos, on which stands the remnant of a monument to Antiochus the Fourth, who was dethroned by Vespasian. Our later excursions were to the phyx and the Areopagus both of which in Athens' ancient days heard the voices of her great orators and the declarations of wisdom and of judgment. More than a mention should be given to the noble Temple of the Olympian Zeus. After standing for nearly or some 700 of which it was finished by the Emperor Hadrain, and its impressive remnants may still be found near the Hadrian Arch.

"We looked in at the Stadium, where the Pan-Anthenia games were held so long ago as 330 B. C., and similar games are where again they have recently been held, following the splendidly worthy restoration of the modern patriot-Greek.

"We cannot turn our backs upon Athens without seeking to delve a little, as it were, in the ancient Eleusinian mysteries which were so closely associated with her religious thought in the time of her greatest glory, and which were amongst the last of the priceless possessions and treasures to which this devoted people fondly clung.

"This journey covered a distance of twelve miles, and was performed on foot, and by torchlight, under the direction of the priests or spiritual authorities. They had charge of what were known as the Minor Mysteries, celebrated in the spring, and of the Major Mysteries, celebrated in the early autumn, that is, at the time of the September full-moon. Certain sacred objects were kept as treasures in what was known as the Telesterion of Eleusis. Whatever these Eleusinian mysteries were, they must have been stunningly devised to affect the art-loving and sensuous Athenian nature, or they must have contained elements of culture and of grandeur.

"Meditating on these things, and wondering how much of the cult might have been a truly divine inspiration and preparation for a more perfect enlightenment to follow, and, on the other hand, how much of it as granted on modern faith was but a wild olive-graft, that should be cut out and destroyed, we stood and mused amidst the ruins of Eleusis.

"Truly the spirit of poetry is the breath of God. Not always may the ancient Greek have clearly comprehended the divine message. Not always does the modern Christian catch its deep, mystical meaning. Our minds are veiled and soiled with the grossness of our earthly imprisonment, but, in the halcyon days to come, to all who can reach after and seize the truth, the sweet inexpressible longings of ardent and poetic soul will find their affulgent realization in a light even more celestial and enchanting than that which descends at dazzling sunset upon the Athenian Acropolis."

THE EMPIRE ROBE.

Is it to go?

Indeed, no, the empire gown is not declining in favor, and the clever arrangement of this season's fashion will make it more popular than ever. The very short waist is finished with wide plaited shoulder bands, and the little square between the two wide pieces is shirred very full and banded with fine Oriental braid, the same as the shoulder pieces, which has a tiny square neck and shoulder puff sleeves. Last season the prim little short skirt to the empire was was quite the rage, though this type shows a very full skirt and a train. Naturally, the bands are all primly placed. One dress made in this style showed the outlining braid on the shoulders extending in strips to the very hem. The short waist was girdled with a soft fold of silk.

A Good Climax.

Robert Herrick, the Chicago novelist, was talking at a dinner about the effect of climax.

"That was a good climax," he said smiling, "that occurred the other night during a temperance address out in the stock yard district.

"The orator, highly excited, cried—

"'See the effects of drink—an empty life, an empty morality, an empty pocket, an——'

"And, worst of all, interrupted a shabby red-nosed man, 'an empty bottle!'"—Washington Star.

The Newest Paper.

Woven in a most exquisite shade of cream bisque writing paper, which is of an Irish linen weave, the latest creation has the monogram of the writer stamped in black enamel. The effect is rather unique, as the monogram is placed with each initial lower than the preceding one. Eighty-five cents will buy a pound of the paper, including envelopes and a monogram.

The North Plainfield Social Club will give a dance at Saengerbund hall December 29. W. Johnson is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

FERGUSON WANTS HIS $2

It Was Stolen During a Social Call and He Accuses "Punchie" Lewis.

YOUNG WOMAN WAXES ANGRY.

Alludes to the Complainant as a "Chipmunk," Which Produces a Vigorous Protest to the Contrary.

Albert Ferguson, a chunky-built colored gentleman with an accent as broad as a Kentucky colonel's, paid a social call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Betts, of Arlington avenue, Saturday night. While he was there someone stole $2 of his hard earned money and as he had every reason to believe that Miss Henrietta Lewis was the purloiner, he had her haled before Judge Runyon in the city court Tuesday morning.

Miss Henrietta, who is known to her particular friends by the somewhat significant title of "Punchie," indignantly denied criticising the two dollars, but some sayings that must have made Al grow pale beneath his sable skin, for, seemed to shrink even smaller than his five feet two and before he could recover his composure, the young woman had advanced several arguments to show she was surely innocent of the accusation. In his complaint to the police, Al said he took some money out of his pocket to put a few pennies in the Christmas bank of the young Betsee and while doing so laid the $2 bill on a table. It was taken by someone during a moment that his back was turned. "Punchie" sure must have copped it, he said, because she was the only one nearby.

"My goodness," said "Punchie," when Judge Runyon asked her to give her side, "whadda yuh suppose I'd want with dat $2 bill for? I worked for white people where there was sixteen thousand dollars layin' around and Ah never took a cent. Anyway, A'd rather give $2 to the court than be standin' here like a couple a' chipmunks."

"Ah ain't no chipmunk," said Al, and he looked as if he was ready to fight if the assertion was repeated.

"Ye-es, yuh are," exclaimed "Punchie." "You're a chipmunk if yuh say Ah took that money. An' look here—how could yuh have $2 when you plowed to a dozen beaules of beer and a quart of wine?"

"Ah didn't, Ah didn't," expostulated Al. "Ah only got a dozen beer; they warn't no sam. Eh-Ah did, Ah had the $2 an' was an' yuh took it an' yuh know sah did. Mis' Agens saw yuh have it, too."

"Would it be possible for you to produce Miss Agens so that your somewhat misconception of facts might be corroborated?" asked Judge Runyon at this juncture.

"Wha-wha's that?" asked Al, who wasn't sure whether the court was "coddling" him or explaining a point of law. "Ah don't jes' exactly understand."

"Why, I simply want to know if Miss Agens will come here and say she saw 'Punchie' have the money."

"O, yes, she kin be in co't tomorrow," said Al, and the $2 case was adjourned until she is produced.

ANGER AND THE CONSTITUTION

Every time you give way to impatience or anger you shorten your life by a calculable portion of time. The next time you get very angry just study yourself during the reactionary period. You will notice that you are very depressed and sad, that your blood is sluggish and that your digestion is all wrong. The reason of this is that in your moment of anger you expended three or four times the ordinary amount of bodily tissue. As a consequence, you cannot be your normal self until the overdrawn tissue is replaced. You will not that people with very bad tempers never live very long, the excessive drafts upon the physical makeup eventually exhausting the latter. A certain amount of reasonable anger, as occasion may require, often, however gets upon the system as a veritable tonic.

Even Honors.

One of the Tammany delegates at the Denver convention was approached by an old acquaintance who was badly down in his luck. Sidling up to the Tammanyite he said:

"Say, Billy, lend me twenty. I'll you? I'm short."

The New Yorker went down into his pocket, fished out a big roll and handed a ten-dollar bill to the seedy one.

"Say, Billy," said he of the touch, "I said twenty."

"I know you did," said the politician." "but I think this way is fairer. You lose ten and I lose ten. See?"—Success Magazine.

STRAY HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

A variety from potato cakes is to warm over the mashed potatoes in a double boiler, adding more butter, milk and a little cheese.

If boiling water instead of cold is used in making iced tea for pulverized sugar, it is less apt to form.

If a cracked egg is wrapped in oiled paper before put in water the contents will not ooze.

STATE'S BIRTHPLACE WAS NOT HADDONFIELD

In spite of the fact that the Legislature of 1900 appropriated $1,500 for the purchase of the old tavern property at Haddonfield, Camden county, and the place is now cared for by a historical society as the hallowed spot in which the Provincial Congress of New Jersey, in 1776 decided to change the name from "Cojony" to "State," Dr. Carol E. Godfrey, historical attache of the adjutant-general's department, has just unearthed documentary evidence proving that it was in Trenton that this change was made.

The place of the congregational meeting at that time was either in the tavern of Rensellaer Williams, called "The Royal Oak," or the tavern of Mrs. Rachel Stelle, both of which were on what is now South Warren street and both of which have long since been torn down. The change of name was made here on July 18, 1776.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Convulsions caused the sudden death in Camden yesterday of George Hooper, forty years old, of 2214 Division street. Coroner Lindfield gave a certificate.

William Kindle, a glassworker of Clayton, fell under a wheelbarrow load of broken glass Saturday and received a gash in his leg that required ten stitches to close.

Receiving word late Saturday night that the law prohibited the keeping of cattle in a car longer than thirty-six hours, Constable Price was made with a car from Vineland to the Millville Stock Yards of seven miles in less than six minutes.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Monmouth, Ocean and Burlington counties is to be held at Meiers hall, New Egypt, Saturday night, for the purpose of making arrangements for the completion of State roads joining the New Egypt-Lakewood road now being built.

When a stove exploded at the confectionery shop of A. Michael, at 1204 Broadway, Camden, yesterday afternoon, Policeman Brothers carried the stove into the street and Policeman Haines extinguished what there was left of the flames with a broom. The damage was slight.

Burglars robbed the cottage of David Wile, on Pacific avenue, Atlantic City, last night, and set fire to the house to cover their tracks. The cottage was badly damaged. The family, who were on the Boardwalk, cannot tell the amount of money and other loot obtained by the thieves.

When Clara Short refused to leave the home of Mervine Turner yesterday the husband of the woman shot them both. Mrs. Short's injury was in the right knee and Turner was shot in the right arm. The shootings took place at Turner's home, Thirtieth and Howell streets, Camden. All are negroes.

A sensation was caused in the social set in Atlantic City when Thos. J. Dickerson, former banker and department store proprietor, announced that he intended to settle permanently in the Philippines. Mrs. Dickerson is going also. His son-in-law, L. G. Salmon, bank director, and his wife contemplate going away with them to the other side of the world.

Plunging headlong down the steps of St. Paul's M. E. church, Atlantic City, Saturday, John R. Mason, an aged colored man, broke his neck and laid in agony on the sidewalk until he was discovered by others of the congregation attending a special service. He was taken to the hospital, where surgeons fear that the shock and suffering may have serious results.

A little boy hurried into police headquarters, Paterson, last evening and said his father had a knife above his mother's head and was threatening to kill the woman. As soon as Sergeant Perry learned the name of the offending Walter Drummond, he inquired for no further particulars, but dispatched the wagon to 83 Cross street. Drummond was removed and placed in the lockup.

All last night Woodbury's three policemen, with a score of twenty specials, searched for the man who robbed the home of Walter L. Howdy, in Cooper street, early in the evening. The family had been away all day. Three gold watches with other jewelry, are missing. A quantity of silver ware had been wrapped ready for removal, but the return of the family frustrated the thief's plans.

"It is easier to secure contributions of money from the average congregation today than it is to secure individual assistance in the administration of spiritual and other works of the church," was the declaration of the new minister, Rev. Birney S. Hudson, to his congregation of the First Baptist church, Atlantic City, Sunday. He came here from Hastings, Neb., and is known for his independence of thought.

Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M., at its meeting Monday night made nomination of officers. They were left open for two weeks. The election will be held Monday night, December 23.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XL. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1908. NO. 52.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Censure of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

SOME XMAS PROGRAMS

Midnight Mass at St. Joseph's Church Will Be an Impressive Service.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR SUNDAY.

Elaborate Music the Feature in All the Churches in Both Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Elaborate music, as usual, will be the feature of the Christmas Day services. Here are some of the programs already announced:

St. Joseph's Church.

Arrangements for the midnight mass at St. Joseph's church, Christmas Eve, have been completed by Rev. William H. Miller, the rector, and it has been decided that admission to the church this year will be by ticket only. The crowd, heretofore, has been so great that the worshippers have been disturbed and therefore passes limited to the seating capacity can be obtained from Father Miller.

Father Brennan will be the celebrant, a Passionate Father from Hoboken the deacon and Father Miller the sub deacon. The music will be in accordance with the decree of the Pope, strictly Cecilian and Gregorian. The selections will include "Mass of the Angels," by Biedermann, and "Adeste Fidelis," by Novello, as an offertory. The chorus choir of men and boys will be in charge of James Bailey, director. Mrs. Harry DeMera will preside at the organ. The musical features will include a duet by Alfred La Porte and James Bailey. Father Miller will preach the sermon.

The other masses on Christmas morning will be at 8:30 and 10:30 in charge of Father Miller.

Warren Chapel.

Elaborate Christmas services have been arranged for Warren chapel on Sunday. There will be special music morning and evening with an extra program for the Sunday-school in the afternoon. An orchestra will assist Mrs. Ralph O. McKelvey, organist, will have charge of the music to be rendered by the chorus choir. The morning program will be as follows:

Carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," Mendelssohn, choir; organ prelude, "Shepherd's Pastorale," Leybach, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; response to the Commandments, Sir George Elvey; anthem, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flock," T. Edwin Solly, choir; offertory anthem, "The Birth of Christ," J. The Sunday-school exercises will be held at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon, consisting of recitations, and songs by the primary department, carols by the entire school, assisted by Martin A. Korff and Robert Stewart, violins; Elmer Wheeler, flute; William Dunn, organist, and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, pianist. James Sanley, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church quartet, will sing twice and the address of the afternoon will be delivered by James E. Church.

The evening program at 8 o'clock will be as follows:

Organ prelude, "He Shall Feed His Flock," (from the Messiah), Handel, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; anthem, "The Heavenly Stranger," Charles Gabriel, choir; offertory solo, "Nazareth," Gounod, Miss Nora B. Schenck; postlude, "Praeludium," C. G. Stanger, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor, will preach both morning and evening.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Announcement is made of the special services to be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. There will be holy communion at 7 and 8 o'clock and at 10:30 there will be a choral celebration and sermon by the rector, Rev. Charles Monday evening at 7 o'clock, to be followed by a play given by the children in the parish house and the distributions of gifts.

Highland A. C. Elect Officers.

The Highland A. C., prominent in local baseball circles last season, opened its new club-rooms on East Third street, last night, and discussed plans for the winter. The club has a membership of eighteen. These officers were chosen for the year: President, Eddie Conshay; vice-president, Howard Stewart; secretary and treasurer, John Kyle, superintendent of the building, Thomas Higgins; executive committee, H. Winters, I. Curtis and George Hurst. After the business refreshments were served.

MISS MARY G. RUNKLE INTRODUCED IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, gave a reception and dance at their home, last night, for their daughter, Miss Mary Grey Runkle, the occasion marking her introduction to local society. It was a charming affair attended by two hundred guests, including many people from out of town. The decorations were appropriate to Christmastide, there being a tasteful arrangement of holly and flowers. Holly was used chiefly in the large hall, while the prevailing color in the dining room was white. In the billiard room, where the guests danced, there was a novel arrangement of little incandescent lights, together with holly.

Miss Runkle was the recipient of a wealth of beautiful flowers from friends, and she was also showered with congratulations and best wishes. Those assisting in receiving by Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Miss Dorothy Fisk, Miss Louise Booth, Miss Annie Fisk and Miss Molly Perkins, of this city; Miss Katherine Gardner, of Georgetown, Va.; Miss Louise Polhemus, of Newark; Miss Dorothy Smith, of Germantown, Pa., and Miss Mercy Lloyd, of Brooklyn.

After the reception the rest of the evening was devoted to dancing, music for which was furnished by Elliott, of New York. Later an elaborate supper was served by an out-of-town caterer. The guests included nearly all of the younger society set of the city and borough, as well as many from out-of-town.

CHARITY DAY AND NIGHT. COME ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

"Charity Day and Night," December 31, will afford the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield an opportunity to contribute to the charities of the city, including the Organized Aid, the Children's Home, Muhlenberg Hospital and the Day Nursery. The committee of arrangements, of which Mayor Charles J. Fisk is the chairman, has secured the co-operation of the proprietors of the amusement places in Plainfield to contribute the profits from their entertainments to the charities named, and the success of the plan seems already assured.

The proceeds and contributions received will be deposited in a general charities fund, to be distributed by a committee of citizens, one to be appointed by each of the institutions and one by the general committee. Contributions may be sent to Mayor C. J. Fisk, chairman, or William F. Arnold, treasurer, or any member of the committee, comprised of Joseph A. Shallabarger, Harry L. Hall, William C. Kinney, F. W. Butler, L. G. Timpson, Dr. F. C. Ard, and David T. Keaney.

The attractions for the day and night will include George M. Cohan's big musical success, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," with a cast of forty people. This will be given at the New Plainfield theatre, afternoon and evening at regular theatre prices. Tickets are now on sale.

At Proctor's theatre, there will be a strong attraction offered, including the Canarsie-Rose vaudeville, moving pictures, illustrated songs, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning and running continuously throughout the day and evening until 10:30 o'clock. The latest pictures will be shown.

Moving picture shows will also be the attraction at the Bijou theatre and the Park theatre on East Front street, arrangements having been made to offer exceptional programs for the day and evening.

In addition there will be the "Bachelor's Dance" at the Hartridge School auditorium. J. Hartley Mellick is chairman of the committee in charge and C. Ames Brooks the treasurer. The profits from all these affairs will go into the charity fund, and everybody is requested to contribute their share toward making sunshine where shadows fall.

Timbo Social Club Elects.

At the annual meeting of the Timbo Social Club, last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Alden E. Wagner; vice-president, Isaac L. Elliott; secretary, J. Archibald Davie; treasurer, Erwin Y. Neighbor. The reports showed the membership to be close the 100 mark while the club's finances are in excellent condition. During the coming winter months, the organization will conduct several smokers and other social affairs for the members and their friends.

—As a special Christmas vegetable offering, Neuman Brothers will have twenty-five dozen bunches of fancy table celery tomorrow. Place orders early.

"JOHN JONES" SENTENCED

Negro Suspected of Shooting William Messerschmidt Gets Two Months in Jail.

CONCEALED WEAPON CHARGE.

Victim Positively Identifies Him and He Will Again Be Arraigned in Court When Time Is Up.

"John Jones," the negro arrested on suspicion after the shooting of William Messerschmidt at his home on Washington street, by an unknown man, several weeks ago, was arraigned before Judge Atwater in the Union county court, this morning and sentenced to two months in jail. While he is suspected of being Messerschmidt's assailant and has positively been identified by the latter, the only charge against him so far is that of carrying a concealed weapon, a revolver having been found in his possession when she was arrested. While he is serving his sentence, the local police will get their evidence in shape in order to prefer an additional charge of felonious assault with intent to kill.

Messerschmidt visited local police headquarters Monday and picked out Jones from a number as one of the man with whom he had grappled in the dark at his home, having surprised him in a burglarious search. Yesterday he went to the county jail and when "Jones" was brought before him he declared without hesitation that he was the assailant. The prisoner has denied all along that he was near Messerschmidt's home on the night in question and maintains that he came to Plainfield to visit a friend. He first said he lived in Williamsport, Pa., but later changed it to Philadelphia.

It is alleged by the police that Messerschmidt's identification of "Jones" was not accomplished according to their plans because of objection on the part of Warden Dodd, of the county jail. They intended that the suspect should be lined up with a dozen other prisoners but when Detective-Sergeant Flynn made the request, he was told that it would not be granted. He reported to Chief Kiely over the telephone and the latter appealed to the prosecutor but Dodd, it is said remained obdurate. He declared that "Jones" would be brought out alone and in no other way. Because of a court trial, the officials could not very well be reached and the warden was finally allowed to have his way.

The police maintain that it was very important that Messerschmidt's remembrance of his assailant should be put to a thorough test in order to be fair to "Jones" and the only way to do this was to place him in line with other men.

LOCAL SOCIETY GREETS LABRADOR MISSIONARY

A reception to Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell given by Mrs. Percy H. Stewart at the Park Club yesterday afternoon was attended by nearly 400, a gathering that amply testified to the popularity of the doctor and to the interest that is being taken in his work in Labrador.

Dr. Grenfell spoke of the hospital and religious work among the fishermen on the northern coast. The Hungarian Band of New York, supplied the musical program and refreshments were served. Flowers and plants helped to carry out the color scheme in the dining room of red and green. Palms, ferns and evergreen in abundance were tastily arranged about the room.

Among those who assisted Mrs. Stewart in receiving were: Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mrs. Elliot T. Barnes, Mrs. Edward D. Ladd, Mrs. Frederick Mead, Miss Mead, Mrs. R. S. Rowland, Miss Rowland, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Miss Hegeman, Mrs. Thomas B. Newell, Mrs. Francis de L. Hyde, Mrs. William F. Tallaferro, Mrs. Eugene Moore, Miss Ida Stewart, Mrs. Alfred Stewart, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Mrs. James R. Joy, Miss Elsie Goddard, Mrs. George Mellick, Mrs. Frederick Yates, Miss Amy Tapping, Miss Mosier, Mrs. Thomas Ewing, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Wallace, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. J. D. Miller, Miss Huntington.

—The circulating department of the Plainfield public library will be closed on Christmas Day. The reading room will be open in the afternoon from 2 until 6.

GRENFELL ON LABRADOR

His Hospital Ship Cruising Among the Ice Bergs Has Saved Many Lives.

RELIGIOUS AND MEDICAL AID.

Fishermen of Northern Coast Benefitted by the Missionary Invasion—Stereopticon Picture Proves to be Instructive.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, noted surgeon, master mariner and missionary, who is devoting his life's work to the Labrador, delivered a remarkably interesting lecture at the City High School auditorium last night to a large audience. Stereopticon views furnished vivid impressions of the beautiful scenery and general characteristics of the country.

Dr. Grenfell's hospital ship cruises up and down the Labrador coast, rendering medical aid to the fishermen and their families. At a number of the ports he has established hospitals, in which are assistant physicians and nurses. In addition to caring for the sick, the sanitary conditions are looked after, as tuberculosis is the most prevailing disease they have to combat. The natives had been accustomed to closing the windows tight to keep out the cold, fuel being scarce, and breathing only foul air. The expense of the work is borne by contributions from all over the world and from all classes of people.

The fishermen were described as being of a very pliable temperament, due to their life in the open air. The natives generally are sober and naturally religious, he said. The evidences of superhuman power were everywhere about them, and they therefore had a predisposition to believe in anything else than one's self. They could see God's work for themselves.

There was no superfluous wealth and no established government. Dr. Grenfell is the acting magistrate but he had not had many cases to try. When he was away on a cruise the litigants must wait until he returned and in the meantime would often adjust the differences among themselves. There were no lawyers and the speaker declared that he could not see that the cases were any slower in being disposed of because of that fact. There were but few saloons, the liquor laws being adequate and easily administered. A small jail had been built at one place but was finally turned into a clubhouse and sometimes in overflow of patients from the hospital were treated in it.

Pictures of huge icebergs thrown on the screen brought applause from the audience. The effects of these massive cakes of ice floating into a harbor was said to be comparable to a great degree by a change of temperature, and they were a remarkable addition to the aesthetic side of Labrador.

Codfish was named as the principal food supply, though salmon and halibut are plentiful. Sperm whales were sometimes captured and there were many fur bearing animals. A herd of 250 reindeer had been brought from Siberia for use on the sledges, there being too few dogs for the requirements. Lumber mills were being built and mat making, weaving and spinning taught. Seal fishing is also one of the principal industries.

Many interior and exterior views of the hospitals were shown, including patients on cots endowed by various persons living in their country and in England.

Students from Yale, Harvard, Oxford and other colleges often spent their vacation months on the coast and are giving valuable assistance in the work being carried on, especially in improving the sanitary conditions. When a typhoid or tuberculosis patient should be taken to the hospital, a fumigation of the home was made before the person returned to it.

Dr. Grenfell told of receiving the best Christmas present of his life. It came when he was about to take part in the distribution of presents, and was injured boy who had been hurt by the explosion of powder. He was able to save the child's life and restore him to his parents and in so doing he believed he was carrying out the true spirit of Christmas, viz: doing something to make some one else happy. The boy had been brought by his father in a box on a sled drawn by dogs from a distant place, and the other children, seeing the strange outfit and not knowing its true nature, supposed it was Santa Claus and were greatly impressed.

The doctor said he had been called upon to do many strange things. Once a man asked him to make a proposition of marriage for him to a girl in another town, which he did and in so doing made two engagements.

WANT PICTURE RETAINED

Movement Started to Have the Lincoln Portrait Kept on Five Cent Stamps.

MOST APPROPRIATE NEXT YEAR

Senator Ackerman Believes People Will Support the Plan—Celebration of Anniversary February 12.

Believing it to be a mistake to remove Lincoln's picture from the five cent postage stamp, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, as a member of the Royal Philatelic Society, has started a movement looking toward the retention of the Martyr-President's face on the stamp. Among his strongest arguments in favor of this is that it has been used on the stamp for forty years and its removal will take the issue back to the early 70's.

Another argument is that next year the country will celebrate the birth centennial of Lincoln and that it is an honor due to the memory of the great President to retain his picture on the stamp. He believes that the people of the whole country will join in favoring this idea and the Senator declares that the movement has only begun. Since Postmaster-General Meyer, who communicated with President Roosevelt with a view to preventing the removal of Lincoln's picture. The President at once took the matter up with the Postmaster General, and the latter informed him that all the plates for the new issue were made and he regretted his inability to comply with the request at present. There is one hope, however, that possibly President-elect Taft may appoint a successor to Mr. Meyer and the desired end may be obtained in the near future.

CHILDREN IN BOROUGH CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

Suit Against Local Man.

Honan H. Beals, of New York, a wholesale dealer in brass goods, has commenced suit in the Supreme Court to recover $196.50 from David S. Dunavan, of this city. He alleges that the money is due for materials furnished, while Dunavan has filed a plea denying that he is in the debt of Beals. The case will be heard before Supreme Court Justice Bergen and a jury at Elizabeth during the January term. Beals is represented by Judge William Newcorn.

ASKS $7,000 DAMAGES FROM TROLLEY COMPANY

Through his counsel, Craig A. Marsh, William C. Chamberlain, the local painting contractor, has commenced suit in the New Jersey Supreme court to recover $7,000 damages from the Public Service Corporation for injuries received in an accident at Third and Richmond streets last June. The action is one of the most important coming from this city in the past year and will be heard before Judge Bergen at Elizabeth.

In his complaint, Chamberlain alleges that on June 27 he was driving along Richmond street, near East Third, with four of his workmen in his business wagon when a trolley car belonging to the defendant company came up behind and crashed into the vehicle. He claims that it was running at a high rate of speed, that the motorman was careless and that no warning gong was sounded. Continuing his complaint, Chamberlain states that the collison knocked himself and his four men out of the wagon and that as a result he has been premanently injured, that he suffers continued pain and that he has been unable to give proper attention to his business. His horse was injured, he says, and the paints and other material in the vehicle at the time were destroyed.

The amount of damages asked by Chamberlain is much higher than that ordinarily demanded in a case of this kind and the result will be awaited with interest. It is possible that other suits will be brought by the workmen who were in the wagon at the time the accident occurred.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF HARRY B. SUYDAM

Funeral services over Councilman Harry Bennett Suydam, the curb broker, who was killed by John C. Lumsden, a New York inventor, were held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest this afternoon. Rev. Charles Townsend, the rector, officiated. Interment was made later at Elmwood cemetery, New Brunswick.

Huge masses of floral tributes covered the casket and adorned the chancel of the pretty little edifice which was thronged by business associates, personal friends and local politicians who came there to pay their last respects to a man they admired and esteemed. The casket was placed at the foot of the chancel during the impressive service. The entire membership of the Commoa Council attended the service. Many of the dead man's fellow curb brokers were among the mourners and there was also a goodly representation from the Men's Club of the Heavenly Rest church, of which Mr. Suydam was recently elected president.

The pall bearers were Councilmen Herbert Buxton and Charles C. Randolph; George Hooley and William Miller, brokers, and Juan Babcock and William Arrowsmith.

TWO DRINKS MADE WURGAND TRY TO KILL AN INDIAN.

Arraigned in the city court this morning, on a charge of intoxication, William Wurgand, an undersized German, made the startling assertion that only two drinks of whiskey had been responsible for his giving battle to a wooden Indian in front of a cigar store, yesterday afternoon. He was trying his best to knock the face off the stoical Big Chief when Patrolman Dobson happened along and saved the tobacco dealer the cost of a new sign.

"I was excited over the purchase of a Christmas tree" was the way William put it when Judge Kunyon asked for an explanation; "I got all upset because I couldn't get what I wanted and I took two drinks of whiskey; just two and no more. I can't understand how I came to be scrappy."

The court tried to make him admit that he had gotten away with more than two hookers but he held fast to his original assertion. His honor suspended sentence "because it was Christmas time" but warned William if two drinks induced him to go on the war path he had better climb on the water wagon for a long stay.

DEFENDS REFORM LAWS

State Senator Ackerman Says Party Cannot Afford to Take a Backward Step.

DIRECT PRIMARY MUST STAND.

Civil Service Also Should Not Be Tampered With—The Future of New Jersey.

Attacks made on recent political reform measures such as the direct primary, civil service and similar laws by Secretary of State Sam Dickinson and other "bosses" are denounced by Governor J. F. Fort, State Senator E. R. Ackerman, former State Senator Everett Colby and other independent Republicans. The Union county solon, in particular, strongly disapproves of the onslaughts and had no hesitation today in explaining his views.

In an interview with a representative of The Daily Press, State Senator Ackerman said:

"New Jersey cannot afford to take any backward steps. The people regard the Republican party as being aggressively committed to making sure on the statute books the legislation of recent years for it is responsible for the passage of the laws. It is this record which has enabled the Republican party to hold the confidence of the people and to continue in power. To repeal such measures as for instance the Direct Primary or the Civil Service laws, would at once place the Republican party on the defensive, producing a political situation both unwise and unwarranted, since the demands of the hour require that both laws should be upheld by the Republican party.

"The direct primary law, like any other new piece of legislation, may have shown some points which need strengthening but it has been clearly demonstrated by results that the people are interested and wish to take a direct and active part in the nomination of party candidates and the people will justly resent any interference with this right, but the question of the extension of the principle of direct primaries so as to abolish State conventions and platforms, and thereby destroying responsible party government presents a serious proposition which should be deeply and thoughtfully considered.

"The increasing power of the State and its municipalities urgently require that the Civil Service shall be based on merit and fitness, that an efficient and honest public employe shall be protected in the work for the people. The State Board of Tax Appeals has done for its work the same plane as a well conducted business organization.

"I am looking forward to the coming session of the Legislature with confidence. A majority of the members have had previous experience and it appears reasonably certain that no backward steps will be taken on the questions arising from the progressive reforms which have marked and made distinguished the administrations in our State since the people have placed the Republican party in power. The people are watchful and the Republican party to retain the voters' confidence must be equally watchful to save money, reduce taxation and amply protect all the interests of the people.

"Every session of the legislative body is always important and particularly so in a growing State like New Jersey, where vigilance must prevail so that legislative enactments shall not harm but shall encourage growth and development.

"Wise and safe laws to stimulate and protect labor and capital must continue in the interest of the great and varied manufacturers of the State—over 1,500 different lines of manufacture with its payroll of millions and its thousands of skilled operators.

"To keep within the boundaries of the State all these magnificent enterprises ought to be the ambition of every citizen and the policy which will produce that result lies along the pathway of caution. Those who may advocate radical legislation should be certain of its final effects on the peoples' business before proposing any great changes which might act to depress, decrease or destroy. The questions involved represent vital economic factors in the prosperity of the Commonwealth and everything must be done to maintain, to increase and to build.

"How will the work of the Legislature affect pensions and the finance?" queried the reporter. "The near future will see large additions to the population of the State and many of the questions arising from the deeds of greater communities will have to be carefully and rightly settled by legislation to thoroughly safeguard the interests and health of the people. This will not require

NO PICTURE OF LINCOLN

Mr. Ackerman Tries in Vain to Have Martyr-President's Portrait Kept on Stamps.

HE INTERESTS THE PRESIDENT

Chief Magistrate Finds That New Plates Are Made and Nothing Can Be Done.

The decision of the postal authorities to make a change in postage stamps, substituting the face of George Washington on all but the one cent stamp, upon which will be continued that of Benjamin Franklin, led State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, to use his influence to have Lincoln's picture retained on the five cent stamp, especially as next year the birth centennial of Lincoln will be celebrated.

Mr. Ackerman took the matter up by correspondence with President Roosevelt, as did also United States Senator John Kean, with a view to having Lincoln's picture continued on the stamps. The President sent a courteous reply and said that he would confer with Postmaster-General von Meyer about it. He was informed by Mr. von Meyer that all the plates for the new stamps were completed and that a change would now be impossible. Mr. Ackerman was promptly notified of this fact.

The Senator is one of the two American members of the Royal Philatelic Society, and it was for this reason as well as the fact that he is a member of a committee having in charge a celebration of Lincoln's birthday, that he became interested in the matter.

Mr. Ackerman is a member of the Union County Lincoln Celebration Committee.

MR. HUNTSMAN PROMINENT IN HIS RESIDENCE CITY.

In its issue of last evening, the Providence, R. I., Journal contained the following with reference to the death of John F. Huntsman, well known to many Plainfielders and the father of Robert F. R. Huntsman and John F. Huntsman, Jr., of this city, showing the prominence he enjoyed in his residence place:

"John F. Huntsman, for many years prominent in the business, religious and social life of this city, died at his home, 37 South Angell street, at an early hour this morning of angina pectoris. He had been ill only since last Friday, though for some time past his health had not been very good.

Mr. Huntsman was born near Burlington, Burlington county, N. J. He fitted for a teacher in the State Normal school of that State, and taught for a time in Newark Academy. In 1863 he became identified with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, in the home office in Newark.

He married Miss Zerrie S. Fitz-Randolph of Newark. In 1880 the family came to this city, and Mr. Huntsman became the representative of the Mutual Benefit Company in this locality. He retained this office for many years, retiring from active participation in business about two years ago.

Mr. Huntsman was active in many good works. He was a deacon in the High Street Presbyterian church of Newark for many years, and at the time of his death held the same office in the Union Congregational church of this city, where he was universally beoved.

"He was president of the Rhode Island Congregational Missionary Society for 20 years and had been a member of the executive committee of the National Congregational Home Missionary Society since its reorganization two years ago. He was also a member of the Art Club, the Economic Club, and was a member and former president of the Congregational club.

"Mrs. Huntsman and eight children, four sons and four daughters, survive him."

Columbia Lodge Entertains.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen, held its final meeting of the year last night, and in connection with the retirement of the present officers, Master Joseph D. Moon arranged for an informal entertainment, given by a clever sleight-of-hand performer of New York. He occupied the greater part of the program, after which refreshments were served. The officers-elect will be installed on January 15.

Going the Limit.

"Why, certainly I am," he answered.

"Well, suppose you go out and make a few of them with the pump handle. I am in need of a pail of water right away."—Bohemian.

CENTRAL DISCHARGES EIGHT CONDUCTORS

Following an investigation covering a period of many weeks, there has been a great shakeup among the passenger conductors on the New Jersey Central. As a result eight of the oldest "knights of the punch" have been discharged from their positions. In some instances the men have been in the employ of the company since 1883 and were considered most trustworthy. The reasons for the wholesale discharge are varied.

In some cases the conductors were accused of being short in their accounts, while numerous other infractions of rules were charged against others. One conductor, it is said, was accused of failing to give a passenger a refund slip in return for fare paid on the train. His explanation was that he was carrying such a large number of passengers that it was almost a physical impossibility for him to do this and collect all tickets before arriving at the destination.

Another conductor, it is said, was accused of carrying friends free, and when confronted with the statement replied that if he could not occasionally pass a friend he did not want the job. The shakeup has caused considerable anxiety among the other conductors as well, and it is said that the company is not yet through with its investigation. Most of the information concerning the discharged conductors was obtained by "spotters."

FURNACE BOILER BURSTS UNDER DUNELLEN BANK

A boiler explosion in the basement of the First National Bank at Dunellen Wednesday afternoon startled the entire borough, jarred the buildings on all sides and endangered at least twenty lives.

The water supply had become exhausted through carelessness, while there was a heavy fire in the furnace placed there that morning to heat up the hundreds. The first thing to give way was the safety plug on the outside of the building and it was driven almost through the wall of Paul Reusch's bakery, thirty feet distant. It is the plug alone that the occupants of the store and offices in that vicinity owe their escape from serious injury, for had it not been for that weak spot the steam would have accumulated more force and wrecked the entire plant.

The crash and shock was followed by a loud roar of rushing steam and a frantic scramble of the people to get into the street.

No one was injured and the damage to property was slight, but the shock to the nerves was considerable.

New Jersey Central Acquires Land.

The Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company has sold to the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, a strip of land, 70x1,000 feet on North avenue, adjoining property of the Natural Ice Company, the consideration being $1. It is understood that the railroad company will hold the land for extra trackage should it be found necessary in the future. So far as can be learned no other improvements are contemplated by the company. The tract fronts on North avenue and extends back to the railroad.

A Double Writing Table.

The furniture makers have put out a very good writing desk for a sitting-room. It has an upright centrepiece filled with pigeon-holes on both sides. There is a lid on each side which is large enough to be fitted out with the usual desk implements. Two people can sit at it comfortably without staring into each other's faces, as the centre upright is higher than the head.

Some Ribbons.

The newest ribbons come in styles which have coin dots for tie ends. The pieces are very neat. Often the coin is very flat and smooth, again it is raised and has the appearance of being embossed.

DOG'S BITE COSTS $250.

Westfield Man Must Pay Damages to S. E. Frazee Who Asked for $500.

DISTRICT COURT SO DECIDES.

Judge Newcorn Says The Defendant Knew That His Bulldog Was Vicious.

The fact that John H. Kimball, of Westfield, kept a bulldog that he knew to be vicious and yet did not use reasonable care to prevent it from biting people, was largely responsible for a $250 verdict for damages being rendered against him by Judge Newcorn, in the district court Thursday. The award was made in favor of Sidney E. Frazee, of this city, who was badly torn by the canine and who brought suit to recover $500. The case was heard in the District court last week.

In rendering his decision, Judge Newcorn stated that the evidence showed that Kimball was fully aware of the bulldog's tendency to bite people and yet he allowed it to roam about at will, giving it every opportunity to exercise its savage temperament. The animal was on premises other than that of its owners when it sprang upon Frazee as he entered the yard to deliver a grocery order. The plaintiff was bitten repeatedly before assistance arrived and the dog was driven off.

Frazee was compelled to relinquish for several weeks and was under a doctor's care as a result of the injuries he received. He showed in his case that he did not molest the animal that he had a right to be where he was and that the dog did not and that on previous occasions the canine had attacked other people. The court accepted the testimony and also that Kimball had been warned that if he did not keep his animal tied up, somebody would be badly hurt. The last mentioned point was an important factor in the summing up and the award of $250 to the plaintiff.

Frazee's side of the case was handled by Isaac P. Runyon while Kimball was represented by Winfield S. Angleman. The decision was given orally and until it is filed in writing it cannot be stated as to whether an appeal will be taken or not.

MRS. FANNY SUTPHEN DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Following a brief illness with heart failure, Mrs. Fannie A. Sutphen, widow of Dr. John C. Sutphen, who was a well-known physician of Plainfield, died suddenly at her home on East Seventh street, near Watchung avenue, Thursday morning. She had been in frail health for some time but had been confined to her bed only for the past few days. She was sitting up a part of yesterday and though it was known that her illness was one to cause alarm, the end was not expected so soon by the members of her family.

Mrs. Sutphen was born at Liberty Corner seventy-two years ago and moved to this city with her husband in 1868. Dr. Sutphen, at that time, was one of the best known practitioners in the county and was considered one of the first residents of Plainfield. He was associated with Mrs. Gilbert, who gained fame as an inventor and designed the first elevated railroad built in New York. Their office was located on Front street where the Schwed building now stands.

The Sutphen homestead was on West Second street, opposite No. 1 fire house, where the family resided for many years. Though kept very busy by his medical practice, Dr. Sutphen was induced by the citizens to run for mayor on the Democratic ticket in 1874 and was elected, serving two years. He died in 1878. The family moved to Seventh street about ten years ago.

Mrs. Sutphen was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and had always been identified with its work. In early life she was a member of many local organizations and was prominent in social affairs. With all she was a woman devoted to her home and she will always be kindly remembered for numerous acts of a charitable nature and a disposition that endeared her to all with whom she came in contact.

Mrs. Sutphen is survived by three daughters and six sons, all living in Plainfield with the exception of two, Mrs. Walter Bass, of Little Silver, and Julian Sutphen, of Brooklyn. She spent the entire summer at Mrs. Bass' home and returned here only two weeks ago.

CLEVELAND FUND IS NATIONAL IB SCOUP

A meeting of the Cleveland Monument Association was held Wednesday afternoon in the office of former United States Senator John F. Dryden, president of the Prudential Insurance company at Newark.

The best means of completing plans for the erection of a monument to the late former President were discussed, and it was finally decided to form a permanent corporation, with a board of twenty-five trustees, whose names will be given out on their acceptances of the office. Early on January next a meeting will be held, at which final steps will be taken and the corporation duly formed.

It was decided to raise a fund of $100,000, and also to have residents of other States contribute to the memorial. Many letters have been received by the committee in private citizens of other States asking that arrangements be made to handle their contributions to the fund, and asking that the movement be made a national one rather than one confined to the State of New Jersey.

Interest in the movement to honor one of the greatest Presidents the country has ever known has been shown very strongly over the country, and the gentlemen having the matter in hand so far have not the slightest doubt that the entire amount decided upon will be very easily obtained. New York, as the State in which Grover Cleveland occupied the highest offices in the gift of the people, New Jersey as his birthplace and residence after retirement, and the United States in general, over which he ruled for eight years—all are sure to be represented in the list of contributors.

DISTRICT COURT TRIALS FEW; 31 CASES ON LIST

Judgment for the defendant for $16 was given by Judge Newcorn in the District Court, this morning, in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Apgar against Frank Legge. The plaintiff sought to recover $15 which she claimed was due her for rent, but the defendant filed as a set-off a claim of $31 for rent over-paid. Judge Newcorn in giving the defendant a verdict, explained that the plaintiff had failed to substantiate her claim.

A considerable part of the morning session was taken up by the suit of Mrs. Mary Johnson against Louis Pollock, in which she tried to recover $25 for a horse she sold the *defendant. The latter has not rep*resented by counsel, while Francis J. Bentz appeared for the plaintiff. In the opinion of Judge Newcorn the contract for the sale of the horse was plain and he gave judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

Judgment was given the plaintiff for $428 in the suit of the New Jersey Structural Company against C. P. Sowring. J. H. Craig represented the company and W. L. Canfield, Jr., the defendant. In the case of the Bigtow Varnish Company against John Hensey, judgment for $24 was given the plaintiff.

There were in all thirty-three cases listed for trial today, but a large majority of them were put off until next week's session of the court, some for the reason that the contestants were not ready for trial.

Site the Same; County Changed.

Although St. Paul's Episcopal church, in Rahway, is now in Union county, papers have been filed with County Clerk John H. Conger, of Middlesex county, to bring about a change in the laws of the church. At the time the site of the church was in Middlesex county, and the document affecting its organization has to be filed at New Brunswick because the original incorporation is entered upon the books of Middlesex. The change provides for the holding of the annual election of officers on the first Monday in Advent and for the election of one warden each year and three vestrymen, increasing the vestrymen to nine. Rev. Charles L. Goodes, the rector, and J. Lewis Mason, secretary of the vestry, have signed the amendments to the incorporation. The original incorporation was filed May 9, 1826. Rev. Alfred S. Ford was then rector and Edward O. Rogers secretary.

ENJOY KNEISEL PROGRAM

Quartet is Given Great Ovation by Audience Which Packs the Doors.

AT HARTRIDGE AUDITORIUM.

Works of Three Recognized Composers are Heard—Dvorak, Claude Debussy and Beethoven.

The Kneisel Quartet made its appearance here Wednesday for the first time in four years and the throng of music lovers that greeted these finished musicians at the Hartridge School auditorium overflowed the hall, it being impossible to seat all who desired to hear the program. The outpouring of people must have been pleasing to the artists, although it is no new thing to them of late.

Everywhere the musicians are playing to capacity audiences, being recognized as the foremost in the rendition of classical works. This was one of the series of the McIntyre Chamber Music concerts, and there was every indication that Mr. McIntyre's efforts to give Plainfield the best music are appreciated.

The audience, comprising those who appreciate the best in music, was delighted with one of the most perfect performances of chamber music that has been heard here in many years. If anything the program was too short, encores were earnestly requested, but the quartet steadfastly declined to respond. Throughout the renditions of the evening there was that perfect balance for which the quartet has become famous throughout the country. Its interpretation of the selections was true to the conception of the composers and everyone realized that the artists were putting their very best effort into every line. It was ensemble playing of the best sort, really the product of a perfection of art and of technical accomplishment.

Mr. Kneisel and his associates played the more vigorous lines with a spirit that aroused everyone, while in the more quiet passages the audience was entranced by the marvelous execution and interpretation. The instruments harmonized so perfectly that nothing was left to be desired by the audience. The quartet presented the music in its best light, a fact which all seemed to realize and appreciate.

The works of three recognized composers were heard—Dvorak, Claude Debussy and Beethoven, and the numbers chosen for the program gave ample opportunity to hear the quartet at its best. The first number by Dvorak was quartet in F major, op. 96, Allegro ma non troppo, Lento, Molto vivace and Vivace.

Then followed two movements from quartet in G minor—Andantino doucement expressif and Assez vif et bien rythme, by Debussy. The last number was the famous Opus 59, quartet in C major, op. 59, No. 3, Andante con moto—Allegro vivace, Andante con moto, quasi allegretto and Menuetto (Grazioso)—Allegro molto.

Mr. McIntyre announced last night that at his next concert on January 7, Francis Rogers, baritone, will be the assisting artist and Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, will be the soloist.

A Place for Everything.

One of the mottoes which, though good, are rarely applied, is "A place for everything and everything in its place." A London cab driver seemed to think that affairs were ordered after this pattern. As he swung down the Strand an American sitting beside him asked him to point out the spots of interest.

"Right you are, sir!" agreed the driver, touching his hat. "There's Luggit 'Ill, where they 'ang 'em."

Governor's Trenton Home.

Governor Fort is planning to live at Trenton at least four days a week during the next few months and he has instructed one of his aids to look around for a suitable house for him. The Governor found it rather inconvenient traveling to and from his home in East Orange in the winter, and this, together with his desire to keep in close touch with the doings of the coming Legislature, has prompted him to look for a suitable temporary domicile in Trenton. Assemblyman John D. Prince, who will be speaker of the next year's House, has leased a house in Trenton for a few months the Legislature is in session.

THE CARE OF THE HAIR, SHAMPOOING, ETC.

Too much attention cannot be given to the care of the hair, brushing each night and shampooing once every three weeks, or according to the needs of one's particular case.

As to the washing, shampoo liquid well suited to hair that is heavy and oily can be made from four ounces of lavender water, half an ounce of borax, three ounces of rose water and half an ounce of tincture of cochineal. This is added to the lavender water, and the borax is next put in. Then the mixture is shaken until the powder is dissolved, when the rosewater is added to complete the mixture.

When shampooing the head the scalp and long hair must be thoroughly wet with the cleanskin liquid before any water is used. It will be no longer than a quarter of an hour before the hair can be washed off in clear water later. The mixture should not be used oftener than once a month, and perfectly every five weeks.

Another compound that is pleasing and a tonic is composed of half a pint of Bay Rum, half a pint and half of bay rum, an ounce of glycerine, a quarter of an ounce each of borax, carbonate of potash and carbonate of ammonia. The last three are dissolved in the New England rum, the bay rum being then added and lastly the glycerine. The liquid should be well shaken before being applied.

For dry hair nothing is better than castile soap, scraped and melted with just enough boiling water to make a jelly when cold. Into a half cupful of this mixture break a fresh egg. Then a teaspoonful of glycerin is added. This mixture is massaged into the head and then washed out.

Women with very dark hair cannot do better than wash it in cocoanut, for the natural iron and tannin are excellent as a preservative. Into a half a pint of claret is teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda and the yolk of a raw egg are beaten. This is rubbed well over the scalp and hair, and is then washed out, no soap being required.

No matter how oily the hair is, it should never be shampooed oftener than once a month, or the unhealthy condition of the scalp that throws off more oil than it should, will be increased. Brushing must be made to take the place of water, using a short bristled brush that is thoroughly clean, so that as much stroke absorbs some of the excessive moisture.

GOOD OLD HASTY PUDDING.

"Hasty pudding" they call cornmeal mush in New England, but an experienced cook will defy the average unskilled kitchen drifter who attempts to make this simple mixture hastily.

"If genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains" a large amount of genius must enter into the manufacture of Indian meal mush. Unless you have this one qualification of greatness don't try to make it.

If you have, put one quart of water on to boil; mix one pint of cornmeal, and a tablespoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of flour. Put this into a dredger, and while the water is bubbling shake it slowly into it, stirring with a long-handled spoon all the time.

Boil for at least half an hour, stirring constantly to keep the mixture from getting lumpy.

Some experts mix the dry cornmeal with a pint of cold milk before stirring into the water, and woe betide the amateur who approaches this ceremony without due respect and caution!

Indian cornmeal should be bought in small quantities, as it spoils rapidly when exposed to the air. It is rich in nitrogen and contains more fat than most meals.

For this reason it is heeding, and should only be eaten in winter time, when "much and molasses" forms part of the early morning country diet.

PRETTY HATPINS.

Hatpins must be ornamental as well as useful—that much is certain.

First we had large round hatpins of tortoise shell and celluloid, and then we had long thin ones of the same materials. But while your minds were busy running to these gems of creation the jewelers were designing pins to appeal to the fair women, and now the result of their efforts is given to the public.

The very latest hatpin, is of gold, and, like the seal of a masculine watchfob, engraved with the monogram or crest of the owner. These pins are very beautiful, and, while they are very expensive, they are well worth the money, for there is nothing fragile about them and they should wear a long time.

THE PRUDENTIAL GIRL OF 1909.

The 1909 Girl is unusually attractive and portrays the true Prudential spirit shown when a person takes out life insurance to protect the home. She is sincere and homelike, honest and beautiful.

With soft blue eyes, strongly marked eyebrows, a well-moulded nose, full red lips, and a mass of dark chestnut hair, the 1909 Prudential Girl is sure to attract the public, as well as win a prominent place in the homes of The Prudential's millions of policy holders.

On the back of the calendar is a complete list of months and days for 1909 and a statement that you should protect your home through life insurance in The Prudential.

The company announces that a free copy of the calendar will be sent to any one who writes to the Home Office, Newark, N. J.

VELVET AND EMBROIDERY.

Many effective afternoon frocks for home wear are being made in soft velvet with plain close-fitting skirts, embroidered above the line of the waist, in the form of a Princess corsage, and having the top of the bodice and the long close-fitting sleeves made of tucked net in the same shade as the velvet, and arranged in such a way that through the welting of net insertion bands of fine gold and silver lace may be seen.

Other velvet gowns are adorned with elabarate embroideries carried out partly in shaded silks and partly in fine metallic threads, chosen in very soft colorings, so that the whole effect is that of some rich piece of Oriental work, faded and subdued by time. On a velvet gown in a soft tone of old blue, embroideries of this kind may be seen, with pale pink and green, mauve and gray among their colorings, the complicated design outlined with fine threads of copper and aluminium.

A Seasonable Dish.

All kinds of cooked game can be used for this dish. Free it from skin and bone and cut into neat slices; season them with cayenne, paprika, salt and a few drops of lemon juice; dip them into melted butter and cover with brown breadcrumbs and a sliced egg on a well-buttered baking tin and put them into a hot oven for a few minutes to get browned. Care must be taken that the meat does not get dried up. Serve in a circle. Fill the centre with fresh watercress previously seasoned with salt and lemon juice. Serve hot.

Deeds and Contracts.

The following local real estate transfers have been recorded at the county clerk's office: Highland Park Realty Company to John Erdmann, northeasterly side Leland avenue, corner Midway, Plainfield, $1; William T. Sharp et al. to Amy L. Abel, northerly side Prospect avenue, corner Kensington avenue, Plainfield, $1; Clara N. Naylor et al. to Louis Goldstein et al., Elm street, corner J. R. Walley, Plainfield, $1; Jacob Paritz et ux. to Samuel Lander, southerly side East Sixth street, 365 feet of Franklin place, Plainfield, $1. These contracts have also been filed: John Rafferty with Wyckoff & Herrlich, entire work, new building, Grant avenue, Plainfield, $3,453; Same with John A. McNally, entire work, new building, Grant avenue, $3,478.

Query.

Two neighbors were recently battling over the club links. All went fairly well, although bogey remained practically intact, until they reached a bee overlooking a pond.

Each drove fearlessly, then cautiously, a half dozen balls into the muddy depths of that pool.

Standing nearby was a little girl, stupid but curious. After the twelfth ball had plunged to rise no more, she queried, blankly, but sincerely, of the golfers:

"Mister, what is the fun in this game?"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Children's Room.

So much importance is attached to the playroom now that it is with interest one watches the gradual development of this apartment. One woman wisely had the playroom made like a conservatory, so that it could be flooded with sunshine from all sides and shaded when need be with curtains. Who but a mother would think of anything so convenient and, above all, so hygienic? If a child must play indoors it is a good idea to have an abundance of health-giving sunshine. Children are happiest when playing in a light airy room. One can select a plain furniture, but it should be substantial.

PARTNERS IN SQUABBLE

Lewis C. Van Nest Appeals to Chancery Court to Have Wm. H. Bohl Account.

HEARING HELD NEXT TUESDAY.

Complainant Alleges Concern Is Heavily in Debt and Asks For a Receiver.

A complaint has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton by Lewis C. Van Nest, of this city, against William H. Bohl, his partner, for an accounting. Van Nest charges that he and Bohl entered into a partnership agreement for the purpose of buying and selling sash, doors and blinds under the firm name of Bohl and Van Nest, and which was made July 15, 1909. The agreement shows that Bohl was to rent to the firm the premises at 218-220 East Fourth street, for the term of one year, to be the interest of $3,000 at six per cent. and the payment of all taxes and assessments against the property. It was also agreed that Bohl would sell the premises for $3,000 if bought before August, 1909.

It was also agreed that each partner should have $15 each week for his own use. Van Nest charges that he has since the making of the agreement put all his time in the business and that he has advanced several hundred dollars and has tried to make the business a success, and he says that Bohl has not devoted his time and attention to the success of the business, and has also charges that Bohl has withdrawn from said account more money than was ever by him contributed to the same, and has frequently withdrawn money from the account of said partnership to pay his own personal and private obligations, which were in no way connected with said partnership business," and that the "said William H. Bohl has continually neglected the business.

Van Nest charges that the business is not a success, that they are largely in debt and that the assets are not sufficient to pay he debts. Van Nest also charges that the firm owes Empire Sash and Door Co. $1,550, D. M. Nesbit Co. $600, the Worden Lumber and Manufacturing Co. about $300, Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. $150 and E. A. Van Nest about $1,000, the latter being for borrowed money, total debts being about $4,000; that the total assets are about $3,000. He also charges they have no cash in bank, and that certain notes were presented for payment and that Bohl has refused to pay any part of same.

Van Nest alleges that Bohl has repeatedly said that he would not put up any money and that he intended to close the business. He also claims that the bills asks for an accounting and also prays for an injunction.

The matter was presented to Vice-Chancellor Howell at Newark and he has made an order requiring Bohl to show cause before him in Newark next Tuesday why a receiver should not be appointed and also enjoins Bohl or anyone else from removing or disposing of the assets in anyway until after the matter has been disposed of by the court.

Cleaning Jewels.

Small articles of jewelry, especially the silver kind, will be difficult to clean in the hands of an inexperienced person, since dull silver is more difficult to restore to its former beauty than gold. The best method is to immerse the brooch, ring or pin in a solution of cyanide of potash, procurable at any drug store. Do not let the liquid touch the fingers. Let the metals in the liquid for two minutes, remove and wash in hot soapsuds. This will be sufficient to restore the brilliancy of the metal. The best method of cleaning chain bracelets or necklaces of gold is to make a paste of ammonia and whiting and rub this into the tiny links with a soft brush, afterward wash the pieces in soft water and polish with a chamois.

Affects July 4 Winnings.

The recent decision of the National Trotting Association relative to Adam C. Blair's horse, "Aaron B.," and its appearance at the driving club on July 4, last, refers only to the winnings of the horse for that day and not the whole season as some believed. Mr. Blair last summer paid the required fee of $50 and had his horse registered under the name of "Aaron B." changing it from "Leon," under which it was known in the West.

Velvet is Popular.

Every season, before far advanced brings forth its velvet gowns, in spite of protest.

All the newest velvets for the winter season are characterized by that peculiarly soft and supple texture which is inseparable from the cloths and satins, and, in fact, from all the materials which will be used for afternoon frocks of the smarter sort.

Pretty Trimmings.

Soutache and other braids figure prominently in the trimmings of the handsome velvet coat and skirt costumes, and stunning passementerie ornaments, buttons, etc., are introduced with the braiding.

MONSTER LOCOMOTIVE FOR THE PENNSY ROAD

In order to be prepared to handle promptly whatever increased traffic may be offered during the coming year, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just begun the construction of fifteen locomotives of the most powerful type which has yet been designed fr use on this railroad. These locomotives will be known as "H-b" and are to be built at the Juniatta shops at Altoona, Pa.

Some idea of the character of this type of engine may be had from the fact that when the tender is fully loaded with coal and water and the locomotive is ready for service on the road, its total weight will be 384,000 pounds, nearly 200 tons. The weight of the engine proper, in working order, will be approximately 241,000 pounds or about 120 tons. The tender will be equipped to carry 7,000 gallons of water and thirteen and one-half tons of coal.

This locomotive will be a consolidated type, having one pair of truck wheels and four pair of drivers. The truck wheels will be thirty-three inches in diameter, and the driving wheels will be sixty-two inches in diameter. In general design this locomotive will be similar to the type in the "H-6-b" which has been in general use for quite a number of years, but, on account of increased weight and large drivers, will be capable of hauling a heavy train at somewhat greater speed than the former types of freight locomotives.

According to the latest improved practice the Walschaert valve motion, with fourteen inch piston valves, will be used to control the steam distribution in the cylinders. The boiler will be of the standard Belpaire type, and will have a maximum inside diameter of seventy-six and three-quarter inches. It will contain 465 two-inch tubes, 180 inches long, giving a fire area through tubes of 7.77 square feet.

The total fire grate will be 55.13 square feet, and the total heating surface will be 3,839 square feet. The boiler was designed to safely withstand a pressure of 205 pounds per square inch. The total tractive power will be 42661.

RAHWAY OFFICE TO GO AFTER THE MAN

Governor Fort and the members of the New Jersey Reformatory Commission have selected a new head for the Rahway Reformatory, but refuse to say who he is. He will not be known, however, one of the many applicants for the position The man is from North Jersey, but not a Newarker.

Every member of the commission was present at a meeting held in the office of Edward D. Duffield, one of their number, in the Prudential building Friday afternoon, and President Richard H. Wilson, of Metuchen, was in the chair. The main business was the selection of a successor to the late Joseph W. Martin as superintendent of the Rahway Reformatory, but former Governor Voorhees declared that the discussion of that subject took very little time, and that most of the time was spent preparing the annual report of the commission to the Governor.

About 100 applications were received for the position of superintendent of the reformatory, but the choice had narrowed down to four. It was not expected, though, that the commission would be a unit on the choice to be made, as there had been a number of questions as to the qualifications of the four aspirants, and the selection seemed to be the only logical solution of the problem.

After the meeting was over it was declared that nothing was to be given out for publication, but former Governor Voorhees later declared that the commission had succeeded in selecting a man who was not an applicant for the position, and in asmuch as the commission did not know whether he would accept the position, his name could not be given. The salary for the position as fixed by law is $3,000.

Funeral of Mrs. J. B. Drayton.

The funeral service of Mrs. John B. Drayton was held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon from the residence of the daughter, Mrs. R. Henry Depew, on Hillside avenue, and was largely attended. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, *assisted by Rev. Morgan Ashley, rec*tor of St. Stephen's church, was in charge of the service. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Augustus Kleinecks, Stuart H. Patterson, of this city; William Calloway, of Wyoming; Joseph Gilmore, of Jersey City; Paul Spencer, of Philadelphia, and William Radford, of Montclair.

Belated Wedding Announcement.

Announcement is made today of the marriage of Miss Edna Craven, daughter of Edwin Craven, of Matawan, and Walter Wilson, third son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson, of West Third street. The ceremony was performed on Election day at Westfield, Rev. W. I. Steans, of that place, performing the ceremony. Mr. Wilson is about eighteen years of age, while the bride is twenty-one.

NEW CLOTHES ORDERED FOR SECOND REGIMENT

At a meeting of the State Military Board Thursday at Trenton the matter of clothing the New Jersey National Guard in olive drab instead of the old blue uniforms came up and the board authorized the change from the blue to the olive drab made for the guards as fast as the national appropriation at the command of the State would permit.

As Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan brought the matter up, claiming that the late campaign at Perth Amboy almost destroyed the uniforms of his men, the Second Regiment will be the first one equipped in olive drab.

The board gave permission to the officers of the First Regiment to open their armory in Newark for an automobile show. The board cautioned the officers that the show must be held under their auspices. The exhibition will take place in January.

The bills of the late Perth Amboy riots were discussed and the order of Governor Fort as commander-in-chief of the forces of the State calling out troops were ordered filed so that the comptroller can draw warrants for the expenses. The soldiers have already been paid.

THE NEWEST IDEAS IN THE FASHION WORLD

A model of the new cutaway type, made of cloth, has a rolling collar, wide revers and cuffs of fox fur.

An elaborate dinner gown is made of black satin, trimmed with immensely wide black soutached bands, and a yoke and sleeve arrangement of chiffon, with black soutache trimming.

Muffs match the hats in size—therefore are quite large.

French and English coats are fur trimmed. The furs mostly used by tailors to apply directly to coat materials are marten, seal, coon, mink, swandown and chinchilla.

Evening dresses of gray chiffon have lavender or wisteria filet trimmings with the same color of flanet embroidery.

One of the newest ideas in fashionable dressmaking is to have the skirt of broadcloth and the jacket made of the same color in corduroy and trimmed with very small velvet buttons.

The advantage of using ribbon fringe made from the narrowest ribbon obtainable, is that it does not tangle like silk fringe and always looks fresh and pretty. It is made with very deep, openwork top, also very ornamental.

Forcing the Bulbs.

If you are very anxious to force bulbs into bloom at a very early period, then try this method, which is thoroughly satisfactory: Get a wooden box of any desired size, and about six inches deep. Place the bulbs low in the dirt, and cover loosely. Wet the soil with tepid water, and set the box on the closed register or radiator. At times the flowers must be carried to a sunny window to get healthy green color, and the heat must not be noticeable at the register or radiator, but just enough to keep the earth from being chilly. This will make flowers flourish in a few weeks. Yellow Easter lillies can be forced in a few weeks, also white jonquils.

Afraid It Would Be Missed.

Tommy learned to swim in Huckins' Cove, an arm of the sea. Consequently when he fwent, at his father's invitation, to the swimming pool of his father's city club he felt cramped somehow and afraid of getting in the way.

After a while that feeling wore off, and began splashing about and doing a few tricks that he thought his father might not know. Suddenly his head and shoulders emerged from the water.

"Oh, daddy," he said, in an anxious whisper, "I've swallowed some of the water. Do you think they'll mind?"—Youth's Companion.

That Midnight Ride.

The iconoclasts are now trying to demolish Paul Revere's midnight ride. They will not succeed. Longfellow immortalized Paul Revere, and he will stay among the immortals when all the iconoclasts are forgotten. But suppose he had lived nowadays! Imagine a deathless lyric beginning:

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
The midnight honk of the "mobileer."—Albany Argus.

A Criticism.

Dr. Harvey Cushing, the government's famous food expert, was talking at Mackinac Island about impure whiskies.

"I once saw an old Kentuckian," said Dr. Wiley, "take up a glass of whiskey, sniff it, set it down and shake his head sadly.

"One thing,' he said, 'was never seen coming through the rye, and that's the kind of whiskey they send us nowadays.'"—Washington Star.

John Moore a Local Visitor.

John Moore, a former well known resident of Plainfield, now living in Newark, is spending a few days with friends in town. Mr. Moore's father, the late William Moore, was *at one time the owner of the Iro*quois hotel and the Marsh building at Park avenue and Second street.

ELKS WIN SERIES WITH THE WESTFIELD WOODMEN

One of the best series yet rolled in the fraternal bowling league tourney was witnessed at Campbell's alleys. Friday night, when the local Elks team met the five from the Westfield Woodmen. The Plainfielders won out by taking the first two games, the second resulting in a tie but going to them in the roll-off. The Elks lost their gait in the third try and by pulling together in good shape, the Woodmen took one tally by a margin of 93.

The score for the night was made by Judge William N. Runyon, who rapped out a 215 in the second game. He made a number of difficult spares that brought applause from the gallery. The next best score for the Elks was 187 made by Muir, while Chief Kiely's faculty of getting splits at the wrong time kept his high mark down to 174. Teel and VanEmburgh rooled good, steady games. The best mark on the Woodmen's side was made by Miller, who chalked up 191 and an average of 173.3.

The scores:

Elks.
Runyon	147	215	141
Teel	151	169	134
Van Emburg	163	140	153
Muir	187	135	142
Kiely	158	174	150
	806	*783	723
Woodmen.
Miller	162	191	167
Tobin	143	181	152
Edwards	121	127	152
Koons	165	166	171
Ortleb	158	158	170
	749	*773	816

*Roll off: Elks, 86; Woodmen, 71.

THIS IS FOR THE THOUGHTLESS MOTHERS.

Even the babies are not immune from "nerves," not from their own fault, though.

We hear almost too much of nerves nowadays, but there is not often much said of giving the baby a nerve tonic.

Imagine how you would like to be danced or joggled or made to show off in all your waking hours. Yet that is the fate of the average baby from the time it is big enough to take notice.

It is no wonder that children develop faint Vitus dance, or get inflammation of the brain, not to speak of horrid dispositions? What they need is nerve rest.

The more you ignore the baby, the less you treat it as a prodigy, the more comfort it and you will have in years to come.

Do not have your child show off, no matter how much its cuteishness may tempt you to share with friends less fortunate.

Make a practise of keeping the baby the best part of the greater part of the day. It is surprising how soon, with proper training, the child will be content to lie in its crib playing happily with a single toy or just looking around.

BOY GETS FIVE YEARS.

Thirteen-year-old Lad Pleaded Guilty to Manslaughter.

John Reynolds, thirteen years old, was taken from Jersey City to the Trenton State Prison yesterday to serve five years for killing Peter Bachinella, fifteen years old, last July. Reynolds recently pleaded guilty to manslaughter, and was sentenced by Judge Blair. Reynolds is the youngest person sent to State prison from Hudson county in many years.

Bachinella, who was a ragpicker, was leaning over an ash barrel, when his ragbag was cut by Reynolds. Bachinella struck Reynolds, who thrust his pocketknife into the ragpicker's heart. Two years ago Reynolds was in the care of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, whose agents charged that his parents were hard drinkers and neglected their children.

An Accumulation?

"There are all sorts of firearms in this community," remarked the stranger.

"Yes," answered Bronco Bob. "Every citizen has five or six revolvers."

"What do you want with so many?"

Bleaching Muslin.

If you want to bleach unbleached muslin at home place a bullerful of deep, blue water on the stove, and, unrolling the muslin, put in and let it come to a steady boil. Remove from the boiler without wringing and hang on line to drip dry in full sunlight.

When dry, iron and depend on the first washing to make it a clear white, or wash again in the ordinary way before using.

WHY WOMEN RESIGNED CRIMES COMMISSION

Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, who, with Mrs. C. P. Alexander, of Hoboken, resigned from Governor Fort's Crime and and Dependency Investigation Commission, denied Wednesday reports to the effect that she had withdrawn because of personal differences among members of the commission.

"Mrs. C. B. Alexander and I resigned," she said, "simply because we believe that the work of the commission is completed. The other members believe the law requires them to continue and to make another report, and so it is simply a question of the letter of the law. We concur with the majority of the members of the commission, and the only difference in opinion in the commission was on the excise question, which we thought was a matter for the State Excise Board to deal with, and not for us. From this Commissioner Boom dissented, and saw fit to sign a minority report.

"I see one of the Trenton morning papers is responsible for the statement that Mrs. Alexander and I resigned because Commissioner Ransom was a member of the commission. That is absolutely untrue, and without the slightest foundation in fact. The personnel of the commission had absolutely nothing to do with the resignations."

Referring to the report that she had had a stormy interview with Governor Fort, she said:

"There have been no 'stormy interviews,'" she said, "between either Governor Fort and myself or any other member of the commission. As a matter of fact, I was not in Trenton yesterday, so that is absurd."

"The report that Mrs. Williamson and I had resigned from the Crimes Commission because of any disagreement is erroneous," said Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of Castle Point, Hoboken, last night. "Mrs. Williamson is a probation officer for Union county, and I am a probation officer of Hudson county. We cheerfully served on the commission until it had completed its labors and made its report, when we resigned because we found that the work had been at a sacrifice to us, as it interfered with our duties as probation officers. It was impossible for the commission to arrange its meetings to suit our conveniences, and this forced us to absent ourselves from court on days when duty, a duty for which we are paid, demanded our presence and also interfered with our office desks. We therefore decided, as the work of the commission was practically com*pleted, to retire from the commis*sion, merely a temporary body, and devote ourselves to our permanent probationary work."

Unity Lodge, K. of P. Elects.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., elected these officers Thursday night: Chancellor commander, Walter D. Hetfield; vice-chancellor commander, Samuel Rothberg; prelate, George Dean; keeper of records and seal, Frank Putnam; master of finance, Horace J. Martin, Sr.; master of exchequer, Samuel E. Umpston; master of work, Jeremiah Van Winkle; master at arms, J. E. Causebrook; inner guard, Robert Fitz Randolph; outer guard, Charles E. Harris; representative to grand lodge, A. E. Causebrook; alternate, George Dean; trustee for three years, Eugene V. Lorton.

A Dramatic Treat.

A dramatic treat is in store for local playgoers tomorrow when Arthur Byron and his company will appear at the New Plainfield theatre afternoon and night, in C. M. S. McLellan's new play, "The Pickpockets." The production was first seen at Atlantic City last Monday night and it has since received the most enthusiastic approval. Mr. Daly's ability as an actor of the first calibre is known to Plainfielders through his clever character portrayals here in "You Never Can Tell," "Canada" and "My Mimie Rose."

LOCAL DEMOCRATS PICK COUNTY COMMITTEEMEN

Democratic primaries were held at Hotel Kenilworth, Friday night, when members of the county committee were chosen and there was a discussion as to the advisability of forming a Central Democratic Club. All present favored the idea believing that such an organization would tend to strengthen the party in this city. The question will be discussed at more length at another meeting to be held soon. A committee of five was appointed to arrange the details for the organization of such a club; also a plan for a banquet to be held this winter.

Patrick J. Reville, as chairman, presided at the meeting; Frank J. Shattle was secretary; John C. McCarthy judge of election and Alexander Kane inspector of election.

These county committeemen were chosen:

First ward, first district, John P. Owens; second district, Alexander Kane; Second ward, first district, James E. Martine; second district, Joseph H. Harrigan; third ward, first district, Louis Ellis; second district, Frank J. Shattle; Fourth ward, first district, Stephen H. Schaff; second district, Patrick J. Reville; third district, John C. McCarthy.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS

Mayor Charles J. Fisk announced today that the customary New Year's Day reception, which is given by the chief executive and members of the police department, will be held on the coming January 1 at the new police station at Fourth and Sycamore streets. The building has been completed and the arrangement for holding the function there was made for the purpose of giving the citizens an opportunity to inspect it. Everyone is invited, the women especially, and members of the police department will be on hand to show visitors about.

The reception will begin at 2 o'clock and Mayor Fisk will be assisted in receiving by Judge William N. Runyon, the members of the Common Council and Chief of Police Kiely. The police chiefs of Elizabeth, New Brunswick and other places are to be invited and the probabilities are that the building will be thronged until late in the evening. The receptions of other years in the mayor's office have proved very popular and the added feature to the coming one will make it a decidedly interesting event.

The members of the police committee of the Common Council will hold a meeting tonight or Monday for the purpose of inspecting the new station to see if all the specifications have been lived up to prior to having the structure of the City accepted. While the furniture has not yet been installed, everything has been ordered and will be in place by the coming Tuesday or Wednesday.

The police have been using the former Boys' Club building on Sycamore street, as headquarters since the removal from East Front street and the change to the new building will be gladly welcomed by them. The latter is one of the most complete structures of the kind in the State and will serve the needs of Chief Kiely and his men for many years to come.

PERSEVERANCE NOMINATIONS.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 7, K. of P., elected the following officers at its meeting, Friday: Chancellor commander, Charles A. Peterson; vice-chancellor, R. B. H. Dalley; master of the work, B. J. Scgreiner; prelate, Fred Douglas; master at arms, J. H. Higgins; inner guard, John Kenney and William Heckel; master of exchequer, Thos. Osment and S. J. Robinson; master of finance, Edward Bowman, S. J Robinson, William Baker and J. B. Higgins; keeper of records and seal, Clayton B. Hitchcock; trustee, H. J. Schreiner; representative to the Grand Lodge, Thomas Caleen; alternate, Morgan Turton.

Would Place Tablets to Lincoln.

Superintendent of Schools John R. Wilson and Principal Ide G. Sargent, of School No. 10, at Peterson, Friday appointed a committee for the purpose of drawing up an appeal to citizens for contributions to the fund for the civil celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth. It is hoped by the committee that sufficient money will be raised to place a bronze memorial tablet of Lincoln in each of the public schools in the city in addition to erecting one expense of the general collection that is planned for February 12, next.

Journeymen Barbers Elect.

The Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America, Local 315, has elected these officers: President, Ralph Di Armient; vice-president, John C. Powers; corresponding and financial secretary, Charles A. Paglieni; recording secretary, Frank Caruso; treasurer, Albert Braun; sergeant-at-arms, W. R. Welsh; trustees, C. Kardnan, M. Acalia and W. Reipman.

DUYCKINCK FAMILY STORY

Lineal Descendant Spends Twenty Years in Compiling Geneological Tables.

MANY FAMOUS RELATIVES.

Intermarry with the De Peysters, Vanderbilts, Van Wycks, Ludlow and Other Families.

After twenty years of presenting but fruitful labor, Whitehead Cornell Duyckinck, of this city, collaborating with Rev. John Cornell, both of whom are members of the New York Geneological and Biographical Society, has published a record of the descendants of Evart Duyckinck, who settled in New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1638. The volume entitled, "The Duyckinck and Allied Families," is handsomely gotten up and is illustrated with portraits of many members of the family. It also contains the family arms in colors. The introductory is written by John Cornell. A map of the original grants of village lots from the Dutch West India Company to the inhabitants of New Amsterdam is among the interesting illustrations.

These grants were made in 1642 and 1 ile below what is now Wall street. The volume is published by Tobias A. Wright and is limited to five copies. It is peculiarly interesting to people of New Jersey inasmuch as many of the family live in this State.

Evart Duyckinck, or as the name occurs in the various records Duyckinge, Duyckenes, Duyckens, Duyckinx, Dalcking, came to America from Berken, Holland, in 1638. He was in the service of the Dutch West India Company and was stationed in 1640 at Fort Hope, which occupied the present site of Hartford, Conn. In 1643 in the various troubles, Evert was made to Evart Duyckinck, and there are also on record transfers made by him in that city. The records show that he was a portrait painter, glazier and burner of glass.

This ancestor became a member of the Dutch church in New York in 1649. In 654 Director Stuyvesant gave him a patent for lands in Flatbush and ten years later he took the oath of allegiance to the English crown. At various times he occupied the offices of fire warden, and committeeman for public buildings. He died about 1702.

The New Jersey branch of the family settled in and around Somerville, Raritan and Lambertonthong the original grants in Somerset was one of seven hundred acres to this family. One branch of the family was located in New Brunswick. W. C. Duyckinck, who is one of the compilers of the volume, resides here.

The Duyckinck family in tracing its ancestry claims relationship with such well-known families as Provoost, Van Wyck, Rutgers, White, Scott, Armour, Constables, De Peysters, Roosevelts, Hoffman, Dundases, Hughes, Hoyts, Cornells, Pierreponts, McVickars, Knoxs, Van Rensalaers, Bartows, Whitneys, Vanderbilts, Olcotts, Huntingtons, Phelps, Wolcotts, Shepards, Campbells, Thompsons, Prices, Websters, Vands, Waters, Ludlows, Morlons, Brooks, Quintards, Howells, Van Vranck, Livingstons, Bleecker, Sanders, Williamsons and the Halls.

MISS LOUISE BOOTH IS INTRODUCED TO SOCIETY

Miss Louise Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Booth, of Central avenue, was formally introduced to society at a reception given at her home Thursday night. The debutante was assisted in receiving by Miss Mary Runkle, Miss Lillian King, Miss Marguerite Carpenter, Miss Marion Browne, Miss Van Fliet, Miss Mary Perkins and Miss Carolina Martin.

Miss Booth was the recipient of a large number of beautiful flowers. The Neapolitan Orchestra, of New York, furnished the music for the affair.

A Superb Calendar.

"Congenial Friends" is the title of the Plainfield Trust Company calendar for 1909 and is from the original of William Verplanck Birney. It depicts a company of friends at a gentleman's country house. They are grouped around a cheering open fire while one of the company reads from a favorite author. It breathes the spirit of delightful English country house with its ample fire places and old time furniture. This calendar may be obtained by depositors of The Trust Company if they will apply personally.

AGRICULTURE BOARD ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

The Union County Board of Agriculture holds regular meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of the month, but owing to the session of the State Horticultural Society in Trenton on January 6 and 7, it will meet in Friday, January 8. The delegates from Union county to the State meeting are C. H. Brewer, secretary, and Adam Denk, of Union, and they will report at the meeting to be held January 8. Mr. Earl has promised a talk on fruit growing which will be given in conjunction with the reports of the delegates to the State meeting.

The second meeting in January will be a farmers' institute at Westfield, under the auspices of the Union County Board of Agriculture. Profs. Voorhees, Lapham, Smith and Gaskill, of the New Jersey Agricultural College, will speak.

Prof. J. G. Savitz, county superintendent of schools, will make some remarks concerning agricultural education. The evening session will be given up to State Etomologist J. B. Smith, in illustrating and describing how to fight and control the ravages of insects that harass the agriculturist. Prof. Gaskill will also take part at this session and give the people some new ideas regarding and caring for shade trees.

Other subjects for the regular meetings of the board have been announced for February and March as follows: February 4, reports of delegates to the State Agricultural Society meeting held in Trenton January 15, 16 and 17; February 18, reports of teachers who attended the Agricultural School at Cape May the past season; March 4, conference with the Boards of Education, regarding school gardens, etc.

DR. GRENFELL TALKS ON LIFE IN LABRADOR

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, who has spent a number of years in Labador as surgeon, master mariner and magistrate, addressed the pupils of Plainfield High School Tuesday in the auditorium of the school. He described his appreticeship after leaving school, which was served in an entirely different sphere. Choosing the far north as a field for his life's work he had cruised the coasts of Norway, Iceland and Labrador in vessels no larger than were used 400 years ago. He had often been asked why if the hardships were so great, men should continue to live there. He had replied that the same reason could be given for living in Boston, where there was as much suffering and hardships equally great in their way.

Since the gospel had gone to the Labrador coast there was less misery, and fewer widows in the poorhouses, made destitute by drunken husbands.

Thrift and independence were to be found in plenty. He had found that the way to make life more attractive for a man was to increase his wage capacity. Teach him how to increase his earnings and he will the more readily lead a clean life free from the slovenliness so common among persons of certain environments.

The lecturer could not see the value of taking life as it comes, just sitting around and existing on money left by some one else. Everybody should have some work to do and he was thankful that he had not spent his time at Delmonico's and Sherry's.

The physical conditions of the coast were declared to be attractive. There the men were wonderfully developed in body, and courageous to a great degree. The fishermen, he said, do not go out in the morning and come back at night, spending the evenings at home, but remain away for weeks at a time, following the fish as they move from one feeding ground to another.

The doctor related experiences in traveling on ice. "A dog team, he declared, would beat a team of horses. In a ten mile trip, would leave them out of sight in twenty miles and in fifty miles would be coming back before the horses were half way there.

A close call to death on a floating ice pan was related. Dr. Grenfell had been compelled to kill his dogs for food, and used their hides for covering. He also tied their legs together and passed it as a pole from which was suspended his shirt, which he waved as a signal of distress. It was seen by a steamer and a boat from a vessel and in this way he was rescued.

Brief, but Expressive.

School Teacher—Johnny, I hear that you have two little twin sisters at your home this morning.

Johnny—Yes, ma'am; and we've PICTURE TALK ON CANAL

Charles L. Lewis Illustrates His Lecture With Views Recently Taken in Panama.

GOOD HOMES FOR LABORERS.

Americans Give Natives a New Name —Work Shown to be Going On Rapidly—An Instructive Address.

A descriptive lecture on Panama and the Canal was given by Charles L. Lewis, instructor of music in the city schools, before a fair sized audience in Vincent chapel Monday. Stereopticon views were used to illustrate the talk. Mr. Lewis visited the canal zone last summer as a member of the Union county club which was one of a number of musical organizations which the United States Government has sent there for the entertainment of its employes. The monotony of the life there is thus relieved to some extent. The speaker's description of the trip by boat from New York was full of interest.

Passing the bare island of San Salvadore, where Columbus was supposed to have first set foot on American soil, he said that from its appearance it did not seem to be worth discovering. The first object to be noted on approaching their destination was a huge statue of Columbus. Views of this and of the hotels and principal streets of Colon were shown.

Expecting to be pestered by mosquitoes, an almost total absence of them was an agreeable surprise, thanks to the wonderful system of extermination carried out by the government. He said that he saw but one mosquito, heard two and felt none. Sanitary conditions, also, had undergone great changes. The native workmen were compelled to clean up, against their will at first, but finally came to enjoy cleanliness. Ordinary laborers were provided with excellent homes, the married men with their families in one quarter and single men in another. They were even given such luxuries as shower baths.

The Americans who first went there coined a new name for the natives, which has not only become universal, but is applied to different varieties of fruit and other things to designate the ones which are produced by those people. It came about by the residents greeting the new comers, when addressed, with, "Me no speaka da 'Merican." A native has ever since been known as a "speakada," and the "speakada" oranges are not popular because they are sour.

Some good pictures were displayed of the celebrated Culebro cut and of the big dam, declared to be the two greatest engineering feats of all time. In the first three years 9,600,000 cubic yards of earth had been excavated, but even that great speed is being increased. After the canal has been completed it is expected that it will require two years to fill it with water.

The lecture disclosed much valuable information and was delivered in clear concise language. Other interesting pictures were: Old San Domingo church, built in 1638; Fort Gorgon, the old French canal and abandoned machinery; Shildress river, the most treacherous stream in the world, which has been known to rise thirty-seven feet in twenty-four hours; the bishop's palace, which contains the notorious Panama lottery; the Black Swamp and royal palm groves.

DIOGENES AND PRIDE.

Ever so many years ago there lived in ancient Greece an old man whose name was Diogenes. He was very learned and wise, and often said witty and clever things.

One day he was at a great festival which was being held in honor of some important event, when he happened to see several rich young men who were dressed in the finest clothes that could be bought in those far-off days.

Diogenes, who himself always wore very shabby clothes, looked at the young men in his wise way. Then he smiled kindly and said: "This is pride."

A little while after his notice was attracted to some brave soldiers who had just returned from a war in which they had gained many victories.

These soldiers were dressed in very ragged clothes, as they had been unable to get any new ones while at the war. Yet in spite of this, they walked along with their heads high, as heroes and conquerors.

The wise old Diogenes smiled kindly at them, too, and then said: "An! this also is pride;" But I am sure you will agree with when I say that the pride of the soldiers was worth much more than the pride of the rich young men.

Pastoral Relations Dissolved.

Rev. A. Peter Tulp, pastor of the New York Avenue Reformed church, Newark, has been granted a dissolution of his pastoral relations by the Classis of Newark. The clergyman's letter of dismissal has been directed to Bishop Edward Lines as Mr. Tulp is to become an Episcopal priest.

CITY FATHERS ADJOURN AFTER SUYDAM TRIBUTE

As a mark of respect to the memory of Henry B. Suydam, a former member of the body, who died in the Hudson Street Hospital, New York, Monday morning, the Common Council met Monday night and after ordering necessary bills paid, passed resolutions of sympathy on the death of junior member from the Fourth ward and adjourned. The regular monthly business will be transacted on Monday night, December 28. The desk and chair used by Mr. Suydam while a member of the Council, were appropriately draped in black, while on top of the desk rested a vase filled with beautiful roses and smilax.

Immediately following the payment of bills, Mr. Buxton offered these resolutions, which were adopted:

"Whereas, We have learned with deep regret of the sudden death of Harry E. Suydam, and

"Whereas, We desire to express our appreciation of his ability as a councilman, his character as a man and his personality as an associate;

"Resolved, That we tender to his family our sincere sympathy in their bereavement, and further

"Resolved, That the clerk be instructed to inscribe this resolution at length on the minutes of this body and to forward a copy thereof to Mrs. Suydam, and further

"Resolved, That as a mark of respect to his memory we do now adjourn until December 28."

After the meeting adjourned the members returned to the office of Mayor C. J. Fisk, where plans were discussed for attening the funeral.

BOROUGH WITHHOLDS PART OF COUNTY TAX

Mayor Samuel Townsend has sent another check to Somerset County Collector John H. Allen, this one being for $12,364.03. To date the borough of North Plainfield has paid into the county treasurer on account of county tax exactly $20,364.03. The assessment for this purpose for 1908 was $24,206.58, but $3,842.55 has been withheld.

In his letter to the county collector, Mayor Townsend says that an appeal to the Somerset County Board of Taxation has been taken by the taxpayers of North Plainfield, who consider that the borough has been "roasted," a term commonly held in that municipality. Pending the board's decision, the Mayor says that the rest of the assessment will be withheld.

The mayor's letter follows:

"Enclosed please find check of the borough of North Plainfield to your order of $12,364.03, on account of Somerset county tax for the year 1908. The total amount of county tax assessed against the borough for 1908 was $24,206.58. The enclosed check brings the total amount paid thereon, up to $20,364.03, the same sum as paid by the borough last year.

"The borough has appealed to the county Board of Taxation to equalize valuations in the county so that the borough shall bear the same relation to rate of taxation to the county in this respect as last year.

"That appeal, so far as we know, is still pending undecided by the said board and, until the board makes publhie its decision, the question of further payment by the borough will be necessarily held in abeyance."

THE BLOCKADE.

There's fear in Venezuela
For the Dutch are off the shore;
Their smoky little warships
Abe prepared to rip an' roar.
The fortress guns are loaded
And the Venezuelans trust
They'll never have to shoot 'em
'Cause they're pretty sure to bust.

The ports are all blockaded
In a mighty skeery way,
The boats of Wilhelmina
Are patrolling every bay;
The British Castro's navy
Is beside the coaling pier;
And soon some fierce dispatches
We are pretty sure to hear.

A Pretty Favor.

Take three matches and tie them through the centre and spread into a triangle, which will hold half of an English walnut shell. With a few drops of glue or sealing wax, the shell can be fastened firmly between the match heads. Glid it and tie a very small bow of ribbon around the matches to hide the string. The walnut can be headed around the top of the edge is covered with glue to which rice is fastened. They make neat souvenirs for a guessing contest at a girl's party.

A Coat Suit.

Fashions may come and fashions may go, but the always becoming and supremely convenient coat and skirt costume, like Tennyson's book, goes on forever. Just at the moment there is a vogue for coats of a three-quarter length, of Empire tendency so far as the short-waisted effect at the back is concerned but cut frequently with long points in front and trimmed always with silk braid and a quantity of buttons.

ANOTHER LECTURE ABOUT THE CORSET.

A great deal has been said about the subject, and there is more to come so long as there is room for improvement.

If women but knew the importance of a well-fitted corset, there would be more stylish appearing costumes. Seemingly most women buy a corset merely as a dress article which custom has decreed they must wear. Or young girls and those of a girlish, undeveloped figure, nothing is better suited tahn the Sahlin waist. It has no hooks or eyes and fastens by means of clasps. The corset is rounded but not full over the bust, and the agony—for that is all it can be called—of a corset steel pushing against the breast bone is not noticeable in this corset. For women who wear tailor-made costumes, or those who wish to do so, yet cannot because of an imperfect form, they should put more into the corset price and look into the garment. A perfect corset will cost $15. It is fitted to order when this purchase is made. While a large affair, it is soft and as easy to wear as a glove. Unfortunately, only women of considerable means can afford large corsets, yet there would be economy in one saving for this purpose, and such a corset will last for years. It is not padded at all, but curved with flexible bones, giving a perfect form.

If a woman is very large or has extremely large hips her underclothing should all be made with circular yokes and the corset placed over all garments but the outside petticoat. It is then possible to hide the bulky appearing skirts. Hip pads are not healthful and they are not graceful, though the slender woman can wear gathered petticoats to an advantage, as most all do. Avoid low girdles for they destroy one's good form and make a poor one twice as noticeable. A too rounded form is as unattractive as a deficient one, though the former can be remedied by wearing tight shields for this purpose. They lace in the same manner as a corset and often they are attached to the top of a corset, though the best ones are apart from it. They are not expensive. These details are important, because the prevailing styles call for an ecellent figure.

FADS AND FANCIES IN MILLINERDOM.

Millinery is furnishing the shoppers with food for excitement and gossip, and while these models are always to be taken with the proverbial grain of salt, a woman from them some idea of the inventions of the master milliners of Paris. Many of the shapes popular last summer reappear in winter guise, with the extravagantly wide, low crowned flat shapes which were a late summer fad conspicuous. Pending the Shapes covered with satin with velvet, with uncut velvet and with heavy lustrous corded silk, rivaling the felts and beavers, are indeed, in the majority so far, and pings, os trich plumes, elaborate aigrette, velvet, ribbons, flowers, all have their share in the trimmings.

A very smart hat, moderate in size and wing trimmed, is of smoke gray felt, with scarf of soft green and wings in which gray and greens are blended, and which is wide, low tricorne shape in amythyst satin, with velvet draping it and silver gray plumes matching and old silver buckle.

Another low, broad hat with bowl crown, was of a peculiarly lovely shade of wistful blue-gray, with an odd little scarf of satin in the same shade and a cluster of sharp, narrow wings or quills—neither one nor the other exactly—in irridescent greens, blues, purples, browns, all harmonizing wonderfully, thrust carelessly through the scarf on the right side and standing out at a wide angle.

Wide brims faced with contrasting colors are numerous and among the prettiest new models are large shapes with wide, drooping brim and large low bowl crowned, trimmed all around the crown in exquisite big roses of silk and velvet.

Marcus M. Marks to Speak.

Marcus M. Marks, president of the National Clothing Manufacturers' Association, has been secured as the principal speaker for the first annual banquet of the Plainfield Merchants' Association to be held at the Park Ridge Auditorium, January 19. Mr. Marks is such a fine speaker that he is constantly in demand. There will be two or three other short speeches during the evening.

The Very First One.

The visitors in the historical museum gazed curiously at a small feather pillow which nestled in a glass case.

"I don't see anything unusual about that pillow," remarked one of the visitors, turning to the guide.

"It's a very valuable pillow," replies the guide. "That is Washington's original headquatters."—Lippincott's.

Poor Child!

"When I grow up and marry, mamma, will I have a husband like papa?" asked Mary.

"I hope so, dear," said mother.

"And if I don't marry, will I be like Aunt Sue?"

"I hope so."

"Gracious," said Mary, as she turned away, "what a fix I'm in!"—The Delineator.

COHAN'S GREAT SHOW LOCAL CHARITY BENEFIT

Plans for "Charity Night," December 31, are rapidly being made. Major Charles J. Fisk having arranged with Manager William J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre for the appearance here of George M. Cohan's original company in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," which was such a tremendous hit last season. The profits from the performance will be given to local charities. The company numbers forty people and is considered one of the best. A fine performance is assured and it will afford an excellent opportunity for people to laugh out the old and laugh in the New Year. At the same time the bachelors will give a dance at the Hartridge School auditorium, and the profits from that function will also go toward local charities.

The committee in charge of the "Charity Night" affair comprises Henry L. Hall, chairman; Charles J. Fisk, L. G. Timpson, J. M. Shellabarger, F. W. Butler, W. J. Counihan, S. W. Cunninghan, E. S. Hooley, B. A. Hegeman, Samuel Townsend, W. R. Townsend and Charles A. Reed.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

The Sabbath-school of the Seventh Day Baptist church, together with older members of the church, enjoyed the annual Christmas entertainment in the church parlors Monday night. The program, which was presented entirely by the members of the school, was greatly enjoyed. It opened with a processional, the children marching into the room singing a Christmas carol. Then a Christmas hymn was sung by the entire school, followed with the reading of the story of the Wise Men by Rev. Edwin Shaw.

The first part of the program comprised recitations, "Christmas Greeting," by Ernest Stillman; "A Very Special Christmas," by Ivan Phillips; other recitations by Everett Hunting, Frances Warbech; a lullaby by Marie Kellogg; a recitation, "Our Guide," by Margaret Kimball; an exercise, "Christmas Light," Elston Shaw, Ernest Stillman and Lewis Kimball; a recitation, "Yotes and Thanks," Witter Clawson; a duet, "Holy Night," Violet Johnston and Beatrice Cottrell and a lullaby by the primary department.

In part second, twelve children from the school gave a Christmas cantata, in a candlelight manner. Those taking part were Mary Hunting, Dorothy Hubbard, Ruth Morris, Laura Stillman, Stephena Shaw, Celia Cottrell, Harold Spicer, Leland Shaw, John Cottrell, Jr., Marie Kellogg, Margaret Kimball, Violet Johnston, Beatrice Cottrell and Mildred Boyle.

After the entertainment there was the distribution of gifts to the primary department from the Christmas tree, which was a large one, and formed one of the most attractive features of the decorations. At the same time refreshments were served to all. The committee in charge of the whole affair comprised John Cottrell, Miss Ida Spicer and Theodore Davis.

RUS IN URBE.

I wandered to the village, Tom,
And asked for Asa Pratt.
"Why, Asa's in New York," they said;
"That's where he's living at."

Well, next I asked for Harvey Griggs;
But people made it clear
That he was living in New York—
Had lived there 'most a year.

The house where Bill Jones used to live
Was advertised for rent.
He now resides in New York town,
And writes that he's content.

I wandered to the smithy, Tom,
There where the two roads fork;
The blacksmith's manding motor cars
For some firm in New York.

And you remember Lizzie Dean?
They say she's doing well
As switchboard girl down in New York—
She's been there quite a spell.

I looked for Aunt Minerva Brown,
She's rounding out her days
In New York, with a boarding house
That folks here tell me pays.

This town's not grown so very much
Since you and I were here.
If you will ponder o'er the tale,
The reason will be clear.

OLD EMPLOYE KILLED AT SCOTCH PLAINS QUARRY

Felice Di Milio, of Scotch Plains, one of the oldest employes at the Hetfield stone crusher just back of the village, was killed at the quarry in an odd way just before noon Monday. He was at work on a steam drill when a huge boulder just above him became loosened and fell square on his head, crushing in his skull and toppling him to the ground. Dr. Westcott was called and arrived in a short time but the victim died within an hour. The ambulance from Muhlenberg Hospital was also summoned soon after the accident but it was on the way to the quarry when an undertaker's wagon was bringing the body to this city.

DiMizio was forty-four years old and was one of the best known of the Italians in the Scotch Plains colony. He came to the village twenty-three years ago and was regarded as a worthy and thrifty citizen. He leaves a wife and eight children, the eldest sixteen years old and the youngest eighteen months.

A brother of DiMizio was killed at the same quarry twelve years ago. He was in charge of the blasting and was blown to pieces by the premature discharge of a quantity of dynamite.

RECEIVER DEMANDS DREIER'S MORTGAGE

A bill has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton by Elwood W. Moore, Jr., as receiver for the National Brewing Company, of Newark, against Harry Dreier and Charles P. Senger, a brother-in-law of Dreier, for the purpose of having set aside a chattel mortgage that was alleged to have been given by the Brewing Company to Dreier for $2,500. The receiver alleges in his complaint that the National Brewing Company was insolvent and that he was appointed to wind up its affairs.

On June 19, 1906, according to the receiver's bill, the company was supposed to have had a directors' meeting and to have passed a resolution authorizing the company to execute a mortgage to Harry Dreier for $2,500 and that Dreier was to put the money into the treasury. The receiver further charges that the mortgage was never properly attested and he adds that the directors of the company were Samuel Drier, father of Harry Dreier, and father-in-law of Charles P. Senger, Charles P. Senger and Isaac Shoenfeld. The receiver further charges that the mortgage is not lawful and asks the court to have the same delivered up by Dreier and cancelled.

The National Brewing Company was formed by Samuel Dreier and Charles P. Senger and was engaged in the brewing business in Newark and was declared insolvent at the suit of Jacob Weber sometime ago and Mr. Moore was then appointed receiver. The case is of much interest and the outcome will be watched closely.

HOPE YOUNG MEN'S CLUB DEFEATS SOMERSET A. C.

The Hope Men's Club basketball team defeated the Somerset A. C., of New Brunswick, at the Hope gymnasium, Saturday night by a score of 68 to 14. The Hope team excelled the visitors in every department of the game and when the first half was over had 32 points to 12 for the opposing side. In the second half the local team scored 36 to 2 for the Somerset boys. The game was free from roughness and was watched by a large crowd.

Rimmer, Kenny and Hunter put up a splendid game, for the Hope boys. The lineup:

Hope Y. M. C.—Forwards, First, brook, Rimmer; centre, Hunter; guards, H. Kenny, Joseph Muir. Somerset A. C.—Forwards, Wadmit, Ryan; centre, Rogers; guards, Hoagland, Shipman.

HIS WORK AMONG BOYS

Episcopal Rector Preaches to Baptist Congregation on Rearing the Youth.

"GROWING JESUS" HIS TEXT.

Rev. George A. Warner Tells of the Responsibility to the Boys and Girls of Today.

"The Growing Jesus," was the subject of an inspiring and helpful sermon preached at the First Baptist church, Sunday night, by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. The service was under the auspices of the Young People's Association. His remarks were especially applicable to boys and girls, picturing the olden times when Christ was accustomed to gather little children to Him.

He quoted Christ's words, "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me, and Forbid Them not for of Such is the Kingdom of Heaven," adding that Christ would have boys and girls grow into Christian manhood and womanhood. "So many persons fail to understand children," said Mr. Warner. "And they quickly get out of patience with them. Jesus as a child of twelve years increased in wisdom and stature and grew in favor with God and man. This was the ideal picture of a boy growing into manhood.

"How necessary wisdom is. Not the filling of the brain with certain facts, but wisdom born of true knowledge which keeps boys and girls from foolish and silly things and gives them a wise and understanding heart. Boys and girls do not look upon laziness as a sin, but such idleness leads them into many avenues of trouble. There is so much to be done and so little time to do it in that we cannot afford to be slothful and lazy. Laziness is sin from which we should pray to be delivered.

"There is nothing better than a healthy boy and girl, full of good red blood, and I believe it a most grievous sin to try and put a safety valve on the life and activities of such. God gave us a body as well as a soul, a body to carry the eye of affection, feet to carry the message of peace and hands to extend the warm and hearty shake.

"Recently, I received a letter from a person who said that his attention had been called to the Holy Cross Athletic Club and he believed this to be a wrong use of a sacred symbol. I immediately answered the letter and told that person that this sanctified the whole life and not a part and if the symbol of the church resulted in making better boys and girls its object would be accomplished as much in that way as any other.

"Our boys and girls are drifting from the church and Sunday School together their fault. The parents, the ministers and the business men are equally responsible. It is more the power of example that counts. The parents don't go to church and one can not expect the children to. God loves the boys and girls and a simple petition is just as effective as a set prayer. We find favor with God by trying to live according to His precepts, by trying to live good and pure lives. We often see instances of where one boy or girl is more favored than another, because they possess a set of qualities that all admire. If you want friends you must be friendly, and we miss much that is good in life by not being friendly. Be friendly and you will find it so. Remember. In the youth of today lies the future of the country and if we save the boys and girls the men and women will take care of themselves."

Plan Hebrew School.

Rabbi Ruthman, of New York, delivered a lecture at the Synagogue of the Children of Israel, Sunday night, it being the third day of the celebration of the Feast of Chanukah. It is proposed to organize a Hebrew school here, which will probably be conducted in rooms set apart for that purpose at the synagogue. A committee is to be appointed sometime this week to solicit subscriptions. A contribution of $100 has already been received. It was given by M. Abrams.

Lose to Newark.

The Y. M. C. A. second team went to Newark Saturday and met defeat at the hands of the Newark High School five, 18 to 9. Hoagland made a sensational shot from a difficult position on the extreme left. The Plainfield players were: Templin and Joseph, forwards; Hoagland, centre; Bogardus and Mackey, guards. Ten men were used in the game by the Newark team.

A Wife to be Pitied.

"I don't believe in early shopping," said the short man in the corner of the car.

"Why not?" the man with the dark green hat asked him.

"For a very good reason," replied the short man. "If I don't give my wife her Christmas spending money until the day before Christmas she can't come back at me for more, can she?"

And he grinned atrociously.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FIRE DESTROYS A HOUSE

Fred Stevens' Home Near Dunellen Devoured by Flames, Loss $9,000.

The home of Fred Stevens, west of Dunellen, was entirely destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. The building was a modern frame furnace before its only occupant, Mrs. Stevens, was aware that anything was wrong. She was sitting in the library reading at about 5 o'clock when some one rang the door bell and told her that the house was afire. Smoke was belching from the roof in great clouds. A cry of fire brought the neighbors with buckets and they worked frantically to subdue the flames. Others dragged some of the furniture from the lower floor, but only a part of it could be saved before the heat drove them out.

The Beechwood Heights volunteer fire department arrived with a hose cart, too late to save the residence, but a stream was kept on the barns and other outbuildings, and as a result, they escaped without damage.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been due to a defective flue. There was a heavy fire in the furnace.

The loss, including that of the building and furniture, is estimated at $9,000. Nothing on the second floor was saved and only a part of the goods in the lower rooms. The house was new, having been built within a year by Fred Stevens, who came here from the West with his family, wife and one son. Mr. Stevens is a traveling salesman and was away from home at the time. The son, who is thirteen years old, was visiting at a neighbor's and his mother was the only person at home. She has a kennel of pedigree dogs and the safety of these pets was one of her first thoughts. They were taken to a nearby yard and tied to the fence. The dogs have been exhibited at Madison Square Garden, where they took blue ribbon prizes, and are therefore highly prized by their owner.

The Stevens home was one of the show places of that locality, its well kept appearance attesting the admiration of all passersby. It is situated half way between Conover's Corner and the village of Lincoln.

The family has accepted the hospitality of their nearest neighbor, Mr. Naylor, for the time being, and what few household goods which were rescued are packed in the barn.

PATROLMAN MAKES IMPORTANT CAPTURE

What will evidently prove to be an important capture was made by Patrolman Daniel McDonald at 9 o'clock Sunday when he arrested Daniel Robinson, colored, as he was passing down Watchung avenue alongside the P. M. C. A. building. A search of the prisoner brought to light a .32 calibre revolver, fully loaded; a blackjack and a pair of heavy socks, such as are used by burglars to put over their shoes when entering a house. He also carried a large gunny-sack under his arm.

The patrolman was standing at the side entrance of the association building when Robinson came along and was greatly startled when the former stepped in front of him. His mumbled something about wanting to know where Warren street was located and grew more confused as the officer asked him questions. McDonald became suspicious and at once placed the man under arrest when he discovered the revolver in his pocket.

In the city court Monday, Robinson, attempted to explain his possession of the weapons by saying that he was on his way to Watchung to get a dog belonging to him that was being kept by a man for whom he formerly worked. He recently moved to Plainfield, he said, and has been living on Cottage place. He carried the gun and blackjack, he explained, because the Watchung man had several dogs about his place and he was afraid they might attack him when he entered the premises. The sack, he said, was to bring home some corn and the socks were simply a pair that had been given him.

Judge Runyon informed Robinson that his story did not sound plausible and held him in $250 bail to wait the grand jury's action. He was unable to secure a bondsman and was committed to Elizabeth.

Appropriate.

"Yes," said the amateur inventor, "I am thinking about building an airship of the dirigible balloon type. What do you think would be an appropriate name?"

"Call it 'Theory,'" laughed the facetious friend.

"And why 'Theory'?"

"Because a theory is so easily exploded."— Chicago News.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP WINNER TELLS OF OXFORD LIFE

The following are extracts from a letter written by F. Marmaduke Potter Rutgers '09, of Metuchen, in which he gives some interesting impressions of Oxford:

"As postage rates between Great Britain and the United States have been reduced, I thought I could afford to write you a few lines about my adventures, requesting news, of which, I obtained quite a good deal in the Targum—and concerning sundry other things.

"On Sunday morning, 3 a. m., October 4, the Oxford "stewed gent" arrived in Liverpool safe and sound, though a considerable portion of what should have become a part of him was left in various portions of the Atlantic. I never before thought it possible for a machine to produce and give forth more than we fed to it, but have now proved the fact.

"On Saturday morning, when I got up and looked out the porthole I saw the cliffs of the Emerald Isle, and they were certainly a pleasant sight after nothing to look at but water for a week.

"They are also a pleasant thing to look upon because of their natural beauty, being of peculiarly soft gray color and rising from the sea clear and bold, with no sandy beach to break the force of the waves. Here and there upon them may be seen groups of cottages, and an occasional tower or soft shimmer of green covers the mountains in most places, and in more fertile spots, there are neatly kept garden patches which as you steam along the cliffs make the whole resemble a picture.

"We anchored off Queenstown, a snug little harbor and changed into semi-circular shape, and a tug came out for passengers and mail. On it came some newsboys, who rushed on board crying: "Paipers, Paipers, anny paipers; Cork Examiner, Sorr. You should have heard their inimitable brogue. As I had changed my money into English coin, I laboriously counted out 'tuppence,' and received a 'papier.'

"A man now suddenly bore down upon me, and asked me where I came from. With becoming dignity I replied 'New Jersey.' He then asked me my destination, course I would take up, etc. Perceiving from his questions that he was ignorant of all things American, and of all things generally, I rolled off the name of my course in its most reprehensible condition, "Litterae Humaniores."

"He made a few notes as a bluff and asked more questions about the *party, how many, etc. I now gath*ered that he had all the time been asking about that party, but did not further enlighten him, so I presume that the 'Cork Examiner' had something to say next day about the 38 Rhodes Scholars from New Jersey going to Oxford to study some unpronounceable subjects.

"On board ship I had a chance to give the fellows some of the songs we sing around college. We formed a quartette and rendered "In the Evening by the Moonlight" and others—with the true coon accent from the Southern men.

"While wandering about Liverpool it was amusing to see the curious glances cast at us, which were returned with interest. What especially attracted my attention was the inconsistency of their low massive stone buildings and high top-heavy tram cars, which run on the left hand track, in fact, everything here takes the left in passing, hansoms, bicycles, etc., doncher know. What especially attracted their attention was the white trousers and the huge slouch hat one of the wild and woolly Westerners wore.

"Later in the day we started for Oxford, via Chester, and arrived in Oxford about 8:30 that night.

"It is scarcely necessary for me to enter into details of Oxford, as you may obtain them in better form in Baedeker's, but the general tone of the place is antique, and it is this that gives it much of its charm. Everywhere you go you find old stone buildings, many of them colleges, and these time-chipped walls and venerable aspect, with their background of history, are inspiring to one who is used to the new things of America.

"The Colleges are all built on the Quad plan, and these Quads are very beautiful. In numerous instances, Christ church is my college, familiarly called the 'House' which sounds homelike, and its Quad is especially large and fine. The main one which you enter from under Old Tom tower is carpeted with grass and contains in the centre, a fountain plays. *The college's old halls, stone stair*cases an ddank, dim-lighted corridors give one an almost uncanny feeling. When you get in the great dining hall with walls lined with handsome full-length portraits of various dignitaries, an light coming only from candles set about on the tables, and when you sit down to a meal after the mumbling of a Latin grace, you are inclined to think you have stepped into a book or back somewhere in historic times.

"This is not the only old custom. Everywhere they are numerous years behind the times. They use quill pens altogether in college, are just putting in shower baths, the bicycles are a wonder to behold, and they are only just beginning to realize that America is not an unexplored wilderness. One official addressed a letter to Boston, Penn. I guess he forgot the Boston Tea Party.

"One thing I know you are anxious to hear about is Chapel. On week days it is at 8 o'clock, but by going to roll call on Sunday at 9 and to two Sunday services you need only go once during the week as only four chapels are required in a week. The first day I roused up and had breakfast before chapel, but soon discovered that you do not have it here until afterwards, and your lectures, if you have any, do not as a rule begin before 10. We have two hours of lectures a week and one hour with my tutor, which makes three hours altogether, a week. The rest I do on my own hook.

"At Sunday services, I have to wear a long white surplice, but only about four during the week. They pray that King Edward may vanish all his enemies but my amen to this is not very noticeable.

"At night after 9 o'clock we are supposed to wear cap and gown, and proctors are about to fine you 5 shillings if you do not. I have, however, not to do this, and especially is this seen among the Americans for when we meet every Saturday night at the American Club, of which Hull is president, scarcely any wear gowns.

"You must know that I am now an English gentleman, must be called Esq., must not carry bundles or do other menial labor. William, my servant, is to do this for me. If I have a bundle to carry I wait till night and then joyfully follow the boys.

"Around Oxford everybody looks on you as a great opportunity. Tradesmen, colleges, and all wring out the money at every turn. When I play tennis I must needs wear white shirt and bags, of descriptive word they use for trousers. My ordinary costume is a rough tweed Norfolk jacket, gray flannel trousers, and green waistcoat. Flannel shirts are worn almost exclusively among the students, and in such a damp climate, they are very comfortable."—Rutgers Targum.

XMAS EXERCISES AT GROSZMANN SCHOOL

Christmas exercises were held at the Groszmann School of Nervous and Atypical Children, "Watchung Crest" Saturday afternoon. A representative audience from Plainfield and New York city was present, and all seemed pleased with the results which the institution has accomplished. They enjoyed a series of well-rendered dramatic plays given by children, who, to the uninitiated, could scarcely be told from the average child of the school age.

The stage with its numerous mechanical electric and scenic devices, the costumes, the hall decorations, etc., were an agreeable surprise to the audience. The acting was natural and unstudied, the entire festival being presented in the spirit of good fellowship. While the children showed a fair degree of self-control, this was not marred by too much self-consciousness.

During the intermission, Dr. Groszmann made a few remarks, briefly stating the nature and importance of such work as the school is doing. His remarks were especially appropriate to the occasion and this season of the year. During the afternoon there was a Christmas tree celebration, the singing of carols, with organ accompaniment by Miss Edith Emmons.

BIG WINDFALL FOR SOUTH PLAINFIELDER?

William Reilly, foreman of a Lehigh Valley section gang at South Plainfield, is one of three who will inherit a fortune left by a cousin who recently died near Kansas City, Mo. The other two are John Reilly, of Newark, and Patrick Reilly, of Inniscarty, Ireland, the South Plainfielder's brothers. According to gossip in the neighborhood the estate is valued at $150,000, but Mr. Reilly could not be located today to confirm the story.

*The estate is said to consist of in*terests in two gold mines in California, $7,000 in life insurance, several hundred head of cattle, 160 acres of land and a number of houses near Kansas City. Mr. Reilly is village constable.

Township Remembers Children.

The New Providence Township Improvement Society will entertain the children of the township Saturday night, December 26, at Berkeley Lyceum. It has been arranged that Santa Claus will spend the evening with the little folks and distribute the presents. William Jeffery, president of the society, will preside and Frank C. Shaffer, the secretary, is in charge of the entertainment, which will be a great treat for the young-sters, and is to be a surprise. The Board of Education is assisting in the preparations.

"Oh, fly with me," murmured the poet, "to the ends of the earth."

CHRISTMAS OBSERVANCES

Appropriate Services at First Presbyterian, Park Ave. Baptist and Elsewhere.

IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOLS, TOO.

Special Sermons on the Great Feast —Music a Feature at All the Services—The Program.

Christmas exercises were held in these churches Sunday:

First Presbyterian.

Christmas services were held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, under the auspices of the Sunday-school, and in the evening the quartet choir, assisted by Mrs. Guy Bender, soprano; Miss Clara VanFleet, pianist and Anton Gloeckner, violinist, gave a special musical service. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

The morning exercises were in charge of Superintendent LeRoy H. Gates, and began with a processional, "Ring Out Glad Bells," followed by an anthem, "Arise! Shine," by the quartet, recitation, "Christmas story," was given by Edith Shotwell, John Martin, Dorothy Adams and Edward Boyle. A carol by the primary department was followed with a recitation by Katherine Eyres, Norman Humfrey, Gladys Delbridge and Howard Wilson. Another carol by the primary department preceded a vocal selection by Phoebe Humfrey, Ethel Hazel, Hattie Kriney and Margaret Lounsbery.

Pauline Gates gave a recitation entitled "Christmas Bells," and Mildred Boyle sang a "Christmas Hymn," and "Giving" was the title of a recitation by Gladys Edsall. Elston Hoagland sang a "Christmas Song." Former Superintendent J. B. Hill made a few remarks to the school and after an offertory solo, "The Birthday of the King," the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, made a short address.

*The program of the special musi*cal service in the evening was given as published in The Daily Press Saturday including a ten minute talk by Dr. Herring. The numbers were violin and piano selection, anthem, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," baritone solo, "Nazareth;" anthem, "O Babe Divine;" offertory solo, "Prince of Peace;" anthem, "Star of the Orient;" anthem, "Arise! Shine;" violin, piano and organ selection, benediction.

The musical service was in charge of Ford Brailer, organist and choirmaster, and the various numbers by the quartet were greatly enjoyed by large congregations.

Park Avenue Baptist.

All of the services at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday were devoted to the observance of Christmas. Rev. A. R. Winn, the *pastor, preached appropriate ser*mons and the afternoon Sunday-school session was given over to an elaborate program of recitations and music.

A choir of twenty voices, under the direction of Robert E. Humpston, organist and choirmaster, sang anthems during the morning service. The selections were: "Behold, I Bring You Good Tidings," Gerbel; "The Angels Are Singing," Lacey; "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Hall Mew. Pinn's text was from Isaiah, 9, 6, his subject, "Israel's Vision of the Christ Child." That the world would soon realize the fulfillment of Isaiah's dream of universal peace was the belief he expressed, naming as one of the evidences of its nearness the passing of theological strife. The ancient bloody, so called, religious wars were now looked upon as an absurd way of serving God. He called attention to the fact that the clergy of the present day, of all denominations are united in Christ, not by deductions of ecclesiatical counsel, but in general feeling of good will. The differences among the three factions of the Baptist church were declared to be the same as between twelve and twelve and a half, that is, they cannot be discovered. Ministers come together at various conventions, not to discuss the merits of their respective creeds, but as a means of bringing about this universal peace.

The speaker said we have become remote, he said, because of modern inventions for annihilating distance. This shrinking of the world's geography, through improved methods of fast travel, quick inter-communication by telephone, telegraph and mail, and the use of the press was declared to be the greatest agency in the world's history for the developing of international life. Another influence named was the exchange of literature between the nations, and the translation into the different languages.

The speaker prophesied that in the not distant future cannons and other implements of warfare would be placed in museums and exhibited as ancient instruments of torture. "There will be no more war when the people get into their hearts Christ, the Prince of Peace," he said.

The Sunday-school exercises in the afternoon were held in the chapel of the church before an audience that packed both rooms. It had been announced that gifts for the children of the Day Nursery would be received, and as a result nearly everybody who attended carried a parcel, which was deposited on the platform. These packages were of all sizes and shapes and were referred to in a short talk by the school superintendent, G. E. Hall, in which he thanked the donors.

An orchestra of ten pieces rendered the music. The musicians were: Piano, Miss Mamie Clark; violins, G. W. V. Moy, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Wilson; flute, Elmer Wheeler; cornet, W. Frazee; trombone, G. T. Dunham; cello, Dr. J. F. Berg; bass, F. H. Buchman; conductor, Arthur S. Mosher.

This program was given:

Selection, "Gloria," Haydn, orchestra; carol, school; responsive reading; prayer, Rev. A. E. Finn; carol, school; "The Christmas Story," Mrs. D. M. Runyon; carol, school; "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," quartet; carol school; selection, "The Heavens Are Telling," Haydn, orchestra; carol, school; recitation, "The Star of Bethlehem," Cornelia Smith; carol, school; "The Angels Are City," primary department; carol, "Christmas Bells are Ringing," solo and chorus, Miss Nora Schenck and school; recitation, "The Christmas Gifts," Clara Hadley; carol, "The Angels' Songs," primary department; carol, school; carol, school; selection, "March Pontificale," Gounod, orchestra.

At the conclusion of the exercises, Theodore Runyon was presented with a set of books, a gift from his Bible class. Nelson Runyon made the presentation.

In the evening, Rev. A. E. Finn preached a sermon on "The Christmas Message of Cheer." The choir sang an anthem entitled, "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings."

Crescent Avenue Church.

This was the program at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church: Morning, Prelude, offertory on two Christmas hymns, Gullmant and them, "Appear, Thou Light Divine," Morrison; solo, "The Pilgrim," Adams; offertory, "Awake, Put on Thy Strength," Case; postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel. Evening —Prelude, "Andante Grazioso," Beethoven; anthem, "The Woods and Every Sweet Smelling Tree," West; anthem, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," Neidlinger; solo, "The Christmas Tree—The Shepherds—The Kings," Cornelius. Mrs. Virginia Wilson was the soloist.

Hope Chapel.

At both services in Hope Memorial chapel, Sunday, a special musical program was given under the direction of the organist, Mrs. L. R. Howard. At the morning service, a tenor solo was rendered by John Storm and in the evening Miss Eunice Eckert and Harold Brownell gave a duet. "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Pastor Howard continued his series of special sermons on St. Paul and in the evening preached on the topic, "The Coming of the Saviour."

Married at Synagogue.

Miss Mollie Shulman, of New York, and Abraham Lotwin, of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Synagogue of the Children of Israel. The bride is a sister of Mrs. I. Srager, of West Third street, at whose home a supper was held after the ceremony. Only members of the family were present. Rabbi M. Ruthman officiated.

MISS MYRTLE BOYLON THE BRIDE OF CORRY AMMERMAN

Miss Myrtle Boylon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah N. Boylon, of Regent street, and Corry Ammerman, also of the borough, were married Tuesday evening by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. The ceremony was performed at Mr. McKelvey's home, the couple being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bert M. Waldron, of the borough. Mrs. Waldron is a sister of the bride. Following the ceremony the couple returned to the home of the bride's parents, where an informal reception was held.

The bride was gowned in a tailor-made suit of green material, with hat to match, while her sister, wore a tailor-made gown of lavender cloth. The couple will reside on Somerset street, the borough. Mr. Ammerman is employed at the freight-house and both he and the bride have a host of friends.

IMPORTANT POSITION FOR DR. HENRY K. CARROLL.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, who was former secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, and who has long time has been one of the conspicuous leaders in that denomination, has been appointed secretary of the executive committee for the United States and Canada of the coming World Missionary Conference, to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, June 14-24, 1910. The first meeting of the committee will be held in the Presbyterian building, New York, January 12.

Dr. Carroll was special educational commissioner to Porto Rico, which appointment he received from President McKinley.

FIVE NEW FREEHOLDERS

Noah Woodruff, the Dean, Among those to Retire from Union County Board.

ON THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31.

A Decided Change in the Board, Principally Among Elizabeth's Representation.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will meet Thursday, December 31, when the work of the year will be completed and the present board will go out of existence. In the closing session the report of County Collector N. R. Lesslit will be received and county bills will be paid. The session will also, at its conclusion, leave the office of director, clerk and county attorney vacant. At noon the next day the new county board will be organized and the officers for the year elected. It is generally supposed that the present officers will be renamed.

Five members of the board will retire at the end of its present term. They are Freeholders Noah Woodruff, of Union Township, and Thomas J. Pierson, J. Logan Fay, Robert C. Maurer and Daniel P. McGovern, of Elizabeth. Their successors will be Aaron D. Crane, of Union Township, and Thomas F. Haviland, William Hann, Charles J. Jensen, and Jacob Martin, of Elizabeth. The new board will consist of sixteen Republicans and four Democrats. The old board consisted of eleven Republicans and nine Democrats.

Noah Woodruff, the retiring dean of the minority, is the dean of the present board, having served as a freeholder for a long term of years. He succeeded his father, who held office in the board for many years. Daniel P. McGovern, another retiring member of the minority, was appointed to the board to fill out the vacancy caused by the death of John J. Donahue.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE HEARS MRS. WM. LADDIE.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street. There was a large attendance in spite of the busy holiday season. Mrs. William Laddie, president of the New Jersey State Association, addressed the women, infusing much of her own spirit and enthusiasm in the work into the local association.

Among the visitors was Mrs. Dorr, one of the district presidents of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in Minnesota, and her reports from the west were both interesting and encouraging to all.

Joseph Smith Surprised.

Master Joseph Smith, of West Third street, was given a surprise party at his home Monday night by a number of his friends. The evening was spent playing games, after which supper was served. Among those present were May Wilson, William Sutton, Margaret McCarthy, Morris FitzGerald, Florence Briscoe, Charles Cullen, Margaret Case, William Boyle, Rosie Mahon, George Gray, Katheryn Harkins, Rosel Hawkins, Joseph Bickerman, Katherge FitzGerald, Frances Sullivan, John Dion, Gladys Stuart, James Cullen, Nellie Smith and Joseph Smith.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Invitations have been issued for the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voehl, Sr., which will be celebrated at their home on Grove street Wednesday night, January 6.

BALM FOR BROKEN HEART

Raritan Man Must Pay $1,500 for Trifling with Miss Sher's Affections.

FAIR PLAINTIFF MUCH ELATED

She Told the Jury That He Had Not Only Jilted Her But Had Borrowed $300.

It is going to cost Samuel Glazer, of Raritan, $1,500 for trifling with the affections of Miss Mary Sher, of Perth Amboy, in addition to the costs of suit and his two counsel, unless he secures a reversal in a higher court. The jury which heard the unusual breach of promise suit in the Circuit Court at New Brunswick, returned with a verdict for that amount for the fair plaintiff.

The jury took about a half an hour to consider the case. Judge Lloyd held court longer than usual and missed his train home to Camden in order to finish the case and send it to the jury Wednesday afternoon.

When the jury returned Clerk Watson put the usual questions and asked Foreman Walter Green, of Madison, how it found. Mr. Green has served on grand juries in the past and was accustomed to finding bills of indictment, so he answered, "We find a bill."

"What is the verdict?" demanded the clerk.

"We find a bill," repeated the foreman.

"You mean you find the defendant guilty and how do you assess the damages?"

"$1,500 for the plaintiff," replied the foreman.

Miss Sher and her family seemed elated. There was gloom across the court room where Glazer and the members of his family were sitting. The lawyers for the defense at once prepared to take out a rule to show cause for a new trial.

Miss Sher had charged that Glazer had not only promised to marry her and jilted her, but that he had induced her to sell her profitable business at Perth Amboy and loan him $200. The defense had claimed that she had given him the $200 to buy diamonds; that she now had those diamonds and that it was she who had repudiated the contract to marry.

The bunch of letters which were introduced in the case were not ardent love missives. They were principally brief notes, stating that he would call, or asking her to call. There were no endearing terms, excepting the formal "Dear Mary in the introduction, and "Yours lovingly," at the conclusion.

JERSEY BARS PENNA'S GRAIN, MEAT, CATTLE

Steps have been taken along the New Jersey shore of the Delaware river to effectually stop the shipment into this State from Pennsylvania of all grain, hay and livestock, and also all dressed meat. Inspectors of the State Board of Health have been stationed at all of the ferries along the upper river, and nothing that could carry the "foot and mouth disease" into this State is allowed to enter. The millers in this section have been directed not to accept any shipments of grain from across the river, and butchers have been forbidden to handle any of the meat from Pennsylvania. Cattle on the hoof is, of course, barred.

The order has caused confusion because many butchers had contracts for supplies with Pennsylvania shippers, and they have had to transfer their business to the Western packing houses. The millers have also been forced to buy grains in the West for future milling. The shutting off of this market will be seriously felt by the farmers in Pennsylvania, as a large part of the grain raised in the northeast corner of the State has been milled in this county.

Some of the local farmers have also been hit, as they relied upon the Pennsylvania supply of hay and straw for their stock, and will have to buy at more distant points, with added cost of transportation. It is said the New York City Department of Health has inspectors keeping a close watch upon the farms in this section which ship milk to that city. Thus far the disease has not got any hold here.

AGRICULTURISTS PLAN FOR SCHOOL GARDEN.

The Union county Board of Agriculture plans the establishment of school gardens in the county municipalities for the training of youths who desire to become husbandmen. The boards expects to have the cooperation various school boards in advancing this project.

The board is also making active preparations for a farmers' institute at Westfield on January 21. John B. Smith, State Entomologist, will speak, as will Professor Blake, of the State Agricultural School; Professor Mendler, of this school; State Forester Gaskell and Professor Spencer, of the State Board of Education.

MISS URSULA AUTEN BRIDE OF LEWIS SAUMS

Miss Ursula Auten, daughter of Mrs. Ursula Auten, of West Fifth street, and Lewis Saums, also of this city, were quietly married Wednesday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck at his home on West Front street and was witnessed only by immediate relatives. There were no attendants.

Miss Auten wore a navy blue traveling suit with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Saums left for a wedding trip that will include Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. On returning they will make their home on West Fifth street.

Mr. Saums is a carpenter by trade and enjoys a wide local acquaintance. His bride is a member of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school and is equally well known.

DAUGHTER WILL CARE FOR HOMELESS MOTHER

The aged Italian woman, Mrs. Celiottina Broco, has at last found a home and the borough officials feel that their efforts and worry in her behalf have ended and with credit to them for their perseverance. The woman's troubles began several weeks ago when in a fit of anger she hit herself in the head with a broken bottle. She was then living alone at 16 Duer street and was taken to the hospital, where she recovered from the wound, but it was found that she was a chronic invalid. The hospital does not handle cases when they are discharged at that stage and notified the borough officials to take her away. There was no place to take her, however, where she could be taken care of, and when her son in New York was finally located, he declared he had no place to shelter his mother and refused to provide for her. He was found to be running a barber shop in the Bronx with one small room in the rear, in which he lived.

Just as his mother was about to be forced upon him, a daughter was located at Raritan, and she, though extremely poor, promptly made a place for the old lady, who now is living comfortably and happily in her new home, no more to be tossed about the world, it is hoped.

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH MEN'S CLUB IS FORMED

In connection with a smoker and entertainment held in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Thursday, a men's association was formed under the direction of the rector, Rev. Charles Townsend, with a membership of twenty-eight. Much interest was shown.

The organization was effected by the election of these officers and committees:

President, ex-officio, Rev. Charles Townsend; president, Harry B. Suydam; secretary, W. J. Ochiltree, treasurer, John R. Forster; entertainment committee, J. E. Hull, chairman; L. M. Leek, P. J. Mauger, R. A. Larmour, G. T. Dunham; house committee, E. E. Brown, chairman; Fred Harris and Paul Johnson.

It was voted to hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Thursday in each month in the parish house. There were about forty men present at the smoker and one of the features of the evening was a musical program by Dr. J. E. Hervey Buchanan's orchestra of seven pieces. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB ENJOYS MUSHROOM DINNER.

Members of the Watchung Hunt Club and their wives enjoyed a mushroom dinner at the clubhouse, Thursday, prepared and served by Henri Pedefous. The menu was excellent. It was the first time that he has been persuaded to leave his hotel in the mountain and the club considered itself fortunate in being able to secure his services.

There were about thirty guests, among those present with guests being Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Richter, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler, Mr. and Mrs. W. deLaR. Anderson. After the dinner bridge whist and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Will Hold One-day Kennel Show.

Although the plans are not fully matured yet, sufficient is known to assure Plainfield of an annual one-day open-air dog show. It is proposed to hold the bench exhibition either immediately following or just preceding the annual horse show at the horse show grounds. The chances are strongly in favor of holding the event just after the horse show and the club feels sure that entries from all parts of the Metropolitan district, including Long Island, will be attracted here. Suitable prizes will be offered in the various classes.

BAERMAN INJURED STEPPING FROM CAR

In alighting from a street car in New York late Thursday afternoon, P. D. Baerman, of Dunellen, was thrown and received cuts and bruises about the upper part of the body and head. He was assisted to a nearby drug store, where he obtained temporary treatment and was then able to return home. As he was getting off the train at Dunellen, he collapsed and fainted away. He was removed to his home in a carriage, where he is now under the care of a physician. His condition is not serious.

Mr. Baerman is a chicken fancier and conducts a large chicken farm near Greenbrook. He is about fifty-five years of age and very stout. In explaining the accident, he said that he had signalled the conductor to stop and before he could step off the car it started and threw him into the street.

DR. RICHARD MOLDENKE IS HURT IN A RUNAWAY

Frightened by a passing train, a spirited horse driven by Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, became unmanageable at Watchung avenue and E. Third street, Friday morning, and before the animal could be gotten under control he upset the buckboard in which the doctor and his hired man were riding and the former was thrown a distance of ten feet into the roadway on Watchung avenue, striking his head on the trolley tracks. At the same time part of the wagon passed over his legs. The hired man quickly regained his feet and caught the horse before he had a chance to get away.

Several passersby ran to the assistance of the doctor and he was taken to Cadmus Brothers' drug store, where Dr. M. B. Long was summoned. A hurried examination showed that apparently no bones were broken and that the doctor was suffering mostly from bruises and shock. At his suggestion he was taken to his home in the ambulance. Dr. Long accompanying him. Dr. Moldenke's condition is not serious and he will only be detained at home a short time.

Dr. Moldenke was on his way to the North Avenue Station to take a train for New York when the accident happened. He drove through East Third street and Watchung avenue. The sudden passing of the train over the Watchung avenue bridge frightened the horse just as he was turning into the avenue and this together with the slippery condition of the roadway caused the buckboard to overturn. The damage to the rig was slight, and Dr. Moldenke's man escaped injury.

BOARD OF TRADE'S BANQUET COMMITTEE

The banquet committee having in charge the arrangements for the annual dinner of the Board of Trade, met Thursday in the office of Secretary A. S. Herr and the various sub-committees were appointed to assist in the work of planning the affair. Judge William Newcorn was chosen chairman of the general committee, and he then announced the following committees:

Toastmaster—Henry L. Hall, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Alexander Gilbert, William L. Saunders and Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield. Entertainment—A. E. Force, Edward C. Hardingham and Ralph L. Morrow. Place of dinner and menu —J. Hervey Doane, Francis J. Blatz, Milton Mendel and Edmund Rushmore. Tickets and printing—Eugene M. Laing and J. Fred MacDonald, Press—A. S. Herr, Hugh B. Sweeney and J. Herbert Case. Service—A. E. Force.

The members of the general banquet committeee comprises William Newcorn, chairman; Alexander Gilbert, Ralph L. Morrow, Edmund Rushmore, A. E. Force, Henry L. Hall, A. S. Herr, Eugene M. Laing, Francis J. Blatz, Charles J. Fisk, Samuel Townsend, Hugh B. Sweeney, J. Fred MacDonald, William L. Saunders, Edward C. Hardingham, J. Herbert Case, Milton Mendel and J. Hervey Doane.

After the appointment of committees there was a general discussion of plans, but nothing definite was decided upon. The committee adjourned to meet subject to the call of the chairman.

TRUTHFUL WITNESS SURPRISES COMPLAINANT

John Cronin, a man past sixty years of age, appeared in city court, Friday, as complainant against James Ennis, a youth of twenty, who he charged with committing a brutal assault upon him during which he attempted to use a knife. The defendant asserted that he had been glad to escape with his life and showed marks in his face and hands to verify his statement as to rough treatment. When he had finished speaking Judge Runyon asked if he had any witnesses and he pointed to Mrs. Margaret Hensey, seated among the spectators, as one who saw the whole affair.

"She's a nice, good lady, Your Honor," said Cronin; "and she'll tell you the truth about the way I was abused. She's a fine lady; yes, she is, Your Honor."

Mrs. Hensey told the truth as predicted but it gave Cronin an awful shock. She declared the complainant had first attacked Ennis without provocation and had taken the knife from his own pocket to cut the boy's face. She claimed he tried it from him, he grabbed up a bread knife to renew the attack and was then knocked down in self defense.

"That's not so, Your Honor," Cronin called out; "the truth of this matter has not been told you; the boy has a razor and tried to kill me once before."

"I think Mrs. Hensey has told the truth," Judge Runyon remarked; "at any rate you gave her such a good recommendation I'd be tempted to believe her if she wasn't. It seems to me you were to blame and I'll fine you $50 but suspend sentence as long as you behave yourself. Ennis is discharged."

"Mrs. Hensey is a fine lady," Cronin commented as he went out; "but the truth has not been told."

CIVIL SERVICE TALK BY DR. W. E. FLETCHER

Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, of Union county, president of the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, in an address before the National Civil Service League, in session at Pittsburg Friday, discussed the progress of Civil Service reform in New Jersey. In part he said:

"There are now under the operation of the New Jersey law in state and municipality nearly 11,000 officers and employes, with a prospect of half as many more being included before your next yearly meeting. On the whole the law has thus far worked and is working with gratifying smoothness and efficiency, despite the temporary unfamiliarity of many officials with its provisions. There has been a minimum of friction in its application, and, except in a very few cases of egregious carelessness or perversity, there has been no delay in the certification of payrolls and no interference with the ordinary operations of administration. The testimony has been cordially volunteered by many officials that, instead of complicating it and making it more burdensome, the law has made their work simpler and easier. With very few exceptions the commission and its secretary and examiner have met with nothing but the fullest courtesies from the heads of departments, while many such officials have gone far out of their way to assist the commission and co-operate with it in making the system successful. We have heard from the employes nothing but expressions of pleasure and of gratitude at the effect of the law. In the press some of our former strongest opponents have become our stanch and aggressive supporters. The litigation under the law now in progress in Essex County involves three points. First, the correctness of the commission's classification of certain places, concerning which I may say that this commission does not affect infallibility and will welcome judicial instruction and correction. Second, the validity of the act by which the Essex County government adopted the Civil Service law, concerning which there may be room for reasonable doubts. Third, the constitutionality of the whole law itself, concerning which it seems to me that there can be scarcely the shadow of a shade of doubt. The commission looks forward to the result with cheerful expectation, confident that the law will be abundantly sustained and that its own administration of the law which it is generally approved, and that New Jersey, the State of proverbial justice, the State of good, old, common law, the State whose present enlightened and progressive chief magistrate has declared that it was, if not the first, possible, the best government for all the States in this Union—that that State I say, which has been the latest to adopt the merit system, will not be the first to forsake it and will not incur the thus far unknown reproach of repealing or repealing its Civil Service law."

"All the world loves a lover."

"But that affection is evidently one-sided. The lover denies the rumors of the engagement up to the last minute, and then tries to secure the marriage license on the sly."—Washington Star.

DR. VANCE RECEIVES ATLANTA DELEGATION

The Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, Newark, who was recently called to the pastorate of the Central Presbyterian church, Atlanta, Ga., the largest church of the Southern Presbyterian denomination, received a visit Thursday afternoon from four officers of the Atlanta church, they journeyed all the way North to present the wish of that congregation to the Newark minister.

It has been learned that the salary offered by the Atlanta church is smaller than Dr. Vance gets in Newark. In Newark he receives $7,500 a year and a parsonage at No. 37 Washington street, in the most fashionable section of the city. Dr. Vance says it is not a question of money. He said last night that never had he received such a pressing and persistant call.

In addition to individual letters, he has received resolutions from the Ministers' Association of Atlanta, official papers from the First and Northern Avenue sessions, Atlanta, all urging him to come South. The Atlanta church will provide and furnish a manse for him anywhere in the city that he cares to locate. Central church is located in Washington street, just opposite the capitol building of Georgia.

Just when he will reach a decision Dr. Vance says he does not know. The North church, Newark, which has sixteen hundred members and is the largest of its denomination, has passed resolutions asking their pastor to stay.

Dr. Vance has been sought from many quarters. Three Chicago churches made overtures to him not long ago. To all he has answered that he was satisfied to remain in Newark.

LEGISLATURE MAY REFORM JURY LAW

Governor Fort believes that the darwing of juries should be taken out of politics, and while many people agree with him heartily there is a sentiment throughout the State and among the legislators for the adoption of a plan to abolish political influence with juries without adding more expense to the State.

There is already on the statute books a law recommended by and signed by Governor E. C. Stokes, which provides that a list in proper form, that statute being the one which allows the judge to strike from a panel of jurors drawn by the sheriff any name he desires. He may even strike out all of the names and keep the sheriff busy for weeks drawing others until he is satisfied with the members.

There is likely to be some opposition among the legislators to a believed proposition of Governor Fort to put on the statute books a law making it appointive by the governor in the commissioners in each county, under suitable salary, to draw grand and petit jurors.

The other part of this proposition appeared in the Legislature last winter, and was urged by the Stokes forces. It put on the judge of the county the duty of preparing an eligible list of grand jurors from which the sheriff had to actually draw the required twenty-four grand jurors. This measure was a supplement to the petit jurors statute and was recommended in the messages of Governor Stokes. It failed last winter of passage because in the last hours of the Legislature it mysteriously disappeared and the Democrats have been charged with making away with it.

The power given to the county judge to make the eligible lists of grand jurors, outside of which the sheriff may not draw, would take the drawing of grand jurors out of politics, and the machinery thus provided would not be of any expense to the taxpayers.

Because of these things the legislators are inclined to favor the Stokes proposition rather than make berths for three commissioners of jurors in each of twenty-one counties, all drawing salaries.

The commission plan was tried prior to 1888 and proved unsatisfactory with governors appointing the members.

Enough to Scare Her.

"Bill" Smith is a Bucks county storekeeper, and last spring he came down to Philadelphia to purchase his stock of goods for the summer trade. The goods were shipped immediately, and arrived at his store before he did. Among the lot of cases and packages was a box shaped something like a casket. When Bill's wife saw this one she uttered a scream and called for a hammer. The draryman, hearing her shrill cries, rushed in to see what the trouble was. The wife, pale and faint, pointed to the following inscription on the box:

SENATOR P. C. KNOX TO HEAD TAFT CABINET

Philander C. Knox, United States Senator from Pennsylvania and former Attorney-General of the United States, has been asked by William H. Taft to become Secretary of State in Mr. Taft's Cabinet, and he has consented to serve. Mr. Knox's acceptance was given somewhat reluctantly, as he believed that his abilities could be utilized better in the national legislature than in the executive government.

It is realized by those who are acquainted with the circumstances that Mr. Knox, in agreeing to take the foreign affairs portfolio, is making a great sacrifice of personal inclination. His term in the Senate will expire in March, 1911.

Among the comparatively few who know of Mr. Taft's offer and Mr. Knox's decision much gratification is expressed that Mr. Taft is showing a disposition to form a strong cabinet. It is understood that he has picked out big men for other cabinet positions, and is hopeful of getting them to serve. The Attorney-Generalship is one of the places which is already tentatively filled. Frank B. Kellogg, of Minnesota, who has been mentioned prominently for this office, has not been asked to enter the Cabinet.

Several other names have been mentioned in the gossip about the Attorney-Generalship. There are hints that it will go to Henry M. Hoyt, who, like Senator Knox, is a Pennsylvania man. Mr. Hoyt is now solicitor-general of the United States. He was a classmate of Mr. Taft's at Yale.

GIVE ATTENTION TO THE WRITING DESK.

The writing desk is a very fair index of your character. Therefore, beware.

Nothing is more untidy than an indiscriminate mess of writing utensils loose on the desk. One of the little boxes divided into three sections to hold stamps, elastics and pens is useful, in preserving neatness.

Buying stamps in the books sold by the government is better than any other way of keeping them. There is no possibility of them getting lost or sticky and the book can lie on the blotter just beside the writing desk. If but a few sheets of stamps are bought at once, 3 cents are saved on the price of these books, as they cost a cent whether containing twelve or forty-nine stamps.

If a six large blotter is used do not blot the letters on it, as it makes the desk look slovenly to see it heavily blurred with ink. One of the small roller blotters is convenient, as it always on hand when wanted.

Do not cram pigeonholes in a desk. It may look important but is far from neat. With ordinary attention to one's correspondence the bulging compartments that are seen in many desks are quite unnecessary.

If possible, have one day each week that you devote to your correspondence as a whole. Thus you will not be hounded with the thought of unanswered letters days and nights. Moreover, your living-room or bedroom will benefit in neatness by the regularity.

A Delicious Candy.

"Nut chocolate caramels are a rich delicious confection, immensely popular," says Fannie Merritt Farmee. "Put three and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter in a sauce pan, and when melted add two cupfuls of molasses, one cupful of brown sugar and one-half cupful of milk. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then add one teaspoonful and four and one-half squares of unsweetened chocolate, and stir constantly until the chocolate is smelted. Let boil until when tried in cold water a firm ball may be formed in the fingers. Remove from the range, add one and one-half teaspoons of vanilla and one-half pound of almonds, blanched and chopped. Turn into a buttered pan, cool and cut in small squares."

A Queer Harvest.

It was little Ethel's first visit to church and the sermon had for its text, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." But on her return home she could not remember it, and in consequence was chided by her mother for being stupid.

A fortnight later a seamstress came to the house to do a day's work. After watching her for a while fashion old-style garments like to those that were the vogue, Ethel suddenly exclaimed:

"O, mamma, I know now what the preacher said. It was, 'What you sew in the winter you shall rip in the summer.'"—New York Times.

Delta Upsilon Club Elects.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Delta Upsilon Club was held last night at the home of Lindsey Best, of Madison avenue, when officers were elected for the coming year. Lewis M. Booth, Swarthmore, '99, of Watchung avenue, was elected president; Rev. L. R. Howard, Williams, '98, of West Fifth street, vice-president, and Harold C. Fenno, Williams, '98, of Watchung avenue, secretary.

GOOD FRIDAY INNOVATION

Local Ministers' Association Takes Early Action Departing from Usual Program.

ORATORIO TO BE FEATURE

To Dispense With Sermonettes on "The Seven Words from the Cross"—As to Religious Census.

At the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association in the parish house of Grace church, Thursday, there was a general discussion regarding the character of the Good Friday service to be held during holy week, and it was finally decided that instead of following the usual program of addresses on the "Seven Words of the Cross," which has been the custom for many years to hold a musical service and plan for the rendition of an appropriate oratorio by a chorus choir, comprising a selection of the best singers from the various churches. The program to be under the direction of a well-known musical leader.

It was also decided to hold the service in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church by which time the new organ will be installed. Rev. Dr. Polhemus, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was named the chairman of committee of arrangements, he to select the other members. The matter was taken up at this meeting so that there would be plenty of time to arrange for the same. It was the belief among the members that the change from the customary program would be a welcome one.

The association also received a report from Rev. W. T. Thyrrell, who has been engaged in taking the religious census of the city and borough. This work is about completed and the returns have been placed in charge of a committee comprising Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring and Rev. C. S. Kemble, who will tabulate the same and present the statistics to the association within a short time.

The statistics will show the total number of non-church-goers, the number of people who are members of churches, together with the church preferences of those who are identified with any religious body. After the final report is presented the names of those not members of churches will be turned over to the pastors of churches according to the preference indicated and then the pastors will immediately take up their work of getting in touch with such persons.

PRETTY THINGS THAT GIRLS MAY MAKE.

Every girl should spend a good share of her spare moments with the needle.

Girls who sew neatly may profitably employ that talent by making for themselves or their relatives a collection of scarfs of from two to four yards in length, their texture and finish being governed by the costume with which they are to be worn. Such accessories, designed to accompany the plain tailor-made skirt and coat suits used for school and shopping, are usually of silk or chiffon, which comes in all the fashionable shades. This material is so wide that it may be divided into lengths of one and a half yards each, the two widths being joined crosswise with a strip of self-colored ribbon. The sides are finished with hand stitched narrow hem, they are rolled against a baby ribbon bordering on the right side of the material, or they are featherstitched with silk floss of a contrasting shade.

Black silk scarfs are most effective as well as youthful looking when the ends are embroidered in bright colors or in the pastel blues and greens. Prettiest of all are those having appliqued bands of satin ribbon arranged in imitation of Roman stripes and terminating with long fringe. Or, on repeats the various shades of green, maize, pink and blue employed in the ribbon bordering.

MRS. WELSH HURT.

Coal Hole Cover Tips and Her Leg is Scraped.

Mrs. F. G. Welsh, of McKinley place, met with an accident Friday morning, while passing the Hotel Kensington on North avenue. The walk was covered with ice and snow hiding a coal hole cover. As she stepped on the edge of the cover the piece of iron tipped up with the weight of the woman's body and her foot went into the hole. Her right leg was scraped and bruised almost to the knee.

D. W. Littell ran to the woman's assistance and helped her to extricate her foot from the hole. She insisted on walking home, but on getting as far as Watchung avenue, found it necessary to take a trolley car. The foot and leg were considerably swollen.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 27, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions. The new life in China.—Ezek. xxxvii, 1-14.

China is the most ancient nation in the world that is still playing an important part in the present day history of the world. It was once surrounded by a great wall to prevent association with the other people of the world, and, though the wall perished, the desire for seclusion still remained, and in their mysterious beliefs and methods of living the Chinese continued a secluded nation and an enigma to the rest of the world. But China is awakening. This mighty kingdom, with its millions of people, is beginning to see the light of a new day and to desire to advance along the lines of more modern civilization. The ground once considered so sacred now trembles beneath the tread of the passing train. The hatred of foreigners, which once seemed indigenous to the soil, is losing its hold upon the people. Missionaries are no longer so bitterly opposed, but in high places at least they are very much encouraged. The political condition of China is also rapidly changing. Moreover, the tendency of China seems to be to strongly affiliate with the United States. This fact will, if continued, bring a great opportunity to the Christians of America and place a great responsibility upon us. China is also adopting the Western educational methods. So that quietly, but surely, the great masses of China are beginning to move forward. How will the result affect the world's history? Not for evil, for God's hand is in this movement. The "yellow peril" is a bugaboo, and no one need be frightened by it. Instead we should rejoice in this movement from darkness to the light and should do all in our power through the gospel to hasten it.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Manual gives the following "Mission Notes From China" illustrating its new life:

The nations that have wronged China may well fear the awakening of the giant to a realization of its vast power and hasten to make right, so far as possible, what has been wrong.

It was the great success of Japan that finally led China to see its weakness, and Japan is now leading China into a military prowess that will enable her to conquer the mighty nations of Europe.

The first woman's newspaper in China shows the changed attitude toward women. So do the rapidly increasing number of girls' schools.

One of the most significant changes in China is the adoption of European dress, especially by the young business men. With this goes the cutting off of the cue.

About ten years ago a young Chinese in California received a letter from his father disowning him because he had become a Christian. A short time ago a young Chinese in Los Angeles wrote to his father the story of his conversion and asked him to paste the letter on the walls of his ancestral hall, so that many others, reading it, might turn to the Saviour. His father did so and replied, "When I know how I will tear down my idols and worship Christ with you."

The most powerful official in China, Yuan Shih Kai, viceroy of the capital province, though himself a Confucianist, wrote a book pleading for the most respectful treatment of the Christian missionaries, "since they come to persuade men to the practice of virtue."

Dr. J. Walter Lowry declares that more has happened in China during the last two years than during the previous thousand years.

The Chinese president of the Chinese Reform association says that more than 20,000 Chinese students are pursuing advanced modern courses of study, that more than 4,000,000 Chinese can speak English, that more than 10,000 American, English and European works have been translated into Chinese and that the courts are being remodeled after the English system. Some 5,000 common schools have been started in the one province of Canton.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. iii, 1-7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Luke xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; Acts i, 8; xiii, 1-3; Rom. x, 14, 15; Ps. ii; Rev. xxii, 17.

In Duty.

I am a Christian Endeavorer because I want to do something. A reverend and much loved brother walked into my study one day and asked me the meaning of "Endeavor." I immediately turned up my big lexicon and found that it comes from two French words—en (in), devoir (duty). What a splendid motto for a society—in duty, in duty. Duty is that which I am bound to do. Young men and women around me, boys and girls, old and lonely, sick and poor, are crying to me for help. The Christian Endeavor shows me how I can help them. I never allow my Christian Endeavor meetings to be frittered away over useless twaddle or matters of business. Time is too precious. Lives are at stake. Soul lives are being thrown away. Men and women are perishing, and I am "in duty." I must find work in God's world. Our society is to find it for me. If there is not an open door, I must knock a hole in the wall. There is a word of praise to be given, a buttonhole of flowers to be placed in the pulpit, a token of love for some one who is sad, and because I am to be always "in duty" therefore I am a Christian Endeavorer. — Australian Christian Endeavor Link.

A Training School.

Christian Endeavorers are "Christ's apprentices." The Christian Endeavor society is the training school.—Christian Endeavor News (England).

THE SCHOOL TEACHER IS VERY HUMAN.

She must be the embodiment of all that is good, wise, and beautiful, in fact, but a little lower than the angels. And she must be willing to hear complaints from the parents of unruly children who never obey at home and would not do so at school if not disciplined. Have you a child at school who comes home every night with stories of exaggerated character about his or her teacher?

Yes, teachers go cross, just like the children and their mothers. There are times when teaching is very irksome and teachers grow weary of the dull monotony of school life. Children are not the quiet, docile little creatures they are oftimes represented, and many ordinarily meek little ones will sometimes become unruly, rebellious and ugly in disposition. It is then the teacher remonstrates. If a teacher is very harsh—unreasonably so—or she truly neglects her duties or does anything not worthy of a teacher, she should be reported to the board. Do not attempt to "settle her case" yourself.—Woman's National Daily.

THE DRESS AND THE PERSONALITY.

Does dress make the man? Indeed no, but it helps. There is nothing more unrefined than a half-grown youth in loud clothes. In nine cases out of ten such a boy has no judgment. He thinks he is in style when he buys a gay tie, bright socks and a gaudy hat. Even men commit the error of choosing the shape and color of clothes they like best rather than those most suited to them. They do not suty dress as women do and many make grievous faults, but, even so, we see more poorly dressed women than men. An intelligent study of one's limitations will prevent the average man from dressing in bad taste.

All women of refinement like escorts to be neatly dressed and many a glaring suit has kept the suitor at a distance. Good clothes are quickly noticed, but quiet taste never intrudes. A tailored suit always looks well, no difference how often it is worn, if kept carefully cleaned and pressed. Boys can be taught at home how to press their own arguments and many do so. Do not nag at the husband, brother or son about clothes, but begin with the boy and teach him how to dress and make it a rule that he must be clean.

I can remember that when I went to school (not so many years ago!) there was only one boy in the room who wore a white collar or parted his hair, and the others often so dirty they were sent out to wash their hands. The one clean boy looked like a flower among weeds. It was merely the custom to be careless. A boy should be taught to take good care of his clothes and hands. Dirty nails are an abomination in the sight of the public, and these little beginnings are what lead up to refinement in the man, the love of good clothes, good colors and modest styles that place him in favor in the social and business world.—Woman's National Daily.

SILKS FOR THE EVENING GOWNS.

Paris is using crepe meteor for some of her novelest gowns. It is to be found in the shops here. It is really a crepe de chine with a satin surface. One can easily imagine what beautiful gowns it makes.

Peking crepe meteor is still lovelier. It is this same crepe meteor with stripings of satin-surface that have the desirable corded effect.

Satin ondoyant is another new arrival in the silk family. It has a rich softness like the feel of velvet, yet it is not heavy.

Satin majestic belongs to the same class of these delightfully soft, satiny silks that have so much vogue this year.

Indeed, nearly the whole of silk fashion is summed up in this description—soft and lustrous.

For trimming purposes striped black and white silks are very effective, especially for the large lapels of the fashionable directoire costumes.

Rich brocaded silks in cashmere and Oriental effects are also new for use as vests in tailored suits or for a touch of handsome trimming.

The new pompadour crepes for scarfs come this season with a broad band in cashmere effect through the centre, with plain color each side.

Ottoman silk, or bengaline, as some call it, is back in favor for coats, revers, collar and cuff trimming and hats. Some of the handsomest imported evening wraps are made of it. In the beautiful new colors, trimmed lavishly with gold or silver lace, it makes a coat fit for a queen.

NEW YORK POULTRY SHOW.

Opening at Madison Square Garden on Tuesday, December 29th, and closing on Saturday, January 2, the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will add another success to its already notable record by its Twentieth Annual Exhibition, for which the entries will close with Secretary H. V. Crawford, Montclair, N. J., on December 14.

It has a national reputation, and with its competition open to the world, its importance is recognized by many foreign entries, and the comparison with native-bred birds is honestly made by careful judges.

No better show is given in this country than that which comes each year, with increasing demands for space, and fills the Garden with its splendid poultry, its vast array of pigeons, its superb showing of pet stock, and with every appurtenance to poultry raising as evidence of the contrast between the modern and the old time methods.

It is a show that the public likes to see, and the public's appreciation is an incentive to its exhibitors and its managers.

The Atlantic Cat Club has its seventh championship cat show for three days, December 30, 31, and January 1, for which entries will close December 18 with Miss D. B. Champion, West New Brighton, Staten Island.

There is certainly enough to see, with the poultry, pigeons, pet stock and cats, and each year the public anticipation is fulfilled.

ON EXPLORATIONS IN THE FAR EAST.

While we are busily plodding along in the twentieth century, several eminent archaeologists are bringing the past ages to light in the Holy Land.

Professor David Gordon Lyon, Hollis professor of divinity and curator of the Semitic Museum at Harvard University, who has returned from an archaeological expedition to Samaria, reports the finding of specimens of Greek and Roman pottery in what is supposed to be a temple erected by Herod the Great. The site where the discoveries were made, says the New York Herald, is near the modern village of Sebastieh, and is marked by a cluster of standing columns. The results of the summer campaign are regarded as gratifying. Ample provision has been made by Jacob H. Schiff, of New York, who endowed Harvard with the funds to carry on the work for three or four years, for taking up the work of excavation anew next spring, about the end of April, at the close of the rainy season in the Holy Land. It is expected that Professor George Reisner, of Harvard, in whose name the permit for excavation stands, will be in charge.

CLEANING GLOVES.

I have heard it said that some kid gloves can be washed, but my personal experience does not bear out this assertion. It is possible to wash chamois gloves, however, and make them as soft and pliable as when new. Wash with a tepid white soap suds and rinse in warm water. Then use a warm rinsing water containing a few drops of olive oil. The oil has a tendency to soften the chamois. A little bluing can be added to the water, and saffron can be used in the rinsing water for tan or dark chamois gloves. Damp bread crumbs will clean ordinary dust stains from glace gloves, and Fuller's earth, mixed with French chalk, is also very good for the purpose. Pure white glace gloves can be cleaned with chloroform. Glove forms cost about 10 cents, and a woman can clean her own glove cleaning should provide herself with a pair. While gasoline is very useful in cleaning, it leaves a disagreeable odor and kid retains this odor much longer than cotton or woolen fabrics.

got names for 'em, too.

School Teacher—Why, how nice. I suppose one of them is to be named after your mamma; but what is she going to name the other?

Johnny—No, they ain't got girl names. Pa called them "Thunder and Lightning" as soon as he heard about them.—London Opinion.

Logic.

"Madam," said the attorney for the other side, "you seem to have an exceedingly sharp temper."

"Yes, sir," answered the complaining witness in divorce case. "It comes to me by direct inheritance from my husband's ancestors."

"That's absurd, madam. How could you inherit an irritable disposition from your husband's ancestors?"

"I inherited my husband from them, didn't I?"—Chicago Tribune.

Children, Try It.

Cut a turnip or a carrot in half, use the blossom end for the vessel and hollow it out. Fill with a sponge, covered with bird seed or mustard seed, and keep it moist. The turnip will sprout leaves that will curve upward to cover the turnip, and the mustard will sprout and make a pretty top. A carrot produces a prettier leaf than the turnip.

Alarming.

Mrs. Highnun—I see from the fashion plates that gowns are not to be worn so long next year.

Mrs. Pneuritch—Gracious! My husband will have a fit. I never wear a gown more than once or twice, even now!—Chicago Tribune.

QUITE A DIFFERENT MATTER.

A stranger went into a lawyer's office and asked abruptly:

"If a person falls down an open coalhole, can he sue the owner of the premises for damages?"

"Certainly, sir," replied the lawyer, "certainly. Big damages, and get them, too."

"Well," went on the client, "as my son was passing your house this morning he fell through a coal-hole and broke his leg."

"H'm!" said the lawyer, meditatingly. Then briskly: "Did he use ordinary vigilance to prevent such an accident? Did he stop and examine the condition of the pavement before treading upon it? Answer me that, sir."

"Stop! Why, no—"

"Ah!" ejaculated the man of law, triumphantly. "I thought so. The boy is guilty of criminal negligence, for he might have fallen upon one of my family under the coal-hole—might have killed us all, sir. As it is, I shall sue him for trespass."

Not Much!

"So you are one of those who want to be let alone?"

"Yes, sir. What we wants is a little sunshine and not so much tinkering with other people's business."

"What line are you in?"

"I am the owner of a number of buildings that my agents are renting to people who keep screens in front of the windows. It may be that they are not strictly moral—some of 'em—but it's not my business to go around looking for chinks for the purpose of trying to discover things I wasn't invited to like."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Happy Days.

"My Applejack days," said Mr. Rockingham as he signed a check for the *purpose of satisfying one of the cred*itors of his titled son-in-law, "were the days when I was carrying a dinner pail that my wife had filled with her own hands."

"Him," replied his candid fellow-millionaire, "in those days I suppose you could sit down comfortably and eat with your knife, and never had to be constantly on the alert for fear you might say you 'done it.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Force of Habit.

Yous wife seems to have lost her old tone of command. Her voice has a soft, pleading quality now."

"Yes. She has acquired it trying to keep a maid since we moved out to our suburban home."—Chicago Record-Herald.

SURE TO COME AROUND.

Shorgun—Do you think you will be seeing Jones this week?

Longun—Yes.

Shorgun—You are quite sure?

Longun—Certainly, I owe him a bit.

Christian Optimism

A series of Sermons by Rev. r. Chas E. Herring

HAVE FAITH IN GOD

"Have faith in God." That is the word of our Lord and the very keynote of His preaching. When men asked about working the works of God, Jesus replied, "this is the work of God that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent." The basis of all blessing and activity was faith and faith in Him. When any one asked His help, He always demanded faith, as the means of His help. He said that *God would bless men, not only be*cause of His power, but according to their faith. He declared that when men prayed, it should always be accompanied by faith. Jesus never taught that the faculty of faith was a gift bestowed on some and not on others. All men possess the sense of faith, though it is a developed sense in some, and a disused sense in others. Some men have confessed that for scientific reasons they have been compelled to abandon their faith in God and His revelation. Jesus never pitied those men, for He expected them to use their sense of faith as they would use their sense of sight. As the beauty of the landscape is apprehended by the sense of sight, and the exquisite harmonies of music are revealed to us by the sense of hearing, so the consciousness of God's presence in our lives, is communicated to our sense of faith. Faith is but another word for religion.

The Psalmist had a vivid sense of the presence of God in his practical life, when he exclaimed: "Whither shall I go from Thy spirit, or whither shall I flee from Thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven Thou art there, if I make my bed in sheol, behold, Thou art there. If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall Thy hand lead me and Thy right hand shall hold me." He felt that he could not get away from God's presence and power. Let that same comforting and inspiring faith be yours. Through all the varying circumstances of your life, His hand is leading you and His right hand holding you.

Add to this thought the fuller revelation of our Lord. He said to His disciples as they were gathered around the table at the Last Supper, "Ye believe in God, Believe also in Me." Trust this perfect revelation I have given you of the loving interest of God. Remember that I have told you that He is the Father of each individual soul, and that He looks after the details of each individual life. Do not think of being under the stern laws of nature; you are under the protection and guidance of a loving father. Perhaps you cry with men today, in this nervous age, is, that they do not perfectly believe God, and yet faith in God is what they need more than anything else.

The late George J. Romanes, was one of those men whose scientific studies destroyed his belief in God and His revelation, but later, his returned to his original faith in Christ and then he said: "I take it as unquestionably true that there is a vacuum in the soul of man which nothing can fill save faith in God."

Bishop Fallows, who is associated with the Emmanuel movement in Chicago, tells the story of a young man who was hindered in carrying on his studies by mental exhaustion. His physician declared that he could do nothing for him, so he sent him to Saint Pauls church of Chicago, that he might receive mental treatment. A few questions revealed the young man's difficulty. In his childhood he believed in God who was interested in men. An elderly relative, unfortunately came into his life. This relative did not believe that there was a God. He despised religion, and the influence of the older man soon produced his life effect upon the mind of the younger man. The mental struggle took hold of his nervous system and made him a nervous wreck. He had no faith in God to help him in his deep distress. He needed his old faith—the faith of his childhood and boyhood. It was a return to this faith that saved him. It was by seeking reasons for his faith, instead of against his faith, that brought about his recovery.

Bishop Fallows tells another story of a young woman, who before her marriage, was a busy church member, but afterwards the bent of her mind was for pleasure, so that she forgot her religion. Her method of living resulted in a nervous breakdown for which she tried all kinds of cure, but she found the real cure only when she returned to God and to His service.

The dearest treasure a man has is his faith. It is his real anchor. It is possession. He may be rich today and poor tomorrow, well this morning, and sick tonight; but his faith in God keeps him steady amid all these earthly changes.

I believe as some one else has phrased it, that every normal and legitimate desire or demand of our lives, is infinitely provided for in the divine economy, and will be fully met under the proper conditions."

Remember this is God's world, and God is its living, omnipotent Sovereign. If you open your heart in faith to Him, He will do for you above all you can ask, or even think,—for "with Him all things are possible"—and if you can believe Him, you will recognize that "all things are possible to him that believeth." One of the greatest needs of Christian people today, is to pray that prayer of the disciples—"Lord, increase our faith."

They used to sing, when I was a boy, "I can, I will, and I do believe," but it is optimism. Train your mind to believe that God is guiding you to the best things, and let that faith illumine your life.

WHAT MAY BE DONE WITH OLD CLOTHES.

The girl of deft fingers and quick brain is always well dressed and she is always busy.

Have you an old petticoat that is too disreputable to wear, yet too good to throw away? Why not turn it into a dainty corset cover.

If there is an embroidered flounce cut the best parts of it for the lower half of the waist, putting it into a band at the waist line.

Then you may have fastened on the shoulders with a bow of ribbon, and is the usual way, but it is far prettier to make the upper part of several rows of lace insertion headed by beading and a row of lace. This is sewed under the embroidered edge about a half inch wide. Then above a showy corset cover with little work or expense.

WAITING.

My socks are darned at toe and heel
My toes each night peep through;
And like a vagabond I feel,
But wife says: "Don't buy new
Just wait for Christmas."

The dozen handkerchiefs I owned,
Today are one or two,
The others lost or torn or loaned,
But wife says: "Don't buy new,
Just wait for Christmas."

I've not a decent tie to wear,
In black or red or blue;
But wifey says: ""With prosperity
They'll last, so don't buy new,
Just wait for Christmas."

My gloves, why they're a sight to see
Much soiled and broken through
But nightly it's impressed on me,
By wife: "Now don't buy new,
Just wait for Christmas."

And so, if I appear to be
Unkempt, as I must do,
It is that wife's advising me
"Twere folly to buy new,
Justwait for Christmas.

For heaps of gold I have no need
I only wait the day
When I may note the things I need
And buy them right away,
And not have to wait for Christmas.

PATENT LEATHER SHOES IN WINTER TIME.

Have your patent leather shoes cracked yet? It is time to look out for them.

Patent leather shoes are not an economy in cold weather; their life is as precarious as is the new-born kitten's in a cat-hating household. Unfortunately they are the only kind of shoes worn for most formal afternoon occasions, and the girl who hates cracks and is limited to one pair of dress shoes a season is in a bad fix.

But, being provident, however, she can prolong the life of the leather surprisingly. Here are some rules given by a shoemaker which may help.

Warm the leather by rubbing gently with the palm of the hand before putting on the shoe.

Do not go immediately out-of-doors after donning patent leather.

On bitter cold or snowy days walk around in a room with the windows open for five minutes before going into the street.

Never wear on overshoes over patent leather. If it gets wet or snowy wipe it dry as soon as possible.

WAISTS MAY BE MADE OVER.

The waist of last year need not be thrown away as hopelessly out of date.

I saw such a pretty waist the other day that had been made over with little trouble and expense that I want to describe it.

It was a rose color nun's veiling of last year's design pintucked in yoke depth and three-quarter sleeves.

Ten yards of narrow rose color ribbon at five cents a yard worked the transformation, says the New York Evening Telegram. Strands were run from the neck inclosing a group of the tucks and ended below the yoke in a double diamond, the lower one the smaller of the two, the point of the latter ending a few inches above the belt.

Upon each shoulder similar strands were placed, this time ending in one diamond below the yoke.

The full sleeves were made tight-fitting and the scraps cut away were pintucked and then formed into deep cuffs held in place with the ribbon arrangement.

The result was a very pretty afternoon waist, for the glossy ribbon was just what the sombre nun's veiling needed.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

MATTERS OF MORE OR LESS IMPORTANCE IN THE HOME.

Simple Device to Keep the Portieres from Flying Open—Removing Spots from Tablecloth—Use for Old Towels.

Portiere Fasteners.—Many times it is advisable to close the portieres, either to keep the dust in or the chill out. Yet when touched by the slightest draft near the fire they will persist in flying open. Near the edge sew two or three small socket snaps

They will never be seen and will hold the two lengths of curtains securely together.

Tablecloths.—A novel and sensible way of removing a few spots from an otherwise acceptable tablecloth is to slip underneath the cloth before removing it from the table a small sized bowl, and with a small pitcher of boiling water and a clean spoon pour the latter on the cloth, letting it fall into the bowl held under, and with a little swishing of the spoon take out the spot. By carefully removing the cloth and hanging it on the line until dry it is again ready for further use and is freed from spots.

Old Turkish Towels.—Many object to the economy of cutting up the better portions of old Turkish towels for wash-rags, on the ground that the hem is cumbersome. Without a hem they ravel and the threads go down the waste pipes. A satisfactory way is to buttonhole stitch the edge with white darning cotton that sinks into the mesh and holds in the threads. The stitches may be a quarter of an inch apart and taken in deep from the edge. This employment can be furnished for the youngest member of the family.

Mending China.—One woman's way is to powder a small quantity of lime and, after adding the white of an egg, mix into a paste. Apply it quickly to the china to be mended and hold or tie the broken pieces firmly for a few minutes, so they may become set. China mended in this way will rarely break again in the same place.

Prunes.—Any mother, keeping on the sideboard an attractive glass dish filled with the best quantity of prunes steamed and then allowed to dry. Beside the dish is a little glass filled with toothpicks, and the children are thus provided with the very best article of food for between-meal nibbling. Even those who profess to dislike the much-abused prunes cannot resist the temptation to eat them.

New Dish Pan.—A brown papier-mache tub of small size is found by many to be far preferable to use as a dish pan than the ordinary tin or agate ware, for the reason that with its use delicate glasses and china are less likely to be broken.

English Rhubarb Pie.

Mix and sift twice two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup sugar, a little more, mother knows, one-third cup butter and 1¼ tablespoons lard. Add one egg well beaten, one-third cup sweet milk. Roll out three-quarters inch thick, cut with small biscuit cutter and bake. Four boiling water on cut up rhubarb and let it cool; pour off water, add more and cook gently until done, adding sugar to taste. Pour over the little crusts (one to each person) and serve hot. Apples (sour) may be used in the same manner.

Save Kid Gloves.

If you have lost one of your kid gloves do not throw the other away. If it is a short one it will come handy for stripping on the right hand when polishing stoves or doing any other rough hand work. An elbow length kid glove ripped apart to get the largest surface will in most cases serve the same purpose as a chamois polisher. I have also used the arm part of kid gloves for making infants' shoes, pocket watch protectors, and as a covering for balls of twine or knitting yarn to be used temporarily for indoor play.

Nice for Luncheon.

Beat the white of one egg until stiff, add two cups of granulated sugar, one cup chopped nuts and one-half cup raisins. Stir all well, then spread the mixture on the large sized oyster crackers, or square soda wafers if preferred. Place these in a warm oven until brown on top. Delicious for luncheon or afternoon tea; good warm or cold.

Breaded Sweet Potatoes.

A new and easy way to serve sweet potatoes is to take cold boiled sweet potatoes and slice them lengthwise. Then take an egg and beat it with enough for the amount of slices you have and dip the potatoes in the egg and roll in cracker crumbs. You will find it makes a delicious dish for supper.

Sweet Potato Pudding.

Mix with one pound of sweet potatoes, grated raw, half a teacupful of molasses, two beaten eggs, one tablespoon of butter, with two tablespoons of sugar and enough milk to make a thin mixture; add one teaspoonful of ginger and spice to taste.

Sugar Potatoes.

Sprinkle as much sugar as salt on your potatoes when frying and note the delicious flavor.

SENGER AGAIN DEFENDANT

National Brewery Man Charged with Embezzlement by Plainfield Woman.

HEARING IN THE CITY COURT.

After Lengthy Session, Defendant Is Held In His Own Recognizance for the Grand Jury.

Charles P. Senger, of this city, who recently gained considerable publicity through the legal difficulties of the National Brewing Company, of Newark, of which he was one of the organizers, was given a hearing in the city court Tuesday on a charge of embezzlement preferred against him by Mrs. Jean Sites, of Park Avenue. The case developed about the defendant's retention of valuable papers belonging to the plaintiff and which were given, as agent, in assisting her to begin an important civil action. Senger agreed to consult his own lawyer in her behalf and took the documents to show him but the proceedings fell through and he refused to give them back until he had been recompensed for expenses, amount to about $19. At the conclusion of the proceedings, Judge Runyon decided that Mrs. Sites had established her complaint and held the defendant in his own recognizance to wait the action of the grand jury.

The hearing occupied the greater part of the morning session of the court as there was continued bickering between John English, of Elizabeth, attorney for Mrs. Sites, and Harry C. Runyon, representing Senger. In her direct testimony, the plaintiff declared that she had been introduced to the defendant by his brother-in-law, Harry Dreier, and that in the course of a social evening at her home her impending civil suit had been mentioned. She spoke of wanting a good lawyer and Senger announced that he would retain his own counsel for her if she wished it. Mrs. Sites agreed and gave the papers to him for outlining the matter if he should become engaged.

Senger proceeded as agent for Mrs. Sites but she stated positively on the stand that he was guaranteed no payment or that any was asked for. The whole transaction, she said, was based on friendship and she gave her property over to him with the understanding that he was simply helping her out. After Senger had come to Newark several times and held consultations with the lawyer, Mrs. Sites decided that she could not afford the fee demanded by the latter and asked that the papers be returned to her and the proceedings dropped. She made personal demand upon the defendant for her property several times, she said, but was put off with an excuse each time. Finally, when she would wait no longer, she was told that the papers would not be returned unless she paid over $10 that had been expended in car fare.

In his own behalf, Senger declared without being sworn, that he had interested himself in the matter purely on a friendly basis but that after Mrs. Sites had "threatened and bull-dozed" him in her demands for the papers because they were not at hand when she first asked, he decided to hold them for his $10. He maintained that it was no more than right that he should be paid for the expense he had been put to. It was not for the amount his lawyer said, but the principle of the thing. Mr. Runyon also argued that Mrs. Sites had not proven her assertion of embezzlement as to do so the party charged must dispose of the property and this had not been done, the papers still being in Senger's possession. In this the court did not agree with him.

A question put by lawyer Runyon to Senger as to why Mrs. Sites wanted to retain an out of town lawyer instead of getting one in Plainfield, was met with a reply that brought a laugh in the court room. The defendant stated that one prominent legal light had been mentioned but Mrs. Alice Matton, a close friend of Mrs. Sites, objected to him because he always consulted a clairvoyant before undertaking an important case. The lawyer's standing in Plainfield made the reply all the more humorous. Mr. Senger added further that Mrs. Sites said that the Plainfield counsellors wanted $250 as a retainer while those in other cities asked but $100.

Baseball Fans.

"Dear me!" remarked the perspiring old lady who was making her first visit to a baseball game, "I don't see how people can tell such terrible fibs."

"What now, auntie?" asked the city niece, in surprise.

"Why, the paper stated that there were thousands of fans out here every afternoon and I am suffering with the heat and can't find one."

Wait Till She's Older.

On her sixth birthday Ethelberta's father gave her a little ring with a tiny pearl in it. Not very long after that she appeared in her father's office, looking very woebegone.

"Oh daddy," she said, "I've lost the little pill out of my ring!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

MIANTANOMO BOWLERS WALLOP THE PYTHIANS

The Miantonomo bowling team walloped the Knights of Pythias five to the tune of three straight games in a Fraternal league series at Campbell's alleys Monday night. The winners rolled steadily throughout and in the last try piled up a total of 911, one of the best aggregates yet made. Radin and Willet, of the Miantonomos, both went over the 200 mark, while Nash, Jr., of the Knights, tallied 204 at the start-off.

The Knights had six men in readiness for the series and Clouston was substituted for Lindley in the second game but failed to reach the head pin. His score was a 94 and he was relegated to the bench before the final try.

The scores:

The Immortal Bill.

A Philadelphian on his return from Berlin talked at the Philadelphia Club about Kaiser Wilhelm.

"You know the Kaiser's ballet of 'Sardanapalus'?" he said. "Well, this ballet made a success, and in its honor the Kaiser gave a dinner.

"Berlin is laughing over an incident of the dinner. It seems that one of the speakers said in the course of his speech:

"'This ballet teaches us a powerful lesson. It shows us that we cannot escape our fate. As the immortal William once said, "there's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we may." And so—'

"The Kaiser applauded thunderously.

"'That is clever, very clever,' he cried. 'But when did I say it? I've quite forgotten.'"—Washington Star.

Another Devil, Possibly.

The other day an ingenious looking person called with the message to the housewife that her husband had sent for his dress suit, which was to be pressed and redone by the tailor.

"Dear me," said the housewife, "he said nothing to me about it. Did he look quite well?"

"Yes, mum, he wuz in good health and spirits."

"And he seemed quite as if he knew what he was about?"

"He did that, mum."

"And did he look as if he were quite content with things about him?"

"Well," said the lady, "it seems strange that he should only think of that dress suit now, because it's ten years since he's dead and buried, and I've often wondered how he's been getting on."—Chicago News.

The Alienist.

"Before I answer your question," said the great alienist, "permit me to refresh my memory."

Hereupon he consulted a notebook.

"May I ask," resumed the lawyer, "why you found it necessary to consult some memorandum before answering a simple hypothetical question of only a few thousand words?"

"The fact is," replied the alienist, suavity, "that I did that to get the point of view I was forgetting which side I'd been retained on in this particular case. Kindly spring your conundrum again."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mrs. Sutphen's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Fannie A. Sutphen, widow of Dr. J. C. Sutphen, was held at her late home on East Seventh street, Saturday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. S. Scoville and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The clergyman read "Crossing the Bar" and E. E. Runyon sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Burial was made in the North Plainfield cemetery, the pall and honorary (acting as pall) bearers. They were David. Gilbert, Morris, Julian and John Sutphen and Travis Sutphen, of Dunellen.

Treat for Young People.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church will give its friends a great treat Saturday night, January 2, when Egerton R. Young, the well-known writer of stories for boys and girls, as well as lecturer, will entertain with pictures and stories of "The Wild North Land." Mr. Young is a prince of story tellers and will delight all who hear him The public is invited to attend.

"Some men are fond of work and others are not," said Wilber. "Take Dawson, for instance. He is wedded to his work."

"Not now," said Hickenlooper. "He's been divorced."

"Divorced? What do you mean?" asked Wilber.

"He was bounced last Saturday," said Hickenlooper.—Lippincott's.

13 WINS, 2 DEFEATS FOR PARK BOWLERS

The Park Club five cleaned the boards Monday night with the Jersey City Club by taking all three games in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament on the local alleys. This gives the Parks a total of thirteen victories and two defeats. Last year at this time the team had won ten and lost five games.

The Parks made fine scores last night. They took the first game by a score of 869 to 789, the second by a score of 841 to 792 and the third by a score of 925 to 796. Although only one member of the local team reached a double century, Mulford, who rolled 210, all the other members put up figures above the average. Barlow rolled a 180 in the first game and duplicated it in the third. Daniel almost reached a double century, with a 198, while other scores were high enough to secure victories. The scores:

Park Club.

Barlow	180	164	180
Daniel	178	189	195

The Truth and the Lady

By ELIA W. PEATTIE.

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

I have a friend who has often said to me that she cared nothing for allegories, parables or symbols.

"I want the truth," she declared. "I live by the truth. Nothing less will do for me."

My friend was sitting in her home one day not long ago, when there came a ringing at her bell; and, as her one servant was away for the afternoon, she herself answered the door. Without stood an old man with kind eyes and a grim mouth—a very old man, greatly wrinkled, and with a huge pack on his back.

"I was sent here by a neighbor," he said, "who told me that I had just the sort of wares for which you cared the most. She said she thought I would find you a generous purchaser."

There was a curious accent in the old man's speech which my friend could not quite place. It was at once familiar and unfamiliar, and she could not tell whether she liked or disliked it. It was a mysterious accent, for he was old, and, besides, she thought he might indeed, have something that she wished to buy.

"My wares," he said, "are very ancient. It would be difficult to find anything more antique."

"Then I hope they are beautiful," cried my friend, "for I have no use for ugly things, no matter what their history may be. It is only beauty that can reconcile me to mold and tarnish and dustiness."

"Some are beautiful, and some are grotesque," he said, "and I perceive by looking about your rooms that you have a fancy for the grotesque as well as the beautiful."

"One is the face, the other the obverse of the coin," said my friend. "But pray show me your wares."

So from his pack the old man with the kind eyes and the grim mouth took bundles and boxes, wrapped and tied with the cunning of the old races.

"I am a Merchant of Truth," he declared proudly, "and these are my wares. If you permit me, I will show you the contents of this one, which tells the truth about your home."

"Oh!" sighed the woman eagerly. "It can tell?"

When he had undone the curious wrappings, the old man took forth a shining sphere of crystal and held it before the woman so that she saw a thing which the old man described in this wise:

"Your home," he said, "is a badly built little house, standing in a third-rate suburb of an ill-ordered city. It is much too expensive for the amount of comfort it gives, and even so, it is not really yours. It is mortgaged, and you must pay interest as well as taxes. It is built in a district which is ruined by reason of the mills and factories near at hand. There is much incongruity in the furnishing and decoration of the rooms, and in winter some of these rooms are chilly and damp. In summer you have no garden to which to retire. It is, you perceive, a poor place."

"Oh," said the woman, "how mistaken you are! I see truly the things of which you speak, but do you not appreciate that here is the door at which I bid my friends welcome? And within is my fire, burning sweetly on the hearth. There is my bed where I sleep so deliciously, there the dear window at which the dawn looks in. Here is my kitchen, where I cook the food which will feed, and here is the table at which we eat, with talk and laughter, and even when we are so disposed, with song. Everything in this house belongs to me. My husband bought these things and gave them to me—except such as are the gifts of friends. I forgot to say that the rooms and put my hands on this and on that and tell you the most beautiful stories imaginable about the friends who gave me these things. It is curious, but I know of no one who has such friends as I. Really, this place which looks so poor as reflected in that sphere and in your words, stands to me for home—home—home!" She sighed with happiness.

She cruelly deepened about the old man's mouth and the kindness glowed in his eyes.

"You mean," he said, "that this common place is a Symbol of Home. In this respect, I perceive it is not Truth which you desire, but the Symbol. It is the possession of that which makes you content. But come, perhaps I have something more to your liking. Here, madam, is the portrait of your husband as he is." And he undid another wrapping and held up another sphere.

There she saw shadowed forth the figure of a man—a tall, small of stature, inefficient in his actions, petulant, narrow, affectionate, fairly honest, rather discouraged; a man with no strong passions, no deep or original thoughts, no brave aims, no capacity for great sacrifices. Yet one going faithfully his quiet way, returning always to his home at night, and, in his pallid fashion loving his wife, though often forgetting to tell her so by word or look.

"You see!" cried the Merchant of Truth. "This is a very revealing little picture. It will be looked at often enough, liberate you from that domestic servitude which you now endure with maudlin patience. Will you buy me?"

"No, indeed!" cried the woman indignantly. "That man is the only one who ever kissed me on the lips. I remember well the first time he'd so. It was at sunset, in a beautiful grove. The golden light fell down between the tree trunks, making them black. I felt all the beauty of the world throbbing through me, and I comprehended how incomplete it would be without love, and how I was blessed. A wonderful vision came to me and I knew what life and work meant, so I put my hand in the man's, and always he and I have kept it together. And we have had children and are a part of the future. Oh, you have no idea what this man stands for to me!"

The old man smiled significantly.

"He also is a Symbol, I see," he said with contempt. "It is not what he is that makes him dear. It is, as you say, what he stands for. It is because you must feel the wifeliness in you, because he gives you an excuse for your feminine sacrifices, that you cherish him. He is the Symbol of noble and protecting love—no more."

This could be revealed to her—somewhat doubtingly, it was beginning to see that he should not find in her a ready purchaser—a little wondrous iridescent sphere.

"Here," he said, "is the Truth about your son."

Now, so curious a thing was this, that even the sphere of Truth had been affected by dreams, and it was some time before their beautiful prisms dispersed and showed her the pitiful facts—a little spindling child, petulant like his father, narrow of brow, with a face in which selfishness had become even kept care. The woman spoke in great anger:

"I have a mind to show you the door," she said. "Do you not know that is my little child? He is bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh, and sweeter to me than the night or the day. He is mine. When a little hand at my skirt and I feel myself his prisoner, I would not change my service for all the freedom in the world. When I hear him cry out in the night, I am filled with poignant joy, and at morning when his bare feet come pattering down to my room I give thanks for the day that brings me this delight. It is true he is not so bright as some children, and that he he is fretful and often ill, but, after all, he is the core of life to me."

He is a Symbol," said the old man in terrible accents. "It is not what he is but what he stands for that makes him so mutterably dear. Any other child would do as well to quench the mother-thirst."

The woman made a passionate disclaimer and declared she wished for none of his wares.

"I am done with you, madam!" shouted the man. "Yet, no, upon reflection, not quite done. For your disregard of the value of my wares you shall be properly punished. Behold, here is the Truth about yourself!"

And he held up to view another sphere. The woman looked home and the color came and went in her face. Her little hands clasped and unclasped, and once she would have fallen had not the old man supported her. But after a time she pushed the sphere away.

"There is a mistake somewhere," she said, in a voice at once joyous and humble. "All of these things are true, I know, yet, somehow, that is not I. There is something within me, not seen by anyone, not understood by myself, which makes me different from that. It is the thing that causes me to be careful of my life, which leads me to believe that I shall live again and which lets me walk among my fellows with my head held high. It is the innermost self, the secret and eternal I."

"It is a figment of your brain," scoffed the old man, "a piece of legerdemain of the psychologists, a ghost conjured up by the churchmen!" He was trembling with anger, yet his eyes betrayed a defeat. "Come," he added, "confess!"

"I can confess nothing sir, except that as soon as you are gone I shall comfort myself for all the Truth you have shown me, with my sweet Symbols. I did not know till now that I lived by them. But now that I know it I am all the more protected against sorrow and sin and falsehood. I am only a poor woman and ignorant, yet this I know, that in my Symbols hides a greater truth than your Truth knows. Farewell, sir, and come this way no more."

"Love's Labor's Lost."

A popular young married man of Brooklyn Heights who has a horror of what he is pleased to call "fussing" returned home one evening with a very perceptible limp in his gait, but refused any information beyond the fact that he had "slipped and wrenched the blamed thing." After hearing stifled groans and exclamations during dinner and after, however, his wife announced her intention of taking a hand to relieve the situation. She knelt before him, took off his shoe and stocking, brought in all the remedies she had ever heard of for a sprain, and after an hour's massaging and bandaging arose triumphantly with the remark:

"There, doesn't the foot feel better?"

From behind the paper which her husband had been reading during the operation there came back: "I presume it would if it had happened to be the right one."

Comfort—That which the ignoramus think is the same thing as happiness.

Clubs—Homes maintained by many who seldom use them, for the convenience of a few who have no better place to go.—Success.

WARM WEATHER PHILOSOPHY.

Many spoil much good work for the lack of a little more.

It is never safe to look into the future with eyes of fear.

You never know the joy of living till you try the luxury of giving.

It's not the smile you put on your face, but the onoy ou bring to another that makes you happy.

He who lets an evil impulse become a deed must remember that it will be father to many like it.

It commonly happens that the more a man gets into his hands the less he can get into his heart.

The umbrella cynicism may be a good thing in a shower of sentiment, but he is a fool who keeps it up when the sun is shining.—London Saturday Journal.

THOUGHTS FOR THE MIND.

Do give other people the privilege of being vain about something; it is a harmless safety valve.

Telling the whole truth is not compulsory when it serves only to wound. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It is most discouraging to notice that bad luck often falls persistently on people who don't deserve it.

Millions of words have been written to drive away worry, though nothing is worth much but forgetfulness.

Instead of keeping silent in order to gain a reputation for wisdom, why not keep on saying pleasant things and get a reputation for kindness?

FOOL'S CAP IDEAS.

A small pin may lick a big balloon to a frazzle.

I'd rather be a mule's peculiar than his chiropodist.

There are always six fools among seven wise men.

The fellow that's always right is generally wrong.

You can't judge a dog's hurt by the size of his holler.

It is idle for a sick man to boast of his careful habits.

This is no season to fire the book; you should freeze her.

a multiplication of enactments or a great mass of new laws but rather a determination to see that the future valuable public rights of the people are not thoughtlessly sacrificed or given away. The growth referred to will not be wholly confined to one section of the State—two counties, Atlantic and Bergen, have doubled in population since 1890 and among others, Camden, Essex, Hudson, Mercer, Passaic and Union have shown decided increase in numbers.

The tunnels under the Hudson and Delaware rivers are removing the last obstacle for the thousands who appreciate New Jersey's attractiveness as a place of residence and who will leave the sun-restricted and narrow streets of the great city to establish homes on the beautiful hills or in the charming and unequaled country of New Jersey. Where development work is in progress, as it is in New Jersey, it is always possible for the Legislature to help or retard progress by good or bad action as the case may be. Measures may be passed with the best of motives which in operation will be damaging to the public welfare, therefore it seems to me it will prove quite helpful if citizens will closely study the situation in the State regarding development and possibilities and communicate their ideas of matters which represent gains for consideration so that progress may be safely encouraged as the result of intelligent co-operation. Among the many questions may be found those relating to the reservation of territory for public parks, protection for and guarantee of a pure and healthful water supply and the construction of adequate and permanent sewage systems. In fact, in many parts of the State there are great expanses of land now practically unoccupied which will soon be the scene of activity in preparation for the coming homeseekers. Looking at the situation from an overcrowded city standpoint, New Jersey in some respects is a new field and we must gain knowledge from the experience of our sister States and by facing the problems of the future avoid their mistakes, especially in the way of narrow streets and badly ventilated tenements. The health of the people must be considered of the first importance. With these questions are of a local aspect, still the Legislature has many of them to deal with in a general way. It is a fact that some of our cities are getting so large and with so many conflicting interests that it appears, at times, almost impossible to successfully meet their requirements without creating conditions not desired by other municipalities. That is to say, a remedy which might apply to Jersey City might not be suited to Elizabeth or Paterson. This is merely mentioned as illustrative of some of the difficulties which legislators have to meet and solve. With these subjects as a whole, I think the Legislature has done some very excellent work.

From what has been said it may easily be seen that legislators have many and varied propositions thrust upon them which call for the highest degree of skill and patience. It should be the aim to keep the standard very high in New Jersey so that the State may continue to increase its reputation for having wise, cautious and business like government, that all citizens will be protected, that it is a safe place for the investment of capital and also desirable from a residential point of view. In fact our citizens should be to build and to attract others to the State to either invest or to live among us. New Jersey has a great future and the intelligence of her citizenship demands wisdom from her legislators."

miles, for the girl got mad and the man wouldn't believe he had ever asked her.

Dr. Grenfell is a graduate of Oxford University in England, before going to Labrador he visited along the coasts of Norway, Iceland, Ireland and Scotland in hospital ships. He leaves his work for a few months at intervals of three or four years to lecture, and is thus successful in raising funds for the carrying out of his plans. Many hardships are met with in the northern regions and several times he has narrowly escaped disaster. Only last spring he was adrift on an ice cake and was rescued just when all chance seemed to be gone.

Doctors Meet Grenfell.

One of the most important events arranged for the entertainment of the missionary-surgeon, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, of Labrador, will be a day in the city yesterday, was a luncheon given by the Plainfield Medical Association at the Park Club at 1 o'clock. In a half hour's speech he told of the medical work on shipboard, describing the primitive start and how hospitals had been built along the coast in addition to the relief ship. His address was entirely on the medical aspects of the work. About twenty physicians were present.

Miss Ida Ayres, of Somerville, has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a few days.
